

Grant establishes Internet-based video conferencing network

NDSU personnel during the past year have helped establish an Internet-based video conferencing capability in several North Dakota communities. The work has been funded by a $460,000 grant from the Technology Opportunities Program (TOP) of the National Telecommunications and Information Administration, U.S. Department of Commerce. The effort established seven sites across the state and additional sites are planned.

"This is especially significant because of the opportunities it provides to the rural communities of North Dakota," said Sandy Sprafka, Information Technology Services digital conferencing administrator. "They can, for example, take classes without needing to drive for a minimum of an hour one-way. Current information, through seminars or workshops, is readily available and the opportunities for interaction are enhanced."

According to David Saxowsky, NDSU Agriculture Communication director, six to 10 more sites may be developed across the state this year. "The grant also supports portions of several positions. Two of these positions are directed at helping faculty, specialists, researchers, agents, administrators and staff effectively use the technology for classes, conferences and meetings," he said. "It is one thing to have the technology; it is another thing to have the resources and colleagues who can help you understand how to effectively use this technology."

In 1999, the North Dakota Legislature mandated that the Information Technology Department (ITD) assume "responsibility for all wide area network services planning, selection and implementation for all state agencies, including institutions under the control of the board of higher education, counties, cities, and school districts in this state." A group of NDSU faculty members, researchers and staff began taking steps in 2000 to pursue Internet-based video conferencing.

According to organizers, Internet-based video-conferencing hopefully will be less expensive and more accessible than alternative technologies. The work is not intended to replace existing systems; but to complement them in helping North Dakotans use information technology in their professional and personal activities.

Sites are operational at NDSU, Dickinson, Hettinger, Langdon, Minot, Williston and Carrington.

Entities involved in the effort include the NDSU Extension Service, Ag Communication, ITS, North Dakota Agricultural Experiment Station, ITD and the North Dakota Interactive Video Network (IVN).

Technology fee deadline reminder

The Technology Fee Advisory Committee seeks proposals for technology action plans by Sept. 17. Instructions and forms may be accessed at www.ndsu.nodak.edu/TFAC/actionplans/. Proposals should be sent to the Technology Fee Advisory Committee, c/o NDSU Vice President for Academic Affairs, Old Main 103.

For more information contact Richard Chenoweth, special assistant to the vice president for academic affairs, at 1-7106 or Richard\_Chenoweth@ndsu.nodak.edu.

President Chapman to deliver State of University Address

President Joseph A. Chapman will deliver his third State of the University address at 4 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 13, in the Reineke Fine Arts Center. All faculty, staff and students are invited to the reopening of the main campus gate at University Drive and 12th Avenue North immediately following the address. A reception will follow at the Alumni Center (note change in location.)

TIAA-CREF appointments offered

TIAA-CREF consultants will be on campus this fall for individual counseling sessions. They will answer questions about long-term investment strategies, tax-deferred investing opportunities, mutual funds and IRAs.

Appointments for individual meetings are being offered for Sept. 19 and 20; Oct. 3, 10 and 11; and Nov. 7, 8 and 9. All meetings will be held in the NDSU Alumni Center. Register at the front desk. To schedule an appointment, visit TIAA-CREF's Web site at <https://ifs2.tiaa-cref.org/cgi-bin/WebObjects/ARS>, or call 1-800-842-2009 and ask for Carolyn.

Institute for Regional Studies closings announced

The Institute for Regional Studies will be closed between 10-11:30 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 12, and at 3:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 20. The institute will be hosting classes at those times.

Wrestling team honored in Congressional Record

The NDSU wrestling team, which won last season's NCAA Division II national title, was recognized in the April 6 issue of the Congressional Record. The article, placed by Sen. Kent Conrad, praised the team for its "strength, grit and determination."

President Chapman and Sen. Conrad

Conrad presented President Joseph A. Chapman with a commemorative copy of the issue Aug. 31 at the Alumni Center.

"Exceptional coaching, determined wrestlers and remarkable teamwork led the Bison to their fourth national championship," wrote Conrad in the Congressional Record article.

"I extend congratulations to the Bison on yet another successful season and wish the best of luck to the entire team."

Fulbright grants competition announced

The Fulbright program announces the continuing competition for Fulbright and related grants for graduate study or research abroad in academic fields, and for professional training in the creative and performing arts.

The grants were established to increase mutual understanding between the United States and other countries through the exchange of persons, knowledge and skills.

Applicants must be U.S. citizens at the time of application and hold a bachelor's degree or its equivalent by the beginning date of the grant. Candidates in medicine must have a medical degree or equivalent at the time of application. Creative and performing artists need not have a bachelor's degree, but must have four years of relevant training or study. Applicants also are required to be proficient in the language of their host country. Full grants provide round-trip international travel, research allowance and tuition waivers if applicable.

Fulbright grants are funded under the Mutual Educational and Cultural Exchange Act of 1961 through an annual appropriation to the U.S. Department of State. Foreign governments, universities, corporations and private donors also provide funding.

Program and application information can be found in the brochure "Fulbright and Related Grants for Graduate Study and Research Abroad, 2002-03," and on the Web at www.iie.org/fulbright/us. NDSU students may contact Kerri Spiering, Fulbright program adviser on campus, at 1-7895. Applications must be received by Sept. 21.

Gift features first Bison All-American items

A recent gift to the NDSU University Archives gives the school a direct link to its first All-American athlete. The family of Claudie Miller, a 1927 graduate, has donated a number of items relating to his outstanding athletic career.

Included among the materials are Miller's letter sweater, his plaque as a charter member of the Bison Hall of Fame, photographs, yearbooks, sports programs and a scrapbook of pictures and newspaper clippings about his athletic prowess.

"He was the first shining star we had in the Bison Athletics' tradition of excellence," said archivist Michael Robinson. "We've had a lot of stars since then, but Claudie Miller was really NDSU's first star athlete."

Miller, who entered North Dakota Agricultural College in 1923, lettered four years in football, basketball and track. Named a first team football All-American in 1926 and receiving an honorable mention in 1924 and 1925, Miller was selected to three all-conference football squads and two all-conference basketball teams.

His personal effects come to campus through the generosity of Miller's daughter, Claudia Miller Porter, and son-in-law, Stuart Hotchkiss, of Atlanta. "We recently moved to a new apartment and there wasn't room to properly store Claudie's belongings. He was so fond of Fargo and NDSU that it seemed a natural thing to donate them to the campus," said Hotchkiss.

"When I received the box, I was like a kid at Christmas," Robinson said. "The items—the pictures, the programs—are things we do not have. It is terrific material that gives us a wonderful glimpse into NDSU's history."

Robinson is especially excited about Miller's beige and green letter sweater, which has four stripes to denote he lettered four years, and a star for being team captain. "For being as old as it is, the sweater is in magnificent shape," he said. "Eventually, we will put it on display when we get a secure display case. When people see it, it will give them the idea that NDSU has always been special."

Miller also was a charter member of Blue Key, president of his sophomore class and a member of Alpha Kappa Phi, which became the ATO fraternity. In 1926, he was made an honorary chief by the Sioux tribe of Mandan, given the name "Seize the Bear" and presented with a headdress that is currently on display in the NDSU Memorial Union. He went on to a successful career as a teacher, assistant school principal and coach. Miller died in 1996.

Civil engineering degree receives accreditation renewal

The civil engineering bachelor's degree at NDSU has been re-accredited by the Engineering Accreditation Commission (EAC) of the Accreditation Board of Engineering and Technology (ABET).

The program was evaluated based on the new learning-centered EAC 2000 criteria, according to G. Padmanabhan, professor and chair of civil engineering. In order to be considered for accreditation, engineering programs must be designed to prepare graduates for the practice of engineering at a professional level.

Reviews must be conducted at least every six years for continuous accreditation. A team of ABET volunteer evaluators conducted an in-depth review of the civil engineering program last October.

Counseling and disability services accreditation renewed

Counseling and Disability Services (CDS) has been re-accredited by the International Association of Counseling Services Inc. after a site visit in February.

The center was recognized for its experienced staff and for the collaborative and supportive relationships developed with university faculty, staff and administrators, and community practitioners. The agency conducts site visits every eight years.

Peggy Gaynor, center director, was named to the University and College Counseling Centers' Board of Accreditation as a representative from the midwest region.

Counseling and Disability Services provides a full range of confidential counseling services, including services for students with disabilities, personal growth classes, career counseling and limited psychiatric service for students. Consultation is available for faculty and staff as well. CDS provides a wide range of standardized testing including GED and ACT tests. More information about available services can be found at www.ndsu.nodak.edu/counseling/.

People

Veterinary technology faculty and staff attend symposium

Tom Colville, professor, and research specialists Teresa Sonsthagen, Eloyes Hill and Amy Elwein, veterinary and microbiological sciences, attended the Symposium on Veterinary Technician Education Aug. 6-8 in Vancouver, British Columbia. The symposium was sponsored by the Association of Veterinary Technician Educators (AVTE).

Colville, who has served as chair of the association's Skills Inventory Task Force since 1997, planned and moderated the daylong veterinary technician skills inventory workshop. He also is past-president of AVTE.

Sonsthagen will serve as president-elect for the next two years, and is responsible to plan the next symposium. She will begin a two-year term as president in 2003.

Hill completed her term as newsletter editor and executive board member.

The NDSU veterinary technology program will be the second in the country, following Purdue University, to have two faculty or staff members serve as AVTE president when Sonsthagen takes office in 2003.

Kamel receives NSF grant

Ahmed Kamel, assistant professor of computer science, has received a $25,000 research grant from the National Science Foundation. The two-year grant began Sept. 1.

Kamel's research project is entitled "U.S.-Egypt Cooperative Research: Development of an Intelligent Agent-Based Architecture for the Development and Deployment of Distributed Knowledge Based Systems."

Cooper article published

An article by Bonnie Cooper, graduate school disquisition editor and interim director of the NDSU Center for Writers, was published in the 2001 issue of Speaker and Gavel.

The article, "A Fantasy Theme Analysis of Four South Dakota Lottery Advertisements," was based on her master's thesis, "Lottery Advertising: A Rhetorical Analysis."

Cooper received her bachelor's and master's degrees in speech communication from NDSU.

Burnett article published

An article by Ann Burnett, associate professor of communication, was published in a recent issue of Communication Quarterly, a publication of the Eastern Communication Association.

"An Exploratory Study of Argument in the Jury Decision-Making Process" explores how decisions made by courtroom jurors differ from most other group decision-making contexts.

According to Burnett, courtroom jurors face two distinct layers of argument; those made during the trial and those made during deliberation. The juror often makes an individual decision based on arguments heard in court prior to deliberation. Using that decision, the juror then creates arguments with the other jurors during the deliberation process.

The researchers analyzed arguments of 80 mock juries, finding that jurors' arguments were not complex. The research may be used as practical applications for attorneys and models of argument in jury decision-making.

North Dakota student association names legislators of the year

Two state senators and two state representatives were selected to receive Legislator of the Year awards from the North Dakota Student Association (NDSA) for their work during the 2001 legislative session.

Sen. David Nething, Jamestown; Sen. Carolyn Nelson, Fargo; Rep. Amy Kliniske, Grand Forks; and Rep. Bruce Eckre, Wahpeton, were selected based on their strong working relationships with NDSA and responsiveness to students.

Events

Farm bill conference scheduled

The Center for Agricultural Policy and Trade Studies (CAPTS) will host "The 2002 Farm Bill: Issues and Alternatives" conference scheduled for Monday-Tuesday, Oct. 29-30, at the Fargo Holiday Inn.

The conference will concentrate on emerging issues related to the 2002 farm bill. Specific areas of focus will include directions of U.S. farm programs under a more free trade environment; U.S. farm economy and effectiveness of the farm bill under the 1996 FAIR Act; alternative views of the 2002 farm bill; implications of the World Trade Organizations negotiations and regional free trade agreements on the 2002 farm bill; the 2002 farm bill for wheat, feed grain, oilseed and sugar producers; and major issues in the 2002 farm bill, including risk management, income safety nets and food safety.

Many prominent political and agricultural leaders have been invited to attend. The conference registration fee is $125 if received by Sept. 28, and $175 after that date. A limited number of rooms have been reserved at the Holiday Inn.

For additional information, contact Won W. Koo, professor of agricultural economics, at 1-7448, or visit the conference Web site at www.ag.ndsu.nodak.edu/capts/Conf2-ann.htm.

EPSCoR conference to focus on emerging research opportunities

The joint biennial conference for North Dakota and South Dakota EPSCoR is scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 2, at the Brookings Area Multiplex, Brookings, S.D.

The conference will feature presentations by federal agency program officers from the National Science Foundation, National Institutes of Health, National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the Department of Defense and other leaders in the field of large-scale project and program development.

D. J. Vanas, Native American Discovery Inc., Colorado Springs, Colo., is scheduled to present the keynote address, "How to Build A Warrior: Creating Successful Native American Students."

Faculty and students are invited to present posters. Registration is free and includes lunch and refreshments. Contact your research office to request travel support.

Abstracts are due Sept. 17 and conference registration is Sept. 21. Registration forms, conference agenda and map are found at www.ndsu.edu/epscor/con.html. For more information, contact the EPSCoR office at 1-8400.

MedWatch director presentation scheduled

Norman Marks, director of the Food and Drug Administration's MedWatch program, is scheduled to give a presentation on "New Initiatives in the MedWatch Program," at 2 p.m. Friday, Sept. 14, in Sudro Hall room 26.

The MedWatch program is responsible for reporting adverse drug reactions and product quality problems, and for providing drug safety information to health professionals.

For more information, contact Donald Miller, professor and chair of pharmacy practice, at 1-7941.

NIH proposal writing workshop scheduled

A workshop in proposal writing for the National Institutes of Health is scheduled for 3-5 p.m. Monday, Oct. 15, in the Memorial Union Meadowlark room.

The workshop, sponsored by the Center for Protease Research and the Office of Sponsored Programs Administration, will focus on grant writing policies and procedures and will include panel presentations from faculty who have successfully received NIH funding. Refreshments will be served.

Persons interested in attending should RSVP by Monday, Oct. 1, to Amy Scott at 1-6114 or Amy.Scott@ndsu.nodak.edu.

Chicago art institute trip planned

The Memorial Union Gallery will lead a trip to the Art Institute of Chicago to see the exhibit, "van Gogh and Gauguin: The Studio of the South," scheduled for Thursday, Oct. 4-Sunday, Oct. 7.

The exhibit, which is on loan from the National Gallery, features approximately 150 paintings depicting the friendship between Vincent van Gogh and Paul Gauguin before, during and after the time they lived and worked together in the south of France.

The trip includes guided tours of the van Gogh and Gauguin exhibit and the Museum of Contemporary Art. Attendees will be on their own Friday and Saturday afternoon and evening.

The trip is open to NDSU students and the public, and is subject to availability. The cost per person is $225 for NDSU students and $250 for others, based on quadruple occupancy, which covers motor coach transportation, lodging and the guided tours. The cost for double occupancy is $350 per person.

Pre-registration and a $110 deposit are due by Friday, Sept. 14. The coach departs from the Memorial Union south entrance at 9 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 4. For more information, contact Peg Furshong at 1-8239 or Peg\_Furshong@ndsu.nodak.edu.

Concert choir to perform with symphony

The NDSU Concert Choir will perform with the Fargo-Moorhead Symphony and Chamber Chorale in Brahms' German Requiem scheduled for 8 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 22, and 2 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 23, in Festival Concert Hall.

Ticket prices are $14, $18 and $24 and are available at the Division of Fine Arts box office and all Ticketmaster locations.

Tickets available for leadership seminar

NDSU Continuing Education has a limited number of tickets to the sixth annual World Wide Lessons in Leadership seminar, "The New Leadership Challenge: Teaming Principles with Practices in a Time of Change," scheduled for 9:45 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 7, at the Fargo Civic Auditorium.

The tickets are available to NDSU employees at a discounted price of $75. To reserve a ticket, contact Beth Ambrosio at 1-5376 or Beth\_Ambrosio@ndsu.nodak.edu.

During the satellite event, participants will hear the principles of Stephen R. Covey, author of "The 7 Habits of Highly Effective People;" Tom Peters, author of "In Search of Excellence;" Ken Blanchard, author of "The One Minute Manager;" Martha Rogers, author of "The One to One Future;" Gary Hamel, author of "Competing for the Future;" and "Fish! A Remarkable Way to Boost Morale and Improve Results," by Stephen C. Lundin, Harry Paul, John Christensen. Panels will include executives from Dell Computer Corp., General Electric Co., Tyco International Ltd., Continental Airlines, Inc. and Avon Products, Inc.

Fiesta Mexicana day trip scheduled

Multicultural Student Services and the MU Breaks leisure program have scheduled a day trip to Fiesta Mexicana Saturday, Sept. 29, in Valley City.

The fiesta is an exhibition of arts, crafts, dance, music and food from Mexico. Pottery, wood weavings, cotton textiles and tin art will be available for sale. Visitors also can expect to experience regional dances and ethnic food.

The event will be an exchange of cultures and knowledge as the Mexican states of Oaxaca and La Paz are similar to North Dakota in many ways. Both are relatively sparsely populated and are heavily dependent on an agricultural economy.

Cost of the trip is $10 for NDSU students and $15 for others. The bus will depart from the Memorial Union's south entrance at 10 a.m. and will return early evening. Seating is limited to 20 people. Advance registration and payment are required by Friday, Sept. 21. For more information and registration, call 1-7900.
