Charity Ball Guests To Dance Amid Insignia Settings Tonight

Gwendolyn Stenehjem, Orville Sorvick Lead Grand March

In the traditional setting of sorority letters and insignias, co-eds will entertain their guests at the Charity Ball, tonight in the Field House. The reception line will form at 9:30 and the grand march at 10:00 p. m.

President of Pan Hellenic, Gwendolyn Stenehjem, Kappa Delta, and Orville Sorvick will lead the grand march. Second in line are Evelyn Wattam, Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Harris Vowles. Other sorority presidents completing the leaders are Lois Myron, Gamma Phi Beta with Charles Pollock; Catherine Brandes, Alpha Gamma Delta, with John Fisher; Doris Stinson, Phi Mu, with Melvin Thuring, and Dorothy Olson, Phi Omega Pi, with Ward Redmond.

Because of a previous engagement in Wahpeton Gov. and Mrs. Langer will not be able to take their place in the reception line, however, they do expect to arrive later.

Taking the honor position in the line next to Miss Stenehjem and her guest will be Pres. and Mrs. J. C. West with Dean Pearl Dinan and sorority presidents following.

An arrangement of sorority songs has been prepared by Lem Hawkins orchestra and will be a feature dance of the evening.

Invitations have been extended to the following to attend the Charity Ball as honored guests: Governor and Mrs. William Langer, President and Mrs. John West, Mayor and Mrs. Fred Olson, Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Shepperd, Dean and Mrs. C. A. Severson, Dean Alice Haley, Dean Pearl Dinan, Dean and Mrs. L. L. Carrick, Dean and Mrs. H. S. Rush, Dean and Mrs. A. E. Minard, Dean and Mrs. W. F. Sudro, Dean and Mrs. H. L. Walster, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. J. D. Easton, Prof. Edward H. Jones.

Chaperons for the evening are: Dr. and Mrs. D. S. Dedrick, Sargeant and Mrs. L. L. Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Johnson, Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Tebeau.

Francis Tourtlotte and Doris Stinson assisted by committees selected from each sorority are in charge of decorations. Mercedes Morris is in charge of the ticket sales; Gwendolyn Stenehjem, and Catherine Brandes, music; Evelyn Wattam, programs, chaperons, and invitations, and Florenz Dinwoodie publicity.

Pan Hellenic still requests that no corsages be worn at the ball. Girls who have not secured their dance programs may still do so by presenting their tickets at Dean Dinan's office.

Elizabeth Dewey Gets New Position

Elizabeth Dewey, '37 NDAC graduate has resigned her position at Grandin to accept a position at Casselton high school teaching English. Miss Dewey was a guest at the college Wednesday for Neighborhood Day. . . . Marjorie Hanson, NDSC junior, underwent an operation for appendicitis at St. John's Hospital this week. . . . Panhellenic held a short business meeting Tuesday at 4:00 in the Womens' Senate room, followed by a tea. . . . There will be a meeting of the Panhellenic Council next at 5:00 in the Womens' Senate rooms.

Prof. Leebey Speaks Before Charm School

Miss Constance Leebey, professor in foods, will be the guest speaker at Charm School next Thursday. To illustrate her talk on Table Service and Tea Etiquette, she will show models of silver and glassware.

Last evening, Miss Edna Schropp, Dean of girls at Fargo high school, addressed members of the school on the Etiquette of a receiving line. Plans are being made for an "All YW" meeting on February 17.

WILSON CONVO SPEAKER

E. A. Willson, executive director of the Public Welfare Board of North Dakota, will address NDSC students next morning during the regular convocation hour. The Welfare Board was created in 1935, and Mr. Willson's discussion will be concerned with its problems and purposes since that time.

NOTICE

Get your cuts from the following Bison cut salesmen: Leland Stenehjem, Wallace Olson, John Haugland, Art Lahlum, Myrtle Anderson, Charles Fossum and Andrew Almos.

NOTICE

Senior pictures can be taken at Voss Studio until the end of next week.

Brevities Leads To Be Chosen Early Next Week

Tryouts for the 1938 Bison Brevities were completed Thursday afternoon, with complete casting to be announced next week, says Director Robert Sanders. Most of the 44 co-eds and 28 men students who tried for positions were freshmen. Two quartets tried out.

Tryouts were under direction of Sanders, assisted by Leon Hartwell, Ernst VanVlissingen, Bill Stewart, Margery Pfeffer and Margaret Calhoun. Eloise Voss was named chief costume designer for the show, following judging of the designing contest. Judges were Miss Ann Brown of the Art department, Sanders and Manager Martin Wolfe.

Miss Voss won top honors with a sketch of a white sateen frock for afternoon sport wear. The dress is characterized by simple lines with a flaring skirt, high waist, wide collar and short puffed sleeves.

Assistants to Miss Voss will be Harriet McDowell, Rosemary Kniefel, Jessie Halstead and Ellen Endersbee.

New appointments to the production staff include Art Lahlum, technical adviser; Bill McGrugan, electrician; Milton Erickson and Dave Robinson, carpenters, and Mark Olson and Gilmore Schjoldahl, electricians.

Swallers Succeeds Kirk At AC Farm

Clarence Swallers, a graduate of the NDSC in '32, has been appointed to succeed M. J. Kirk as farm superintendent of the NDSC farm. Mr. Kirk has taken over the management of a stock farm in Darlington, Maryland.

Mr. Swallers has been connected with the Agronomy Dept. of the NDSC since 1937 and graduated from this school in 1932. In 1933 Mr. Swallers was appointed field foreman of the Agronomy department. Besides accepting the position of farm superintendent, he will also retain his former position in the Agronomy department. The two offices will be merged under one head to bring about closer cooperation between the two departments.

The NDSC is very fortunate in obtaining the services of Mr. Swallers as farm superintendent, not only because he is a graduate of this school, but also a native born son of North Dakota. Mr. Swallers is well fitted for the position through much practical experience, and will do the school a great service under the merger of farm superintendent and field foreman of the Agronomy department. His office will be in the NDSC seed house.

Many Seniors Practice Teach in High School

A number of seniors of the Education department have been doing their practice teaching in the college high school. This college high school is under the supervision of Dr. Iverson, who is principal and superintendent. Douglas Sasse, senior, is assistant principal. All high school teaching is done by seniors of the education department, each teaching for one term.

The high school students while not in class must stay in the study hall provided for them. Their class day runs from 8 a. m. until 3 p. m. Virginia Smith is Dean of girls. Over 40 students are enrolled.

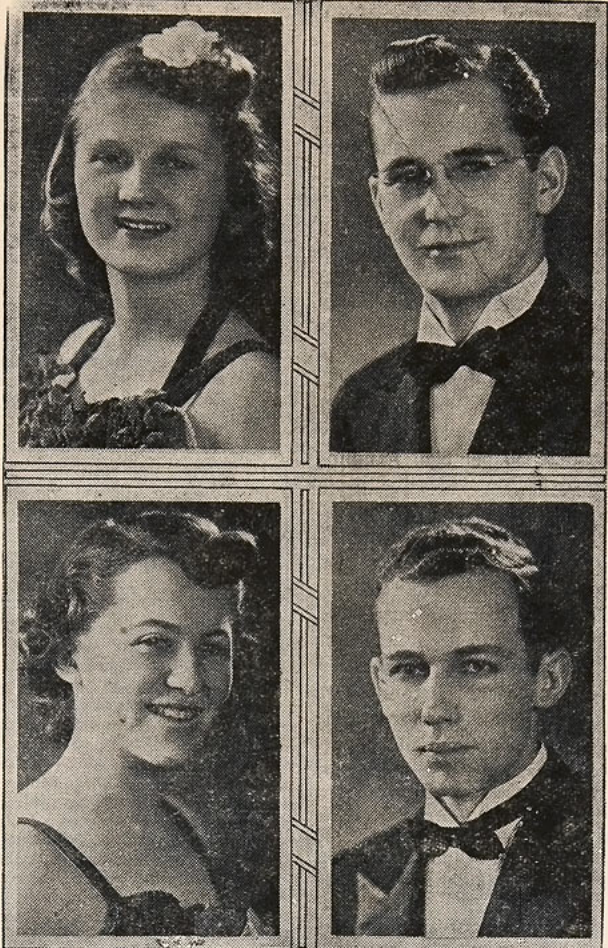

Chemist's Club Breaks Precedent With Swing

Breaking all precedence, the Chemist's Club will hold its second Swing Fest of the year tomorrow night in Festival hall. Bartholomew Patrick Keating, first president and charter member of the Royal Society of Igepons, will be guest of honor and faculty members of the Chemistry department and their wives will act as chaperons. Music will be furnished by Felix Farrar and his Nickelodians.

Alumna Wills $200

Alma Ann Buckley (1891-1937) of Killbourne, Wisconsin, who attended NDSC in 1923, and later taught in North Dakota Schools, has left a sum of $200 to Mr. Parrott or his successor as Registrar. According to Viola Borderud, no definite plans for the use of the money have been established.

Charity Ball Leaders

LCT Neighborhood Speech Institute Is Well Attended

One-Eyed Buffalo Causes Many Queries Concerning Inflictions

Why has the buffalo in Old Main only one eye? Can it be that the Sioux or some other Indians shot it? They would have something to "whoop" about if that is what had happened. But then that is only a thought. Surely they couldn't shoot such a large buffalo as that one must have been.

Here's another angle or two. Maybe some practical joker played a joke one night and cut all around the eye. Some girl archers (if there are any around) might have used the buffalo head for a target. Still, that is a pretty bad guess too. They couldn't have been such good shots, or could they?

All these are theories. Does anyone know the real story about the buffalo head by the registrar's office in Old Main? If you do, please let us know so we can quit guessing.

Bryngelson, Ewbank Conduct Speech Clinic Here This Week

Good attendance at all sessions has marked the Neighborhood Institute conducted four days this week in the Little Country Theatre under direction of A. G. Arvold.

Guest speakers at the institute are Bryng Bryngelson, director of the speech clinic at the University of Minnesota, and H. L. Ewbank, in charge of radio research and group discussion at the University of Wisconsin.

Sessions opened Wednesday, Neighborhood Day, featuring programs by talent from North Dakota communities. The program was in charge of Catherine Brandes and included the Male Chorus of LaMoure; Minstrel show from Gardner; solo readings and musical numbers of Casselton, and Sabin and Long Prairie, Minn.

An old-fashioned picnic supper complemented guest performers Wednesday evening. During the day Bryngelson and Ewbank addressed various groups on Group Discussions, Speech Pathology, Speech Defects in Neighborhood Programs, and Ewbank conducted a group discussion on The Neighborhood—Its Problems and Its Possibilities.

The two speech experts continued addresses on Thursday morning and in the afternoon conducted conference and round table discussion hours.

Discusses Stuttering

This morning Ewbank addressed a group on Radio Broadcasting and Bryngelson on Sidedness as an Etiological Factor in Stuttering, both educators conducting round table discussions.

Group and private conferences will be continued this afternoon in the Lincoln Log Cabin. Saturday morning Ewbank and Bryngelson will conduct a general meeting for teachers from Cass, Barnes, Richland and Traill counties in North Dakota and Clay county in Minnesota.

Round table discussions and a social hour will complete the Institute Saturday afternoon.

Speech, Drama Contests Planned

Three annual events feature the Little Country Theatre calendar next week. They are the nineteenth annual class one-act play contest, the forty-third college declamatory contest and the tenth Lincoln Club dinner and class debates.

Class dramatists will vie in the play contest at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the theatre. Lorraine Fitjar directs the freshman play and Roy Peterson, Edward O'Brien, Barbara Isaacs, Erva Mae Vincent and Mildred Corcoran are in the cast.

Dorothy Bentley is directing sophomores. The cast is Jeanne Paris, Milton Ericson, Jerry Monley, Ruth Thontme, Pat Oram and Dorothy Bentley. Juniors are directed by LaVaun Anderson. In the cast are Robert Nichols, Margie Pfeffer and LaVaun Anderson.

For the senior entry Virginia Smith and Gwendolyn Stenehjem will present an excerpt from Mary, Queen of Scots.

Nine students will read humorous or dramatic selections Friday afternoon in the declamatory contest. They are Margery Pfeffer, Edward O'Brien, Lucyle Kapaun, Shirley Olson, LaVaun Anderson, Harry Akemire, Byron Willson, Jen Barton and Marian Anstett. The Lincoln Club dinner is scheduled for Saturday.

Brindley To Give Illustrated Lecture

Sponsored by the Zoology club, Dr. F. J. Brindley will give an illustrated lecture on his work and experiences on the Dry Tortugas Islands last summer. The meeting, which is open to the public, is set for 7:30 Wednesday evening in room 319 Science Hall.

At the invitation of the Carnegie Foundation, Dr. Brindley spent nearly three months in research work on the Tortugas Islands, 70 miles off the coast of Key West, Florida. There the Carnegie Marine Biological laboratory is maintained. Shark Island, one of the group, was the setting for the recent movie, "The Prisoner of Shark Island." Colored lantern slides recently prepared by Dr. Brindley will supplement the lecture.

SENIORS NOTICE!

Have your picture for the Bison taken immediately at the Voss Studio, . . . Hand in your Activity List to the Bison office . . .

Camera Club Stages Flash-bulb Festival

The Bison Camera club will stage a picture-taking bee at its next meeting, Tuesday, February 15, announces John Cromb, president. All campus photographers are urged to attend and participate in the flash-bulb picture taking festival.

Roy Johnson, photographer for the Fargo Forum, addressed the club Tuesday evening, telling of photography work on a daily newspaper. He exhibited two cameras, a Speed Graphic and a Contax.

Competition remains open in the Smoke Contest, sponsored by the club. Faculty members and students are eligible to compete.

Draperies Exhibited Here in Old Main

A draperies exhibit of WPA handicraft is being shown until Feb. 10 in Old Main by the Art Club. The exhibited pieces are block prints and applique work done by members of the Milwaukee, Wis. WPA. The exhibit is open from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. daily and from 3 to 5 p. m. this Sunday.

Works of Professor Paul E. Barr, head of the Art department at UND, will be displayed by the Art Club, Feb. 12 to 22. Professor Barr has been widely recognized for his numerous pictures and in the collection will be included his most recent works of last summer when he painted the Badlands of North Dakota.

NOTICE

There will be an LSA meeting at 4:30 p. m. in the Y Sunday. The Moorhead State Teacher's LSA will present the program. Everyone welcome.

'Diary Of A Coed's Stomach' Says Girl's Habits Are Awful

By DOROTHY RAU
I am the stomach. My mistress is a well thought of co-ed. Her friends are many and her department is not to be criticized. But life is strange. How is it that one's department can be perfect and beyond reproach, and yet her dependents suffer so much?

Far be it beyond me to be a fault finder. We must be tolerant and patient. But dear friends—I leave it to you if my lot is not filled with the unexpected and the torture of the difficult. I might be wrong, though.

My mistress arose with a song in her heart in time for her 8 o'clock this a.m. Strangely enough I, too, had a special feeling—as if I could be filled with food or something. I expressed to her my condition, but of no avail since the eight o'clock had already been cut to the limit. At nine-thirty, though, I found myself bounced away toward the college gate in the midst of a babble of voices. As it was toward the college gate, previous experience told me it was to be a late breakfast at the Dug-out. (plunk) What was that thud in my midst? Ah, by the feel of that sudden drenching I know she has decided upon doughnuts and coffee, plus. Well, I see that my ordinary let-up that usually comes toward noon is going to be forfeited again. Heavens, what sinks this batch turned out to be.

Oh dear, what a jolting for a full load. She must be almost late for that next class. What did she learn this morning? I do not know because I was too busy trying to dig into that new allotment that had fallen my way after hours. Thinking back, though, I do not see how she could have learned much because I kept the brain void of food supplying blood all the while I

American Writers Announce Contest

One thousand dollars in prizes for student compositions were announced today by Donald Ogden Stewart, president of the League of American Writers. The contest is open to American and Canadian college and secondary school students. The subject of the compositions is to be "The antifascist struggle in Spain today in its relation to the general welfare of the American citizen of tomorrow."

According to Rolfe Humphries, chairman of the student contest committee, not only are essays welcome, but poems, radio and movie scripts, plays, short stories, etc. All manuscripts must be in the hands of the committee not later than Independence Day, July 4, 1938. The judges will announce the winners not later than Armistice Day, November 11, 1938.

First prize in this contest will be $500. Other prizes will be $250, $125, $75 and $50. All inquiries about the conditions of the contest may be addressed to either Ellen Kinkead, 3354 Clay St., San Francisco, Calif., or Rolfe Humphries, League of American Writers, 381 Fourth Avenue, New York City.

Women's Senate Will Sponsor Valentine Tea

Women's Senate members will be hostesses at an annual Valentine tea Sunday, February 13, from 3:30 to 5:30 at the college "Y". Receiving in line will be Dean Pearl Dinan, Dean Alice Haley, Dorothy Olson, and Evelyn Larson.

Adeline Hoge is general chairman. In charge of refreshments are Dorothy Olson, chairman, Cloyce Hocking, Catherine Brandes, and Dorothy Moen. Decorations committee, Lucille Clark, chairman, assisted by Margaret Calhoun. In charge of invitations are Marion Whalen, Neilla Dyer, and Lois McMillan. Faculty members and all students are cordially invited.

PI GAMMA MU MEETS

Pi Gamma Mu, national honorary social science fraternity, will hold its first winter meeting at 7:30 in the Fireside room at the college YMCA, announces Margaret Cadieux, president. The program will be "Labor and Strikes."

Why The American College?

What are American colleges doing for their students? Why are young men and women going to college? Is the answer to the first question intellectual attainment or dates? Is the answer to the second that of the rural miss who gave her reason for attending college: "I came to be went with, but I ain't yet."

Students come to college to find and prepare for themselves a place in life. They come to college not for the sole purpose of finding out how to live, but to live. Therefore college, through its medium of teachers and books, should not only be a course in life, but life itself. The outward appearance of the 1937 Joe College may be different from the 1920 model equipped with bow tie and pocket flask, but his eagerness to live has not changed. Critics of our American universities point out that to a student "pitching the woo" is more interesting than an international problem. (Writer's opinion: It's all in the way you look at it.) Furthermore, that anyone who wants to reform the world may start at once by joining the Young Communist League. (An alternative is to join the League Against War and Fascism and the Local Farmer-Laborites.) Another criticism is that many of our colleges are wrecked by the forwarding (as a favor) of the pet political philosophies of influential teachers. The answer is that the American educational philosophy is not one of hatching radicals, but rather one of imbuing true democracy, culture, and life in all its attainments in Joe and Suzy College. Disregarding our radical friends, it cannot be denied that the average college man comes to school for social contacts, dates, fraternities, and of course, professional training. And as for the average miss, she looks for a career, a good time, perhaps a husband, and also beneficial contacts. This is all well and good but one should strive for a balance of work and play. Quoting Dr. Guy Stanton Ford, acting president of the University of Minnesota: "There is little to be attained by thumbing a ride in the rumble seat of a college curriculum. What you get out of college will be a measure of what you put into it."

Thus what college is doing and what we are going to college for may be summed up in seven basic points presented by Roy Ivan Johnson of Stephens College: "Ability to write clearly and correctly; ability to speak clearly and correctly; ability to assimilate ideas effectively through reading and listening; ability to handle one's self gracefully in tasks that require muscular coordination; ability to handle mathematical concepts that underlie every day thinking; qualitative thinking; and ability to make judgments in problem situations on the basis of comparative values involved.—(Taken from "What Colleges Are Doing.")

John O'Day.

What Price Submission

STUDENTS, LET'S SAVE MONEY! How many times have you kicked about the price of supplies and books in our bookstore? Plenty of times, it has been and is the pet gripe of a majority of our students. We have talked enough about it—we now need action. With your cooperation we can and will do something about it. Cooperative bookstores are used with great success in many of the colleges of the country. Even the wealthy students of Harvard will not allow profiteering in the selling of books. Harvard has the largest Co-op bookstore in the country. The annual saving to Harvard students is $98,000. Yet here the students, who have all they can do to stay in school, submit pacifically to the exorbitant prices we have to pay for necessary supplies. "Boy, we really can take it." The U. of Chicago has a cooperative bookstore that pays an average dividend of 15 per cent a term. These are just two examples of the numerous successful student owned and controlled college bookstores.

This plan of a cooperative bookstore will help the faculty, too. The lower prices on books will enable more students to buy them. The students want to buy all the necessary books, but cannot afford them. A Co-op bookstore would do much to forward the principal aim of the students and the faculty—by offering the books to the student at a price he will be able to pay. Do you think it is fair that the bookstore should charge from 30 to 50 per cent handling charge? There should be no excessive profit made on student necessities.

Figuring conservatively, at a 10 per cent saving, students during the last 10 years have lost around $25,000 on books. Think of what $25,000 would buy. It would build a nice library.

Cooperation, whether it be in a bookstore or not, has to do with the simple case of working together. In this proposed bookstore there must and there will be a common interest. It has been said: "Hang together or hang separately," which is common interest enough. A college cooperative if run correctly can become a real and tangible contribution to the college itself and to the individuals who belong to it. It can be a source of pride to the student. He can call the bookstore his own, because in reality it is just as much his as it is anyone's.

All right, we have pointed out this obvious evil, of the profit-making bookstore. The success of other cooperative bookstores. We have shown how the students can own and operate their own bookstore. LET US DO SOMETHING. We have talked about this cooperative bookstore long enough. Now we should take action. One for all and all for one. If we stand together on this issue and work, we can and will accomplish our end. This is one of the things the proposed "STUDENT UNION" intends to do. Support it and you are supporting yourself.

Gorman King.

The Editor's Corner

In January and February advertising in all newspapers goes down, all business slacks up a bit. The Spectrum has been hit as hard as any of the others this year. But the sad part of the affair is the sudden slump here on the campus in news material. Midterms wreak awful vengeance on students used to the easy paths. Mid-term week is usually "postponement" week—everyone postpones their pleasure for awhile. And it is a very good thing, too. There are so many things to do on this campus, so few willing to do them, that those engaged in supporting our activities become so busy that they nearly forget that they have to have so many academic credits before they can graduate.

It seems that the Charity Ball is being looked upon with apathetic expectation. There is no evident excited talk about it, anyway. I guess everyone has too recently recovered from the financial and dissipating effects of the Military Ball. There are so few really formal social events during the school year here that everyone seems bent on killing themselves in the effort to enjoy the ones that do come along.

I've talked a lot about my marks and my professors this year. Many people have complimented me on my daring egotism. Indeed, so well complimented am I that I feel obliged to tell the latest anecdote: When translating a paragraph of French to English on my midterm paper, I didn't notice that the little goat in the silly story was a she-goat—therefore I translated the ever-recurring pronoun as "he". When I had finished, I realized my mistake and absently-mindedly went back and changed all the "he's" to "her" I hurriedly went on to the next question.

When I handed my paper in to be corrected, it read something like this: "The little goat went to the mountain. Her played in the deep grass. Her had herself a good time . . . etc."

When I got my corrected midterm paper back yesterday I found that Mr. Cobb had painstakingly marked in big red letters on the back: "HER DID?"

Is that a suede shoe on the floor or is that my tongue?

SOCIETY

Alpha Gamma Rho will entertain at a Fireside party on Saturday evening from 9:00 to 11:30. Mr. and Mrs. P. I. Severson will chaperon, and Dean and Mrs. H. L. Walster will be guests.

The Gamma Phi Beta active and pledge chapters will entertain the A. T. O's Sunday from 4 to 8 with a sleigh ride party. Refreshments will be served in the sorority apartment. Those in charge are LaVaun Anderson, chairman, with Verna Thysell, Marjorie Gaetz, and Regina Garrity assisting.

The Kappa Sigma Chis will hold their annual winter party at the college YMCA Saturday from 8:30 to 11:30 with decorations carried out in Valentine colors. Sgt. and Mrs. Detroit will chaperon.

Escorts of Kappa Delta active and pledges will be entertained at dinner at the Powers Hotel before the Charity Ball. Lorraine Engle is in charge of arrangements.

Everything gets under way on Feb. 14. Marty Wolfe will stagger up off his whistis and start making it miserable for the merchants who are getting rich from college trade. But the 14th is Valentine's Day and two days after Lincoln's birthday so he should be pretty sweet and honest to start with at least. The disillusionments will crowd in later. They always do.

Bob Sanders is going to be a picture of worry, worry, worry for a couple months in a row now, having to think about keeping the actors free from colds . . . scheduling rehearsals . . . wondering about expenses . . . wondering where the secretary is . . . wondering if this or that move will get by with college authorities . . . answering telephones . . . listening to sorority girls who have "just marvelous" pledges in the chapter whom they are going to bring around for a tryout three weeks late . . . griping because there isn't a Brevities car to get the staff around in a hurry . . . trying to arrange radio programs and then trying to find something half decent to fill in the 15-minute periods, etc., etc. Of course Wolfe and Stevenson and Whitver and Stewart and Pfeiffer and Clausson and Lynch and Calhoun and Jones and Barry will have to worry right along with Sanders.

Tryouts: knees knocking together . . . good speakers with poor singing voices and vice versa . . . tryout papers shaking in the hands of nervous contestants . . . smart alecks ad libbing their own lines . . . apologies about having colds, and how about another tryout next week . . . "how did I do?" . . . "I'd like something real funny," from a severe looking fellow . . . the little huddle after the tryouts in which the production staff slashes away with all sorts of cutting and complimentary remarks in order to pare down the cast to its final lineup . . . people sitting around the sidelines who have to be talked into trying out, and they really wanted to be coaxed all the time . . . handsome looking fellows proving very disappointing with unsatisfactory voices . . . publicity men hanging around trying to get new angles on the show . . . etc. . . . etc. . . .

Lots of good lines in this show . . . a perfect comedy part—the King. Piano player Virginia Johnstone (spelling?) playing over the same "cowboy" song time after time during rehearsals . . . her stool squeaking in time with the music . . . Stewart with his black hat on . . . Sanders pulling at his faded mustache . . . Hartwell getting in his 25 cents worth of comment, and very good at that . . . contestants trying to get into the swing of the lines and jazzing them up to the point where they are almost silly . . . guys singing fraternity songs and high school yelling songs for tryouts because they didn't know anything else or couldn't read music . . . the fellow who couldn't remember how his own fraternity song went . . . comments from the judges on her "nice legs" . . . or "figure", yet trying to judge them for voice and acting ability primarily . . . a couple of good fraternity quartettes trying out . . . they'll probably have to be split up . . . running around the dugout trying to get a few more tryer-outers to go over to Festival hall . . . Renee Walz looking very much like Stewart's idea of what Noah should be in the show . . . Shirley Olson giving the judges a thrill with unexpected talent . . . little groups here and there in corners reading, or rather mumbling over the lines . . .

Agricultural News

Dean H. L. Walster announces an assembly for junior Agricultural students on Wednesday, February 9, at 4 p. m. Dean Walster will head the round table conference.

On Monday, February 7, a new term begins for the Farm Folk School. Considerable interest has been shown in this class and a larger enrollment is expected for the new term. The term closes on March 12.

The Farm Folk School had their annual winter party at the Little Country Theatre Tuesday evening. Several long term agricultural students were guests, as were some members of the faculty who are instructors in the course. Pauline Reynolds of the extension department gave a demonstration of equipment used for indoor games. Other entertainment consisted of musical selections.

The Engineering department has added an acetylene welding outfit to its equipment for the benefit of agricultural students. The new equipment will be of especial value to students in the Farm Folk School as it enables them to take more advanced work in Farm Shop.

The annual spring Livestock Judging Contest, will open on February 25, under the auspices of the Saddle and Sirloin club. The contest is open to all long course Agricultural students.

The Saddle and Sirloin club has installed a bulletin board for their own use in the Agriculture building.

Theme Of the Week

Second in the series of freshman themes, reprinted here for meritorious content, is written by Royce Satre from Courtenay, freshman in arts and sciences. Satre, who has attained notice as a frosh basketball player, shows much originality in expression of a much-discussed tehory. His theme follows:

THEY MEAN NO HARM

Unintentionally, of course, but quite often do our well-meaning men and women interfere where it would be much better, perhaps, if they left well enough alone. True, this sort of situation is found only seldom, but the fact remains that these well-wishers often by putting their oar into fairly calm waters create a gigantic storm and a troubled sea. This kind of an affair is usually found in religion and education perhaps more often than in any other field. Probably, however, this is because there are more so-called good men in these lines of endeavor than in most others. By this statement we would naturally suppose that the ministers and teachers were a pretty nosy and blundering lot of idiots, but the truth is that because these two groups feel sorry for loose-moraled and poorly educated folk, they are more active in trying to give aid. We may look almost anywhere around us to observe the havoc wrought by these good men.

A Diary Of A Co-ed's Stomach

at the post office. Her excitement knew no ends because she was expecting a new formal for the Charity and she thought this might be it. That is what it turned out to be plus some rich filled cookies, which she insisted sampling. Oh the richness of them—and three! Well I must do my work.

Since it was now five thirty and she did not feel quite as well as she had upon getting up she decided that she did not want any supper. That made no difference to me at present because I would be busy the same as if there had been supper, really busier trying to right the over thrown schedule.

At seven she was very blue because she discovered a run in the last pair of stockings and she had lost the Chem. notes for the day; but a phone call from the owner of the pin she wore, cheered her again into seventh heaven.

A short while later found her looking anxiously at the clock, and a moment later they were away with me in tow for a gala evening. A show and a dance plus a party for a birthday or something. By the way of other voices it seemed to be a reunion. Early in the wee hours of the morning when the lunch arrived, my mistress now noticed she had no supper. That was funny because I surely was asking for no more then. I quite agree with the instructor in Bacteriology or Zoology or something, that said those conditions were mostly mental. Along came a toasted cheese sandwich, a chocolate nut sundae, and a cake. Don't tell any one, but I certainly think that was a funny tasting cake. To think that at this hour she wanted me to get to work on this—well, I refuse to work. I am going to strike, or to write the governor for a vacation or to do something drastic. I am completely worn to a frazzle.

My wholesalers can not keep me supplied with fresh enzymes at all these unanticipated hours; and even if they could, it is beyond me to work forever. Home and in bed, I do not blame her for tossing. I feel rather disturbed myself. I am going to fold my arms tight. I don't want to be indelicate but really I can't help it... here she comes — whoops! !

who meant only to help put the native in pants, made laws, educated him to some extent and put a taste in his mouth for better expensive things, a taste which only makes him hungry for more and more worldly foreign materials.

Oh, it's a nice feeling to see field after field of cultivated land on the island, also to see the natives working hard to buy foreign produce, but would it not have been much better if we had not ruined this Utopia? Would they not have been happier without our influence?

Attempts are being made at present to tame wild Kentucky hill-billies and other mountain folk, make them into fine citizens and industrious people. Is this being done because we want to help these people, or because we want to make them suffer, too? They will probably be better clothed, more educated, and follow a few more laws, but will these people be any better off than they were before? It has never been said. I do not believe that these mountain folk were unhappy, but the truth is we good men feel sorry for them and know they are ignorant and wrong. Perhaps the good men are doing well, but personally I think that Hiawatha was a pretty lucky guy..

Indifference to human personality constitutes a much more serious aspect of undergraduate life than sex." An article in the Harvard Advocate, student monthly, maintains that sex is a "minor" problem and laid most cases of maladjustment at Harvard to this indifference.

Jots And Jolts

Jean Leake and Beatrice Miller went roller skating last Saturday.

Ethel Skredsvig keeps fourteen or more dogs in her room. They range from Bismarck, the king, to a pooch in a pink dress.

Geraldine Davis claims that the only comfortable time she's spent in the last shivery days was the two minutes she spent in the bacteriology incubator.

Phyllis Rowe makes no bones of the fact that she's out to enlarge her collection of jokers, rescued, to put it politely, from stray card decks.

Muriel Schroeder is practicing talking like Donald Duck.

Cherle Telfson attended the Marion Anderson concert in Moorhead, Tuesday night.

James Taylor of the well-known SAE tribe has never seen Mae West in a movie—or otherwise.

Speaking of SAE's, Martin Wolf is famous for his intra-mural tie borrowing. The latest tie he has bought is said to look like "All Quiet on the Western Front."

Chuck Pollock hasn't got a big head. In a political science class he has to sit in a seat with one of the arms pulled out because he doesn't fit an ordinary one. When he accidentally kicked out another arm the other day Dwight Hunkins yipped: "What's the matter, fat man, will we have to cut a hole in the floor for you to put your feet in?"

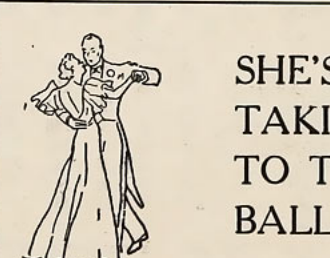

Things were pretty lively for a time when a naive water spaniel walked into a Botany 102 class the other day and let out a big creaky-jawed yawn.

The Art 203 class under Miss Ann Brown, breaks up the four-hour grind by serving themselves tea and cake.

UNIVERSITY OF CHATTANOOGA STUDENTS HOLD A CONTEST EACH YEAR TO SELECT THE BACHELOR OF UGLINESS!

Singing, shouting, college students in Denver hired their driver to stay sober for them. When a police officer questioned him he said, "They hired me to drive as long as the party lasted. I'm working my way through college for fellow students who like to drink."

At the Movies

"The Great Ziegfeld" returns to Fargo with a showing at the State Theatre Feb. 6-8. Outstanding in the cast are William Powell as Ziegfeld and Luise Rainer as his wife. "A Family Affair" is the second feature of the week at the State. Lionel Barrymore carries the leading role and is supported by two younger stars, Eric Linden and Cecilia Parker. This picture of politics and a family will be shown Feb. 9-10.

Another DeMille epic, "The Buccaneer," is brought to the Fargo Theatre Feb. 6-9. Fredric March plays another of his outstanding swash-buckling roles as Jean Lafitte, the notorious pirate of the early 19th century. On Feb. 10-12 the Fargo will show a Mae West comedy, "Every Day's a Holiday." Supporting Miss West are Edmund Lowe, Charles Butterworth, Charles Winninger, Walter Catlett, Lloyd Nolan, Herman Bing, and many others.

Rex Beach's "The Barrier" is the feature of the week at the Grand theatre. Starring Jean Parker and Leo Carrillo this master love story of a thrilling romance in gold-mad Yukon days, will be shown Feb. 6-8.

The Alpha Gamma Deltas will hold their "relaxer" Saturday evening. Evelyn and Geraldine Hulett are in charge.
