Richard McMahon, president of Scabbard and Blade said this week that no definite date has been set at this time for the event, but that plans have already been started.

To be admitted, the man must be in his ROTC uniform, and the dress will be informal for women. Admission is free, and free refreshments will be served.

Minneapolis To Be Scene Of Home Ec Career Day

Career day for Home Economics in Business will be held in Minneapolis April 28.

NDAC has been honored by being allowed six delegates while other schools may send only three. Three seniors automatically qualified, being Foods majors and interested in food freezing. They are Alice Marie Anderson, Cooperstown; Eunice Fevig, Ulen, Minn.; and LuVerne Duenow, Pembina. The other delegates are juniors from each home economics department. They are Edna Strand, Ada, Minn.; Foods; Marjorie Sommerdorf, Towner, clothing; and Harriet Overboe, Detroit Lakes, Minn., education. The delegates will drive to Minneapolis with Dean Davy on Thurs-

The scholarships at NDAC are supported by the Sears Roebuck Co. Home Economics Foundation scholarship fund. Recipients of the scholarships will receive $100 payable on January 1, 1951, and $100 on April 1 during the freshman year, she said.

Dr. Davy pointed out that scholarship applicants must have an interest in studying home economics at the college level, need financial assistance for the study, have a good scholastic record for high school work, possess character and dependability and have a capacity for leadership. Primary consideration will also be given to farm girls, she said.

Application blanks for the scholarships may be secured by writing to Dean Davy, school of home economics, NDAC. Closing date for accepting applications will be May 26, 1950.

KAT Karnival Set Tonight

The doors of Festival hall will be wide open tonight at 8 p.m. for the KAT Karnival. There is no admission charge for the big evening of fun. Lois Cunningham is in charge of arrangements which will include dancing, a floor show and booths with every kind of Karnival entertainment.

During the evening a drawing will be made for the door prize and the $70 Luggage Set from Monson's. The Thetas are selling the tickets on the luggage to raise money for their house fund.

For the hungry there will be booths with homemade candy, hot dogs and coke for sale. For those who like to try their luck there will be Bingo, Penny Pitch, Ring Toss, Fish Pond and the Bean Jar with a prize for the expert who guesses the correct number of beans. And for those who want to be entertained, Bev Halbeisen from the Halbeisen School of Dancing and the KAT Kaddettes will be performing.

Dittus Honored

James Dittus, a senior from Dickinson, won the annual American Society of Civil Engineers award for outstanding work for the ASCE and in engineering.

The award consists of a year's dues to the national chapter and a "Civil Engineer's Handbook." The selection of the winner was made by the local chapter.

day afternoon, April 27, returning on Saturday afternoon.

The purpose of Career Day is to acquaint home economics students with the opportunities open to them in business. The morning will be devoted to a choice of six tours, namely Home Service, Foods; Home Service, Equipment; Institutional Management; Advertising and Journalism; and Nutrition Education. Miss Mary Kimball, president of the Twin Cities Home Economics in Business, will speak at a noon luncheon in the Junior Ballroom of the Nicollet hotel. During the afternoon session the job opportunities will be outlined in more detail by the sponsors of the various tours.

NDAC To Join With City In Beard Contest

The Diamond Jubilee Brothers-of-the-Brush have extended an invitation to the students and the faculty at NDAC to join them in raising beards. With the new methods of agriculture so well known to Ag students and Profs here, students should be able to turn out a much better "stand" of whiskers than the uptown "City-Slickers."

There will be no fines levied and the registration will be strictly voluntary, but registration buttons can be secured at the NDAC Public relations office.

The registration button is visible proof that you are exempt from the daily chore of shaving. Buy a button and lose your razor.

Monday Set For Final Deadline

Applications for the positions of editor and business manager for the Bison annual, the Bison Furrows and the Spectrum will still be considered if submitted to the Dean of Students office before 4 p.m. next Monday, April 24.

Personal interviews will be held with all applicants at a meeting of the Board of Publications one week from today.

Kickertz Leaves For Health Meet

Miss Ruth E. Kickertz, chief nurse at the NDAC Health Center, will attend the annual meeting of the North Central Section of the American College Health Association to be held April 21 and 22 at the University of Wisconsin.

NDAC was the only North Dakota college represented last year. The same situation will probably prevail again. This will be a new experience for Miss Kickertz who only recently became chief nurse at the Health Center.

Miss Esther Bibelheimer, junior nurse, will be in charge during her absence.

American Airlines Seeks Stewardess Applicants

American Airlines will select approximately three hundred young ladies this year for the position of Airline Stewardess, according to a letter recently received in the college placement service from E. K. Graves, regional personnel manager for the airline.

winning organization will receive a $10 cash prize.

Brevities business manager, John Paulsen, reports that new trophies have also been purchased for award to the top three acts in both the five and fifteen minute classification. Awards to winning acts and ticket sales winners will be made following Thursday evenings performance.

JUDGING ARRANGEMENTS

Judging arrangements have been completed according to Jack Enger, judging committee chairman. Nine judges have been selected with one set of three viewing the acts each night.

Special rating charts have been devised Enger said. Each act will be judged on such items as costume, originality of idea, stage sets, music, acting, and audience appeal.

Clink McGeary, Brevities director, revealed that black light will be used in one of the production numbers. This special effect is currently being used in several big professional shows.

Special musical scores are now being completed for the show McGeary said. Music will again this year be provided by Ralph Mutchler and his orchestra.

Some of the Brevities acts will be previewed this evening at the Fargo Jubilee ball in the Crystal and Avalon ballrooms according to word from Harry Bruhn, publicity chairman. Several acts will also be previewed at local high schools as part of a ticket sales promotion campaign.

ACTS TO APPEAR

Acts appearing in the Brevities of 1950 in the fifteen minute classification are "Bamboo," Kappa Alpha Theta; "Yascha's Yo-Yo Show," Alpha Tau Omega; "Ain't We Got Fun," Kappa Kappa Gamma; "Moods in Fantasy," Sigma Alpha Epsilon; "Pine to Palm," Gamma Phi Beta; "Quiz Program," Sigma Chi; "Sentimental Rhapsody," Alpha Gamma Rho.

Five minute classification—"Musical Moods," Kappa Kappa Psi; "Strolling Through the Park," Alpha Gamma Delta; "Slightly Pink," Theta Chi; "Dinah," Kappa Alpha Theta; "Piano Quartet," Sigma Alpha Iota.

This is the third year that the Brevities has appeared as a musical variety show. Previous production had taken the form of Broadway stage hits like "Of Thee I Sing," "Too Many Girls," and "HMS Pinafore."

PREVIOUS BREVITIES

Three of the annual shows have been written by students. The 1933 show "Sky High" was written by Morris and Henry Olson, 1936's "Be Yourself" by James Baccus, and 1940's "The Blue Key Turns" by Roy Pederson.

Henry Olson, better known as Henry Russel, is now NBC director of music in Hollywood. His brother, the late Morris Olson, was formerly with Horace Heidt.

Baccus, recently NDAC public relations chief, is now with the ND Farm Bureau. Pederson is sales promotion director for WDAY.

Blue Key president Roy Johnson announces that the fraternity urges students to write and submit their original plays for future production.

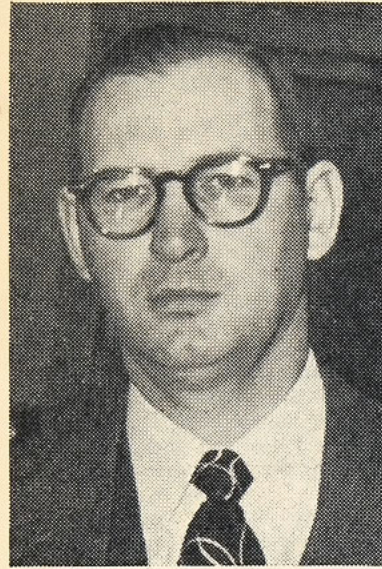

A REMINDER

All persons seeking nominations for the coming student election must have their petition signed and in the office of the Dean of Men by 5 p.m. today.

J. C. Koenen, Former Student, Visitor of Fargo and NDAC

From school bench to lecture desk is not an all too easy step to take. Not so for Mr. J. C. Koenen, however, director of research of Archer-Daniels-Midland Company of Minneapolis, the world's largest processors of drying oils.

Mr. Koenen visited his home and Alma Mater in Fargo during the weekend. Bringing with him a wide knowledge of the varied affairs of chemical industry "Jim", as he is known to most of us, discussed the chemistry and technology of drying oils before the A. C. paint classes of Dr. Wouter Bosch in which he elaborated on the various types of oils that are in use and the several ways in which oils are made applicable to the protective coating industry.

Later in the day Mr. Koenen lectured to the Chemistry Club on the subject: "Today's Opportunities for the Chemist". Mr. Koenen stressed the importance of the chemist in all phases of industrial production, from the analysis of raw materials, the synthesis of new chemicals, the control of complicated reaction processes to the final product, and eventually from the plant to the sales office. Here his knowledge of chemistry helps him to explain to the buyer the special properties of a new product or raw material.

With many future employees in the industry in his audience, Mr. Koenen also talked about what the industry expects of graduates and what the graduate student can expect of industry. On Saturday Jim inspected the activities of the School of Chemical Technology and also interviewed numerous advanced students concerning industrial employment.

The Ballpoint

By BOB JOHNSON

Again it is necessary to take pen in hand and fill out a column of worthless copy to make ends meet.

The password these days is a sleepy 'bison brevities' for all concerned.

Skinhead finally got a laugh from one of his cartoons.

Sully isn't saying anything this week. Guess she has laryngitis. At least she is in bed with a cold. No one turned in any news for her anyway. Why?

Wonder how many complaints will be received about this week's front page? Someone is always complaining.

Anyone who reads any further than this will be sorry. Unless somebody comes up with a bright idea the rest of this won't be any better than the first.

Has anyone paid a parking fine lately? Haven't noticed any cars with tickets within the past few weeks.

Our so called parking lot, that great aid to students and the cause of a little extra work to janitors when the back door is unlocked, is still in one hellowa mess. Maybe that is why the back door is always locked. Wonder if it's legal? Thought it was a fire escape? How about it, Chief?

Someone wants a suggestion for the big puddle back of Science hall? Run the water off and plant a victory garden. Might come in handy some day. Know of any market for mudballs?

Anyone who gets stuck in the lot should call for a tractor. It's been done successfully. Why pay a towing charge!?

Looks as if the new library will be completed after all. Should be nice next fall. Sleeping in a new chair, that is. Hope the couches are long enough to stretch out on.

Question for next week:: Who will win the Brevities??

Only one person offered information on How They Run. Thanks Jack. Wrong answer, though. Any one else with an idea.

You can't say you weren't warned. This stuff is getting mighty bleak. Only two persons need be cursed with reading this copy, the linotype operator and the proof reader. The rest of you can stop now if you haven't already. If this was set up in type the way it's typewritten, you'd have stopped long ago.

Haven't seen many people running around with petitions to be signed. Maybe the election officials accomplished one thing. They may not have so many people seeking offices. We'll find out May 3.

What would this office be like without a telephone? If it wasn't anything else, it would be quiet. One might even be able to hear the radio.

Speaking of radio, what ever happened to the big transmitter WDAY donated to the school? Probably in a million little pieces by this time. Would be nice to have a college radio station. Smaller schools than this have them.

Someone on this campus should start a humor magazine. The college whose name we refuse to mention in this office has one. If they can do it, we should be able to do it better.

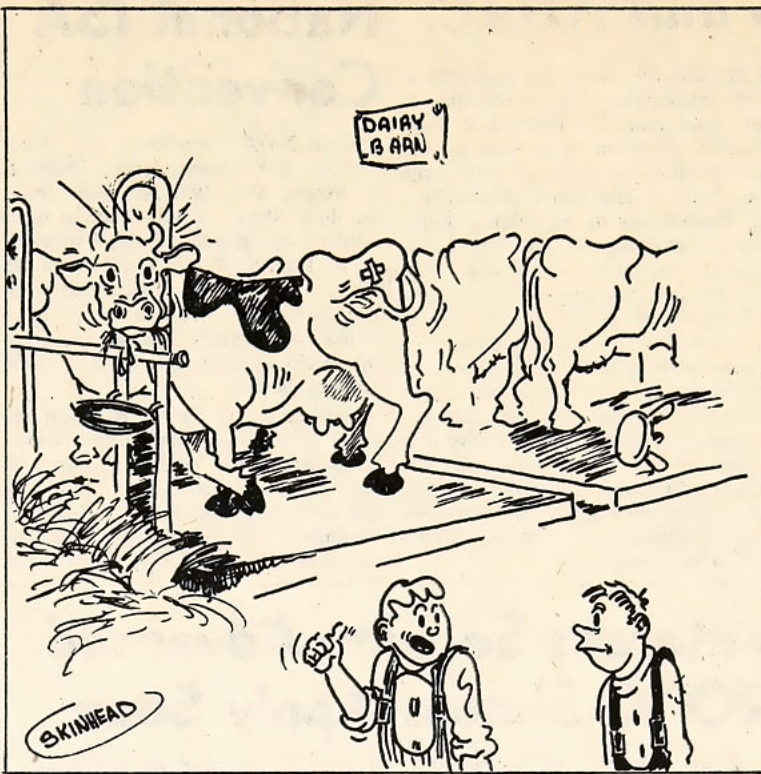

Anybody still with me? Shouldn't be long now.

Anyone with a key to the back door to Sciencel could easily make a small fortune at about two bucks a throw.

The noises one hears in Science after midnight are amazing, even humorous, at times. Especially during final week.

EDUCATION?

by Fisher

"Watch her jump, HUBERT; My hands are ice cold this morning."

Henry's Here

By MORGEN HENRY

We attended a wrestling match the other night and it brought us to the conclusion that there is better acting being done on the mat than in the legitimate theater. (or the illegitimate theatres for that matter). The wrestlers seem to resolve into two groups: the villains and the heroes. The villains are usually big and greasy and sometimes have a mustache. They pull a great many unethical tricks such as punching in the stomach and pulling hair until the crowd is incensed. Then the hero lurches to his feet just steaming with rightful indignation. The villain cringes. The hero grabs him and drubs him all over the ring, sometimes throwing him into the crowd for good measure. The spectators like this immensely and cheer the hero on.

The feature event was between someone named Bronko Nagurski and a gentleman introduced as "Dirty Dick Raines." The announcer introduced him as "Filthy Richard." Dirty Dick became piqued over this and threatened to slug the announcer but he had already leaped out of the ring and was gone.

Dirty Dick played the villain role as effectively as any Simon Legree in any first rate melodrama. He scowled, cowered and carried on to a great extent. He gouged Bronko's eyes. The crowd roared in indignation. He pulled Bronko's hair. The crowd yells "Watch the hair!" He punched Bronko in the stomach. The crowd groaned.

"Give it to him, Bronko!" they yelled.

Bronko finally fetched onto Dirty Dick's arm and began to twist it. Dirty Dick grimaced. The crowd cheered. The pair tottered around the ring for some time, Bronko twisting Dirty Dick's arm and Dirty Dick complaining. When Dirty Dick got loose he stood in a corner petulantly nursing his sore arm. He wanted Bronko to lay off that particular arm. Bronko promptly grabbed said arm and proceeded to twist the bejeezus out of it. The crowd cheered. When Dirty Dick fell Bronko began to jump on the arm. The crowd went wild. "Tear it off, Bronko!" they yelled.

When the arm twisting act was over the two combatants threw one another out of the ring and exchanged blows in the midst of the audience. This was followed by much bouncing off the ropes and some leg twisting. A spectacular finish was achieved when Bronko bounced Dirty Dick all over the ring as if he were a basketball. The referee announced that Bronko was the winner but it was hard to tell. Dirty Dick looked a great deal more refreshed than Bronko. He stood in the center of the ring and sneered at the customers who had stuck around to boo him. Frankly, our sympathies were with the villains.

It's just about time for Brevities again. As usual, the biggest show will be backstage. At any rate, all some people can remember of last year's brevities is the Merry Go Round party after the last show.

Here's the scoop on the flying saucers: they're not from Mars, they're from Venus.

The fact that a new engineering building is going to be the next addition to our campus is causing great spasms of joy in the School of Stress and Strain. And no wonder! It's not that the oldest part of the Engineering Buildings was used as an Indian trading outpost, but they should have filled the bullet holes in the walls. It will also relieve congestion—and friction—by moving the Civil Engineers to the new building, and leaving the Architects where they are.

Speaking of "where they are;" not that it matters, but if a slight blaze started in that area, that open central staircase in the main structure would blaze up like Phyllis Gorder when she read last week's paper—and leaving roast architect on the menu of Ceres Hall for the next three weeks.

Monday night's Fargo Forum showed a shot of three Kappas applying a heavy coat of make up for something or other—probably the Brevities. Maybe it was just a photographic effect, but is she nuff looked just a little darker than the stuff they usually wear.

I don't know where the LCTers expect to get ahold of some Oscars, but they put on The Heiress, anyway—starring Olivia de Hegerland, yet.

With campus elections coming up, rumor has it that the long dormant ISA as about to come out of its cocoon for its annual spring Coming Out Party (alien from Democratic and Republican Parties.) The purpose behind this is to attempt another stuffing of campus to gain political ends. This, like last year, means that individuals will be pushed for office, irregardless of their competence, to further promote viewpoints rather than the well-being of the campus.

Paulsen's Pencil - -

By JOHN PAULSEN
Mac Wenskunas began his first real work as head football coach at NDAC this week, and he probably came to town at a pretty good time. He can at least look forward to the fact that conditions will improve, and it will no doubt be true that his first week will be one of his toughest.

He brought his family to town in the wake of a miserable spring—one that didn't really enter until about the day he came, and although Wenskunas arrived two days ahead of time, the spring was about 23 days behind schedule. This same spring was responsible for a lot of things. It, and its customary wet environment, made it difficult for Wenskunas to get located in Trailer City. It no doubt helped account for the fact that his family was plagued by illness.

Football-wise, the weather helped account for some more initial problems for Mr. W. The late spring set back considerably, the earliest date on which Wenskunas was able to take his men outside for practice drills—drills made particularly important in view of the fact that for the third time in four years a fundamentally new football system will be installed at NDAC. This by itself wouldn't have been so important had the Fieldhouse been accessible for preliminary indoor work. However, this was the spring, at long last, when badly needed modernization was to be completed in the Fieldhouse. So exit the gym floor as a place of practice. To add to the problems, there is the usual reticence on the part of some of the "old pros" of the squad to get very excited about spring drills. Bison football players, some of them, seem to look with considerable disfavor upon spring football practice, and Fielding Yost would have probably had trouble making them enjoy it.

At any rate, Wenskunas and his partner-in-crime, Bernie Krueger, can rejoice in the knowledge that the first hundred days are the hardest.

While Football

was doing its first 1950 reviving, Basketball tutor Charley Bentson was probably noticing with much glee the way some of his freshman basketball stars, led by Duane Anderson and Done Fougner, were performing in the Fargo Forum's All-City cage tourney. Fougner, Anderson, and varsity performer Dave Turner led an Orpheum Cigar quintet into the finals of the affair by beating a heavily favored Shorty's five which featured Jack Garrett and Dave Torson of NDAC and MSTC's Otto Klug, Jim Gotta, and Curt McCamy.

Only disquieting note of the whole meet came when the Orpheum club dropped the championship to a Concordia-dominated Columbia Cafe quintet which featured Cobber underclassmen Ken Severud and Don Smestad.

which needs even better spring weather than football may be reduced to almost infinity this year due to the late start which Erv Kaiser's men have been forced to get.

The Herd ordinarily schedules its first meet for the weekend of April 28, but Kaiser's men could never in a thousand years be ready for action in just one more week, and its doubtful whether they'll be set for real competition until the campaign is just about over.

Krueger Says Fundamentals Of Play To Be Stressed

by JOHN MASHEK

"We will definitely stress fundamentals, attempt to scrimmage often, and work hard."

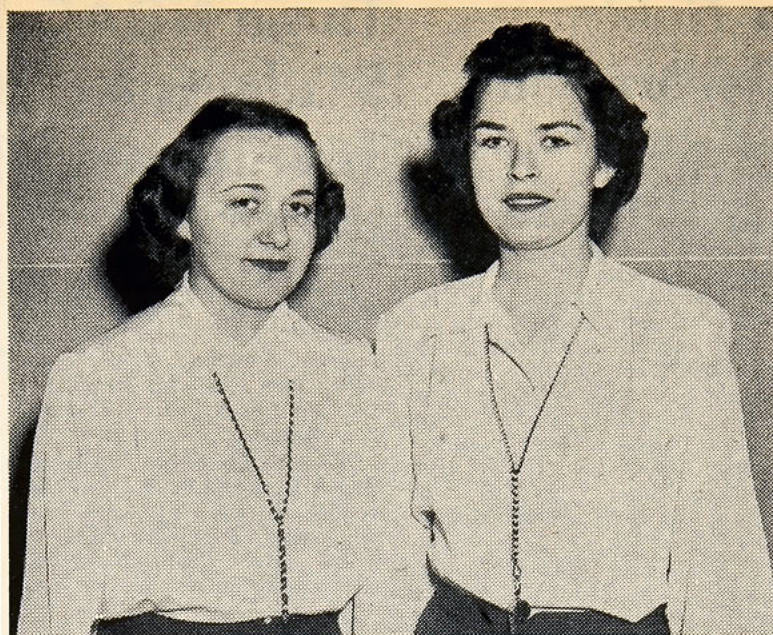

In these words backfield coach Bernie Krueger painted a clear picture for spring football practice of 1950. Head coach Mac Wenskunas and Krueger will be starting from scratch, and they intend to give all an ample opportunity to prove themselves.

Sitting behind his desk in an easy going manner, the genial Krueger appeared in high hopes of helping to improve the future of NDAC football. The handsome, sharp featured Illinois great mapped his plans for coming up with a hard hitting T backfield. Coach Krueger is especially in search of a quick thinking, all-around quarterback to run his T party. Krueger, who was well tutored at Illinois by Ray Elliott, is a perfectionist in handling his backs.

"I think the toughest outfit I ever ran into was the Army juggernaut in 1947," stated the diminutive mentor. However, Bernie will never forget how close the Illini came to knocking off the West Point Titans in 1948. Army won the contest, 26-21, but the Orange and Blue were on the Cadet's six yard stripe at the final gun.

One thing will always stand out in the memory of the 24 year old skipper. He broke his leg in the final game of the '46 season against Northwestern, and he was forced to watch the Rose Bowl in civvies. "What a disappointment! — I thought those things only happened in story books."

Mr. Krueger, married and the father of two children, has been quick to adapt himself to NDAC. He quickly analyzed the other teams in the North Central and seems to know what is ahead. The former Illinois quarterback, an old teammate of his boss, is anxious for drills to begin.

National officiating ratings in basketball were recently awarded to Shirley Turner and Kathryn Kloster.

The rating tests, which consisted of a written examination, and officiating in a game, were given at the University of Minnesota. The women receiving this rating are qualified to officiate in any of the girls basketball games.

Miss Turner, a junior from Bismarck, and Miss Kloster, a sophomore from Sharon, are both majoring in physical education.

Spectrum Sports Writer Picks Red Socks and Dodgers

By JOHN MASHEK

America's greatest pastime got under way this week, and I have the opportunity to give my predictions for this 1950 season.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Red Sox—This should be Joe McCarthy's year. It has to be. On paper the Beantowners are virtually unbeatable with Williams and Co. The Red Sox have a veteran mound corps and plenty of power at the plate. This outfit should definitely bring home the bacon.

Tigers—Red Rolfe's Tigers could be the surprise of the circuit. Without a doubt, Detroit has the outstanding pitching staff in the American. They've got a good defense but could use some more power at the plate.

Indians—Lou Boudreau has plenty of head-aches for the coming year. Rookies undoubtedly hold the key for the climb after the dismal '49 finish. The Indian's pitching must return to form.

Yankees—The Yankees won't have the pennant this year. All the veterans are one year older, and injuries could ruin Casey Stengel's chances. However, the New Yorkers could make the race interesting.

Athletics—Connie Mack will retire without his long sought after pennant. His pitching is very good, but there is no power to match. The hustling Athletics could make things tough on the first division clubs.

White Sox—The Pale Hose have promising rookies this season. However, the team lacks consistency in defense and batting punch.

Senators—The Washingtons lack pitching depth but do have a fair outfield. They should beat the Brownies in the battle for seventh.

Browns—Poor Zak Taylor hasn't even got a Major League ball club.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Dodgers—Barney Shotton's beloved bums really have it this year. They have the necessary pitching, hitting, defense, and plenty of speed. The Dodgers won't toy around as last season when they clinched on the final day. Ebbetts field will burst at the seams this season.

Cards—Stan Musial will be the lone factor in bringing the Redbirds to second. The pitching should be good with a fairly tight inner defense. St. Louis could definitely use another hitter like "Stan, the man."

Braves—Boston has more strength than most experts give them. Through winter trades, the men of Billy Southworth have added power at the dish. If their pitching effectiveness of '48 returns, watch out.

Phillies—Next year could be the season for Eddie Sawyer's Phils. All the rookies and bonus babies performed well last year, but they need more seasoning in major league competition. . . .

Giants—Leo Durocher has added power for the coming campaign, that is, in every respect except pitching. The Giants are still plagued with absolutely no pitching combined with a good ball club.

Pirates—Pittsburgh has Ralph Kiner and they've got batting punch. However, the Pirates still lack a sound defense and a steady mound staff.

Reds—Luke Sewell's Cincy team will be hustlers, but are still not ready for the climb. The return to form of some veterans could make the Redlegs a surprise.

Cubs—Manager Frankie Frisch will definitely wish he had stayed on his ranch this season. The Chicagoans simply don't have a thing besides youth.

Baseball Team Moves Outside For Practice

Under the direction of Chuck Bentson, head basketball and baseball coach, the NDAC team went outdoors for their first practice Monday. However, the complete roster had not all reported for the initial practice, as the opening drill had not been scheduled until Wednesday.

Bentson said that the diamond behind the field house is not yet in shape so the team could not yet practice hitting. However, the early drills will be held in the old stadium, or the east lawn of the field house, where it will be possible to work on fielding. Bentson said that as soon as the diamond became dry enough so the team could work on it, he planned to concentrate very heavily on hitting.

More newcomers reported on Monday, and Bentson singled out three as very likely looking prospects. He said the outfielders Robert Hlabac, and Kenny Maetzold looked pretty good as did a new infield candidate Bob Geston.

The pitching is still a problem with the cold weather keeping the Bison chuckers from working out too much.

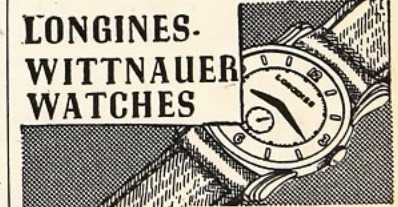

Bad Weather Holds Back AC Trackmen

With wet weather keeping the team indoor, the NDAC track squad has not progressed beyond the point they had reached last week, according to head coach E. E. Kaiser.

Kaiser reported this week that he could still use more candidates for the weights and the distance runs. He pointed out that none of the present thinclads had had any chance to work out too much up to this point, so any man interested in track should not be discouraged if he wants to participate.

"The doors are still wide open for anyone who is interested," Kaiser said last Wednesday. He also reported that he hopes to get the team out of doors by the first part of next week.

All track aspirants and all lettermen who are planning to repeat in the sport are asked to see Kaiser for further details on when and where outdoor practice is to begin.

Sport Spotlight

By JOHN HESSE

This week it looks a little more like spring in North Dakota, but the water still hasn't parted company with the practice fields here at NDAC. Chuck Bentson has been working with his Bison baseballers on the lawn of the field house, and the dry end of the old stadium.

But along with spring, Mac Wenskunas and Bernie Krueger also arrived in Fargo. The two Illinois products have taken over their positions as heads of the NDAC grid warriors.

Both of the new coaches have made a favorable impression on the players and students in general who have met them. The general opinion seems to be that if these two can coach as well as they could play, there should be a mighty fine Bison football team about next fall.

A QUESTION MARK

But then comes the question, can they do a good job with almost the same team that failed to win a game last year? The answer seems to be yes, in the opinion of most of the athletic officials at NDAC. Of course, there will be some of the same players as the 1949 version of the NDAC football team, but there will also be a good number of players up from last season's B squad who didn't taste defeat. With some of those lads such as Jim Hitter, Bob Kuba, John Mashek, Benny Noland, Roger Huzinenga, Grut Anderson, and many more, Wenskunas and Krueger will have plenty of young material to work on.

Of course, the Bison will be without the services of such standouts as Clink McGeary, all-conference center, Neil Gustafson, year's co-captain, and Bill Tousseint, an end, as well as others who have graduated or dropped out of school for one reason or another.

Yet there are some bright spots in the holdover department. There will be Vern Freeh, a stellar guard, Dom Gentile, the sticky-handed end who made the offensive mythical eleven last year, and Eino Martino, a southpaw passer who blossomed toward the end of the year. These will lead a contingent of lettermen and experienced reserves from the team from last season. Things don't look too dark for the new Bison coaches in the material department.

Of course, there is a tendency to expect wonders from a new coach right at the outset. I hope that such a thing doesn't happen to Wenskunas and his assistant. If they don't produce right off the bat, I hope that the students and alumni don't go howling for their scalps as they have for coaches in the past. I would like to see these men have a chance to show what they can do over a period of time.

It might take time for them to really show what kind of coaches they really are.

BASEBALL HERE

Baseball came in this week with a vengeance with the major leagues, and most of the minor leagues getting started. The season opened with most of the sports writers predicting Boston of the American league and Brooklyn of the National league as the favorites. However, there are always chances for dark-horse teams to enter the picture, but perhaps the Red Sox and the Dodgers look as if they have a little too much for the rest. The idea seems to be that the Yankees will be strong, but they can't do the same thing that they did last year, standing off the powerful Sox right down to the wire.

Boston boasts some great hitters with Ted Williams, Vern Stephans, and Dom DiMaggio leading the way. Then they have no slouches in the persons of Al Zarilla, Bobby Doerr, John Pesky and Birdie Tebbets. And then we come to the pitching staff. Only Mel Parnell, Mickey McDermott, and Ellis Kinder are on the mound staff. Of course, Kinder is not expected to equal his 23-5 record of last year, but McDermott is considered the fastest pitcher in the big leagues, so perhaps he can make up for it.

DODGER OUTLOOK GOOD

The base-thieving Dodgers seem to have a great array. They will have their great hitting and key-stone combination of Jackie Robinson and Pee Wee Reese, and hard hitting Gil Hodges at first base. At the hot corner, the Dodgers have Bobby Morgan who was voted the most valuable player in the AAA International league last season. Behind the plate, Manager Barney Shotten will have two catchers that cannot be beaten in the National league in the persons of Roy Campanella and Bruce Edwards. On any other club, Edwards would be considered a mighty good first string catcher, but last year, the rookie Campanella took the job away from him.

The outfield is also power packed with Carl Furillo, Duke Snyder and Gene Hermanski ready to go. The pitching staff will have last year's mainstays. Shotten can also call on his two wild right-handers, Rex Barney and Ralph Brance to win a few for the Bums as well as left hander Joe Hatten. Leading the Brooklyn relief staff will be Jack Banta.

But until the end of the year there is no way of knowing who will really be at the top of the pile come the world's series. But anyhow, that's what it looks like from here.

Wenskunas Has Spring Drills Now Underway

by JOHN MASHEK

Forty gridders answered the first call for spring football as Coach Mac Wenskunas got his players together for the first time. The meeting was a "getting acquainted" session with Wenskunas speaking to his team.

Coach Wenskunas and his assistant, Bernie Krueger, handed out a form for candidates to fill out. This form will help the mentors to find out what they actually have in the way of material for the spring session. The former Illinois pivot man outlined his program, stressing that hard work would be the order of the day.

The new NDAC skipper told his men that there would be plenty of rugged scrimmage during the month training period. Both coaches expressed their yearning to find new prospects to add to the list of prospective varsity members. Wenskunas closed the meeting with an appropriate poem to put his gridders in the right frame of mind for the task ahead.

Included among those present at the meeting were lettermen, Jack McLarnin, Tommy Gagnon, Larn Freeh, Cleto Rouleau, Al Keating, Dick Sander, and all-conference end, Dominic Gentile. Also members of the undefeated freshman football squad attended the initial get together.

Women To Sponsor Ping Pong Series

Ping Pong is being sponsored this quarter by W.A.A. and all women on the campus are invited to come and enjoy the sport.

Meetings are held in the college Y auditorium each Tuesday and Thursday at four o'clock.

Shirley Turner has the leadership for this unit.

Notices of the starting date will be posted in the dormitories.

I-M Baseball Begins Soon, Need Umpires

If the turn-out at the recent Intra-Mural meeting is any indication, there is no shortage of enthusiasm for baseball here at NDAC. Altogether there were seven teams signed up for the newly-formed I-M baseball league with the possibility of a few more late entries.

The schedule is being made up this week and it is hoped that the league will open sometime next week. Starting time for all games is six sharp at the varsity ball field with each team allowed fifteen minutes before a forfeit is declared. One major obstacle appears, however, in the form of the umpire situation. Any student, who has a knowledge of the more important baseball rules and statistics should get in touch with Coach E. E. Kaiser and pick up a few extra dollars officiating at the I-M games.

I-M softball also got its start at the last meeting with thirteen teams entered. There were a few rule changes made, the more important ones being no spikes will be used (in softball only) and the basepaths will be shortened according to the new rules. All in all it looks like it will be a great season for the Intra-Mural program if the wonderful North Dakota weather cooperates like it hasn't been lately.

Student Commission Minutes

11 April 1950

President Olson called the meeting to order. The members which were absent were Charles Bertel, Harry Bruhn and Russell McCalley. Douglas Horlocker sat in on the meeting. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Freeh reported that plans were underway for the Junior-Senior Prom.

Clarke was instructed to give a treasurer's report at the next meeting.

O'Toole announced that an election story had been submitted to the Spectrum for publication.

Olson reported for the committee investigating complaints concerning various college academic departments.

It was suggested that the college be asked to avail its news circulating system to the commission so that the staff might be asked to refrain as much as possible from having mid-term tests on the day of all College Elections, May 3rd. The instructors would also be asked to mention the election in their classes.

Johnson moved that the commission go on record as favoring, to the administration, a teacher evaluating system by the students. Freeh seconded. Motion carried. Further plans will be made at the next meeting.

Douglas Horlocker questioned the possibility of moving the election out of mid-term week. This was considered to be impossible by the commission.

Meeting adjourned.

Respectfully submitted,
Gordon D. Tollerud.
Non-Voting secretary.
