Joint Board To Explain Reserve Plans

Five branches of the armed services will be represented on a joint officer board which will be on the campus Oct. 12 and 13. The board will not be here for the purpose of enlisting students in the various reserve programs, but will merely explain the different programs of each of the services.

Ranking officers representing the army, army air corps, navy, navy air corps and marines will advise students as to how they may enter a service reserve and continue in school as prospective officers.

The presence of army and army air corps officers on the board is a direct indication that the war department has no intention of discontinuing its enlisted reserve program.

No enlistments will be made by this first board, but arrangements will be made for the enlistment of interested students.

E. Murray Schaezel, personnel director, and Lieut.-Col. Charles H. Hart, Jr., ROTC commandant at the college, will handle local arrangements.

Tentative plans announced yesterday for a general convocation for all men students. The officers will explain their respective programs thoroughly during the 1½ hour convocation. One naval officer will explain the navy's V-7 programs while another naval representative will discuss the V-5 and Coast Guard programs.

The remainder of the day and all of Tuesday, Oct. 13, will be arranged so that officers may individually discuss individual problems and questions with students.

Col. Raymond W. Briggs, civilian components officer for the seventh service command informed NDAC officials of the board's itinerary and First Lieutenant Glenn L. Bennett will be officer in charge of the board, the seventh service command's board No. 1.

Blue Key Selects Three At First Summer Election

For the first time since it was originally organized at NDAC, Blue Key, national honorary service fraternity met during the summer term and selected and initiated new members.

Basing its selections on scholarship, character, and leadership ability the fraternity elected and initiated three men.

President's Message

World War No. II has come to the campus of the North Dakota Agriculture College. Already over five hundred of our former students and graduates are enlisted in the armed forces of the United States. Some have already made that supreme sacrifice which is always a part of war. The campus will house a thousand men in Officer Candidate School No. 1. Before the winter is over, every able-bodied boy will, in all probability, be a member of one of the enlisted reserve groups.

So terrific and so extreme are the requirements of this gigantic effort that opportunities are opening for girls, the like of which we have never known before. Some of our fine young women have joined the WAVES and the WAACs. Many others are preparing for those active and helpful duties which only a woman can perform in connection with our all-out effort. Nutritionists, dietitians, and technicians of all types are being recruited from the ranks of those who finish the work in home economics and the related branches.

Students are being advised, as never before, to take work in the sciences to prepare themselves for practical applications of physics and mathematics, and to look forward to a long-range program of life planning that will carry them through the days of the mighty conflict into a peace time that will utilize their best talents and their best abilities.

This is the back-drop against which I bid you welcome to your college in 1942. The picture that I have held before you is grim and enacting. Down the vista of the days ahead are the millions of opportunities that will be afforded you to serve your country, your fellow man, and your God. May this year be the most profitable in your whole experience. May we all put aside the pettiness, the questionings, the indifferences, and the intolerances which have, heretofore, cloyed our vision and motivated our actions.

With all of us united in the common goal of providing a better way of life for America and, through America, for the rest of the world, let us continue with unabated enthusiasm for those unseen goals which are just ahead. If we can keep our faith, our confidence, and our loyalty, there can be no question but that the Victory will be ours. To this end we must dedicate our lives.

Glider Pilots To Train For Army At NDAC

NDAC has been designated as a center for the training of glider pilots for the army air corps, announces Prof. H. S. Rush, coordinator for the Civil Aeronautics Authority at the college.

The first 8-week period of training will begin on Monday, Oct. 12, and a new course will start every 2 months after this date, Rush says. Men between the ages of 18 and 37 are eligible. There is no formal education requirement, although each applicant must pass a screening test before he is accepted for training. In general, a high school graduate should be able to pass the test.

This new phase of the civilian pilot training program at NDAC is designed to give primary flight instruction. The course will include 30 hours of ground school work and 5 hours of actual flight training each week for 8 weeks.

The federal government pays for board and room and for accident and sickness insurance amounting to $3,000 while the glider students are in training, Rush points out. All class work will be given in the School of Engineering at NDAC, and the flight instruction will be given by competent teachers at Fargo's municipal airport, Hector Field.

'College a Privilege' Dr. Eversull Tells Entering Freshmen

"College will be a privilege for a few. Not financially, but intellectually." President Frank Eversull told freshmen at a general assembly opening orientation on Thursday.

"New students will face a new world and college life will not be usual. Activities will be directed into new channels.

"The cry today is for an

adjusted manpower. You must strive to make yourself valuable in the all out conflict.

"Vast curricular changes will be necessary in preparation for a conflict that may last eight years," the president warned.

"College students are playing their part in this war by staying in school. The nation needs brains. You are 'candidates for intelligence'."

"Spiritual realities must not be forgotten and are an important phase," Dr. Eversull said.

150 Campus Sisters Aid Incoming Freshmen

More than 150 campus sisters turned out to aid freshmen girls during registration, and orientation this week end.

Under the sponsorship of the YWCA the program is traditional at the college.

Bernice Wichmann is chairman of the YWCA committee in charge of the program. Aiding her are Maxine Schlagel, Betty Tuneberg, Connie Williams, Beverly Halbeisen, Wilma Aney, Jean Parizek and Donna Jean Gunthorpe.

The "sisters" will continue to help the new students make adjustments throughout the year.

NEWMAN CLUB MEETS

NDAC's Newman club, Catholic Youth organization, will meet Sunday at 7:30 p. m. in the Knights of Columbus Hall at 222 Broadway.

NDAC's opening-day registration mark totaled 416 last night as staff members prepared to continue freshmen and transfer students' enrollment and begin upperclassmen registration today and tomorrow.

A. H. Parrott, college register announced that no real comparison could be made with last year's opening-day figure since registration this term is scheduled on a somewhat different basis—that is the upperclassmen start today where as in years previous, all classes began registration the same day.

Transcripts received in the Registrar's office had indicated a normal freshmen enrollment but it is expected that the final total of students registering for the fall quarter will be below last year's total because of wholesale withdrawal of upperclassmen.

Officer School Opens On Campus With Brief Exercise

Ceremonial exercises Monday morning Sept. 21 stimulating regular army "orders of the day" officially opened Officer Candidate School, No. 1, of the Army Administration Schools at North Dakota Agriculture College.

Soldier candidates arrived in Fargo Thursday, Sept. 17 and the entire group was settled in Barracks No. 1 (formerly the men's residence hall). Practically all of the army personnel, including staff officers and instructors, has arrived. First classes for the officer candidates will be held Monday following the opening exercises.

Col. H. C. Holdridge of Fort Washington, Md., father of the army's administration schools, was the official representative of the War Department at the exercises Monday morning and gave the principal address. Other persons who spoke included President Eversull, Merle Kidder of Towner, president of the State Board of Higher Education, Major J. W. Mann, director of instruction at the army school, and Lt. Col. P. G. Nevitt, present commanding officer of the school.

In one month another contingent of 335 candidates will arrive for training, followed a month later by the third and final group of 335. The total enrollment of the army school will reach 1,000.

"Doc" Has Birthday

C. S. "Doc" Putnam, director of NDAC Gold Star Bands since 1904, celebrated his 83rd birthday on Wednesday, Sept. 16.

Still "feeling fine," Doc expects to organize the 1942-43 NDAC band within a few days. When queried in the prospects for this year's band, "Doc" replied: "I'll have to use more girls this year, since many of the men students are now in the army. But we'll have a good band again."

● Welcome Frosh!

Although each day brings something new in these times the last arrival has been you—the new freshmen, welcomed with interest and sincere cordiality by the upperclassmen. Some of you, we know, have been working hard at various places scattered across the country; some of you probably have just returned from pleasant vacations but regardless of the past you are now a part of the student body at NDAC and we heartily welcome you.

Once you are through with the everlasting puzzle of registration, which, by the way, has stumped the best of men and if accomplished in less than three trying days and sleepless nights will probably bring you a quick Ph.D., you may have a chance to see the campus. We hope you will take full advantage of the orientation programs and come to know us and our school—yours and mine—as quickly as possible. Probably the best way in which to accomplish that is to dig right in and make this school and its activities a going concern.

One may well feel privileged to attend college today when in most parts of the world youth is staging the largest part of the fight for freedom. As yet we are allowed to continue our education—our life as it has been normally conducted and the wisest will make the best possible use of it by participating in their academic and extra-curricular work to the fullest extent. College is far from a bed of roses but most of them have found it to be rather enjoyable and we hope that you will enjoy it with us.

Today colleges and universities are operated primarily for the purpose of training and educating men and women alike for war activities—a somewhat discouraging but very necessary function. However, it may not be as discouraging as it seems for those of us that make the most of college life and studies today will reap as well as sow the benefits in the years to come, when the entire world will need the best possible teachers and scientists to set the normal machinery of living in working order. That is why we welcome you and invite you to pitch in and help make this school the best that it has ever been. And may we add an encouraging note? To the men we might say that we heard of a girl last week that still prefers civilians, and to the co-eds we might add that there are still a few left who can pass the draft board without causing them to start rubbing their hands together, but, at any rate, we're glad to know you and will be happy to see you around.

Whempner And Bos'ns Hit Nation's Headlines

Headlined above the Waacs and the Waves this week was a new organization with strong attachments to NDAC.

Delight Whempner, home economics junior, was publicized by the Associated Press throughout the nation as president of the new initial organization, the BOS'NS, known fully as Beauty Organized to Serve the Navy. The Bos'ns, whose name approximates the pronunciation of boatswain, a naval non-commissioned officer, achieved sudden nationwide fame for their plan to build and maintain high morale among American sailors.

The club was the idea of another former NDAC student and former Fargo Forum cameraman, Dick Olson, who now wears a navy uniform as yeoman, third class, in the Fargo navy recruiting station.

Striving to show America's sailors that there is someone at home interested in their welfare, the Bos'ns are working out a program which will include entertainment of recruits before they leave the recruiting station and a systematic letter-writing program between the members of the club, all feminine, and sailors on every ocean of the world.

Any man enlisting in the Fargo navy recruiting station can sign his name next to that of any Bos'ns listed in the register, and the club will arrange correspondence between them.

Bos'ns are being instructed in accepted letter-writing practice, avoiding the artificial "dear sweetie" form.

Bos'n chapters have been organized at Fargo, Mandan, Minot, Dickinson, Grand Forks, Lincoln, Neb., and Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Jobs Available For Students

There were never more opportunities for students to work their way through college, say NDAC officials, than there are this year.

E. Murray Schaezel, director of student employment, believes the demand for student workers will far exceed the supply during the 1942-43 school year. This situation will prevail, he thinks, because of the larger number of jobs and the fewer number of students who indicate they need to work this year. Even last year there were a few more jobs than students to take them, but this year the demand over supply will be greater, Schaezel says.

Dr. Frank L. Eversull, NDAC president, announces that the army officers training school at NDAC will employ 20 to 25 students as messenger boys and in other jobs. This opportunity for students to earn part of their way through college is an added one, he says, and other regular employers such as hotels, restaurants, retail stores, warehouses and offices will need even more student help this year than before.

New War Courses Now Being Offered By Correspondence

Several new courses designed to train people in vital fields where shortages now exist and which are essential to the war effort have been added to the program offered by the Division of Correspondence Study at NDAC, announces T. W. Thordarson, state director.

Training by correspondence may now be obtained in blue print reading, physics, chemistry, meteorology, aviation, shop mathematics, home nursing, farm machinery management and repair, shorthand and Spanish as a result of the organization of new study programs, Thordarson says. Other new courses include entomology, horticulture, economic geography, home decoration and beautification, general home management, painting, diseases of farm animals, cartooning and Bible study.

Established courses vital to the war effort which may be taken by correspondence include carpentering, blacksmithing, gas and Diesel engines, and numerous agricultural, home economic and commercial subjects. High school students, out-of-school youth and adults may enroll in any of these
