

THE SPECTRUM

Tito Guizar Troupe Featured On Lyceum

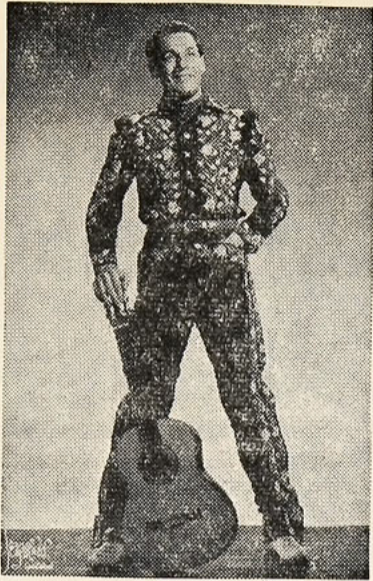

Tito Guizar and his troubadours will be presented tomorrow night at 8:15 in Festival hall as the fourth number on the 36th annual Lyceum series.

The troupe, which played to an audience of 15,000 in St. Paul Tuesday evening, will present a two-hour program of authentic music, songs and dances from south of the border. The company has been personally gathered by Guizar from Mexico, Brazil and the Argentine.

Guizar, grandson of a former Mexican president, is an all-around artist, having appeared in operas, nightclubs, radio productions and movies. One of his movies was Brazil, in which he appeared opposite Virginia Bruce, native Fargoan.

Features of the program include Estelle Mallonn, soprano; Los Ojedas, Mexican dance team; Carlos Acevedo, concert pianist with the Mexican Tipica Sinfoneta; and cello soloist, Chito Montoya, former associate conductor of the Mexico Tipica orchestra.

Tickets may be purchased in the Little Country Theater office; students will be admitted on their activity cards.

Next Lyceum production will take place March 3, with Sanroma, world-renowned pianist, as the attraction.

Wilder's Our Town Set As Next LCT Production

Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer prize-winning play, Our Town, will be presented in the Little Country Theater Tuesday and Wednesday at 8:15 p.m.

The production is an all-student effort, the cast of characters doubling as the stage crew. Ruth Wilhan and Alice Walla of Fargo are co-directors.

Miss Walla and Donald Knott of New Rockford have the leads in the play, unique in the fact that it is played almost entirely without scenery. The action takes place in the town of Grovers Corners, New Hampshire.

Other members of the cast include Robert Schreiner, Lloyd Flynn, Peter Fog, Dennis McMullen and Jack Williams, all of Fargo; Madeline Forsyth, Marilyn Collette and Charles Dickens, all of Moorhead; Dona Piche, Mah-nomen, Minn., Bernhard Bermann, Pelican Rapids, Minn., Mayo Kucera, Fessenden; Mary Linda Rousseau, Williston; Daly King, Park River; Dave Haibeck, Steele. Jim McNutt of Fargo is stage manager.

This year's showing will be the first in a series of annual productions of the play.

Next LCT attraction is Henrik Ibsen's play, Ghosts, to be presented March 11 and 12.

Set Junior-Senior Prom For May 24

The junior class announces that the Junior-Senior Prom will be held Saturday evening, May 24, in Festival hall. The Statesmen have been engaged for the evening.

Although the prom is sponsored by the junior class in honor of the seniors, all college students are invited. Juniors and seniors will be admitted without charge, while freshmen and sophomores will be required to pay a small admission fee, announces Tom Challoner.

College Y Sponsoring Folk Dancing Classes

Modern youth are turning from the beaten path to learn how their parents and grandparents danced the Virginia reel, the square dance, the schottische, and the quadrille.

A class in folk dancing, to be held every other Wednesday night from 6:30-8:00 in the college Y auditorium, is being sponsored by the YMCA, and all college students are invited to attend.

According to Peter Fog, folk dance instructor, practice sessions will be held until March 14, at which time the YMCA will sponsor an all-college costume barn dance.

Club Organizes Group To Conduct NDACTours

A tours committee headed by Russell Calderwood was organized by the 4-H club during a recent meeting for the purpose of conducting any interested outside groups through the entire college or through several departments. Other members of the group are Joe Olson, Jeanne Palmer, Marlys Timm and Solveig Vanvig.

Originally suggested by President J. H. Longwell during the fall term, the committee is to function as a service group.

Visitors who desire the services offered should contact Dean A. C. Sevrinson.

DELAY FINANCIAL REPORT

Publication of a student commission financial report, scheduled for this issue of The Spectrum, was delayed to make room for straight news copy.

Ames Skolness To Head Local ISSAC Group

Ames Skolness of Valley City was named this week as the chairman of the local chapter of the Intra-State Student Action committee by Russ Heine, president of the Student commission.

Skolness, presently state publicity chairman for ISSAC, has been active in the organization since its inception at NDAC last spring.

Other appointments for ISSAC committee heads announced by Heine include Daly King, Park River, research; Fred Saefke, Fargo, radio; Bill Klubben, Coopers-town, newspaper publicity; Grace Swigart, Fargo, campus.

Other business of the commission was taken up with action to support proposals by the band to get further scholastic credit and remuneration. On a motion by Norma Jean Steinmeyer, commissioner of finance, the commission agreed to aid the band in giving credit to freshman band and chorus members, increasing the credit allowance from two-thirds to one credit per quarter for band and chorus members and getting a stipend for junior and senior band members. A fourth proposal, asking for a part of the student activity ticket fund, was tabled until revision of the constitution, now underway, has been completed.

Ralph Steinhaus, speaking for band members, said that the band is allowed only $112 per year to meet all expenses. Reason for the proposals, Steinhaus stated, was to provide incentive for upper-classmen to remain in the band.

To Study REA Setup On Forks Field Trip

Six students of rural electrification will go on a field trip to Grand Forks Friday and Saturday. Accompanying them will be Professor Richard Witz.

Members of the class are Mark Andrews, Clarence Bicker, Duane Fossum, Howard Olson, Eugene Paulson, and Wesley Samson.

In Grand Forks the group will follow a program which will include the generating, distribution, and use of electricity for the farm. The generating and distributing plant they will visit is run by two organizations, the Nodak and the Mindak Rural Electrification co-operatives. The class will visit about six electrified farms in the area.

Critical Year Viewed For State Engineering

"This will be a critical year in engineering in North Dakota," said John A. Oakey, head of the NDAC department of civil engineering, in addressing a meeting of the third district of the North Dakota Society of Professional Engineers in Bismarck recently.

He said that it was the duty of the state and the profession of engineering to do everything in their power to aid in this educational problem.

ENGINEERS PLAN MOVIE

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers will show the movie, Quick Freezing of Foods, today at 4:15 in room 22 of the Engineering building. All engineers are welcome.

Select Hugo Littig ROTC Cadet Head

Homework

Lee Buys Cigars; Father Of Twins

Pete Lee, electrical engineering senior from Fargo, got two additional homework problems during the week that he isn't sad over at all.

Mrs. Lee gave birth to twins this week, making Pete the first veteran on the campus to father a double feature.

At last reports, mother and offspring were doing fine. So is Pete. He passed his midterms.

Hugo F. Littig of Fargo, veteran of three and one-half years in the army, was named cadet lieutenant colonel of the First battalion, corps of cadets, ROTC, in announcement by President John H. Longwell published as an order by the military department this week.

Littig served as non-commissioned officer in charge of a radio net control station in Alaska and was discharged as a technical sergeant.

Second in command with the rank of cadet major will be Robert A. Swanson of Fargo, veteran of four years' service in the navy.

Cadet captains include Curtis J. Johnson, Herbert W. Johnson, John E. Korsmo, Martin B. Ness and Robert G. Schmitt.

Cadet first lieutenants announced are Edsell D. Buen, Glenn F. Fleck, Vernon L. Pepple and Norbert H. Zweber, while Rudolph O. Gysland, Vernon L. Lutjens, Donald E. Matson and James E. Peterson were confirmed as second lieutenants.

Promoted to master sergeant were Alfred L. Dale, Wesley D. Anderson, Roger L. Owens and Robert A. Vogel. Dale will fill the post of battalion sergeant major.

The permanent cadet technical sergeants are Paul M. Brostrom, Fred W. Dickens, Phillip N. Hess, Warren W. Knauss, John T. Mergens, Thurston B. Nelson and Lylle L. Ritchie.

The list of cadet staff sergeants includes James E. Anderson, Wallace R. Bergdahl, Dixon G. Best, Robert D. Cook, Robert Davenport, Kermit B. Davison, Kenneth R. Edmonds, Robert E. Feeney, Marvin H. Garske, Leonard Geisler, Roy M. Hovey, Maurice G. Isaacson, George C. Keena, Lars A. Larson, Carl A. Lee, Carrol W. Neller-moe, Harry W. Paper, George N. Rada, Floyd W. Robb, Robert M. Smoot Jr., James D. Sparks, Clifford W. Thomas and John W. Williams.

Cadet sergeants are David M. Baldwin, Richard E. Broschat, James H. Olson, Floyd L. Steen, Marvin E. Stenseth and Donald F. Wischow. An additional list of sergeants and corporals will be published in a few weeks.

Cadet privates first class are Vernon D. Albertson, Robert L. Berg and Wayne H. Schmidt. Privates first class are appointed throughout the year from the freshman cadets who successfully complete a series of tests on Americanism and various military subjects.

LCT Names Cast For Ibsen Drama

Casting is nearing completion this week for the Little Country theater production of Ghosts, by Henrik Ibsen, to be presented April 11-12.

Four of the five cast members have been selected. Ruth Wilhan will portray the part of Mrs. Alving; Ed Kasner, Oswald Alving; Robert Barckley, Pastor Manders; and Kenneth Mick, the role of Jacob Engstrand. The last character, Regina Engstrand, is yet to be cast.

The Ibsen play deals with a rebellion against the narrowness of convention.

A special stage setting for the NDAC production was designed recently by Mason Arvold, former student now a Broadway designer, and constructed in the theater workshop.

Directing the play will be Miss Constance West.

Offer Pre-Med Exams

Junior and senior pre-medical students have until Monday to register for graduate record examinations, it was announced this week by Carl H. Schmidt, college personnel director.

Students who failed to take the examinations when they were first offered January 11 must contact Schmidt by Monday in order that their names can be submitted to the Carnegie foundation in New York, sponsor of the tests. The examinations will be given early in March.

Final Examination Schedule Set

Registration for the spring quarter will be held Monday, March 31, and Tuesday, April 1, in Festival hall, announces Alfred H. Parrott, registrar.

Seniors will register Monday morning from 8-10; juniors, 10-12; and sophomores in the afternoon. Freshmen will enroll on Tuesday. The registration procedure to be followed will be the same as that used for the winter term.

The following schedule has been prepared for final examinations, and will reduce the period from four to three days.

EDITORIAL OBSERVATIONS

Objective

A Case Of Distorted Thinking

A wave of reaction, apparent throughout the United States in recent months, lapped on the shores of North Dakota this week. Members of the state's house of representatives passed and handed to the senate House Bill 151, which would forbid the existence of the closed shop in North Dakota industry. Sponsors of the bill are the Associated Industries of North Dakota, a recently formed organization which has introduced several other anti-labor measures into the legislature.

The Spectrum plays no part in political controversies of the day, being a publication supported by funds from students of diverse interests, but its editorial policy is one that may conflict at times with the policies of any group, regardless of political affiliation. That policy is based on the fundamental: rationality in all phases of human thinking. In that the principles of Associated Industries of North Dakota conflict with this policy, and in that the activities of that organization are of vital importance to NDAC students and faculty as well as the remainder of society, The Spectrum finds it necessary to take issue with the fallacies and half-truths upon which this anti-labor organization stands.

The Associated Industries of North Dakota is an organization with local groups at Minot, Bismarck and Fargo. Formation of the Fargo unit began only recently on the eve of the state legislative session. A general view of the organization's purposes may be obtained from its proposed by-laws, which, although not yet enacted, are identical to those of the Minot group and are obviously the principles behind the organization's lobbying program.

According to the proposed by-laws Associated Industries stands for elimination of class prejudice. Yet, in a state with comparatively little labor strife, that very organization fires the first volley in a now inevitable battle between employer and employee classes.

The closed shop, the organization claims, "is not conducive to the peace, well being and prosperity of any group." Yet, if the members of Associated Industries were to look around them, they would find countless functioning contradictions to that contention. The statement itself is the sort of illogical generality suitable, perhaps, for the campaign speech of an opportunist, but hardly the sort of thing to be included in a sober set of by-laws.

The closed shop, it is asserted, is an infringement upon the constitutional rights of the individual. This is the height of absurdities. If this be true, then a lawyer should not be compelled to join a bar association before practicing law. A doctor should not be required to join the American Medical association in order to practice medicine. And an employer—what right does he have to refuse a man employment, since to do so would interfere with his "constitutional rights" to obtain employment? This is the most abhorrent kind of half-thinking.

Associated Industries recognizes the "moral and legal" right of labor to bargain collectively. But as long as it opposes the closed shop, the organization might as well add "with the employer's permission." For without the closed shop labor is entirely at the mercy of the employer. The employer can, if he so decides, discharge union men or hire non-union men until the union no longer has a voice and the individual worker is without representation. Certainly, there may be countless employers whose honesty and integrity would prevent them from exploiting their workers with this weapon, but it is extremely unjust legislation that even permits the possibility. Such an attitude on the part of Associated Industries either belies its integrity or reveals a lack of logic in its thinking.

Associated Industries, it is claimed, is opposed to "intimidation, coercion or domination by the leaders of organized groups." Isn't Associated Industries itself an organized group formed to further private interests? Isn't it using the strongest of lobbying pressure to force into law measures of particular benefit to a few? Isn't the legislation it supports designed to make it possible for employers to practice the worst sort of employee intimidation?

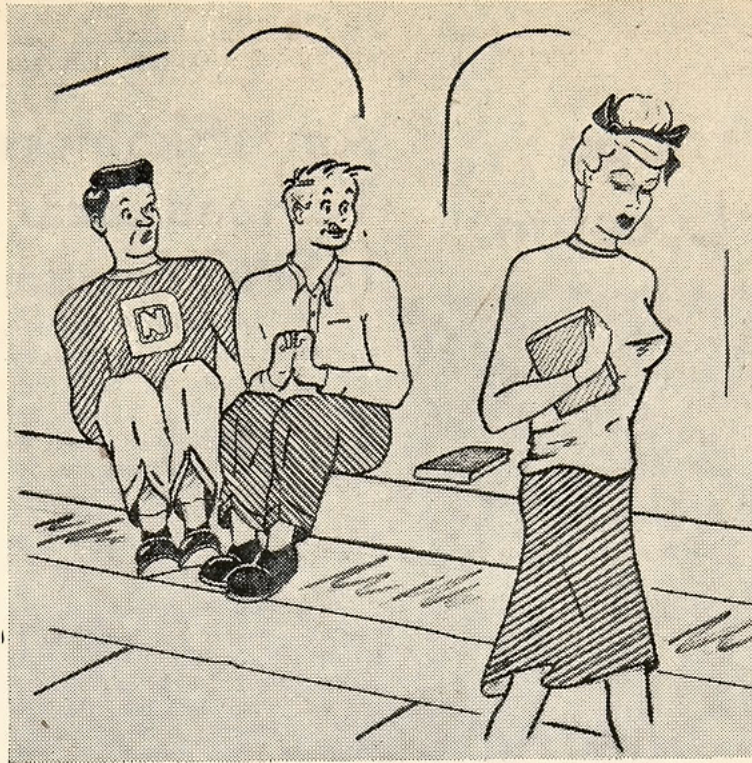

While opposed to coercion, the Associated Industries of Fargo began the forced sale last month of meal tickets for the Fargo Bus Depot cafe in an effort to kill a strike of the cafe's union employees. Regardless of the merits of the case, this is an act of coercion remarkably in opposition to the Associated Industries' stated principles. It is apparent that theirs is a double standard, with one code of rules for labor and another for capital.

Society must learn to recognize the insincerity and fallaciousness of such arguments as those used by Associated Industries if social justice is ever to be achieved. In labor matters, as well as in all other aspects of economics and all phases of human thinking, there can be but one, unchanging standard: rationality.

Associated Industries of North Dakota doesn't meet the test.

Here's hoping that the 150 people who do all the yelling at the basketball games sit together during the University series so it will at least sound like we've got a cheering section. Either that, or get some liquid nourishment beforehand.

Before University diehards go around requesting North Dakota legislators to change the name of our fair school, to Sub-Normal, we would like to have them start a little closer to home. On a certain University building cornerstone is the inscription "Teachers College—MCDXXX", which would seem to remove all doubt as to the legitimacy of calling the U State Normal.

AC Library Receives Many New Books

By MARJORIE AAMODT

Among new books recently added to the college library are the following:

Thunder Out of China, by T. H. White and Annalee Jacoby. The authors of this book have tackled the most difficult assignment that modern correspondents could take; to tell in a single volume the story of what has been happening in the Far East, and especially China, during the decade of crisis years through which a half billion people have been living. Thunder Out of China is a modern history told by a pair of writers who watched it in the making and their account is brilliant.

As He Saw It, by Elliott Roosevelt. Here is a book for every American who has ever asked himself what FDR would do with the world problems of today. It covers the period from the Atlantic Charter meeting to Yalta. Having acted as his father's aide, Elliott Roosevelt can give a vivid picture of that period. One of the most important features of the book is that it shows how far the world has moved from the paths and plan that Franklin Roosevelt hoped it would follow.

The Revolt of the South and West, by A. G. Mezerek. In the making across and down the United States is a new and strange civil war. The South, the intermountain states and the Pacific west all look at the east with growing anger because they are convinced that it is from the east that today's industrial tyranny is being exercised. The Revolt of the South and West is the story of how the east dominates the rest of the country and of the people who feel the effects in these areas.

Other new books include: Handel by Herbert Weinstock; My Father Who Is on Earth by John Wright; the Wild Flag by E. B. White; Bad Boy of Music by George Antheil; The Winged Serpent by Margot Astrov; Color Blind by Margaret Halsey; and They Have Found a Faith by Marcus Bach.

Heard About The Herd

By JACK RILLING

I-M Schedule Changes

move Wednesday's postponed basketball games to tonight at scheduled time. Saturday afternoon at 3:00 Theta Chi-Architects will play a postponed game.

No Tickets

is the story at Grand Forks this weekend as the Bison journey to the University for the opening games of the annual series. Just why the Sioux officials are seeking funds for a new field house will be seen by those of us lucky enough to view the openers. If all the university students took a notion to see the games, that crackerbox gym couldn't begin to hold everyone.

And That Crackerbox

is why this end of things sees the Sioux winning two games on their court and splitting down here the next weekend. The University knows their small court to perfection and, in addition, have played good ball elsewhere.

So One Game

is what we expect here. That is if there are no Charity balls anywhere in the vicinity. Often you may hear the fable of the guy who raised hell the night before and the next day played a whale of a game—but nothing is ever mentioned of the game that might have been played had the guy taken it easy. Anyway, the Herd is far from the former category judging by the tongues showing early in the South Dakota State game Saturday.

Tuesday's Polio Charity

tilt was a big disappointment from this end as far as the attendance was concerned. With two inter-city rivals such as MSTC and the Bison as the attractions we can't see why with proper scheduling and promotion such a charity tilt shouldn't fill the Field house. Certainly, such a game could well have been put on the Winter Carnival schedule. Why isn't there a clearing house that could be consulted by those arranging schedules and activities in this area?

If Wednesday

at 4:00 is the time to have a pep rally for a weekend basketball game, we'll give up the ghost. Of course, all credit is due the students for having enough gumption to get one at all. We take it that student morale means nothing to school authorities for there certainly isn't any, and one recognized way to aid morale is to establish a unified rooting section. We'd like to answer any professor who says that students couldn't miss a couple of classes.

How About It,

Mr. President and Student Commission? Why not let a good ball team and the students have a convo the Friday morning before the games here the 28th and 1st?

Bill Mason,

NDAC boxer, journeyed to Valley City last week to drop a close decision in an independent bout. Kirk Bellows, boxing coach, is looking for matches for the very near future.

Bemidji State Teachers was added to the 1947 football schedule this week as an opener at Bemidji on September 12 to make a nine game schedule for the Bison.

Around The Loop

Morningside plans a baseball team this spring. . . . At Iowa Teachers the Panther wrestling team continues its winning ways. . . . Thurlo McCrady will assume the Kansas State athletic director job after the basketball season at SDS. . . . An intramural hockey league is underway at the University.

NDAC basketball nears its 1946-47 climax this weekend as Chalky Reed's rejuvenated Herd moves into Grand Forks to open their annual four-game series with Harold Cunningham's University Sioux.

The annual competition gets under way in Grand Forks with games tomorrow and Saturday. Next weekend the two teams return to Fargo for the climax tilts of this year's rivalry.

Sioux Conference Favorite

With the Sioux in a favorable position, along with Morningside, to annex the NCI title, the Bison, not rated a chance of winning more than one game from the U earlier in the season, are being counted upon by followers to knock the Sioux out of title consideration.

Cunningham will probably rely on Jim Gustafson and Ed Weber at the forward posts, with Gordon Huffman at center, and Dud Draxton and Jim Paulson at the guards. Reed, on the other hand is expected to rely on Dave Turner and Jim Johnston at the front line posts with Red Brostrom at the pivot spot and Nick Vujovich and Tommy Corrigan in the back line.

Good Loop Record

Inside the loop, the U owns two victories from both Augustana and South Dakota State. The Sioux whipped Iowa Teachers 45-42 in their only meeting and dropped single games to Morningside and South Dakota University.

In the South Dakota counterpart to the Bison-Sioux series, SDU meets South Dakota State this weekend. Omaha is at Morningside tomorrow night in a non-conference game. Saturday night Iowa Teachers is at West Michigan while Augustana journeys to Aberdeen in two non-conference games.

Rifle Team At UND; Win S. D. State Match

Under Capt. Charles Dornacher, the college rifle team will journey to Grand Forks Saturday for a shoulder-to-shoulder gallery match with the University five.

In a recent postal match with South Dakota State the NDAC team won 1783-1742 with possible score of 2000.

Team members who will renew the traditional match with the UND are Kermit Davison, Robert Smoot, Robert Vogel, Donald Mair, and Alfred Barber.

KSC, Privateers, Saints Bracket Leaders; Fercho Heads Scoring

Kappa Sigma Chi, Privateers, and Saints remained as bracket leaders with five wins apiece as the Kappa Sigs whipped Sigma Chi I, 33-23; the Privateers trampled Kappa Psi, 22-3; and the Saints won from Dorm II, 26-14, in intramural basketball play this week.

The first bracket has the top scorers in Cal Fercho, Sigma Chi, with 55 points; Paul Fedji, Kappa Sigs, with 49; and Jim Noonan, AGR, and Glen Melvey, ATO, with 35 apiece. Louie Ophiem, Kappa Psi, and Jim Parkman, LBR, lead Bracket 2 with 35 apiece. In the third bracket George Nornes, Oak Grovers, is tops with 26 points.

MSTC, Rabbits Bison Victims

Continuing last week's winning streak, the Bison added two more pelts to their field house collection by whipping MSTC, 50-42, Tuesday and eking South Dakota State, 42-41, Saturday.

The Herd had a 21-7 advantage in the second quarter against the Dragons in the Polio Benefit Tuesday before the Moorhead school toughened up to close the difference to 21-17 at the half.

With two minutes gone in the third quarter the Dragons had pulled to within two points, but the Bison rallied and led comfortably through a rough second half to the 50-42 finish.

Tom Corrigan and Jim Johnston were high with 20 and 13 points with the starting five looking especially sharp in the first half. Walt Van Meter led MSTC with 18 points.

TURNER LEADS SCORING

Dave Turner's five first half buckets gave the Herd a 30-24 halftime lead in the Jackrabbit tussle. But the Herd's shots wouldn't drop in the final half and the Rabbits managed a one-point lead in the last minutes before Johnston sank a couple of gift shots for the winning margin.

B Squad Edges Dragons

Stan Kostka's B squad edged the MSTC B squad, 29-28, in a preliminary tilt Tuesday evening. Jerry Johnson and Tom Burns led the Baby Bison scoring with 11 and eight points.

In a preliminary tilt Saturday the Bs whipped Ayr, in the second meeting of the two teams.

Add New Chemist To NDAC Faculty

Dr. Carl O. Clagette took over duties last month as associate professor of biochemistry in the school of chemical technology and acting head of the department of agricultural chemistry in the experiment station.

Clagette graduated from Penn State college in 1939 with a B. S. degree. Two years later he got an M. S. from the University of Wisconsin. Recently he completed the work for his Ph. D. at the latter institution.

He has worked at the Boyce Thompson Institute for Plant Research in Yonkers, N. Y. At the University of Wisconsin he was an assistant in department of biochemistry in charge of the plant biochemistry laboratory work.

Ceres Hall Residents Plan Patriotic Party

A patriotic party for Ceres hall residents is being planned for tonight in the Ceres gymnasium.

Former dormitory residents were guests of the Ceres hall council and the girls who are new in the dormitory this year.

Refreshments were arranged by Jane and Jean Winslow, Virginia Pederson, and Leila Olson; the program by Jeanne Palmer and Mary Margaret Coe.

Marge Timko, Connie Westman, Dora Olson, and Naomi Schuricht were in charge of decorations and other equipment following the party.

ACN Reorganizes

Officers were elected and a potential Beaux Arts ball was discussed at a recent reorganization meeting of Atlier Chat Noir, student architectural society.

Robert Beals was elected president of the group. Other officers are Arnie Granheim, vice president; Pat O'Leary, secretary; Bob Heisler, treasurer.

The Beaux Arts ball, a masquerade dance which originated in Paris, is traditionally given by the society at NDAC.
