Tau Delta Pi Elects Five As Members

Tau Delta Pi, honorary engineering fraternity, announces the following new members elected at a meeting Wednesday night.

William Ackerman, CE
Melvin Anderson, CE
Donald Gabe, CE
Morgan Hanson, ME
Leonard King, ME

Monday new members will be notified as to the time their technical papers are to be presented.

Y Groups Sponsor Joint Coffee Hour For Student Fund

A Thanksgiving coffee hour will be held Tuesday from 3:30 to 5:30 p. m. in Old Main lounge.

Sponsored by the YWCA and YMCA, this year's contributions will go to the World Student Service fund. This fund is to help students continue their education despite the war. Text books have been collected and sent to them. The first students helped were Chinese.

Genevieve Raisler is in charge of refreshments.

Editor Says '43 Yearbook To Be Printed

Glenn Gullickson, Bison editor, announces that the 1943 yearbook will be published as in the past and will be available to the student body about two weeks before school closes next spring. No theme has been selected and publicized by Gullickson although the size of the book has been designated.

"The 1943 Bison will have the same size page as the 1942 yearbook but will contain about fifty fewer pages," Gullickson stated.

Announcement of editorial staff organization meetings will be made soon.

Business Manager Vincent Mayoue has started his year's program of financing the publication, but will not announce advertising and business assistants until a later date.

Membership Drive Continues For Ys

You have on your campus the only college YMCA building in North Dakota.

With this as their sales talk, members of the YMCA and YWCA continued this week the joint membership drive of the two organizations.

Although the USO is now effectively using its rooms, the functions of the Y are progressing as extensively as in former years.

Active and contributing memberships are needed to enjoy the complete Y program of stag parties, motion picture lectures, coffee forums, "For Men Only" series.

Manager King Makes Announcement After Conference Held Thursday

NDAC's annual Military Ball, sponsored by Scabbard and Blade, national honorary military fraternity, and the biggest social event of the fall term, has been postponed by officials in charge until the winter quarter.

This announcement was made Thursday afternoon by Cadet Lieut. Leonard King, Ball Manager. The event had been set for Dec. 5, earlier in the week.

Officers of the Officer Candidate School, which is now using part of the Field house floor as sleeping quarters for candidates, had indicated that these men would be moved to accommodate the party.

However, after conferences with Lieut.-Col. Charles H. Hart, Jr., ROTC commandant, and Cadet Lieut. Elmer Anderson, president of Scabbard and Blade, King made the following statement:

"The Military Ball has been postponed until sometime during the winter term. We have decided that the OCS would be too inconvenienced by movement of personnel for a fall term date.

"Postponement of the Ball may disappoint many students but Scabbard and Blade promises to make the affair one to be remembered. Decorations will be limited this year, but the additional time will allow the committee in charge a better chance to develop possible themes."

Because of the uncertainty of the exact date of the Ball, King stated that no band has been signed to play. When the date has finally been set, Scabbard and Blade will bring in the best talent available, King continued.

Tickets were to have gone on sale on the campus today.

Capt. Bridgman Reports To NDAC Military Staff

Following 21 months of duty at Camp Wolters, Tex., Capt. Paul O. Bridgman, Jr., has been added to the teaching staff of NDAC's Military department, announces Lieut.-Col. Charles H.

Paper Plans New System

Inefficiency in the old "Grab-as-many-as-you-can" system of the Spectrum distribution has brought about action to revise circulation methods.

Yet in the formulative stage is an idea to construct a canopy near the main entrance to be used as the distribution center for the Spectrum and other campus publications.

It has been found that many students take more than their allotted share, thereby depriving others of their copies.

A member of the architectural engineering department is working on initial plans and specifications for the structure with financial assistance of the school needed before final measures can be taken.

It is hoped that by this new system conservation of much needed paper will be affected; also giving a more satisfactory service to the students. Support and cooperation of the student body in such an undertaking will be appreciated.

CAPTAIN BRIDGMAN

Hart, Jr., professor of military science and tactics.

Capt. Bridgman reported for duty this week.

A graduate of Oklahoma A. and M., Stillwater, Okla., in 1936, Capt. Bridgman is a native of Poteau, Okla. The Bridgman's have taken the residence at 1201 Fourteen avenue north and have a three-month-old baby.

Blue Key Initiates

At a Thursday evening dinner meeting, six new members, who were recently elected to Blue Key fraternity, were formally initiated into the active chapter.

The initiates include Richard Carley and Ellsworth Moe, both juniors, and William Nelson, Wallace Chase, Elmer Anderson and Harvey Coon, seniors.

John Kelly Named As Farm Manager

John Kelly, a graduate of the University of Minnesota School of Agriculture, has been named as farm superintendent of the college and Experiment Station, announced Dean H. L. Walster, today.

C. M. Swallers, who has held the position of farm superintendent, will devote full time to the Experiment Station as Assistant Agronomist. Mr. Kelly and family will live in the college farmhouse.

Expansion Causes Movement Of Entomology Department

By ARNOLD STOCKSTAD

NDAC's Department of Entomology finds itself in new quarters this fall after expansion and increased demands on its personnel necessitated a "moving day."

Originally the department was on the third floor of Morrill hall. During the past summer, the department was moved to the second floor of Francis hall. Rooms have been provided for an office, a large museum and a well-lighted laboratory (a break for the students).

DR. MUNRO CHAIRMAN

Well qualified and competent, the staff boasts of three Ph. D's which were earned within the last year. Dr. J. A. Munro, chairman and professor of Entomology, came to this school in 1926. He has taken work in his field at the Ontario Agricultural college, Kansas State college and received his Doctor's Degree from the Cornell University this last summer. Dr. H. S. Telford, assistant entomologist of the college and experiment station; Dr. F. Gray Butcher, extension entomologist and plant pathologist; and Mr. Oscar Pearson, representative of the United States Bureau of Entomology, working in cooperation with the college and experiment station, complete the staff.

The department has a museum of about 8,000 species of North Dakota insects and is being constantly enlarged. Many of the species have been sent in by farmers all over the state for identification, by students who have found new species in their laboratory work, and Prof. O. A. Stevens has collected many hundred specimens.

USE UNIQUE METHOD

In laboratory instruction, a very unique method is used. Insects for study are placed in Riker Mounts. This mount gives the life history, habits and control of that particular insect.

It Makes Your Mouth Water

Just imagine a tasty chopped beef or chicken salad sandwich with a mountain of golden brown, crisp shoestring potatoes. These items are featured at the Powers, along with many other dishes that AC students like to eat when they have lunch after a dance or show.

You, you, and you might as well get used to this chatter because I expect to ramble on for weeks to come. Sure the title was pilfered from Lt. Hartlein's classic crack, but heck, it had to come from somewhere!

RUMOR DEPT:

Course to be shortened - - - BALONEY! Fargo to toss a swellegant "feed" for the entire student body of OCS—Could be! These Fargoans are nice like that—best part of it is that after having turkey stuffed with sage we won't have to listen to a "sage" stuffed with turkey.

Gals! Those trousers, dungarees, etc, are all very patriotic, but, Gee, do you have to wear them on Saturdays and Sundays? Army men like their girls feminine—nuf sed! If NDAC's football team had the backing all season that they had at the homecoming game and played as well—they'd have been bowl material—well, a small bowl, anyhow! The prices of uniforms when you get your bars—OUCH! CLASSIC COMMAND: "One step forward to the left—MARCH!" Saturday is Migration Day here for all the men migrate to Fargo. For what? ? ? Class III at a glance reminds one of the Supreme Court before FDR made the changes.

Texas would easily be the most popular state here if put to a vote. There seems to be that many here from the Lone Star state. There's something nice about the way the KP with the "Upsweep" dispenses food; the one with the smile and 3 stars makes us feel that she is really in the army—they're for her brothers. 'Tis odd that with those assorted dish towels, 'kerchiefs, scarfs or pillowcases, the girls, by tying them on their head correctly still manage to look cute. 'Sfunny no one has told the girls to come down instead of looking down from the windows of Ceres hall at noon. Candidate Rafferty made plenty at the piano and for a good cause last week, but since the SPECTRUM'S article hasn't touched a note, why? Congrats to Candidate Beuke, the Cadence Counting Commando, for getting that merit for being that good as Bn. Comdr. He found out that Candidate Davis, J. E. was an old schoolmate. Candidate Ewing does a beeyutiful dance in Rec Aud daily about 12:45 p.m.

by Candidate Davis, Sir

Candidate Steward's delivery of the Bulletin gets me homesick. Can't help but like the way Candidate Sitomer's body sways when he jives on the piano. Candidate McQueen is all out to save his hair. Candidate Gilead, Brooklyn Bambino, Lord High Mayor of the SLL Squad, led a lovely trio composed of himself, Candidate Hodges and Selto which was - - - Yeah, that's right! Why do they call Candidate Herrington "DEEML, THE GREAT?"

Swains Advised

With pledging and mid-terms over and with the assurance that college will continue, students are finding more time to deal with campus problems. One that has confronted sororities and fraternities is the visiting hours of sorority houses.

With a couple hundred new freshmen men in school eager to pay their respects to the fairer sex, comes the ignorance of standard campus rules and regulations made by representative college boards. Not only the freshmen, however, can be held guilty. Upper classmen have been known not infrequently to show their presence in a sorority house before or after the specified hours of 4 to 8 p.m.

If at 2:30 in the afternoon, freshman Joe College and associates burst enthusiastically into a sorority house anticipating a chat with some charming pledge, how embarrassing and disappointing the situation may become when some active firmly informs Joe of the rules and gently eases him out the door. In such a case the embarrassment falls on poor Joe. But on the other hand, if the sorority fails to enforce the visiting hours the embarrassment would fall on the sorority, especially if the originators of the rule happen to be told of the violation.

Right now is the time for freshmen (and some upper classmen) to learn their do's and don'ts around the campus.

The hours from 4 to 8 p.m. must be remembered and practiced as visiting hours for sorority houses.

McMahon On Roll With 2.88 Average

Lucille McMahon, sophomore in Applied Arts and Sciences, was erroneously omitted from the spring term honor roll published in last week's Spectrum. Miss McMahon achieved a 2.88 average during the spring term.

Scribe Invades Writers' Dive

Do you often wonder where and in what atmosphere a paper of this type is put out? You don't? Oh well, there are always kill-joys in this world. You don't have to read the paper. Hey, come back here. Don't take me literally. Think what the boys in the army have to go through! Soft, isn't it?

INFORMATION GIVEN

The following information is coming to you through the courtesy of one of Rulon's Rugged Rathole Residers (You know what you find in ratholes, don't you?). By rugged, I mean they look tough, awfully tough.

This is an exclusive type of paper, so you can be sure that the information is typical of the country as a whole (and this place is a hole). The number of typewriters, however, is overwhelming. We have five beautiful Underslung. Of course, the fact that only one of them works doesn't mean anything. They look very businesslike, to say the least. (Continued to Page 6)

Deanie's Diggin's

By ALDEANE HOGAN

There's something about a turkey That's gallant, brave and true— So, remember, as you take a bite He gave up his life for you!

Next Thursday is Thanksgiving. No doubt you will enjoy as usual a big turkey dinner in the safe, comfortable atmosphere of your own family circle. Do you stop to think of many whose only friends or relatives may be many miles away? The men in uniform? Why don't we all prove how grateful we are for our many blessings by sharing them with others. Numerous Fargo families have invited as Thursday guests two or more officer candidates. One individual has asked as many as seven. Fraternities too are making ready for guests—planning entertainment and delicious meals to make the boys feel at home. Let's do our part by having at least one uniformed guest at our Thanksgiving dinner.

Quite a riot was caused in Lorraine Fitjar's speech class on Thursday when energetic members organized a "Good of the Order" club to investigate the liquor situation. Grand Forks was nominated as a logical convention center but because of travel difficulties, it will now be in Moorhead. One wide-awake individual who, we might say was looking out for his own interests as well as those of humanity, suggested a field trip to the Aquarium. As the motive of the course is to learn by experience, the motion was unanimously passed, and reservations were made for next Tuesday evening. True appreciation of the arts was expressed by Gene Bolger at the presentation of "Little Women," the other night. Not only did he whistle and applaud when Janie made her entrance, but he also sent her a lovely corsage.

If you don't want to be confronted by two or three husky soldiers accusing "Hey, lug, can't you read?" better stay out of the military half of Science hall. Students should use the door not marked "For Collegiate Personnel Only."

Scared Frosh Fill Craniums

With weeks of work left undone, the poor little freshie witnessed for the first time a college mid-term exam, or rather his first college failure.

With teeth chattering, knees knocking and a good scratch of the head the "freshie" sickly took his seat hoping that the teacher misplaced the questions.

NO SUCH LUCK

Chewing hungrily on his pencil (too excited to eat breakfast) he gazed around at his fellow students who were frantically trying to find some notes that would help answer the third question.

Finally the teacher said to start, so---oo the freshie wrote his name. The next fifteen minutes he figured out what class he was in and by the end of the period he had his paper complete with name, class, and date.

"Gee, that's not bad. I'm really getting along swell!"

FEELS PROUD

So with a proud air he dashed up to the front of the room, put his paper on the desk and left a hard day's work behind him.

Little Women

Features Versatile Flowers

"Hey, wake me up when Truesdell comes in!"

"These plays should have shorter acts and longer intermissions." "Pardon me, while I go out and have a smoke."

These are only a few of the unfair criticisms passed around at the Little Country Theatre Tuesday evening, where "Little Women" was being presented as the first term play.

Not only was the play ably directed by Lorraine Fitjar, but the cast was well-chosen and able to do a lot for the story. Chief cause for unfavorable comment was the juvenile adaptation of the play itself.

With some snappy or dramatic dialogue, Jean Baille could have done wonders with the part of "Jo". As it was, she had to make the best of the limited possibilities. Bev Halbeisen, perfectly suited to Mrs. March's characterization, was forced to abandon any hope of a really strong part, and plow along with the eighth grade version.

Placing such an array of talent in such a predicament was rather embarrassing. Ed Kassner would have made a terrific hit as Mr. Laurence, if his script hadn't compelled him to carry a bunch of yellow flowers with him continually.

George Truesdell, as the French professor Beret, deserves mention if only to state that his part reminded us of Barrymore reciting "Mary Had a Little Lamb".

Amy, the spoiled youngest daughter, Beth, pale, shy, and timid child, and Meg, sensible, eldest of the Little Women, were played by Jane Cumming, Polly Carter and Dorothy Monson, respectively. Each did a great deal towards making their characterizations live. "Bethy" even had two ladies in the audience sniffing when she decided to succumb from scarlet fever in the second act.

Deserving special mention is Chuck Martin, who played Laurie, boyhood sweetheart of Jo. His technique in the pleading love scene was charming. When Aunt March came blustering in, every body realized that Merrie Buchanan takes the cake when it comes to a good character part.

Aiding the presentation in humorous aspects was Mary Tilden as Hannah Mullet, faithful

Three Elected To Guidon; To Be Initiated Wednesday

Guidon, honorary auxiliary fraternity to the Scabbard and Blade, honorary military fraternity, Wednesday evening elected three junior girls to its organization.

They are:

- Jean Parizek
- Patricia Reimers
- Jean Ebeltoft

These members were elected to replace three others who were elected last spring but did not return to NDAC.

Members are chosen on the basis of personality and interest in military activities.

Along with the recently elected pledges six others, Esther Gunvaldsen, Virginia Elznic, Jean Mason, Polly Carter, Maxine Schlagel and Delight Whempner will be initiated Tuesday in the Gun room of the Field house.

The services will be conducted by Capt. Charlotte Bahe, assisted by First Lieut. Jean Hoeft.

Following the initiation service the group will sponsor a lunch to which members of the military department and Scabbard and Blade are invited.

Present active members include Capt. Charlotte Bahe, First Lieut. Jean Hoeft, Scribe, Elaine Wigdahl, 2nd Lieut. Eleanor Erdahl, Marjorie Nees Lindemann and Mildred Strong.

YMCA Discusses 'Social Usage'

Manners, etiquette and social behavior were discussed in the first of Miss Matilda Thompson's series on "Social Usage" last week.

It was agreed at the session that a knowledge of these subjects would aid a person throughout his life. Common mistakes and the correct form for these mistakes were pointed out.

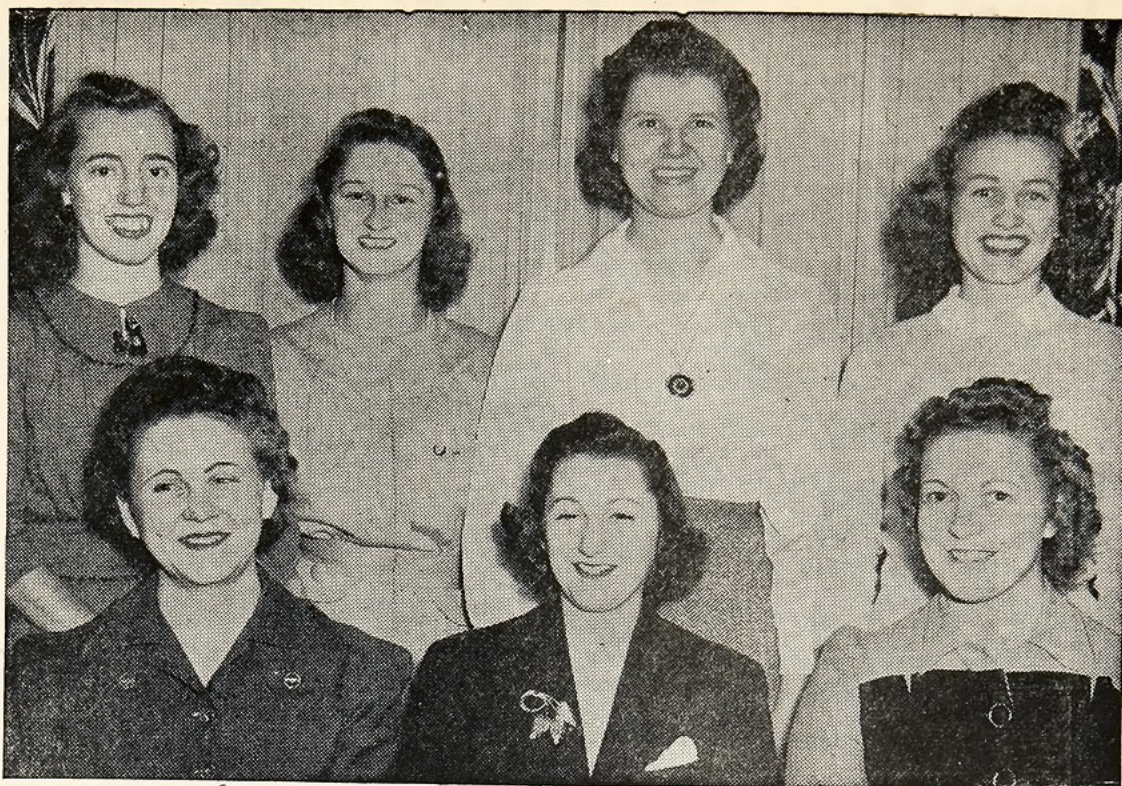

This series will continue in the near future, but the date has not been set.

AGR's Initiate Eight, Schedule Term Party

Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity initiated eight men into Epsilon chapter Sunday, Nov. 15. Those initiated included Norris Fagerlund, Kirk Bellows, Lee Christianson, Don Downey, Jim Noonan, Leslie Wilson, Bob Reimers, and George Ruud.

The fraternity's fall term party is scheduled to be held at the Fargo Country club Friday, Nov. 20. Dancing will be to Carl Colby and his orchestra from 9 to 12.

Phi Upsilon Omicron Initiates

These new members of Phi Upsilon Omicron, national honorary home economics fraternity at NDAC, were initiated recently in Festival hall.

Dona Thompson, president of the group, officiated.

ence Greenshields, Beth Ann Piers and Janet Peterson. Second row, Dona Jean Gunthorpe, Mary Warner, Mavis Nymon and Emma Skarpsno.

Members are chosen on basis of scholarship, personality, activities and professional attitude. (Cut Courtesy The Fargo Forum)

Life Saving Classes Begin On Tuesday

Classes in Red Cross junior and senior life saving will be offered weekly beginning Tuesday at 7 p. m. at the Central high school pool. They will be under the instruction of Mrs. Minnie Connolly, physical education instructor for Roosevelt Junior high school. The class is open to swimmers who are 16 years and over. Swimmers who are interested in qualifying for summer life guard jobs are especially urged to attend, also all the boys who are enlisted in some naval training program.

Fifty cents is charged for enrollment in the course, and 60 cents for the Red Cross text book. The fee will be exacted the first evening.

Junior and Senior Life guards and instructors are invited to come as often as possible to review the work without charge.

Services Planned For Thanksgiving

The annual YMCA Thanksgiving Worship Services will be conducted on Oct. 23, 24, and 25 in the East room of the Y at 7:30 a. m.

Members of the "Y" feel that students should be particularly thankful this year to be able to enjoy the benefits derived from this, the land of plenty. One of the best ways to express this thankfulness is in worship. Attendance to a service of this type will increase one's personal feeling of good will towards others.

All faculty members and students are urged to attend these services.

Sigs To Initiate Three On Sunday

Bob Yeasley, Ross Alm and Phil Thompson are going through hell-week before being formally initiated into the Gamma Tau chapter of Sigma Chi on Sunday morning.

All active members will attend church in a body Sunday morning. A dinner will follow at the chapter house in honor of the new members.

Recently pledged to Sigma Chi are Robert Dawson, Robert Nees, Bill Critchfield and James Poseley of Fargo; Earl Kendrick, New Rockford; Alvin Kramer, Ashley; Jerry Swenson, Moorhead; and Don Sampsel, Washburn.

Sigma Chi Will Hold Term Party Tonight

The members of the Sigma Chi fraternity will hold their term party tonight at the Moorhead Country club in honor of the new pledges.

John Finnie, social chairman for the group, announces that dancing will be from 9 until 12 p. m.

Chaperones will be Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Atkinson and Major and Mrs. Reynold E. Fredeen.

NOTICE

Spectrum reporters and all students who would like to work on the Spectrum editorial staff are asked to attend an important staff meeting in the Spectrum office, Science 112, Monday at 4.

Ag Students Taught Art Of Plowing

The observation that "there's usually more to a thing than meets the eye" can certainly be applied to such an old and common a practice as the art of plowing, students in the NDAC School of Agriculture are learning.

Dean H. L. Walster asked W. J. Promersberger, chairman of the agricultural engineering department, just what instruction agriculture students get in this basic farm practice. Promersberger's reply indicates that there is much more to the subject than most folks realize. His explanation follows:

"All students who select the course in Farm Machinery and Power make a special study of the plow. The work includes the plow bottom and its parts, types of plows, plow hitches and draft and plow adjustments. The material is first discussed in the classroom, and then the students adjust and align plows with tractors in laboratory and field. Related study includes laboratory and field work on big team hitches, implement hitches and draw-bar dynamometer tests."

Heard About The Herd

By OWEN LANGEN

This corner has received a good deal of heat from irate supporters of South Dakota State college regarding our comments on the Bison-Jackrabbit football game two weeks ago.

To these loyal Rabitt fans may we say that an apology has been sent to Coach Thurlow McCrady for the insinuation that he had a hand in the officiating. For that we are indeed sorry. BUT THAT'S ALL THE GROUND WE'LL GIVE!

As to the poor officiating and rough playing, we received our information from those who were at the game—players, etc.

Those who had any contact with the game whatsoever know that, with the score 8-0 at halftime, after Coach Bob Lowe had repeatedly asked for slugging penalties, the officials said they would call all infractions from that time on. Jim Gorman, Bison back, was tackled and in getting up was slugged; he grabbed the offender by the shirt—BOTH were put out of the game. Captain Harry Treglawney was roughed, and he, too, grabbed the offender—again BOTH were ejected.

The South Dakota State sports scribe terms the treatment given the Bison by the Bunnies "Razzing." Would you?

The charges that the Herd had to have some excuse on which to blame defeat are ridiculous! After losing three and tying one, the Bison should have little need for excusing another loss.

There's more fuel for the fire—will it continue to burn?

Convinced not to try to out-guess coming events, North Central Conference officials tabled until next spring action on 1943-44 schedules at its annual meeting held in Minneapolis Monday. Dr. O. O. Churchill, Bison Athletic Director, presided at the meeting.

Long basketball trips were cancelled and schedules were rearranged permitting more games to be played on each trip. The Bison will not meet Iowa State Teachers and Omaha according to present plans.

Churchill was succeeded by Prof. Rath, of Iowa State Teachers College, as president of the group.

Frosh Cagers Show Promise

Freshmen cage candidates have received the most attention during drills this week, according to Coach Bob Lowe. With no regulars back from last year's quintet and only seven returning varsity reserves and freshmen reporting, it is expected that the reserve burden will rest heavily upon the yearlings.

So far, Werre, of Moorhead, Polis and Rohs, of Fargo, and Nelson, of Fessenden, have shown the most promise among the first year men. Four games have been scheduled on the pre-holiday card, with the possibility of adding a couple more. The schedule thus far reads:

- ConcordiaDec. 3
 - MSTCDec. 8
 - MinnesotaDec. 19
 - Jamestown CollegeDec. 22
- All games before Christmas will be played away from home as it is not known when the Bison gym will be available.

Panhellenic Secretary Visits NDAC

Mrs. George Cunningham of Berkeley, Calif., national vice-president of Phi Omega Pi and secretary of national Panhellenic Congress, is a visitor on the NDAC campus today and Saturday.

Panhellenic members will meet with Mrs. Cunningham at 3:30 on Friday. She will be honored at a dinner at the Phi Omega Pi chapter house Friday evening. During the day she will conduct conferences with sorority officers.

Mrs. Cunningham is returning from a national Panhellenic Congress meeting held recently in Chicago.

Last year Mrs. Cunningham was national treasurer of Panhellenic Congress.

FIVE CHAIRS TOO

Five chairs sure add to the seating capacity, too, but I never did like chairs without backs. I'm just kiddin', kids, they have too got backs, but sometimes I wish there was a middle in said back. They're animated, too. One fellow last week stood too close to one of them, and it jumped right at him. He never came back. I sure would like to see those pretty legs of his again, too.

Don't anyone take me seriously, though, please. We all love this little office. We wouldn't feel at home if a couple pins weren't out of place. The only thing is, we haven't even got a pin cushion. Of course, there's always another woman to hang your pin on.

But, getting back to the subject, a newspaper writer has gotta have the environment to write a story. Now you see what makes the mighty "Spectrum". Goodbye, cruel world, here comes Rulon.

Prairie Pest Finds Eastern Friend

The lowly Russian thistle, pest of the prairie, has finally found a friend!

A letter to the NDAC Experiment Station last week from a research worker at the University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, Pa., asked that a living Russian thistle plant be sent there by air express. The letter went on to state that the thistle plant was needed in order to conduct experiments on plant diseases.

O. A. Stevens, NDAC botanist, was forced to reply, however, that a thriving thistle could not be forwarded. The severe weather of late has completely frozen even this hardy plains plant.

But Stevens did the next best thing. He sent some Russian thistle seed. He advised the eastern experimentalist to grow some thistle of his own.

Obstacle Course Nears Completion

With four barriers remaining to be built, NDAC's obstacle course will be completed toward the end of next week, states E. E. Kaiser, physical education instructor.

Kaiser, with his crew of workmen, has been working on the course the past week. At present the four barriers that have not been completed are the inverted "V" ladder, "V" trough, zig-zag run and the hand-over-hand travel.

There is also a possibility that a rope swing across a ditch will be added later.

GPB's Party Tonight

Pledge members of Gamma Phi Beta sorority at NDAC will be honored at a party Saturday night in Festival hall. Jean Bailie is in general charge. Chaplains will be Major and Mrs. R. E. Fredden and Captain and Mrs. Paul O. Bridgman.
