New Problems For Frosh

502 N. Prior Ave., St. Pa.

With a record number of freshmen registering this week, orientation on the campus was more confusing than ever. Finding buildings, filling out forms and buying books were but a few of the hazards facing incoming freshmen. Shown above in the midst of their problems are Margaret Mock, Fargo; Pat Vaughn, Lisbon, and Margaret Ann Rulon, Fargo.

President's Message

North Dakota Agricultural college is off to the biggest year in the history of the institution. To provide for the tremendous increase in enrollment many adjustments in faculty, buildings and equipment have been required. The entire facilities of the college are more fully used than ever before, and in some cases emergency provisions have been required to meet the situation. A great deal of time and effort have been spent by the entire college staff in preparing for the record enrollment we now have.

Despite the inconvenience that will arise this will be a great year at NDAC. We work best and develop most when we must overcome obstacles to attain our goal. The large number of students in the college is substantial evidence of the great interest in education.

The college welcomes both new and former students and wishes them a profitable school year.

—JOHN H. LONGWELL.

Student Action Committee Meeting At Minot Teachers College Tuesday

In accordance with plans made at a state-wide meeting in June on the NDSC campus, students from the nine state institutions of higher learning will gather at Minot October 8-9 to continue the Intra-state Student Action committee campaign for higher educational appropriations.

Delegates from NDSC include Ames Skolness, ISAC's state publicity director; Tom Challoner, Al Foss and Grace Swigart.

Desirable improvements in NDSC facilities and faculty salaries have been listed after interviews with faculty and administration members and will be presented at the meeting.

NDSC students originated the ISAC last spring by inviting representatives from all other state colleges to meet and determine what could be done to raise North Dakota standards of higher education.

Named president was Walter Birkelo, Mayville; Milton McNea,

Minot, vice president; Joyce Lee, Grand Forks, secretary; David Johnson, Valley City, treasurer; Walter Short, Wahpeton, and Homer Moeller, Dickinson, executive committee, and Ames Skolness of Fargo, publicity director.

All nine institutions have approved unanimously the constitution and resolutions adopted at the Fargo meeting.

College Manager Back

Forrest F. Skinner, former lieutenant colonel in the quartermaster corps, returned to NDSC as business manager September 9, exactly five and a half years after he left the college to enter service in 1941. Before entering service Mr. Skinner was auditor of the North Dakota state board of administration. Mr. and Mrs. Skinner are residing at 1318 Twelfth st N.

Dr. Longwell Takes Office As President

Dr. John H. Longwell, former chief of the division of animal industry and associate director of the college experiment station, assumed office August 15 as president of North Dakota State college.

Doctor Longwell was appointed by the North Dakota State Board of Higher Education to succeed Dr. Frank L. Eversull, who resigned last June to become chief of colleges for the U. S. 24th army corps at Seoul, Korea. Doctor Eversull had presided over the institution since August 1, 1938. Acting president following Doctor Eversull's departure and until August 15 was C. A. Sevrinson, college dean of men and assistant to the president.

The school's seventh president, Doctor Longwell comes into his new post with an extensive agricultural background. He received a bachelor of science degree in agriculture from the University of Missouri in 1918. In 1920 he received a master of arts degree in agriculture from the same institution. He was awarded the doctor of philosophy degree in agriculture by the University of Illinois in 1941.

In July, 1941, Doctor Longwell came to NDSC as chief of the division of animal industry. From that year until he resigned this August he served as chairman of the state production goals committee, a body established to further the production of crops most necessary to the U. S. wartime economy. Doctor Longwell was named associate director of the college agricultural experiment station in 1945 and in the same year became president of the North Dakota Academy of Science.

As a lieutenant in the field artillery Doctor Longwell served six months overseas in World War I. During the succeeding years he served on the faculties of Washington State college, the University of West Virginia and the University of Illinois. At Illinois he taught animal husbandry and pasture management, later becoming assistant to the dean of agriculture and experiment station director.

College Registration May Pass 2,200 Mark

Enrollment at NDSC is expected to shatter all previous records this week as registration is completed for the school's first actual post-war year. A. H. Parrott, college registrar, announced Wednesday night that registration thus far totaled 1,439. Total undergraduate enrollment may go well over 2,200, Mr. Parrott believes.

Previous peak year for NDSC was 1940-41, when 1,993 students were registered. Enrollment in 1941-42 was 1,683, while 1,425 were enrolled in 1942-43. First big wartime drop came in 1943-44, when only 653 students attended college. Total registration last year was 1,514.

Classes begin Monday after two postponements. Originally scheduled for Sept. 23, school opening was delayed until Oct. 1 when a local poliomyelitis epidemic failed to subside. Persistence of the epidemic later required a second postponement until Oct. 7.

Presiding over the institution this fall in place of Dr. Frank L. Eversull, who resigned in early summer, is Dr. John H. Longwell.

All college facilities are being taxed to accommodate the expected record enrollment. Housing facilities for veteran students and their families dot the campus.

Swelling class rolls are hundreds of war veterans being schooled under the U.S. government's G.I. bill of rights.

At the conclusion of registration and orientation week the campus will take on a heavy load of back work and delayed activities.

YMCA Plans Stag Party After Game

A stag party following the NDSC-Morningside game Friday evening will be the first of a series of events planned for the fall quarter by the college YMCA.

All men students are being invited to attend the party, which will include lunch and entertainment.

Buses from the Northern Transit company and a group of private cars will assemble in front of the YMCA building Sunday at 2 p.m. for a YMCA-sponsored excursion tour of Fargo for new men students. Approximately 150 men can be accommodated.

Friday morning worship services, a traditional feature of the organization's program, will begin October 11 with a service at 7:30 in the Fireside room.

Directing the program this year is Wesley Gunkel, cabinet president, assisted by William Provance, vice president; Luverne Hall, secretary, and Vernon Hathaway, general secretary.

Name 51 To Faculty

Added to the NDSC faculty since the spring term have been 51 new instructors.

Arts and Science leads the parade with 19 new faces, while the Engineering school is second with 13. Agriculture has nine; Chemistry, four; Home Economics, four; and Pharmacy and the Athletic department one each.

Names and positions will appear in the Oct. 10 Spectrum.

Homecoming Set Oct. 12

NDSC will go into its first week of school Monday amid hurried preparations for its annual fall homecoming the following Saturday.

In emergency sessions the last two weeks members of the college student commission have drawn plans for the affair, which will be the school's first full-scale homecoming since pre-war years.

Students will go to the polls Tuesday to elect a homecoming queen. Names of candidates from the six campus sororities and the independents will be submitted to Mary Burfening, commissioner of elections, by 1 p.m. tomorrow, and formal announcement will be made at an all-college dance in the field house Saturday evening.

The record enrollment this term and the rebirth of activity resulting therefrom are expected to inject a note of life missed during the war years. Preparations are being made for the return of many traditional homecoming features.

Reflecting on these factors members of the student commission selected the phrase, Bison Renaissance, as the homecoming theme.

Competition, with trophies for the winners, will be staged in float construction and house decorating. A limit of $40 has been set as the cost of entries in the float contest, but no limit was set on house decorations.

Interest will center around the homecoming football game Saturday afternoon, when the Bison meet the Jackrabbits of South Dakota State.

A parade at 10 a.m. will start off the homecoming day activities and will be followed by a queen's luncheon, alumni luncheon and meeting, the game, open house gatherings by the various campus social groups, and a dance featuring the music of Tommy Sheridan's orchestra.

Three Man Paper, This

Did you ever read a three-man newspaper? No? Read this one.

Because many members of the staff were not yet in Fargo when the news in this issue was compiled the entire task was undertaken by three writers. With classes convening Monday the size of the working staff naturally will increase. However, many openings will continue to be available for interested students.

Have you had previous experience in journalism, perhaps in high school, another college or while in military service? Or are you interested in writing, despite a lack of experience? The Spectrum is seeking to spark a new interest in journalism on the campus, as well as to supplement its organization.

Reporters on The Spectrum this year not only will gain knowledge from the actual writing of news stories but will benefit from a series of short newswriting discussions to be conducted at intervals, at least through the fall term, and by systematic criticism of the work they do.

Students interested in joining the staff may secure appointments for interviews with the editor by calling at The Spectrum office, room 123, Science building.

EDITORIAL OBSERVATIONS

Objective

Select Arbitrary Measure

Tremendous interest is being shown in education today. On the NDSC campus record numbers of students are registering for the fall term. Why this thirst for knowledge?

Perhaps there is no answer. Some say this desire for knowledge results from the opportunity given veterans under the U.S. government's G.I. bill of rights. This, however, is hardly an adequate explanation, since the government bill is nothing more than a vehicle for the satisfaction of desire. Why the desire?

A social philosopher might say that interest in education is a result of cultural progress. Such, however, would be nothing more than an hypothesis, since it is impossible to prove that progress is possible without first finding ultimate truth. Conversely, it is impossible to prove that progress is impossible without the same measuring device.

Regardless of these hypothetical considerations we may conclude that interest in education is being shown on the NDSC campus and elsewhere today in a manner more extensive or more observable than in the past.

The Spectrum will be watching with interest the manifestations of this trend during the coming school year. Into its news columns will go as complete a record as possible of the activities of the college thus reborn. Within the confines of its restricted size (paper shortage prevents what should be a natural post-war increase in page dimensions) The Spectrum will attempt to document at least a portion of the important activity on the NDSC campus.

Important? What is The Spectrum's measure? Of course, the standard is completely arbitrary. It is impossible for reasons stated above to know what is important. Within the limits of unenlightened judgment, however, The Spectrum will endeavor to carry out its policy of printing what is important. One result may be noticeable: less emphasis upon purely social matters.

Subjective

Tolstoy Sides With Editor

I imagine everyone has had the experience of amazement at discovering that someone else has put into words one of his own unorganized thoughts. I am sure all ex-servicemen reading the following passage from Count Leo Tolstoy's War and Peace will agree with me that Tolstoy rendered an accurate description of the subject at hand. Writes Tolstoy (in the Constance Garnett translation):

"The Biblical tradition tells us that the absence of work—idleness—was a condition of the first man's blessedness before the Fall. The love of idleness has remained the same in fallen man; but the curse still lies heavy upon man, and not only because in the sweat of our brow we must eat bread, but because from our moral qualities we are unable to be idle and at peace. A secret voice tells us that we must be to blame for being idle. If a man could find a state in which while being idle he could feel himself to be of use and doing his duty, he would have attained to one side of primitive blessedness. And such a state of obligatory and irreproachable idleness is enjoyed by a whole class—the military class. It is in that obligatory and irreproachable idleness that the chief attraction of military service has always consisted, and will always consist."

Rhodes Elections Resumed; Applications Due November 2

Elections to Rhodes scholarships will be resumed in December, it was announced by Dean A. E. Minard, representative at NDSC. Applications are due November 2; candidates elected will enter Oxford university in October, 1947.

Among those who already have applied is Capt. Hiram G. Fuller, Fargo resident and former NDSC student. Captain Fuller is a graduate of West Point and currently is attending Cornell university, where he is acquiring additional education in preparation for his army career.

Sixteen extra scholarships have been allotted the United States for 1946-7, making a total of 48 scholarships to be awarded. All appointments will be open to regular and war service candidates, according to the merits of competition.

Special considerations are being accorded veterans in regard to age, marital status and education. Veterans attending Oxford will receive the same benefits under the GI Bill of Rights that they would receive in an American university.

Additional information and application blanks may be obtained from Dean Minard, President John C. West of UND, secretary of the state committee of selection, or Dr. Frank Aydelotte of the institute for advanced study, Princeton, N. J.

INSTITUTE CANCELED

Due to lack of housing and other facilities the annual 4-H Achievement institute, scheduled for Nov. 5-8, has been canceled. H. E. Rilling, club leader, announced.

NDSC Home Economics Club Plays Host To New Staff, Students October 15

Tryota, NDSC home economics club, will play host to all new home economics staff members and students at its annual picnic October 15.

Weather permitting, the affair will be held on the home management house lawn. In case of inclement weather, however, guests will be entertained in the YMCA auditorium. Hours will be from 5 to 8 p.m.

Regular Tryota members, it was announced, will be required to purchase tickets before noon on October 14.

Committee heads aiding Gladys Sather, club president and general chairman of the event, are Barbara Hammer, Frances Nelson and Helen Beauchamp.

Because of homecoming preparations, the date of the picnic was advanced, according to Miss Mildred Hawkins, advisor.

WOMEN'S SENATE MEETS

Women's Senate will meet Tuesday, October 8, in Old Main, and thereafter on the first Tuesday of each month.

Panhellenic Tea Set For Sunday

Sorority members and new women students will meet formally at a Panhellenic-sponsored tea in Old Main Sunday, October 6, from 3 to 5 p.m.

Dean Pearl Dinan, Panhellenic adviser, and a senior member from each sorority will receive the guests, according to Shirley Hulebak, general chairman. Each Greek organization will send 10 representatives and its Panhellenic delegates.

Deferred rushing, an innovation on the campus, has changed the usual itinerary. Before formal rush week each group will sponsor one open house on a scheduled Monday evening; during formal rush week, each sorority will entertain at one formal function and two informal gatherings.

Due to the postponement of school, the date of formal rush week has not been definitely set.

Broken and chipped fingernails that match freshly decorated walls and aching muscles will be evidenced at initial Greek meetings Monday evening, for all organizations have been painting and cleaning houses and apartments as another school year approaches.

Except for Sigma Chi . . . They have a freshly dug hole and a Fargo Forum clipping, however.

Gamma Phi will welcome back Jean Brunskill after a year in Washington and KKG will hail Marilyn "Butch" Holmes, her Washington co-worker. KDs will greet Lois Kresbak and Mary Scherling.

Willie Boehrs, without his appetite for razor blades and light bulbs, Harold "Bro" Crosby, Jim Kyser and Merle Anderson will again grace the SAE house.

John Lytle, Ed Kasner, Don Beardsley, Jaylord Sutherland will again call the Kappa Psi house home.

Among the old married folks are AGRs Percy McClain, Roy Skorheim and Melvin Holmquist. They found their mates in their respective home towns. Morris Fagerlund found Delores Coffey a good keeper of his AGR pin.

Theta Chi alums Colonel Larry Tanberg and Major Max Campbell were just visiting, but Theta Chis Dick Carley, Jerry Bolmeier, Don Schaezel, Paul Brostrom, Jim South, Don Loder and Edsel Boe are here to stay!

On the recently married list is Alpha Gam Donna Johnson to Sig alum Pat Callinan.

AGRs enjoyed a "fireside" with their dates following the game Friday in their newly "re-acquired" house.

Sig veterans returned during the summer include Cliff Rothrock, Billy Anderson, Jack Rilling, Verne Johnson, Blair Smallwood, Jack Nelson, Bob Porter and Don McDowell.

Heard About The Herd

By Jack Rilling

Introduced

to NDSC football fans last Friday night was C. P. (Chalky) Reed, new Bison line coach. And an introduction it was with the Herd gaining a victory over his alma-mater, Concordia. The former Moorhead high and Cobber athlete has spent some 18 years coaching both football and basketball at East Grand Forks, Fairmont, and Albert Lea. Also added to the athletic department is Joel (Zip) Nelson, a former NDSC athlete who was with Stan Kostka's 1941 team.

Enjoyable

was the word for the Cobber setto. Yes, indeed! That 26-6 score ought to go a long way toward quenching Bison fans' great thirst for Concordia blood. And now, Messrs. Kostka and Reed, there is that SMALL matter of that Grand Forks shindig, and we can call it a great year.

And Speaking

of those fighting Sioux from down the river reminds this column of the publicity athletic officials from that institution have been giving one Charles Basch. The story seems to be that Mr. R. D. Koppenhaver of the University board of athletic control thinks that Mr. Basch would make an outstanding addition to his political science department and was greatly perturbed when Charles forsook the learned portals of Merrifield hall and Memorial stadium for THAT state college. The said gentleman has filed a protest with the North Central conference.

Leaving

Saturday for a game with Bismarck junior college is a 26 man "B" squad coached by E. E. Kaiser and Joel Nelson. Replacing the freshman team this fall, this squad has other games scheduled with Minot state teachers on October 18; Wahpeton Science, October 23; and Manitoba university, October 26. As yet no answer has been received from NDU on a request for a game.

Touchball

enthusiasts, contact the athletic department soon if you are interested in an intramural league. E. E. Kaiser would like to meet with group representatives in the next few days so as to get the league started before cold weather sets in.

Veterans, Coaches Talk Things Over

Returning veterans Paul Moores, left, Cliff Rothrock, and Nick Soulis, and Coaches Stan Kostka and C. P. Reed smile over old times at a night practice session. Kostka and the three linemen were together with the 1941 Bison eleven and have recently returned from military service. Reed is the Herd's new line coach.

Bison Gain Split In Iowa, Cobber Tilts

The 1946 edition of Stan Kostka's Thundering Herd got off to a .500 start in its first two games, falling before the Iowa Hawkeyes 39-0, and bouncing back last Friday to hang a 26-6 trouncing on Concordia in the first game played on Dacotah field in five years.

Charlie Basch, the South St. Paul flash whose NCIC eligibility is still in doubt, was the spark of the Herd attack in the Cobber tussle, scoring two touchdowns, as did Jerry Mulready, bruising fullback.

A fast, heavy line, which at times was a little over-anxious, tore holes in the Cobber line to let the Bison backs through for fairly long gains most of the game. Basch got off the best run of the night, a 35-yard dash to pay dirt in the third quarter, in which he reversed his field and tallied untouched.

In the opener against the Hawks, the Bison proved a stubborn foe, leaving the field at half-time on the short end of a 6-0 count. However, the 90-degree heat and overwhelming Iowa reserve strength took their toll in the second half. Iowa's last three tallies were gifts, as Kostka let his whole team get into the fray, often out of position, with a consequent mixup on signals. Center Cliff (Bony) Rothrock caught the fancy of the crowd and visiting sportswriters, as he came up with a mid-season performance.

Bison Gridders Meet Maroons Friday Night

Continuing from a 26-6 victory over Concordia last week, Stan Kostka's NDSC Bison meet their first conference foe, Morningside, Friday night at Dacotah field.

Kostka, however, has cautioned his squad not to be overconfident against Morningside, despite the fact the Maroons lost their first two games to Nebraska Wesleyan, 7-0, and Kansas Wesleyan, 9-7. The Bison mentor pointed out that both Wesleyan schools have tough ball clubs, and that the Morningside outfit is expected to have developed fast.

In a tribute to those who served in the armed forces during World war II, Dr. J. H. Longwell, NDSC president, will speak briefly in a short ceremony before game time Friday night. Ex-servicemen will be admitted upon display of their discharge button and payment of the federal tax.

The Maroons, shifting from a T-formation, use a Notre Dame box behind a balanced line. Of Coaches L. H. Davis and A. W. Buckingham's seven lettermen, six are expected to start against a Bison eleven that will outweigh the Iowa club about five pounds.

Outside of Jim Davis with a bad ankle from the Iowa game, the Bison came through the Concordia contest without injury and will enter Friday's game in good physical shape.

Construct New Housing Units

Besides the 92 trailers on the campus now housing married veterans and their families, construction has started on 106 buildings that eventually will house not only married and single veterans but provide homes for some thirty faculty members.

Furthest along is work on the 65 quonset-style houses being built behind the hedge along Thirteenth street and in rear of the physical education building. These units will house two veteran families apiece.

In the same area 11 barracks to quarter 16 single veterans each have been started. Until work on these two sets of buildings can be finished, some 130 single men will be accommodated in the basement of the Field house, and about 100 of the married men will find dormitory space in the north end of Dakota hall.

Named for their designer, an agriculture '09 graduate of the school, the 30 Critchfield housing units were purchased by a faculty housing corporation from the Foss Lumber company in Moorhead and are being built near the college YMCA.

Forty-seven girls are being housed in new rooms on the first floor of Dakota hall, and existing dormitory space is being stretched to the limit in an effort to accommodate all that desire to register.

In addition, a recent city-wide drive co-ordinated by Donald E. Schaezel, NDSC student, provided college homes for some 70 students.

Balke Heads ROTC Program; Plan Air Unit Activation

Lt. Col. Frank T. Balke, newly appointed professor of military science and tactics, announces that the reactivation of an air course for advanced ROTC students is in the planning stage.

The air corps program will be in addition to the infantry course already offered. The advanced course, incidentally, is now open to veterans with more than one year of service.

A veteran of over 27 years of service, Colonel Balke was with the national guard until 1940, when he entered the regular army. Spending four years in an active combat theater, Colonel Balke participated in six campaigns in England, Africa and Europe before returning to the United States in August, 1946. He was educated at Williams college, Williamstown, Mass., and is a member of Chi Psi fraternity.

Colonel Balke is a resident of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Capt. Charles H. Dornacker, the assistant PMST for infantry, was a student here in 1935 and is a resident of Minneapolis. He participated in the Italian campaign with the 88th Division.

The assistant PMST for air is Capt. Risto M. Heikkinen, reporting recently from Tucson, Arizona. Commissioned in 1941, Capt. Heikkinen was with the Air Transport command in the CBI theater.

Sergeant-major of the unit is M. Sgt. Richard D. White, who has done 14 of his 27 years service at NDSC. During World War II, he served as temporary major. Other enlisted instructors include M. Sgt. Robert F. Gay, 1st Sgt. Lanty G. Beecher, 1st Sgt. Marshall E. Butler, T. Sgt. Raymond J. Nanco and T. Sgt. Wilfred O. Olson.

Religious Emphasis Week Set Nov. 16-22

T. Z. Koo, prominent Chinese Christian leader and diplomat, will head a group of about eight nationally and internationally known speakers who will visit the NDSC campus during Religious Emphasis week, Nov. 16-22.

General chairman in charge of preparations for Religious week activities is Dr. W. C. Hunter, head of the college history department. Student co-chairmen assisting him are William Provance and Lillian Nydahl. Their committees total nearly 100 persons, including students, faculty members and Fargo residents.

Koo, who was formerly a Chinese representative for the League of Nations, has spent the last few years touring colleges.
