General Lovett Addresses OCS Graduating Class

Brig. Gen. R. A. Lovett, Jr., will give the graduation address as members of the first class of Administration Officer Candidate School No. 1 receive their commissions as second lieutenants in the Army of the United States Wednesday. Exercises will be held in Festival hall at 8:30 a. m. Dr. Frank L. Eversull, NDAC president, will give the invocation. Lt.-Col. J. W. Mann will present the class to Col. G. O. A. Daughtry, commanding officer, who in turn will introduce General Lovett.

Following General Lovett's address, Lt. W. R. Hesse will administer the Oath of Office. Letters of Appointment will be presented by General Lovett, Colonel Daughtry, Colonel Mann and Major George C. Dewey.

Benediction and informal pinning of the Bars will close the ceremony.

Navy, Marine Students May Take ROTC

Navy and Marine Corps enlisted students may now enroll for basic ROTC instruction under a new and final order issued Wednesday by Adjutant General James A. Ulio of the United States Army.

Originally students who enlisted in the Navy or Marines were permitted to enroll for basic ROTC. Several weeks ago new rulings denied them this right and the men in the Navy and Marine Corps were caused to drop military instruction. This new ruling apparently settles the question finally and gives all students the unquestioned right to enroll for basic military.

Men who enlist in the Navy will still be required to secure a statement from the Professor of Military Science and Tactics certifying that they are not obligated to the Army through ROTC. They will also be required to enroll for physical education even though they may be carrying military instruction.

Students who have dropped military instruction because of enlistment in the Navy or Marine Corps are urged to report to Lt. Col. Charles H. Hart, Jr., ROTC commandant, if they desire to reenroll. Every effort will be made to allow them to pick up military and receive credit for the fall quarter.

Glee Club Sets Convo

Convocation next Thursday will present the NDAC Glee club under the direction of Ernst Van Vlissingen, announces Miss Ann Brown, convocation committee chairman.

Featured as well will be group singing by the audience, also under the direction of Mr. Van Vlissingen.

War songs and Christmas carols will make up the program.

Picture Schedule

Group pictures for the 1943 Bison yearbook will be taken next week according to the following schedule. All pictures will be taken in Festival hall.

Hunter Announces New History Course For Winter Term

What everyone should know about the United States at war will be covered in a new course to be offered during the winter term by NDAC's history department, announces Dr. W. C. Hunter, department chairman.

Based on a text, School of the Citizen Soldier, by Lt.-Col. Robert A. Griffin, the course will have no prerequisites and is especially recommended for advanced ROTC students and others entering the armed services as well as those in technical schools having a background in history.

Providing a historical, economical and geographical background of the war, the textbook includes a description of the armed forces of the United States, Germany and Japan and special chapters of propaganda.

Class hours for the new course have been set for Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 10.

Twelve Students Recently Elected To Phi Kappa Phi

Basing selection on high scholastic ability, NDAC's chapter of Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary scholastic fraternity, has elected 12 students to membership. Initiation of the new members will be held during the winter term.

Elected were:

Robert William Coon
Sister Mary Finbar
Benjamin Ginsberg
Karsten Hillebust
Don George Hoag
Arley Maurice Hovland
Jean Ordell Huntley
Elizabeth Jean Lynne
Alice Marian Nelson
Vernon Vincent Richter
Carl R. Sebens
Lois June Skadland

Army Gets NDAC Refugee Eager To Serve New Homeland

"Just say I wanted to take a more active part in the war".

It was with these modest words that 22-year-old Immanuel Wilk, well known campus personality, left NDAC last week after being accepted for enlistment in the Army of the United States.

Young Wilk hopes to return to his native Lithuania wearing the uniform of a Yank. That would be a far different situation than the one under which he fled the little nation just a little over 3 years ago. Then, he caught the last boat that left prior to the annexation of the territory by the Germans, and after several months of dodging the Nazis, he finally found safe refuge in the home of an uncle here in Fargo.

Immanuel received his bachelor of science degree in the School of Chemical Technology last spring here at NDAC but industrial employment was denied him due to his alien status.

While awaiting the army's acceptance he was employed as chemist, working on vitamin research here at NDAC.

He will soon be a full citizen, for regulations permit the clearance of final papers within 3 months after the beginning of army service.

Wilk was an active member of the Chemists club, the International Relations club, and the Spectrum staff and took part in the production of the 1942 Bison Brevities.

Change Class Hours For Special Convos

To eliminate confusion arising from class-hour changes when convocations are held at other times than the regular Thursday morning period, the following schedule has been announced by the administration office and will be followed in all instances:

First hour classes—8 to 8:40.
Second hour classes—8:50 to 9:30.
Third hour classes—9:40 to 10:20.
Fourth hour classes—10:30 to 11:00.

Reporter Finds Artists Interesting

By MARY JEAN HECKEL

Warming up on the stage, prior to his appearance with Larry Adler, harmonica virtuoso, on the Lyceum course Thursday, Paul Draper, tap-dancer, paused frequently to make dry, humorous comments, in a decided British accent.

"Ow!" he yelled, ducking his sandy head, when told he had been seen in a short at a local theater last week. "Are they still showing that thing? It was made about 7 years ago, and when it came out, I was advised to get out of Hollywood and show business."

Adler, dark and cocky, threw his head way back and took long strides when he walked. He told how when he was a fledgling player, his appearance at a New York theater was written up briefly: "There is a lousy harmonica player at the Palace."

Not the type to be downed by mere words, he once sent a telegram to a Hollywood producer, signing a theatrical owner's name. It read: "Adler is great; sign him at once." The trick worked, he boasted.

DRAPER ENERGETIC

Nervous and energetic, Draper was either moving his feet or cracking the muscles in his feet and hands with a cannon-like report while talking.

Asked if he had ever thought of writing as a career, he said laconically, "I was music critic for a New York paper for 2 ill-chosen weeks once."

Not concerned with the past, he wasn't sure if Charles Dana, one-time publisher of the New York Sun, was his grandfather or great-grandfather.

QUIT ONCE

He said that his family didn't entirely approve of his dancing career. "Once I was down to my last cent in France. I found a 10-franc note and wired home, 'Send money and I will come home and be good'. They did, and I gave up dancing for a while," he grinned. He seemed thoughtful for a minute and then broke into a step.

J. Calvin Jackson, accompanist, and Mrs. Draper completed the party. Mrs. Draper, dark and attractive, wanted to know if this was normal weather.

Draper said that he liked Fargo's sub-zero weather. "It is invigorating," he declared.

NDAC Party Campaign Swings Into High Gear

What has been haphazard talk for the past two weeks will become serious campaigning during the coming week as campus politicians align themselves into the two major parties in preparation for the student fall term general election to be held Thursday.

The Spectrum joins Annabelle Donovan, Commissioner of Elections, in urging all members of the student body to make a special effort to do their duty and vote sometime during polling hours, which have been set for Old Main from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Three blank spaces will appear on the office ballot but it is expected that party leaders of the two factions will run sticker candidates for the open positions.

A complete list of all candidates may be found on page 4 of this issue of the Spectrum.

Modern candidates not announced previously included:

Freshmen—

Bob Lambert, president; Martha Blair, vice-president; Bill

Tarbell, secretary; Don Colman, treasurer.

Sophomores—

Beverly Halbeisen, president; Frank Saunders, vice-president; Walter Johnson, secretary; Raymond Schnell, treasurer.

Juniors—

Lauren Johnson, president; Vincent Mayoue, secretary; Maxine Schlagel, treasurer.

Seniors—

Kenneth Jones, president; Helen Warner, vice-president; Mildred Strong, secretary; Glenn Gullickson, treasurer.

Charles Parcels is the Modern candidate for sophomore membership on the Board of Athletic Control with Pete Petrich running for Assistant Commissioner of Finance.

Stegner Wins Chicago Trip In Contest

Harold Stegner of Rhame, freshman in the School of Agriculture, is the winner of the Swift Essay Contest sponsored by Swift and company of Chicago, Dr. J. H. Longwell, Professor of Animal Nutrition, announced this week.

Stegner will spend four days with all expenses paid at the Chicago livestock market and Swift packing plant during the second week of December.

The Essay Contest is sponsored in all agricultural colleges in the United States and all students enrolled in agriculture are eligible. The theme of the essay stresses the processing of meat and meat products, dairy products, poultry and eggs. Each college winner is given an expense-free trip to Chicago in December.

Air Cadet Board To Visit Campus Friday, Saturday

An Army Air Corps Aviation Cadet Examination Board will be at the YMCA building on Friday and Saturday, Dec. 11-12, to enlist students as flying officers. Students will be taken as pilots, navigators or bombardiers, and may enlist for immediate service or on a deferred plan.

Any student wishing to appear before this board should make arrangements with Murray Schaezel, personnel director, first.

Anyone wishing to enlist in the Army Air Corps through this board must bring an application completely filled in, his parent's consent, three letters of recommendation, a birth certificate or other proof of his age, and an official release from his draft board stating that he has not been or will not be called for at least a week. Arrangements may be made with the Examination Board for the taking of physical examinations.

● Yea Bison

The Bison basketball team didn't win against Concordia; they lost 37-26. They didn't put on a dazzling show; they looked rather ragged. But the boys played hard and fought to the finish.

Why don't students turn out for the games? Why don't they support their team? The boys played to less than fifty NDAC rooters at Moorhead on Tuesday.

True, the team this year contains no big name players, but the club does have possibilities.

Everyone talks about school spirit. Let's do something about it!

Introducing —

Candidate Harris Fingers Piano Or Typewriter Alike

By DON NORMAN

Introducing Bill Harris, officer candidate:

Born in Pryor, Okla., Harris is internationally famous—among his relatives—as the talented grandson of a chief of the Cherokee Nation.

Tall, dark and handsome, besides having a wolfish appearance, Mr. Harris made quite an impression on your reporter at our first meeting—mostly on my big toe. All kidding aside, according to my own intelligence bureau, Harris is well-liked by his fellow officer candidates and is in great demand as a pianist when some of them gather their agony quartets for a session.

GOT EARLY START
While he was still in knee pants, Harris got an early start in the entertainment world by doubling on the piano and trombone in dance bands at the ripe old age of 11 years. It was at this time that he acquired the nickname, "The Diaper Swing Artist", which has stuck by him all these years.

Graduating from diapers to long pants, our "Genius of OCS" won a great number of firsts during his high school years—some eight or ten years, wasn't it, Bill? He won the interscholastic state tennis tournament, the state pianist contest for classical compositions, and the state typing contest with a words per minute rating of 95 to 100.

All girls—preferably beautiful blondes with big cars—who wish to learn the Harris speed method of typing (plus additional courses free for nothing) are hereby referred to William "I think you're cute" Harris, c/o OCS.

TENNIS PAYS OFF

Because of his ability as a tennis player, Harris obtained a scholarship at the Oklahoma City University, where he majored in commerce and music. During the summer months he went on the road, playing in exhibition tennis tournaments and competing in state tennis contests.

After college our "Romeo of the OCS" occupied himself with his own organ and piano program on station KOMA, Oklahoma City. Shortly thereupon he was inducted into service. While stationed in Texas, he won the Texas state table tennis tournament for 1941.

His specialty now is beating it out on the piano for the boys in the OCS. Harris is so fast with his hands that before entering the service, he was "wanted" by the FBI—as a typist.

Fashion Notes

By EVA RULIFFSON

I just received word on the latest fashion for men. It seems to be especially popular around this campus and seems to be a fashion that will stick for quite some time to come. Well, anyhow, the outfits are fitted (?) and in some cases the blouses are the same color as the trousers. Get what I mean? Khaki.

I was recently reading a fashion article in which the author stated that during the war a woman should remember to be feminine in dress. How about that? Not bad.

CO-ED'S CHAOS

The rationing of gas

A 'survival of the fittest'.

Speaking of rides, we have heard that Don Crothers has devised a new and practical system of transportation to school mornings. He merely takes the overcrowded quarter-to-eight bus, and enters by the back door unnoticed. Some day, the bus will be empty, Crox, and then you'll have to pay.

Probing Professor Proves Premonitions

By RAY SEBENS

Professor Gene Eos (eos meaning bone, which this story will be cut to if it is ever printed) has set about to prove that women as well as men are wolves. He has decided that it is already an established fact that men are wolves. His line of reasoning is somewhat of a "maize". At times he amazes himself.

The general hypothesis, however, is that a wolf is usually considered to be in sheep's clothing. Since the reference is strictly to women, and a female sheep is commonly considered to be a ewe, all youse women must be wolves in youse's clothing.

Thereby, he proves his statement, by the deductive logic method, that all women are wolves.

Not to be outdone, however, a certain ingenious little man with horn rimmed eyes and a (draft?) number decided to prove this statement by another method. This odd fellow is generally known by the title of Quincy U. Ackchurage, P. O. T. (Paternal Order of Tradewinds), affectionately called "Quackpot" by his fellow inmates.

His procedure is strictly scientific.

Known facts: Women are cats; dogs and wolves come from the same family; cats don't get along very well with dogs; and women don't get along very well with themselves.

Conclusion: Women are wolves. Of course this is only theory, but it's up to the women to prove it.

Conclusion: Proven beyond a doubt.

One friendly AC lass, finding a uniformed man and herself waiting for the same, decided to add a new OC (fellow) to her list of acquaintances.

She asked, "How do you like our cold North Dakota winters?"

"Oh, I'm used to them now," he answered. "Lived here all my life." Well, well, if it wasn't Frankie Saunders in his ROTC regalia.

Conclusion: Not only are Co-eds beautiful and gay and witty and mysterious—but also DUMB.

"I am taking Nutrition so that I may be a Vitamin", observed a little-girl moron.

"So that you may be a vitamin?" questioned another little moron. "Whoever heard of anyone studying to become a Vitamin?"

"Well, for goodness sakes", drooled the first, becoming a bit exasperated at her friend, "Haven't you seen all these signs saying 'Vitamin B-1'?"

Stockstad Goes Calling

Botany Research Essential In Many Collegiate Courses

By ARNOLD STOCKSTAD

A very essential part of our college is the Department of Botany. The majority of students who have graduated have become acquainted with some course in Botany, either as a required subject or have chosen it as an elective. They realize that no curriculum is complete without some knowledge of plant science, which concerns every man in his struggle for existence. Now, during our troubled times, this knowledge has become a necessity and our Botany staff is doing all in its power to meet this increased demand on their facilities.

STAFF DEPLETED

"Need for skilled men in the field of biological science has caused our national government to draw heavily on our staff at this college and has thereby made its task more difficult to maintain an efficiently functioning department", states Dr. E. A. Helgeson, chairman and professor of the Botany department.

Dr. Helgeson came to NDAC in 1935, after completing work in agriculture at the Oregon State college and receiving his Doctor's Degree at the University of Wisconsin. It is interesting to know that Dr. Helgeson answered his country's call to the colors in World War I and then came back to start high school and continue on with his education at an age when most people would consider themselves too old to go to school.

STEVENS, NDAC GRADUATE

O. A. Stevens is Associate Professor and Associate Botanist in the Experiment Station. Mr. Steven received his Master's Degree from this college, and has been actively engaged here since 1909. R. E. Atkinson, botany instructor, has earned degrees at the University of Minnesota and Louisiana State college. At the present time, Mr. Atkinson is doing work leading to a Doctor's Degree in plant pathology from the University of Minnesota.

Dr. Warren Whitman, specialist in ecology, who has done extensive work in grass land study, is on leave of absence attending an officer's candidate school.

RESEARCH WORK NECESSARY

Life for an instructor is not a series of lectures, climaxed by a difficult examination and long after hours of pleasure and ease.

All science is advancing so rapidly that constant study and research work must be made to keep informed on developments in respective fields. Also, new methods are tried and if successful improved upon.

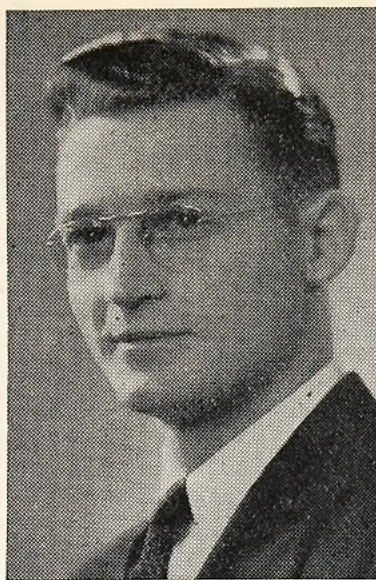

Dr. Helgeson is continuing the study of hydroponics, a new science which promises to revolutionize the plant industry by growing plants without soil. The now famous Drought Machine was also designed by Dr. Helgeson to study the effects of our North Dakota climatic conditions on various plants.

30,000 PLANTS FILED

The department has a file of over 30,000 plants that has been collected, identified and catalogued from almost all over the world. Mr. Stevens has done most of this work and he eventually hopes to have a complete file of all flora of North Dakota. He is also an authority on birds and insects, having conducted a bird banding station and discovered and identified several hundred species of insects. Mr. Stevens has a record of the first meadow lark reported each spring in this community dating back to 1909.

A green house is maintained in connection with the department for research work and use of the students in laboratory work. A large collection of rare and tropical plants is grown here. Of unusual interest is the banana plant that is blooming at the present time. This plant proves the old argument that the bananas do not grow pointing downward.

SPD President

LELAND APLIN, a senior in Mechanical Engineering, is the new president of Sigma Phi Delta fraternity. Other officers of the Greek group include Frank Trenbeath, vice president; John Hest, secretary; Harold Erickson, pledgemaster; Curtis Lindberg, chaplain; Don Charlesworth, guide; Warren Bakewell, historian; and Harold Young, house manager.

New pledge officers are Jim Werre, president; Kent Nymon, vice-president; and LeRoy Horpedal, secretary-treasurer.

Home Management House 'Cozy'

Eating dinner by candlelight, spending a long, winter evening in front of a crackly fire—sounds good, doesn't it? These are things that get to be routine for girls living at the Home Management House.

Every five-week's period, eight Home Economics students "move in" and "take over the place." They run the house, taking charge of everything from the basement to the attic.

To improve the appearance of the house each girl during her stay there has one project such as covering a chair, refinishing a table, or mending linens.

Their meals run from the sublime to the ridiculous, all according to their budget. To acquaint the girls with various food problems some days they allow seventy-five cents a person while at other times they have twenty-six cents each. So days of feasting are always followed by days of fasting at the Home Management House.

Victory Corps Conference Attracts Many Students

Over 300 teachers and students attended a regional conference Monday in the Little Country Theatre, discussing the High School Victory Corps program.

Dr. Elmer C. Darling, director of education at NDAC, was chairman.

The High School Victory Corps is intended to prepare boys and girls of high school age for a more suited and earlier participation in the war. There are five divisions in the Corps—Air, Land, Sea, Community Service, which includes nursing, teaching, medicine, etc., and Production Service consisting mainly of agriculture.

NOT EXTRA-CURRICULAR

This program is not designed to become an extra-curricular activity but will be a definite part of the high school course when adopted. Schools are not required to join but upon joining all students will become members. Uniforms will not be worn and administration will be entirely in the hands of local groups.

Production Service in agriculture as explained by Assistant Professor of Agricultural Education Shubel D. Owen "is a very vital part of the program. We have in North Dakota 73,000 farms, each one a war plant and our primary concern is to train high school students so that they will want to stay on the farm and not leave for some far-away manufacturing plant. Along with that a new plan has been released in vocational agriculture giving short courses for emergency farm workers."

URGES PHYSICAL PROGRAM

Miss Beatrice Wartchow, director of women's physical education at NDAC, stressed the need for "a program of at least five hours per week of physical education for all students. This may extend into the summer months. Women especially must have a well-planned program in order to be able to take the places of men who are no longer available. A complete health examination and strict adherence to maintaining the best physical fitness is necessary."

According to Dr. Darling one-third to one-half of all Home Economics and Arts and Science graduates are also physical education instructors and it is vital that they understand their part in the Victory Corps. The second in a series of bulletins giving full information on organization will be released this month."

Herd Faces Tough MSTC Cage Quintet On Tuesday

The Bison meet a 10-man-veteran MSTC cage club in the Teachers gym Tuesday night. Game time is set for 8.

Boasting five starters from last year, four other lettermen, one reserve and three outstanding freshmen—one an All-State performer in high school—the Dragons have no worries other than who will start. Mentor Roy Domek still hasn't announced his starting team with the MSTC opener slated for tonight against Jamestown college; tomorrow the Dragons trek to Wahpeton for a game with the Wildcats, whom the Bison defeated 52-25, Monday.

Returning lettermen are Captain Gordon Nelson, Bob Fielder, Bernard McQuire, Harold Erickson, Marvel Deike (all regulars from last year), Tony Malfeo, Floyd Garven, Richard Forseth and Bob Bruns. A tenth veteran, Jim Rude, failed to win a letter last year.

Outstanding yearlings include Wally Solien, All-State, Colly Olmstead and Roy Rustad.

(Editor's Note: This will be the last chance for Bison supporters to see their team in action until after Christmas. Get over to Moorhead on Tuesday and give the boys your support.)

Cobbers Win, 37-26

A veteran Concordia college basketball team, superior in every department, handed the Bison a 37-26 licking in the Moorhead Junior high gym Tuesday night. It was the first loss in two games for the Herd; for the Cobbers the game was their season debut.

Starting quickly in the first period, the Cobbers piled up a 12-4 advantage by the quarter; the Bison were never closer throughout the contest. Concordia led 21-10 at halftime.

The second half was played on even terms; each team scored 16 points. But the rapid pace set in the opening part of the game by the Cobbers proved too much for the Bison club to overcome.

The Cobber combine clicked in mid-season form, while the Herd floundered. Of 15 tries from the free throw line, the locals capitalized on but 4, while their opponents were successful in 7 out of 12 attempts.

Heard About The Herd

By OWEN LANGEN

"The boys should have learned a lot in that game," stated Bob Lowe after losing to Concordia, 37-26, Tuesday. "The Cobbers have a fine experienced club, and gave my boys a taste of real competition. They blocked well and had us completely out of the play many times. Just how much the Bison learned in that game remains to be seen."

* * * *

The only bright spot of the game from the Herd point of view was "Boney" Rothrock's lap around the floor during a time out. Midway in the third period Rocky, evidently stiff from riding the bench, jumped from his seat, stretched his legs, jogged around the gym, and again took his position on the bench.

The handful of NDAC rooters (yes, that's a dig at the student body) received a "large" laugh, the only enjoyment they had during the contest.

North Africa Discussed At Convo

Terming the Mohammedans as "fatalistic, fantastic and fanatical," Clarence W. Sorenson, former correspondent of CBS, spoke before NDAC students and faculty at a convocation Thursday. His topic was "North Africa."

Sorenson stated that "to Christians, Palestine is a holy land; to the Jews it is sacred; to Mohammedans, most sacred, for it was at Palestine that Mohammed died."

Pointing out that one-eighth of the world's population was Mohammedan, he declared that the people of North Africa have much to say about the outcome of the war, but as yet have remained neutral, as they have had unpleasant experiences with both sides and do not know which to support.

Sorenson spiked the theory that deserts were made up of sand by saying "Only 10 percent of the Sahara Desert is sand, the remainder being mountains and steppe land."

Navy Seeks Immediate Enlistment In V-1, V-7

Officers of the Fargo Navy recruiting office urge NDAC students who are planning to enlist in V-1 or V-7 to make immediate arrangements for enlistment. Even though students do not have the necessary papers in order, they are advised to report at once to the Navy office to declare their intentions and to be physically examined.

While no official information is available, it is believed that this warning comes in anticipation of possible changes in navy enlistment plans and it is hoped that all students will take advantage of this advice.

The Navy is especially anxious to enlist men immediately for flight training leading to Navy wings and an ensign's commission. Classes are filled for the next two or three months but they desire men to fill classes which begin flight training next summer and fall. Under this V-5 plan students may elect either immediate service or be deferred to the close of the present school year.
