

Nominees announced for Gunkelman Award

Thirty-seven NDSU employees and students have been nominated to receive the 1999-2000 Mary McCannel Gunkelman Recognition Award during ceremonies at 3 p.m. Wednesday, April 12, in the Alumni Center. The honor recognizes the person who has made the most significant and unselfish contribution to creating a happy environment for the enjoyment of NDSU students.

The student nominees are Richard Bissonnette, resident assistant; Kelli Hochhalter, Memorial Union; Andrea Holter, College of Human Development and Education; Shannon Oltmans, plant sciences; Lisa Samuelson, organizations and Greek life; and Suzy Schmoll, academic affairs.

Faculty and staff nominees include Donna Alby, mechanical engineering; George Arel, Physical Plant; Karen Arnell, psychology; Sue Bellon, Counseling and Disability Services; William Berzonsky, plant sciences; Carol Bessire, Dining Services; Susan Council, College of Business Administration; Jackie Cox, College of Engineering and Architecture; Holly Doll, registrar's office; Keri Drinka, College of Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences; Mary Duggan, Center for Child Development; John Enz, soil science; Ruth Ann Faulkner, architecture; Peggy Gaynor, Counseling and Disability Services; Nancy Gress, College of Human Development and Education; Carolyn Grygiel, animal and range science; Bob Harrold, animal and range science; Don Iwen, Physical Plant; Carol Johnson, polymers and coatings; Nancy Kaler, child development and family science; Pam Larson, industrial and manufacturing engineering; Claire Legowski, English; Prakash Mathew, Residence Life; Casey Peterson, Residence Life; Mary Sivertson, Varsity Mart; Merle Skunberg, cereal science; Neil Sitz, registrar's office; Mary Stoa, mechanical engineering; Mark Tinguely, computer science; Waneta Truesdell, engineering and architecture; and Kate Ulmer, sociology/anthropology.

The Gunkelman Award was established in 1987, with the first award in 1989. It honors Mary McCannel Gunkelman, who died in 1985. She was a 1942 graduate of the NDSU College of Home Economics, who believed the more enjoyable the campus and programs of NDSU, the better the university would be now and in the future.

Library to forgive fines

In celebration of National Library Week, NDSU Libraries has declared April 10-14, "Amnesty Week." The Library will forgive all overdue, fines and processing fees related to overdue books during the entire week. Students, faculty and staff may bring materials or their bills to the Main Library Circulation Desk, or any of the Branch Libraries (architecture, chemistry or pharmacy), between 8 a.m.-5 p.m. April 10-14.

Amnesty extends to all NDSU circulated and returned materials (books, journals, videos, etc.) It does not include lost or Interlibrary Loan-generated material. For more information call the Circulation Desk at 1-8888.

Free preview of 'Sylvia' planned
NDSU staff may attend a free preview of the Little Country Theatre's production of "Sylvia" at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 12, in Walsh Studio Theatre. For tickets, call the Division of Fine Arts Box Office at 1-9442.

Tri-College Film Library requests due

NDSU Libraries invites faculty to recommend additions to the Tri-College University Film Library collection. Requests should be forwarded to the appropriate NDSU Libraries subject librarian by April 17. Recommendations supported by faculty from only one campus are not considered for purchase.

The TCU Film Library includes films, videotapes and laser disks suggested by faculty and purchased with funds contributed by all three schools. All materials are available without charge to the faculties of the Tri-College only, on a one to three day basis for as often as needed. Since acquisitions are based solely on faculty selection, requests for purchase are necessary to update and enhance the collection.

For request forms or more information, go to www.lib.ndsu.nodak.edu/collections/TCU/FilmLibrary.htm or contact a subject librarian.

Brand, Collins honored for journal work

Two communication department faculty members have been honored by the Central States Communication Association for work in North Dakota's refereed journal of communication.

Jeffrey Brand, assistant professor of communication, won a State Journal Award for his article published in the 1999 volume of the North Dakota Journal of Speech and Theatre. The article, "Religious Discourse in Times of Crisis: Declaring 'Victory' after the Grand Forks Flood of 1997," discussed regional religious clergy responses to the flood.

The journal itself also won a State Journal Award for best regional journal. It is edited by Ross Collins, associate professor of communication.

The Central States Communication Association includes many of the country's largest communication programs, in particular programs of all the "Big Ten" universities. This is the second time North Dakota's journal and its authors have been honored. Awards will be presented at the organization's April meeting in Detroit.

Peterson, Cummings, Klenow, Holbrook published in journal

Larry Peterson, professor of history; Katharine Cummings, former associate professor of education; Daniel Klenow, professor of sociology/anthropology; and Sandra Holbrook, director of equal opportunity, recently published the article, "Differences In How Men And Women Experience General Education: Implications For Curricular Reform and Assessment," in JGE: The Journal of General Education. The article was based on data gathered from more than 500 NDSU alumni between 1960-1989.

Peterson said that although male and female graduates agreed strongly about most general education areas that would be important in the future, their perceptions of how well their education at NDSU met their needs differed along "traditional" gender lines. Women saw themselves as well prepared in oral and written communication, social and behavioral sciences, and in leadership, adaptability and lifetime learning. Men saw themselves as well prepared in computer skills, mathematics and the sciences.

"Surprisingly, these differences were even greater among the most recent graduates," Peterson said. "Comparing NDSU data with national data suggested that NDSU campus culture contributed to these differences."

This is the third article that Peterson and Cummings co-wrote based on their work revising NDSU's general education. Klenow also co-wrote two of the articles.

The original research was funded by the NDSU Development Foundation and was instrumental in the process of revising general education at NDSU in 1991-92.

Bison Ambassadors honored

The NDSU Bison Ambassadors were recently chosen to host the 2001 CASE District VI Association of Student Advancement Programs conference. The group received the news at a conference at Colorado State University, Fort Collins. Bison Ambassadors were required to prepare a bid packet and presentation, and institutions from District VI voted on the Bison Ambassadors to host the conference.

The conference, "Picture the Possibilities," is scheduled to be held at NDSU April 5-8, 2001. Conference programming will focus on prospective student recruitment, alumni relations and advancement. Approximately 200 students and advisers representing institutions from Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wyoming will attend the conference.

Bison Ambassador member Jennifer Batschelet also was honored at the conference as the 1999-2000 Most Outstanding Student Member for District VI. The award was based on service, leadership and excellence to NDSU and Bison Ambassadors. She is a senior majoring in business administration from Orlando, Fla.

The Bison Ambassadors are a public relations organization of 45 students who assist in the promotion of NDSU to prospective students, parents, current students and alumni. The group is sponsored by the Office of the President, the Alumni Association and the Office of Admission. The group is advised by Jobey Lichtblau, associate director of admission, and Liz Christianson, alumni program director.

Leitch named to tax committee

Jay Leitch, dean of business administration, was recently selected to serve on a 13-member committee to study taxes in North Dakota. The study was recommended by Gov. Ed Schafer and authorized by the 1999 legislature. It will result in recommendations for the 2001 legislature presented during the governor's December 2000 budget address.

Rick Clayburgh, tax commissioner, will chair the group. Other committee members from the area are Wes Belter, chair of the House Finance and Taxation Committee, and Steve Hulbert, general manager of Scheels All Sports. The committee will meet monthly in different locations around the state through November.

Leitch previously conducted several studies of taxes in the state and has taught a course on state and local tax laws for many years.

Eyler conducts at band festival

David P. Eyler, director of percussion studies for the Tri-College University, was a guest conductor for the "AA" Concert Band Festival in Great Falls, Mont., March 7-8.

The band students participating in the festival represented four high schools from Billings and Great Falls. Eyler also presented several clinics for the percussion students.

Events

Health fair set for April 11

A health fair is scheduled for 10 a.m.-3 p.m. Tuesday, April 11, at the Memorial Union Concourse. The theme of the fair is "Health: Your Wheel of Fortune." A variety of vendors will be on hand and there will be free glucose screenings, blood pressure screenings, cholesterol screenings and massages by some of the vendors.

Carol Grimm, health educator from Cass County Public Health, is scheduled to speak at 11:30 a.m. Her presentation is titled "Substance Abuse, What Works and What Is Missing." June Forde, from the Rape and Abuse Crisis Center of Fargo-Moorhead is scheduled to present "Dating Violence" at 12:30 p.m. Both presentations will be in the Memorial Union Ballroom.

Participants who fill out a health fair evaluation will be entered into a free raffle drawing. The grand prize raffle drawing is a mountain bike, which is on display at the Student Health Service pharmacy.

Assessment open forum planned for April 11

All NDSU faculty are invited to an "Assessment in General Education" open forum at 1 p.m. Tuesday, April 11, in the Memorial Union Prairie Rose Room. William Wresch, associate vice chancellor, University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh, will present the seminar. Refreshments will be available.

Wresch has a doctorate in education with a minor in computer science from the University of Wisconsin, Madison. He began teaching for the University of Wisconsin in 1974, first on the Milwaukee campus, then Marinette, Stevens Point and Oshkosh. His current duties include supervision of admissions, advising, registration, human resources, testing and institutional research.

He is the author of nine books on computing topics and spent a year as a Fulbright Scholar in computer science at the University of Namibia in southern Africa. He also is known for his development of "Writer's Helper," a computer program sold by IBM for a number of years. His most recent book is "Disconnected: Haves and Have Nots In the Information Age."

Wresch also wrote "Finding Balance in General Education Assessment," which appeared in the September-October 1998 issue of the Assessment Update.

The open forum is sponsored by the members of the University Assessment Committee and is funded by the grant to NDSU from the Bush Foundation. The next event to be sponsored by the committee is scheduled for noon Tuesday, April 25. Faculty from the Department of Nursing will be recognized for their continued excellence in the assessment of student learning. Nursing faculty from will share information about their assessment program during the luncheon.

Horizons seminar to discuss recycling

Mary Eldridge, sales manager of Minnkota Recycling, and Mary Chamberlain, coordinator of recycling for the City of Fargo, are scheduled to present a noon seminar about the state of recycling in Fargo. "Should Recycling be Mandatory? Or Should We Trash the Idea?" is planned for noon Wednesday, April 12, in the Memorial Union Cul de sac Lounge.

The seminar is part of the weekly Horizons series presented by United Campus Ministry and the University Lutheran Center. For more information call 235-0672 or 232-2587.

Presentations planned on arena, hockey issues

Wednesday, April 5	3 p.m., Memorial Union Prairie Rose Room
Monday, April 10	3 p.m., Memorial Union Century Theater
Wednesday, April 12	noon, Memorial Union Century Theater

Tri-College percussion concert scheduled for April 9

The Tri-College Percussion Ensemble and Marimba Choir has scheduled its spring concert for 2 p.m. Sunday, April 9, in Memorial Auditorium at Concordia College. The concert is free and open to the public.

The program will feature the premiere of "Bangala," by David Childs, chair of Concordia's music department. Other pieces planned for the concert are a tribute to Clair Musser, the father of the modern marimba; an arrangement of Sibelius' "Finlandia," which will be accompanied by the Concordia Concert Choir; Vernon Duke's "April in Paris;" and Greig's "In the Hall of the Mountain King."

The percussion ensemble and marimba choir are directed by David Eyler, director of percussion studies for the Tri-College University.

Day trip to powwow planned

The Memorial Union Gallery and the Skill Warehouse program are planning a day trip Saturday, April 8, to the University of North Dakota for the 31st Annual Time-Out and Wacipi (Powwow). The event is one of the country's largest collegiate powwow celebrations, and it includes contest dancing, drumming and singing, food, art, fine crafts and an American Indian basketball tournament.

Vans will depart from the west entrance of the Memorial Union at 1 p.m. April 8. Advance registration and payment is required. Registration will be taken through April 6 or until the trip fills. The cost of the trip is $20 for NDSU students and $25 for all others. Registration includes transportation, admission to the powwow and a feed.

For more information call the Gallery at 1-8239 or visit its Web site at www.ndsu.nodak.edu/memorial_union/Gallery/index.html.

Golden Key holds induction ceremony

The NDSU chapter of Golden Key National Honor Society held its fifth annual new member induction ceremony March 25. This year, 250 juniors and seniors in the top 15 percent of their respective classes were inducted.

Honorary memberships also were presented to President Joseph Chapman; James Grier, professor of zoology; Michael Harwood, associate director of Residence Life; and Craig Schnell, vice president of academic affairs. Honorary memberships are given to individuals who embody the ideals of Golden Key and encourage academic excellence.

Jennifer Lynn Donelson, a junior majoring in music education, and Alberto Sun, a senior majoring in food science, received scholarships sponsored by Ford Motor Co., a member of Golden Key's corporate council.

The NDSU Golden Key chapter was chartered on April 16, 1996. The chapter has received several regional and international awards, including "Best New Chapter," "Key Chapter" and "Honorable Mention Key Chapter."

Sociology professor to present Healthcare Ethics Lectureship

Frank

Arthur W. Frank, professor of sociology at the University of Calgary, is scheduled to present the Fargo-Moorhead Sixth Annual Healthcare Ethics Lectureship at 7:30 p.m. Monday, April 17, in the Moorhead State University Union Ballroom.

Frank's award-winning book, "At the Will of the Body: Reflections on Illness," tells his story of surviving a heart attack in 1985 and testicular cancer shortly thereafter. His 1995 book, "The Wounded Storyteller: Body, Illness and Ethics," presents personal accounts of illness to show how people find meaning in their suffering.

In his lecture, "Surviving McMedicine: The Contest for the Souls of Ill People and Those Who Care for Them," Frank will argue that today's medicine is shaped by the larger forces of "McWorld"—a society characterized by McDonalds, Macintosh and MTV. Within "McMedicine," professionals and patients become providers and consumers. Treatment becomes a commodity. Yet, we also find a new sense of clinical ethics among health care professionals, and a changing experience of illness among patients. Frank will maintain that out of our needs and convictions, a new culture of care is developing.

The lecture, which will be followed by a question-and-answer session with a panel of community professionals and members of the audience, is free and open to the public. Requests for accommodations related to disability should be made prior to the event by contacting Mark Chekola, department of philosophy, Moorhead State University, at 236-4087 or chekola@mnsu.edu. For more information contact Kathleen Slobin at 1-8939.

The Healthcare Ethics Lectureship was established in 1992 to promote education and dialogue about health care and the ethical and moral perspectives that shape the delivery of care in our community. The lectureship is planned and sponsored by a committee of faculty and health care personnel from NDSU, Concordia College, Dakota Heartland Health System, Fargo Veterans Affairs Medical Center, MeritCare Medical Center, Moorhead State University, PRACS Institute and the University of North Dakota School of Medicine.

Discover NDSU Days set for April 14-15

The Office of Admission has scheduled its spring semester Discover NDSU Days. "Senior Day" is planned for Friday, April 14, and "Junior Day" is planned for Saturday, April 15. Registration both days will begin at 9 a.m. in the Memorial Union, and activities are planned through noon.

Prospective students will have the opportunity to tour campus facilities and meet professors and current students. Information will be presented about financial aid, student involvement and other opportunities available to students on campus.

Family members are invited to attend. For more information contact Merideth Sherlin at 1-9653.

Play to explore society through eyes of 'Generation-X'

A one-person stage production, "Faces of America," is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, April 13, in Festival Concert Hall. The show, starring Bernadette Balagtas, and written and directed by Colin Cox, addresses questions of multiculturalism in today's society through the eyes of "Generation X."

The play presents eight characters based on true stories researched through workshops and interviews with high school and college age populations. The characters each represent a different cultural aspect of American society: African, Asian, Mexican-American, American Indian, East Indian, European, Happa (mixed blood) and an "all-in-one Generation X-er." The subject matter is intended for mature audiences.

Since its first production at the Los Angeles Theatre Center in 1995, the show has been performed at more than 200 colleges and universities. Featured as a Los Angeles Times "Best Bet," "Faces of America" played to a full house and received a standing ovation at a special performance for the 51st annual United Nations Day.

Admission is $5. NDSU students may attend free with their college ID. For tickets, call 1-8458.

Co-sponsors for the event include NDSU, North Dakota University System, Bank of North Dakota, Rural Development Council, Department of Public Instruction, Higher Education Resource Organization for Students and the North Dakota Humanities Council.

For more information contact Paul Boswell, director of multicultural student services, at 1-1029 or boswell@badlands.nodak.edu.

President of AACP to address pharmacy grads

Smith

Robert E. Smith, professor and head of the Department of Pharmacy Practice at Auburn University and president of the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy (AACP), is scheduled to present the keynote address at the College of Pharmacy's graduation hooding ceremony. The event is planned for 2 p.m. Friday, May 12, in Festival Concert Hall.

Smith will address the pharmacy graduating seniors, their parents, faculty, staff, distinguished leaders within the profession and friends of the college at this final celebration prior to the students entering their professional practices. The topic of his address to graduates will be "Make A Difference." There will be a reception following the hooding ceremony. Between 400-500 people are anticipated to attend the event.

Charles Peterson, dean of pharmacy, said, "I am delighted that Dr. Smith has agreed to be our keynote speaker this year. Having the president of AACP come to NDSU to address our graduates is quite an honor."

Matchie to present English department seminar

Thomas Matchie, professor of English, will present an English department seminar, "Collaboration in the Works of Louis Erdrich and Michael Dorris: A Study in the Process of Writing," at 3:30 p.m. Thursday, April 6, in Minard 206.

The seminar, the seventh in a series, will explore the collaboration of the two writers in the production of several great pieces of literature, including her 1984 "Love Medicine," and his 1987 "Yellow Raft in Blue Water."

All English department members, as well as other departments, are invited to attend. Refreshments will be served.

For more information, contact Bill Cosgrove, professor of English, at 1-7147 or cosgrove@plains.nodak.edu or Anjali Pandey, assistant professor of English, at 1-7148 or apandey@prairie.nodak.edu.

Gallery to exhibit interior design projects

Thirteen graduating interior design students will have their work featured in an exhibit in the Memorial Union Gallery. The projects will be on display April 6-14, and a reception is planned from 4-6 p.m. Friday, April 7, in the Gallery.

The students present ideas for renovation projects that in past years have included private residences, parks, zoos, restaurants, theaters, office buildings and resorts.

The exhibit will feature work by Jennifer Beyer, Jennifer Birst, Ann Brouillard, Jennie Bulisco, Sherry Dalke, Heather Engleson, Sarah Feist, Jan Hyde, Rebecca Maki, Corey McMillan, Rachel Murr, Jennifer Robinson and Jody Viseth.

Gallery hours are 9:30 a.m.-6 p.m. Monday-Thursday and 9:30 a.m.-1 p.m. Fridays. For more information about the exhibit, contact Peg Furshong at 1-8239.

Little Country Theatre to present 'Sylvia'

The Little Country Theatre will present "Sylvia" April 13-16 in Walsh Studio Theatre. Performances are scheduled for 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, April 13-15, and 2 p.m. Sunday, April 16.

The play, by A. R. Gurney, is a modern romantic comedy about a marriage and a dog. It contains adult language and situations. The performance is being produced entirely by students. Matt Greseth, a theatre arts major, is the play's director, and NDSU students are designing the costumes, lights, sound and other aspects of the show.

A dessert reception is planned after the opening night show, April 13. The audience is invited to the reception to meet the cast and production crew.

Tickets are $9 for adults; $8 for senior citizens and NDSU faculty, staff and alumni; and $4 for NDSU students. Call the box office at 1-7969 or Ticketmaster at 235-7171 for tickets.

Phi Kappa Phi plans induction ceremony

The NDSU chapter of Phi Kappa Phi honor society has scheduled its spring banquet and induction ceremony for 6 p.m. Monday, April 10, at the Alumni Center. Scholarships will be awarded at the ceremony.

Phi Kappa Phi recognizes and promotes superior scholarship in all fields of higher education. Juniors in the upper 5 percent of their class and seniors and graduate students in the upper 10 percent of their classes are eligible for membership. Admission is by invitation only and requires nomination.

Organized in 1911, NDSU's chapter of Phi Kappa Phi is one of the oldest in the nation. It is chapter No. 10 out of a group that now includes 281 colleges and universities. Many buildings on campus are named after founding members of the organization.

Deadline: May 1 (letter of intent)

The Human Growth Foundation announces a Small Grants Program for investigation of human growth and its disorders. Special consideration will be given to new investigators and ideas new to the field. Postdoctoral research dealing with all aspects of normal and abnormal growth in the areas of biological, psychosocial, educational and nutritional will be considered. The grants are for postdoctoral research only. Awards will be between $7,500 and $10,000.

Horticulture Research Institute Grants Program
www.anla.org/research
Deadline: May 15

The Horticulture Research Institute (HRI) is committed to directing, funding, promoting and communicating research which increases the quality and value of plants, improves the productivity and profitability of the nursery and landscape industry and protects and enhances the environment. HRI-supported projects focus on a significant problem or opportunity of the nursery and landscape industry, encourage environmentally responsible management practices, increase nurserymen's business or financial expertise or improve and expand the market for plant material. The priorities for this year's projects are crop production strategies, marketing/consumerism, pest management strategies, post-production practices, production/operational efficiency and resource/waste management.
