

This component of the project would be the initial phase of a multi-phase reentry program that integrates tenants into several aspects of the food cooperative. Some may go on to initiate similar projects in other communities; some may find alternative employment unrelated to the cooperative.

While their stay here is purely transitional, what they accomplish during their stay should endure with them for the rest of their lives.