Helen Feist Krumm was born in Strassburg, South Russia, on October 3, 1920 to Stephen and Mariann (Rothiger) Feist. The oldest of four children, Helen had many friends and loved to attend school, sing, dance, and get into trouble with her sisters and beloved brother Joseph. Helen's life was turned upside down in 1941 with the beginning of World War II in Russia. The German language was forbidden, churches were destroyed, and friends and relatives disappeared in the night. Despite the unrest and hardship, Helen fell in love with and married Eugene Feist, a young soldier. In 1944, Helen and her family were displaced from Russia. Left with only the possessions they could carry, the women walked across Romania and Hungary into Poland where they worked in a factory making clothes for the German Army. After several months they were displaced again, this time to Germany. Throughout everything, Helen's mother Mariann remained strong and never lost faith that they would persevere. "My ma was such a feisty lady. She always said, 'We're going to make it over. We're going to make it.'" Tragically, that year Helen's husband was killed shortly before the birth of their daughter Marie. For the next six years, Helen worked on a small orchard in Germany and raised her daughter with the help of her mother. After Germany fell to the Americans, Helen began receiving care packages from Joseph and Katherine Krumm of Hague, ND via the Catholic Charities Program. Following the exchange of a series of letters, Joseph and Katherine offered a fresh start by paying for the passage of Helen and her daughter to the U.S. Helen faced an agonizing decision about whether to stay in war-torn Europe with her family or venture to America alone. She decided to go. When asked why, Helen said, "Columbus took a chance too. Why shouldn't I?" Helen and her daughter set sail from Bremerhaven on October 10, 1951 and caught their first glimpse of the Statue of Liberty on November 1. From there they traveled across the country, finally arriving in Hague on November 5 in cold and snowy weather. For the next three years, Helen enjoyed a peaceful existence working on the farm. She learned English by listening to the radio and reading as many books as she could get her hands on. Unfortunately, Joseph's wife Katherine passed away in 1954. Helen helped him through this difficult time and slowly love blossomed. The following year, Joe and Helen were married at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Hague. They had seven beautiful children—David, Paul, Cathy, Ann, Mona, Lisa, and Francis. According to Helen, Joe loved the children greatly. "The more the merrier," he would say. "If I get a thousand, I'll put a fence up and put them all in." After Joe passed away in 1969, Helen continued to farm. She was a proud member of St. Mary's Altar Society and enjoyed working on the annual church supper and decorating the altar with flowers from her garden. Among her greatest pleasures were cooking and telling stories about her early years in Russia and Germany which are documented in the Germans from Russia Heritage Collection. She also loved gardening and cultivated an array of vegetables and marigolds which greeted passersby as they entered town. Helen was most happy when surrounded by her family and was heartbroken by the death of her daughter Cathy in 2000. She passed away peacefully at the Linton Hospital on November 18 surrounded by her children. She is survived by her sisters Lydia and Bertha of Germany; sons David (Barb) Krumm of Eureka, SD; Paul (Donna) Krumm of Sandy, UT; and Francis (Kelly) Krumm of Hague; and by her daughters Ann (Dave) Hageman of Hoven, SD; Mona (Bill) Franck of Casselton, ND; Lisa (Andy) Hulm of Hague; and Marie (Jim) Feist of Zeeland, ND; and one son-in-law: Gerald Hulm of Strasburg, ND. Grandma Krumm is also survived by many dear friends and 35 adoring grandchildren and 17 great grandchildren who will greatly miss her loving hands and delicious caramel rolls. Helen is preceded in death by her parents, brother, husbands, and beloved daughter Cathy. "There's not a thing I would change in my life. I just accept what I cannot change and go on, because that's the only way you can make it. Maybe we weren't high-fashion people, but we got along and we loved you—all you children," Helen said.
Comfort
In everybody’s garden
A little rain must fall
Or Life’s sweetest fairest flowers,
Wouldn’t grow and bloom at all.
And though the clouds hang heavy
So heavy. Oh! My Friend.
I’m sure that God who sends the shower
Will send the rainbow’s end.
