

Technology Fee Advisory Committee seeks proposals

The Technology Fee Advisory Committee is seeking proposals for technology action plans that directly benefit and improve the quality of education and campus life of the NDSU student body. Faculty, staff and students are encouraged to propose projects by the 5 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 1, deadline.

The committee solicits and reviews proposals, then recommends the allocation of funds to Craig Schnell, provost and vice president for academic affairs.

The committee is soliciting action plans that address broad areas of technology, such as classroom and laboratory technology; computer clusters; student, faculty and staff training; multimedia development; and network access and infrastructure. Action plans addressing innovative uses of technology as it relates to improving instruction and student learning also will be considered.

The committee has two action plan solicitations each year, with deadlines in March and October.

Solicitation, descriptions, instructions and forms are available on the committee's Web site at www.ndsu.nodak.edu/tfac/actionplans/. To receive consideration, 15 copies of action plan proposals should be sent to the Technology Fee Advisory Committee, c/o NDSU Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs, Old Main 103. For more information, contact Sudhir Mehta, associate vice president for academic affairs, at 1-8493 or Sudhir.Mehta@ndsu.nodak.edu.

ND EPSCoR seeks research mentors

Faculty in the sciences, engineering and mathematics are invited to participate as research mentors in North Dakota Experimental Program to Stimulate Competitive Research (ND EPSCoR) Science Outreach and Recruitment programs.

The Science Bound program targets entering freshmen who show an interest in the science, engineering and mathematics fields. Students work with their mentor for two years.

The Advanced Undergraduate Research Awards (AURA) program provides summer undergraduate research opportunities.

The Faculty Laboratory And Research Experience (FLARE) program encourages collaborative research between faculty of the two research universities, and faculty of the North Dakota comprehensive and liberal arts colleges and universities, tribal colleges and two-year institutions.

Faculty can register their research topics on the ND EPSCoR Web page at www.ndepscor.nodak.edu/programs/request.mentor.participation.htm. The closing date to register as a mentor is Sept. 30.

For more information, contact David Givers, EPSCoR assistant project director, at 1-7516 or david.givers@ndsu.nodak.edu.

Business Office closed Sept. 9

The Business Office will be closed Tuesday, Sept. 9, for financial aid disbursement. Departments are asked to hold their deposits until Wednesday, Sept. 10.

TIAA-CREF appointments offered

TIAA-CREF consultants will be on campus for investment counseling appointments Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 23 and 24; Wednesday-Friday, Oct. 8-10; and Friday, Nov. 14. Individual counseling sessions are available to discuss investment planning issues such as long-term investment strategies, tax-deferred investments, mutual funds and IRAs. Appointments may be scheduled by visiting TIAA-CREF's Web site at <https://ifs2.tiaa-cref.org/cgi-bin/WebObjects/ARS> or by calling 1-800-842-2009. All appointments will be held in the NDSU Alumni Center and those with appointments should register at the front desk.

'Recipe Index Search' announced

The Germans from Russia Heritage Collection has installed a new "Recipe Index Search" at www.lib.ndsu.nodak.edu/grhc/recipe. The search allows anyone to locate more than 20,000 recipes included in the cookbooks currently available for purchase at the GRHC Web site.

The search includes "Categories for Recipe Index Search;" "Dictionary of German-Russian Food Terms;" "Metric and United States Conversion Charts;" and "Ukrainian Pronunciation for Foods."

The search includes recipe titles from a variety of ethnic backgrounds, such as Bessarabian, Black Sea, German, Russian, Ukrainian, Mennonite, Hutterite, Volga, Crimean and the Northern and Central Plains of the United States and Canada. The cookbook title, recipe category, recipe name, page number and person who submitted the recipe are available through the search.

For more information, call 1-8416 or 1-6596 or e-mail Kristi.Brink@ndsu.nodak.edu or Michael.Miller@ndsu.nodak.edu.

Logistic management minor added

A minor in logistics management is now available to NDSU students. The minor was approved by the State Board of Higher Education at its November 2002 meeting.

The 24-credit program is a joint project of the Departments of Management, Marketing and Finance, Agribusiness and Applied Economics and the Upper Great Plains Transportation Institute. It is administered by management, marketing and finance.

In an earlier letter to the board, Craig Schnell, provost and vice president for academic affairs, said the subject of logistics management is increasingly important for all businesses, including manufacturers, distribution companies and food and agribusiness firms. He added that a minor will improve the outlook for employment in the students' chosen major.

NDSU theater program awarded Challenge America grant

NDSU's theater program has received a $20,000 grant from the North Dakota Council on the Arts in support of the 2004 Governor's School in the Performing Arts (GSPA).

NDSU and GSPA are partnering to create an intensive performing arts experience for talented North Dakota students, regardless of geographical situation or financial status. Students who participate in the program will attend performing arts classes at Trollwood Performing Arts School, and will receive specialized instruction from NDSU faculty. The group will tour the state presenting a final production in each participant's hometown. NDSU also will provide housing for the students. The school is scheduled for six weeks in summer 2004.

For more information, contact Pamela Chabora, assistant professor of theater arts, at 1-6657.

Former football coach dies

Former Bison head football coach Jim Wacker died Aug. 26 at his San Marcos, Texas, home after a lengthy battle with cancer. He was 66.

Wacker coached at NDSU from 1976-78, compiling a 24-9-1 record and leading the Bison to the NCAA Division II playoffs twice. People who knew him say Wacker left a lasting legacy at the university.

"Jim Wacker epitomized the word 'coach.' His passion for young people, coupled with his enthusiasm and energy, was contagious both on and off the field," said Lynn Dorn, women's athletic director. "Coach Wacker positively impacted many people throughout his life, including members of the Bison family."

Denis Isrow, professor emeritus of health, nutrition and exercise sciences, was the head trainer during Wacker's years at NDSU. "He was high-energy, outgoing and very, very positive. He had a belief that whatever we did, we would be successful at it," Isrow said of Wacker. "You couldn't be around Jim Wacker and not get excited. He was always on the upbeat. He never looked at a setback as something to sit and brood over."

Isrow uses the 1977 playoff loss to Jacksonville State (Ala.) as an example of Wacker's attitude.

"Our team somehow got food poisoning. We never knew what caused it, but when we stepped on the field, 50 percent of our team was affected by it," Isrow recalled. "We lost the game, and as we walked off the field, we decided not to use that as an excuse. In interviews after the game and the weeks that followed, he never brought that up. He felt that if he used that, the team would lose what it had accomplished. In the long run, it showed a lot of class."

Wacker's 26-year coaching career included back-to-back national championships at Texas Lutheran University in 1974-75 and at Southwest Texas State University in 1981-82.

"He was extremely enthusiastic, a driving force and a charismatic individual," said George Ellis, men's sports information director. "I had a great deal of respect for Jim and what he accomplished here at NDSU."

Ellis said Wacker also hired good people like Don Morton, who later became the Bison head coach. "Jim left here, went to Southwest Texas State and three years later was in the national title game against a team called North Dakota State. It was the pupil vs. the teacher, Don Morton vs. Jim Wacker," Ellis remembered. "That was a terrific week in NDSU history."

The American Football Coaches Association named Wacker the 1982 College Division Coach of the Year. His career record stood at 160-130-3 when he retired as a coach in 1996 after five seasons at the University of Minnesota. He also did color commentary for college football games broadcast on CBS Radio.

A native of Detroit, Wacker is survived by his wife, Lil, three sons and six grandchildren.

Business administration announces new faculty members

The College of Business Administration has added five faculty members. John Bitzan, Jang Chul Kim and Bret Simmons have joined the Department of Management, Marketing and Finance, and Thomas Dowdell and Herbert Snyder have joined the Department of Accounting and Management Information Systems. Each assumed their positions in August.

Bitzan, assistant professor of management, earned his doctorate from the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, where he specialized in industrial organization and labor economics. Previously, he served as a transportation economist with the Upper Great Plains Transportation Institute and as adjunct professor in agricultural economics. He is a member of the American Economic and Western Economic Associations, and former executive vice president of the Agricultural and Rural Transportation Chapter of the Transportation Research Forum. He teaches managerial economics.

Kim, assistant professor of finance, teaches money and capital markets and principles of finance. His research includes market microstructure and corporate finance. He has a doctorate from the University of Memphis where he was a research assistant for the Institute for the Study of Security Markets.

Simmons, assistant professor of management, has a doctorate from Oklahoma State University. Before joining NDSU, he served on the School of Management faculty at the University of Alaska Fairbanks. Simmons has received grants for the development of online courses in operations management and health care management and served as a consultant to the Fairbanks Memorial Hospital. He serves on the editorial board of the Journal of Managerial Issues and is a member of numerous professional associations, including the Academy of Management, American Psychological Association and Society for Industrial and Organizational Psychology. Simmons teaches cultural pluralism, management of organizations and foundations of organization behavior.

Dowdell is an instructor teaching elements of accounting. Prior to joining NDSU, he was an instructor and research assistant at Temple University, Philadelphia. He has a master's degree in managerial science and applied economics from the University of Pennsylvania, and is completing a doctorate in accounting from Temple University. He has published research in Financial Management and the Journal of Financial and Quantitative Analysis.

Snyder, associate professor of accounting, teaches auditing and elements of accounting. He has served on the faculties of Fort Lewis College, Indiana University, University of Iowa and Syracuse University. Prior to that, he served as a senior intelligence analyst with the 425th Military Intelligence Detachment. Snyder is the co-author of "Costing and Pricing in the Digital Age," and also is a contributing author to the column Small Change in Library Administration and Management. The Fulbright Scholar serves on the District 9 Financial Advisory Board and is a member of the American Accounting Association, the American Society for Information Science and Technology and the Association of Certified Fraud Examiners. He has a doctorate from Syracuse University.

Professor emeritus Askew dies

Robert Askew, professor emeritus, died Aug. 23 in his Fargo home. He was 77.

Askew was an Extension horticulturist for 21 years. An NDSU alumnus, he earned a bachelor's degree in agriculture in 1950 and a master's degree in horticulture in 1968.

His many honors included the 1979 R.L. Wodarz Award for Outstanding Contributions to Horticulture for North Dakota by the North Dakota State Horticulture Society, the Distinguished Service Award from the NDSU Cooperative Extension Service in 1983 and the Distinguished Service Award from the North Dakota Nursery and Greenhouse Association in 1987.

Askew was promoted to full professor in 1980, and took early retirement in 1988. He is survived by his wife, Diane, two sons, a daughter and seven grandchildren.

Lifton participates in Colorado theater workshop

Paul Lifton, associate professor of theater arts, participated in the workshop "Wilder Weekend in the Rockies" held July 31-Aug. 4 in Aspen, Colo. The workshop explored the ideas and works of playwright Thornton Wilder. Lifton also served as a discussion panelist.

The workshop was presented by Theater Masters, a group formed in 2001 to enhance audience understanding of theater and foster the development of artists for the American theater, and to bring distinguished professionals to the Aspen area. The program seeks to create opportunities for artists to share their knowledge and craft with other professionals, students and audiences through master classes, unique training programs, symposiums, and behind-the-scenes talks and productions.

Lifton is the author of "Vast Encyclopedia: The Theatre of Thornton Wilder" a critical analysis focusing exclusively on Wilder's plays. He also contributed essays to two anthologies of critical essays on Wilder.

Lifton has been at NDSU since 1988. He teaches theater history and literature, acting and directing. He also serves as the theater arts coordinator and as stage director for Little Country Theatre productions.

Music faculty tour with Northern Ambassadors

Warren Olfert, assistant professor of music, and Michael Thrasher, assistant professor of music, toured with the Northern Ambassadors on their recent European tour. Olfert directed the concert band, and Thrasher performed as a soloist. Recent NDSU graduate Jon Nero directed the concert choir. The group performed in London, Paris, Switzerland, Austria, Italy and Germany.

The Northern Ambassadors is a high school honor band composed of students from North Dakota and Montana. High school band and choir directors from the two states serve as staff members.

Olfert is NDSU's director of bands, and is responsible for the Gold Star Marching Band and the Concert Band. He also has taught at the high school level in Louisiana and Georgia.

Thrasher teaches woodwinds. Before joining NDSU, he served on the faculty at North Central Texas College in Gainesville, and has taught at the middle school and high school levels.

Events

Verfaillie to present Catherine Cater Lecture

Dr. Catherine Verfaillie, director of the University of Minnesota's Stem Cell Institute, is scheduled to present the 2003-04 Catherine Cater Lecture at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Sept. 22, in Festival Concert Hall.

Verfaillie's presentation, "The Promise of Stem Cells: Hype or Reality," will focus on her work with adult stem cell research. Her work involves a procedure that takes a type of cells from the bone marrow of adults and lets them grow into various cell types such as those found in the brain, liver, blood, nerves and other tissue. Unlike embryonic stem cell research, the process leaves the donor unharmed.

After years of searching for a way to induce adult stem cells into growing into more specialized cells, Verfaillie and institute scientists hope that the discovery may lead to the development of specialized cells to help treat diseases.

Results of the research were published in the June 2002 online version of the science journal Nature.

The Catherine Cater Humanities Lecture Series was established in 1986 by longtime NDSU philanthropists Rueben and Hilda Askanase, Houston, to recognize their respect for guest lectures and scholarly symposia organized on specific topics in the humanities. Through the years, it has brought many distinguished persons to campus.

Transportation technology expert seminar scheduled

Daniel Sperling, professor of civil engineering and founding director of the Institute of Transportation Studies at the University of California, Davis, is scheduled to present "Future of Mobility in an Environmentally-Constrained World: Whither ITS and the Hydrogen Economy?" at 10 a.m. Tuesday, Sept. 9, in IACC room 422.

Sperling is recognized as a leading international expert on transportation technology assessment, energy and environmental aspects of transportation, and transportation policy. He has written or co-written more than 160 technical papers and eight books, and has testified before Congress and various government agencies.

He is a past chair of the U.S. Transportation Research Board's Alternative Transportation Fuels Committee and serves on many advisory committees and boards of directors for environmentally oriented organizations. Sperling also serves as a consultant for international companies, major environmental groups and several foreign governments. He has worked as an environmental planner for the Environmental Protection Agency, and as an urban planner for the Peace Corps in Honduras.

Sperling has a doctorate in transportation engineering from the University of California, Berkeley, and an undergraduate degree in engineering and urban planning from Cornell University.

The seminar is hosted by the Small Urban and Rural Transit Center of the Upper Great Plains Transportation Institute at NDSU. For more information, call 1-7767.

MU Gallery to offer 'language circles'

The Memorial Union Gallery will offer French, Spanish and English "language circles" for persons interested in learning to speak any of the three languages more fluently.

The language circles are scheduled for 6-7:30 p.m. every Tuesday and Thursday evening through Dec. 11 in the Memorial Union Gallery. English sessions are scheduled every Tuesday, French sessions are scheduled for the first and third Thursdays, and Spanish sessions are scheduled for the second and fourth Thursdays. There is no designated format, and discussion topics will be decided by the group.

Faculty, staff and students of all skill levels are welcome to participate. There is no charge. For more information, call 1-7900 or 1-8239.

Virtual genomics and bioinformatics conference scheduled

The third "Virtual Conference on Genomics and Bioinformatics" is scheduled for Sept. 16-19 in the Memorial Union Century Theater. About 25 access grids worldwide, as well as numerous Real Player sites, will participate in the conference, including locations in Brazil, Italy, the Netherlands, Puerto Rico, Scotland, United Kingdom and across the United States.

According to organizers, advances in sequence analysis, transcriptional profiling, protein structural elucidation and other genomic techniques are producing an overwhelming accumulation of data and a shift in the way biological research is conducted. The conference is intended to provide an advanced collaborative environment for the exchange and discussion of innovations related to the post-genomic era.

Topics and presenters include:

"Computational Chemistry and Structural Genomics;" Kim Baldrige, San Diego Supercomputer Center; Nathan Baker, Washington University in St. Louis School of Medicine; Jim Briggs, University of Houston; Jan Jensen, University of Iowa; and Julie Mitchell, University of Wisconsin, Madison.

"Complex Biological Systems;" George M. Church, Harvard Medical School and MIT Health Sciences and Technology; Toni Kazic, University of Missouri, Columbia; Eberhard Voit, Medical University of South Carolina; Deanne Taylor, Sero Reproductive Biology; Andreas Wagner, University of New Mexico; and Yaneer Bar-Yam, New England Complex Systems Institute.

"RNA-interference;" Michael T. McManus, Center for Cancer Research at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Ali Shilatifard, St. Louis University Cancer Center.

"Genomics of Infectious Diseases;" Larry Simpson, Howard Hughes Medical Institute at UCLA; Jose Stoute, U.S. Army Medical Research Command; and John H. Adams, Center for Tropical Disease Research and Training, University of Notre Dame.

"Bioinformatics and Grid Computing;" Natalia Maltsev, Argonne National Laboratory; Douglas L. Brutlag, Stanford University; Carole Goble, University of Manchester, United Kingdom; Elia Stupka, Temasek Life Sciences Laboratory, Singapore; Akihiko Konagaya, RIKEN Genomic Sciences Center, Japan; David Sankoff, Department of Mathematics and Statistics, University of Ottawa, Canada; and Mark Wilkinson, Illuminae Media, Canada.

"Transcriptional Analysis;" Bruce Aronow, Cincinnati Children's Hospital Medical Center; Kristy Meyers, Spotfire; and Eric Blalock, University of Kentucky.

"Bioethics and Intellectual Property Rights Protection;" Dennis Fernandez, Fernandez and Associates LLP.

Registration is required, but there is no registration fee to participate. For more information, visit www.ndsu.nodak.edu/virtual-genomics/conference\_2003.htm. To register, visit www.ndsu.nodak.edu/DCE/virtcon/conferenceRegistration2.htm.
