Two Lyceum Programs Set For Campus In Coming Week

Josh White, Noted Negro Folk Artist, Featured Monday

Josh White, noted Negro minstrel of work songs, blues and ballads, will be the featured performer at a special Lyceum program to be presented Monday at 8 p.m. in Festival hall.

Admission will be to students only on a first come, first served basis, with the student activity ticket needed for admissions.

White, composer of One Meat Ball, gathered his songs while leading a group of blind minstrels in the South.

His program Monday will include such numbers as Waltzing Matilda, Battle of Jericho, Hard Times Blues, One Meat Ball, Mollie Malone and I'm Goin' to Move to the Outskirts of Town.

Josephine Premice, Haitian singer and dancer, will be assisting artist.

A "one meat ball" dinner sponsored by the Edwin Booth society will be served in the Lincoln Log Cabin at 6 p.m. Monday. It will be open to all speech class students.

POP's Seek Entry Into Theta Group

Zeta chapter of Phi Omega Pi, located at NDAC, petitioned Saturday for membership in Kappa Alpha Theta following dissolution of the national chapter at its fall convention.

Reply to the petition is expected within six weeks.

Until such time as the petition is acted upon, the local chapter will be known as Beta Xi.

District Theta president, Mrs. C. J. Witlow, Vermillion, S. D., recently visited the petitioning group.

Icelandic Singers, Famed Choral Unit, Appears Wednesday

The Icelandic Singers, world-renowned choral group, will be presented in Festival hall, Wednesday, November 20, at 8 p.m. as the third number in the 36th annual Lyceum series.

An experienced group of 36 singers under the direction of, Sigurdur Thordarson, they will present a program of American and Icelandic music. Featured among the selections will be Schubert's Cradle Song and many original numbers written by Thordarson.

The group contains many distinguished and talented musicians, among them the leading tenor of the Danish Royal Opera of Copenhagen, Stefan Islandi. The men have studied music since childhood and are well-grounded in choral singing.

Ticket Sales Open For Spinster Skip; Name Committees

Tickets will go on sale Monday in Dean Dinan's office for the annual Spinster skip, scheduled for Friday, November 22 at 8 p.m. in Festival hall.

About 200 tickets will be available for the dance, sponsored by Senior Staff. Price is 75 cents per couple. Kenny Sutton and his orchestra will be on the bandstand.

Committees for the dance include Gus X, Carolyn Bohrer; door prizes, Norma Jean Steinmeyer; publicity and band, Jeanne Hendrickson; tickets, Mary Lou Krammer; decorations, Edith Gelder and Adelaide Dinwoodie.

Board Recommends Vast NDAC Building Program

North Dakota Agricultural college will be in line for $1,505,000 in new buildings if recommendations approved by the state board of higher education last week are concurred in by the state budget board and state legislature.

Top items in the NDAC budget are a new home economics building costing $500,000 and an additional $250,000 appropriation for the library in addition to the $200,000 in funds approved by the

Statesmen, New AC Dance Band, To Play Friday

NDAC students have organized a dance band under the name of the Statesmen which will make its initial appearance at the Intra-State Student Action committee convocation Friday, according to Paul Thonn, Jr., newly-elected band president.

Plans have been laid for a dance December 6 to raise funds for new band uniforms or a possible band trip. After the benefit dance, the Statesmen will go on a commercial basis.

Other band officers elected at a meeting November 1 include Karl Kereluk, vice president; Jack Askew, secretary; and Les Wagner, treasurer. All are from Fargo.

center was not acted upon by the board, which recommended that the proposal be made directly to the budget board.

A. F. Arnason, commissioner of higher education, pointed out that outside of the appropriations made to NDAC in 1945, no major building program has been approved by the state legislature since 1929, when the physical education and men's dormitory at NDAC and Merrifield hall at the university were authorized. Also, the state treasury is operating on a balance of $13,000,000 and it is believed that the program could be met without dipping into current income.

Coalitionists Make Sweep Of Elections

Coalition forces made a complete sweep of campus posts voted for in last Thursday's general election, final figures revealed this week show.

Winners in the three student commission post races were Lois Dickson, Hunter, assistant commissioner of finance; Dolores Shanks, Fargo, senior member of the board of publications; and Jerry Reinan, Horace, member of the athletic board of control.

The following class officers were chosen:

Juniors: president, Lida Lawrence, Fargo; vice president, Joyce Hundson, Fargo; secretary, Tom Chailoner, Fargo; treasurer, Betty Lewis, Bismarck. Miss Emma Dubetz is class advisor.

Permanent Commissions Go To ROTC Graduates

Permanent commissions in the regular army may be awarded to honor graduates of the ROTC it was announced in a war department memorandum released by Capt. R. M. Heikkinen of the college military department.

Award of the commissions will be based on recommendations by the professor of military science and tactics. Cadet candidates will be selected and designated by the president of the college and the recommendations will be made on this designation.

AC President Elected Head Of Ag Group

Dr. John H. Longwell was named permanent chairman Tuesday of a new organization formed to coordinate efforts of all groups in developing a better agricultural program in North Dakota.

Approximately 75 representatives of various organizations associated with agriculture met on the campus to form the North Dakota Agricultural conference. Tuesday's meeting was the group's second, a preliminary session having been held September 30. Organizers were Dr. Longwell and R. J. Hughes of Wahpeton, president of the Greater North Dakota association.

Appointed to an executive committee, which will meet quarterly, were 17 representatives of interested groups. Included were the state's larger agricultural commodity organizations, crop growers, livestock interests, farm homemakers groups, youth groups, railroads, livestock marketing groups, the Farm bureau, Farmers Union, Greater North Dakota association and the state commissioner of agriculture and labor.

All phases of the state's agricultural program will come under guidance of the new conference. Among its other activities the conference will act in an advisory capacity to the state agricultural education and development program, supplementing work of the state agricultural extension service.

Action Group Ends Program

Six slogans selected by a committee of three Fargoans will be submitted for the approval of students attending a dance Friday evening at 9 in the college field house climaxing a campaign to arouse support for the North Dakota Intra-State Student Action committee.

Judges for the slogan contest, for which seven campus organizations submitted entries, were Stan Cowan, city editor for The Fargo Forum, Ken Kennedy, manager of WDAY, and Ed Kraus, Fargo theater manager.

Lloyd Keller's orchestra will appear at the Friday evening dance, being called the Slogan skip. Ballots listing the slogans will be distributed at the door and they must be turned in by 10:30. The organization which submitted the slogan receiving the most votes will receive a trophy or equivalent cash prize.

A Student Action rally is scheduled in Festival hall Friday morning presenting Walter Birkelo, Mayville, state president of the Student Action group. Ames Skolness is in charge of the convocation, as chairman of NDAC's committee. The Statesmen, a new college band, will make its initial appearance before the meeting begins. After Birkelo's explanation of the committee's work, the floor will be open to questions from the student body.

EDITORIAL OBSERVATIONS

Objective

A Question Of Man's Destiny

NDAC will enter another of its annual Religious Emphasis weeks Saturday, this one including a series of seminars led by members of a Christian Missions team. During the week many NDAC students, perhaps, will find themselves thinking on issues they previously had ignored.

Behind religion and all systems of theological and philosophical thought lies the basic question of man's relationship to the universe. Christianity is but one of many religions being practiced in the world today. Religion, in itself, is but one explanation in a sea of explanations for man's existence on this unyielding planet. Ever since he emerged from the darkness of unrecorded history, man has been devising notions regarding his position, and today one may point to thousands of schools of thought, many claiming to be unquestionable truth.

In this world of conflicting opinion man has only certain powers of discernment on which he must stake his possible claim to eternity. Since these are his only tools, it is rather obvious that he can ill afford to let them stand idle. The world, however, because its majority is mentally indolent, very often condemns the man who tirelessly seeks the truth and praises him who lazily embraces the first available dogma.

Even in a complex society as this, or on a college campus where most students must be concerned primarily with mastering the mechanics of mundane professions, basic philosophic issues cannot be forgotten. Man's life is short, and his period of physical stamina generally is shorter. Since there is some possibility, at least, that there is a purpose to man's existence on earth, it would seem that there is no justifiable escape for him from the necessity of seeking a decision.

One of the reasons people go to college is to learn to think. What they are supposed to be taught is the "scientific method," wherein no conclusion is drawn without adequate evidence. It is this ideal that the true thinker ever holds in view.

In an open field a man six feet tall stands in a visual circle about 14 miles across. Surrounded by trees, hills and the edifices constructed by man, however, he may see no further than across the street. In the same manner man is surrounded by a maze of convention which everywhere seeks to impede the vision of his thoughts. "It was good enough for your father, and it's good enough for you," cries the evangelist of his particular dogmatic belief, and the lazy ones agree that must be so. They look at the four sides of the revivalist's dreary tent and imagine they see the infinite beyond.

Social attitudes to the contrary, each man's philosophy is a personal thing. No outsider can insert opinions into one's mind without first approval of the owner. When all superficial considerations are cast aside, it is each man's decision that decides his destiny. In the light of this decision, the arguments presented by social convention can hardly bear serious consideration.

To the student who considers religious and philosophic problems through use of the scientific method such activities as Religious Emphasis week can be opportunity for mental advancement.

Subjective

Abstraction, Indian Form

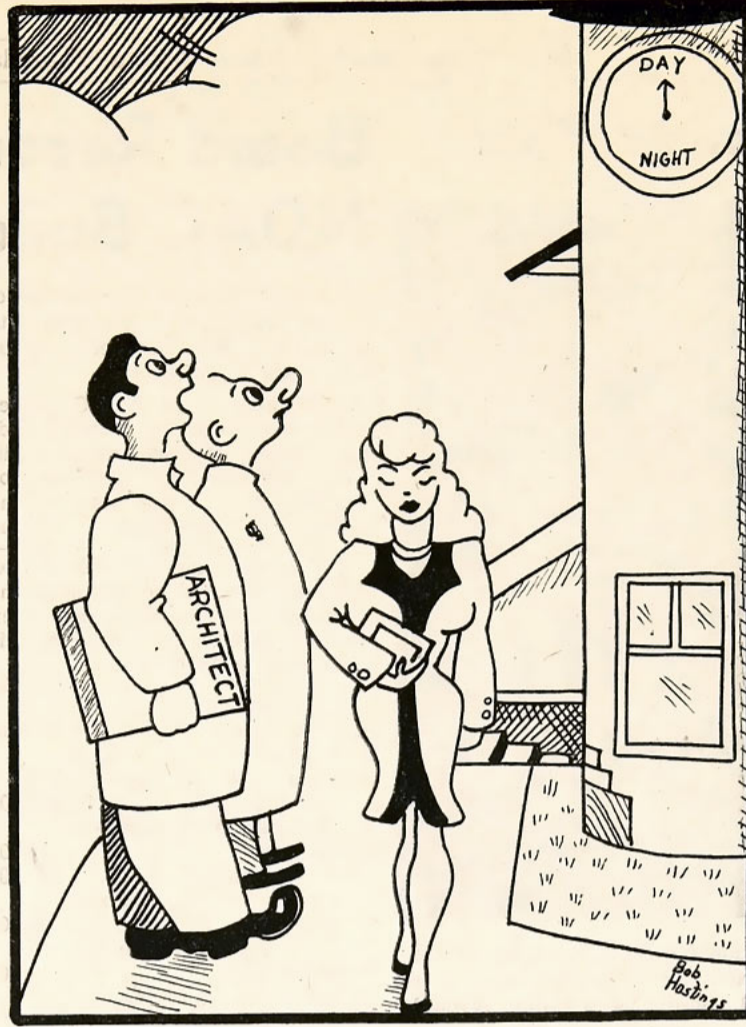

One of the greatest minds in India today, to my knowledge, is that of Sir Rabindranath Tagore, poet, playwright and philosopher, who won the Nobel prize for literature in 1913. His writings exude a mystical quality which leaves the reader at least partially convinced that Tagore is in tune with the universe.

Tagore's is the ability to say an abstract thing in an abstract manner. Among the beautiful verses in his poem, "Gitanjali," published in the volume, The Collected Poems and Plays of Rabindranath Tagore, is the following. I feel it particularly timely as NDAC goes into its annual Religious Emphasis week.

"Where the mind is without fear and the head is held high;
Where knowledge is free;
Where the world has not been broken up into fragments by narrow domestic walls;
Where words come out from the depth of truth;
Where tireless striving stretches its arms towards perfection;
Where the clear stream of reason has not lost its way into the dreary desert sand of dead habit;
Where the mind is led forward by thee into ever-widening thought and action—
Into that heaven of freedom, my Father, let my country awake."

Victory! Spectrum Critic Admits State Of The Union Not Too Bad

By FRED NELSON

First NDAC performance of State of the Union, 1946 Pulitzer prize winner authored by Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse, took place Tuesday in the Little Country theatre, where tonight's final offering will be presented.

The play, a political satire throwing barbs at the power politicians who play prejudice against prejudice to gain votes, was a sophisticated comedy with moments that should have made the average American voter more than a little ashamed at his own laziness and "I don't care who wins just so I'm not hurt" attitude.

It is unfortunate that the first night performance of the cast could not have lived up to the promise in the script, although a fairly good job was turned in with only a few signs of first night jitters.

The quality of thespian endeavor should improve somewhat after Tuesday's opening. Fred Dickens as Grant Matthews, presidential aspirant, may remember what to say to his wife when she is off-stage dressing for bed without the long silence as memory fails him, while Adelaide Dinwoodie, who turned in a rather wooden performance trying to let the people know she was just acting in the "other woman" role, may show just a bit more affection for leading man Dickens than a frigid peck on the cheek under a not quite concealing hand. One thing that seemed to carry through virtually the whole cast was a rather strange attitude regarding the wholly essential "damns" and "hells" that permeated the production. A person got the impression every time either of these words was uttered that the actor or actress wanted to turn to the audience to explain, "I shouldn't say this naughty word, but it's in the script."

Kenneth Mick, high powered politician, William Anderson as the wise-cracking newspaperman, and Ruth Wilhan in the not quite ever-loving but faithful wife role turned in the best performances of the production, my personal favorite being Anderson with some of the most effective remarks in the show.

The costuming and stage management crew turned in a fine job, not attempting elaborate sets, using simple but effective scenes, and good costuming throughout, having changes for the whole cast and some mighty pretty dresses for the women.

Religious Emphasis Week Program Opens Saturday

Plans are nearing completion today for the opening Saturday of NDAC's annual Religious Emphasis week, during which eight members of a Christian Missions team will tempt to spur thought on religious and philosophical matters through a series of convocations, addresses and seminars. Activities will continue through the following Friday.

MARGARET T. APPLGARATH

Planning the week's program at NDAC has been a committee of 100, headed by Dr. W. C. Hunter of the college history department. Assisting him have been William Provance and Lillian Nydahl, student co-chairmen; Gladys Sather, secretary; Elliott Hardaway, treasurer, and Vernon B. Hathaway, executive secretary.

First item on the week's calendar will be a "retreat" Saturday at Glyndon, Minn., where committee members will meet with visiting religious leaders for a general orientation. While there the party will be entertained by the ladies aid of the Glyndon Congregational church.

Heading the delegation of speakers will be Dr. T. Z. Koo, Chinese religious and political leader who served as an advisor to the Chinese delegation at the United Nations conference in San Francisco.

Sunday morning four members of the missions team will speak in Fargo churches. From then until Friday morning the various speakers will be engaged in a heavy schedule of speaking appearances.

One of the week's highlights will be a series of seminars on subjects selected by a campus interest poll.

Co-ordinating activities during the week will be daily committee breakfasts in Ceres hall at 7 a.m. A program headquarters has been established in the Religious Education building.

Student convocations Tuesday and Friday will feature talks by Dr. Koo and Miss Hanna Schokking, former national commander of the feminine component of the Royal Dutch navy.

Theme for the week will be Christianity—A Personal Guide.

Committee chairmen who have supervised arrangements for Religious Emphasis week include Dr. Hunter, chairman of the executive committee; Alex D. MacGibbon, program; June Stotlar, worship and spiritual resources; Wesley Gunkel, seminars; Rev. Stafford Studer, classroom appointments; Mark Andrews, organized houses; Mrs. H. L. Walster, personal conferences; Merle Miller, publicity; William Provance and Lillian Nydahl, hospitality; Dr. Chris Jensen, faculty; Lorna Longwell, book exhibit; Elliott Hardaway, finance, and Rev. Studer, retreat committee.

Dr. Koo Heads Religion Week Speaking Team

Interest during Religious Emphasis week, beginning Saturday, will center around eight speakers representing the University Christian Mission committee of New York.

Principal speaker will be Dr. T. Z. Koo of China, who has represented his country in numerous international activities, including the League of Nations and the United Nations organization. Dr. Koo has served as an official of the Chinese Railway service, as secretary of the student division of the Chinese YMCA, member of the second world opium conference of the League of Nations, delegate to the Institute of Pacific Relations, advisor to the Chinese United Nations delegation, and as a speaker at the Oxford, Madras and Amsterdam conferences.

Arranging the appearance here of the missions team has been Clarence T. Elliott of Minneapolis, secretary for the North Central area, YMCA. Sponsoring the program of the University Christian Mission throughout the United States are the Department of Evangelism of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America and the United Student Christian council.

Among the other speakers will be Dr. George F. Hall, Miss Margaret T. Applegarth, Miss Hanna Schokking, Rev. Raymond V. Kearns, jr., Rev. Ray Ewing, Rev. Reidar Daehlin and Father Leonard P. Cowley.

Dr. Hall, dean and professor of Christianity at Gustavus Adolphus college, St. Peter, Minn., served last year as visiting professor of religion at Upsala college, East Orange, N. J., and as interim pastor in a church at Stamford, Conn.

Rev. Kearns is pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Manhattan, Kans., and is a former member of the staff of the University of Nebraska.

Miss Applegarth, author of over 30 books on missionary and allied themes, is national chairman of the World Day of Prayer committee and is chairman of a national committee on ecumenical education.

Miss Schokking, former national commander of the feminine counterpart of the Royal Dutch navy, is speaking in the United States under sponsorship of the United Council of Church Women. She heads the Junior Red Cross of Holland, is a former member of The Hague town council and served as commandant of the Dutch prison for Nazi women following Holland's liberation.

Rev. Ewing, who will lead discussion on rural sociology, is field superintendent of Congregational churches in northern Minnesota.

Rev. Daehlin is pastor of a Lutheran church in Great Falls, Mont., while Father Cowley serves as chaplain to Catholic students at the University of Minnesota.

Ag Engineers Elect

Ray Buchanan has been elected president of the Agricultural Engineering club, a branch of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers. Other officers include Mark Andrews, vice president; and Bill Provance, secretary-treasurer.

Recommended Changes Would Revise NDAC Campus Scene

A FACELIFTING TOTALING $1,505,000 may be in store for NDAC if the North Dakota State Budget board and the state legislature, which convenes next January, approve recommendations made last week by the state board of higher education. (See story, Page 1)

Pictured above is the NDAC campus as it appears today. Indicated in white figures are tentative locations for the proposed new buildings, additions and other changes.

Across from Ceres hall, at point 1, is planned a $500,000 home economics building, top item on the board's recommendation. No. 2 indicates an addition to Old Main, which would fill in its center section for increased office space. The proposed new college library, for which an increase to $500,000 is being sought, is indicated at 3.

Other items on the board's request include a maintenance building, 4; addition to the engineering laboratory, 5; Morrill hall addition, 6; boiler house addition, 7; four greenhouses, 8; seed house, 9, and livestock engineering building, 10. Beef and dairy barns located at 11 and 12 may be moved to points 13 and 14, leaving room for a parking area and drill field.

Pres. Longwell Cites Need For International Morality

Dr. John H. Longwell, NDAC president, cited the need for a return to international morality in a message he prepared this week for inclusion in the printed program for Religious Emphasis week.

His statement:

"A basic principle on which the aggressors in the war worked was 'Divide and Conquer.' The intention was to weaken all feasible opposition by disrupting all social progress, political institutions and moral values by campaigns involving subterfuge, deception and hate, developing distrust and strife among classes, races and creeds. This state of demoralization greatly increases the difficulties of a return to peace.

"Before men and nations can agree among themselves on a basis for peace, they must re-establish mutual confidence and respect, founded on the moral principles of integrity, truth, belief in spiritual values.

"Conferences of this kind have an opportunity to develop a working basis for settling some of our troubles by consideration of the relationships of social, political, racial, scientific and religious factors in our local, national and international problems."

AC Home Economics Instructors Attend State Homemakers Rallies

Instructors in home economics at NDAC attended district rallies of the Future Homemakers of America held throughout the state during October and November, announces Miss Christine Finlayson, state supervisor of home economics education.

Rallies have been held in four of the thirteen districts, with former NDAC graduates serving as chairmen in their capacity as homemaking teachers in the areas of the gatherings. The rallies at Park River, Mandan, Devils Lake, and Wishek were directed by Ione Erickson, Evelyn Pundsness Johnson, Lillian McDowall, and Irene Twedt respectively.

Dr. Leita Davy, dean of the school of home economics, and several members of the home economics staff will attend rallies held later this month.

NORTHERN STATES POWER COMPANY

Heard About The Herd

By JACK RILLING

Intramural Bowling gets underway tonight at 9 p.m. on the Grand Recreation alleys. An 18-week program has been scheduled for the ten participating teams with Bob Rekedal in charge of the league. Jim Noonan as president and Mike Pristash as secretary were elected Tuesday by the newly formed intramural athletic board that will plan and govern intramural play throughout the year.

Short A Game in North Central conference competition are the Iowa Teachers with cancellation of the Teachers-Augustana game last week. The Panthers have two wins and one tie in three conference tilts and, according to conference rules, must play four games. However, the scheduling of the needed games should be enough for conference delegates in their December 11 meeting in Chicago to declare the Iowa school the winner.

Who's Right Eugene Fitzgerald of the Fargo Forum heads a recent Keeping In Line with "McCrary (South Dakota State coach) Lauds Rothrock," and goes on to add that McCrary told him that, if the two schools were to play again, he would build a defense for Rothrock.

On The Other Hand, Rabbit Tales in a recent South Dakota State Collegian states, "That loud 'pop' you heard over the weekend was the bursting of publicity bubble built up around North Dakota State's defense . . . the only time NDAC's center Rothrock appeared in mid-western newspapers was in the starting lineup."

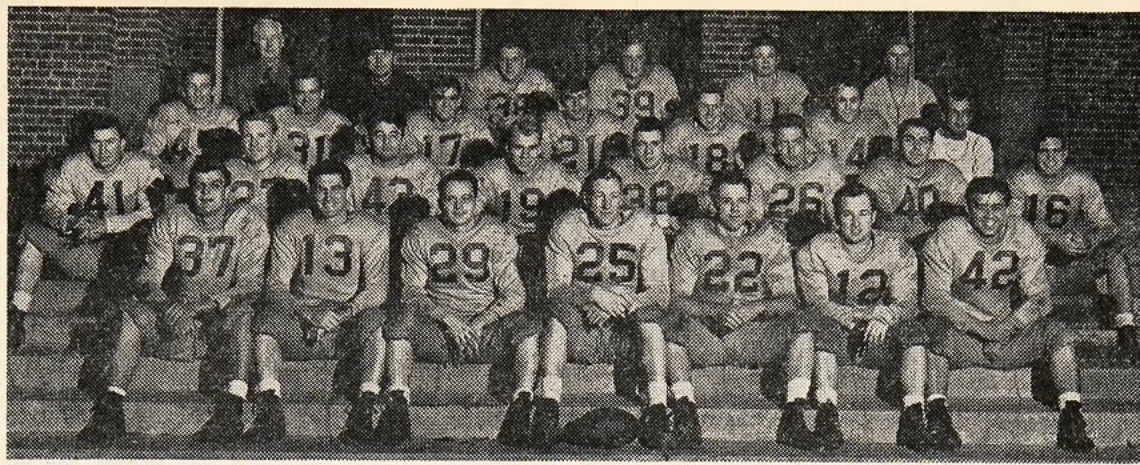

Anyway, The Bison are resting very securely in second place at the season's close and, despite one bad game, we are inclined to believe that the Herd's 101 points against their conference opponents' 28 shows rather conclusively there must have been some outstanding Bison line play.

Turned Down by NDAC Athletic Director C. C. Finnegan because of a previously scheduled game with Concordia was a chance to play in a North Dakota inter-collegiate basketball tourney at Grand Forks from December 18-20. Sponsored by the University of North Dakota, the tourney will include seven other North Dakota schools.

Signs Of The Times are the recent announcements by the UND and Iowa university to the effect that only students will see UND games this winter and that only a small number of seats will be offered the general public after the Iowa student body is taken care of.

Around The Conference Ten more cagers were cut from the UND squad last week, leaving the Sioux with 20 men plus those who report from the football squad . . . There are four lettermen of former years reporting in Art Granum, Dudley Draxton, Jim Gustafson, and Louis Bogan . . . Iowa Teachers placed third in a cross-country meet with other Iowa schools . . . At SDSC Johnny Billington, former all-conference guard, is handling some 60 basketball applicants . . . The Rabbits look like a top team with 13 lettermen returning.

1946 Bison Take Time Out From Practice

Snow cancelled two South Dakota conference tilts and hindered a third last week to clinch second place for the Bison in the North Central conference football race.

A 3½-inch wet snow that started to fall Saturday morning in Vermillion caused Coach Harry Gamage of USD to contact NDAC's Coach Stan Kostka in Sioux City, Iowa, and the two agreed to call the Coyote's final game off. The cancellation gave the Herd an undisputed second place in conference play with four wins and one loss. The Bison beat Morningside, SDSC, UND, and Augustana, before losing to Iowa Teachers.

Also idle because of snow, Iowa Teachers cinched the NCC title when the Panthers-Augustana game in Sioux Falls was cancelled. This left the Teachers with two wins over Morningside and the Bison and a tie game with South Dakota State.

At Brookings a snow-covered field held Morningside and South Dakota State to 0-0 tie. In the last half, visibility was so poor that 25 passes missed their marks. In the only game outside the

Alpha Tau Omega Touchball Team Defeats Kappa Sigs For Title

Alpha Tau Omega, upper bracket champion, defeated Kappa Sigma Chi, lower bracket winner, 8-0 Tuesday afternoon to win the 1946 touchball crown.

The Kappa Sigs won the right to enter the championship game by whipping SAE 18-0 Monday. ATO copped the upper half title with a 6-0 decision over Theta Chi last week.

A pass from Bud Finsand to Dave Young in the middle of the second quarter scored the only touchdown of the game. The ATO's garnered their last two points on the last play of the game as Kappa Sig Lloyd Hillier was caught trying to pass from behind his own goal.

Kappa Sigma Chi threatened in the first period after Bill Klubben intercepted a pass to the ATO 30. Hillier tossing to Paul Fedje gave the Kappa Sigs a first down on the 10, but there the threat stopped as the ATO defense stiffened.

Finsand's scoring pass to Young in the end zone was almost blocked, but the ball trickled off the fingers of the KSC defense into Young's arms. On the kickoff Lyle Klubben passed to Hillier who carried down to the ATO 25. Hillier picked up five yards through center, but once again the ATO's took over on downs.

In the last quarter play was conference, the University of North Dakota dropped a close 14-7 decision to Bradley university at the Illinois school's homecoming.

centered in Kappa Sig territory and the end of the game saw the Kappa Sigs trying to score from near their own goal.

Pass interceptions marked the erratic offenses of both teams in a remarkably clean but otherwise listless game.

Montana State AC's Last Foe

Entraining today for Bozeman, Montana, the Herd will leave at 2 p.m. for their last game of the season Saturday against Montana State.

Friday the Bison will work out on the Bozeman field and by game time Saturday should be ready to go in the slightly different Montana altitude.

Little is known of the Bobcat eleven outside of the fact they are one of the many teams using the "T". Two weeks ago Nevada trounced the Montana school 38-14 and there was no report of last week's scheduled game with Portland.

Coach Stan Kostka rates the Montana State club tough in his books and is expecting a real ball game to develop out of Saturday's contest. The Herd eked out a 16-14 win against the Bobcats in 1939, but in the following two years lost 7-0 and 27-0.

Slate Flu Shots For AC Students, Faculty Members

This year looks like a flu year comparable to the years following the last world war, states Dr. Casper Nelson, professor of bacteriology.

In order to save time and avoid an epidemic, the college health center has completed arrangements for influenza injections to be given students, faculty members and their families, veterans' wives, and all interested persons, at fifty cents a shot. One injection each year affords permanent protection to the individual.

Whether a person wishes to take advantage of these shots is optional and on a voluntary basis. For those persons interested, injections will be given by the health center beginning next Monday afternoon, from 3 to 5 p.m., and continuing throughout the week. Injections will be given in the left arm and the only possible reaction from these shots may be a temporary sickness, which occurs rarely. Persons suffering from an attack of flu at the present time are requested to obtain permission from their doctor before receiving these shots. Persons not able to contact the health center during these hours are asked to make other arrangements with the nurse.

Little Int'l Show Set For Jan. 25

The Little International livestock show, sponsored by the Saddle and Sirloin club, will be held in the field house January 25, Percy McLean, manager, announced Tuesday.

The show will feature exhibits of livestock, poultry, dairy products and grain crops. Royal Berstler will act as arena manager.

Other highlights of the show include the coed milking contest to be judged by Bud Lannoye and a greased pig competition to be presided over by Leyden Finney. Kirk Bellows will be master of ceremonies.

Ag Engineers To Meet

Agricultural engineers will hold a meeting at 7:30 tonight in Morrill hall, room 10. The program will consist of movies, club program discussion and lunch. President Ray Buchanan invites all agricultural engineers to attend.

Poseley, Beaton Propagandize Way Into County Jobs

James Posley, NDAC senior, and Darrow Beaton, summer graduate, were elected to county offices in last week's elections.

Both ran as write-in candidates for the offices of constable and justice of the peace, and each was elected to the two positions.

Election to both offices came as a surprise to the men, and evidently resulted from a mistaken translation of their campaign literature—cards mailed to the rural areas of Cass county. Posley ran for constable and Beaton for justice of the peace, but the voters went "whole hog" and put each of them in both offices.

No direct salary is attached to the offices, the men receiving only fees from cases brought before them. Usual cases include claims cases involving less than $50, serving of notices, etc.

Posley and Beaton could not immediately be reached for comment on the rumor that they planned to specialize in quick, low-cost marriage ceremonies.

Both men are members of Sigma Chi fraternity.

WATCH THOSE BUTTS!

Students are asked by the janitors to be careful that live cigarette butts are placed in the sand jars provided for that purpose. Many burns around the jars attest to the fact that some students are not always accurate.
