NDSU is taking steps to assist students displaced by Hurricane Katrina continue with their studies. To date, the university has had inquiries from four students looking for alternatives to storm-closed universities and additional contact is anticipated.

For students displaced by Hurricane Katrina, NDSU will waive application and matriculation fees, waive first term tuition and assess in-state tuition for the second term. In addition, university housing will be made available as space permits and, as needed, the university will work with the greater community to locate off-campus housing. Regular room and board rates will apply for on-campus housing.

“We will also provide a condensed orientation and support resources through our Office of Orientation and Student Success,” said Catherine Haugen, dean of Enrollment Management. “We will work with faculty to find classes for both graduate and undergraduate students and work on a case-by-case basis so these students can continue with their studies until their home campuses can again offer classes.”

Using new national standards to assist displaced students, NDSU Student Financial Services will help students who have been awarded financial aid at their original campus access that aid. Information for displaced students will be available at www.ndsu.edu or by contacting Haugen at 1-7052.

ITS warns of Katrina Internet scams

Several new Internet scams promising news and relief opportunities about Hurricane Katrina are circulating, according to Information Technology Services.

Some scams appear as e-mails claiming to contain news and photos of Katrina's devastation or promising donations to those affected by the hurricane. The attachments and links to the “full news story” in these e-mails may be malicious and may exploit computer vulnerabilities. Clicking the links or opening the attachments included in the e-mail can give an attacker complete control of the targeted computer.

ITS also has reported “chain letters” hoaxes that claim a certain monetary amount will be donated to hurricane relief for every copy of the e-mail forwarded. Scammers may be using these forwards to build new e-mail lists for spamming and phishing.

A report by the Washington Post stated that several fraudulent Web sites have been established claiming to be hurricane relief organizations requesting charitable donations. ITS advises that any financial information provided to those sites may be used for identity theft, and the money “donated” may be collected by scammers.

Internet users can protect their personal and financial information and their computers, while retaining the ability to donate to disaster relief by visiting only trustworthy news sites, and never opening attachments from unsolicited e-mail. Users also are advised not to reply to e-mails or pop-up messages asking for personal information, to click any links in the messages, to respond to an e-mail request for a donation or to send personal or financial information to anyone through e-mail.

ITS also advises that Internet users keep their antivirus software updated. Antivirus software is available for download at http://its.ndsu.nodak.edu/software\_licensing/software\_index.shtml.

Advertising partnership announced

The NDSU Career Center and the Cooperative Education Program have announced a partnership with Bobcat Co. for a billboard advertising campaign. Two Fargo billboards, located in the 400 block of North University Drive and near the 12th Avenue North bridge, will promote Cooperative Education.

Ann Sitzmann, Cooperative Education coordinator, said, "We are very excited about this partnership. Bobcat is a very active employer participant in our program, utilizing 96 co-op work placements for 2004-05 school year throughout all of their locations."

According to Jill Wilkey, Career Center director, the NDSU Co-op program had more than 540 work placements during 2004-05, an increase of 23 percent over the previous year.

"The billboards have been strategically placed to draw students' attention to an excellent opportunity to gain valuable work experience through the Career Center's Cooperative Education program," Wilkey said. "Bobcat recognizes the benefits of a responsible Cooperative Education experience to students and continues to be a valuable partner to the Co-op program. The Career Center is grateful to all the employers of NDSU students in the Co-op program."

Cooperative Education jobs at NDSU are career-related, paid work experiences taken for credit.

Libraries offer

'Opposing Viewpoints' database

The Opposing Viewpoints Resource Center (OVRC) database providing information on various social issues is now available from the NDSU Libraries.

OVRC includes information on issues such as gun control, genetic engineering, censorship, endangered species and terrorism. It brings together viewpoint articles, contextual topic overviews, statistics, social activists' biographies, primary documents, court cases, agency and special interest group profiles, newspaper and magazines articles and links to more than 1,800 reviewed and subject-indexed Web sites.

The center takes its name from the renowned Opposing Viewpoints print series published by Greenhaven Press.

The database may be accessed from a link on the NDSU Libraries' database Web page. Off-campus users may access the databases through the "My Library" login link on the Libraries home page. For more information, call the Reference Desk at 1-8886.

Finalists named for vice president position

Five finalists have been named for the position of NDSU's vice president for business and finance. George Wallman, vice president for student affairs and search committee chair, made the announcement Sept. 8.

The finalists include Bruce Bollinger, director of NDSU's Agriculture Budget Office; Thomas Faecke, director of finance and administration for Higher Colleges of Technology, Abu Dhabi, United Arab Emirates; Stacie Heiden, chief financial officer for Innovis Health, Fargo; Leonard Kogut Jr., senior associate controller at the University of Kentucky, Lexington, Ky.; and Sheila Peterson, director of the Fiscal Management Division of the North Dakota Office of Management and Budget, Bismarck, N.D.

"This is an outstanding list of candidates, and I look forward to their visits to campus," said President Joseph A. Chapman. Chapman will select a new vice president from the list. "I deeply appreciate the fine work of the search committee."

According to Wallman, the candidates will visit NDSU for interviews and an open forum beginning the week of Sept. 19, with the last visit completed by the end of October. "We started with a pool of over 50 applicants. It is one of the strongest pools that I have worked with, and it is very diverse. Our finalists are all outstanding individuals with diverse experience within and outside higher education," he said.

Bollinger is responsible for assisting in the development of the biennial budgets for NDSU's agricultural and extension activities. He joined NDSU in 1987, and has held a number of positions, including director of Restricted Fund Accounting and director of Cost Accounting. Bollinger earned bachelor's and master's degrees from NDSU. His professional affiliations include membership in the National Association of College and University Business Officers and the Society of Research Administrators.

Faecke serves as the chief financial and technology officer for a system of 12 colleges located throughout the United Arab Emirates. He previously was the vice president for administrative affairs at Bemidji State University, Bemidji, Minn., and controller at Washington State University, Pullman. He earned a bachelor's degree at Bemidji State University and a master's degree from Sonoma State University, Rohnert Park, Calif.

Heiden joined Innovis Health in 2000, after serving as operations finance director for Banner Health System, Fargo. A Certified Public Accountant, Heiden earned a bachelor's degree from NDSU. Heiden is a member of the American College of Healthcare Executives, North Dakota Hospital Association, North Dakota State Society of CPAs and Healthcare Financial Management Association.

Kogut is responsible for the oversight of accounts payable, benefit financial management, financial systems and payroll at the University of Kentucky. His previous work experience includes positions as controller at Western Kentucky University, Bowling Green, Ky., and auxiliary enterprises director at Ferris State University, Big Rapids, Mich. He is a Certified Public Accountant and Certified Internal Auditor. Kogut earned his bachelor's degree at Ferris State University, his master's degree at Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant, and his doctorate at Michigan State University, East Lansing.

Peterson has worked for the Office of Management and Budget since 1988. As director of fiscal management, her principal responsibility is to develop the governor's budget and present it to the legislature. She earned bachelor's and master's degrees from NDSU. Her honors include the Institute of Certified Professional Managers 2005 National Certified Manager of the Year, the National Association of State Budget Officers Gloria Timmer Award in 2001 and the National Management Association Dakota West Chapter Manager of the Year in 1993.

Chapman said he would like the position filled as soon as possible after Jan. 1.

Presentations scheduled for Geological Society annual meeting

An NDSU faculty member and a student are scheduled to make presentations at the annual meeting of Geological Society of America Oct. 16-19, in Salt Lake City.

Peter Oduor, assistant professor of geosciences, is scheduled to present "Transport and Fate of Ionic Organo-Macromolecules in Dead-End Hyperfiltration."

Senior Andrew Podoll is scheduled to present "Optical Dating Properties of Kieserite: An Important Accessory Mineral in Martian Sediments."

Approximated 6,200 geoscientists are expected to attend.

Mueller assists with young artists' summer program

Neil Mueller, assistant professor of music, recently served as director of brass activities for high school students in the Boston University Tanglewood Institute's summer young artists' orchestra program in Lenox, Mass. Mueller also performed in the Boston University faculty recital series and the Marlboro, Vt., Festival Orchestra.

Katti gives presentation at biomechanics symposium

Kalpana Katti, associate professor of civil engineering and construction management, presented "Investigating the Role of Molecular Interactions on Mechanics of Bone Biomaterials: Molecular Dynamics and Fourier Transform Infrared Spectroscopic Studies," at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology's conference on computational fluid and solid mechanics held recently in Boston.

The presentation featured Katti's recent work on interfacial molecular behavior in composites for bone replacement through molecular dynamics simulations, and the specific nature of interactions between polymers and minerals used in composites for bone replacement.

A new "synthetic biomineralization" process that mimics the mineralization of natural bone also was investigated.

EduTech support team earns national recognition

EduTech's North Dakota PowerSchool support team recently was recognized as the first ever PowerSchool Distinguished Customer by Apple Computer Inc.'s PowerSchool. The four-person team is led by Don Simon, PowerSchool director in Information Technology Services.

PowerSchool is a Web-based student information system that simplifies data-driven decision-making by providing real-time information over the Internet. The North Dakota team is responsible for the implementation, training and support of PowerSchool in North Dakota.

The award was given to the team as "a testament to the level of esteem Apple Computer has for the work the team has accomplished," and in recognition of North Dakota as the only state with an implementation and support team.

North Dakota team members each received a certificate and will participate in the PowerSchool reference program, promote the product to future customers and participate in application trials. Other team members are Melissa Bitz and Jane Hovda, Valley City, and Sarah McFadden, Killdeer.

PowerSchool is present in 50 states and some foreign countries, with approximately 5,000 school districts participating. All districts except North Dakota's receive support directly from organization, which is based in Folsom, Calif.

EduTech began supporting PowerSchool in North Dakota in 2002, with two schools using the system. A total of 69 North Dakota schools now use the system.

Business administration announces new faculty members

The College of Business Administration has added three faculty members, effective fall semester. Jianxin "Daniel" Chi and Jeffrey Stinson have joined the department of management, marketing and finance, and Byunghwan Lee has joined the department of accounting and information systems.

Chi, assistant professor of finance, received a doctorate from Texas A&M University, a master's degree from Idaho State University and a bachelor's degree in economics from Qingdao University, China. He teaches principles of finance and management of financial institutions. Chi's interests include corporate finance, investments, financial markets and institutions, and his research includes corporate finance, corporate governance and econometrics in corporate finance. He is a member of the Financial Management Association and Beta Gamma Sigma. Prior to joining NDSU, he was a finance instructor at Texas A&M.

Stinson, associate professor of marketing, received a doctorate from the University of Oregon, a master's degree in business administration from the University of Minnesota and a bachelor's degree from Bemidji State University, Bemidji, Minn. Stinson's research interests include charitable giving, sports marketing, sponsorship and social marketing. Previously Stinson was a corporate development manager for the National Multiple Sclerosis Society and as sport program manager for Special Olympics Minnesota. He teaches foundations of marketing and marketing strategy.

Lee, assistant professor of accounting, received a doctorate and a master's degree from the University of Houston, an executive master's degree in business administration from the American Graduate School of International Management and a bachelor's degree in economics from Seoul National University, Korea. Prior to joining NDSU, Lee was a lecturer at the University of Houston and spent several years on the management teams of SK Global Co. Ltd. and the SK Group in Korea.

Events

'Distressed Students' brown bag set

"Helping Distressed Students," a brown bag seminar sponsored by the YMCA of NDSU, is scheduled for noon Wednesday, Sept. 21, in the Memorial Union Prairie Rose Room.

Heidi Frie, counselor at the NDSU Counseling Center, will address mental health issues among college students and the number of reported students experiencing depression and thoughts of suicide. The session will provide detailed information to help faculty, staff and fellow students respond to students in distress. For more information, call 1-5225.

Little Country Theatre season schedule announced

The Little Country Theatre has announced its production schedule for the 2005-06 academic year.

"Fortinbras"

by Lee Blessing

7:30 p.m. Oct. 6-8 and Oct. 13-15; 2 p.m. Oct. 9

Askanase Auditorium

As Shakespeare's tragic hero utters his last words at the end of "Hamlet," enter young Fortinbras of Norway. A modern man of action, Fortinbras devises the best possible media blitz to legitimize his ascension to the throne of Denmark while balancing an array of ghosts with a disastrous invasion of Poland.

A series of student-directed one-act plays is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 17-Saturday, Nov. 19, in Walsh Studio Theatre. NDSU theater students direct the plays that include Edward Albee's "Zoo Story" and "The Intruder" by Maurice Maeterlinck.

"A Chorus Line"

by Michael Bennett

7:30 p.m. Feb. 15-18; 1 p.m. Feb. 19

Festival Concert Hall

"A Chorus Line" is a musical about the grueling audition process for a Broadway production, and focuses on the lives of the eager actors, singers and dancers hoping to live out their dreams on stage.

"Peer Gynt"

by Henrik Ibsen

7:30 p.m. April 6-8 and April 13-14; 2 p.m. April 9

Askanase Auditorium

The action, flavor, atmosphere and characters in "Peer Gynt" are lifted from Norwegian folklore in this satirical view of the human condition. The spirited, earthy comic tone of the play made Ibsen internationally famous, and NDSU's production is presented in recognition of the 100th anniversary of the playwright's death.

More information is available online at www.ndsu.edu/finearts. For ticket information, call the box office at 1-9442.

State Employee Recognition Week activities set

North Dakota Gov. John Hoeven has proclaimed Sept. 12-16 as State Employees Recognition Week. Fargo events include a four-person golf scramble.

"State employees work hard every day on behalf of North Dakota's citizens, providing quality services and ensuring that the state operates efficiently," Hoeven said. "State Employees Recognition Week is a great opportunity to recognize state employees for their dedication and service, and to thank them for a job well done."

The golf scramble is scheduled for 1 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 14, at Maple River Golf Course, Mapleton, N.D., with sign-up time set for noon. Registration is $40 and includes 18 holes of golf with cart and a steak dinner. For more information, contact Terry Beyer at 1-6001 or terry.beyer@sendit.nodak.edu.

For more information on other activities during the week, contact Sharon Morgan at 1-7739 or Sharon.Morgan@ndsu.edu.

Engineering and Tech Expo planned

The NDSU Career Center will sponsor the seventh annual Engineering and Tech Expo, scheduled for 10 a.m.-3 p.m. Friday, Sept. 23, at the Bison Sports Arena.

The expo offers an opportunity for employers to connect with engineering and technology students in a casual business environment, and build relationships with students searching for Cooperative Education assignments and full-time employment. More than 100 employers are registered for the event, and about 1,400 students are expected to participate.

"We are seeing a nice increase in the number of employer registrations this year," said Joel Hanson, Career Center assistant director, noting that several of the employers have not previously recruited at NDSU. "We continue to hear feedback from employers about how impressed they are with the quality of students at NDSU and the contributions that they are making in the workplace."

Last year's expo attracted approximately 1,100 students in engineering, architecture, Management Information Systems and computer science. They met with representatives of 90 employers.

For more information, contact Hanson at 1-8468 or visit www.ndsu.edu/careercenter.

Student meningitis immunization clinic set

Student Health Services has scheduled a meningitis immunization clinic for students for 1-7 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 29, in the Memorial Union Ballroom. The immunization is recommended for all first year students who plan to live in residence halls and fraternity or sorority houses.

The cost is $90 and payment may be made by cash, check or billing to the student's account. No appointment is necessary. Students unable to attend the clinic may schedule an appointment to receive the vaccination at any time by calling Student Health Services at 1-7331. Students under age 18 as of Sept. 29 will need a completed informed consent form, available from Student Health Services, before they can receive the vaccine.

The immunizations are not available to faculty and staff.

Volunteer Extravaganza set

A Volunteer Extravaganza, sponsored by the NDSU Volunteer Network, is scheduled for 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 21, in the Memorial Union Alumni Lounge.

Community service agencies from the Fargo-Moorhead area will promote volunteer opportunities within their organizations. Faculty members offering a service or service-learning option in their classes are encouraged to announce the event to their classes.

Agencies scheduled to participate in this year's event include FirstLink Volunteer Center, Plains Art Museum, Innovis Health and Bethany Homes.

For more information, contact Melissa Wright at 1-7350.

Radiation safety, lab and chemical safety courses scheduled

Two separate classes of "Laboratory Use of Radioactive Material" have been scheduled for 8 a.m.-2 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 20, and 11 a.m.-5 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 27, in the Memorial Union Prairie Room.

The course is designed for new or potential users of radioactive materials in the laboratory or field applications. It also serves as a refresher course for anyone currently using radioactive materials. Topics include basic theory of radioactivity, biological interactions with radiation, radiation protection, minimizing exposure level, rules and regulations, and safe handling, decontamination and laboratory procedures. The instructor is Gary Stolzenberg, radiation safety officer.

Course fee is $25 for NDSU and cooperative agreement institutions, and $50 for all others. Participants should bring a scientific calculator.

In addition, laboratory and chemical safety courses are scheduled for 8 a.m.-noon, Thursday, Sept. 15, and noon-4 p.m. Monday, Sept. 19, in FLC 319. The course is required for new laboratory workers, and serves as a refresher course for anyone currently working in laboratories.

Topics will include knowledge about chemicals, personal protection, fire safety, electrical safety, hazard communication standards, physical and chemical hazards, chemical spills and waste handling. There is no fee. The instructor is Ted Jirik.

To register for any of the courses, contact stephanie.wegner@ndsu.edu or call 1-7759.

Neuroscience conference scheduled

The NDSU Center for Visual Neuroscience (CVN) has scheduled a half-day conference at 1 p.m. Friday, Sept. 16, in the Alumni Center.

Presentations will highlight and stimulate discussion of new research in visual and cognitive neuroscience by CVN faculty and other researchers.

Scheduled speakers include Robert Gordon, assistant professor of psychology; Linda Langley, assistant professor of psychology; Chris Friesen, assistant professor of psychology; Mark Brady, assistant professor of psychology; Stephane Rainville, assistant professor of psychology; Wolfgang Teder-Salejarvi, assistant professor of psychology; Dan Kersten, University of Minnesota; Patricia Reuter-Lorenz, University of Michigan; Arthur Kramer, University of Illinois; and John Foxe, City University of New York.

The center is funded by a grant from the National Institutes of Health's Center for Biomedical Research Excellence Program. For more information, visit www.cvn.psych.ndsu.nodak.edu. For special accommodations requests, call 1-5676.
