

Chapman receives leadership award

NDSU President Joseph A. Chapman is the first recipient of a Rural Leadership North Dakota (RLND) award named for him. He received the Joseph A. Chapman Leadership Award during RLND's second class graduation ceremonies Oct. 13.

RLND is a two-year NDSU Extension Service program. Participants attend 10 in-state workshops and a six-day study tour in Washington, D.C., to learn to become effective leaders in rural North Dakota. They learn to think critically and creatively, communicate effectively, use technology and understand agricultural and rural policy. They also implement a project that benefits their organization, community or region.

"The RLND program wanted to celebrate and honor President Chapman's leadership through an award that bears his name and will be presented to an individual who demonstrates leadership attributes such as President Chapman has demonstrated for the RLND program," said Marie Hvidsten, program director. "He supported the program financially and challenged the NDSU Extension Service to develop a statewide leadership program for North Dakota. He was the spark that ignited the idea of starting the program."

"This is indeed an honor," Chapman said of the award. "It has been my great privilege to have worked closely with friends and colleagues from across North Dakota to help build a better future for our state. I believe that a key element of leadership is to provide opportunity for people to succeed, and that is what programs like Rural Leadership North Dakota are designed to do. It is educating tomorrow's leaders."

A total of 41 North Dakotans have graduated from RLND since it began in November 2003. The program's third class began this fall.

"President Chapman's theme of 'It's About People' models the way of focusing resources on programs and initiatives to improve the quality of life for people in North Dakota," D.C. Coston, vice president for agriculture and university extension, said. "He inspires a shared vision of the future, encouraging people across the state to be part of that future. He challenges the process to bring about positive growth for North Dakota. President Chapman enables others to act, and he encourages the heart by recognizing individuals' contributions."

The award will be presented every two years during the RLND graduation gala.

Winter Commencement set

President Joseph A. Chapman is encouraging participation in 2007 Winter Commencement activities. Commencement is scheduled for 5 p.m. Friday, Dec. 14, at the Fargodome.

"It is a very positive symbol of individual student success, family and community pride, and faculty and staff support," Chapman said in a letter to faculty and staff. "I have always felt that individuals who do not attend commencement exercises miss one of the most exciting days on our campus and forfeit a full perspective on the wonders of the collegiate experience."

Tom Barnhart, professor of health, nutrition and exercise sciences, will serve as faculty marshal and be in charge of arranging the processional.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS FOR IHAS

char.goodyear@ndsu.edu

Storm procedures, information line announced

With the winter storm season approaching, the Division of Student Affairs has announced storm procedures and the availability of an information telephone line.

According to Prakash Mathew, vice president for Student Affairs, NDSU personnel and students are asked to consider the NDSU Web site (www.ndsu.edu) as the primary source of storm information, supplemented by 231-INFO (231-4636). The Web site and telephone line will provide the most concise, accurate and current information on the status of classes and university offices during storms.

Subsequently, decisions to cancel classes, postpone events or close the campus will be provided to local media outlets: KVLV-TV (NBC), KXJB-TV (CBS), WDAY-TV (ABC), KVRN-TV (Fox), KLTA (FM 105.1), KPFX (Fox 107.9), KQWB-FM (Q-98.7), KVOX-FM (Froggy 99.9), KEGK-FM (Eagle 106.9), KQWB-AM (Talk Radio 1660), KFGO (Mighty 790 AM), KVRI (Bob 95.1), KVOX-AM, WDAY-FM (Y-94), KDSU (Prairie Public Radio 91.9), KCCM (91.1 FM), KCCD (90.3 FM), KRWK (Rock 102); and KMXW (Mix 104.7).

Mathew encourages supervisors to review storm procedures with employees who are deemed critical for operations even when the campus is officially closed.

According to Mathew, snow or low temperatures normally are not reasons to close the university, but significant amounts of snow might warrant a delayed start. Snow combined with severe wind chills and blizzard conditions also may warrant closing the university. Announcements regarding afternoon classes will be made by 11 a.m.

The following actions may be taken by NDSU:

- NDSU will be in full operation and all events will take place as scheduled.
- Morning, afternoon or evening classes at NDSU may be canceled or all classes may be canceled for the entire day. All other aspects of the university will operate as usual when classes are canceled.
- NDSU will be closed until noon or a specific time, or NDSU may be closed for the entire day. In this situation, designated emergency personnel whose responsibilities require they be on duty have been identified by their supervisor.

NDSU receives software and training gift from Bobcat

The Department of Agricultural and Biosystems Engineering received a software and training gift worth $6,600 from Bobcat Co.

The gift will aid the department in enhancing the student learning experience in hydraulics and other courses. The gift is part of a commitment by Bobcat Co. to support enhancement and upgrading of fluid power and machinery courses offered by the department.

The arrangement was fostered by Thomas Bon, senior lecturer in agricultural and biosystems engineering. For more information, contact Bon at 1-7275 or thomas.bon@ndsu.edu.

Awards nominations sought

Nominations are being sought for the Robert Odney Award for Excellence in Teaching, the Peltier Award for Teaching Innovation and the Fred Waldron Research Award.

Nominations for the prestigious annual awards should be submitted by Dec. 7 to the Office of the Provost/Vice President for Academic Affairs, Old Main 103.

The Odney Award recipient is selected primarily from nominations made by students. It was established with the NDSU Development Foundation by the family of the late Robert Odney, a Fargo businessman and alumnus. Candidates should stimulate continuing interest in subject matter; present course material in a clear manner; demand rigorous thought and generate enthusiastic responses from students; demonstrate distinctive competence in his or her field; and make positive contributions to the educational experience of NDSU students.

"We would like to encourage students to submit nominations for the Odney Award. Department heads/chairs and faculty are encouraged to call their students' attention to this award," said R.S. Krishnan, associate vice president for academic affairs. "The Odney Award has clearly been one of the most significant campus honors since it was established in 1972."

Established in 1998, the Peltier Award for Teaching Innovation was created with the NDSU Development Foundation by Joseph and Norma Peltier to recognize outstanding innovation in teaching. Candidates for the award should be outstanding educators whose innovative teaching techniques have contributed to enhancing the educational experience of NDSU students.

The Fred Waldron Research Award was established in 1998 with the NDSU Development Foundation Board of Trustees to recognize outstanding faculty research. Candidates would be persons who have made consistent and excellent contributions to research and scholarship in their discipline over time. Nominations for this award must be submitted by academic deans.

Nomination forms can be downloaded at www.ndsu.edu/vpaa/info.shtml.

Awards notification is expected in early February 2008.

Red River Basin Documentaries broadcast

The NDSU Extension Service, in collaboration with the International Water Institute (IWI) and Prairie Public Broadcasting, presented the first public broadcast of the Red River Basin Documentaries on Nov. 3. The first documentary was titled "Surprise on the Prairie" and it was presented by the Larimore High School River Watch Team, Larimore, N.D.

NDSU Extension Service, the IWI and Prairie Public Broadcasting teamed up to provide watershed education to select high schools in the Red River Valley. Students from the schools have created half-hour documentaries about an aspect of the Red River of the North watershed. The program began three years ago, and the National Science Foundation Information Technology Experiences for Students and Teachers program provided funding.

The next broadcast, titled "A Water History of the Pembina Gorge," is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 10. The North Border High School River Watch Team, Walhalla, N.D., created the documentary.

Another broadcast titled "Storm Country" is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 17. The Stephen Argyle Central High School River Watch Team, Stephen, Minn., created the documentary.

For more information, contact Randy Wald at 1-7086 or randall.wald@ndsu.edu, Joe Courneya at 1-6184 or joe.courneya@ndsu.edu or Chuck Fritz at 1-9747 or charles.fritz@ndsu.edu.

PEOPLE

Wahl named department head

Thomas I. Wahl, professor in the School of Economic Sciences and director of the International Marketing Program for Agricultural Commodities and Trade (IMPACT) Center at Washington State University, Pullman, has been named head of the NDSU Department of Agribusiness and Applied Economics. Wahl began his new duties on Oct. 31.

"I am very pleased to be joining the department and look forward to getting to know the faculty, staff and students as well as NDSU and Fargo," said Wahl. "I am excited to be part a growing and dynamic department as we work together to develop research, teaching, extension and outreach programs that will help strengthen the department and benefit the state and region long into the future."

Wahl grew up on a crop and livestock farm in Northwest Iowa and farmed there for about 10 years before earning his bachelor's degree in agricultural business and doctorate in agricultural economics from Iowa State University. He has been a member of the WSU faculty since 1990 and has authored numerous articles and publications as well as presentations to academic and industry audiences.

He is a member of the board of directors of the Washington China Relations Council, executive committee chair of the International Agricultural Trade Research Consortium, and a board member of the international section of the American Agricultural Economics Association.

In addition, Wahl is a former co-editor of Review of Agricultural Economics and journal referee for the American Journal of Agricultural Economics, Journal of Agricultural and Resource Economics, Canadian Journal of Agricultural Economics, Review of Agricultural Economics, European Review of Agricultural Economics and Southern Journal of Agricultural Economics.

Wahl is a member of the American Agricultural Economics Association, International Agricultural Trade Research Consortium, Western Agricultural Economics Association, International Association of Agricultural Economists, International Food and Agribusiness Management Association, Australian Agricultural Economics Association, Pacific Basin Economic Council and Asia Pacific Economic Cooperation Study Centers Consortium.

Wahlbergs' farewell reception set

A farewell reception for David Wahlberg, executive director of strategic communications, and Kathleen Wahlberg, NDSU Bookstore textbook manager and assistant director of the textbook department, is scheduled for 2-4 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 13, in the Memorial Union Plains Room (south ballroom). A short program is set for 3 p.m.

David Wahlberg, who joined NDSU University Relations in 1992, has accepted the new position of vice president for marketing at Northland College, Ashland, Wis. His last day at NDSU is Nov. 21.

He earned his bachelor's degree at Minnesota State University Moorhead, and his master's and doctoral degrees in communication from NDSU.

Kathleen Wahlberg joined the NDSU Bookstore in 2000. She earned her bachelor's degree from Minnesota State University Moorhead and her MBA degree from NDSU.

The reception is sponsored by the Office of the Vice President for University Relations and the NDSU Bookstore.

Meester to retire from the College of Science and Mathematics

Meester

Charlotte Meester, administrative projects coordinator in the dean's office of the College of Science and Mathematics, is set to retire Nov. 15. An open house is scheduled for 2-3:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 14, in the Plains Room of the Memorial Union with a program scheduled for 2:30 p.m.

Meester began her career at NDSU in 1978 in the zoology and geology departments. She has worked the past 26 years in the dean's office with seven deans.

She received an Outstanding Staff Recognition Award in 2002 and was a 2005 recipient of the College Award for Distinguished Service.

"Char is such an important part of the College of Science and Mathematics. We are seriously worried about being able to continue operating smoothly without her," said Kevin McCaul, dean of science and mathematics.

Meester's plans are to do more reading, traveling, spend more time at their lake home and work on projects of her own.

Iwanicki, Morgan named to Academic All-District Team

Women's soccer players Becky Iwanicki and Monica Morgan were named to the CoSIDA Academic All-District Team on Nov. 1. Iwanicki was named to the District 7 First Team, while Morgan earned Second Team honors.

Iwanicki, a junior from Calgary, Alberta, is a biological sciences (Pre-Med) major and has a 4.00 grade point average. She also has served as the secretary for the Student-Athlete Advisory Council.

Morgan, a sophomore from Duncan, British Columbia, also is a biological sciences major and carries a 4.00 grade point average.

Reynold's research featured in BBC report

Reynolds

Research being conducted by Lawrence Reynolds, professor of animal and range sciences and co-director of the Center for Nutrition and Pregnancy, was featured in an article on the international version of the BBC News Web site.

The story, which featured Jacqueline Wallace of the Rowett Research Institute, Aberdeen, Scotland, said "pregnant adolescent sheep having small lambs may explain why teenage mothers have underweight babies, according to researchers."

The article said "the study has implications for managing the pregnancies of the high numbers of teenagers worldwide who are becoming pregnant before they have stopped growing," and it noted that the research "was conducted in collaboration with colleagues at North Dakota State University." Wallace is working with Reynolds and Dale Redmer, professor of animal and range sciences, on the research efforts to determine how nutrient intake affects birth weights in offspring from adolescent mothers, using sheep as a model.

The research was funded by the U.S. National Institutes of Health and the Scottish government. The BBC article appeared Sept. 19.

For more information, contact Reynolds at 1-7646 or larry.reynolds@ndsu.edu.

Swenson featured artist at Green Market

Swenson

David Swenson, associate professor of visual arts, is scheduled to host a meet and greet artist session from 2-5 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 10, at the Green Market on Northern Pacific Avenue, Fargo.

Swenson's areas of interest include ceramics, sculpture and furniture design. He focuses on how forms are represented in different materials, their function and how they occupy space. Swenson's work has been shown in several juried, invitational and touring exhibits throughout the nation.

For more information, contact David Swenson at david.swenson@ndsu.edu or 1-8691.

Croll gives talk in Chicago

Croll

Stuart Croll, professor of coatings and polymeric materials, gave an invited talk at the Chicago Institute of Art on Oct. 19.

He discussed how oil and alkyd paint technology advanced from 1930 onward. The presentation was part of a symposium titled "Crossing Boundaries: The Impact of House Paints on the Artist's Palette."

Croll's lecture also examined how modern artists have used house and industrial paints to achieve effects that are not easily done with conventional artists' oil paints. The focus of the symposium was how Picasso used early commercial paints in his work and the analytical work necessary to determine more exactly which materials had been used, not only from the point of view of art historians, but also for use by conservators when repairing or restoring artwork.

For more information, contact Croll at stuart.croll@ndsu.edu or 1-9415.

EVENTS

World iView talk scheduled

"International Mummy Studies: Unwrapping History," a presentation by Heather Gill-Robinson, assistant professor of sociology/anthropology, is scheduled for noon Thursday, Nov. 15, in the Memorial Union Prairie Rose Room. The presentation is part of the World iView speaker series.

Gill-Robinson was awarded a three-month faculty research visit grant from the Deutscher Akademischer Austausch Dienst, the German Academic Exchange Service, Bonn, Germany. Her research interest has been focused on investigation of a collection of six mummies and one skeleton from peat bogs in northern Germany.

She has been asked to offer her expertise on mummies and prehistoric peoples in Egypt, Germany, the United Kingdom, Canada and Switzerland. Mummy research takes place on an international scale, with human and animal mummies being found on every continent of the world. Gill-Robinson's research has taken her to more than 10 countries, and she will highlight some of her experiences as a researcher in the field of international mummy studies.

The World iView speaker series is sponsored by the Office of International Programs.

Records Management Task Force to hold seminar

The NDSU Records Management Task Force, in collaboration with staff from the records management division of the Information Technology Department, Bismarck, N.D., is scheduled to conduct a records management seminar from 1:30-3 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 15, at the Alumni Center, Reimers Room.

The seminar will educate records coordinators on a standard files management program, which can be used in the preparation of the records inventory for their departments. The seminar also will cover topics including best practices in files management, classification systems and managing electronic records.

Due to space limitations, registration is required. All records coordinators are encouraged to attend the seminar. For individuals who cannot attend, the PowerPoint presentation that will be presented at the seminar will be available at www.ndsu.edu/recordsmanagement. The presentation will be available prior to the meeting.

To register, contact Barry D. Miller, Audit and Advisory Services, at ndsu.recordsmanagement@ndsu.edu or 1-9413; Mike Robinson, Records Management Task Force co-chair, at michael.robinson@ndsu.edu or 1-1017; or John Bye, Records Management Task Force co-chair, at john.bye@ndsu.edu or 1-8877.

NDSU celebrates International Education Week

The U.S. State Department and the U.S. Department of Education have designated Nov. 12-16 as International Education Week. The NDSU Office of International Programs sponsors events scheduled to celebrate International Education Week. For more information, visit www.ndsu.edu/International or iew.state.gov/. Upcoming events at NDSU include:

Tuesday-Friday, Nov. 13-16

A study abroad informational booth is scheduled for 11 a.m.-2 p.m. in the main level of Memorial Union across from the NDSU Bookstore. Study abroad alums will be available to discuss their experiences. Information also will be available on current study abroad opportunities.

Tuesday, Nov. 13

Civil engineering students who went to China during spring break are scheduled to give a presentation titled "China Expedition 2007: A Student's Perspective," at noon in the Memorial Union Century Theatre.

The students traveled to China on a faculty-led study abroad program and will talk about their journey, which took them from Beijing to Shanghai. The students also will cover their experiences with the culture and some of the engineering details they learned while in China.

Wednesday, Nov. 14

A Peace Corps informational booth is scheduled for 9:30 a.m.-2:30 p.m. in the main level of Memorial Union across from the NDSU Bookstore.

A presentation titled "Learn about the Peace Corps" is scheduled for 4-5 p.m. in the Memorial Union Room of Nations. Brian Green, a regional recruiter, is scheduled to discuss the Peace Corps and about the life-changing benefits of the experience.

Campus Attractions sponsors the movie, "Bride and Prejudice," scheduled for 7 p.m. in the Memorial Union Century Theatre.

Thursday, Nov. 15

A passport drive is scheduled for 10 a.m.-2 p.m. in the Memorial Union Plains Ballroom. Participants can apply for a new passport or renew an old passport. For more information, go to www.ndsu.nodak.edu/International/PassportDrive.shtml.

Friday, Nov. 16

A faculty workshop titled "Building a Successful Short-term Study Abroad Program" is scheduled for 11 a.m. in the Memorial Union Prairie Room. The workshop is intended for faculty who are considering developing a program to lead students abroad. Presenters will discuss the program approval process, guidelines, budgeting, program models and tips and strategies for success. Office of International Programs staff Lisa Hauck and Sara Johnson are scheduled to deliver the presentation.

NDSU Little Country Theatre presents Chekhov's 'The Cherry Orchard'

The NDSU Little Country Theatre is scheduled to present Anton Chekhov's "The Cherry Orchard," a modern translation about how people define themselves in the face of change.

In the performance, the cherry orchard on Lyubov Andreyevna's family estate is the landscape of her heart and she is overjoyed to return home. She and her aristocratic relatives have become, like the orchard itself, elegant and purposeless holdovers from the past in a changing world. Andreyevna fritters her fortune and bankruptcy looms, jeopardizing her beloved trees. Chekhov's classic is a humorously ironic look at people who cannot—or will not—pay attention until it is too late.

"The Cherry Orchard" runs Nov. 14-18 in Askanase Auditorium. Show times are 7:30 p.m. Wednesday-Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday. Tickets are $12 for adults; $10 for seniors, NDSU faculty, staff, alumni and non-NDSU students; and $4 for NDSU students. To purchase tickets, contact the Fine Arts Box Office at 1-7969. More information is available at www.ndsu.edu/finearts.

The Little Country Theatre 2007-08 Season Flex Pass is on sale. It is good for four tickets that can be used in any combination for the season. The Flex Pass can be purchased at the NDSU Division of Fine Arts Box Office or by calling 1-7969. The cost is $40 per pass.

Great Plains Folk Festival to be held

Memory paintings from the French community of Olga, N.D., and Métis fiddle music from the Turtle Mountains are scheduled highlights of the Great Plains Folk Festival, planned for Nov. 13-16 at NDSU.

The Memorial Union Gallery is scheduled to open an exhibit of paintings by Leo Beauchamp at 2 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 13. A reception for the artist also is scheduled. Beauchamp, a stalwart of the arts organization known as the Brush Bunch in Walhalla, N.D., grew up in the nearby village of Olga, a French Catholic settlement. Now, as a memory painter, he says he is rebuilding Olga in oil paintings.

NDSU is scheduled to host the Parisien brothers—Vincent, Joe and Jimmy—on Thursday, Nov. 15. The Parisien brothers are fiddlers from Belcourt, N.D. At 2 p.m., they are scheduled to present "Turtle Mountain Traditions," with the students of History 431, "The North American Plains," in Bentson-Bunker 29. Persons interested in attending the presentation may call Tom Isern, professor of history and director of the Center for Heritage Renewal, at (701) 799-2942.

The Parisiens also are scheduled to present a concert, "Turtle Mountain Fiddle," at 7 p.m. in Beckwith Recital Hall.

Folk festival events will conclude with a History Department Colloquium at 3 p.m. Friday, Nov. 16, in the Memorial Union Gallery. Suzanne Kelley, a doctoral history student, is scheduled to present "Allen Sapp's Memory Art: Rural Living and the Red Pheasant Cree."

According to Isern, the Great Plains Folk Festival provides enrichment for students of History 431 and also serves to highlight the region's cultural heritage for the general public.

All events are free and open to the public. The festival is organized by NDSU's Center for Heritage Renewal in cooperation with the Department of History, the Division of Fine Arts and the Memorial Union Gallery. For more information, call Isern at (701) 799-2942, or visit the center's Web site at www.ndsu.edu/heritage.

SHORTS AND REMINDERS

Policy Updates

The following policies have recently been added or revised. To see the complete policy, go to www.ndsu.nodak.edu/policy/.

Policy 147: Leave Sharing Program

Language changed to be consistent with board policy.

Policy 164: Emergency Procedures

A reference and link has been added to 1.2 for the "Personal Safety and Security on the NDSU Campus" handbook. This replaces the reference to evacuation procedures that should be posted in each building.

Policy 350.1: Board Regulation on Academic Freedom and Tenure; Academic Appointments

The statement that all senior lecturer appointments are subject to approval of the State Board of Higher Education (SBHE) is being deleted from subsection 4.c.8. because there is no such SBHE requirement.

Policy 515: Travel

Part four changed due to 2007 legislative session changes to the mileage reimbursement rates. Mileage range changed from 37.5 to 45 cents per mile, effective Aug. 1. Part seven of this policy is revised, to change the in-state lodge rate limitation from $50 to $55. No meal rate changes. There also was a change in section 3.1 to correct department for out-of-state and international workers compensation coverage.

Policy 713: Records Retention

The Records Retention Schedule is still being revised, so changes were made to include contact information since the schedule is not on the accounting web page.

Policy 719: Audit and Advisory Services (formerly Internal Auditor)

The policy is being updated with the correct reporting information for the university internal auditor and with a name change for the office.

Policy 821: Personal Activity Confirmations

Updated policy allows for quarterly, rather than monthly, reporting.

Policy 822: Employee Activity Confirmations

Delete Policy 822. No longer a required procedure.
