Frog Runs Away With First Turtle Derby

PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES stop for a short chat with three NDAC co-eds after racing in the first of the Alpha Phi Gamma Turtle Derbies Wednesday. The frogs, foreign objects indeed to a turtle derby, were last minute entries after Pat O'Leary, head of the NDAC turtle procurement department, was informed that the air-borne terrapins would miss Wednesday's derby. Iona Bolton, one of three objects in the picture with teeth, holds candidate Taft at left, Joyce Tindall, holds candidate Dewey and Donna Jean Neller-moe, strictly a Democrat, has candidate Truman. Misses Neller-moe, Bolton and Tindall did not race in the Turtle Derby.

Sevrinson Says Jobs Available

Employment offers for students, both part-time and full-time, are beginning to increase, says Dean Sevrinson, dean of men.

All announcements on civil service openings come through Sevrinson's office, and several other business organizations have indicated their desire to employ NDAC students.

This increase in offers does not mean that there is surplus of jobs, but that students now have a better chance to obtain employment.

Coast Guard Gives Enlistment Leave

Chief Boatswain Edwards, U. S. Coast Guard Recruiting Officer at Omaha, said today that young men enlisting in the U. S. Coast Guard now may have ten days leave upon enlistment in which to get their personal affairs in order before reporting for their first duty assignment, and that many ratings are still open to veterans. Men without previous service are assigned first duty at Mayport Florida. Call or write the Coast Guard Recruiting Office, Post Office Building, Omaha, Nebraska, for full details.

Bison Brevities Eliminations Set Feb. 16-17

Eliminations for the '48 Blue Key Bison Brevities are slated for February 16-17 according to Charles Dickens, 1948 Brevities student director.

Dickens has announced that he is available for helping the various organizations with their individual acts.

Time limit for the acts—this is the first all organizational act Brevities since pre-war days—is 15 minutes, six acts, and five minutes, five acts.

Excluding a non-competing faculty act penned by Jim Baccus, NDAC public relations director, twenty-five organizations have thus far submitted acts to Dickens with the total being cut to eleven in the February eliminations.

Vet's Meeting Set Thursday

Col. Jackson sates that many veterans are misinformed as to their reserve status. Some vet-in Festival Hall at 4 p. m. January 29.

Col. Jackson states that many veterans are misinformed as to their reserve statue. Some veterans believe that their discharge automatically made them a member of the reserve, which is an erroneous conception.

The purpose of this meeting is to clarify the status of all veterans from all branches of the armed forces.

Col. Jackson will also outline the advantages to be gained from the reserve or National Guard.

YMCA Climaxes Members Drive

As a climax to the 1947-48 YWCA membership drive, a Recognition service will be held in the YMCA auditorium at 7 o'clock Wednesday. This service, which is open to all YW members, will be under the direction of Miss Jeanette Haroldson, YWCA worship chairman.

Donna Fisk, Jane and Jean Winslow head the YWCA membership committee which will wind up work after this week.

Thursday the YWCA freshman held a membership party under the chairmanship of Miss Beverly Marchand. The party, held in the YMCA fireside room, was in the form of a "bunco" party.

manager, this year's Little International will be one the biggest shows in the Little International history.

Featured in the show is the traditional co-ed milking contest, greased pig contest, and stock judging other than the dog show along with other features.

Another feature of the week-end will be the installment of Alfred Welander in the Saddle and Sirloin hall of fame, a roll of men who have made contributions to North Dakota Agriculture.

Welander for the past years has been active in North Dakota stock Breeding circles and at present is vice-president of the North Dakota Swine Breeders Association, and for the last three year has been on the Dickey county AAA committee.

The final event of the show will be a showmanship contest wherein the contestant will be judged solely on his ability to prepare and handle an animal for showing regardless of that animals final placing.

Taft Wins First Race In Series

By WALLACE ANDERSON

Scratched from the starting line-up by adverse weather conditions, eight mortified turtles languished away in a plane enroute to Fargo, while a pudgy frog out-leaped five competitors and hopped away with the Presidential Candidate derby, highlight of an Alpha Phi Gamma sponsored dance held in the upstairs of the "Y" from 4-6 Thursday afternoon.

The frogs were a last minute substitute when it became apparent that the turtles would not show. Pat O'Leary, in charge of arrangements, says that the turtles, which have obviously resorted to their native form of mobility, will be on hand for another derby to be held January 28 at 4 p.m. in the upstairs of the "Y"; provided the terrapins arrive in shape, or arrive.

The frog classic was off to an uneventful start with six frogs squatting in the center of a large circle staring morosely at the spectators. The hoppers were marked with different colors to distinguish the different candidates for which they were named. Wallace was the first to move and, accompanied by cheers from the crowd, hopped halfway to the finish line and then reversed his field, ending up almost at the starting point. Eisenhower and Taft then began a series of plopping leaps that left them about three-quarters of the way to the tape.

At this crucial point in the race the prime participators (the frogs) sat back and relaxed. Stassen, Dewey, and Truman, still firmly ensconched on the starting point, surveyed the scene with protruding eyes and promptly fell asleep.

Spurred on by frenzied cries from the crowd, Wallace, Taft, and Eisenhower began a series of spirited jumps—in every direction except toward the finish line. (if such a thing is possible in a circle.)

Finally, Taft executed a series of brilliant leaps and romped over the finish line as flash bulbs popped. Wallace nosed out Eisenhower for second place and "Ike" came in a solid third.

Aside from the horrified squeals of two co-eds who thought the red coloring on one candidate was blood, the event came off as well as anything involving frogs could. Trainer Chapman's protoges were in fine fettle and much of the movement was due to Fred Nelson who sat on the sidelines and scowled the entrants into action.

This race was the main attraction in the first of a series of seven dances to be sponsored by Alpha Phi Gamma during the Winter term.

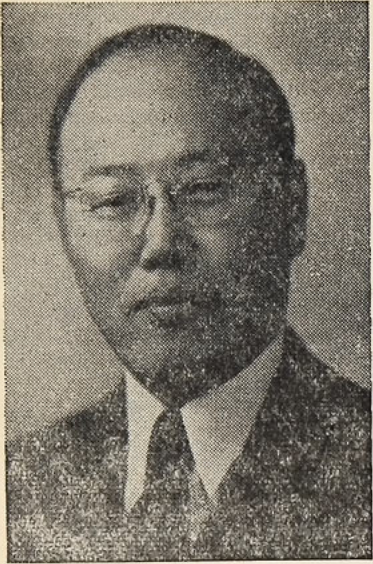

Railroad Offers Special Rates

CHICAGO.—Students and faculty members spending the holidays at home will be offered special round-trip railroad fares, with the return trip permitted at the spring vacation period or at the close of the school term, Hugh W. Siddall, chairman of the Railroad Passenger Interterritorial Committee, has announced.

The new fares went into effect December 25th. Mr. Siddall said they will result in substantial savings to students and faculty members, who formerly were obliged to travel on one-way fares because of a 3-month return limitation on round-trip tickets. This restores a privilege extended school personnel before the war.

Far Eastern Expert, Dr. No Yong Park, To Speak At Wednesday Morning Convo

Dr. No-Yong Park, outstanding authority on Far Eastern affairs, will speak in Festival hall Tuesday, at 9:40, on the subject, "America and Russia in Asia".

DR. NO YONG PARK

Born and reared in Manchuria, Dr. No-Yong Park received his Oriental education in China, Japan, and Korea. His western education stems from the University of Minnesota where he completed his undergraduate work, and from Harvard University where he received his M. A. and Ph. D. degrees.

No-Yong is the author of numerous articles and books, perhaps the most acclaimed of which is his recent "Retreat of the West" which was highly recommended by the Book-of-the-Month-Club, and of which Pearl Buck has written, it "must be a required reading of the White race."

It is more than scholarship and a vast background of personal experience that No-Yong brings to the lecture platform. His personality and his flare for humor have won for him the affection as well as Eastern affairs under the auspices in the United States. For the past ten years he has lectured on Far Eastern affairs under the auspices of Rotary International. The University of Minnesota is only one of the leading universities at which he has taught.

AC Debate Team Argues At NDU

Three teams of the Lincoln Debate club went to Grand Forks last Saturday to participate for six rounds in a debate on "Should A World Federal Government Be Organized?"

Members of the team were Arne Lochen, Wayne Johnson, Howard Jacobson, Engene Voll, Ambrose Netcher, and Harold Bloom.

The following schools: Jamestown, Minot, UND, Concordia, MS-TC, and NDAC will be the participants in a debate tournament to be held at Concordia college in Moorhead.

NDAC Group Makes Statewide Survey

During the Christmas recess, 16 NDAC students in Agricultural Economics braved the weather and the roads to gather nearly 200 survey records from as many farms throughout the western part of the state. This work is part of a research project on livestock marketing which the North Dakota Agricultural Experiment station is undertaking in cooperation with other north central states.

Professor Hemphill and Mr. Kristjanson supervised the field survey and worked closely with the interviewers (including pushing cars through snow drifts). The cooperation of farmers was excellent, and much valuable information and insight in the marketing process was obtained.

Faculty Group Sets Monthly Discussions

Topics of special interest to faculty members are being scheduled for a series of monthly meetings of the local chapter of the American Association of University Professors according to Dr. Wm. B. Treumann, Program Chairman.

The membership held the first of its winter term meetings on Wednesday in Room 309 Morrill Hall at 4:15 p. m. Dr. Ray T. Wendland, led a discussion on re-appointments and contracts. Topics scheduled for later meeting include salaries and cost of living, the AAUP program, retirement fund and the function of Land Grant Colleges.

An open meeting held at the NDAC on December 12 and sponsored by the local group included a report on the Land Grant College meeting by Dr. John Longwell and members of his staff who attended the Washington conference. The AAUP is the professional organization for college and university teachers and investigators.

Officers of the local chapter are Dr. C. I. Nelson, President; Dr. Ral T. Wendland, Vice-president, and Dr. J. A. Munro, Secretary-Treasurer.

Dolve Announces Teacher Addition

Michel A. Saad, born in Lebanon, and a graduate of the American university of Beirut, Lebanon, has received an appointment on the staff of the school of engineering, NDAC, announces Dean R. M. Dolve.

Saad was graduated from the Beirut institution in 1939, and served there as administrative assistant and part-time instructor for one year. He has spent the intervening year in America, working in industry and studying engineering.

In 1943, Saad received a M. S. degree in civil engineering at the university of Texas. He has also completed one year of graduate work at Cornell university. Saad is a member of the American society of engineering education, and the national society of professional engineers, and will hold the position of associate professor in civil engineering here.

Anderson Visits Campus

Mr. A. H. Anderson, social science analyst of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, spent two days on the campus discussing with agricultural economics and extension staff members the results of a sociological survey conducted under his guidance in Wells county last Summer.

Men Favor Daring Dresses On Other Girls - Not Theirs

Confidential tip to the girls—men like daring dresses only on the other fellow's girl—not theirs.

That was the essence of opinion expressed by a group of collegians, including Engene Rossides of Columbia football fame, who served on Cosmopolitan magazine's male-tempted fashion jury at New York's Stork Club.

"Believe it or not they voted consistently for gowns with some covering over shoulders or upper arm or with narrow shoulder straps," Kay Wister, fashion editor of the magazine declared. "The completely bare shoulder decolletage was something delightful—to them—only on the other fellow's girl."

Typical of college men throughout the country, many of them having returned from overseas service, they represented a cross-section of male opinion as to how they like their women to dress. They represented Yale, Princeton, Cornell, Amherst, Columbia, Dartmouth, the University of Missouri and the University of Nebraska.

"Generally the boys approved of dresses that had a sophisticated but not too exposed look," Mrs. Wister said. "In fact it's a look the boys pronounced dreamy."

Rossides was particularly impressed with the slit hemline of one of the winning dresses which embodied all the fashion points that had been emphasized.

"It was a royal blue crepe gown that bared the shoulders but covered the arms completely," Mrs. Wister said. "The skirt, with sophisticated hip-line drape, tapered to a narrow hemline, but the slit allowed plenty of freedom for dancing."

"Sophisticated and relaxing" was the way Paul Stessel of the University of Missouri described one of the winning dresses in the group shown.

Bob Folan, Yale hockey player, and Bob Slocum, who pitches for the Princeton baseball team were inclined to "make haste slowly" in appraising some of the newer length dresses.

"We had better take our time and thrash this thing over," was the way Folan expressed it, while Slocum said "The length is too sudden a departure."

When a colorful group of floor-length gowns was danced into the room, Seth Baker, vice chairman of the yearbook and member of the student council at Amherst, became a bit confused in his articulation;

"These are a great improvement on gownless evening straps—I mean strapless evening gowns," he said.

Other members of the jury who decided daring gowns were for other girls—not theirs—included Dick Littauer of Cornell, Dean Graunke, University of Nebraska and Gene Boker of Dartmouth.

We ran across the following in a very old issue of the Spectrum, which we think can very appropriately dedicated to our present editor, Dan Chapman.

"What have you done that I should admit you here?"

"I ran the paper," the editor said, "Of my college for one long year."

St Peter pityingly shook his head and gravely touched the bell, "Come in, poor thing, select a harp. You've had your share of hell!"

Have you heard about Paul Kornberg's excursion to Walker, Minn., for the purpose of skiing. After arriving at their destination, Dale Myrha reported to his chagrin, that he couldn't find the skis. Lloyd Flynn then remembered he'd forgot to switch them from his car to P. K.'s Buick. Their statement—"We had a good time anyway, even though we didn't have Paul Jones with us."

Is there a girl on the campus Bill Swanston hasn't—"tried out" by treating to coffee at the Hasty. Its rumored he stands out in front of old main between classes looking for a new face.

We read in the Dakota Student, (the university's excuse for a paper) that Clink McGeary, NDAC tackle and end, has been drafted by the Green Bay Packers for pro football after graduation. They finally scooped the Spectrum!

Socially Yours

By POLLY EDHLUND

The newest thing on campus this week seems to be actives and pledges. Theta Chi proudly adds John Blazek, Robert Ehn, Dick Bayley, Ed Loveland, Bill Johnson, Allen Arneson, Jim Bundy, Jack Bjorneby, Duane Windmiller, Duane Aune and Eddy Boe to their list of active members.

Wearing the white cross of Sigma Chi are George Noonan, Bob Dobervich, Charles Ohstad, Mick Jones and Hank Sandvig.

Leaving the job of activating to the frats, the sororities took over pledging ceremonies. All decked out in Gamma Phi pledge pins are Peggy Smith and Ann McNeese. Sporting Kappa Kappa Gamma pledge pins are Nancy Sorkness and Joan Nydahl.

Gaining a lead of 4 to 1 after last week's defeat of 2 to 1 are pins over diamonds. Yup, four pins changed wearers and one diamond was presented.

Mildred Peterson is now displaying a Sigma Phi Delta pin, Bill Barr is the lucky fellow.

The Sig house is in for a pretty smoky time cuz they've got three boxes of cigars coming their way Reason? Louis Eaton is pinned to Elizabeth Grosz, Dewey Johnson is pinned to Shirley Warner of UND and Lloyd Stein is pinned to a girl in white, Donna Erickson.

Only one diamond to report this week, but ooooo it's a beauty. This new sparkle was given Lucille Book by Aubrey Butler.

The ATO boys were up to a bit of thievery last week. They very cunningly stole the Sigma Chi pledges. They were, however, rewarded for their mischief by Hank Sandvig who entertained them for hours with his "Tall Tales". An interesting ping pong game was witnessed too. Bob Feeney was the ball.

For a bit on the turn about side are the Kappa pledges who staged a pledge skip. Not only did the pledges disappear, but also the ash trays and silverware. They climaxed their escapade by cleaning the house and apologizing to the pot luck guests, Dr. and Mrs. Longwell.

The "Scums" are really putting in a busy week. The Phi Mu's are keeping their "little ones" busy by having them recover a davenport.

Real sorry for the mistake I made last week. CORRECTION—It was Peggy Critchfield that tied with Delores Sorlie for the Gamma Phi Metzinger Scholarship Bracket.

STRICTLY FORMAL is the word on the ATO party. This gals affair will be held at the Moorhead Country Club on February 6. Seeing that things run smoothly will be ATO social Chairman Eddie Graber.

Growing Beards for this week-end are the Theta Chi's. Ya Man it's a Hard-time Party given by the pledge class. Prizes will be awarded for the scratchiest beard and to the couple with the best worst costume. (confusing-humm?) Russ Undlin is party chairman and Bud Malcheff will be on hand to serve.

Entertainment last week? You bet!

Snow was brushed off the ATO welcome mat for the Gamma Phi's while the Phi Mu's dusted their white furniture for the SAE's.

The Phi Mu's also kept the coffee perking while they entertained at informal coffee hours on Tuesday and Thursday.

Right in there with the various drives for pennies and dimes is Don Hamilton with his bottle. The bottle is a milk bottle into which all contributions are put and appreciated. The collection is being taken to raise funds to buy flowers for an ATO who is spending bed ridden days at Hawn's Hospital. The patient is "Pocus", Don's shy little black and white cocker.

Prestige Pictures Prove Relief From Usual Hollywood Syrup

By JOYCE TINDALL

Venturing forth last Thursday into what our Chamber of Commerce would call "fair and warmer" I saw graphic proof of Great Britain's lend-lease in reverse! The Moorhead Theatre has inaugurated a series of eight films produced in the Arthur J. Rank studios in England; pictures with such remarkably warm human action that it is no wonder that in city after city in this country people are beginning to demand more of Hollywood than its yearly ration of bosh and picture-book sex!

The first picture in this series, shown a little over a month ago, was "Brief Encounter" by Noel Coward. It took what was basically a sane and rather ordinary affair between two people and left it as such . . . no technicolor fade-outs into pink bubbles, none of the "legs to the left of you, legs to the right of you" routines. . . just plain and simple acting by two completely convincing actors. It was a good movie, in the correct English usage of the word, not colossal, not astounding, but very good.

Last week's presentation, "The Magic Bow", undertook a portrayal of certain episodes in the life of Niccolo Paganini, the Italian master of the violin. From an entertainment standpoint, the movie has all the ingredients of a pure adventure. The action does not grow static, the characters are all obviously enjoying their roles, and Paganini, fortunately, is never shown whipping off a composition like the "Hora Staccato" on a spare diaper at the age of two! Stewart Grainger, last seen in this country as Apollodanis in the Korda film "Caesar and Cleopatra" plays Paganini as only an artist would depict another artist. Paganini's temper, his supreme confidence in own ability, as well as his cunning estimation of himself in the eyes of a woman, are small but necessary parts to complete structure of this role. Though the sound track of the violin playing is done by Yehudi Menuhin, Mr. Grainger must have practiced the actions for months as he gives all the appearance of being a virtuoso in his own right.

Future pictures in the Prestige series will include "The Overlanders", one of the first full-length Australian films; "I Know Where I'm Going" starring Wendy Hiller, seen in the screen version of "Pygmalion", and Roger Livesey, who appeared in Fargo lately in "Heaven Can Wait"; and a technicolor comedy entitled "This Happy Breed".

For those who need more enticement, there are student discount prices in effect for these pictures as well as an opportunity to meet some actors who walk, talk, and breathe even as you and I.

Anderson Pressed By Press

By WALLACE ANDERSON

As if there weren't enough bloodshed, turmoil, and violence spattered on the pages of every newspaper in the land, a local daily has now undertaken to rip the last shred of optimism from it's harried readers.

I am speaking, of course, of the little blurbs that are placed at the end of a column when the type refuses to stretch another em, and something must be inserted in the small space between the last line of the story and top of the Carter's Little Liver Pill ad just below it. These inclusions used to contain all sorts of dandy information such as the wages of mango pickers in southern Malay or the amount of ex-lax shipped under the Lend-Lease Act. But alas, things have changed.

I had picked up the Monday edition of this fiendish tabloid and had started to riff through the pages. Then—Whammo! The first of a series of crushing blows leaped out at me.

"There are an estimated half million active cases of tuberculosis in the United States."

"Heh, heh," I chuckled weakly, and thumped my chest. When the reverberations had died down I turned to the next page. There, emblazoned on the sheet was another one.

"During World War II the United States virtually ceased importing green tea."

Egad! What a gruesome revelation. While our boys (over there) were slopping around in their sloppy trenches, the scurvy wretches at home were deliberately severing the precious life line of Sigma Chi George Noonan slipped into office as House Manager this week. Paul Enlow is replacing George as Pledge Class Prexy.

Gamma Phi Bataers honored Moms and Dads last Saturday at a banquet. The pledges entertained with a skit.

Oh, yes, thar's people a-pot lucking too. Devouring delicacies with the KD's was Elaine Gast, and with the Gamma Phi's was Barbara Hoffman. Nibbling with the Phi Mu's were Helen Newman, Gloria Larson, Marjorie Sommerdorf, Marilyn Yyman, Lu Verne Duenow and Maybelle Hembroff. Well—'nuff said.

green tea! Too shocked for words, I flipped the page and began to sniffle, for there, right over a Lydia E. Pinkham notice was the following:

The common cold is one of the most highly infectious of all communicable diseases."

I mustered all my remaining strength and pulled a tissue from a nearby box of Kleenex. Then I began throwing cough drops in my mouth and laboriously, turned the sheet. There, shouting its message to the world, was another notice—

"Smallpox is one of the most contagious of all diseases."

Hastily ripping off my shirt, I gazed reassuringly at a vaccination mark the size of a pie plate; handiwork of an overzealous interne in the summer of '32.

Then, as the snow began to fall and the icy wind started to shriek about the windows. I came to the last of the dolorous epistles.

"Rheumatism is comparatively rare in warm climates."

A sharp pain began to stab at my left knee. My right arm bent up like a pretzel and refused to budge. Not only that, but the succeeding tissue in the Kleenex box had failed to pop up, like it says in the advertisements. I was done for, and knew it.

Somewhere tonight, a rheumatically wracked, coughing shell of humanity totters against the howling wind—mute testimonial of the power of the press.

Poisonalities IN THE NOOSE

BY PAT O'LEARY
As far as the dorm-folks are concerned, Rome burned last Saturday night, when the Ceres and Dakota Hallites threw (yes, "threw" is the word) a return party for the Men's Dormites. The theme of the celebration was something very unsubtle about leap-year. In fact the year was only two weeks old when they leaped. At any rate, just to make things clear, there were large cartoons on the wall carrying out the theme. They even served cookies and cider of the kind that overconsumption of which can result only in severe nausea; however, there were no nauseated people there. Just about the highlight of the evening was a short entertainment of about twenty odd minutes featuring Dora Jo Dystie, who mastered the ceremonies, Marcia Erickson doing a bumptious song and dance about an onion patch, Louise Orth who put Mae West to shame, and Vangie Browning doing something similar.

A city bus is really a great piece of mechanism. At first glance it seems to operate on the same principle as a combine—grabbing people in one at a time and eventually shooting them out another opening in sizeable groups, as if bound together by a wire. Actually, though, they're more of a rolling "Black Hole of Calcutta" arrangement, in which people are stuffed in, token by token, until the pressure forces some of them out the rear door, whereupon they wait for another bus and repeat the operation. Some people have even been known to get all the way up town taking only two different busses.

A great time? They had it.

Fraternity rush week was supposed to have been over last fall, but somehow it got carried over a little into last week. The real argument was over which Fraternity would run away with some Hell week pledges. During the heat of the argument someone tried to cool things off by stuffing snow into Al Golberg's gas tank. It worked. Relations have been slightly frozen ever since, to say nothing of the innards of Golberg's vehicle.

Bison Drop Third NCI Tilt To Panthers

Paulsen's Pencil---

Having Played

fourteen games with known results, the question now arises among Bison followers, how will Chalky Reed's NDAC cagers fare as they undertake their remaining nine contests.

Off to a disastrous start again this year, the Bison dropped four straight, won two, and then sandwiched in a win between two more losses by the start of the New Year. Coming back after the holidays Reed's men avenged earlier losses to Concordia and MSTC while dropping a one-point loop go with South Dakota University on the Fieldhouse floor.

Away from the sanctuary of the Fieldhouse and local officials last weekend, the Herd dropped a pair of loop decisions, one to Morningside—rather unexpected—and another to Iowa Teachers College—more than expected.

So, two-thirds of the way along the route, the Bison can look back on a fourteen game record which includes five victories and nine defeats for a booming .357 percentage. Incidentally, four of the Herd's triumphs have been at home while but two of their defeats have come on the favorable Fieldhouse floor.

with fourteen of their twenty-four games out of the way, the Bison had won four for an even poorer .285 mark. In their last ten contests, however, the Bison suddenly caught fire and won eight out of ten for a scorching .800 percentage. It will be interesting to see how the 1947-48 team compares down the homestretch with last year's outfit.

Last year, consequently, the Bison ended with twelve victories out of twenty-four contests, good for an even .500 average.

Theoretically, it appears that the Herd is in better shape now than they were about this point last year. However, Reed and all concerned probably won't deny that considerably more hampered possibilities for a winning team than now. It appears to me that the Bison probably rate a spot now comparable to the one they were in at this time a year ago.

However, NDAC has nine games left with the possibility that one and possibly two more may be added, and upon the outcome of these nine is going to rest determination of the success or failure of the current campaign.

Downed twice in important loop contests last week, the Bison are going to have to fare better this week or lose any chance for an even average finish in loop competition. The Bison may be favorites when they tangle with Augustana tomorrow night at Sioux Falls. Monday, it'll probably be a different story. The Bison did manage to beat SDSC once last year—stopping the Bunnies on the Fieldhouse floor where capable defensive play by Nick Vujovich and ax protection of Jim Schmidt, Jackrabbit ace, by officials, enabled the Herd to walk off with a one point victory. The Bison need a victory Monday night badly, but they'll have to play better ball than they've been consistently playing to pick it up.

A week from today, the return to the favorable environment that usually accompanies the Herd in the Fieldhouse should enable them to pick up a win over Augustana. The same holds true the following Tuesday when Jamestown College is in town.

Turning point for the Herd's late season operations may come Saturday, February 14th when they entertain Schmidt & Co. on the Fieldhouse floor. Much depends on how the Bunnies make out the night previous when they meet UND at Grand Forks. Last year, with conditions almost duplicated, the Sioux softened the South Dakotans up by edging them out of a three point decision. A similar occurrence this year might enable the Bison to pick up a win they are most likely to need quite badly by that time.

The Following

week the Bison begin operations against UND as the first two games get underway here. How the Herd will stack up then is, indeed, difficult to guess. If the Bison can beat Augustana tomorrow and South Dakota State here on the 14th, they should be in good shape. Otherwise, the team is likely to need a clean sweep of the series to pull them out of the hole. And whether Reed's men can fare as well this year against Harold Cunningham's Sioux as they did last, is highly problematical.

Nevertheless, the Bison have come two thirds of the way along the road without notable success. In fact, Bison spectators undoubtedly consider a 5-9 record far from successful. Still, upon the future hinges the possibility for success. With nine game left to go, it still isn't too late. But, game by game, the end of the road is approaching.

Officials Are working on plans which may add one, and possibly two games to the Bison schedule. It is planned to hold a round-robin tournament involving NDAC, MSTC, and Concordia sometime between now and a week or so after the University series. The games, of which there would be two, would benefit the annual March of Dimes campaign, now in progress throughout the nation.

One team would draw a bye, and play the winner of the game involving the other two, in the finals.

One difficulty hindering early plans would be that of charging students, on whose campus the games would be played. As C. C. Finnegan points out, due to the fact that the event is for charity, all patrons would necessarily have to be charged admission. However, the Bison athletic director explains that rates for students would be considerably reduced.

NDAC Basketball

fans read with interest a letter which NDAC basketball players wrote to Engert Fitzgerald of the Fargo Forum while the team was on it's trip last weekend. In it the Bison cagers expressed dissatisfaction with officiating throughout the conference.

Officiating within the loop has long bewildered me. The situation has so many baffling aspects that I, for one, am at a loss to even begin to understand the trouble.

The letter points out that several of the Herd can never recall returning from a road trip satisfied that they had lost all games they did legitimately. On the other hand, the players point out that the same situation exists on the Fieldhouse floor and while the letter points out—justifiably—that officiating in the lone loop tilt played here so far this year—the SDU—Bison was fair, Herd players don't deny that throughout the year the practice which seemingly overwhelmingly favors the home team applies here as it does throughout the rest of the conference.

I Have Kept,

since the end of the war, box scores of the Bison games here at home. And, just to illustrate one baffling end of the situation. I looked at the case of Paul Brostrom one of the Herd aces. Here at home, I find that Brostrom rarely goes out of a game. On the other hand, it seems that on the road the red head has a hard time staying in the ball game on repeated occasions.

Do officials here incline to hesitate to call fouls on the Bison ace? Do officials on the road incline to watch him overly close, realizing that on him hinges Bison scoring hopes? The fault certainly isn't his. Here at home he becomes accustomed to playing one brand of ball. This brand enables him to stay in ball games. On the road, it appears that this brand isn't possible since to continue it usually results in his either going out or coming close to going out of ball games with five fouls.

Another Thing

baffles me. Last week in a close, hard fought game between NDAC and MCTC a total of eighteen fouls were called. Saturday night against Morningside, fifty-three were called. It doesn't appear, despite the fifty-three infractions called, that favoritism was shown, since Morningside had two or three more fouls than did the visiting Bison. What does seem unfortunate is that there should be such a discrepancy in the number of fouls called in the two games.

The rules are the same every where. They are 'supposed' to be interpreted similarly throughout the country. Yet, I can't understand how the Bison can be expected—or any visiting team for that matter—to know how to govern their play under such conditions.

It's a sorry situation indeed that permits such injustices. At Morningside, it seems apparent that the officials merely called everything and anything. But, it's beyond my power of imagination to understand how Iowa State Teachers College could pick up more than twelve fouls while the Bison were accumulating twenty-four, when the game was relatively close and when neither team ever led by much more than eight or ten points.

JESTER TO SPEAK

Police chief Lloyd Jester will be guest speaker at Canterbury club at its regular meeting at 5 Sunday in the Gethsemene cathedral.

Bison Ice Sextet Drops First Scrap To Cobbers, 4-1

The recently organized NDAC hockey sextet lost their first game of the season to a more practiced Concordia College team 4-1. The game was played last Friday night on the Island Park rink in Fargo in -14 degree weather.

The Cobbers managed to drive the puck home in all three periods of the scrap. Scoring for Concordia were Al Billingham who tallied three field goals and Harold Bale with one.

Playing their positions well despite lack of sufficient practice were wingmen Dick Goehl, Bob Shanks, Rick Christianson, Hugh Porter, and Ken Larson. Playing on the defensive, Roger Meintzer and Paul Jones showed promise of better games in the future. Goalee is Bob Zehren.

Orangized in recent weeks by Casey Finnegan, Athletic Director at NDAC and coached by Don Bredell of '47 football fame, the team has scheduled meets with local competition for the winter months. This afternoon at 2:30 they will attempt to even their duo with the Concordia Cobbers on the hockey rink at Island Park in Fargo. Sunday at 2:15 the team will play their first out of town game when they face Bemidji sextet at Bemidji for the first of a two game duel, the second of which will be played at Fargo January 31, at 2:30 p. m.

Women Vets Receive Athletic Credits

NDAC registrar A. G. Parrott has announced that the decision of a recent meeting of the College council will enable women veterans of the Armed Forces to obtain credits for Physical Education.

The credits will be evaluated by the office of Admissions and Records.

The Iowa State Teachers Panthers remained at the top of the board in North Central Intercollegiate standings Tuesday night after defeating a stubborn NDAC team in a 49-40 tilt. After trailing in the first period of the scrap, the Panthers knotted the score at 13 all at the onset of the second period and held a two point edge at the intermission.

The Bison all conference center Paul (Red) Brostrom was forced out of the game at the eight minute mark of the final quarter with five personal fouls. Normally a high point man, Big Red was held down to a total of six points, all field goals, by the ISTC forward who managed to box him into a neat standstill. High point man of the scrap was Al Kochness, ISTC center. Tying for honors in the Bison line-up were Art Bredahl and Marv Schafer, with four field goals and two gift tosses apiece. Missing from the Herds line up due to injuries were Captain Nick Vujovich and newly-found Bob Geston.

The Herds next two encounters will also be played away from home court. Saturday night the Bison face the Augustana quintet at Sioux Falls. Tuesday night the Herd will invade the SDSC home court in an effort to get on the win side of the conference score book. This will be the last out of town game for the Bison except for two of the four game Nickel series to be played with the University of North Dakota Sioux February 21, 22, 27, 28.

SUNNY JIM SCHMIDT and guard Paul Gilbert form an important fraction of the attack of the South Dakota State Jackrabbits who meet NDAC at Brookings, S. D. Monday. Schmidt, who led conference scorers last year, is currently pacing North Central scorers. Gilbert is the Jackrabbit football captain and a defensive cog on the cage squad.

Jackrabbit Stalwarts

THESE TWO South Dakota State college Jackrabbit cagers will be in on the attempt to stave off the invasion of Chalky Reed and his NDAC Bison when the Reedmen travel into Bunnyland next Monday. On the left is Don Mohlenhoff, high scoring sophomore forward from Andrew, Iowa and on the right is guard pillar, Hal Willis, a junior from Bellingham, Minn.

AC President Issues Warning To Drivers Here

Dr. J. H. Longwell this week issued yet another warning to student drivers.

"The slippery condition of the streets and campus driveways require that we issue yet another word of warning," Dr. Longwell said. "A recent accident on Thirteenth Street underlines the need for extreme caution."

Longwell pointed out that a heavy number of children use the Thirteenth Street crossing and that great care would be needed to prevent further accidents and perhaps, a tragedy.

Maroons Down Bison, 59-47

The NDAC Bison quintet dropped the first of a two game Iowa sortie to the Morningside Maroons, 59-47, in a game played at Sioux City, Iowa, last Saturday night. The setback was the second out of two conference tilts for the Herd this year. South Dakota university outscored them 39-38 in their first NCI canto earlier this month.

The Bison who were leading 16-12 at the end of the initial period and tied up at 27-all at the intermission fell off into the defensive in the third and last periods and were unable to thwart the Maroons shooting spree in the last minutes of the game.

High point honors went to Morningside star Henry (Dutch) Langstraat who racked up 19 points. Second in line was North Dakota States' all conference center Paul (Red) Brostrom who hooked in 14 counters. Missing from the Herds usual line up was Captain Nick Vujovich.

College Prexies Approve Move To Create State Building Fund

North Dakota's state council of college presidents, meeting in Valley City last week, gave approval to alumni and student body activity on behalf of a constitutional amendment up for consideration of voters in the June primaries.

The amendment provides an annual building fund tax levy of four mills per the dollar on the assessed valuation of all taxable property in the state. The fund will care for building needs at state educational, charitable, and penal institutions. Whenever the fund reaches five million dollars, no further levy is made until the fund is decreased by appropriation.

The bill and its effect was outlined by state senator Joseph B. Bridston of Grand Forks, one of the co-sponsors of the bill which passed overwhelmingly at the last legislative session.

NDU alumni were represented at the Valley City session, which was held Tuesday, by E. Lloyd Stone alumni secretary. NDAC alumni and former students were represented by Jim Baccus, alumni director for the Fargo school.

The college presidents approved Stone's suggestion that the state be divided into nine sections, with the various schools responsible for bringing the advantages of the measure before citizens in their respective areas.

A state convention will be held soon, Stone said, bringing together alumni representatives and representatives of the student action committee to plan support of the measure.

Minnesota Man Here

Dr. S. A. Engene of the agricultural economics department of Minnesota university visited with staff members in connection with a cooperative research project on sugar beet production in the Red River Valley and a longer-run program of research in farm management.

NDAC Institutes Gymnastic Team

Thursday, January 22, the NDAC gymnastic team participated in the first of what Erv Kaiser, Director of Physical Education at NDAC, hopes will be an annual Gym meet. Kaiser states that to his knowledge, "this is the first time that the NDAC Athletic department has ever sponsored such an event". The meet which was held at the University of North Dakota at Grand Forks, consisted of gymnastics on the parallel bars, horizontal bars, rings, horses and tumbling. Comprising the six man team are Jim Minette, Dick Engbretson, James Croal, Floyd Stevens, Henry Lee Ebsen and John Scherling.

There will be a return match with UND at the NDAC Fieldhouse February 12, at 8:00 p. m. There will no admission charge.

Fans attending the NDAC, South Dakota State basketball game January 30th will be entertained at the intermission by an exhibition by the gymnastic team who are also scheduled to fill in at half time during the first two games of the UND-NDAC Nickel series to be held here February 20th and 21st.
