Dobbin and Friends

Russ and Helen - - -

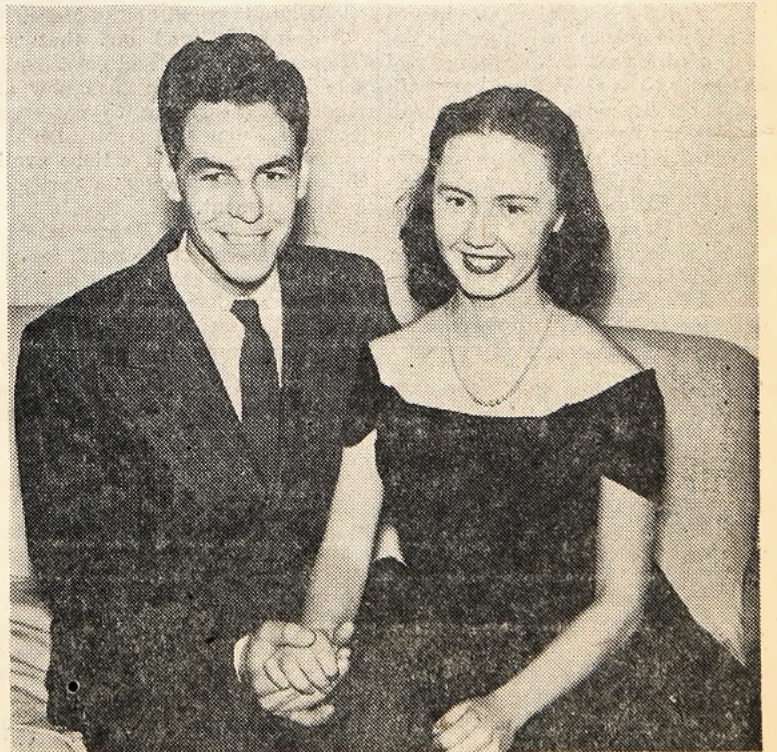

DOBBIN PATIENTLY STANDS BY while a pair of NDAC professors cram for tomorrow's harnessing exam at the 22nd annual Little International Livestock show scheduled for the Field house. It won't be Dobbin's first experience of the kind, but not so much is certain of the profs. They'll be competing in the Faculty Harnessing contest which is just one of the many novelty events on the slate for tomorrow's show.

- - - And the Enlows

ALSO AT THE FRONT will be Mr. and Mrs. Paul Enlow of Fargo. Mrs. Enlow the former Helen Beauchamp, is secretary of the Panhellenic council and is a member of the Kappa Alpha sorority. Enlow is also an NDAC student.

About Our Stand - - -

Though not everybody is dissatisfied with the present policy of The Spectrum, we're much afraid that a poll of its readers would find that a substantial proportion of our influential patrons harbor sadistic desires to see us verbally trampled and mentally machine-gunned. This is, of course, an unfortunate consequence of playing our journalistic wares into the hitherto virgin pastures of free student expression.

We regret the implication from some sources, several in number, that our policy is belligerent for the sake of the sound of the guns. At no time have we ever sought to breed trouble merely to fill out unsolicited pages in our paper. The implication is both unjust and unfounded.

Rather we have sought to follow a policy in every case that we felt would be best for the school. We appreciate the vast chances of

Enlow, Crews To Lead Annual Valentine Ball

Pledges of the various member sororities of the NDAC Panhellenic council will handle dressing-up chores on the Crystal ballroom for the annual Charity ball there next Friday. Work has already begun along a Valentine theme.

Lattice work has been prepared for the occasion and plans now call for a "heart" background for the campus Statesman, who will preside over music festivities.

This affair, a yearly undertaking of the Panhellenic council, provides funds for scholarships awarded each year to campus girls on the basis of scholarship.

Leading the ball this year are Helen Enlow and Helen Crews and their guests, Paul Enlow and Russ Henningsgard.

No less than Governor Fred Aandahl will lead the list of honored guests. Other honored guests include Mayor Dawson, Lt. Col. Balke, Dr. and Mrs. Longwell and deans Leita Davy, Pearl Dinan, Charles Sevrinson, A. E. Minard, H. L. Walster, R. E. Dunbar, R. M. Dolve, and W. F. Sudro.

The Ball will get underway at 9:30 and will last through 12:30. Tickets are now on sale at the bookstore or Dean Dinan's office at $2.40 per couple.

Band Sweaters Get Athletic OK

Approval by the NDAC athletic department has paved the way for members of the band to receive recognition sweaters while still in school. Previous to the recent athletic department announcement bandmembers received such recognition only in their senior year.

Sweaters will now be awarded to the bandmen upon completion of six terms of participation with the band. The awards are made on the basis of cooperation, attendance at athletic events and musicianship. A committee of the directors and officers of the Gold Star band will make the decision as to whom will receive the awards.

Those eligible for sweaters are Jack Askew, Deloris Barker, Philip Brua, Helen Crews, John Engen, Harold Hanson, Karl Kereluk, Fred Kingdon, Burton Kornberg, Donald Matteson, Stanley Peterson, Lydia Smith, Leo Vossler, Charles Wagner and Joann Zimmerman.

Tamiment Institute Offers $3000 Prizes In Contest

A first prize of $1,000, with 13 additional awards amounting to $2,000, will be distributed to college students by the Tamiment Social and Economic Institute, 7 East 15th St., New York 3, N. Y., for the best 5000 to 6000 word essay on "An American Program for World Peace in the Present Crisis," submitted to its second annual contest. Closing date of the contest is April 23, 1948.

Briefly, the rules of the contest are:

1. ELIGIBLE: The contest is open to all undergraduate college students in recognized colleges of the United States. A contestant may submit but one essay. Entry blanks will be sent on request. Any employee of the Tamiment Social and Economic Institute or Camp Tamiment is ineligible for a prize.

2. MANUSCRIPTS: No manuscript will be accepted unless it is typed, double-spaced. Only one side of the sheet should be used and

Phi Kappa Phi Nominates 7

Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary fraternity, will initiate seven NDAC students during the winter term, it was announced last week.

The seven students, who were elected Wednesday, Jan. 28, are seniors of the upper eight of the class. No more than 10 per cent of the class may be elected.

Elected for the winter term were Deloris Lamb, home economics of Glyndon; Everett Kangas, mechanical engineer of Astoria, Oregon; Deloris Barker, home economics of Harwood; Norman Gary, arts and sciences of Fargo; Thomas Challoner, mechanical engineer of Fargo; Vernon Wagner, pharmacy of Golden Valley; Gordon Lokke, electrical engineer of Fargo.

LSA To Hold Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Lutheran Students Foundation of Fargo Moorhead will be held Feb. 9th at 6:30 in the LSA Center. Rev. Berge will preside as president of the Foundation, which is composed of students, pastors, and laymen interested in student work on the AC campus. On the agenda will be next years budget, maintenance of the Center in the college "Y", and expansion of Lutheran Students work in the F-M area. All student members of the Foundation and others that are interested are invited to attend the meeting.

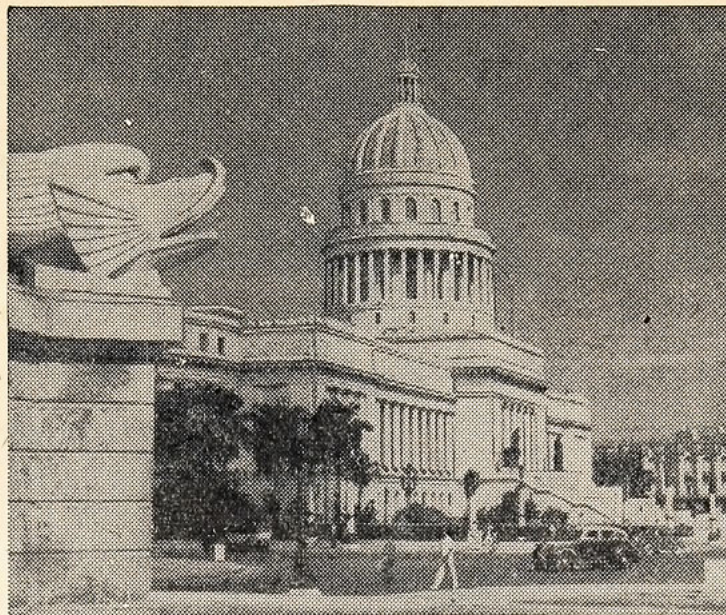

Johnston Says Essay Contest Getting Unexpected Response

Dr. J. W. Johnston, head of the faculty conservation committee, said Wednesday that the essay contest which the committee is sponsoring is getting "unprecedented response". The contest, open to all NDAC students will close March 1.

Johnston pointed out that reference lists which had been available in the library are now all taken but according to professor Kenneth Kuhn of the English department, more lists will be available today or tomorrow in the English department.

"The librarians," Johnston said, "cannot be praised too much for the fine assistance they have given to students seeking material from the library."

Cuba Lends Capitol for U.N. Trade Parley

Cuba's famed capitol, in the heart of Havana, has been borrowed by the United Nations for the International Conference on Trade and Employment. The Conference is setting up the precedent-making International Trade Organization (ITO), which will work toward lower trade barriers and expanded commerce all over the world.

Membership For AC Student Union Board Is Now Complete

Membership in the Student Union Board of Directors is now complete, it was announced this week, and organization of the Board was expected to be completed today with election of officers and appointment of committees.

Recent elections by the College council and the Alumni board bring the Union board to full membership of thirteen. Four representatives each from the student, faculty, and alumni groups, and the college an ex officio member comprise the board.

Faculty representatives elected by the College council are: Miss Ada Marie Campbell, assistant prof. of Home Economics; Prof. A. Glenn Hill, chairman of the Mathematics department; Dr. Gordon Johnsgard, professor of Agronomy; and Dr. Clifton E. Miller, professor of Pharmaceutical chemistry.

Alumni representatives are: Mrs. Ralph K. Welch, Fargo, whose husband is field agent for the Atwood Larson Co.; Ben F. Meinecke, Fargo senior member of Meinecke-Johnson Construction company; Dr. Frank Darrow, Fargo physician and surgeon associated with the Dakota Clinic; and Paul Horn, Moorhead, who has local farming and truck gardening interest.

Students representatives previously announced are Deloris Barker, Daly King, Lyle Nelson, and James Wilkinson, who will serve until spring elections. President Longwell completes the board membership.

The Board is to meet at 1:15 this afternoon in room 100, Old Main, to elect officers and to further plans for the solicitation of funds for the Union.

Blue Key Makes New Appointments

Twelve men were initiated into the NDAC chapter Blue Key fraternity at services held in Ceres hall at 5:30 yesterday.

Membership in Blue Key is based upon scholarship, character leadership and service.

NDAC Represented At Denver Show

NDAC was represented at the National Western Livestock Show at Denver, Colorado, which was held January 16th through January 24th, 1948. NDAC took five steers from beef cattle department and won five ribbons. Two Angus steers placed third and sixth, respectively, and three Shorthorn steers earned fourth and fifth ribbons as individuals, and also won fourth as a pen of Shorthorn steers.

The Livestock judging team, composed mostly of juniors, participated in the National Western Livestock Judging contest. The squad succeeded in trying for second place in carload swine judging.

About 1,500 veterans in Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska and the Dakotas who suffered hearing impairments in service are described as "seriously disabled" by the Veterans Administration.

Novelty Acts, Gold Star Band Also On Hand

By RALPH HARMON

Tomorrow night the pick of the domestic animal kingdom will hit the sawdust trail once more at the Saddle and Sirlain Clubs' 22nd annual Little International.

According to Don Sholts, the Little International manager, there will be an outstanding exhibition of livestock, poultry, and grains, as well as novelty acts and music by the Gold Star Band and the NDAC Men's Chorus.

Heading the fun and frolic events of the show will be the Faculty Horse Harnessing Contest. This is sure-fire entertainment claims Bob Rustad, superintendent of the event, and who's about to argue with such an impressive list of contestants such as "Bronko Bustin" Petty, "Lone Ranger" Moberg, "Panhandle" Iverson, "Rope 'em throw 'em" Erwin, "Two Gun" Johnson, "Man-O-War" Friese, "Wild Bill" Stoneburg, "Bull-doggin" Bosh, "Texas Ridin" Stein, "Oklahoma Kid" Wendland, "Ropin Sam" Grunert and "Rough Ridin" Martin in spite of the fact that none of the contestants are very familiar with the art of harnessing the equine, it is rumored that they are confident that proper grammar, a few equations and formulas properly applied should solve all their troubles.

Not to be outdone by the "Profs", the coeds are staging skill contests of their own in the form of a hog race, an innovation this year, and a milking contest which is an annual squirt and squeeze battle. Representatives of all womens organizations on the campus will do the honors in these settos.

Entries in the Livestock show will surpass any previous year, says Sholts. Lewellyn Tewksbury is superintendent of the Beef Cattle division, which include Hereford, Shorthorn and Aberdeen Angus breeds. The sheep division is headed by Merle Light and will boast entries in Columbia, Hampshire and Suffolk breeds. Randy Johnson is superintendent of the Swine division which will have Chester White and Duroc breeds showing. Holstein and Guernsey breeds will be entered in the Dairy Cattle division which is under the supervision of Russell Calderwood.

Calvin Konzak will direct the grain show at the Little International, and many varieties of small grains and corn are expected to be entered.

The Dog Show is bound to create a lot of interest among spectators, Sholts predicts. The show will be divided into three classes: Registered, Sporting and non-registered dogs. Officials say entries in these divisions total over thirty to date.

Harry Parnell of Fargo and his educated dog act will round out the novelty stunts which will be presented at intervals throughout the evening.

A prominent man in Northwest livestock circles will act as master of ceremonies for the Little International. He is Eddie Gruber of the Union Stock Yards at So. St. Paul.

Work started yesterday in converting the basketball court at the field house into a picturesque arena. Warren Knauss, arena superintendent, says the motif will be similar to that of past years, with the Mistress of Awards' throne and the stage being constructed entirely of baled hay.

The Mistress of Awards will be selected from the results of a ticket selling contest among coed organizations, and will reign over the show and present winners with trophies.

A preview of the Little International will be broadcast over FM station KVNJ Saturday afternoon at 4:30.

Yards of Silver At AC Totals $14

NDAC'S "Yards of Silver Campaign" for the "March of Dimes" was successfully completed last Friday night with total contributions amounting to $4.00. The drive took place in the lobby of the college "Y" where yardsticks were used to measure the amount of silver contributed. By Friday night the line of silver was well over 10 feet long.

The "Kitty" was upped to $39.00 Saturday when the residents of the mens' were solicited. Their contributions totaled $25.00. The entire project was under the sponsorship of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity affiliated with the Boy Scouts movement. Stanley Carlson of Washburn, North Dakota, was the committee chairman in charge; Ed Gutknecht is chapter prexy.

Education Group Reorganized

Initiations of twenty new members Wednesday formally reorganized NDAC's chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, honor society in education. This Gamma Delta chapter, inactive during the war, was first issued a charter on May 1, 1931, as the 76th of the now 150 national institutional chapters.

Assisting in initiation ceremonies presented by six members from the Moorhead State Teachers College chapter, Gamma Gamma, were Dr. P.J. Iverson and Dean C. A. Severson, the two chartermembers remaining at NDAC.

Of the initiates, five are from the department of agriculture education, six from home economics education and ten from the department of education, school of arts and sciences.

Accepted at the 5:00 ceremony in the Lincoln Lob Cabin were: Agricultural Education, Ray Erwin, Ardee Johnson, Merle Light, Ray Skorheim, Wallane Sweeney.

Home Economics Education, Alice Springer, Hlen Enlow, Donna Fisk, Joyce Hudson, Ellen Johnson, Deloris Lamb.

General Education!; Tom Corrigan, Ed Ehli, Joyce Gackle, Charles Jacobson, Mary Ann Ringwell, Phillip Rognlie, Rita Bastyr, Gloria Crews, Lorretta Swisher, Charlotte Cutler.

Another meeting is tentatively scheduled for Wednesday, Feb. 11, at 5:00 in Old Main to elect officers and set local dues. This business meeting will be followed by a joint dinner with the MSTC members of Kappa Delta Phi at the Hotel Gardner.

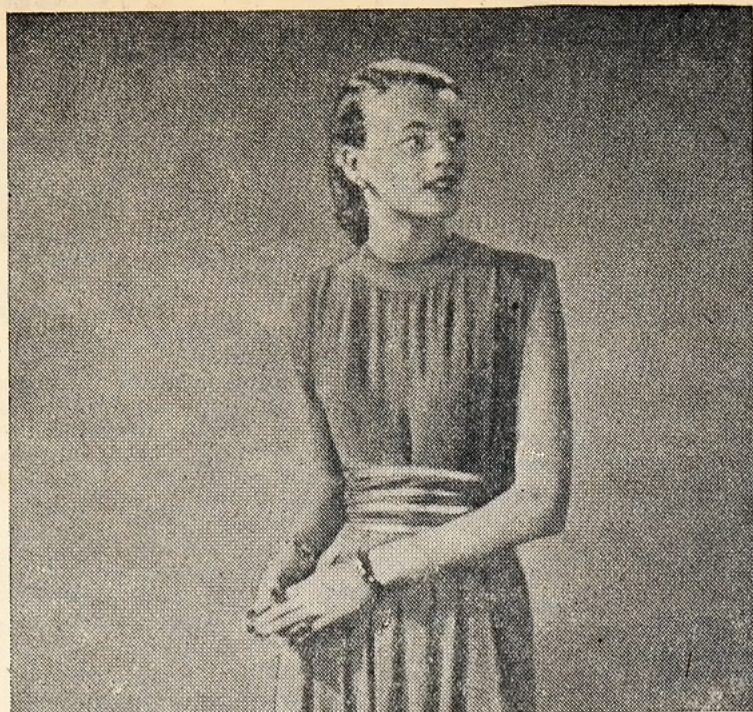

Phi U To Celebrate Founder's Day Tuesday

Phi Upsilon Omicron, national honorary home economics fraternity, will celebrate Founders Day in Fjelstad Hall on the Concordia College campus, Tuesday, Feb. 10th. Ruth Wilhan will give an account of her experience last summer in Panama and the fall initiates will present a skit.

Tryota Meeting Tuesday

Tryota Club will hold their traditional career meeting on Tuesday evening, February 10th in Ceres Hall. Dessert will be served at 7 o'clock in the North Lab. Tickets are now on sale for $.25. Co-chairman Delores Sorlie and Joyce Cunningham have announced that the deadline for tickets is Monday noon. Ellen Johnson and Nancy Nilles are in charge of the program and Ardis Ingwalson will head the refreshment committee.

Reserve Flight Leaves Hector

This morning at eight o'clock a plane was waiting at Hector airport to take reserve Air Force officers to Wold-Chamberlain field at Minneapolis as the initial step in a program to institute heavy bombardment training at Fargo.

The officers who left this morning will be back tonight after making reserve arrangements for further training in Minneapolis. Reserve Lieutenant Frank Sanders of Fargo says that this flight will be the first in a series of flights to line up officers for the establishment of the heavy bombardment squadron.

Reserve officers who wish to qualify for training should contact Lieutenant Sanders by calling 2-3291.

Band Sets Date For Annual Dance

The NDAC Gold Star band has announced that March 12th is the tentative date for their annual band dance. The dance will be an anniversary celebration for the Statesmen, since it was at last year's band dance that they made their first public appearance. A novelty German band will play during intermission or for dancing on requests. A men's quartet contest will again be sponsored. Any organization wishing to enter a quartet in this contest may do so.

Veterans interested in entering on-farm training should apply directly to the approved institution offering training. The VA pays for tuition as well as for books and incidental supplies required at the school.

Navy Offers Simplified Method To Obtain Reserve Commissions

Commander R. W. Mackin, head of the Fargo branch of the U. S. Naval reserve, has announced that enlisted men of the last war can now obtain commissions in the Volunteer Naval Reserve through a new and simplified process.

Navy reservists who seek a commission under the new terms are asked to contact the Naval Reserve office at 504 First Avenue in Fargo.

Under the somewhat simplified method of obtaining a commission, Mackin points out, individuals who through lack service or educational opportunities did not get commissions may now become a reserve officer by meeting eight requirements

Those requirements are: (1) Applicant must have honorably served as an enlisted man or warrant officer in the U. S. Navy, U. S. Naval Reserve, U. S. Coast Guard or Coast Guard reserve in World War II between Dec. 7, 1941, and Sept. 2, 1945. (2) Must have been separated from the service with an honorable discharge. (3) Must be a native born or naturalized citizen of the United States for at least 10 years (ten years requirement may be waived by Bureau on Naval personnel in cases of otherwise highly-qualified candidates. (4) Be not less than 19 or more 30 years of age.

(5) Have satisfactorily completed a four year course (at least 120 semester hours) at an accredited college. ONE YEAR OF COLLEGE MAY BE WAIVED FOR EACH YEAR OF ACTIVE DUTY (not in a student status) in the Naval service during World War II, providing the candidates is of the four year college educational level (indicated by a percentile score of 50 on the Officers selection test) Not more than two years of the four years of college may be waived. (6) Be physically qualified by standards set forth for Reserve officers in the manual of the Medical department of the U. S. Navy. (7) Be enlisted in the Naval reserve for inactive duty.

Vets Should List Address Changes

An increase of over 2000 veterans attending schools and colleges in the region served by the Fargo VA Center between December 31, 1946, and December 31, 1947, emphasizes the need for student-veterans to list address changes with VA offices, George E. Beckstrom, Veterans Administration Center manager, said today.

Beckstrom said that VA has urged change of address notification for several months in an effort to reduce delay in delivery of correspondence affecting the veteran and delivery of checks for subsistence and compensation.

In addition to changes of address, Beckstrom said a large number of veterans write the VA Center each day for information and in some cases enclose remittances but fail to include a return address. It was pointed out that where no return address or other pertinent information is furnished or available, a reply is "often virtually impossible".

Beckstrom also stated that on December 31, 1947, over 7400 World War II veterans were enrolled in schools and colleges in North Dakota and western Minnesota.

Werre Answers, "What Happened To Aunt Nettie?"

By JACK WERRE
A week ago I outlined my suggestions for the plot of a book to be done in the manner, if not the spirit of a naturalistic novel. If you will look back to what you have left of last week's paper (using what you have left of last weeks mind) you will find that Pa and Fazenda had just pulled out for California in the '27 Essex, leaving Aunt Nettie rocking in the flaming shack.

The response has been startling, to say the least. Total strangers have called me up, stopped me on the street, and forced their way into my house, pleading for the answer to the question, "What happened to Aunt Nettie?" Only yesterday evening, who should I find under my bed, but two melting-eyed beauties in lacy black underthings, fighting for the privilege of smoothing my hair, the better to worm the secret out of me. Ignoring their pitiful entreaties, I sent them packing, but, as I buried my head in my pillow, I seemed to hear the cry go up from a thousand throats: "What happened to Aunt Nettie?"

So, in hopes of bringing chaos out of confusion, I begin a sequel to last week's epic. I shall call it "Futility."

In the choking smoke and flames a dim figure listened intently to the fading motor of the Essex. Slowly it lifted the dirty piece of calico from its face. It's shiny, shoe-button eyes glared about malevolantly. It wasn't Aunt Nettie at all!

Three years before, Jeb Kallikak, sworn enemy of Pa and his family crept up to the little home. He burned with a fierce desire to get every—Jukes in town. All day he had hidden in the ivy, watching and waiting. That evening he saw the family gathered around the brood sow, helpless with laughter, watching Pa strike match after match as he heated the ring in her nose.

Seizing the opportunity, Jeb crept in a window, hustled Nettie out of her rocking chair, chained her in the closet, and took her place in the chair.

He giggled a bit foolishly as he fondled the nitro charge with which he was going to blow the shack.

Then he saw Fazenda. Suddenly everything was changed. He was disturbed by vague yearnings as she tottered past, sucking furtively at the brandied peach she had concealed in her sleeve. He knew then that she must be his. So he waited three years for an opportunity, watching and waiting. He managed to live on the beetles that crept in from the disposal plant next door. He loved to rock back, slowly, listening with intense satisfaction as their shells broke, with a sharp, snapping sound. Once in a while he would toss a wing into the closet to still Nettie's whimpers.

But now the house was afire. He had to move fast. He snatched up Grandma's gin-soaked shawl, threw it over his head, and made his escape.

II
As he looked over the heap of embers, he suddenly thought of Nettie in the closet. Poking in the ashes with a short stick he soon found a broken Knitting needle and a piece of a charred corset—Oh, well," he said.

III
He had been living with Fazenda for forty years, now. It had been a simple matter to follow her trail of nail-paring to California. Once there, he jokingly strapped the nitro on Pa's leg and ran like the wind. With one blow he had gotten Fazenda and the Essex for his own.

He chuckled benevolently as he looked at the family they had raised. They named their first son Cain. He loved to think how they had raised Cain (all right, I'm sorry. But you notice I'm letting it stay) They'd all been good children, even Sarah Ann, who had three heads and lived in a bottle. Naturally there had been problems in raising the youngsters, born as they were in the trunk of the Essex, but they were good children and they were as happy as children can be who don't eat.

But the time had come when they had to leave home. All the girls married wild-cattling millionaires except Sarah Ann who went KAT.

Jeb started brokenly into the setting sun. He cracked another beetle shell and added it to the huge pile by the doorstep.

"All I have left now are my memories," he said. "Urp!"

NDAC Group Seeks 2nd Win

The NDAC Saddle and Sirloin Club is striving to make it "two in a row" so far as the National Duroc Hog Judging contest is concerned. Last year among 4,784 entries from thirty-nine states in the National Contest, two boys from NDAC were ranked among the high individuals. Out of the seventeen college teams which participated in 1947, North Dakota Agricultural college ranked first. The 1948 contest pictures are in the Animal Husbandry office, and anyone in the school is eligible to participate in the contest. Entrants should place the eleven classes of Duroc hogs in time so that entries may be sent to National Contest Headquarters not later than Saturday, February 14th 1948.

Professor Burl Winchester, who coaches the livestock judging teams has arranged for a livestock judging clinic from 7 to 9 p. m. on Thursday, February 12th, 1948, Room 212, Morrill Hall. This meeting will be for the purpose of helping entrance in the National Contest, and completing the placing for some of the students who have started but have not completed their placing by that time.

Recent tabulations by the Veterans Administration show that three out of five veterans are under 30 years old.

34 thousand veterans in Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska and the Dakotas reinstated their National Service Life Insurance during the past nine months.

Veterans enrolled in part-time training or job-training under the GI Bill will be required to continue filing reports of earnings with the VA.

Attempt Made To Classify Rise Of Strange Sports

By WALLACE ANDERSON
Lately there have been new games taking shape at the scene of recent basketball contests. These games are unique in that they can all be played in the stands and do not require space on the floor, a fortunate provision, for indulging in said games on the floor would only result in much jostling and shoving around from the players and referees and would probably spoil all the fun. As a somewhat impartial observer, I have tried to evaluate these arising bleacher sports and have attempted to define the rules and actions into a workable set-up. Here they are, as I see them.

(1) "Mash the footsies"—This is a delightful little game that is loads of fun for anyone. The person participating in the sport walks back and forth in the bleachers, being extremely careful to step on nothing but feet. Four rows of stands without touching the wood is a 100 per cent score, but even the most expert contestants have a hard time achieving this. There is bound to be an extremist with a shoe shine at every game. Some of the more advanced devotees of this sport have taken to hob-nail boots, but the purists maintain that anything above leather soles is an infraction of the rules.

(2) "Sail the Airplane"—This is another sport that is rapidly coming into great popularity. The persons competing in this game line up at the top slat of the bleacher, fortified with reams of good, stiff programs, and proceed to make paper airplanes with hard, pointed noses. The object is to pick out the pinkest, tenderest looking neck in the crowd and to sail the missile with great force at the target, all the while shouting, "Bombs Away!" or some other foolish phrase that usually serves only to warn the enemy and spoil a good shot. Since this game requires a steady hand and also a thorough knowledge of the prevailing winds for best operation, much practice is necessary. (Those who are new should know that a shot to the left of the bass horns requires a 4 degree compensation to the right.)

(3) "Drop the Bottle"—This game is not to be confused with other forms known as "Spin the Bottle," and, perhaps, "Empty the Bottle." The purpose of "Drop the Bottle" is infinitely different from the aforementioned, and is heaps more fun. The only equipment required for this game is a good substantial bottle (one that is not liable to break and void the chance for a refund) and a rollicking sense of humor. The bottle is set next to the participant on the bleachers and wary eye is kept open for any spectators who might stroll under the stands. The object is to say, "Ooops!", and to push the bottle off on someone's head. Billiard shorts, (from one baldy to another) count two, while senior's heads only count one-half.

There are many more of these peachy games springing up all the time. They are grand fun and help to pass the time during the half or while a ball is lost and the officials are trying to persuade someone in the stands to give it back. (another game) So far I haven't been able to find a thing about these games in "Sports Afield", but am sure that they will some day rank high along with charades and anagrams as all-around sports.

Bison Trample Vikings In 52-39 Scrap

Paulsen's Pencil---

Somewhat overlooked in the anticipation of next week's Bison-MSTC game has been the fact that the tilt is to be played for the benefit of the March of Dimes.

NDAC students were, and will probably be again this year, bewildered over the reason they were expected to pay admission when the two teams met for this charity a year ago. However, since proceeds from all spectators go to polio relief, it's illogical to expect NDAC students to be immune from the fifty cent admission fee.

In many localities polio isn't much of a threat. In fact, some communities have never recorded a case. That's isn't the case here, however, for Fargo and Moorhead know full well the menace the disease can be.

Rumors Around

Fargo last week indicated that Glenn L. Jarrett may be released shortly as head football coach at North Dakota University, and a former University of Minnesota star named in his place. The former Gopher—a lineman who played with Stan Kostka at Minnesota in 1934—has been coaching in the east. Whether Jarrett would be released altogether or merely kicked upstairs to the athletic directorship—a post he now holds in conjunction with his football mentorship—is undetermined as University administrators begin plans to revive the U to a place of supremacy among NCI athletic powers.

Jarrett has been under considerable pressure in Grand Forks circles since the war after his two post war teams had relatively poor seasons. The University coach has also been charged with poor handling of the material he did have.

Meantime, Harold Cunningham's UND basketball team has not been faring so well either, but much pressure has been taken off the Sioux tutor by the hockey team whose fine showing has made it the No. 1 attraction on the campus.

Back Home
Chalky Reed's Bison cage team is safely by the first two stops in its desperation attempt to finish the season with a better than .500 percentage.

The Bison performed capably enough against Augustana and Jamestown college. Last week, the Bison were in a bad hole having won only five of their first sixteen encounters. Now, however, the Bison have added a pair of wins to give them a 7-11 record, good for a .338 mark and a seventy-five point increase over last week. However, the battle has just begun. Reed's men must still win all of their remaining games to finish above .500.

The acid test will come this week. The Bison will have to beat MSTC and South Dakota State to stay above water. The Herd has met Roy Domek's crew twice—losing once by about 20 points at Moorhead, and winning a later tilt at Fargo by a fairly comparative margin. The Bunnies have played the Herd once with SDSC picking up an easy 20 point decision.

The Bison have got to beat MSTC. Now looking at the record to see what kind of a chance they have, it appears that Reed's men should be able to do it. However, it's a lead pipe cinch that they're going to have someone besides Paul Brostrom. The last time out against MSTC, Brostrom racked up 31 points while Jim McDonald Moorhead ace, picked up 21. Those ten points were about the margin of victory. Tuesday night, McDonald is more likely to score 21 again than Brostrom is to 31.

Saturday night the Bison are going to have to beat South Dakota State or cut themselves out of any chance of finishing above .500. Then to gain even that much, the Bison would have to win all four games from North Dakota University—a rather unenviable task.

The Bison haven't scored a real upset win this year. They couldn't pick a better time to capture one than next Saturday evening. Everything points against the Bison winning both games next week. But Chalky Reed knows which side his bread is buttered on. The Bison have moped around all season and come down to the final fourth of the season in bad shape.

If the Bison can win all their remaining games, they'll finish the season above the .500 mark. Last year they managed to close out right on the nose—12 and 12. This year, they should be able to do one victory better, I should think.

Speaking Of

South Dakota State, the Bison haven't many pleasant memories of their trek to Brookings and their unfortunate encounter with Jim Schmidt, SDSC scoring ace. Last week, though, they got one by mail. Dr. Fred H. Leinbach, President of the College reported in a letter to Dr. John Longwell, NDAC prexy, that the Bison sportsmanship was admirable. The SDSC president went to pains to inform Longwell of the fine qualities the Bison squad—on court and off—while at SDSC.

In a year marked by bickering and disputes all the way from the Olympic games to the North Central conference, Dr. Leinbach's letter is indeed a tribute to Reed. The Bison mentor hasn't been too successful in producing victories since coming here in 1946. But a letter of this sort is a tribute in itself, and more people than he have noticed the good sportsmanship which Reed insists his players evoke.

An Omen Of

impending doom seemed to be hanging over the Fieldhouse the night Reed's men met Augustana. Now Augustana wasn't an especially good ball club. Their record proves that, and while the Vikings were uncanny from long range in the first half, the fact that they missed enough close in shots to build up an overwhelming advantage on the Herd attests to their failings as a top notch club.

But, in the first half against the Bison, the Vikings, and Hal Haugejorde, succeeded in holding Paul Brostrom to nothing. It's only natural that Brostrom be stopped once in a while. After all, he's human.

More important, though, the Bison looked woefully weak with the big guy stopped up. The Bison have a capable first team, and, built around Brostrom's scoring, they can play good basketball.

However, next year Peerless Paul is going to be among the alumni. The Bison have been having a bad time of it the past two years. I hate to think what it's going to be like next year. Besides Brostrom, Tom Corrigan will be gone.

Eugene Fitzgerald

Fargo Forum sports editor, brought to light an interesting sidelight concerning the appointment of George Sauer as head coach at the United States Military Academy last week. Sauer, who had a fine record at Kansas this year—going through the Orange Bowl undefeated—will step into the job vacated by Tom Hamilton at Navy.

When C. C. Finnegan was preparing to leave his football coaching and athletic directorship for army service prior to the war, NDAC officials were looking for a new football coach, Finnegan planning to concentrate merely on the directorship after the war. Among those under consideration was Sauer, who was then coaching at New Hampshire.

At any rate, Sauer didn't end up with that job and the capable mentor went to Kansas and now from there into a job which will pit him against such teams as Notre Dame and Army. Meantime, Stan Kostka, who finally did end up with the job, is trying to think up answers to pacify the Fargo Downtown Quarterbacks who want to know the story of his life or "How I beat Bemidji Teachers". Such is the irony of college football coaching.

In A Year

when Bison athletic successes are few and far between, Don Bredell's Bison hockey team could achieve a noteworthy one by beating the nationally famous UND Sioux when the two teams meet at Grand Forks February 27th.

After victories over Michigan, Minnesota, and Michigan Tech, Don Norman's Sioux have become the talk of the town. However it's just possible that the Herd might win.

Although Chalky

Reed's men have managed to win their last two games, the calibre of play the Bison have shown hasn't done much to enhance the Herd's prestige. The Bison played capably enough to win—that all. Unless the Bison can improve upon the mediocre showings they've put in the past two ball games, they're liable to meet with a day of reckoning sooner than they expect.

Like the playing, the officiating in the Fieldhouse hasn't been anything to write home about of lately either. If basketball was meant to be played just for the sport of it, with the home team always awarded victory in the end, such a stipulation would have been put in the rules.

When the Bison were on the road, they took the floor with practically a ten point handicap every night. Much of it was due to poor officiating.

Here at home, they should logically have an advantage on familiar grounds. But visiting teams have had to contend with poor officiating here the past few games.

Coach (Chalky) Reed's unpredictable NDAC cagers racked up their first NCI conference victory of the season by outplaying the Augustana college cagers 52-39 in a setto played last Friday evening in the Field house at NDAC. It was the sixth loop game this season for the Bison and the fourth loss out of seven for Coach L. C. (Lefty) Olson's men.

The Herd snatched the game from the proverbial fire by staging a sensational second half rally that the Olsonmen were unable to cope with. The first half found the Bison basketmen colder than they have been in any previous game played on their home court this year. With the Herd's pacemaker Paul (Red) Brostrom, all conference center, tied up by capable Hal (Swede) Haugejorde, the game seemed on ice for the Norsemen.

Scoring was started early in the first period by the Auggies when their captain, Martel Rud sunk the first bucket, giving Augustana a lead they held until late in the third period. Augustan's Hal Haugejorde successfully boxed in NDAC center Paul Brostrom, normally a high-point man, and held him down to a fat zero in the first two periods. Tommy Corrigan, NDAC guard, who has been troubled not only with extremely bad luck at the basket this year, but also utter lack of support from Bison fans and rooting section, managed to sink three field goals and one gift toss which, along with Capt. Nick Vujovich's three fielders, Art Bredhl's three and Bob Geston's one, gave the Bison at least a respectable

Herd Gymnasts Meet Sioux Here

Erv Kaiser's NDAC Gymnastic team will attempt to protect their previous win over the University of North Dakota gymnasts when they meet them for the second time this year, in the NDAC Fieldhouse, February 12th at 8:00 o'clock. In their previous meeting at Grand Forks, the Bison matmen outpointed the University team 28-27.

Late Wednesday, Kaiser announced that the University of Minnesota team may participate along with the NDAC and UND teams.

The contest will consist of five events: horizontal bars, parallel bars, horse, rings, and tumbling on the mats. Three men from each team participate in each event and are judged on the basis of form and difficulty. Each event has a possible score of 11; first place-5, second-3, third-2, fourth-1. Kaiser's team lists the following men: Jim Minette, Lee Ebsen, Harry Geller, Lloy Stevens, Richard Engelbretson and John Scherling, Moorhead and Fargo High and Concordia students have been invited to participate along with the Bison team. There will be no admission charge and the Athletic department invites the public to attend.

The Bison suddenly came to life in the second half and effectively broke up the Viking's offensive game. Through the efforts of Capt. Nick Vujovich, whose ball stealing tactics paired with lanky Paul Brostrom's rebound snatching abilities threw the Vikings back into a defensive game, the herd was able to gain a 31-29 lead by the end of the third period. In the last quarter the Bison, exhibited real point-making abilities by chalking up 21 points to the Vikings 10, despite numerous interruptions in the last minutes of the game by officials who continue to believe that stopping the game every 15 seconds because of what is commonly an unavoidable and inconsequential body contact, is part of the game.

The game had relatively few personal fouls, up until the last few minutes, and there was a welcomed air of good sportsmanship which was exemplified by the hand the crowd gave Augustana star Hal Haugejorde when he left the game in the fourth quarter via the personal foul route, this despite the lack of any Augustana fans in the crowd. Tommy Corrigan was high point man with 16 counters. Next high was AC center, (Red) Brostrom with 13, Art Bredahl with 12 and Harum of Augustana with a total of 11 points, despite a leg injury which has him slowed up some what. Captain Nick Vujovich contributed, along with his superb floor work and ball handling, 9 points to the Bison total.

Bison Sextet Win Over Bemidji, 2-1

Don Bredel's NDAC Hockey team defeated the Bemidji teachers sextet 2-1 in the second meeting of the two teams this season. The scrap was played on the Bison's home rink at Island park in Fargo. The Herd won over Bemidji in their previous meeting, 9-3.

The Bison took advantage of a lead they captured in the first 40 seconds of the game when they scored on a series of passes from Rick Christianson to Bob Shanks to Dick Goehl who drove the pill into the net for the first marker. The AC scrappers scored again in the second period when Lloyd Armstrong soloed and the AC held their 2-0 lead until the last second of the period when Will Remus of Bemidji scored the teacher's lone point unassisted. Bob Zehren NDAC goalee, made 34 successful stops at the cage.

NDAC Ski Club Fulfills Long Need In School Sports

A ski-club, organized in December of '47 is proving to be a very popular and long needed diversion here at NDAC. The idea was originated by Clink McGeary and since then, through the teaching abilities of Norwegian student, Arne Lochen, the ranks have risen until the club now numbers 30.

Arne Lochen informs us that the class is ideal for beginners and that many of the pupils who started when the class was organized, have now developed very good skiing techniques. The meeting place, so far, has been the college Y, every Wednesday afternoon at 4:00. Field trips are taken on Saturday and Sunday afternoons. The training grounds is the wooded area south-west of the El Zagal golf course. Some visits have been made to Hawley, Minnesota which has terrain ideal for slalom and down-hill skiing.

Plans for the big relay-cross country race, to be held February 15th have been made by the members at the Wednesday business meeting in the Y. 300 feet of colored movies are being filmed by one of the members to be shown to campus organizations for promotion of the sport. The relay-race will be between the different classes, with four participants on each team. Concordia college has been contacted and there is a possibility that they will participate with one team. The race will start at 3:00 p. m., Sunday, February 15, on the field South of El Zagal golf course. The trail will be two miles long. Those interested in joining the class are invited to attend the Wednesday afternoon meeting, 4:00, at the College YMCA.

Reedmen Win 54-49 Struggle Over Jim Town

NDAC's cager quintet barely managed to eke out a winning 54-39 lead in a hard fought tilt with the Jamestown Jimmies straight-shooting teachers, last Tuesday evening in the NDAC fieldhouse at Fargo. As had been expected, the game consisted mainly of a scoring duel between Paul (Red) Brostrom, NDAC all conference center and Keith Ingstad, Jamestown's pace setting center. Ingstad poured in 16 points in the first two periods against Brostrom's 10. But the lanky Bison center crept ahead in the final periods and racked up 15 more counters to 4 for the Jamestown ace, whom the Bison defense managed to successfully box in.

The Herd took an early lead and had 4 points chalked up before the Jimmies found the mark. The first period ended with the Bison holding an edge of 14-12. Shortly after the start of the second quarter the Jimmies made it a brand new ball game as Harold Rudolph tied the knot making it 14 all. Jamestown had possession of the game with a 28-22 lead at the half way mark. After a see-saw battle during the majority of the last two periods the Bison basketmen squeezed in two last minute baskets that cinched the win and the game ended 54-49.

The Bison will meet the MSTC Dragons in a charity game, proceeds of which will go to the March of Dimes campaign, next Tuesday evening in the NDAC fieldhouse at 8:00. This will be the third meeting of the two teams, each team having achieved a win over the other earlier this season in inter-city tilts. The game is not one of the regular scheduled games of this season therefore students activity tickets will not be honored. Admission price are: Students, .50c Adults, .75c.

4-H Club To Meet On AC Campus

Approximately 500 4-H members and leaders will be on the NDAC campus March 22-26 as delegates to the state 4-H club achievement institute.

Delegations from counties will be based on club membership in the county. On this basis each delegate who attends this institute will represent about 20 clubs members at home. Selection as a delegate to the institute is one of the top recognitions that can come to club members for outstanding work.

The delegates will be lodged in the various campus dormitories and will be served by the Ceres hall cafeteria.

Quantity Cookery Offers Meals Two Days A Week

Directors Lay Plans For 1948 Dairy Show

The Board of Directors for the 1948 State Dairy show held a meeting last Thursday, Jan. 29, at Jamestown to lay plans for the 1948 Dairy show. It was decided that the show will be held this year from Sept. 15-18th, a week earlier, at Jamestown.

Breeders who are planning to show in the futurity section must turn in all entries, identifications and checks by May 1. Checks should be mailed to County Agent Merle Burke at Jamestown.

GI loan guaranty benefits are available to World War II veterans until July 25, 1957.

NDAC Grainmen Attend Meetings

A number of grain specialists from NDAC have left for conferences at Milwaukee and Minneapolis.

Dr. Rae Harris cereal technologist, and A. J. Lejeune, agronomist, attended a Milwaukee meeting of brewing chemists which was followed by a barley improvement conference.

Harris will consult in Minneapolis Feb. 2 with officials interested in hard spring wheat, and will remain for a conference of chemists called by the Northwest Crop Improvement association.

Phi U Serves Sojourners

The members of Phi Upsilon Omicron served refreshments for the Sojourners Club in Lincoln Cabin on Wednesday evening, Feb. 4th. The Sojourners is a club for newcomers in Fargo. Donna Fisk was in charge of the refreshments committee.
