

NDSU sets enrollment record

NDSU's fall 2006 enrollment has set a record for the seventh year in a row, with 12,258 students in its undergraduate and graduate programs. The official third week figure announced Sept. 13 is 159 more than one year ago.

In addition, NDSU graduate student enrollment reached an all-time high for the ninth consecutive year.

"Our continued growth in student enrollment, particularly in our graduate programs, is significant and exciting," said President Joseph A. Chapman. "We are growing as an institution because our programs meet the region's needs and wants. Students have a choice in furthering their education, and a growing number of them are choosing NDSU."

NDSU is seeing growth in all areas, including 2,076 new freshmen (an increase of 52 students), 733 undergraduate transfer students (13 more than last year) and 1,662 graduate students (59 above a year ago). NDSU's international student population also reached an all-time high enrollment of 675 students.

"We are elated with the enrollment figures. I am happy to report that we have experienced continuous growth with high admission standards and large graduating classes," said Prakash Mathew, vice president for student affairs, noting the quality of NDSU students. "In 1993, we moved from an open admission to a more selective admission standard, requiring a minimum 2.5 grade point average, 21 ACT score or 970 SAT score. In the fall of 2005, our freshman average ACT was 23.28, with an average grade point average of 3.38."

According to Mathew, NDSU's residence halls are beyond capacity. Initially, 51 students lived in a local motel and others had temporary accommodations on campus. Mathew said, all students living in the hotel are now on campus in permanent accommodations. He also notes that plans are underway for a second Living Learning Center to accommodate about 170 additional students.

"There is a deep sense of optimism and excitement on campus which reaffirms that we are moving in the right direction. Beyond reaching the enrollment goals, the students, faculty and staff feel a sense of purpose and momentum under President Chapman's leadership," Mathew said. "NDSU is an 'institution of choice' with regionally and nationally recognized academic programs."

NDSU receives beautification award from City of Fargo

The Fargo City Commission and Fargo Planning Commission presented NDSU with the first annual "Fargo Vision Award" in recognition of the university's ongoing efforts to beautify the campus.

Commissioners presented President Joseph A. Chapman and members of NDSU's arboretum committee with an engraved landscaping rock during the Sept. 13 planning commission meeting.

In addition, a resolution of appreciation was read by planning commission chair John Q. Paulsen.

Chapman thanked the members of the arboretum committee and other members of the university for a number of successful efforts to enhance the appearance of the campus.

Recent projects have included renovation of the campus main gate, the horticulture plots at the intersection of 12th Avenue and 18th Street and the hanging flower baskets found across the university.

Libraries advises of new SilverPlatter/Ovid client

NDSU Libraries advise researchers using WinSPIRS to access SilverPlatter/Ovid databases such as AGRICOLA, CAB Abstracts, Education Index, Inspec, SPORT Discus and Transport, that they need to download a new client before Nov. 1.

The Libraries recently moved its ERL/SilverPlatter/Ovid databases from a local server, WinSPIRS, to a server provided by OVID. The local server will be shut off Nov. 1.

Any users who currently use WinSPIRS as their primary client are strongly encouraged to switch to using the new WebSPIRS interface available at www.lib.ndsu.nodak.edu/spirsdst/. More detailed configuration instructions are available on the Libraries' homepage.

For more information, contact the Reference Desk at 1-8886, Nem Schlecht at nem.schlecht@ndsu.edu, or a subject librarian.

Technology Fee Advisory Committee seeks proposals

The Technology Fee Advisory Committee is seeking proposals for technology action plans that directly benefit and improve the quality of education and campus life of the NDSU student body. Faculty, staff and students are encouraged to propose projects by the 2 p.m. Monday, Oct. 2, deadline.

The committee solicits and reviews proposals, then recommends the allocation of funds to Craig Schnell, provost and vice president for academic affairs.

The committee is soliciting action plans that address broad areas of technology. Proposals specifically addressing innovative uses of technology related to improving instruction and student learning are encouraged.

Instructions and forms are available on the committee's Web site at www.ndsu.nodak.edu/tfac. Previous submitters should take note of revisions to the required proposal documentation. To receive consideration, 15 paper copies of the action plan should be submitted to the Technology Fee Advisory Committee, c/o NDSU Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs, Old Main 103. In addition, an electronic version should be sent to Jeffery.Gerst@ndsu.edu. Questions should be directed to Jeff Gerst, director of Information Technology Services, at 1-8349.

Equal opportunity, sexual harassment, anti-harassment policies annual notice

University policy on equal opportunity

NDSU is fully committed to equal opportunity in employment decisions, educational programs and activities in compliance with all applicable federal and state laws, including appropriate affirmative action efforts, for all individuals without regard to race, color, national origin, religion, sex, disability*, age, Vietnam Era Veterans status, sexual orientation, status with regard to marriage or public assistance, or participation in lawful activity off the employer's premises during non-working hours which is not in direct conflict with the essential business-related interests of the employer.

*Otherwise qualified individuals with disabilities (as defined in the Americans with Disabilities Act and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act), requiring reasonable accommodation, are invited to identify themselves to their supervisor or course instructor.

University policy on sexual harassment

As part of its commitment to equal opportunity, NDSU prohibits sexual harassment of its employees and students, including student-to-student and other peer sexual harassment. This policy is in compliance with federal regulations implementing Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972.

Sexual harassment is defined as:

"Unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors and other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature constitute sexual harassment when 1) submission to such conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly a term or condition of an individual's employment or academic achievement; 2) submission to or rejection of such conduct by an individual is used as the basis for employment decisions or academic decisions affecting such individual; or 3) such conduct has the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with an individual's work or academic performance or creating an intimidating, hostile or offensive environment." Sexual harassment in electronic forms also is prohibited under NDSU Policy 710-Computer Facilities.

Individuals concerned about violations of this policy should request assistance from the university's director of equity and diversity, the university's general counsel, the Counseling and Disability Services Office, the associate director for student rights and responsibilities or an appropriate administrator. When administrators or supervisors become aware of occurrences of sexual harassment in their areas, they are responsible for stopping the behavior or reporting it to the director of equity and diversity. In addition, the university's equal opportunity grievance procedure shall be available for any person who wishes to file a complaint alleging a violation of this policy.

NDSU also prohibits harassment based on gender, race, color, religion, national origin, age, disability, sexual orientation or protected activity (such as reporting alleged harassment or providing information related to a grievance). This policy is in compliance with federal civil rights laws and agency regulations and guidance implementing these laws.

Harassment, based on an individual's membership in one or more of the groups previously identified, is defined, for the purposes of this policy, as unwelcome verbal or physical behavior which has the intent or effect of unreasonably interfering with the individual's employment or academic endeavors, or creating a hostile, intimidating or offensive environment. Harassment may include, but is not limited to, jokes, derogatory comments, pictures and/or other direct physical advances.

Employees and students also should be aware of the university's policy on Consensual Relationships (Policy 162.1) found at www.ndsu.nodak.edu/policy/.

These policies have been approved by the university president. Any inquiries concerning the application of such laws or these policies to the university's practices may be referred to the appropriate federal compliance agency or to Sandra Holbrook, director of equity and diversity, at 1-7703 or Sandra.Holbrook@ndsu.edu.

Pharmacy holds 'white coat ceremony'

Students accepted into the College of Pharmacy, Nursing and Applied Sciences' professional program fall semester were recognized at the college's annual white coat ceremony held Saturday, Sept. 16, in Bentson Bunker Fieldhouse.

According to Charles Peterson, dean of pharmacy, nursing and applied sciences, the ceremony is an opportunity to welcome students into the profession of pharmacy and to instill an attitude of professionalism including honesty, integrity and moral character.

"They begin their careers with us by taking an oath and making a commitment to the public, the profession and to their future patients in accepting the roles and responsibilities of a pharmacist as being one of the most trusted health care professionals," Peterson said. "It is also a time to celebrate with family and friends their success of being admitted into our professional program."

Hauck receives "Trees Award" for distinguished leadership

NDSU Extension Service director Duane Hauck, and 13 other "Trees Award" winners from across North Dakota were recognized at the Tree Bowl and awards ceremony held Saturday, Sept. 16, at the Fargodome. Hauck received the award for distinguished leadership.

Award winners are recognized by NDSU and the North Dakota Forest Service for their extraordinary efforts in tree planting and care; preservation or maintenance; community forestry efforts; forest management practices; forest recreation; environmental education; or fire mitigation, protection and suppression activities.

Recipients received a plaque and centennial print, and also were recognized during halftime at the Trees Bowl football game.

Laschkewitsch receives 'Prairie Garden' excellence award

Laschkewitsch

Barbara Laschkewitsch, research specialist in plant science, was selected as a recipient of the 2006 Prairie Garden Award for Excellence. Prairie Garden is a gardening annual of western Canada.

The award is given to an individual or group making a significant contribution to the advancement and/or promotion of horticulture on the Northern Great Plains. Areas of involvement may include community activity, plant introduction or breeding, preservation of horticultural sites, teaching, research, extension or photography. Winners receive a cash prize and inscribed plaque.

In a letter of nomination submitted by Al Schneiter, professor of plant sciences, Laschkewitsch was recognized for her diverse responsibilities at NDSU, her position as lead horticulturalist for NDSU's new horticultural research and demonstration gardens, her floral design classes, and presentations to garden groups visiting campus and across the state.

"Barb has a tremendous responsibility thrust on her," said Schneiter. "It is basically the promotion of and increasing the public's awareness of horticulture and the beauty that can abound in the Northern Great Plains. She has a true love for and a dedication to horticulture and to making the world a more beautiful place."

Retirement open house for John Enz planned

Enz

A retirement open house for John Enz, professor of soil science, is scheduled for 2-4 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 21, in the Alumni Center. A program is set for 2:30 p.m. Enz plans to retire effective Sept. 30 after 29 years at NDSU.

A native of Green Bay, Wis., Enz came to NDSU in 1977 as an assistant professor and agricultural climatologist in soil science. He was appointed North Dakota state climatologist in 1978, and was promoted to professor in 1989.

Enz taught introduction to climatology and meteorology, and microclimatology. His research involved studying the effects of weather and climate on agriculture. He established the North Dakota Agricultural Weather Network (NDAWN) in 1989 to provide detailed weather data for agriculture.

Enz received his bachelor's degree in mathematics at the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point and his master's and doctoral degrees in microclimatology from the University of Minnesota.

Enz is a member of the American Meteorological Society, American Association of State Climatologists, American Society of Agronomy, Soil Science Society of America, American Association for the Advancement of Science and Sigma Xi. He and his wife, Barb, plan to remain in the Fargo area.

Communications faculty publications listed

Tim Sellnow, professor of communication and director of NDSU's risk crisis communication project, is co-author of "Effective Crisis Communication" Moving from Crisis to Opportunity, a book defining crisis communication, providing information about managing crisis uncertainty, and effective crisis communication and leadership. The book applies lessons to actual crisis events, including the 1997 Red River flood.

"Rejuvenating Nature in Commercial Culture and the Implications of the Green Commodity Forum," an article by Mark Meister, associate professor of communication, and graduate students Kristen Chamberlain and Amanda Brown, recently was published in The Environmental Communication Yearbook. Much of the analysis is focused on "green" advertising, marketing and the cosmetics industry.

Judy Pearson, associate dean of communication, and graduate student Jeff Child, have published their article "A Cross-Cultural Comparison of Parental and Peer Attachment Styles Among Adult Children from the United States, Puerto Rico and India," in The Journal of Intercultural Communication Research.

"Crisis Leadership and Hurricane Katrina: The Portrayal of Authority by the Media in Disasters," a manuscript by Robert Littlefield, professor of communication, and graduate student Andrea Quenette, was accepted for publication in a special issue of the Journal of Applied Communication Research.

In addition, Littlefield has been selected for induction into the Pi Kappa Delta national hall of fame. Pi Kappa Delta is an honorary forensics fraternity for collegiate competitors and coaches. The sole inductee for 2007, Littlefield will be honored at the organization's national convention scheduled for March at Central Michigan University.

Events

IT security conference scheduled

"IT Security: A Call to Action for the Education Community," the third annual K-20 IT security conference for education and IT professionals, is scheduled for Nov. 1-2, at the Ramada Plaza Suites, Fargo.

Sponsored by NDSU Information Technology Services and EduTech, the conference is intended to increase awareness of the associated risks of computer and network use in an academic setting with an emphasis on leadership and the end-users of technology. The conference will include presentations, panel discussions, information booths and vendor visitation.

Registration is available online at www.ndsu.edu/itsecurity. For more information, contact Theresa Semmens, NDSU IT security officer, at 1-5870; Jody French, EduTech director, at 1-7208; or Dick Jacobson, NDUS security officer, at 1-7385.

United Way seeks volunteers for 'Day of Caring'

Volunteers are needed for the 15th annual Day of Caring sponsored by United Way of Cass-Clay, scheduled for Thursday, Oct. 12. Registration, lunch and assignment information will start at 11:30 a.m., with services project running from 1-5 p.m.

Day of Caring is designed to allow teams of three to five people from area businesses to assist local senior citizens with a variety of projects including raking, helping residents prepare their homes for winter or cleaning. Possible service projects are detailed on the United Way Web site at www.uwcc.net/who/doc.

NDSU faculty, staff and students are invited to participate. Staff members who choose to participate will need to use vacation hours for the time that they are away from work. Registration is due by Sept. 29. Anyone interested in participating, should contact Bonnie Cooper at 1-7771 or Bonnie.Cooper@ndsu.edu.

Conference of professional issues related to GLBTQ scheduled

NDSU and the Northern Plains Ethics Institute (NPEI) are among the sponsors of the 14th annual Conference on Professional Issues Related to Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual and Transgender People and their Families, scheduled for Oct. 27, at the Courtyard by Marriott, Moorhead. This year's theme is "Helping Professionals Work with GLBTQ People and Their Families."

Debra Davis, executive director of the Gender Education Center, is scheduled to be the keynote speaker. In her talk, "The Changing Face of Diversity—Transgender: Building Communities of Respect and Dignity," she will discuss language related to gender identity and the paradigms of gender. Davis also will describe her involvement with legal and policy issues involving transgender people.

The conference's mission is to create, maintain and nurture an affirming environment for GLBTQ people and their families. Organizers encourage professionals in education, social work, personnel, religion, chemical dependency, counseling and the law to attend.

NPEI, directed by John Helgeland, also will serve as chair of the conference. Other conference sponsors include Minnesota State University Moorhead, Concordia College, Tri-College University, CHARIS Ecumenical Center, Dual College 10 Percent Society, High Plains Reader, Microsoft, Minnkota Center, PFLAG of Fargo-Moorhead, Plains Art Museum, The Pride Collective and Community Center, St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Women's Network of the Red River Valley, YWCA of Cass-Clay and Zandbroz Variety Store.

NDSU personnel who are members of the conference planning committee include Dennis Cooley, associate professor of philosophy and ethics and NPEI associate director, and Kara Stack, assistant director for service learning and civic engagement.

For more information, contact David Hamilton at hamilton@cord.edu.

Meningitis immunization clinic for students scheduled

Student Health Services has scheduled a meningitis immunization clinic for students for 1-7 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 28, in the Memorial Union Prairie Rose Room. The immunization is recommended for all first-year students who plan to live in residence halls and fraternity or sorority houses.

The cost is $95 and payment may be made by cash, check or billing to the student's account. No appointment is necessary. Students unable to attend the clinic may schedule an appointment to receive the vaccination at any time by calling Student Health Services at 1-7331. Students under age 18 as of Sept. 29 will need completed informed consent forms before they can receive the vaccine. The form is available at Student Health Services.

The immunizations are not available to faculty and staff.

Pharmacy and nursing career fair set

The College of Pharmacy, Nursing and Allied Sciences has scheduled a career fair for 10 a.m.-3 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 21, at the Fargodome. The college's scholarship recognition program is scheduled for 3-5 p.m. The career fair is open to the public.

More than 70 health care employers representing all areas of professional practice in pharmacy and nursing are expected to participate, offering information on various career opportunities. College representatives also will be available. Area high school juniors and seniors who are considering a health-related career and their parents are encouraged to attend.

"Our career fair provides a wonderful opportunity for our students to see all that is available for them for careers in pharmacy and nursing in one convenient location," said Charles Peterson, dean of pharmacy, nursing and allied sciences. "We want our students to be thinking about their career options early on in their academic endeavors and involve their parents in the career seeking and decision making process."

Free parking is available at the Fargodome. For more information, contact Cynthia Hanson at 1-6461 or Cynthia.Hanson@ndsu.nodak.edu.

'Marketplace for Entrepreneurs' planned

"Marketplace for Entrepreneurs" organizing sponsors Sen. Kent Conrad and Agriculture Commissioner Roger Johnson have scheduled a session to brainstorm Marketplace ideas with NDSU faculty and staff for 8:30 a.m. Tuesday, Sept. 26, in the Alumni Center.

The organizers and/or their staff members plan to attend the session. D.C. Coston, vice president for agriculture and university extension, will host the NDSU meeting.

R.S.V.P.s are requested by Sept. 22 to (888) 384-8410 or marketplace11@btinet.net.

"Marketplace for Entrepreneurs," economic development conference for experts, facilitators and current and potential entrepreneurs, is scheduled for Wednesday, Jan. 19, at the Fargodome. For more information, visit www.marketplaceforentrepreneurs.org.

'Advising as Teaching' Web conference scheduled

"Advising as Teaching," a Webinar on academic advising as a teaching and learning process, is planned for 1 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 26, in the Memorial Union Peace Garden Room. The event is presented by the National Academic Advising Association (NACADA), and the scheduled presenter is Nancy S. King, vice president for student success and enrollment services at Kennesaw State University.

Webinar participants learn about academic advising as a teaching and learning process that includes curriculum, pedagogy and learning outcomes. Planned presentation topics include the definition of academic advising, developmental theories related to academic advising, goals of academic advising that contribute to the teaching/learning mission, responsibilities of advisers and advisees, the role of adviser as teacher, conversations between advisers and students, and suggestions for maximizing adviser-student interaction.

The event is sponsored by the College of University Studies. Registration is limited. For more information or to register, contact Carolyn Schnell, director of university studies, at 1-7014.

Healthy eating brown bag seminar set

"You Are What You Eat," a brown bag seminar sponsored by the YMCA of NDSU, is set for noon Wednesday, Sept. 27, in the Memorial Union Peace Garden Room.

The scheduled presenter is Cindy Kloekner, wellness consultant and co-owner of Total Balance Fitness, Fargo. Kloekner will discuss the seriousness and responsibility people have as "body owners," including information on whole foods and "real foods," where to shop in grocery stores and what measures people can take to keep healthy.

The event also is sponsored by women's studies. For more information, call 1-5225.

'What Color is Your Food?' workshop set

Julie Garden-Robinson, associate professor and Extension food and nutrition specialist, will present "What Color is Your Food?" at 10 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 4, and again at 3 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 5, in the Memorial Union Century Theater.

The presentations will examine the benefits of fruits and vegetables as part of an overall healthy diet.
