24 Groups Will Vie In Annual Float Contest

More entries than ever before will make their appearance in the float section of this year's Homecoming parade, with college departments and clubs as well as fraternities and sororities competing. The rules governing the fraternities and sororities have been changed in that each group is required to carry out the Homecoming theme, Service to the State, and also to keep the name of the organization out of any caption which might be used.

YMCA, YWCA, the architecture department, Saddle and Sirlon, Blue Key, Future Farmers of America, Alpha Phi Omega, Alpha Zeta, AC Bookstore, and the Y Dugout have all entered competition in the so-called departmental class. Members of this class may use the names of insignias of their organizations on their floats if they so desire.

Prizes will be awarded to winning floats according to the following scheme: First and second place trophies to fraternity floats; first and second place trophies to sorority floats; a fraternity and sorority sweepstakes cup, which is a traveling trophy currently held by the Theta Chis; and a first place trophy to the winning float in the departmental class.

In addition to the float competitions, there is to be the usual decoration contest. Two first prizes will be awarded, one to the best fraternity and one to the best sorority house decoration.

There will be a meeting of representatives from each group entered at 4:00 Monday in Science 125, according to John Fisher, student commission member in charge of floats. Assisting Fisher are Catherine Brandes and Bud Lundsten.

Record Crowd Will Jam New Stadium

DEDICATED TO YOU

With the entire student body being wrought into hysteria for the dedication of the new stadium tonight it is altogether fitting and proper that we should take time off and dedicate our thanks to the man who has given us the finest athletic plant in the conference.

Coming here in 1928 to take the athletic directorship of the college when it was in its sorriest state, C. C. Finnegan has added bit by bit in his program to give the students an athletic setup they can be proud of.

It hasn't all been easy as a glance at the record shows. In 1928 when he arrived he had a coaching staff including Borleske, football coach; Saalwaachter, basketball; and Bob Lowe as Frosh coach and physical education instructor.

Lt. Smith was also engaged as hockey coach at the time when the AC rated high in national hockey circles.

With him, however, since 1929 has been Dr. O. O. Churchill as chairman of the Athletic Board of Control. Whenever Casey is complimented on the new stadium which will be dedicated tonight he will always point out that a great share of the good will belongs to Doc Churchill. Working without pay he always been willing to donate his time and spend his money if he could help out in any way.

Starting on a program of expansion immediately, Finnegan's first move was to talk to the right people, spending days and weeks with committees and the legislature and finally getting an appropriation for a new Physical Education Building which today is the envy of the conference.

But even more important to us today was the purchase of new bleachers and floodlights for the Gridiron. And now without a cent of cost to the students or to the state we have a new bowl with the finest seating facilities in our conference.

Although our brother schools may have good grandstands, there are none of them that can give the student body just as good seats as the reserved section. In the AC student section are 1750 seats from the 25 yard line to the 50. And with the present enrollment well under 1750 the student section will not be too crowded for good seats even at sellout games.

All of this expansion has taken money and the credit for that money goes not to the state for appropriations nor to the students for $100 deeds such as was used to build a stadium for a neighboring school. Instead all of the credit $13,000 to $1,000 yearly. And with a $5,000 deficit on hand to meet him, something had to be done.

Soon after Casey came here from coaching at Grafton high schools the annual state appropriation was cut from yearly. And with a $5,000 deficit on hand to meet him something had to be done.

Casey took over the duties of football coach and Lowe was elevated to assistant. Pete Gergen, followed by John Smith became freshman coach.

Although in 1934 the annual appropriation was boosted to $2,500, it still didn't pay the salaries of the coaching staff, let alone other costs.

The answer to that is big time games. No other school in the country the size of the AC can boast the schedules that Finnegan has been able to secure through his contacts with leading football coaches. Casey's coaching record, including two conference champions at NDAC has brought the Bison national recognition time and again and has brought enough money into the Herd's coffers so that he can present the new stadium to the students to-night.

Marguerite Olson Battalion Sponsor

Marguerite Olson, a sophomore in home economics from Fargo, has been named by Robert Whempner, ROTC battalion commander, as sponsor for the NDAC unit. Sponsors for the military unit's platoons are: Muriel Schroeder, Delores McDowell, Mary Beth Lewis, Marjorie Wilson, Cloyce Hocking and Mary Knox. Sponsors for first platoon, Company C and Second platoon Company C have not yet been chosen.

Scabbard and Blade will conduct pledging services Wednesday afternoon at 5.

There will be a meeting for all those interested in debate Wed., Oct. 19 at 4:00 in the Little Country Theater.

Dedication Game Climaxes Longtime Bison Booster Club Campaign

It's the old collegiate spirit that made possible the gigantic and overwhelming demonstration that took place on Broadway last night. But it took both businessmen and students to pack to capacity the many blocks between the N. P. and G. N. tracks. Tonight all Fargo will flock to Dacotah field to watch the culmination of a spectacular campaign.

Between halves of the Bison-Iowa Teachers game the formal dedication of NDAC's new stadium will take place. Dr. O. O. Churchill, professor of agronomy, will preside at the P. A. microphone, introducing the honored guests and presenting the program. Theodore Loy, area engineer for the WPA, will officially present the stadium to NDAC, with Pres. F. L. Eversull giving the response. Prior to the formal presentation the Gold Star Band, under the direction of Dr. C. S. Putnam, will play the school anthem, and close the activities with the national anthem.

This 15 minute program will climax the weeks of work which the Bison Boosters club have voluntarily accomplished as their first project in a new program of uptown support to the college. It will mark the beginning of school activities which will perpetuate an enthusiastic school spirit. It will mark the onset of a strenuous campaign to publicize NDAC throughout the state.

Yesterday's activities included a WDAY broadcast from Festival hall of student boosters in action at a pep fest. In the evening a torchlight parade brought all Fargo to its feet cheering, when the students and business men co-operated to give a spectacular demonstration.

The four section parade included: Police escort, Gold Star band and cadet corps, 1938 Bison football team and the NDAC student body; the American Legion drum and bugle corps, the Bison Booster business men, the high school band and the Bison pep club.

Ag Students Will Elect Aides On Furrows Staff

A recent appeal to the agricultural students brought twenty-five students, interested and willing to offer their services to the publication of the Bison Furrows, student published, agricultural magazine. John Paulson, editor of the magazine, states that an election will be held Monday, Oct. 7, to elect an assistant editor and an assistant to James McGregor, business manager.

Ballots may be cast between 10 and 4:50 in Morrill Hall by students enrolled in the school of agriculture only. Nominees for assistant editor are Kenneth Erickson and Victor Hultstrand and for assistant business manager, Stanley Bale and Norman Akesson.

Bison Furrows is published for the purpose of publicizing respective departments in agricultural division. The magazine, published every term, appeared for the first time on this campus last spring term, with the next issue slated for appearance about Nov. 15.

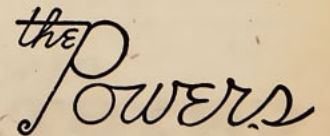

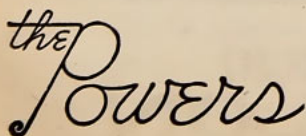

High schools, county agents, 4-H clubs, and F. F. A. clubs within the state and all other agricultural colleges throughout the nation receive the magazine.

Spectrum Indorses Plan For Social Rule Revision

Liberalization of the college social program is the aim of a program being furthered by the Inter-fraternity Council. The council is petitioning the college council for revision of the social regulations to permit fraternity and sororities to hold open house daily between twelve o'clock noon and eight p. m. During that time fraternity and sorority members may entertain male and female guests without faculty chaperonage. However, no women students would be permitted to visit outside the public rooms of the houses, and houses are also open at these hours to faculty members or other interested persons.

The Spectrum is going to stick out the proverbial neck and offer complete and unqualified indorsement of the proposal. The Spectrum sets forth no better reasons for its indorsement than those listed by the Inter-fraternity Council in its petition to the College Council. They are:

Since fraternity and sorority houses are the temporary homes of resident members, such members should be allowed social privileges they would enjoy at home. College students should be able to conduct themselves like ladies and gentlemen without supervised control.

Although it is conceded that a system of House Mothers would obviate chaperonage difficulties, the present economic status of Greek letter groups on this campus makes such a system impossible.

Such a program would not interfere with the study hours of students, since all houses have regular evening study hours, and those individuals who wished to study during the open house period, could easily confined themselves within their rooms.

Hours that otherwise might be spent in the Dug-out, neighboring cafes, pool halls, motion picture houses, or other gathering places, might be spent more economically and pleasantly in the congenial atmosphere of wholesome campus homes.

Such a measure would promote finer relationships between the Greek letter groups on the campus, a relationship which so far has been characterized by a selfish insularity."

Independent Organization Has Potential Power

Now that the new Independent Students Association is being organized one is reminded of the old Cosmopolitan Club which was organized on the campus several years ago and has been in inaction ever since. A comparative survey of the purposes of each of the clubs shows a striking similarity. The goals of the new association, as outlined by Ray Struble, the group's temporary president and mainspring, include more social and political equality for independent students, without the expense and waste of time entailed in belonging to a fraternity or sorority. Socially, the Cosmo club hasn't produced the kind of results the Greek groups get.

Politically, a manifestation of power, by an organized group like the new association would mean disruption of the present merit system, by forcing fraternities and sororities to align themselves again in frames in order to hold their own.

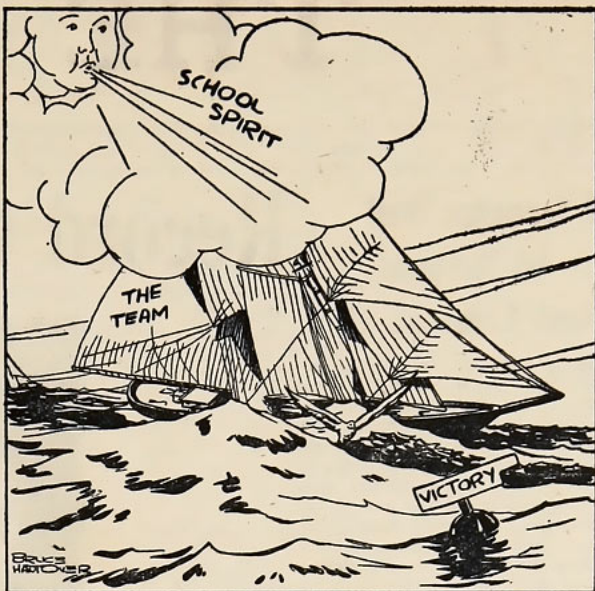

Maybe the new organization will have something to offer. But we're going to be skeptical until we're shown. —A. T.

Library Hours Termed Inadequate

"It is a well recognized fact that the library is the heart of the college," said Dr. Eversull in an address delivered September 29. If that statement is true, and there seems to be no reason to doubt it, NDAC is without a functioning heart on Friday and Saturday evenings and all day Sunday.

Students, eleventh hour creatures like the rest of the human race, often find themselves in a position where a heartless college is most annoying. How many could use even our "inadequate facilities" to advantage of a Sunday afternoon? Besides those who use the library for school work alone, there are certainly many students, especially out-of-towners who might find it a pleasant place to spend a leisure Sunday afternoon.

If the rumored changes in the curriculum come about, the library will be more in demand than ever, and one way to help meet the increased demand under the present conditions is to have more liberal hours. —J. B.

Social Climber . . .

Hi ho everybody and stuff. All recovered from last week-end? Jim Anderson is still under observation after pulling a Johnny Weismuller up the mighty Red. Some guys never will grow up.

Poor Corwin, the two-bit socialite who has been writing this scandal pot took a powder. Sonny Johnson threatened him with mayhem after last week and the little fellow couldn't take it. Didn't know that the Theta Chi pale face was such a terrorifer, but you can't tell about these lads after they let go of their mother's apron strings.

Biggest laugh of the second! According to her little brother, June Sanstead "doesn't even pitch". You all should have seen her in action with Hunchy Rutten in zoo lab the other day. The poor gal became so absorbed in the Devils Lake product that she stuck her head in a bunsen burner. For a while she was a pretty hot young lady.

Rather a puny crowd greeted the team last Monday. Looked more like a funeral procession with all the Drs. and ambulances. Maybe our boys are not so tough as they have been telling us. At least some of the helmets will fit a little looser.

It hath been rumored that the Kappas are slipping. How could it be! Seems almost as strange as the fact that the Sigs seem to be chasing the Gamma Phi tootsies. Maybe they both like to drink out of the same bottle.

We would like a little dope on that certain KD who seems to have moved in with Dickie Switzer. Are they just consoling each other, or is it the real McCoy? Wouldn't mind batting 1.000 in that league myself.

Now for the human interest story of the week: It seems that some misguided engineer was trying to get a little help from Mr. Doerr. The poor student was becoming more discouraged by the minute, but he is now happy as the day is long, all because of this little pep talk. Doerr speaking: "Don't let this get you down. Flunked it myself when I was in college and look at me now." Guess a lot of us ought to be profs.

Marg Wilson has been selected as a platoon sponsor. She was holding out for a company job but did not know enough of the right people well enough. Did you ever try to ride a horse by mail? Butch "Just Friends" Whitver is now taking cavalry by correspondence. He and the light of his life were seen wandering around the Union Stockyards just to gain atmosphere. Don't forget to clean off your shoes, Butch.

"What am I to do?", screams Elaine Helland, the pride and joy of POP. "Bob is leaving to blow his horn in greener pastures and I still have his Sleep And Eat badge. If any one has a solution to my problem, please inclose it in a ten dollar bill and leave it on the Dugout counter."

Keep your noses clean this week-end and let's all help our team and prexy in the dedicating game. The stadium should be full on top, but the Gamma Phis think that a SM party might be very fine underneath. Sounds like a pretty fair idea at that. Best wishes for a happy and prosperous new year, I remain, AL T. OMEGA.

Tryouts For Class Plays Set Next Week

Tryouts for one-act class plays, and also for longer plays to be presented during the school year have been set for Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 17 and 18 from 4:30 to 5:30 in the Little Country Theater.

The annual play contest will be held Wednesday, Nov. 16, at which time each class will present a one-act play. One chairman from each class, has been selected. Each chairman will choose a committee from his own class to select a play and pick the cast. Chairmen: Margie Pfeffer, senior; Thad Fuller, junior; Lorraine Fitjar, sophomore; Duane Pyle, freshman. Other members of the freshman committee are Mary Faith Olson and Shirley Quickstad.

All students interested in dramatics are urged to appear at the tryouts.

Struble Heads New Barb Unit

The Independent Students Association held its initial meeting at the College YMCA last Monday, with Ray Struble presiding and R. L. Chrysler of the Social Science department as adviser.

The association is an organization for all non-fraternity men and all non-sorority women. Approximately 60 per cent of the students on the campus are independents. The aim of the new organization is to give these independents a voice in the social and political affairs of the campus.

The next meeting of the association will be held next Monday at the college Y. M. C. A. Sevrinson, dean of men, will be the speaker of the evening. It is imperative that all independent students attend, as the election of officers for their organization will be held, Struble said.

Greek Groups Make Early Reservations For Queen's Banquet

Vouching for the popularity of the Queen's Dinner given at Homecoming by Senior Staff to honor Queen Putz this year are the number of reservations made already by campus Greek groups. Without solicitations Sigma Chi reserved 40 plates, Theta Chi 24, Phi Omega Pi 40, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Alpha Gamma Delta, and Kappa Delta all 25.

Previously alumni and students both attended the banquet Saturday night but in view of the large number of alumni who will be attending the NDEA meetings here that week, it is expected that the combined crowd could not be accommodated. Present plans are for an alumni banquet Friday night and the regular Queen's banquet Saturday at 6, with all the alumni who wish attending.

In general charge of alumni dinner arrangements is Helen Stokke alumni secretary. Florenz Dinwoodie, president of senior staff, is general chairman for Saturday night, with LaVaun Anderson as ticket chairman, and Catherine Brandes in charge of decorations. Reservations for the Queen's banquet can be made at Dean Dinan's office.

New Pledges Feted At Joint Banquet

A banquet in honor of all the fraternity pledges on the campus was held in the dining room of Ceres Hall Monday evening. Sponsors of the banquet were the Interfraternity Council and the YMCA. The purpose of the evening was to acquaint all the pledges with each other, and with the social procedure of the fraternities as a group. The pledges were accompanied by several active members of each fraternity.

A short program, with President Frank L. Eversull as the main speaker, followed the meal. Leonard Dalstead, president of Interfraternity council, and John Fisher, president of the YMCA, also addressed the group. Wendell Pile played a flute solo, accompanied by his brother, Duane. William Arnold was toastmaster.

Guests were Dr. Putnam, Dr. Hunter, Prof. Otterson, Col. Mendenhall, and Sgt. White.

shops, and theater cashiers. They have been inserted in parcels sent out by laundries, in pay envelopes, in letters containing bills and letters. Taxis, busses and trucks have carried posters with a similar legend.

Eight five-minute broadcasts were arranged over WDAY carrying the message to all who were missed in the extensive city-wide campaign. Cafes and restaurants printed the Bison Booster slogan on their menu.

Sport Speculations

By DON BLOMQUIST

It's going to be another big week-end for Bison football fans. Don't miss the dedication of the stadium tonight. It is beginning to look like all previous attendance records will be broken, but don't stay home because there will be room for all.

The Bison Boosters Club has done a swell job publicizing the event. This is far and away the largest boost any organization has ever made in Fargo for the purpose of popularizing athletic teams in this vicinity. All they ask is the co-operation of all the students on the campus. So, come on out and give the team your moral support.

Keep your eye on "Windy" Burckhardt, Iowa's great back from Grand Forks. This lad is not a total stranger to sport followers in this city as he is the boy who ran wild against Fargo High not so many years ago when he was playing on the Grand Forks team. Burckhardt is declared by many to be the finest backfield man to come out of North Dakota in recent years. Anyway, it will be interesting to see him and Wheeler on the same field together. We'll still bet on Ernie.

Buck Starbeck, Iowa State Teacher coach, will be another familiar face. He acted as assistant to Coach West of NDU before landing the Iowa job.

The physical condition of our football squad is not as bad as the Gloomy Gus's would have us believe. Of the nine men injured in the Idaho game, only Herb Kittler and Al Bostow will not be ready tonight. Kittler has a very badly bruised side and it is not known when he will be back in uniform. Bostow is walking around with his arm in a sling as a result of a dislocated elbow. He will not don his pads for another week. All other injuries consist of minor sprains and bruises which are only natural in a tough game.

Out Idaho way we hear, by the grapevine route, that the fans are still talking about the exhibition of blocking which Bombing Bob Erickson put on when the Bison played the Vandals in 1936. It appears that Bob was in rare form that day and he really gave the boys west something to remember.

Today's riddle: What member of the team was it who came back from Idaho $35 richer than when he left? Also guess how he got it.

The Herd will come out tonight with new yellow jerseys to go with the pants they have been wearing in the first three games. The new uniforms are a head-ache for the dry-cleaners, but they look swell on the field.

If you are looking for some action in the afternoons, drop over to the touch football field and watch the boys toss the pigskin around. Maybe the ability is not there, but the spirit is.

It may interest the friends of Herb Kittler, injured in the Idaho game, to know that he is getting along nicely and convalescing at St. Johns hospital. Visitors, as always, are welcome.

Crippled Bison Meet Iowa In Loop Tilt

By SAM TOLCHINSKY

For the first time in weeks the Bison football team came out to practice with a real air of joviality hanging over their heads. They were all set to enter into their first conference foray against ISTC Panthers tonight.

But all of that is changed now with a deep spirit of gloom overhanging the Herd. Nobody knows who is going to play and worse yet, nobody knows how long they are going to play if they do get into the game.

Whereas it had been assumed that the biggest Bison trouble would be stopping Burckhardt and Dutcher, fast stepping Tutor backs, the trouble now will be to get a first string lineup into the game.

Old man injury really hit the Herd's camp and how. Starting to take the team apart piece by piece, one finds that it now resembles a patchwork quilt.

Kittler Lost

Starting with the ends, we find only one of them out. Herb Kittler is in the hospital with kidney trouble and is lost for the rest of the season.

The tackles are not too bad. Harry Johnson's bad hand is the only ailment, but it will not handicap him much. Cecil Schrank is in tiptop shape for the other post.

Guards are considerably weakened by the loss of Al Bostow. He's been playing a bangup game all year but he is out for certain with his arm in a sling. Holt and Green will get the starting call.

Coming out of the Idaho game in good shape only to get knocked cold in a scrimmage session was the fate that befell Jim On, regular center. At this time it is not known whether he will be in suit or not.

The real question arises in the backfield. Fullback will be all right with Sturgeon, Hammel and Pepple all in good shape.

Lack Blocking Back

But there is no blocking back. Schrank has been unable to practice all week because of a back injury and certainly will not be able to play for long if he does get in. And Don Johnson is having trouble even walking after Wednesday's scrimmage session.

Gil Friederich will start at right half, but who will play left half? Wheeler hasn't been out to practice all week because of an ankle injury, and Emil May has trouble, not only with his ankle but with his knee. And then on top of all that Sig Erickson was forced to drop football in order to devote more time to studies.

It all adds up to a big headache for Finnegan.

YMCA Cabinet will meet in the Y at 5:00 o'clock next Tuesday.

Idaho Stampedes Thundering Herd

A power-house Idaho team made short work of beating the Bison last weekend. It was a knock-'em-down and drag-'em-out affair from start to finish with the advantage going to the team with the most and biggest men.

The Vandals started with mostly second stringers in the lineup. This fact combined with some fine kicking by Ernie Wheeler kept the westerners from scoring in the first period. However, in the second quarter, the Vandals' passing attack started to click and they pushed over two touchdowns in that period. The first came when a lateral put the ball on the 14 yard line and Boise plunged through center to land in pay dirt. Shortly after that, Reynolds passed to Knap from the Bison 16 for the second score.

In the third quarter, the Vandals made two serious threats to score but both times they lacked the necessary push to get the ball over. In the fourth quarter, a forward again put the ball in scoring position on the 6 yard line of the Bison where Beal ploughed through for Idaho's third touchdown of the day. With only a few minutes left to play, a lateral from Sturgeon was intercepted on the Bison 11 yard line from which point the Vandals again scored on a forward pass, this time from Otkinson to Heine.

Outstanding men for the losing Bison, besides the always brilliant Wheeler, were the two Elmers: Holt and Schrank. The former was continually breaking through the line and stopping the Vandals' running plays before they had a chance to get started with the result that the opponents had, to resort to the air. Schrank did a grand job of backing up the line, stopping many plays for only short gains.

The final score of 27-0 gives a fairly accurate picture of the Vandals' superiority over the Bison. There is no disputing the fact that the Idaho team is one of the best teams on the Pacific coast and is above the A. C. class. In other words, the better team won and our team has no alibis. They made a fine showing and deserve a lot of credit for their efforts.

Then and Now

40 Years ago

While many of our best athletes are now testing their skill in running, jumping, and playing the ever new and exciting game of Spanish-fly on the far away shores of the Philippines, we should be developing new material with the expectation of doing better than ever before in athletic line.—Evidently the boys weren't expected back right away.

30 Years ago

Major Ulio announced last week that there will be no more drill upon Monday this term. The cadets are rejoicing over this unexpected freedom.—The boys had evidently reached the pink of perfection.

10 Years ago

It took quite a bit of persuasion to keep ambitious freshmen from tearing down the armory. They thought it was Washington's Valley Forge headquarters and wanted souvenirs.—Let them try it on the new field-house!

The first inter-sectional intercollegiate football game was played between Princeton and University of Virginia in 1890. Princeton won, 116 to 0.
