SCOPE AND CONTENT

The Amenia and Sharon Land Company represent the most complete set of records for a North Dakota bonanza farm that have survived. The records were deposited in the Institute by members of the Chaffee family over a span of twenty years. Inventories of the early records were compiled by William C. Hunter, and in early 1990s the records were processed incorporating all the accessions. The records have been organized into eight series: Historical research, Personal correspondence, Business correspondence, Estate and personal legal papers, Amenia & Sharon Land Co. general business records, Other related companies general business records, Amenia & Sharon Land co. business records, and Other related companies business records. Within each series the records have been organized alphabetically by the name or type of record. Oversize ledgers are listed on the box & folder listing, however they are stored separately due to their size.

The Historical Research Series includes handwritten and typed drafts of the history of the Amenia & Sharon Land Company, compiled by William C. Hunter. He was a long-time professor of history at NDSU and later became the curator for the Institute for Regional Studies. In addition are his research files of documents, notes and information used in writing the history. In addition there are general research files on the Chaffee and Reed families as well as information regarding Amenia, N.D.
