11 Committee To Throw Unaccredited College Dance

Is Planned to Be Dutch Treat Affair; Tickets, 25 Cents

Disregarding the Friday 13 superstition in the firm belief that nothing worse can possibly happen to this institution than that already wrought, the Committee of Eleven is giving an Unaccredited Party. A 25c ticket will admit students to both the dance and show planned for May 13.

As arranged the Unaccredited Party will be a Dutch treat affair. Every one has a date with the entire student body.

The dance will begin at 8:30 in the Field House and continue to 11 at which time it is expected transportation will be furnished to take the students to the State theatre for a full length feature at 11:30.

The YMCA, fully cooperating with the Committee of Eleven, and feeling that their members are completely in sympathy with the activities as carried on in this present campaign, have consented to finance the orchestra for the party in place of giving the an-nual YMCA dance.

Invitations were sent this morning to Dr. and Mrs. J. C. West, Dean and Mrs. L. L. Carrick, and Dean and Mrs. W. F. Sudro to act as chaperons.

Arrangements are under the direction of Manny Ladwig, president of Blue Key, Bob Sanders, Bison Brevities director, and Bud Osborne, Committee member. Ticket sales will be directed by special representatives in each campus group and the dorms, or may be procured from Committee of Eleven members.

Proceeds from the Unaccredited Party will be used to finance a broadcast over WDAY, Fargo; KFYR, Bis-marck, and KFJM, Grand Forks, on June 27. The time, 9:00 p.m., is already contracted for.

JR.—SR. BALL NOTICE

Get your tickets for the Junior-Senior early. Sales start May 1. Price is $1.00. We're going to keep this social affair strictly collegiate this year, no high school kids.

—Glenn Fake, manager.

All College Day Being Planned

All-College Day this year will be on or about May 24, depending upon when the printers of the Bison finish their job. The Student Commission Blue Key, Alpha Phi Omega, and Alpha Phi Gamma are all shaping their plans for the respective parts of the program of the day.

All the usual and annual features will be run off this year. Alpha Phi Gamma and Mike Benidt will sponsor the second "Turtle Grand National," instigated last year, and won by the Sigma Chi's. There will be a band concert during the day by the Gold Star Band, the regular Senior-Faculty ball game, the Spring Sing, sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, and a grand windup dance put on by the Student

PTA To Hear Committeemen

Mike Benidt, committee member and James Elwin, county group manager, will attend the Mayville PTA meeting this Monday night to present speeches in behalf of the Constitu-tional Amendment Establishing a Board of Higher Education.

Mrs. Guy Elkin, president of the Mayville PTA, when in town yesterday, asked that the Committee of Eleven send members to acquaint their group with the present situation here at school and the campaign adopted by the students. This will be the beginning of a program to contact PTA's throughout the state.

NOTICE

Due to recent changes elections will be postponed until the 19th of Applications of the nomiand their eligibility cards must be handed in to the commissioner of elections before the 9th of May.

Letter To Editor Clears Up Gossip, Old Problem

ago we ran a well-written student opinion concerning the school's discrediting. The opinion came in signed with the initials, "S. T." When we asked around trying to find the author's name, several sources informed us that the right name was Sam Tolchinsky, former sports editor. Sam is not in school this term and he became so wrought up over the mistake in the paper that he swore out an affida-vit showing that he didn't write it. Now we find that the admitted author of the opinion was Sam Trezinski. We print below Sam Tolchinsky's letter to this office, to clear up any local misunderstanding on the subject.

May 19, 1938.

Mr. George Spectrum Editor North Dakota State College Dear George:

I've been wanting to write to you for quite some time but I had hoped that when I did write I would be able to write a friendlier letter.

I understand that you printed a letter in the Student Opinion column in the April 15th edition of the Spectrum. I did not write that letter although you or someone else put my name at the bottom of it. You should have seen that it was not my work. You know, as does everyone of the Spectrum Staff, that I am a sophomore and not a junior. You also know that I do not intend to apply for a fellowship after graduating and that I am not enrolled in school this term.

I do not object to your using my name in matters of solely news value but on a subject such as that involved, do not want my name attached to it. The fact of the matter is that I do not blame the Board of Administration for all of our troubles as seems to be the hidden feeling in that letter.

I am certainly glad that the letter on which you did attach my name was not a bit more radical than it was: for know several members of the Board of Administration and I talked to Mr. your sake, not for mine. I happen to Harris, Mr. Kinzer, and Mr. Falconer, state purchasing agent working with the Board, after the article was pub-lished. They feel very badly about everything but they are convinced that the situation is not nearly so bad as worked up to be but is being turned into a political issue by a few editors who oppose the present administration.

The Board is doing everything possible to help the school, but they are the politic of this matter. Therefore, a written affidavit by me testifying that I did not write that article could be used by them as an example of how editors all them as an example of how editors all all track men in the past. MSTC's over the state are falsifying in order Johnson, another all-around track stars to twist the facts of the AC disaster into a political issue in an effort to spend $30,000 of the taxpayers' money on a new, unneeded state department. And if you figure out by your bill the and it you light out by your bit the exact cost of the new department, adding salaries, office help, traveling expenses, office room, and supplies, you will see that it will cost that much

I don't know just now whether or not the Leader will play it up that the Spectrum falsified in one of their stories, but I am sure that if that article had been more vicious it would have been played up and maybe your job with it.

I hope that you see my position, (Continued on Page Four)

Seven Girls Vie For Barn Dance Queen; Also Costume Prizes

With a heydiddlediddleandabuckaroo the NDSC social gang will waive formalities and come screaming and laughing in grandpa's and grandma's old glad rags to the annual barn dance to be given tonight in the Field House. Saddle and Sirloin is sponsoring the event as usual.

It will be up to the boys in the crowd tonight to pick the lady of their secret choice, who will have the honor of riding in the rickety old buggy that has become part of the institution. The girls who have been chosen by their respective groups to take part in this contest are: Virginia Johnston, Alpha Gamma Delta; Lois Myron, Gamma Phi Beta; Lorna Bach, Kappa Delta; Leonette Isaacs, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Leonette Parries, Phi Mu; Joyce Ogilvie, Phi Omega Pi, and Josephine Erickson, Ceres Hall club.

Besides the loving cup to be given to the elected queen of the dance, the R and G Bootery has offered two pairs of shoes to the best dressed fellow and co-ed. A cash award will be given the outstanding couple.

Sponsor for the dance is J. D. Gannaway, and the chaperons who will attend are Professor and Mrs. J. R. Dice, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Daugherty, Mr. and Mrs. A. Severson, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hodgson, and Professor and Mrs. H. F. McColly. Committes: Al Artz in charge, Kenenth Ford and George Strum, publicity, John and James Os-bourne, tickets, and Harland Josephson, decorations.

Dancing will be from 9 to 12. Tickets, on sale at the door, are 50 cents per couple.

NOTICE

An award will be made of $2.50 for the best slogan submitted to the Committee of Eleven, box 6, or Bar-racks 203, to be used in the state publicity promoting the passage of the Constitutional Amendment Establishing a State Board of Higher Education. Deadline is May 6. Committee of Eleven.

It Happened In Convo---

Editor of The Spectrum,

This is my first attempt to break into print and is not made for the purpose of obtaining publicity.

However, I was very displeased by the attitude of Gordan Arneson took on reply to a question by Dwight Hunkins at the convocation this morning. The meeting had been thrown open for discussion and questions were being addressed from the floor. In response to a question by Hunkins from the rear of the room Arneson inquired sarcastically "if Mr. Hunkins had ar-rived late." The time of Hunkin's arrival shold be no concern of Arneson's Probably he does not realize that few of the speaker's voices carry distinctly to the rear of the room, and that many of the explanations given by the speak-ers are not as enlightening as they might be. Apparently Hunkins was sincere in his questioning, and he deserved a courteous reply.

Such an attitude as Arneson exhibited is not inducive of cooperation by the student body. The committee has called upon us to cooperate, and to date the student response has been admirable. Regardless of how inane our questions appear they are worthy of, at least, polite explanation. We cannot continue to appear interested in the actions of the various committees if suggestions or questions from the floor are met with redicule. Several times members of the committee have evidenced irritation at the responses of members of the student body.

Some considered Arneson's remark funny. I failed to detect the slightest race of humor. He took advantage his position to humiliate Hunkins. It was an insult not only to Hunkins but to the entire student body. It implied that our questions were not worthy of consideration. Hunkins should be commended, not belittled, for the interest he evidenced in the proceedings.

I realize it is the policy of the mob to throw stones at those in authority. That is not my purpose. We all admire the work that has been done recently by our representative student groups, and we have confidence in their ability to guide us wisely. We all know that the complete cooperation of all the students is necessary for the future success of our school. We are willing to give that cooperation. In return we expect courteous treatment from the members of the committees which rep-

REFRACTIONS

BY GEORGE PUTZ

In this column we take the news apart for the readers and present a spectrum of the news. The news viewed from all angles, in all its various hues. There are several things to talk about this week. Much of it has come by way of anonymous letters to the editor.

SUBTLE HINTS-

One suspicious professor on the campus sent in a copy of Ginn and Company's "What the Colleges Are Doing," a bulletin with lots of newsy items about schools in it. The same professor marked in heavy red pencil the following item:

HARVEST OF HACKS

In his column for Princeton's Alumni Weekly, John G. Buchanas mentioned the circular letters of G. H. Smith which have recently flooded Eastern colleges offering to "ghostwrite" student essays and theses; then concluded triumphantly: "Once more the undergraduate council has pointed out the total incompatibility of 'ghost' theses and the Princeton hon-or system."

Meanwhile, on the other side of Tigertown, the Daily Princetonian was breaking out a front-page spread resulting from an interview with the 30-year-old ghostwriter in which he claimed 10 seniors were employing him this year to do their theses. Graduate of California, Michigan, and Yale where he received his Ph.D., George H. Smith (alias Lanning) makes his headquarters in a small Amsterdam Ave., New York City, apart-ment, and personally grinds out papers for students in Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Dartmouth, Vassar, Smith, and others at $15 and up per essay. Despite the best efforts of the police and the federal district attorney to close him up, he continues his business—which is legally watertight—of writing "confidential" theses varying in caliber from 60 to 95 depending upon the mark desired.

Fellow-columnist and honor-system-advocate Max Lamb might be interested to know that the above-mentioned Smith is now turning out book reports for advanced English courses at Yale at $5 a book report, and, we understand, doing a very thriving business of it.—Yale Daily News.

I suppose the Spectrum staff is to take the hint and stop forging themes for people. Well, last term we did have a student that wrote themes at two dollars a crack, but he isn't in school this term. To give you a key to who the guilty party is, read his affidavit condemning the Spectrum that was printed in The Leader last week.

MORE RED PENCIL-

Another anonymous prof clipped last week's editorial from this column which pointed out all the great things that had been done at school this year by the students and sent it in asking, "Where does the faculty come in on all this 'greatness'?" I guess we are supposed to apologize for the omission.

Well, it may be ignorance on our part, but the only unusual and spirited activity exhibited by the faculty has been their lenience toward student management. I think there has been no great feeling of union amongst the faculty members felt by either the students or the faculty, whereas the student spirit, revived, is everywhere evident. Of course one reason for this is that many teachers are busy only in one department on the campus, and those that have varied interests and activities have very wisely refrained from making public their feelings to ward student unions, mass meetings, discredit-ing, and merit systems. I don't believe that the school spirit we are feeling eminated from the public enthusiasm of the faculty. The faculty has just started a credit union, which merits compliments. They have also had a guiding hand in the YMCA activities and the LCT production, but the other successes that were lauded in last week's editorial seem to be independent of the faculty.

The College Council has been particularly lenient in granting vacations and convocations to further student programs, and the Social Committee has greatly encouraged inter-Greek spirit and social affairs. The criticism is daily made on the campus by great numbers of students that their are too many "advisors" on student committees and councils and commissions. On some boards there ARE too many faculty members, but in most cases the professors have granted their advice only upon solicitation by the students.

"PREXY" COMES THROUGH (A Short Story)

Tuesday evening after the LCT play four of us were sipping sodas at the Powers Coffee Shop, just wasting time until bedtime talking about what a great actor Don Jones is. Just as my two straws went dry I looked up and saw Dr West walk in. He came over to our table, said "Hiya, gang," and chimed right into the conversation before we had time to stand up and get embarrassed.

With Dr. West there we turned our chatter into politics-students-and-professor channels. And we really learned a lot of things about our school we didn't know before. We heard good advice, private history, and revealing explanadivice, private history, and revealing explana-tions. We must have rattled on for an hour, for West is a good talker, about everything that any of us could think of, when suddenly President West said, "Well, I think I'll give you a break and go to bed. Oh say, before I go, do you want to do me a real favor?"

"Surely, Dr. West."

"Why of course."

"We'd be glad to, sir."

"All right then, give me your bill for this

-And before any of us could reach out and grab it, he picked it up, said goodnight, and walked out.

STUDENT COMMISSION PLUG-

Half of this year's student commission has already done more than any student commission we've ever had. This last week they have taken advantage of the vitalized school spirit on this campus and actually swung the year-after-year proposition of a merit system into being. And it didn't take such a strenuous effort, after all. Several students donated quite a few hours for discussion and thinking the project over, but compared to the success of the venture so far, little effort has been required. Of course the complete swing from politics to merit seemed suspiciously easy in convocation yesterday. The major difficulties of the scheme will come up after the election—then the weaknesses and the gripes will be visible. I think the AC is going to have one on the University, by the looks of things. The Ukids are dissatisfied with their waits water. merit system. We are going to like ours, and make a success of it.

The Y has voted to cancel their spring membership dance and give the $50 thereby saved to the Committee of Eleven to pay for the music of the Unaccredited Dance to be given Friday, of the Unaccredited Dance to be given Friday, May 13. This sounds like a nice charitable thing for the YMCA to do, but next fall there will be lots of kick-backs. During their membership drive next year, the Y cabinet will be asked by students who will want to know what they are getting for their money, "What'll we get out of it? You say you give free dances. Okay, why didn't you give a dance last spring?" Well, the answer is it will be much better for the school and the students if the Y gives its money to and the students if the Y gives its money to-ward a worthy "amendment cause" than if they give just an ordinary free dance. FARGO THEATRE

Katharine Hepburn and Cary Grant in "Bringing Up Baby" get in and out of more trouble than average pair of screen lovers encounter in a dozen pictures, and the adventures are so genuinely amusing that every audi-ence clamors for more when the picture ends, even though practically everything that can happen has happened, plays Sunday, Monday, Tues-day, and Wednesday.

The greatest round-up of big name stars of any musical yet, a whole "who's-who" of the screen's pepper-uppers, frolics to town with three sir-ens of swing in search of social security who find themselves sidetracked by love in "Sally, Irene and Mary." The new 20th Century - Fox rhythm ro-mance with the lift-and-lilt that have made Darryl F. Zanuck shows tops in entertainment, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

GRAND THEATRE

Thoroughly delightful is the screen olay, "Hawaii Calls," Bobby Breen's latest musical starring vehicle, which comes Sunday and Monday to the Grand Theatre. As its name indicates, the story is laid in the Hawaiian Islands, and here, against the tropical luxuriance of the South Seas, were filmed the greater part of tis scenes, Waikiki Beach and other famous points of interest in Honolulu and the sur-rounding country form the setting for much of the action. The film excels in the performance of its leading player, in the number and quality of its hit songs, in the beauty of its back-grounds, in its exceptional cast and in its great direction.

STATE THEATRE

"In Wake Up and Live," Sunday and Monday, with Walter Winchell, Ben Bernie and Alice Faye in the featured oles, Twentieth Century-Fox believes that it has the sweetest, hottest, most galamorous and galorious musical ever turned out by that studio.

Eclipsing even such swelegant mu-

Theme of the Week

A MAN IN TRANSIT

By JOHN P. MARTIN

He squatted on a casually dropped box, gazing myopically into the camp-Waiting at the top of a rise, he vas going to board a freight train as it slowed on the upgrade.

The doleful drizzle slid unnoticed over his drooping back as easily, as steadily, as water slipping downstream unhindered by dams. From his back the rain slithered down into puddles, forming around footwear much too worn to be called shoes, and seeped into the earth, tired by an action as effortless as thought. Pear shaped rain drops clung to his battered hat brim with the tenacity of despair and, sullenly re-linquishing their grasps, blundered carelessly over tattered knees and limp hands to find their resting place in the odden soil.

Iron ladders on many box-cars had left reddish-brown stains intermingling with the blackened grease spots on palms and fingers of these soiled hands. Splinters from innumerable box-car floors had left their small black signatures on heels and edges. Jagged tin cans had presented, in the form of cuts, bills for food and drink ravenously gulped. The fingers, ill with jaundice, gulped. neared the black door of death as they reached the finger nails. Torn and dirty as they were, no hardness showed on these extremities. Idleness was their habitat and there they seemed at

The wind sighed with the resignation of predestined fate. As if in harmony, one straying hand filtered up through the mist and pulled farther down the decrepit hat. Spattering futilely, the meager blaze sought to penetrate the cold dampness and to impart to this face some of its own warmth and color, and possibly some spark of hope.

But the best of the fires of Hell did not have the power to engender hope in this face, for no framework was left or which to build. The sagging chin had no strength to support itself. The loose lipped mouth gaped vapidly around toothless jaws. The flattened nose showed no passage through which to function. Wasted, watery eyes had no ambition to transmit impressions to a weakened mind. Gaunt though the cheeks were, no cheek bones show-ed to give evidence of remaining determination. Even the intermittent beard, its roots having consumed the fertility of the skin, was dying like weeds on the slope of an age eroded ravine. And the forehead, happily hidden, could never hope to cap such a visage with an intelligent air.

Once again the hand crept up to brush aside two drops of rain that had dared to fall on barren ground. Life still was pounding with insistent blows on an unresistant fort that time would eventually crumble. The face, with its passive design, could only have been from inadequate effort, continued failure, and weakened will. All desire to compete, even to survive, had long since passed from its contours. The sign hung out for all to see, "No Hope Wanted"

Muffled by the enveloping moisture, though near, came the whistle of a train. The man did not stir. Puffing slowly on the rise, its headlight anxi-ously seeking clear rails ahead, the train drew well abreast of him before teaching assistant. His thesis will he was aware of its presence. Drawing

The A. C. Employees Credit Union on which the campus local of the American Federation of Teachers has been working for about a month, came into formal being this week, assisted by George W. Committeemen SpeakTo Farmers At Devils Lake

Three members of the Committee of Eleven were in Devils Lake last week where they spoke before the Farmers Union Local. Those who made the trip were Reuben Arneson, Robert Nelson and Maurice Benidt.

This was only a part of an intensive publicity program which is being carried on by the committee. Besides sending speakers to various organizations the committee is sending publicity weekly to all of the newspapers of the state. Mimeographed form letters are being sent to all alumni of the school, all correspondence students, PTA as sociations throughout the state, and all high school superintendents.

Personal letters are being sent to influential people throughout the state whose names have been given by the county and group chairmen or who have written to the committee and shown their interest in the problem which is confronting the school. Mailing lists have been secured, and letters are being sent to all persons whose names are on these lists. All personal letters are signed by the committee of up his lean bedraggled body, he floundered through the clinging mud towards the road bed. With apparent effort he pulled himself atop the grade as the red light of the caboose twinkled into obscurity. He stood, hands dangling loosely at his sides, face expressing no reaction, for several uncertain minutes. He turned and stumbled back to his dying fire. This man was not the first, but it was nearing the last time that defeat should buffet a man who had lost the spark of hope.

The NDSC YMCA delegates at Jamestown last week serenaded the University delegates with the follow ing original verse:

Picnic Plans Shaping Up Well

Three colleges, including the NDSC have tentatively scheduled a picnic in Woodland park at Hillsboro for May 17 NDU and Mayville State Teachers college are the co-planners.

Emissaries from the three schools, representatives of alumni boards, and junior chambers of commerce outlined preliminary plans for the first annual outing last Sunday. The picnic will be open to students, faculty members, alumni, former students, and friends of the institutions.

Contemplated is this

 A picnic from 2 to 7 p.m.
 Organized programs of some 20 minutes duration from each institution running from 2:30 to 4.

3. "Visiting", games, events, from 4 until 5:30.

4. Lunch, 5:30 to 6:30. Students and others are asked to bring baskets with the Hillsboro Junior Chamber of Commerce providing free coffee. There will be food concessions.

5. Community singing following

Doctor C. S. Putnam and Francis Ladwig were named on the steering committee from NDSC. College representatives agreed that a week-day would attract more students because of the busy spring schedule for week-ends. President John C. West has already assured that a half holiday for students would be satisfactory.

"Strictly good fellowship" was the theme agreed upon for the outing. Bandsmen from the three schools will be on hand to provide music, but will not be penalized to wear uniforms, march or go through other routine to disturb their day. Special trains are being contemplated. Croquet, horseshoe pitching, kitten-ball, tennis, and other sports will oc cupy the groups during the period when no formal entertainment is planned. Acts from the Flickertail Follies of the University, the Mayville Little German band and skits from the Bison Brevities of NDSC were some of the entertainment features suggested. However, the meeting agreed entertainment by the various institutions would be determined by them.

Osmund P. Breland is to be a visiting professor of biology in Sioux Falls College during the 1938 summer session.

Glenn N. Lawritson is to be a visiting professor of psychology in the University of Alabama during the summer session. He taught there during the 1937 session.

Graduate Paint Chemists Organize

The following letter was received by Dean L. L. Carrick regarding the organization of graduate paint chemists.

April 6, 1938.

Fellow Alumnus:

As you probably know, there are about two hundred North Dakota Agricultural College chemistry graduates in the paint industry. Of these, thirty were present at the last convention held in Cincinnati. These thirty met at a luncheon and, as usual when old grads get together, the conversation ran to, "Say, do you know Joe Blank? Where is he now? What's he doing?", and, "Is he married and whom did he mar-

Of course, it was impossible to see all of the men present and ask each of them individually about some mutual ac-quaintance. From all this rose the idea that it would be most interesting and beneficial to have some sort of organization of North Dakota paint chemists to facilitate the exchange of information between various of members. Ken Keating, Vern Ladd and the writer, Jim Konen, talked about such a plan and decided to sound out a few more alumni before anything concrete was done. This plan was fol-owed and when Keating, Ladd, O'Dell and Konen met at the Southern Federation Meeting in New Orleans, about fifty men had been approched and all of them heartily endorsed the idea. At that time it was decided that the above mentioned men would take upon them-selves the authority to make the first steps in organizing the North Dakota Paint Chemists group. It was our plan to send out cards to all of the listed graduates in order to obtain pertiinformation and to ascertain whether or not the men in the paint industry would support such an organization.

It would be our idea to promote the formation of sectional groups which might have periodic meeting of a more or less social nature. Each group might have a secretary to take care of getting the news to a central point, from which it might be disseminated to the whole organization. For the present, how-ever, if you will fill out the enclosed card and, if you wish, write some suggestion, the committee will know that you approve the plan. We shall then take steps to have the information contained on all cards mimeographed and sent to all members listed. After that we can gather in the "lost sheep" and get a definite organization started. This probably can be accomplished at the next national convention.

Hoping to hear from you soon, we

Ladd, L. B. O'Dell, J. C. Konen.

May Festival Held Next Week

A program of cultural and vocational contests and various educational features is planned by departmental heads here to entertain over 1,000 young men elected President Harriet McDowell and women high school students when they convene for the 30th annual May Festival next week-end, May 5, 6, and 7. The three-day festival will draw students from all parts of North Da-kota and western Minnesota.

The contests are divided into three groups—athletic, industrial and literary. In the agricultural division, contests in the poultry, livestock, and grain judging will take place on Thursday and Friday. The Saddle and Sir-loin club is in charge of the event.

All departments will hold open house, displaying various exhibits, demonstra-tions, and other interesting features of the college. Alphi Phi Gamma, honorary journalistic fraternity, will sponsor the newspaper contest, with plaques and cups awarded the first prize winners. Banquets and lecture meetings will be held, with declamatory, one-act play, and speech contests taking up much of the session.

Displays will be held in Festival hall, with the speaking contests in the Little Country theatre. Registration will take place in the YMCA building. Visitors will be housed at the men's dormitory, field house, Ceres hall, and at private homes.

To close the event, an all-college high school dance will be held in the field house. All events of the program will be free to everyone.

P.S.—Has something happened to your sports department? I am having a little trouble finding that page that used to fill in half of your worries when you needed space fillers. Why don't you ask the Board of Publica-tions to find a new sports editor. I notice that my name is still listed, so does that mean that I am still getting a salary? If I am still on the payroll you just send me my check along with ny copy of the Spectrum which as yet I have not received.

Roy Carr once told me that the Board felt that I should get myself a staff of sports writers, because there were dozens of kids in the school who wanted to write for the paper. Why don't you tell him to snap his fingers and get a few of them to put out a little athletic news? I am sure there is plenty of it going on around the school if someone would write it up. Everyone Invited Folks! Take a 'field trip' to the Botany department OPEN HOUSE on Wednesday evening, May 4, at 7:00!

Department majors promise you displays you have never seen before. Well, if you have seen them, you can say you've been around. If you haven't show, too. People hadn't seen 'the likes of it' before.

There will be a representation of each field undertaken here at North Dakota State College under the heading of Bo-tany—General Botany, Plant Physiology, Plant Pathology, Systematic Botany or Taxonomy, Plant Anatomy and Morphology, Agrostology, Histology (Microscopic Staining Technique), some work with Seeds, Ecology, Range and Pasture Management, mounting work in the Herbarium, a brief examination of important texts, references, and bulletins, and a glimpse of work that is done in the photographic dark-

It is planned that there be a 'hittingthe-high-spots' tour through the rooms and greenhouse, after which detailed questioning and explaining will follow as desired and requested.

Colored motion pictures of a trip through Mexico, preceded by a short talk on the North Dakota Badlands re-gion will accompany a period of refreshments.

There will not be a dance — but you'll ENJOY YOURSELF at the BO-TANY OPEN HOUSE.

Open House Held By Pharmacists

Don't fail to visit the "Pharmacy Open House" May 6. Early indications are that it will be the greatest display of its kind sponsored by the Pharmacy students.

Displays have been so arranged that the visitor may follow the preparation of a Pharmaceutical compound from the crude drug to the finished prescrip-tion. There will also be displays on first aid items and their usage. lets on the essentials of the medicine chest, and another on how to take medicine, have been printed for general distribution. Webber Addresses Science Meeting

Dr. Neal Weber, associate professor of biology at the University of North Dakota, will be guest speaker at the dinner in connection with the 30th annual meeting of the North Dakota Academy of Science to be held on the campus today and tomorrow.

Dr. Weber, a graduate of the University, who received his Doctorate from Harvard in 1934, will talk about a two months' trip he took in 1936 up the Courantyne river which separated British and Dutch Guiana, during which he studied tropical insects, mainly ants. He considers this river, which rises near the equator, to be one of the least known in the world.

More than 100 North Dakota scien-tists are members of the academy. Officers include: Dr. E. D. Coon of NDU, acting president; Dr. G. A. Abbott of NDU, secretary; and Professors A. J. Hill of Bottineau and J. H. Seymour of Valley City, members of the executive council.

ARCHITECTS COMPLETE DESIGN

Juniors and seniors in architecture completed an interesting development of a theoretical design for a proposed alteration to the A. C. campus Monday night.

A theoretical design for a monumental chapel to be located on the New England coast was recently completed by the sophomore class. Neither of the problems has yet been judged.
