Commissioner Cites Higher School Funds

North Dakota is in a position to support education, A. F. Arnason, state commissioner of higher education, told members of the In-trastate Student Action committee meeting in Minot Oct. 8-9.

An estimated increase of $1,118,000 in net income for the next biennium, Arnason said, will make possible the improvement of educational facilities and provide higher general appropriations for education throughout the state.

Minot State Teachers college played host at the meeting to representatives of eight of the nine state institutions of higher learning. Only Dickinson Teachers college, isolated in an early season snow storm, failed to send a delegate.

Also in attendance were Gov. Fred G. Aandahl and members of the state budget board, currently stopping in Fargo on a state-wide survey of educational facilities.

The Minot meeting was the first since an organizational session held in Fargo last June. Purpose of the organization is to make North Dakota voters and legislators aware of the need for larger appropriations for institutions of higher learning.

Among policies of the committee are the establishment of adequate salary levels for school teachers, maintenance of a tax base high enough for educational needs, opposition to alignment with political factions, financial independence for the committee and an adequate retirement fund with greater professional security for North Dakota teachers.

Institutions represented at the meeting were the state teachers colleges of Mayville, Valley City and Minot; Bottineau School of Forestry; Ellendale State Normal and Industrial college; Wahpeton School of Science; NDAC and UND.

Elect Christensen Trailer City Head

George M. Christensen was named to succeed Robert Koshnick as mayor of NDAC's Trailer City in a general assembly Oct. 11.

Christensen, who served as a captain in the 164th North Dakota infantry, is enrolled in the school of agriculture.

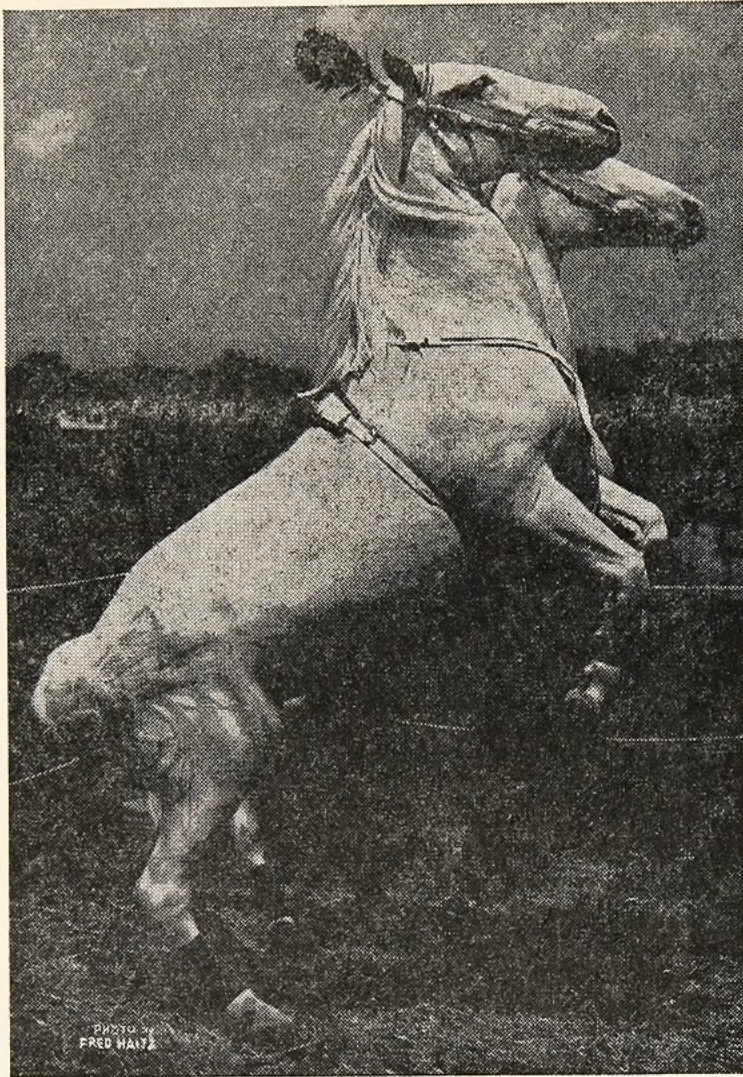

Other officers elected include Charles Bjornstad, secretary-treasurer; Robert A. Swanson, publicity chairman; Mrs. Arnum Kraemer, social chairman.

New aldermen are Tom Knapp, first ward; Orville Jacobson, second ward; Jerome Gleasing, third ward. Fourth and fifth wards, composed of privately owned trailers, are not yet completely organized.

Adult education classes in home-making and related subjects are planned for Trailer City wives.

Trailer City is the official name adopted by the residents of the campus housing project. The population of about 225, consisting of approximately 95 families, is organized in wards. Each ward elects its own alderman, while other officials are chosen by the community as a whole.

Horse Troupe Appears Here

Two mounts included in the Abu Bekr white horse troupe appearing here Saturday are shown in a difficult pose.

Budget Board Visits NDAC; Physical Plant Inspected

Making an extensive investigation of the institution's physical plant in a study of the board of higher education's 1947-49 budget request, the state budget board was on the NDAC campus Tuesday and Wednesday.

The board reached no reported decision, President J. H. Longwell stated, and is making similar investigations of other institutions before reporting to the legislature.

Shrine Show Here Saturday

The Abu Bekr white horse troupe of Sioux City, Iowa, consisting of 40 white horses and their riders, will perform to the music of a 30-piece band Saturday at 8 p.m. on Dacotah field when they appear as the second feature on the 36th annual NDAC lyceum series.

Fargoans will be able to view the equestrian review Saturday morning, when the troupe will parade from a downtown railroad station to NDAC. Leading the Shrine riders will be a chariot.

Oriental decorations will be used in Dacotah field for the performance. Among features of the act are the use of rubber horseshoes and elaborate saddle and hoof gear.

Supplementing the Abu Bekr company will be riders from the Moorhead Country club and the Fargo Red River Riders club.

NDAC students will be admitted to the show on presentation of activity tickets.

FU Delegates To State Meeting

John Maher and Arnold Bjorlie will represent the NDAC local at the State Farmers Union convention in Bismarck, Oct. 23-26.

The two men were appointed at the initial meeting of the organization in the YMCA Oct. 10. Evelyn Wyum and Earl Anderson were named alternates.

Resolutions to be presented at the state convention include support of larger appropriations for colleges, reorganization of the rural school system and support of amendments to the G. I. bill of rights proposed by the American Veterans committee in regard to increased subsistence allowances for students.

Local officers are John Maher, president; Bill Provance, vice president; Evelyn Wyum, secretary-treasurer; George Keifer and Ralph Winge, executive board.

The next meeting, set for Oct. 24 at 7:30 in the YMCA, will be open to the public.

Commission Bids Open

All letters of intention to run for three vacant positions on the student commission are to be addressed to Mary Burfening, commissioner of elections in care of the dean of men's office.

Offices open are junior member of the board of athletics, senior member on the board of publications and assistant commissioner of finance, who must be a junior.

Co-ops Anticipate New House In Spring; Site Selected, Plans Progressing

With the site selected, the building designed, and financing of the project progressing favorably, a new Co-op house may be under construction by next spring, according to Wayne Rowe, association manager.

The NDAC Farmers Union Co-operative association, a mutual aid corporation, reactivated last spring for the first time since 1943. Originally organized in 1937,

Poll Student Interest In Religious Seminars

Clarence Elliott of Minneapolis, representative of the National University Christian missions, met Sunday with all major committees for the local Religious Emphasis week to be held Nov. 16-22.

A University Christian Mission team of seven or eight outstanding men and women in the field of Christian Leadership will be at NDAC throughout that week conducting seminars, visiting local fraternities and sororities and other campus groups, conducting convocations, classroom discussions and personal interviews.

To help the directing committees, students will find a ballot enclosed in each edition of this Spectrum on which they may indicate seminar discussions in which they would be willing to participate. Seminars will run from 4:05 to 5:05 each afternoon Monday through Thursday of Religious Emphasis week.

the group has always leased buildings. However, after obtaining approval from the secretary of state, incorporating under North Dakota state laws and issuing stock to cover expense, members are anticipating a permanent residence.

When completed, the modernistic building externally finished with monolithic concrete will occupy the double lot east of the YMCA. Sleeping quarters for about 45 men, mess accommodations for about 70 persons, a library, lounges and basement game room convertible to a banquet hall will all be features of the proposed three-story structure, which will measure 65 by 43 feet.

Nomination Notice

Nomination of class officers will be held Oct. 24 in Festival hall at 9:40 a.m., according to Mary Burfening, commissioner of elections.

Respective classes will meet with the following advisors: Miss Mildred Hawkins, seniors; Miss Emma Dubetz, juniors; Mr. Elliott Hardaway, sophomores; Mr. Mason H. Boudrye, freshmen.

Tentative date for the election of class officers is the following week.

NDAC received the biggest request for net appropriation (budget less estimated income) with $699,272 asked for the 1947-49 biennium by the board of higher education.

The biggest total budget increase was $931,909 for the University of North Dakota, where there was a larger estimated income.

Although $750,00 was lopped from requests by institutions of higher education for the next biennium, there was still an increase of $1,820,000 approximately over the current period.

The principal increase was scheduled for salaries of a greatly enlarged faculty over the skeleton war-time body, though repairs and equipment to handle the huge flood of students will receive their share.

The board of higher education fixed the estimated college income at $2,233,800, about $850,800 over the current biennium.

Also recommended was an $180,000 increase for the NDAC experiment station and a $100,000 increase for the NDAC extension service, which were the largest of increases totaling $360,000 requested for departments and divisions other than colleges under the board of higher education's jurisdiction.

Members of the state budget board are Gov. F. G. Aandahl, Atty. Gen. Nels G. Johnson, State Auditor Berta E. Baker, Sen. R. R. Morgan, Grafton, and Rep. Harry Storman, Devils Lake. Miss Baker, however, was not with the group this week.

Buchanan Named Head Of Animal Husbandry

M. L. Buchanan has assumed duties as head of the department of animal husbandry and chief of the division of animal industry, succeeding Dr. John H. Longwell, new NDAC president.

Mr. Buchanan, former associate professor of animal husbandry, graduated from Oklahoma university in 1935, received his master's degree from the university of West Virginia in 1937 and took further graduate work at Wisconsin university. He had positions on the faculty of the universities of Georgia and of Idaho in the animal husbandry department and on the Great Northern railroad as agricultural development agent before coming to NDAC Jan. 1, 1945.

Seek Bison Applicants

Planning the first full-size Bison yearbook since 1942 Alex D. MacGibbon, 1947 editor, began organizing a staff for the publication this week.

EDITORIAL OBSERVATIONS

Objective

Education Presents Hazard

It is unquestionably true that many, and perhaps most, college students are unaware of the dangers that confront them in formal education.

The tendency to form conclusions on the basis of inadequate evidence is common among many students who are willing to accept the statements of others as truth.

The hazard of education through the written word was discussed by Arthur Schopenhauer in his essay On Education. He wrote:

"The human intellect is said to be so constituted that general ideas arise by abstraction from particular observations, and therefore come after them in point of time. If this is what actually occurs, as happens in the case of a man who has to depend solely upon his own experience for what he learns,—who has no teacher and no book,—such a man knows quite well which of his particular observations belong to and are represented by each of his general ideas. He has a perfect acquaintance with both sides of his experience, and accordingly he treats everything that comes in his way from a right standpoint. This might be called the natural method of education.

"Contrarily, the artificial method is to hear what other people say, to learn and to read, and so to get your head crammed full of general ideas before you have any sort of extended acquaintance with the world as it is, and as you may see it for yourself. You will be told that the particular observations which go to make these general ideas will come to you later on in the course of experience; but until that time arrives you apply your general ideas wrongly, you judge men and things from a wrong standpoint, you see them in a wrong light, and treat them in a wrong way. So it is that education perverts the mind . . ."

Subjective

Take Apples, For Instance

There is nothing, I think, so exasperating as to have a completely logical argument refuted with some sort of "now you take apples" reply.

The feelings of hopelessness and anger that result in such a circumstance may not be justified, if one is to consider the fact that his antagonist may lack adequate intelligence to follow a logical thought to its conclusion, but the experience is nonetheless disconcerting.

Augustus De Morgan, nineteenth century logician quoted by Bertrand Russell in his short essay, The Conversion of Relations, illustrates an example of the mind incapable of logical reasoning. Although the example is ridiculous and was intended only as a simple example of a point, it should draw a smile from anyone ever faced with an argument such as "now you take apples." De Morgan's example:

"Teacher: 'Now, boys, Shem, Ham and Japheth were Noah's sons; who was the father of Shem, Ham and Japheth?' No answer.

"Teacher: 'Boys, you know Mr. Smith, the carpenter, opposite; has he any sons?'

"Boys: 'Oh! yes, sir! There's Bill and Ben.'

"Teacher: 'And who is the father of Bill and Ben Smith?'

"Boys: 'Why, Mr. Smith, to be sure.'

"Teacher: 'Well, then, once, more, Shem, Ham and Japheth were Noah's sons; who was the father of Shem, Ham and Japheth?'

"A long pause; at last a boy, indignant at what he thought the attempted trick, cried out: 'It couldn't have been Mr. Smith! . . .'"

Fashions Go Ladylike As Men Return To College Classrooms

By Mimi

It's miraculous how the appearance of a few hundred more men on the campus can have such a decided influence on the way girls are dressing. No more sloppy sweaters with the 'Sad Sack' look, no more slacks and jeans prancing about under oversized loud shirts. Gone is the casual 'I-don't-give-a-hang' look.

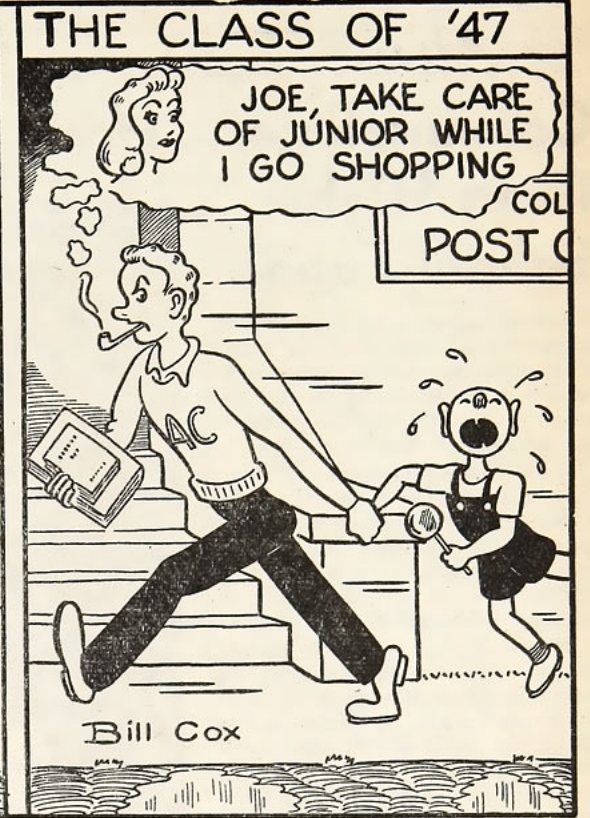

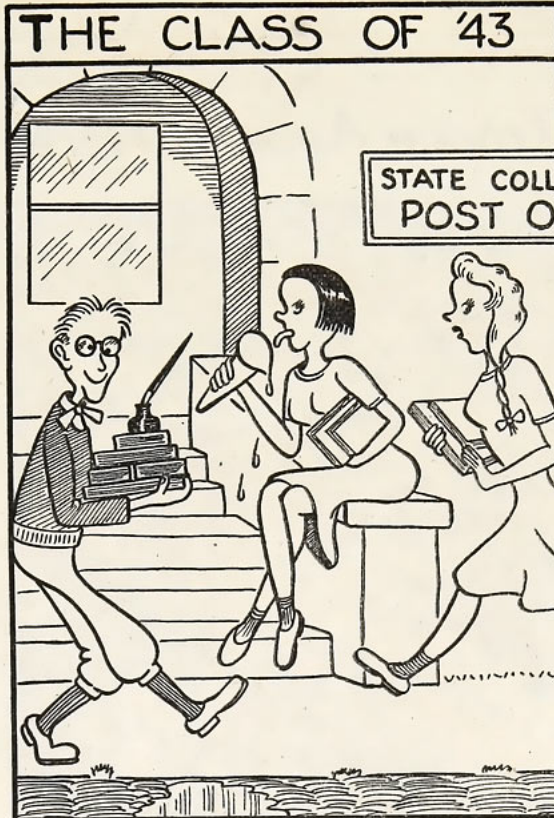

School clothes are more neat and charming this year. Skirts, blouses and belts are playing the leads. Skirt styles, however, are contradictory this season with the straight 'pencil-slim-looking' skirt as well as the gathered skirt vying for top honors. Donna Litherland's bright red and green twin skirts with black pin-stripes are wonderful illustrations of the straight skirt and bright color trends. Worn with a black wool, long-sleeved, boxy blouse the combination does double duty for social functions as well as in the classroom. Blouses with a different look are extremely popular; instead of the usual V-neck tailored blouse, one sees patch pockets, unusual yolks and full, full sleeves.

Jane Vogel's bright kelly green corduroy dress bears mentioning because of its cheerfulness and adaptability for school use.

Socially Yours

By Marion

Campus social life began settling toward normal this week after seven crowded days of homecoming preparations and new term organization.

Only a normal number of engagements and weddings turned up in the record. Mary Herbison will leave today for Burbank, Calif., where she and Ensign Don Wenger will be married Oct. 22. Marriages this summer included those of John Larson and Bob Rose.

Phi Omega Pi sorority is recruiting help for its lawn raking, inviting members of SAE to join in the task, with refreshments promised when the job is done.

Although it was not an entirely normal week at the Theta Chi House, with all the re-decorating and re-finishing, members began to feel the effects of home comforts.

SAE's who were worried about the bison head stolen from their winning homecoming float breathed easier Monday when it was recovered and returned to the Elks.

Among those students who have returned to the campus after periods of military service are Bob Butterwick, Jim Poseley, Ed Kibber, Max Wishek, Al Foss, Hugh O. Daniels, and John Finnie.

Honoring Dr. O. O. Churchill, the AGR's unveiled a life-size portrait of him following the homecoming game.

Transferred from the U of Nebraska and Colorado State college, respectively, were Dixon Best and Alfred Dale, Jr.

Climaxing fall rushing, Kappa Psi's began making plans for a formal banquet, with Don Beardsley in charge.

Formal Rushing Begins

Formal fraternity rushing will commence Monday with fraternity parties scheduled for every night through Friday.

Pledging from 2-5 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 27, will culminate activities.

Functions slated are: Sigma Chi, Monday; ATO, Tuesday; Theta Chi, Wednesday; SAE, AGR, Kappa Psi and Sigma Phi Delta, Thursday; Kappa Sigma Chi, Friday.

This week is being devoted to informal rushing.

New Cartoon Features Work Of NDAC Veteran Artist

Honor Haile Chisholm

Haile Chisholm, guest of honor at the 31st annual LCT harvest festival, will unveil a picture of Dr. John H. Longwell, new NDAC president, during the festival program Tuesday.

The event will be held in the seminar room of Old Main during a tea in honor of Mr. Chisholm's 95th birthday. Hours for the tea will be 3 to 5 p.m. Following the tea will be a dinner in the Lincoln log cabin.

Reception To Honor President, New Faculty

President John H. Longwell and new faculty members will be honored at a reception in Festival hall at 8:00 p.m. today.

Fifty-two new people will be welcomed by a receiving line, which will consist of the deans and members of various campus boards.

Entertainment will include two vocal solos by Mrs. Vernon Hathaway and incidental music by an instrumental ensemble.

RESUME MONDAY TEAS

With resumption of the weekly Blue Monday tea Oct. 21, the YMCA will launch its annual membership drive, according to Helen Crews, membership secretary.

New members will be feted at a recognition service tentatively set for Oct. 30.

This edition of the Spectrum marks the inauguration of a new occasional feature, a cartoon by William E. Cox, former AAF sergeant-major and at present a pre-optometry student at NDAC.

Cox, second place winner in the local "Lena the Hyena" contest, is 27, married and the father of a four-year-old daughter.

His interest in cartooning was aroused first while attending junior high school in Tennessee, but he had no chance to develop his work until some years later when in the army. When not busy at his duties as an administrative sergeant in the air corps, Cox managed to find time to draw two cartoons for Yank magazine and to work up his own idea for a comic strip.

While still at work on his comic strip, a tale of the trials of a teen age boy and his friends, he has discontinued the drawing of future work on the strip and spends as much time as can be salvaged from his school work creating new ideas.

His first job was as a rural route manager for the Memphis Press Scimitar, where he worked from 1935 until 1939. At present he is working toward sale of his comic strip to a national newspaper syndicate.

Dance Friday Evening

Kenny-Ross will provide the music at an all college dance sponsored by the YMCA-YWCA Friday at 9:00 p.m. in Festival hall.

Proceeds will be used to send delegates to the national YMCA-YWCA assembly at the University of Illinois, Dec. 22-Jan. 2.

Admission will be 50 cents per person.

Heard About The Herd

By Bob Butterwick

will be the football capital of North Dakota this weekend, as the Bison and the Sioux square off in a game which undoubtedly will decide the ultimate NCC title winner. Victories for the Bison in this series have been scarce the last decade. The Herd won the second of last year's games, but one has to go all the way back to the days of Ernie Wheeler to find the locals on top again.

The Bison

were definitely off their game against South Dakota State. However, it is not surprising, since Stan Koska's boys played superlative ball through the first month of the campaign, and a let-down could be expected. Granted, the university scouts got a pretty poor opinion of the Bison offense, but we think the spirited play of the forward wall on defense caused Glenn Jarrett to revise his hopes for how far his backs could go.

Jarrett

has brought his team along a lot faster than had been expected, and he will have his boys up for this one. However, the Sioux showed certain defensive weaknesses against South Dakota that will have to be corrected if they want to come out on top. Harry Gamage, the Coyote mentor, said that if he had had his regular full-back and left end, the result might have been a lot different than his 21-6 defeat would indicate. NDAC's version of Mr. Inside, Jerry Mulready, is about the best plunger in the conference, and the Herd flank guardians are no setups.

Most

of the university eyes will be on one Charles Basch. A lot of up-state folk came down Saturday in order to see Charlie, but a bunged-up ankle and a heavy field kept the Minnesota flash from breaking away. Give Charlie a dry gridiron and one blocker—well, those of you at the Concordia and Morningside games know what we mean.

Cousins

will be in the opposing lineups in the persons of Bill Dietz for the Bison and Bob Dietz of the Sioux. Both are from Wahpeton. If memory serves, Bob started the season at Minnesota but shifted before the campaign was underway.

Before

giving our prediction of the outcome, here's a big hand for Bony Rothrock, who came up with the greatest defensive performances seen on Dacotah field in many a moon. Cliff must have given Jarrett and Don Clark of the university a bad night Saturday. When the Jackrabbit backs did get through the Bison line, Rothrock was right there to meet them. The Herd backers-up Rothrock and Mulready, will give the Sioux breakaway runners, Red Huntley and Myrle Welsh, plenty of trouble when it comes to getting that extra yard.

This

corner looks for a game in which the winner will have to score at least twice and maybe more in order to pull it out. The two teams are as evenly matched as the time they played their famous 20-20 tie back in 1937. We don't think this one will turn out a draw, however. We pick the Bison to come out on top, 13 to 7. But it will be anybody's ball game right down to the end.

NDAC Tops Rabbits 6-0 In Close Tilt

Stopped cold in the second half after having much their own way in the first 30 minutes, North Dakota State pulled out a 6-0 win over South Dakota State in the annual homecoming game. It was their second conference win.

Charlie Basch tallied the only counter from the three early in the second period on a lateral from Don Bredell, culminating a 43-yard drive. Nick Vujovich's kick was wide.

Heavy rains throughout the week slowed the field down, giving all the advantage to the defensive team. The Jackrabbits did not make a first down until midway in the third period and racked up only four during the game. The Bison made seven, five of them in the first half.

A 65-yard runback of the second half kickoff by Jerry Mulready, Bison fullback, gave Herd supporters hopes that more scores were in the offing. However, Mulready's jump pass was intercepted by George Mitchell, who played a bang-up game at end, to stop the threat. After an exchange of kicks, Dud Melichar took a Bison kick, on his 20 and raced to the Bison 43. Two passes from Melichar to Mitchell took the ball to the 13, but the Herd braced and took the ball on downs at the beginning of the fourth quarter. The rest of the game was played in midfield.

Outstanding player on the field was Cliff Rothrock, Bison center, who was the bottom man on the majority of tackles. His play may have been the difference between victory and defeat.

Mulready was the only effective Bison ground gainer, as the heavy turf kept Basch from executing one of his breakaway runs. Melichar was the Jacks' big gun on the offense, with Mitchell and Bill Melody, the center, tough boys to handle on defense.

Registration Reaches 2345

Final registration figures at NDAC this week reached a peak of 2,345, according to A. H. Parrott, registrar, who returned from Grinnell, Iowa Wednesday where he was reelected secretary treasurer of the North Central Association of College Registrars.

Present enrollment exceeds by 145 the number earlier estimated to attend the college.

Freshmen and sophomore classes are the largest with 1,266 and 551, respectively. There are 304 juniors, 188 seniors and 36 graduates.

The school of applied arts and sciences boasts an enrollment of 650 students, while the school of engineering follows closely with 626. Agriculture has 439; the school of home economics, 298; pharmacy, 196; chemistry, 98; education, 38.

Reorganize ROTC Cadet Battalion

With announcement of the closing of registration for advanced classes in ROTC Oct. 26, the NDAC military department released information on the reorganization of the cadet battalion for 1946-1947.

The ROTC battalion will consist of three companies, designated as A, B and C, consisting of two platoons each, which in turn will be formed by three squads apiece. Battalion headquarters staff will consist of seven cadet officers and four NCO's, while each company will be headed by a captain and each platoon in turn commanded by a lieutenant.

Cadet students will be enabled by periodic examinations to qualify for promotions in the non-commissioned grades insofar as practicable all cadet officers will be taken from advanced classes.

Newman Club Initiates

Formal initiation for NDAC Newman club members will be held October 20 in the Knights of Columbus hall with Bob Maason, president, officiating.

Approximately ninety students attended the first gathering Oct. 13.

Dr. Thomas Hendrickson is the new spiritual director of Newman club, organization for Catholic students. He succeeds Dr. David Boyle.

This afternoon members of the group will hold a discussion meeting at 5 in the Ceres hall basement lounge. Stuart Ensberg, interne at First Lutheran church, will be discussion leader.

Shortages Impede Veterans Housing

Progress on construction of federal housing units north of the NDAC field house has been slower than expected due to shortages of help and materials, Dean C. A. Sevrinson announced.

First of the completed units will not be available until shortly after Christmas, officials believe.

Barracks for single men will be first on the "ready list." These 11 dwellings will accommodate 176 men in a style reminiscent of days in the service. The reason for the priority of these units is their greater value as student residences.

Sixty-five duplexes being erected on north Thirteenth street will house 130 veterans and their families.

For faculty members, 30 five-room, fully equipped houses are being built north of the Hasty Tasty.

Seek Library Aids

Dr. John H. Longwell, NDAC president, has been authorized by the state board of higher education to issue a call for bids on the construction of a new college library, pending completion and approval by the civilian production administration of preliminary plans.

The new structure, to be erected from a $200,000 appropriation by the state legislature in 1945, is being designed by W. F. Kurke of Fargo.

Bean, Eells Given Chem Scholarships

Corman H. Bean, June graduate of NDAC, and Donald E. Eells, graduate of Jamestown college, were named winners of fellowships granted to the school of chemical technology by the Minneapolis-Honeywell Instrument company, Dean Ralph E. Dunbar has announced.

The research will be with plastics under direction of Dean Dunbar and Mason H. Boudrey. The two students will spend some time at the Minneapolis-Honeywell plant.

Journalism Class Works On Staff

Practical experience in reporting and interviewing as well as a study of journalistic writing and newspaper makeup is being offered in a three-hour course by Gale Tollin, Associated Press man for the Fargo Forum.

Approximately twenty students are enrolled in the fall course. Current news assignments are made in the class, and some of the items in this issue are products of the class' work.

In addition, afternoon sessions are being planned by Dick Olson, Spectrum editor, for staff members not enrolled in the journalism course.

Debaters To Meet

Lincoln Debate club will hold a meeting Tuesday in the seminar room of the Little Country theatre at 4 p.m.

Agenda for the fall term includes intercollegiate debates, open forums and other speech activities. Meetings are open to the public.

Shortage Limits Size

Although The Spectrum had intended to publish larger issues during the fall term, it has been found necessary to limit the size to four pages due to the acute paper shortage. Until the shortage eases, The Spectrum will continue in its present size.
