became involved in and were affected by the U.S. invasion. In this way Terrible Justice ties Upper Missouri and Minnesota Sioux history to better-known Oglala and Brulé Sioux history.

Making use of a wealth of primary sources, many of them not accessed in earlier accounts, Chaky introduces readers to several underappreciated Sioux leaders and American army officers who played pivotal roles during this time of conflict and change in both Sioux and U.S. military culture. She uses soldiers’ letters and journals, military and other official communications, and the speeches of Sioux leaders to illuminate the complex dynamics of this high-stakes contest between cultures with diametrically opposed concepts of justice.

When it comes to cooking, Alma (Janke) Schott knows how to do it right. After all, she has almost nine decades of experience. North Dakota State University Libraries’ Germans from Russia Heritage Collection (GRHC) will release Alma’s Favorite Recipes: Cooking & Memories from a German-Russian Farm Kitchen just in time for Schott’s 90th birthday in early December.

Schott has been pleasing the palates of her family and friends with her fabulous cooking for decades, and her baking is well-known in south central North Dakota. She’s often baked the wedding cakes for two generations of local residents.

Growing up on a German-Russian farm between Fredonia and Gackle, Schott helped out wherever she was needed. She learned to bake and cook when she was only eight or nine years old and it became an important part of her life. She credits her mother to being her home economics teacher.

Inside this cookbook are recipes perfected over many years in her German-Russian farm kitchen. A pinch of this, a little of that, a dash here... The cookbook decodes the recipes that were created, created and perfected over many years. Whether readers are looking for the perfect pie crust or a borschit recipe, this cookbook is sure to please.

The 266-page book retails for $25 and it may be preordered online at http://library.ndsu.edu/GRHC/order/cookbooks/alma.html or by calling 701-231-6596. It will debut at Creative Kitchen in the West Acres Shopping Center in Fargo where Schott will sign books from 1 to 4 p.m. on Saturday, November 3. She will also attend the Pride of Dakota Holiday Showcase events in Fargo and Bismarck. (See page 21 for details).
