Sioux Have Court Advantage For Final Games Of Series

By JOHN HESSE

The NDAC basketball team moves to Grand Forks tonight for the final two games of the Nickel Series with North Dakota university. Although the Herd holds a two game to none advantage the Sioux are favored to cop both the remaining games because of the home court advantage.

However, the advantage comes too late to do the Sioux any good because they are already out of first place and a chance to tie with Iowa State Teachers college for the conference championship.

A win at Grand Forks could leave the Bison in a better position. At present Chuck Bentson's crew is in a tie for fourth place with South Dakota university. If the Bison can salvage one game at Grand Forks and the Coyotes drop another contest to South Dakota State this weekend it would put NDAC in undisputed possession of fourth place in the conference race.

If the Bison take another game from the Sioux there is a chance for them to enter the NAIB playoffs for the big Kansas City tournament this spring. But to do this, the Bison must beat the Sioux and then take a tournament for the regional title. In this region the champions of the intercollegiate conferences in North Dakota and South Dakota have already been decided. In the South Dakota Intercollegiate conference, Huron college is the class, and in the NDIC Valley City Teachers has the title cinched.

Coach Bentson will probably go along with the same line-up that started the two games at Fargo. At one forward will be long shot artist Dave (Whitey) Turner. Teamed with him will be Marv Evans, whose defensive work has been one of the NDAC mainstays since he broke into the starting line-up in mid-season. At center Jack Garrett will get the starting nod, and Clayton (Sonny) Sondag will be ready to understudy him. At the guards will be Art Bredahl, who has showed vast improvement in the last few games, and Dave Torson, an all-conference selectee last year, who is almost sure to name to the mythical quintet again this season. Bob Geston is injured and is not likely to see much action in the two games at Grand Forks, but Packy Schafer is slated for some use.

Glenn (Red) Jarrett, Sioux coach will probably go along with much the same line-up that he used in the initial contests. Ed Weber and Pete Simonson, who have carried much of the offensive load for the Sioux this year will be ready to go at the forward spots. The center will be Don Meredith with Buzz Elliot in the role of a replacement in the pivot spot. Fritz Engel, Lou Bogan and Jim Bischke are likely candidates for the starting nod in the back court.

Dutch Farmer Boy Writes To Editor

A letter addressed "To An Agricultural Newspaper in North Dakota, U.S.A." found its way to the Spectrum office this week.

Enclosed was a note from a young Dutch farm boy who asked to have the following inserted in the paper.

"A Dutch farmer's son wants to be in correspondence with an American farmer's son. I am 17 years of age and I am going (to) an agriculture college. My address is: J. A. deBoer, Onderwierum 9, Onderdendam, Groningen, Holland."

The remainder of the letter was a sincere appeal for an answer to his request. It was printed in English using very formal grammar.

with supplemental allowances, the positions involve state department duties in foreign countries.

Eight written examinations during a half-week period will cover reading comprehension, vocabulary, mathematics and statistics, general factual information, English composition, modern world history, economics, and one or more foreign languages.

Those qualifying in written examinations will be given an oral examination to determine qualities of personality and character and a physical examination.

Applications for the examinations, which can be taken in St. Paul, Minn., must be in by July 1. Sample examinations and further information may be obtained from Dr. Hunter in the history department.

Pick Twelve Acts For 1950 Version Bison Brevities

Plans were continuing this week for the annual Bison Brevities Musical Variety show, following elimination tryouts which were held last week in Festival Hall. Production dates for this year's show are April 25, 26, and 27.

After viewing the tryouts, Clarence (Clink) McGeary, Director of the Blue Key sponsored production, said that indications were this year's show would be one of the finest in the history of the event.

Fifteen-minute acts which were selected include Kappa Alpha Theta, Sigma Chi, Alpha Gamma Rho, Gamma Phi Beta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Alpha Tau Omega, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Included among five-minute acts selected for the final show were Theta Chi, Kappa Alpha Theta, Sigma Alpha Iota, Kappa Kappa Psi, and Alpha Gamma Delta.

Business Manager John Paulsen and Judging Chairman Jack Enger announced that three prizes would be given in each category, with judging to be done on a point basis. Originality, scenery, costuming, audience appeal, art, music, and comedy will be among possible criteria for prize-selection.

Willie Best Tells Story Of Old U Series

By WILLIE BEST

(Dear Frank, the Lin. op. My apologies—Willie.)

Well, boys and girls, the first two games of the Nickel Series turned out to be pretty exciting. Of course it wasn't as exciting as in the good old days here at NDAC. Yessir. Those were the days! The days of the Charleston, the Bunny Hug, the flapper, the pitcher hat, and bathtub gin.

And in those days we really played basketball. Our court was on the floor of Festival Hall. A few years previously, they had used it to stable mules for the ROTC, and they hadn't cleaned things up too much. I was starting at center for the Bison. I can remember the electric thrill that shot through me as I went out on the floor. The crowd cheered madly. By some mistake they had been informed that Sally Rand and her troupe were to be entertaining on the Lyceum series that evening.

The warm-up was so strenuous that soon I became hot and decided to remove my warm-up togs. I removed the jacket and the crowd laughed then I stripped down to my shorts and they roared and then I bent over and they split.

Then it was almost game time and we went down to the dressing room and the coach said, "All right gang let's get up there. I want to give you your last minute instructions right on the floor. Then he opened the door and we dashed through it. Strangely enough he had opened the door into the shower room, and three of the players were drowned before we discovered the error. Somebody must have left the water running.

Then as we gathered around our coach on the floor, he began his last minute instructions.

"Listen you apes, all you gotta do is get hold of this ball and try to throw it into that hoop up there. Not the one at the other end of the floor, but this one. Now, if any of you think that you'll have a hard time finding the right one, I've got some compasses here. But look, when the other team, those gorillas out there with the lavender suits on have the ball, you gotta try to take the ball away from them. But whatever you do, don't make like you did when we were playing Roosevelt junior high. Leave those axes on the bench with me. If you hit 'em with an ax or a club or another player, that's a foul. And you know what five fouls means. You gotta turn in your yo-yo for a week."

Then the referee blew his whistle and we went out on the floor to begin the game. I stepped up to the university center and looked up at him. You see, he was about seventeen feet tall. It was then that I realized that he was standing on a box. The whistle blew and the referee threw up the ball (good trick). I tipped it to one of our guards and broke for the basket. They tossed me the ball. I pivoted and hooked. The ball soared up, up, up and dropped in. However, I had miscalculated the shot and hooped one into the bass horn in the band. We won the game in the last four seconds of play, 109-12.

You should have heard the uproar after we took the first game. We all went out into the night and started a bon-fire. Then things got a bit out of hand and when the next morning dawned we had burned down the dairy barn, Science Hall, and the residence of Mr. Vladimir O'Flanahan, 1197, North 14 1/2 street.

The next night in the game, again we scored with utter unrestraint. Utter Unrestraint was our star forward that had been absent from the game the night before due to a fracture of the great toe on his left foot. However the university edged us, but it didn't dampen our spirits a bit. We all retired to the basement of the YMCA and had a jolly time ducking for apples. Of course some smart guy spiked the punch with Pepsi-Cola and things got a bit out of hand again. After a while the apples had to duck for us. Now I don't want you to get the idea that we were a roudy bunch. Just fun loving. At least that's what we told the judge the next morning when they found the university coach with his head bashed in with a jack handle.

Then came the two games up at the university. I can't remember what happened up there because upon arrival, one of the other players mentioned something about an East Side or something like that. On the way home we met some girls from the university that were just going to a sorority party. They asked us if we wanted to go, and we said yes.

What happened at the party is still not quite clear. All I know is that I woke up the next morning with a headache and no wallet. I think that she said something about her mother being very sick and needing an operation. I don't know.

Of course there was a game. In fact there were two. I ran wild. Of course it was away from the university. But we managed to take the next two. The university officials protested though when we insisted on using a helium filled ball, but we were all so high that it helped us a lot.

In fact they protested so vigorously that we finally had to take care of them. I thought we'd never get those cement filled barrels over the bridge.

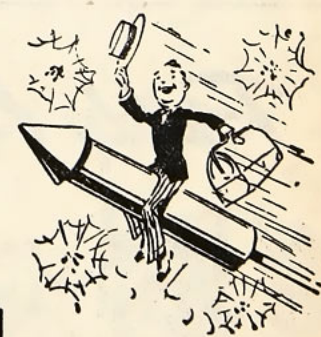

Well, boys and girls, take some advice from old Uncle Willie. If you are going up to the university;

1. Don't visit the Riviera. Rita and Aly aren't there, believe me.
 2. The East Side is not another name for Asia, so don't go over there expecting to meet any sultans with veiled harems.
 3. Don't attend the hockey games. There will be a lot more action over at Whitie's.
 5. I don't know what ever became of 4. Anyhow, don't try to pick up any university girls. Or if you must, if she says, "My mother is very sick, and she needs an operation," look out.
- Well, kiddies, have a good time up there. See you next time we're short of copy down here.

Hultz Speaks on Holiday

The NDAC student body is to be congratulated for its support of our team during the crucial series with its traditional rival last week. Outstanding in this support were the sportsmanship and good manners exhibited alike by all the team members and by their participants.

In announcing a holiday in celebration of our victories I had in mind two objectives:

First, to express our admiration to a hardworking team and their coach for brilliant teamwork, cool strategy and a driving determination to give their best efforts for the college.

Second, to point a tradition here that successful inter-collegiate competition does not go unnoticed on our campus.

Since the war years our varsity teams have suffered indifferent success, often yielding to smaller but more determined rivals. This situation has been a source of chagrin to students, alumni, staff and our thousands of ardent supporters in Fargo and throughout North Dakota and Minnesota. With this situation in mind the administration of the college and the athletic department have taken thoughtful steps toward its correction.

An enlarged, highly competent and aggressive corps of coaches has been engaged, under contracts which indicate our confidence in them. The football field is being moved to provide, among other items, adequate and convenient parking facilities. A contract has been let for alterations to the Field house which will constitute a beginning toward greater patron comfort there. Alumni and friends are taking a renewed interest in our athletic program, and so, even at the expense of some class time, it seemed fitting and proper to declare Monday, February 27th a student holiday, a special day for considering our athletic accomplishments, and for contemplating the rigorous climb which lies ahead as we leave the cellar for more desirable spots higher up. In this program of betterment the keynote will be cooperation.

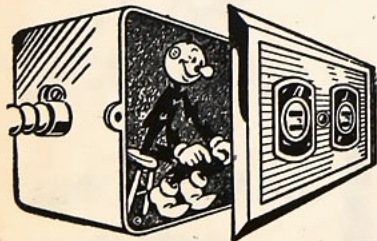

The requisites for success include loyal and enthusiastic support; hours of hard work by coaches, players, band, student organizations and all others concerned; and a faith that AC can and will again attain the strong position in inter-collegiate athletics which her reputation as a leading educational institution warrants.

To this attainment the administration pledges its full efforts.

Henry's Here

By MORGEN HENRY

We have had a gimlet eye on the professional prognosticators for some time now and from where we sit there doesn't seem to be any reason why everyone can't get in the guessing game.

Forecaster Fitzgerald of the Forum ran a half-column cut of a jackass in place of his picture in his column today (Tuesday) and kicked himself up and down for failing to predict the outcome of the first two games of the UND-AC series. As Fitz pointed out, he has been wrong before. As anyone who looks around him may notice, thousands of prognosticators gnash their teeth daily over some faux pas they have pulled off.

Well, if the people who work full time at this prediction business can't come up with the goods, why can't all us laymen have a crack at it?

(We are tempted here to assume that someone gives us a reason for not having a crack at it, but even the bartenders have gone home).

There's really nothing to this prediction racket. Firstly, let's divide everything to be guessed at into several neat categories such as Sports, World Affairs, Sex, Politics, etc. Then, have a whack at it.

PREDICTIONS IN THE FIELD OF SPORTS

By Fitz O'Morgen
Well, the sport picture this week seems to be one of some imminent victories counterbalanced by an equal number of losses.
When NDAC locks horns with UND this weekend there are bound to be some fireworks. This is because the students who were shooting them off in Science hall last Friday undoubtedly will attend the game.

While NDAC is favored by this writer over the U, there is always the chance for an upset. The upset could be brought on by a dirigible crashing into the stadium or by the inability of the AC team to find the Field house. (Considering the size of the U field house, there is a good chance for this to happen.)

The top scorers for the game will undoubtedly be players from either the University or the NDAC teams. Many people will go to the game. The stadium will be crowded.

PREDICTIONS ON WORLD EVENTS

By Westbrook Henry
If someone set off the H bomb there will be a great to do.

PREDICTIONS ON SEX

By Kinsey Morgen
By the end of the 21st Century, people will have forgotten about sex.

PREDICTIONS ON POLITICS

By Drew Morgen
The country will go dry.
The next presidential election will be won by Lana Turner.
By 1955 the Democrats and the Republicans will be old pals.
Congress will convene every now and then in the next few years.

PREDICTIONS ON LITERATURE

By H. L. Morgcken
The "Great American Novel" will be written in 1981 by a New York wharf rat. It will follow a "boy meets girl, boy loses girl" theme.
J. J. Metcalf will suffer a decline in popularity by the end of 1960. Gertrude Stein will be deciphered.
The "Divet Story" will outsell the Bible.

PREDICTIONS ON SCIENCE

By Dr. Vannevar Morgen
Flash Gordon will get married and settle down.
Scientists will get tired of splitting atoms and take up potted aspidastras.
Automobile manufacturers will discover the "running board".
Albert Einstein will work linked puzzles.

If you've got any good predictions to make just throw them through the Spectrum office window wrapped around any good old brick although we can predict already that we won't be here.

Trash . . .

By BOB JOHNSON

With no columns in this weeks edition by either Sully or O'Leary (Bless them) we shall attempt to fill out about 13 column inches by ourselves.

Since there is no news around this place to speak of, (it all must be said in whispers, we've been told) we have to resort to papers from other colleges. This is reminiscent of a column of long ago called "On Other Campuses" by another guy named Johnson. Not me, though, he did a good job.

The first paper at our fingertips is the South Dakota Collegian, dated Feb. 22. From the "Lobby" by M.E.L. we quote: "Lobby Lofs at the fellow who says the new low-necklines are the world's best camouflage for bowlegs."

Next, on the darker side of life, is a poem printed in the Lawrence Tech News of Feb. 16:

Now I lay me down to rest
Before I take tomorrow's test
If I should die before I wake
Thank heaven, I'll have no test to take.

Also from the same paper, to show that NDAC isn't the only campus to have its parking troubles comes the following:

"To the administration, Faculty and Students of the Lawrence Institute of Technology.

Parking is not allowed on any portion of the circular drive in front of the college. The drive is specifically marked as a fire lane and, therefore should not be used as a parking space.

The Ford Motor company has given notice that it intends to enforce these fire regulations. Any violators will be ticketed by the police."

Wonder if they want to borrow a conscientious cop? ? ? The only difference between the LIT and NDAC, is that all the roads around here are fire lanes. We need it that way, though, until the '100 year reconstruction program' is carried out.

We can't possibly write anything in this column without saying a few nice words about the Eskischmoos from the Northland.

In the Feb. 24 issue of the Dakota Student, one A. L. Monroe while interviewing a student who had attended the 1949 "Nickel Series," asked said student what he remembered of the week-end. (At Fargo)

Said the student:

About the above quotation we can only say that there are now many students at the U who are speechless. Especially after last week-end. What happens tonight and tomorrow night is something else again. We shall all be waiting with liquored breath, won't we?
One more comment and this hole in the page should be filled up.

@-'!$!'-I hope so--Linotype op.

While dozing peacefully in bed this morning, just couldn't get up, came the news over the radio that a few movie stars will be in town the day you read this. Seems Hollywood wants to make a movie about Alaska, and chose Fargo to shoot their most wintry scenes. They sure picked the right spot.

Well, chillun' lets all fire up for the big week-end. Wish I could be here to help, but after the paper is distributed I think I'll take a few days off.

Teachers in the public schools. Clerks of Court. Doctors, dentists, pharmacists, postmasters and postal employees and members of a regularly organized fire company.

Q. Are women qualified to serve?

A. Yes. However, a woman can be excused by requesting the Clerk of Court to be excused, in writing at least five days before the term starts.

Q. Is there a county list of names from which jurors are selected?

A. Yes. A list of 200 jurors is to be selected from the county each year. These are apportioned to the townships and incorporated cities and villages, based on the population as shown on the assessors list the year before.

Q. How are the names chosen in the township, city or village?

A. The Clerk of Court notifies the local clerk or auditor how many names are to be submitted from that township or village. The Clerk should immediately post notice that the board of supervisors, trustees or council will meet to draw the names. At that meeting the board, trustees or council selects from the resident taxpayers three times as many names as must be submitted. These names are placed on separate tickets, placed in a box and the proper number of names selected by drawing. A record is kept of the names and order drawn.

Q. Should a person who has served as a juror the year before be again chosen?

A. No. No person who has been on the regular jury panel from the subdivision should be again chosen during the succeeding ten years.

Q. Should all qualified persons be given a chance to serve as jurors?

A. Yes. The names of all qualified should be kept on a list and no person should serve a second time until all qualified persons have served in rotation.

Q. From the county list of 200 how are the names of the jury panel for a particular term of court chosen?

A. The Clerk of Court, County Treasurer, County Auditor and Sheriff, or a majority of them, meet and draw the names by lot. The District Judge who orders the jury to report decides how many may be needed.

Q. If notified you have been chosen to serve on a jury panel, may you refuse to act?

A. No, unless excused by the Judge who ordered the jury to report. The Judge may excuse a juror for any good cause.

Q. What is the penalty for failure, refusal or neglect to report for jury duty?

A. A fine for contempt of court in an amount not less than $5.00 or more than $50.00.

Friday's Game

kept the Bison hopes alive. He scored sixteen points following the intermission, after a comparatively cool first half.

In the waning minutes of the game the Bison were content to hold the ball and make the Sioux come out and get it away from them. They had, however, a comfortable lead. The slow deliberate style of control ball the Bison employed seemed to keep the Sioux off balance throughout the contest. They were stopped successfully in their fast-break offense by the Herd's switching man-to-man checking.

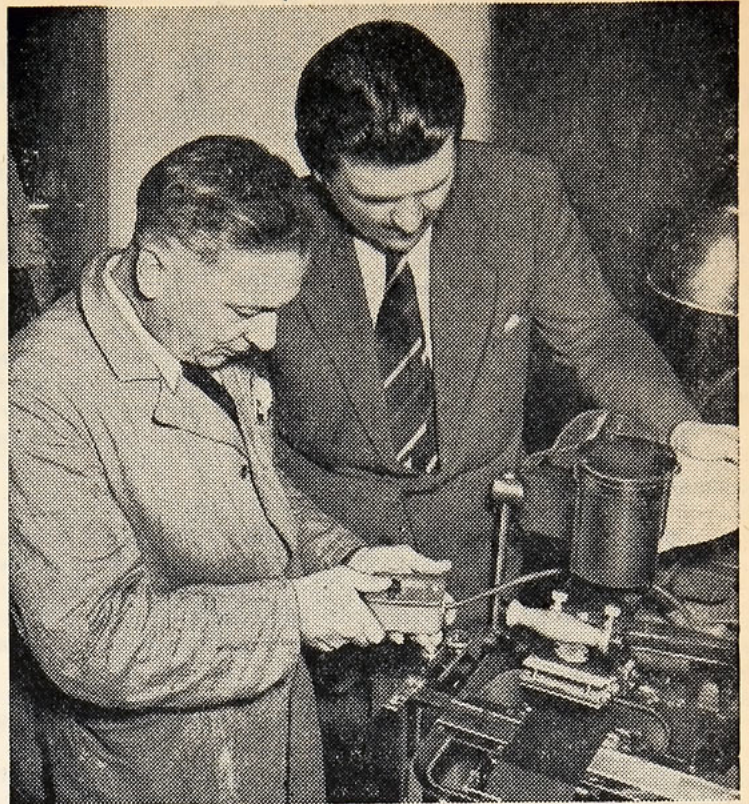

It was team balance and reserve strength that paid off in the Bison victory. Bentson employed eight men in his effort with only one failing to score, and he played a whale of a defensive game, even though seeing limited service. Another Bison reserve who looked good in the rebounding department was Clayton Sondag. Sondag saw only a little action due to an apparent affinity to fouls, but while he was in the game his height helped the Bison keep complete control of the backboards.

With the game almost over, Packy Schafer was fouled and he stepped to the free throw line and dropped in two shots after the final buzzer had sounded and the crowd was surging on the floor all around him.

Jack Garrett took scoring honors for the evening with twenty one points. Very close behind him was Dave Torson with seventeen. Art Bredahl and Dave Turner, both of whom played one of the top games of their college careers, each got ten points on five field goals. Although Marv Evans got only four points, he did a fine job defensively under the Bison basket.

Simonson was the big gun in the Sioux offense with twenty points to his credit, to put him close to his teammate, Ed Weber for the scoring honors for the season on the NDU squad. Weber contributed thirteen points for the Redmen. Jim Bischke and Don Meredith were also essential cogs in the Sioux effort, each dropping in seven points.

NDAC Students

are a little bedraggled this week. The wear and tear of sardine-like confinement at last week's basketball games, the stress and strain of almost continuous vocal support to the Herd through two tough nights, post-game celebrations and—as if wonders will ever cease—Dr. Fred S. Hultz's happy adjournment of school on Monday, all left their mark.

However, NDAC students have, at long last, some real, honest-to-goodness athletic heroes. Charley Bentson's men played like real pros last weekend. They were superior to Red Jarrett's Sioux at every turn. Defensively, the Bison were, to a considerable degree, impregnable. Offensively, they were far better than NDU—hailed as one of the finest offensive machines in recent conference history.

However, the Bison won last week's encounters not so much on account of offensive or defensive ability as on account of the fact that they had more of the real 'stuff' from which basketball players are made than did their highly touted opponents. The Sioux looked fine in spots. Some of their men showed real promise, had a lot of fancy maneuvers, looked good in pre-game workouts. But, in the end, when things were tough in the late portions, particularly of Saturday's game, the Bison had more intestinal fortitude for the tight situation than did NDU.

Both games were essentially team victories. In fact, not one of the eight men who saw action over the two days failed to distinguish himself on at least one occasion. That Dave Torson was the greatest of the great is only fitting. Athletic Director C. C. Finnegan said after Friday's game that Torson's play could be compared without disadvantage to that of Larry Tanberg, another Bison all-time immortal great. Jack Garrett, possessed of abilities to be one of the best, was superlative during the last half of Friday's game, and almost as good during the first twenty minutes of the second contest.

Marv Evans, whose aggressive play and accompanying personal fouls cost him considerable playing time, made his style of performance pay off in both games before going out via the infraction route. For Art Bredahl—who spent the first three-fourths of the campaign as a bench replacement—and Dave Turner, the games were season-peaks. Both scored well—each registering ten points per game—but it was in the field of defensive rebound work that the pair earned their greatest accolade.

Bentson used three replacements in the two games. They tallied but four points among them. However, all three—Bob Geston, Clayton Sondag, and Marv Shafer—played in late portions of both games, after Herd regulars had fouled out, and when NDAC was attempting to maintain point advantages. All three accomplished precisely what was needed in the situation.

The Overflow

crowd which filled the Fieldhouse by 6:30 Saturday got in on a third brilliant performance. Norm Evans, who has done a fine job with the NDAC Freshman team, had his men ready for their biggest test—a preview of coming UND-NDAC series contests. The Herd freshmen, like their varsity brothers, displayed more inclination to get in and pitch than did their rivals. Duane Anderson, Dale Pepple, Don Fougner, and Jim O'Conner gave NDAC a scoring punch that forbode glum happenings for the Sioux in future years. Jerry Geisler, despite a poor scoring night, and Rodney Fercho also played well for Evans' men, whose stiff competition in practice sessions this year did much to improve varsity performances.

It was a great weekend for Bison athletics—the second really outstanding week NDAC basketball has had since the war. Only in 1947 when a similarly underdog Herd beat a similarly favored Sioux three-out-of-four has the school had a real taste of basketball glory.

The President of the college pleased the student body tremendously by his gesture in declaring Monday a holiday. Partially were the students pleased because they always enjoy a day off regardless of the occasion. More importantly were they pleased because of Dr. Hultz's recognition of their part in making the victories possible. NDAC student spirit reached a post-war high on both occasions, and couldn't help but have been a factor in the wins.

Nothing need be said or feared about the coming two games at Grand Forks. NDU has come, been seen, and been conquered. NDAC got the jump on the Sioux 6-0 in Friday's game, they've had Jarrett's men on the run ever since and the Sioux know it. I'll be surprised if NDAC doesn't win both games at Grand Forks.

The fact of the matter is that the Sioux, despite all their offensive averages, are at a loss to know what to do against a capable defense. Their home court might give them some advantage — I doubt if it will be enough.

Bison Cop First Two

Friday's Game

By JOHN HESSE

Coach Chuck Bentson's Bison cagers took the first of their annual four game series from North Dakota university last Friday, 66-52. Although the Herd was paced by the torrid shooting of Jack Garrett, the win was essentially a team victory, with all the Bison hoopsters contributing either offensively or defensively to the effort.

Three quick buckets by Dave Torson gave the Bison a 6-0 lead before the game was two minutes old. However, a field goal by Fritz Engel, and a field goal and two free throws by Pete Simonson tied the game at 6-6 shortly. The rest of the first half was a nip-and-tuck affair with the score being tied four times and the lead changing hand several times.

The Bison put on a splurge at the end of the first half which put them out in front 36-33 at the intermission. The Sioux came back in the early moments of the second period to tie the score 36-36 on a free throw by Simonson and a bucket by Ed Weber, ace NDU forward.

The rally was short-lived as a bucket by Garrett put the Bison out in front again, this time to stay. In the second half it was the sharp shooting of Garrett that

Saturday's Game

By JOHN PAULSEN

Registering its second remarkable upset in two nights, NDAC's basketball Herd gave an almost hysterical SRO crowd in the Fieldhouse plenty to scream about as it nudged NDU, 55-52, on the strength of three last-half-minute free throws. Thus, by scoring their second straight over Glenn Jarrett's Sioux, the Bison knocked NDU out of any possible chance at a share in the NCIC crown which will now go to Iowa Teachers again. And the Herd, by its sharp superiority in both contests, established itself as favorites to win this week's games at Grand Forks, despite an 8-0 Sioux home record.

Some of victorious Coach Charley Bentson's men turned in their greatest games as NDAC performers. Art Bredahl, an only average defensive worker in past contests, was magnificent under the defensive back board, besides contributing ten markers of his own. He got plenty of help from Dave Turner, the most consistently improving player for the Herd all season. Turner had fourteen points, second high to Dave Torson. For Torson, the first two games were sensational ones. Not as spectacular Saturday as he had been the night previous, the all-conference guard still was the squad's most-

Record Crowds Watch Games Here

By JOHN PAULSEN

Athletic Director C. C. Finnegan reported that crowds in attendance at University series games were among the largest ever to see the annual struggle between the two schools. An estimated 3,500 watched Friday's affair, but Finnegan said closer utilization of bleacher space and more numerous standees, jammed into the end-lines four and five deep, substantially enlarged Saturday's attendance figure. Spectators were precariously perched on the bleacher sides, outside the guard rails and in window cavities along both ends of the court.

Bison rooters were at a post-war vocal high, responding, in the light of the unheralded Herd successes, with unheard of intensity to every NDAC basket, cheer, and substitution. First real evidence that NDAC was to have the better of the games came on Friday when three straight baskets by Dave Torson sent the Herd in front 6-0. As the Sioux called time-out, Bison supporters rocked the Fieldhouse with a long, roaring, ovation.

NDAC's Frosh team, which performed brilliantly, had a chance to play before a full house. By 6:30, fifteen minutes after the start of the preliminary contest and a full hour-and-a-half before the start of the varsity struggle, the Fieldhouse was full and beginning to overflow. Bison supporters gave Norm Evans' club a rousing ovation after they left the floor with a 52-35 decision.

Visibly jubilant over the squad's surprise double-barreled victory, NDAC President Fred S. Hultz immediately began notifying newspapers and radio outlets to announce that Monday was to be an administrative holiday in recognition of the victories.

Dorm Aggies Win Cage Title

By JOHN L. SULLIVAN

The Intra-Mural championship finals Tuesday night wrote finis to the '49-50 I-M basketball season. Featured in that contest were the Dorm Aggie Midgets and the Alpha Gamma Rho 1 entry, with the Midgets coming out on the long end of a 54-40 score. It was a closely played game, more-so than the score indicates.

Tom Colwell of the Midgets took high scoring honors for the evening with 16 points, closely followed by Roy Stillings with 12 tallies and Max Adams with 11. Next highest on the DAM quintet was Bill Ford with 9 and Lefty Neumann with 7. Jerry Waldera was the only Midget not to break in the scoring column but was invaluable in capturing rebounds and defensive play.

Sparkplugs for the AGR quintet were guards Ernie Johnson and Warren Gallagher. Johnson shared scoring honors for his team with 10 points, all on field goals. Gallagher was close behind his teammate with 8 points, also all on field goals. Center Ernie French had an off night but was good enough to take a share in his team's scoring honors. Fouls were the Farmer's undoing committing 22 of them with the DAM capitalizing on 18 of them. The Dorm men were stingy with their rule-violations, committing only 13 of them, with the AGR's able to make only 7.

valuable. He spaced his fifteen points just where they were needed most, repeatedly dropping shots at opportune moments when the Herd seemed to be faltering.

Jack Garrett, whose second-half play on Friday iced the contest, chose the pre-intermission period for his best efforts in Saturday's thriller. He had ten points, on some expertly handled maneuvers, before fouling out late in the game. Marv Evans reached a high for all-round efficiency in the first half when alert play enabled him to break up at least four Sioux offensive maneuvers.

Bentson's three replacements—Clayton Sondag, Bob Geston, and Marv Shafer — all distinguished themselves, although none scored a point. Sondag's third period work helped get the Herd back in contention after an NDU splurge had sent the Sioux in front, while Shafer—always one of the team's best floor men—came on in the late stages, after Garrett and Evans had fouled out and Geston had been lost by an injury, to help Torson lead a Bison stalling game. Geston's two fine passes enabled Turner and Bredahl to score baskets.

Louie Bogan hit a season high for Jarrett's losers, checking in with twelve well-gotten points. Jim Bischke, whose efforts at watching Torson were hampered by his mate's defensive ineptness, also played well, as did Buzz Elliott, who entered for Meredith and far-out shown his starting teammate.

After that it was see-saw with the Herd usually in front by a point or two. With 59 seconds left, Fritz Engel's long one-hander tied the game at 52-all. With 22 seconds remaining, Pete Simonson blundered into a costly foul on Art Bredahl at midcourt. Bredahl scored the first, but missed the second shot. NDU shot and missed, and the Bison had possession as Turner was fouled with one second left. He made both shots, but wouldn't have needed to for the Sioux could only make the pass-in before the end.

Sport Spotlight

By JOHN HESSE

President Fred S. Hultz really showed what kind of a sports fan he was this week when he declared Monday an administrative holiday. Far and above that idea of just having another day off from school, the idea of giving our athletic teams more support is one that cannot be overemphasized. Our basketball team has really produced this year, especially at the end of the season, and they deserve some recognition for a job well done.

BENTSON IN SOLID

If Chuck Bentson had any doubts about whether or not his job at NDAC meant security, he needn't worry. As far as most of the fans are concerned, he could run for mayor and make it. That man is in solid with the fans in the Fargo-Moorhead area. When the college hired Bentson, the idea most of us had was to suspect him, and even mistrust him until he proved himself better than the coach that preceded him.

Well, as far as I am concerned, Bentson has proved himself with a vengeance. Not only has he proved himself a capable coach, but he is actually one of the most likeable guys you ever want to meet. He seems to have a way with his players, too. At least it looks that way from the way those boys have been producing for him. So let's take off our hats to Wyoming's two contributions to our college, the new president and the new basketball coach.

PLAYERS WORK HARD

You can give all the credit to the coach and anyone else that you want to, but the boys that really deserve a lot of it are the boys that go out there on the floor and actually play the game. You could have Johnny Kundla coaching a team, but if you didn't have the player material, it wouldn't do a bit of good. The routine of training and practicing every day from November to March is enough to make a lot of boys just go over and loaf for a while. I have seen the Bison practice at least once a week ever since the season opened. Never have I seen one of the players out there loafing, or if they were, they didn't do it for very long.

NDU SERIES

But now we come to the university series. It must be becoming trite now to hear somebody say, "It was a pair of team victories." Well, trite or not, that is just exactly what those two games were. There is no one player that you can single out for being the stand-out.

It is true that Art Bredahl probably played the best two games of his college career. Dave Torson gave added to proof to the school of thought that has him slated as the best all-around player in the North Central conference. Whitey Turner did a magnificent job on both offense and defense, as did Jack Garrett. Marv Evans and Bob Geston weren't flashes in the scoring column, but they both performed creditably on the defense. Although Clayton Sondag had a lot of trouble with fouls, and an apparent case of over-excitement on Saturday, he did a good job clearing rebounds for the Herd.

SIoux CAPABLE

On the NDU side of the ledger, there were some capable players. One of the things that struck the attention of many was the fact that Don Meredith was not the player he was last year. I hate to say it, but Meredith looked like a goon out there instead of the smooth center that he was last year. For those not acquainted with the term, a goon is just a big player without too much ability, just size. That term should not apply to Meredith for those who have watched him. In last year's series he handled himself mighty capably on the floor both scoring and rebounding.

Weeping Ed Weber came in for quite a brow-beating from the partisan crowd. I think one of the loudest cheers of the two games was when he was charged with a technical foul for protesting too vigorously to the officials. His sportsmanship was anything but poor, but the fans seem to like to ride him for his frequent questioning of the decisions of the referees.

Fritz Engel was definitely not the same basketball player that broke the Herd's back with his two handed set shots last year. It seemed a bit ironical that the player that was publicized as being very sick would be the first Sioux player on the floor on Friday night.

The Saturday tussle brought Lou Bogan, who is no mean defensive guard, into the fore as an offensive threat. His one handed push shots from the port-side kept the Jarrett coached quintet very much in the ball game. The Sioux were not playing the kind of ball that they had been playing, but they were by no means ever out of the game until the final whistle.

NEW BACKFIELD COACH

There was more good news on the football scene this week with the announcement of Bernie Krueger to the position of backfield coach for the Bison. It is another appointment of a young man to a coaching position at NDAC. In his playing days at Illinois, Krueger was quite a passer and field general. In the 1949 Blue-Gray classic at Montgomery, Alabama, Krueger was named most valuable player on the North squad. With a pair of coaches like Mac Wenskunas and Krueger, the Bison should have a pretty good team, providing the material shows up next fall.

But the new grid mentors will have a host of veterans from last year's team, and a great bunch of freshman ready for varsity competition next fall. This move to improve the grid fortunes of the Bison will possibly give the Herd and the school the reputation that it deserves as a producer of fine athletic teams. But in the meanwhile, let's give the new coaches every opportunity to show what they can do.

I wish to extend my apologies to Manny Marget of Station KVOX in Moorhead, for not mentioning his play-by-play account of last weekend's first two Bison-Sioux basketball games. Manny has been broadcasting Fargo-Moorhead sports for a number of years, and doing a enviable job. Well, Manny will be bringing the home folks an account of the games at Grand Forks this weekend directly from the Armory on the campus of North Dakota university. So if you aren't going to be in Grand Forks, get Manny's broadcast over KVOX at 7:30 p.m. both Friday and Saturday nights. Give him a listen.

Yearlings Rip Sioux Frosh, 52-35, In Saturday Tilt

By JOHN MASHEK

North Dakota State's freshmen teams maintained their dominance over the University of North Dakota Sioux frosh squads, as the Bison yearlings swamped Dewey King's quint, 52-35. The contest was a preliminary affair to the varsity attraction Saturday night.

The Sioux jumped into an early lead on Rueben Entzel's fielder, but from then on it was an all Bison show. After a 5-5 deadlock the Bison took the lead to stay on "Grut" Anderson's tip in. Successive baskets by Jim O'Connor, Don Fougner, and another tip by Anderson put the Herd out of range for the remainder of the tilt.

Norm Evans came up with a successful "dropping back" defense to completely befuddle the Sioux with their fast break type of offensive. Chuck Wolfe, key man in the Green and White attack, was held without a field goal throughout the game. Jerry Geisler did the honors for a great defensive job on the Minot lefty before his banishment in the final stages.

Anderson and Fougner paced the Herd with 20 and 10 points respectively. Anderson's adaptness underneath the basket paid off in important points in the setto. Quick-thinking O'Connor completely dominated the defensive rebounds against the rangier Sioux. Entzel, a spring-legged speedster of Montana all-state fame, led the University with 15 counters and carried the burden of snaring rebounds off the glass for the Kingmen.

Leading 28-18 at the intermission, Evans' court wise frosh were content to wait for a sure try before attempting to score. Numerous fouls were called on the Sioux as they attempted to break up the hesitation game. The Bison converted on 16 out of 26 from the foul line, while the Sioux were capitalizing on 17 for 29. The slick floor play and smooth passing game of the Aggies was simply too much for the ragged playing visitors, who suffered their first setback of the season. The two teams will square off again in an afternoon affair at Grand Forks tomorrow. Game time is 3 o'clock.

Bob Consdantini, lanky Sioux pivot man from Iron Mountain, Michigan, suffered an ankle injury in the first half of the game but the report was that it wasn't of a serious nature.

Krueger New Assistant To Wenskunas

Bernie Krueger of Champaign, Ill., has been named backfield coach at NDAC, Pres. Fred S. Hultz announced recently. Krueger and the new head Bison mentor, Mac P. Wenskunas, were former teammates on the University of Illinois varsity and romped through the Big Ten and Rose Bowl Championships in 1946 together.

Born in Hammond, Ind., the new assistant coach is 24 years old and completed his Bachelor's Degree at the University of Illinois in February, 1950. An outstanding high school athlete in football, track and basketball, Krueger in 1942 won all-Northern Indiana conference left half, All state left half and was on a track team which placed second in the NIC and third in the state.

At the University of Illinois, Krueger has earned four varsity letters. In 1946-47, he played second team quarterback and moved up to the first team in 1948-49. In 1948, he was named the leading passer in the Big Ten and to the Mythical All-Players Midwest Third Team. In 1949, he was a member of the North Team for the annual Blue-Gray Game and received the distinction of being chosen the most valuable player on the north team.

Krueger, a veteran of World War II, spent two years in the Navy with 14 months overseas duty. He is married and the father of two sons.

Douglas R. Mills, Director of Athletics at Illinois, wrote NDAC Athletic Director, C. C. (Casey) Finnegan: "Bernie Krueger has been varsity quarterback for the past three years and has a fine and thorough knowledge of football. He was planning to work with our staff during spring football practice and it is only on rare occasions that we allow one of our graduating seniors to do this, and he must be very outstanding."
