

NDSU joins Great West Football Conference

Great West conference logo

NDSU is among seven institutions to establish the new Great West Football Conference. The NCAA Division I-AA football alliance is scheduled to begin competition in 2004, with full round-robin play set to begin during the 2005 season.

In addition to NDSU, charter conference members include California Polytechnic State University; University of California, Davis; University of Northern Colorado; St. Mary's College of California;

South Dakota State University; and Southern Utah University. Administrative services will be provided through a contract with the Mid-Continent Conference office.

President Joseph A. Chapman said, "Every unit across the NDSU campus has been asked to find ways to move to the next level, and for Bison Athletics, that step is NCAA Division I. The announcement is another indication that NDSU is becoming a model of the contemporary metropolitan land-grant university. It is another important development for NDSU's efforts to grow, progress and transform."

At a Feb. 25 news conference, Gene Taylor, director of athletics, said the conference has applied for formal recognition by the NCAA, which is expected to consider the application in April. "This league ultimately will be one of the finer leagues in Division I-AA football. If you do things right in your league and beat teams outside your league, you're going to have an opportunity to qualify for the I-AA playoffs," Taylor said.

According to Taylor, the conference plans to award several honors, including Great West All-Conference and Academic All-Conference teams, Player of the Year and Coach of the Year.

Head football coach Craig Bohl said it is exciting and challenging for his team to compete against excellent football programs. "This is a great day," he said. "This is an example of forward-thinking institutions that are moving forward. NDSU is certainly at the cutting edge in a lot of ways—this is another example of our administration's vision. We are excited about the opportunity."

The seven member schools are located in five states and three time zones, which is anticipated to give schools added exposure. The conference affiliation also is expected to generate interest within the schools' alumni base, which has a combined total of more than 400,000 people.

NDSU Libraries gains additional e-journals

NDSU now has access to 189 additional scholarly electronic journals published by Wiley Interscience. The additions include publications in business, chemistry, computer science, education, engineering, life sciences, mathematics, polymers, psychology and social sciences.

The electronic versions can be found through the e-journals link in the online catalog. A list of available titles is available at www.lib.ndsu.nodak.edu/databases/pub\_agg.php. Users also may search for subjects directly through the publisher's Web site at www3.interscience.wiley.com.

For more information, contact your subject librarian or the Reference Desk at 1-8886.

Blood drive scheduled for March 8

A blood drive is scheduled for noon-4 p.m. Monday, March 8, in a mobile unit outside the west side of the Memorial Union. Donors must bring identification at the time of donation. To schedule an appointment, call Heidi Handegaard at 1-8961.

NDSU to give returning troops assistance

NDSU has implemented special procedures to assist returning students who have been activated in the National Guard and Reserves.

According to George Wallman, vice president for student affairs, military students will receive priority when registration begins on April 5. In addition, their financial aid deadline will be waived and they will be given housing priority.

He said military students can register online by using the "Returning Military Re-enrollment Form," found at www.ndsu.edu/registrar and by clicking on "Forms" under "Quick Link."

"Our goal in developing these procedures was to make it as simple as possible for them to get back into the world of being a college student," Wallman said. "We recognize that some of our returning students will come back with a different perspective on life after having served in such difficult conditions. We appreciate their commitment to serve and look forward to their return."

Wallman added that returning military students may reserve textbooks online on the Varsity Mart Web page at www.ndsu.edu/bookstore.

Further information is available on the "NDSU National Guard Fact Sheet," located at www.ndsu.edu/vpsa. Questions about the procedures may be directed to Jane Cumber, office manager for the Office of the Vice President for Student Affairs, at 1-8097 or jane.cumber@ndsu.nodak.edu.

Staff recognition nominations sought

The Office of Human Resources seeks nominations for individual and team recognition awards.

The awards recognize individual staff members or teams who demonstrate outstanding achievement on the job; exceptional contributions towards the effectiveness and efficiency of operations; outstanding service to other employees, students or visitors; and provide distinguished efforts in staff development.

Up to 10 individual awards are presented annually to broadbanded staff in the administrative/professional, technical paraprofessional, office support, crafts/trades and service categories. Each recipient receives a $250 cash award.

The team recognition program recognizes groups of individuals who have contributed to the accomplishment of a major change or benefit to the NDSU community. A team may consist of any combination of broadbanded and non-broadbanded staff between two and 10 members. The team must have a connection to NDSU, and the accomplishment must be NDSU-related. Team award recipients will share a $600 cash award.

Nominations forms are due in the human resources office by Friday, March 12. All employees should have received a nomination form in campus mail.

This year's selection committee includes Teresa Sonsthagen, veterinary technologist in animal and range sciences; Jane Lessard, art supply manager at the Varsity Mart; Barb Geeslin, assistant to the dean in the College of Business Administration; Bob Peterson, locksmith in Facilities Management; and Bill Kozojed, equipment operator in the Document Publishing Center.

NDSU signs new exchange agreements

NDSU has signed exchange agreements with five overseas universities. They include the Aarhus School of Business, Aarhus, Denmark; Charles Sturt University, New South Wales, Australia; Leeds Metropolitan University, Leeds, United Kingdom; University of Burgos, Burgos, Spain; and University of Southern Queensland, Toowoomba, Australia. Similar to other exchange agreements, these agreements will allow undergraduate students to pay their tuition and fees to NDSU and only costs of living and books at the host institution.

Aarhus School of Business features the Faculty of Business Administration and the Faculty of Modern Languages, and offers courses in business administration, finance, marketing and business communication. Aarhus, with a population of 280,000 people, is situated about two hours from Copenhagen. The school is the second largest business school in Denmark and has more than 6,000 students. Courses are taught in English.

Charles Sturt University is open to agriculture students, specifically in agronomy studies such as crop science, weed science and cropping systems. The university has a network of campuses throughout the state of New South Wales, with main campuses located in Albury-Wodonga, Bathurst, Dubbo and Wagga Wagga. Including all campuses, the university has approximately 12,500 students.

Leeds Metropolitan University offers academic programs similar to NDSU, including such areas as architecture, business, engineering, tourism and hospitality management. The university, with more than 35,000 students, can be reached via a two-hour train ride north of London.

The University of Burgos includes the Faculty of Science, Faculty of Economics and Business Science, Faculty of Law and the Faculty of Humanities and Education. Students wanting to study Spanish may take courses in the language. Students with upper-level Spanish can take regular academic courses. The university has an enrollment of 11,000 students. The city of Burgos is the provincial capital and can trace its history back 1,100 years.

The University of Southern Queensland includes the Colleges of the Arts, Engineering and Surveying, Business, Education and Sciences. Students may take classes in such areas as agricultural engineering, tourism and hospitality, biotechnology, early childhood and information technology. With an enrollment of about 23,000 students, the university is located 90 minutes from Brisbane.

The Office of International Programs is accepting applications for students to study at the sites for the fall semester. Interested students should contact the study abroad adviser in the Office of International Programs, 338 Ceres Hall, call 1-7895 for more information or visit www.ndsu.edu/International.

Proposals sought for 'Beyond Boundaries' conference

Proposals are being sought for presentations at "Beyond Boundaries," a regional conference on integrating technology into teaching and learning. Proposals are due March 31 and may be submitted online at www.beyondboundaries.info.

Persons who have used technology to move beyond the boundaries of traditional classroom instruction are invited to present at the conference, which highlights regional faculty and administrators' experiences and successes with using technology in various learning environments. Conference sessions should present information applicable to people with beginner, intermediate and advanced knowledge about e-learning.

The third annual conference is scheduled for Sept. 23-24 in the University of North Dakota Memorial Union, Grand Forks, N.D. Further information is available by calling the UND Office of Conference Services at (701) 777-2663 or 866-579-2663.

People

HD&E accreditation, publications, presentations listed

The apparel, design, facility and hospitality management department recently received accreditation for the hospitality tourism management program from the Accreditation Commission for Programs in Hospitality Administration (ACPHA) for a period of seven years.

"Sub-grouping: What We Do on Our Time is Our Business!" an article co-authored by Steven Hundley, assistant professor in the School of Education, and "Asking a Member to Leave the Group: 'The Last Straw,'" an article co-authored by James Wigtil, chair and professor in the School of Education, were published in a recent issue of Critical Incidents in Group Counseling.

Bradford Strand, chair and professor of health, nutrition and exercise sciences, presented "Integrating Fitness Activities in NYSP" at a National Youth Sports Program workshop held recently in Washington, D.C. He also made three presentations at the Central District Alliance for the American Association of Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance (CDAAH-APERD) annual convention held recently in Duluth, Minn. Strand also was elected the district's vice president for sport and physical education.

Bryan Christensen, assistant professor of health, nutrition and exercise sciences presented "Biomechanical Concepts to Explain, Evaluate and Improve Motor Skills of Physical Education Students or Athletes" at the conference, and was elected to a two-year term as the central district's chair in the sport category.

Donna Terbizan, professor of health, nutrition and exercise sciences, has been named 2005 CDAAHAPERD district scholar.

Harriett Light, professor of child development and family science, has been invited to participate in an international roundtable scheduled for March 21-26 at the University of Oxford, Oxford, England. The roundtable will address the physical, mental and social conditions that require special consideration in order to assure desirable educational outcomes for disabled children. Light plans to present "Compassion Fatigue: Fragile Families and Vulnerable Children."

Christine McGeorge and Martin Erickson, instructors of child development and family science; and Thomas Stone Carlson, assistant professor of child development and family science, recently presented "Dismantling Male Privilege in Couples Therapy: A Feminist Approach to Gender Accountability" at the North Dakota Counselors Association's annual conference.

James Deal, associate professor and head of child development and family science, is the co-author of "Temperament Factors as Longitudinal Predictors of Young Adult Personality," recently published in Merrill Palmer Quarterly; and "Personality and Family Process" in the Source Book of Family Theory and Research.

Miller named outstanding choral conductor

Miller

Jo Ann Miller, professor of music, was named outstanding choral conductor for 2004 by the North Dakota American Choral Directors Association (ND-ACDA) as the association's state conference held Feb. 7 in Jamestown, N.D.

Association members nominate directors who have demonstrated consistent quality of ensemble performance, leadership in their field and dedication to the development of choral music in North Dakota. The winner is chosen by the ND-ACDA board of directors.

"Dr. Miller was selected in recognition of her outstanding choral program at NDSU, including appearances at state, regional and national ACDA conferences, and her leadership in the training of choral conductors through NDSU's music department," said Tom Porter, ND-ACDA president.

Miller has been the director of choral activities at NDSU since 1989. She has a bachelor's degree from NDSU, a master's degree from the University of North Dakota and a doctorate in choral conducting from the University of Cincinnati's College Conservatory of Music. Miller directs NDSU's Concert Choir and Women's Chorus and teaches classes in conducting and choral literature.

NDSU business students, professionals join international honor society

Thirty-one NDSU students and faculty in the College of Business Administration were inducted into the college's chapter of Beta Gamma Sigma, an international honor society, in a ceremony held Feb. 23.

Juniors ranking in the top 7 percent of their class, seniors in the top 10 percent of their class and graduate students in the top 20 percent at schools accredited by the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business, the international association for management education, are eligible for membership.

Outstanding faculty inducted into the honor society include Karen Frolich, associate professor of strategic management, and Robert S. Herren, professor of agricultural economics.

Events

Intercampus powwow scheduled

The 15th annual Woodlands and High Plains Powwow is scheduled for Saturday, March 27, at Alex Nemzek Fieldhouse on the campus of Minnesota State University Moorhead. Grand entries are scheduled at 1 p.m. and 7 p.m., with a traditional meal served at 5 p.m. The theme for this year's powwow, sponsored by NDSU, Concordia College and MSUM, is "Honoring Native American Women."

The one-day powwow will be "traditional," meaning that the emphasis will be on celebration rather than competition. Organizers expect to attract spectators, dancers and drum groups from throughout the Midwest.

Sharon Cobb, Lizz Demaray, Ruth Eagleman, Anna Littleghost, Gladys Ray and Neva Satermo will be recognized for their outstanding contributions to the Woodlands and High Plains Powwow as well as their active support of American Indian heritage, projects and events.

MSUM student Edith St. John has been named head woman dancer, and NDSU senior Joshua Flute has been named head male dancer. Both are members of the Sisseton-Wahpeton Dakota Nation. The drum group Rock Bottom from the Red Lake Nation is scheduled as the host drum.

Approximately 200 dancers dressed in colorful and authentic regalia are expected to participate. More than 2,000 people attended last year's powwow held at the Bison Sports Arena.

The staff includes master of ceremonies Danny Seaboy, Sisseton-Wahpeton Dakota Nation; arena director Nathan Smith, Spirit Lake Dakota Nation, Fort Totten, N.D.; and cultural adviser William "Ambrose" Littleghost, Spirit Lake Dakota Nation. VFW Post 9061, Mandaree, N.D., will serve as honor guard, with support from the Little Shell Auxiliary Unit 300, New Town, N.D.

Admission is $2, which includes the meal. Children under the age of six and NDSU, Concordia and MSUM students with current identification cards are admitted at no charge. Parking will be available at no charge, with designated areas for handicapped, vendors and elders.

For more information about the powwow or to join the planning committee, contact Paul Boswell, director of Multicultural Student Services, at 1-7314 or paul.boswell@ndsu.nodak.edu.

Anxiety disorders screenings set

Counseling and Disability Services has scheduled free anxiety disorders screenings from 8 a.m.-5 p.m. March 8-12, in Ceres Hall room 212. The screenings are designed to help individuals learn about anxiety disorders, their symptoms and effective treatments.

Participants should allow approximately 30 minutes for the screening process. All screenings are anonymous. Those who show symptoms of anxiety will be encouraged to make an appointment for a full evaluation.

Appointments can be made by calling 1-7671. Screening also is available online at www.ndsu.edu/counseling.

'R&D Showcase III' scheduled

"R&D Showcase III" is scheduled for April 29 at the Fargo dome. The showcase, hosted by NDSU, features the theme "Technology as a Catalyst for North Dakota's Growth."

Sessions will highlight ways in which campus research and development activities can successfully interact with the business community to spur economic growth. Area business people, along with campus faculty, staff and students are encouraged to attend.

Bruce McWilliams, president and chief executive officer of Tessera Technologies Inc., will be the keynote speaker. McWilliams has been involved in a number of high technology companies, including S-Vision Inc, a silicon chip-based display company; Flextronics International Ltd., an electronic manufacturing services company; and nCHIP Inc., a multi-chip module packaging company.

Tessera Technologies Inc. is a developer of intellectual property and services that help the semiconductor industry build smaller, faster and more reliable electronic products. In 2002, Tessera was one of Inc. Magazine's "The Innovation 50," a listing of the most inventive small companies in entrepreneurial America. The company's advanced chip-scale packaging innovations have been used in a wide range of wireless, computing, gaming, entertainment, medical and defense electronic products.

The dinner presentation will feature Paul Drzaic, vice president of advanced development for Alien Technology, who will share "The Alien Technology Story." For more event information or to register online, go to www.ndsuresearchpark.com.

MS Walk scheduled

President Joseph A. Chapman will serve as honorary chair for the 14th annual Fargo Multiple Sclerosis Walk on April 18 at Shanley High School. About 750 participants are expected.

"There are many people in our communities who have begun the fight with MS," Chapman said. "This fight involves all of us, and now, more than ever, the estimated 6,000 Dakotans living with multiple sclerosis need our help."

To register, call 1-800-fight-MS or visit [www.ms dakotachapter.org](http://www.ms dakotachapter.org).

Baseline Safety Training sessions set

The March schedule has been set for Baseline Safety Training for NDSU employees. The 30-minute trainings sessions are scheduled for 9 a.m. March 8, 15 and 22, in the Memorial Union Peace Garden room.

For out-state employees as well as those housed on campus, Baseline Safety Training also is offered on Blackboard. Contact Stephanie Wegner at 1-7759 for access.
