Open Meeting Draws Interest

Speaches, short comments, ques tions, and political maneuvers were all in order Wednesday afternoon when the Student Commission met in open session and the subject of a new constitution for the Commission was kicked from one end to the other of the lobby outside Dean Dinan's office in Old Main. Present besides the members of the commission were close to a dozen interested students and Pres. F. L. Eversull.

After everyone had had a chance to voice their opinions on the weak-nesses of the old set-up and the faults of the proposed document, a volunor the proposed document, a volun-tary committee of eight members was elected by John Fisher, commis-sion president. ### Japanese Jitters

American interests during the past week have been quick-ly turned to the far East where Japan has made a move toward British and American possessions that may possibly prove serious. Japanese action seems to fit nicely into the Axis state of affairs.

Nazi activities have continu-ally aimed at a splitting up of the British forces; an unfore-seen attack from Nipponese armies on the great base at Singapore would assist in further crippling of the English forces. From appearances Germany seems to have prompted Japan to quick action, with reassur-ance as to Soviet neutrality, in order that British interests as well as American would be at-tracted from the European theater of war.

However, Japan's recent state-ment to England and the United States that she does not want any hostilities with either the British or the Americans, seems at first sight to alleviate the seriousness of the situation. On the other hand, the statement may be for the purpose of allaying the fears of the Japanese people as well as for partially removing responsibility for future entanglements. After such a declaration of peaceful intent, any encounters with either England or the United States could be easily placed on the shoulders of her western adversaries.

Japan's more recent advance toward the French Indo-China possesions to the south show that her own actions are not an possesions to the south show that her own actions are not en-tirely peaceful although she first stated that English mass-ing of troops at Singapore did not appear to be "a symbol of peaceful intent."

It is difficult to determine the exact intent of the Nipponese; however, there is one thing that British and American people should remember: even after a 43 month war with China, Japan's forces are not to be considered lightly.

Those who are distressed at hav-ing their photographs greeted with mirth and comments such as "It looks just like you", can no longer claim that the photographer simply didn't catch them at their best.

The button switch, substituted for the usual bulb, is an invention of X. X. Schram, who has mirror photography studios at 2½ Broadway.

down our roll, they hand us a little slip that represents, among other things, an investment in a college paper. Yes, it seems that we are spending about four cents a week for our interest in the pile of pulp they haul out to the campus every Friday morning. It's a free country, we all feel important when we can be critics, and we want our four cents worth or else. When two weeks roll by and neither we, our pals, nor even Elmer rates any space in the darn thing, it's hardly worth the time to walk over to Old Main to get it.

Page one isn't too bad, as a rule: page two we would crab out about a dollar's worth on; Blake, Boldt, and a bunch of sorority women—the same old crowd week after week, and you can count 'em on your fingers. No representation, that's what. Pages three and four tell what Borderud did in his spare time last week and what the Bison did that we can write home about. Let's stop and think this thing over.

In the first place, if we ever picked up a Spectrum and approved of every inch of copy, we'd be almost certain that something was wrong. Right! No two of us are alike, and they can't please any two of us equally well by praising or publishing only one. (Cracker-barrel philosophy). Maybe the paper can't please us all the time. If it does, it surely won't please these people we can't see eye to eye with. They say the boys like Pete Lewis' sport stuff pretty well. The Tradition-

When we tangle with the U tonight, NDAC's only legitimate tradition will truly have been broken. A white haired but energetic youngster who had coal black hair when they played the first one will be missing his first series of games between the two institutions. "Doc' Putnam is away to a bandmaster's convention and we're left carrying the torch. That's quite a responsibility. "Doc' is a hard guy to let down."

Hobby Week-

Worthy enterprise, indeed, is the NDAC's annual hobby contest. Sort of surprised you, didn't it, when you saw what some of the boys trumped up in their spare time? Inspirational as well as educational, that's what. For those who hanker for the hobbies that produce the laughs, the forthcoming presentation of You Can't Take It With You is presented. If you are the type that goes for the Tarzan are the type that goes for the larzan stuff there'll be some of us swinging in the rafters of the bird cage up North this week-end. Don't admit anything until we get ahead on the score board, and then gently remove the roof and bring it back with you.

Dear Bud:

I just completed a post-mortem of the last letter I got from you and am still positive that there is no dough in it. I supthere is no dough in it. I sup-pose that was just a little over-sight of your secretary, eh chump? Well listen, dough-head, either I get that money by the end of next week or I notify the proper authorities that Butch took five week's allowance from you in one poker game.

Went down to the Crystal Ball-

Went down to the Crystal Ball-room last Wednesday night to a dance. It's about five times as big as the auditorium at home, if you can imagine that. I sure met a screwy dame. I went up to her and asked her for a dance and she said it was Lent. I asked her who horrowed it and she got her who borrowed it and she got madder'n a hornet. These down-town babes fool me plenty.

Am catching a ride up to the U tonight for the game. One of the boys has got me all fixed up with a sorority gal from up there but I ain't too exited about it. I've heard a lot about Whitey's I'd like to see that place. Don't forget about that money, dead-beat. Love,

-Elmer.

When the train arrived in Fargo, railway freight cars lying on their sides as a result of a recent tornado and Indian braves in feathered, fulldress regalia sitting near the depot were the first impressions Dr. Waldron had of his new residence. Ini-mediately his thoughts returned to a letter recently received from his mother in Michigan warning him not to go to that "awful" place of Fargo, with its dangerous tornados and the Indians. Dr. Waldron's work for the first years as a member of the NDAC staff was to make a botanical survey of North Dakota, and the collection made at that time was the basis of the present college herbarium in the botany greenhouse.

Bison Begin Crucial Cage Series Tonight

By PETE LEWIS

Formal war will be declared between NDAC and upstate normal tonight at 7:45 o'clock in the Nodak armory when Bob Lowe's Bison basketball team faces Clem Letich's Sioux cagers in the first game of the annual four-tilt classic, upon which again this year rests the Herd's NCI title hopes.

Captain Larry Tanberg, Swede Johnson, Cliff Nygard, Johnny Abbott and Jim Fletcher will be in

Cliff Nygard again proved his aggressiveness, although he added only three points to the Bison scoring, while Lloyd Fercho, Paul Odonvich, and Bob Yeasley were able to find the hoop more than once. The little junior guard's lone counter, however, was a beautiful short shot after he

With the first two games to be played on the Nodak's home court, the NDAC quintet has a tough row to hoe now that the Sioux team has reached its scoring peak. The Herd must take three out of the four games in order to obtain undisputed claim to the conference crown.

The Bison are tied in first place with the Iowa Teachers Panthers of the boys from across the river.

Who play their last NCI game of the Big Arnold Johnson was the main who play their last NCI game of the season tomorrow night against Morn-

Big Arnold Johnson was the main factor in the Bison scoring although Tom Amberry, Cobber freshman star, did a fine job of guarding the Herd's leading point-getter. The Bison center dropped in eight counters from the floor and added seven free throws to give him a total of 23 points for the evening. Jim Fletcher was secured. Whether the Herd can capture three games from the Letichmen is a big question. If Captain Tanberg is hindered by his injured foot, the Sioux have a good chance not only to split the series but take an additional game as well.

Sioux Floor Small

With the Bison captain in there assisting the tall AC center and Jim Fletcher, sophomore sensation, the Herd has a better than even chance to come through withstanding the fact that the first two contests are to be played on the small Sioux floor.

As to what the experts say, the smart-money-men talk out of the corner of their mouths to the effect that the out-of-town floor is good for eight to 10 points for the home team. The same bookies, who haven't missed many this season, favor the Sioux in the series.

Bison Work Together

The Bison work together as one machine. If any unit is missing, the rest of the squad is apt to be thrown off. Thus the absence of Tanberg would tend to toss a monkey wrench in the Herd's precision.

If the Bison are really on, nothing can stop them. It has been proven that even if the Lowemen do not click as a unit, their shooting will pull them through.

The NDAC basketball team, strong, has been thrown into high gear for this series. It is the last NDU series in which the Bison's captain will participate in, and as a result, the remainder of the team will be trying twice as hard. The Herd was thwarted last year by split-The ting the classic, resulting in a conference tie between the Bison and South Dakota State.

Starting Nodaks

Most likely in the opening line-up for the NDU five will be Fred Gran, Bruce Stevenson, Orrnan Hom-me, Arnie Alger and Kenny Lutgen.

Gran is the big gun of the Sioux offense. Rivaling Swede Johnson in size, he, coming in late in the sea-son from the inelibility trail, has rapidly come up in the scoring column. Stevenson and Homme make up the remaining bulk of the Nodak's scor-ing threat. The latter has displayed unusual form this year breaking into the field goal department more against South Dakota State than in any three games last season.

It is possible that both teams will be hot on their shooting, and if so the scorers will have a busy jog for when two high-scoring, dead-eye teams get together the fireworks are sure to be touched off.

With only three more weeks to go before the intramural bowling league comes to an end, it looks as though the champions may be the keglers from Theta Chi. The OXs took the lead at the beginning and have held it just about all the way. They showed their good intentions by winning three more games this week.

One change was made in the sea-son's records. Chuck Follett, anchor man for the OXs, turned in a three game total of 558 to break Bill Guy's game total of 358 to break Bir Gdy's record by only three pins. Fercho's 221 is still tops in the individual single game class. The Y holds the honors of high single game for team with 864, and the Sigma Phi Delt's 2510 is still good for the highest total for team series.

Bison Frosh Meet Sioux

Coach Johnny Smith will take his tomorrow to play the first of a twogame series between these two traditional rivals at 3 o'clock in the Sioux armory.

The Baby Bison boast a good record, having won all their games so far this season. Tuesday night, the Yearlings finally won a hard-earned victory over the Concordia college Frosh five 29-25.

Smith has spent a lot of time and energy on the freshmen this year. In former seasons, frosh squads have had the job of scrimmaging the va-sity, which gave them little time to

This year the Baby Bison have developed a smooth working combi-nation that employes the slow break to good advantage. All good shots, the yearlings have developed more than was expected.

The freshmen have won games from the MSTC Frosh, the Concordia freshmen, the YMCA Ramblers and the Eddie's Coffee Shop team.

NDU's Frosh squad has suffered by losing several men because of ineligi-bility. The U team chalked up a win over Mayville Teachers earlier in the year, but not much is known about their present quality.

Members of the squad going to Grand Forks are Nick Soulis, Arleigh Abrahamson, Corman Bean, Gene Marquardt, Dan Doshen, Cliff Rothrock, Larue Holstein, Jim Leet, Adam Bender, Donovan Nelson, Lyle Wil-lert and Art Schuler.

The second game of the series will be played Mar. 11 at 8 p. m. on the

AC Cage Five Beats Coyotes

Three Bison cagers accounted for enough points to enable the Herd to core its fifth conference victory and the second win of the season South Dakota's Coyotes. Arnold Johnson, Jim Fletcher and Johnny Abbott tallied a total of 37 counters to give the Herd a 52-36 triumph over Coach "Rube" Hoy's men on the fieldhouse floor Feb. 22.

This triumph, coupled with Iowa Teachers' victory over Omaha on the same date, allowed the Bison to move into a tie for the loop lead with the Panthers. The defeat at the hands of the Panthers was the last league game for the Nebraska team and took them out of the championship picture entirely.

Johnson moved back into a tie for the conference scoring title as he dropped in 18 points on seven fields goals and four free throws. Fletcher and Abbott both counted 10 tallies for the Bison cause, the latter get-ting five field goals and the former getting four two-pointers and a pair from the free throw line.

Captain Larry Tanberg, playing his first game in two weeks, showed the effects of his layoff and added only two points to the Herd's total. An injury to an instep forced him from the game midway in the final period. Ed Boe played in the in-jured Tanberg's place and did a nice job of it, getting five points in his brief appearance.

ElRoy LaMaster and O. F. Jacobon led the visitor's attack with 12

The Sigma Chi hockey team defeated the Theta Chi team 2 to 0 last Saturday to win the intramural hockey championship. Pat Sherley, the Sig's star player, got credit for the first counter and assisted Tom Pacad in making the last Cliff Roth. Reed in making the last. Cliff Roth-rock, goalie for the victors, did a great job by stopping the OX's num-prous thrusts.

During Saturday's second game Jack Taylor and the other ATO boys ran wild to down the Gamma Rho representatives 15 to 0. The ATOs led by Taylor really had goalie Sid Sanderson jumping while the oppos-ing goalie laid down on the ice and took a nap.

The YMCA forfeited their game to give the Theta Chis second place.
