PROVENANCE

This collection of architectural drawings has been acquired by the Institute for Regional Studies over many years from a variety of sources, some unknown. Some also are from various manuscript collections; added to this oversize collection due to their size and subject matter. For those that were withdrawn from an Institute manuscript collection, the name of the collection is given with the file citation. Additions to the collection are expected.

SCOPE AND CONTENT

The North Dakota Architectural Records Collection includes a diverse collection of blueprints and other drawings for buildings from across the state and by a variety of architects, both in North Dakota, Minnesota and South Dakota. They have been organized in the order received. For several files there are multiple buildings represented, either based upon the architect or the manuscript collection from which they were transferred. Direct transcription of title and architect information is given for each file in quotes. Also given is the type of drawings, the number of sheets and the date of the architectural plans, if known.

Also included is the exhibit panels developed by NDSU Architecture faculty member Ronald Ramsey on the life and career of Milton E. Beebe, an early Fargo architect.
