ROTC Awards Commissions To 16; Buen First Colonel

Permanent commissions in the ROTC were awarded Wednesday afternoon in a ceremony in the NDAC field house to 16 members of the senior ROTC class, with Edsell D. Buen appointed first acting cadet colonel for the 1946-47 school year.

Each of the men was given the permanent rank of second lieutenant with opportunity to advance temporarily to any of the higher grades. Ranks will be rotated between the officers during the year with each man to act temporarily as cadet colonel.

Among the visiting dignitaries from the school faculty at the presentation were Dr. John H. Longwell, NDAC president, who presented the commissions to the men; C. A. Sevrinson, dean of men; Miss Pearl Dinan, dean of women; A. H. Parrott, registrar, and F. E. Skinner, NDAC business manager.

ROTC members, beside Buen, who received the honor were Glenn F. Fleck, Rudolph Gysland, Curtis Johnson, Herbert W. Johnson, John E. Korsmo, Hugo F. Littig, Vernon J. Lutjens, Donald E. Matson, Vernon L. Pepple, James E. Peterson, Bernard M. Ness, Robert G. Schmitt, Robert A. Swanson, James M. Tallakson, and Norbert H. Zweber.

The epaulets of rank were presented by members of Guidon, feminine counterpart of the now defunct Scabbard and Blade.

Heavy Enrollment Retards Vet Subsistence Payments

Increased numbers of veterans and delay in forwarding enrollment papers have caused a clog in Veterans administration machinery for sending subsistence checks to North Dakota veterans, according to George E. Beckstrom, manager of the Fargo Veterans administration center.

Although normally veterans receive checks within 30 days of enrollment, the huge overload in students has caused delays ranging from two weeks to 30 days in some cases. Beckstrom said that while many students had received their checks already, compared with the large number of enrolled the percentage of allotments sent out was small.

Enrollment of veterans in North Dakota institutions of learning has almost tripled last year's peak figure of 1,800, with more than 5,000 veterans now listed. Some 2000 are not as yet registered to receive checks for educational training.

Meanwhile the NDAC Veterans administration office has announced regulations governing veterans' leave from school.

According to Stafford N. Ordahl, in charge of the campus VA office, all veteran students' absences must be excused either before the student misses school, or after he or she has come back to the campus.

Unauthorized absences will be dealt with in most cases by the expedient of deducting from the monthly subsistence check, but if the offense is committed too late to be caught in that month's check the days of absence will be deducted from the yearly leave.

Veteran students at NDAC are allowed two and one half days authorized absence a month. If more is taken, it will be subtracted from the accrued annual leave.

Boost Hathaway, YMCA Secretary, For N. D. Secretary Of State Post

An organization of NDAC students was formed this week to support the candidacy of another student, Vernon B. Hathaway, for North Dakota's secretary of state.

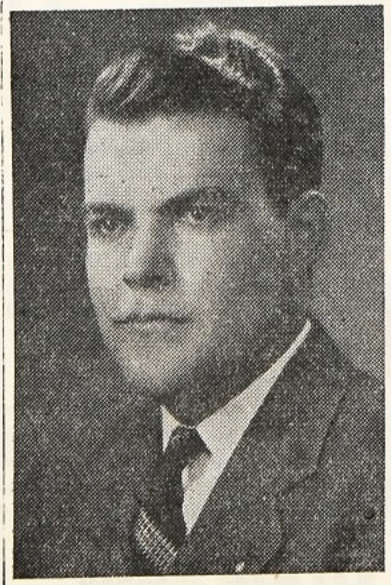

Hathaway, a senior in arts and science, was nominated last summer by the state Democratic convention, meeting in Fargo.

On the NDAC campus Hathaway is general secretary of the YMCA. While in attendance here during pre-war years he served on the college student commission, as president of the Farmers Union co-operative house association and as president of the John Robinson club, Congregational young people's organization.

During the war Hathaway farmed in Golden Valley county, where he served two years as president of the Farmers Union local. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hathaway, reside at Beach.

Hathaway, who was married this summer to the former Genevieve Mork, an NDAC student from Mandan, first entered politics in 1944, when he was a candidate for state representative from the 39th district.

Ted Barnick of Max, N. D., was elected chairman of the local Hathaway club. Other officers include Harold Helland, Binford; Maurice Anderson, Upham; Dolores Akason, Hillsboro, and Al Dale, Fargo.

Religious Leader

Dr. T. Z. Koo, prominent Christian leader and advisor to the Chinese delegation at the United Nations conference in San Francisco in 1945, will head a group of speakers appearing at NDAC during Religious Emphasis week, Nov. 16-22.

Cancel Mid-Term, Final Exam Weeks

Fall quarter mid-term examination week and final examination week have been suspended, Alfred H. Parrott, NDAC registrar, announced following a meeting Oct. 24 of the college council.

The matter of requiring mid-term examinations is left to the decision of each department, Parrott said. Instructors will be required to make mid-term reports to the deans of the several schools only for those students who apparently are not making satisfactory progress.

Final examinations are not being cancelled, however. They are still required as in the past, but the time allowed for them will be a part of that allotted to regular weekly class periods—either a lecture or laboratory period.

Thanksgiving recess, which was scheduled for Nov. 21-23, has been changed to Nov. 28-30, Parrott said.

Military Ball Date Shifted To Dec 1

Date of the Military ball has been shifted to Saturday, December 14, Glenn Fleck, general manager, announced Tuesday, following a meeting of advance ROTC students and members of Guidon. Original date had been December 7, but conflict with sorority formal rushing week forced the change.

The ball will be in the fieldhouse, with an admission charge of $2.50 per couple. The dance will be formal, with the men having the option of wearing tuxedos or service uniforms.

Committees, and persons in charge announced by Fleck, include guest list, Robert Swanson; formalities, Edsell Buen; cloakroom and refreshments, Guidon; finance, Robert Schmitt; orchestra and publicity, Vernon Pepple; decorations, senior ROTC.

Following the banquet Doctor and Mrs. Longwell will receive guests, including representatives of various campus organizations, from 8 to 9:30 p.m. in the Ceres hall parlors.

All students are being invited to attend the inaugural ceremony, but limited facilities will limit the banquet to about 300 invited guests.

Planning the inaugural program has been a faculty committee consisting of Dean C. A. Sevrinson, chairman; Dean Pearl Dinan, Dr. R. H. Harris, Mrs. Gunhild Roen, Miss Julia Brekke, A. Glenn Hill, Thomas Gildersleeve and Thomas Buchanan.

Because of the inauguration banquet Wednesday Ceres hall cafeteria will be unable to serve its regular evening meal. Other arrangements for Ceres patrons, however, are being made, according to Dean C. A. Sevrinson.

EDITORIAL OBSERVATIONS

Objective

Examine The Exploited Reflex

North Dakotans will go to the polls next Tuesday to select various state officers and to decide on certain measures.

In the United States today conflicting pressure groups are attempting to force public thinking into predetermined channels. The device of the conditioned reflex, whereby strong and unthought-of associations are established in the citizen's mind, is being used commonly in place of logical argumentation. One such campaign has been so successful that the mere name of an opposing faction now arouses the most violent and unconsidered emotions in the minds of many Americans.

Conditioned reflexes are nothing new. Andrew Salter, an American psychologist, points out in his book, What Is Hypnosis?, that the mental image formed in one's mind upon hearing of a word, such as "cloud", is an immediate reflex, just as is the blinking of the eyelid under certain circumstances. Such are considered to be normal reflexes and present no hazard. Other reflex conditions, however, may involve decided hazards. When one allows associations to be established in his mind without first determining by logical thought his reason for adopting them, it is very possible his best interests may be sacrificed.

The voting college student, who is more or less free from the mixture of coercion and intimidation present in society today and whose mind is engaged actively in the pursuance of logical conclusions, perhaps is better equipped than the average voter to avoid unnatural conditioned reflexes in his thinking mechanism.

Government selected on the basis of clear judgment would seem to be the most likely to serve the common good. The proportion of voters whose thinking follows reasonably logical channels, however, to that of voters whose minds have little or no defense against establishment of illogical conditioned reflexes perhaps is too small to have any affect upon public elections. Furthermore, there is no absolute assurance that good government could be maintained were such intelligent voters to have their way. Apathy, however, can gain nothing.

Subjective

Public Opinion Pure Tyranny

The desire to transcend the mediocrity of the common level—for freedom from social intimidation brought to bear upon one by the illogical, tyrannical mind of the masses—is unquestionably one of the principal driving forces behind man's quest for education.

In a college society one would expect to find an atmosphere of clear thought, free from illogical prejudices and irrational attitudes. Such an idyllic state, however, may never be found, for among those seekers who have the courage to attain this freedom there are always those who allow themselves eventually to submerge into a quagmire of social convention.

Foremost of all social pressures is the opinion of others. For it, we find, men will sacrifice principle, ideal or ambition. Yet, of what value is public opinion? Arthur Schopenhauer expressed his views when he said, "... if ever we have had an opportunity of seeing how the greatest of men will meet with nothing but slight from half-a-dozen blockheads, we shall understand that to lay great value upon what other people say is to pay them too much honor."

Manners of dress, habits and the very way in which one carries on his life and work are ever subject to appraisal by small minds whose views are worthless or nearly so. Imagine what would result were a painter to alter his work to suit the views of a church ladies aid.

Schopenhauer, in a discussion on reputation, said, "... what goes on in other people's consciousness is ... a matter of indifference to us: and in time we get really indifferent to it, when we come to see how superficial and futile are most people's thoughts, how narrow their ideas, how mean their sentiments, how perverse their opinions, and how much of error there is in most of them ..."

Perhaps it is foolish to quote the writings of philosophers in this manner, for many will feel that such is an attempt to cloak an idea in a false aura of authority. Few writers, however, could summarize this problem more accurately than did Schopenhauer when he said:

"By a peculiar weakness of human nature, people generally think too much about the opinion which others form of them; although the slightest reflection will show that this opinion, whatever it may be, is not in itself essential to happiness. Therefore it is hard to understand why everybody feels so very pleased when he sees that other people have a good opinion of him, or say anything flattering to his vanity. If you stroke a cat, it will purr; and, as inevitably, if you praise a man, a sweet expression of delight will appear on his face; and even though the praise is a palpable lie, it will be welcome, if the matter is one on which he prides himself ..."

Students who change their local addresses are required to make a report of such change to the college registrar, it was announced.

Femininity Returns To Campus; Longer Skirts Again In Vogue

By Mimi

Femininity is the keynote in all phases of dress this year. Relaxed government restrictions on fabrics have influenced style in many ways, as shown by balloon sleeves, full and longer skirts and colors of every shade and hue.

These new styles all accentuate the smooth, smart trend back to being feminine as opposed to the strictly accidental look.

Suits are very good examples of the new style with full sleeves with or without cuffs, belted-in waists and varied types of skirts—either strictly straight, on the bias or gathered for lots of fullness.

It has been noted that just recently the government released some excess metal and metal trimmings from different factories for use in the accessory field. This has made it considerably easier for designers to rely on buttons and pins for dressing up an otherwise plain design.

Bright round silver buttons add decoration to Pat Lee's dark green suit, which has a straight skirt and a boxy jacket. Donna Borman's dark red plaid suit is a beautiful example of the new softness and casualness in this season's suits.

Although the new type suit is gaining in popularity, the strictly tailored suit is still very attractive, and practical too.

Gladys Sather has a smart fine blue check tailored suit with wide lapels, skirt with inverted pleats and a man-tailored vest to complete the ensemble.

Speaking of something new and exciting in suits, no one should miss seeing Ruth Wilhan's bright red wool plaid suit. It has a gathered skirt and a three-quarter length jacket that has turned-back lapels and a belted waist.

Belts which are enjoying tremendous popularity vary from wide to narrow, neutral calf to bright colored suede or leather. More exclusive belts are decorated with gold and silver nail heads and metal crests.

Marilyn Collette's wide calf belt with two gold coins chained to the side may serve double purpose with dresses as well as being a smart accessory for skirts. Shirley Mahar's gold calf belt and Jane Lee Alexander's braided narrow gold belt illustrate the renewed popularity of gold for trim.

Informal Rushing Beginning Monday

Final decisions regarding sorority rushing were announced this week by the college Panhellenic council.

Informal rushing, consisting of a series of open house parties in the various sorority houses and apartments, will begin Monday, when Phi Mu and Phi Omega Pi sororities will entertain. On Nov. 11 rushees will be entertained by Kappa Kappa Gamma and Kappa Delta sororities. Concluding the schedule will be Alpha Gamma Delta and Gamma Phi Beta on Nov. 25.

Formal rushing, set to begin Dec. 2, will close with final preference teas Dec. 8.

THE POWERS

Heard About The Herd

By Bob Butterwick

Reports

trickling in from the "B" squad indicate that the Bombers would just as soon play Manitoba university every week of the football season. The Manitobians gave the fellows everything but the ball game, seeing to it that they had medical attention when needed, offering them the services of a trainer, and even went so far as to persuade Coach Erv Kaiser to let the boys stay over Saturday night because there were dates for the boys if they wanted them. In addition, there was plenty of Canadian merchandise brought back, all at prices that can't be touched in the States.

Incidentally,

there were quite a few boys on this year's "B" team who will be tough to keep off next year's varsity. Men like Max West, Roy Johnson, Don Magloughlin, Bob Roy, Frank Sherman and Henry Mott showed to good advantage. Even though the B's didn't win a game and didn't score a point in four encounters they came up with a rugged defense which allowed only 17 points and gave the coaches plenty of opportunity to look over next year's material.

Unsung

in the stories about the toughness of the Bison line have been the tackles, Sid Cichy, Bill Dietz, Bob Hanish and Lee Christenson, and the guards, Jim Davis, Steve Vujovich, Stan Koich and Warren Levasseur. One only had to see them in the UND and Augustana games to understand why they have allowed only one touchdown in conference play thus far. Christenson, for example, had to be helped off the field in the fourth quarter, but came in 10 minutes later to blast a Viking punt receiver so hard that the Augustana back was out cold for over two minutes. Christenson recovered the resultant fumble to set up the last Bison rally.

Also

overlooked in the headlines has been the play of Bobby Heer, understudy to Charlie Basch, who has improved tremendously since the first of the season. Bob had a hard time getting started Friday but came through after Basch became sick to pass for two scores and tally a six-pointer himself.

Award

of the Jack Dempsey-Adam Hat sports welfare trophy to the outstanding athlete on the campus is something to look to the future for. The award will be made in the spring to the athlete who, in the opinion of the student body, best exemplifies the qualities of enthusiasm, good sportsmanship, team spirit and cooperation, athletic ability and accomplishments.

Most important game of the year as far as NDAC gridders are concerned is Saturday's game with Iowa teachers. Not much is known of the Panthers in these parts, but Stan Kostka and Chalky Reed thought Buck Starbeck's crew looked "plenty tough" in last week's win over Morningside. Comparisons in the Morningside games are difficult, since the Bison second stringers played half the game in the 32-7 win, while Starbeck had his first team playing well into the second half in the Panther's 38-0 victory. However, we think the superior Bison line plus greater all-around reserve strength will spell the difference. Say about 13-7, Bison.

Bison Jolt Vikings 32-0 In Fourth Win

Registering their fourth win of the North Central conference campaign, NDAC swept over Augustana by a 32-0 margin Friday night on Dacotah field.

Sparked by Charlie Basch and Bobby Heer, the Herd broke through a stubborn Viking defense early in the second period to go ahead. Feature of the game was an 83-yard sprint by Basch early in the second quarter for the second Bison touchdown.

The Bison defense was in top form, as it held the Sioux City boys to a blank in the first downs department, and a total net rushing gain of only 15 yards.

After going to the Viking 11 following the kickoff, the Bison were held until near the end of the initial period when they recovered a fumble on the Viking 46. Basch drove to the 16 in two plays. As the second quarter opened, Basch and Jerry Mulready carried to the 4, from which point the big fullback battered over. Sid Cichy kicked the point.

Later in the same period, Lowell Hanson, spark for Augustana, kicked out on the Bison 16. The first play gained a yard, and then Basch sped wide around right end, picked up his blockers, and outran the Viking safety man to go all the way.

Early in the third period, the Bison started another scoring drive from the Augustana 43, tallying in nine plays. Heer took a backward pass from Fritz Troubridge on the one for the counter.

After receiving the kickoff, Augustana fumbled on their 28, with Troubridge recovering. Two plays took the ball to the 18, from which point a lateral-forward play found Heer hitting Nick Soulis in the end zone.

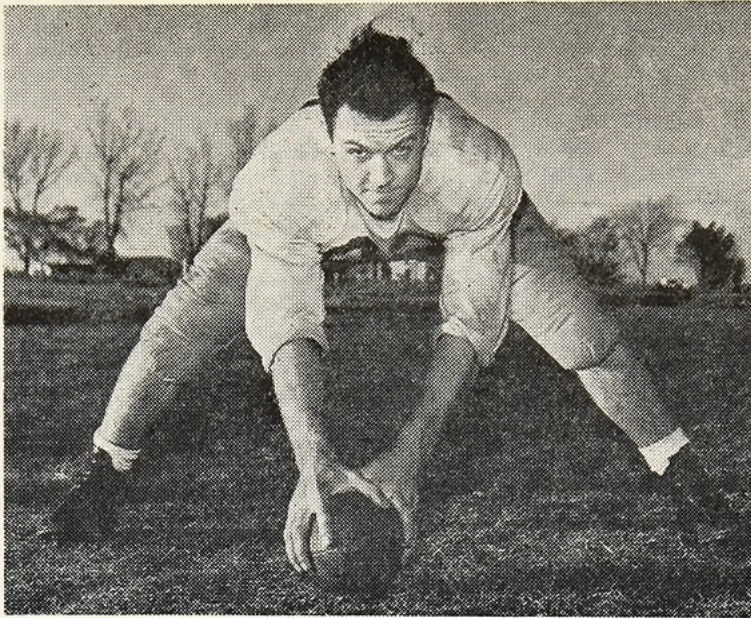

With less than three minutes remaining, Lee Christenson recovered a fumbled punt on the Viking 20. Heer passed to Don Bredell on the three, but penalties set the Herd back to the 15. With 30 seconds left, Bert Level plucked a Heer pass from the arms of two Augustana defenders for the final touchdown. Alvie Lund kicked the point.

The NDAC athletic department released a 21-game basketball schedule last week, beginning December 11 against MSTC. Bison Rock

Cliff (Bony) Rothrock, NDAC's candidate for All-American center honors, will be the man the Iowa Teachers will have to get out of the way in their title game with the Herd at Cedar Falls Saturday. Rothrock has been the spearhead of a tremendous Bison line which has allowed only one touchdown in conference play thus far.

B's End Season With Two Losses

Coach E. E. Kaiser announced late Wednesday that the NDAC B team would play the Concordia B squad at 3:30 p.m. Monday on Dacotah field. The stands will be open to students.

The Bison "B" squad wound up its season last week, dropping two games to Manitoba and Wahpeton Science, for a season's mark of three losses and a tie.

A 40-yard field goal booted by Toar Springstein in the first quarter stood up Saturday, giving the University of Manitoba a 3-0 victory over the NDAC "B" team in Winnipeg.

The Bombers drove down to the Manitoba 11 at one point, but a fumble nullified the threat. Defensive play of Don Magloughlin and Max West plus the tremendous kicking of Henry Mott kept Manitoba from running up a score.

Wahpeton Science, leader in the North Dakota Intercollegiate conference, scored an 8-0 win over the B's Wednesday at Wahpton. In what was a disappointing game for the locals, Science took advantage of a blocked punt in the third period for a 2-0 margin and put on the clincher in the fourth quarter when Johnny Moore went over from the five, culminating a 70-yard drive.

Drews' Loss Jolts Bison Title Hopes

Coach Stan Kostka's hopes for a clear path to the North Central conference title were way down this week following the announcement that Dennis Drews, stellar right halfback, would be out for the remainder of the season as the result of a broken jaw suffered in the Augustana game.

Drews, who started the season at quarter because of his blocking ability, was shifted to right halfback for the university game, where his hard running was a main factor in the 31-0 victory. A star at Detroit Lakes in prep school, and at Georgia Pre-Flight while in navy training, Drews definitely will be missed in the game at Cedar Falls Saturday, when the Bison and Iowa Teachers will fight it out for the crown.

Speaking of the Iowa game, Kostka said, "This is the one we have to win." Extended drills have been slated this week for the squad, which leaves this afternoon for the game. The team will stay overnight in Minneapolis, proceeding on to Cedar Falls Friday in time for light workouts.

Don Bredell and Alvie Lund will see most of the action at the right half spot, according to Kostka. Bredell will get the starting assignment, but Lund, who has been understudying Jerry Mulready at fullback, has been improving fast and will be called upon to double up in the backfield.

Only other doubtful starter for the Herd is Steve Vujovich, starting guard, who injured his knee. Final report from the team doctor will determine how much action the burly lineman will see.

Kostka and line coach Chalky Reed scouted the Panthers last week against Morningside and reported them as "very tough." Big gun in the Tutors' attack is Pudge Camarata, a speedy 180-pound left half, and 210-pound Duke Williams, the fullback. The Panthers' line, although small, has proven hard to penetrate.

Coach Clyde (Buck) Starbeck's team opened their season with a 6-6 tie with South Dakota State. The next week they were defeated in the last minute of play by Iowa State 20-18. Then came a 46-6 lacing administered to Hamline, a scoreless tie with Kalamazoo teachers, and last week's 38-0 win over Morningside. A win for the teachers would almost clinch the title, since their remaining conference game is with the cellar-dwelling Augustana eleven.

Cafeteria Serving 1600 Meals Daily

By Jeanno

Fifteen hundred to two thousand mouths to feed—that is the problem.

But Mrs. L. W. Roen, Ceres hall cafeteria manager, with her seven full-time helpers and thirty-two student assistants, solves it daily.

Serving an average of 275 breakfasts, 700 dinners and 600 suppers may be one of the reasons that double lines frequently snake in and out of Ceres hall.

What is to be served for breakfast, dinner or supper adds up to a daily shopping list of 30 pounds of butter, 100 loaves of bread, 30 dozen eggs, 700-8000 pounds of potatoes and 50 pies.

Mrs. Roen's ten years of managing a nutritious cafeteria that is also appealing is verified by the inevitable dallying of diners who can't decide whether they want ham on rye or a pickle in the middle and mustard on top.

However, Mrs. Roen admonishes, "Remember the few hundred students behind you and think fast so they can eat too!"

AG ENGINEERS TO MEET

Members of the American Society of Agricultural engineers will meet at 7 p.m. today in room 10, Morrill hall.

All agricultural engineering students are being invited to attend, Ray Buchanan, president, announced. Refreshments and entertainment will be provided.
