

"Tangerine" Chosen As New Bison Brevities Production

South Sea Island Is Setting
For Musical Show; Set
Tryouts, Jan. 26-28

Bison Brevities Manager Martin Wolfe and Director Robert Sanders this week announce "Tangerine," a two-act play adapted by Guy Bolton from a drama written by Phillip Bartholomae and Lawrence Langner will replace "Oh, Kay" as the annual Blue Key sponsored musical show. Change was necessitated by trouble with publishers and difficulty in casting.

Lyrics for "Tangerine" were written by Howard Johnson, and music by Carlo-Sanders. The play opens in a cell block of an alimony jailhouse in New York city. Later the scene changes to a mythical south sea island called "Tangerine." There are two island scenes, one a king's hut surrounded by other huts, and one a street in a native village.

The new production offers opportunities for seven male speakers or singing and speaking parts; five feminine speaking or speaking and singing parts; a women's chorus of eight, and a men's quartet, as well as other singers and dancers. There will be no men's dancing chorus.

Tryouts are scheduled for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Jan. 26, 27 and 28.

New appointments to the Brevities production staff are Mason Arvold, lighting; and Margie Pfeffer, script girl.

Bison Victor Over Coyotes

Scoring the most startling upset of the year in conference basketball circles the AC Bison snapped their consecutive loss streak at eight games and bowled over the favored and highly experienced Coyotes from South Dakota University, 33-32, to get off to a perfect start in the race for the conference title.

The following night the Bison had their conference standing dropped to the 500 mark as the Morningside Maroons, favored by many at their selection to be new NCIC champions, won by a score of 39-30.

The loss to Morningside was no surprise as the Iowa school already has the scalp of South Dakota State and has won two early season tournaments. Coach Lowe was not disappointed with the showing of the boys as he realizes that Morningside is going to win plenty of games by a more lopsided score than 9 points.

The Morningside cagers stopped the Herd from getting any setup shots but Ted Whalen led the AC men by dropping in four buckets and a pair of field goals. Larson, Rorvig and Fraser also turned in good games. Michaelson led the Maroon's attack with 13 points.

Trail at Half
In Friday's game against the Coyotes the AC basketballers were trailing 18-17 at the half and then let the South Dakota boys pile up a lead of 27-21 before they suddenly found the range. The Bison scored 8 points while holding the SDU cagers to one and when Herman Larson potted one from the side of the court they found themselves with a one point lead.

South Dakota U scored on a long shot to take over the lead but Ray Hawkins converted on two free shots to put the Herd ahead at 31-30. Coach Bob Lowe started to get that disappointed feeling again as Ingalls swished a long one through the nets for the Coyotes but with seconds left of the game Howard Fraser let one go from the center line which was good enough to win the game for the Bison.

Bison Gain Revenge Over MSTC Dragons

It may have been the fact that it was the first time they played before a partisan friendly crowd, but the Bison made their home debut their best game of the season as they swamped the MSTC Dragons with a score of 43-30 after losing to the same team by one point earlier in the season.

The victory which was the second of the year for the Herd uncovered a new star in Lloyd Troseth who sank five buckets and showed capabilities at following in shots which has been lacking with the AC cagers so far this year.

Carl Rorvig with six free shots and three baskets was high point man for the evening with Troseth right behind with 10 points. Hawkins was surprisingly good at center and is beginning to live up to the expectations held for him during his freshman year.

The entire team was clicking last Tuesday evening with no individual stars.

Plan Party For Student Newsman

Alpha Phi Gamma, honorary journalistic fraternity, and the Board of Publications are jointly sponsoring a party Tuesday evening in the YMCA for all student newsmen, present and past members of the Spectrum and Bison editorial and business staffs. Making arrangements are Richard Cook of Alpha Phi Gamma, and Francis Ladwig of the board.

A buffet supper will be served to approximately 60 guests at 6 o'clock. Following this, a staff member of the Fargo Forum will speak. Cards, dancing and other entertainment will conclude the evening.

Sponsors extend an invitation to all present staff members and especially urge former staff members to attend.

NOTICE

There will be basketball practice for members of the YMCA intramural basketball team tomorrow morning at 10. Any student on the campus not affiliated with a fraternity and interested in playing on the independent intramural hockey team should get in touch with Dick Sweitzer at the college Y.

Bison Hope For Conference Win Over Teachers

Biggest Job Will Be To Stop
Bob Curtis, High Scoring
Panther Man

Tomorrow night the Bison fans are going to see whether or not the home floor really means as much to their team as the MSTC game indicated or whether the victory over the Dragons was as unusual as it was unexpected. The opposing cage team will be the Panthers from Iowa State Teachers college which boasts of one conference victory as against no defeats this year.

The Herd will be strengthened by the return to action of the high scoring ace, Ted Whalen, but the sophomore pair, Larson and Troseth, who saw so much action during the Dragon game so pleased Coach Lowe with their playing that he will probably use them a great deal tomorrow evening. Troseth especially will see a lot of service because his ability at following in shots may be just what the Bison need to provide the difference between victory and defeat.

Hawkins Surprises

The rest of the starting lineup will consist of Hawkins at center and Rorvig and Fraser at guards. Although it was well known how important a part the veteran guards would play in the Bison campaign the play of Hawkins at center has been a distinct surprise this year and Coach Lowe hopes that the Wisconsin lad continues to improve as he has been.

Dressing for the game and who will probably see action will be Stephens at center and Phillips and Maxwell as guards. Wheeler is still ineligible and his loss to the team hurt their reserve power immensely.

The Bison job will be to stop lanky Bob Curtis, Panther center, who already has a good start towards wiping out the record set by the equally lanky Russ Anderson, Bison center last year. Curtis scored 21 of the team's 33 points against Omaha last week and he is now the leading conference scorer.

The Panther's scoring power is more or less bunched in the one player and if he can be held down the game is half won. The other half would be in scoring off of the veteran defensive team which boasts of five lettermen. Although Curtis is their only potential scorer they have a team which is not weak on defense at any one position.

Phi U, Tryota Will Hold Joint Meeting

Phi Upsilon Omicron, national honorary home economics sorority, is sponsoring a joint meeting with the Tryota club next Wednesday evening at 7:30 in the YMCA. Mrs. W. W. Fuller will read a current play, as the specialty number of the evening.

Short talks will be given by Claire Putz, Adeline Hoge and June Lowe. Evelyn Larson will present a piano solo. Following the reading, tea will be served. In charge of the refreshments are LaVaun Anderson and Evelyn Larson.

Dr. Fiegel, Well Known Philosopher, Is Speaker

For three years he was connected with the Vienna People's Institute. He won a Rockefeller Institute fellowship at Harvard college in 1931 and was a professor-lecturer at the University of Iowa. He is a former co-editor of the Philosophy of Science Journal.

Promersberger who is a graduate of the University of Minnesota and has spent the last two and one-half years at the Northwest School of Agriculture.

A new musical organization made its debut on the campus Tuesday evening between halves of the Bison-MSTC basketball game when 20 members of the Gold Star Band appeared as a saxophone band under direction of Dr. C. S. Putnam. The new unit, all saxophones, played Edward's "America United," England's "The Follies," and Finner's "Stop It."

A trombone section will be featured later on, says Dr. Putnam, which will add to orchestral development of the band.

Nelson, Stenehjem To Play Leads In 'The Good Earth'

GWENDOLYN STENEHJEM
Plays "Good Earth" Lead

LCT Players To Present Drama
Of Pearl Buck's Chinese
Novel, Jan. 25

Arvold Is General Director;
Carol Ladwig Coaches
Student Actors

Pearl Buck's great novel of Chinese life, "The Good Earth" will be presented Tuesday evening, Jan. 25 as the second in the series of Little Country Theater plays.

Robert Nelson and Gwendolyn Stenehjem, veteran performers, will play leads as Wang Lung, a farmer, and O-Lan, a slave who becomes Wang Lung's wife. Movie goers will remember Paul Muni and Luise Rainer in these roles.

One of the most famous novels of recent years, "The Good Earth" is well known here having been shown in motion picture form recently. LCT players will use the manuscript used by the Theater Guild in New York, a powerful drama which varies somewhat from the movie version. The three act play was adapted from the novel by Owen and Donald Davis.

Interest High

Recognized as one of the most difficult plays attempted by student talent, interest runs high on the campus and in downtown Fargo in anticipation of a fine interpretation of this famous drama. Rehearsals are in full swing under coaching of Carol Ladwig. A. G. Arvold is in general charge.

Others in the cast are Mason Arvold, Wang Lung's father; Don Jones, Wang Lung's uncle; Mildred Boettcher, Wang Lung's aunt; Richard Hoag, Wang Lung's son; Lucyle Kapaun, Wang Lung's daughter; Virginia Landquist, Cuckoo; Carol Ladwig, Lotus; Darrel Dahl, Ching, a neighbor farmer; Virginia Smith, the ancient mistress of the House of Hwang; Roland Barnick, the gatekeeper of the House of Hwang; DeLaurence Nelson, a peach vendor; Robert Nichols, Yi Ling, a maker of coffins; Hubert Bahr, Taoist Priest; Thad Fuller, a doctor; Leland Stenehjem, Wang Lung's eldest son; Lillian (Continued on Page 4)

Debaters Meet Montanans Here

Traditional rivals, debate teams from NDAC and Montana State College will meet in a non-decision contest Friday evening in the Little Country Theater. The question will be the national Pi Kappa Delta question, "Resolved: That the National Labor Relations Board should be empowered to enforce arbitration of all industrial disputes".

Don Erickson and Dick Hoag will represent NDAC, Roy Hoffman and Dana Myic, Montana State. The local squad will uphold the affirmative. A coffee hour in the Lincoln Log Cabin will follow the debate.

Competition in the Red River Valley Forensic League will begin Tuesday and Wednesday, says Leverett Hoag, in charge of debate here. The league is made up of squads from this school, Concordia and MSTC.

On the AC men's squad are Arnold Holm, Winfield Fine, Raymond Novak, Kenneth Vanderland, James Campbell, Byron Wilson, Carl White and Roger Toussaint. Co-ed debaters are Lorraine Naftalin, Alice Davis, Helen Grant, Valdis Knudson, Lorraine Hofstrand, Ruth Thorne, Jessamine Haas and Alice Larson.

U.S. Marine, Former Student, Writes Of Sinking Of Panay

Ferd Froeschle Says American
Fleet Often Playing
With Dynamite

In a letter to his brother, Helmuth Froeschle, NDAC freshman, Ferd Froeschle former student here and now with the U. S. marines in the Pacific, writes interestingly of receipt of news that the Japanese had sunk a U. S. gunboat (the Panay). Reflecting views of marines at Shanghai, Froeschle does not seem surprised at the incident and says "no doubt the government will be quite satisfied with an apology and reimbursement for the loss". The former AC student tells of the great hunger of Chinese refugees and of the complete ruin of Shanghai. Excerpts from his letter follow: Shanghai, China, Dec. 13, 1937. "The weather here is continuing perfect. Altho it's not quite as warm as San Diego there has been a good deal less rain than in that portion of the U. S. However, each day reports come from the states telling of the tremendous cold that most of the country is suffering. "Yesterday the order came for the Sixth Regiment to return to the states. That, I suppose, includes also the Brigade officers. In the case that those orders hold we will probably be leaving at the time this letter reaches you. We are expected to arrive in the states around March 1st but may be held over by maneuvers. Today we received the, not too surprising, news that a U. S. gun-boat had been sunk up the river from here. There is little information to be had about casualties and even less about the possible effect on our staying longer or leaving sooner. "The occurrence was almost to be expected, for the U. S. fleet has been playing with dynamite in the area for some time. The event brought out first cross page headlines I have seen (Continued on Page 4)

Personal Futility May Be Conquered By Achievement

Deep in the consciousness of every thinking man is a hatred of personal futility. Most of the restlessness and dissatisfaction which characterizes our society can be traced to a feeling of futility, a realization that one is not making the best use of his powers. Modern man finds it too easy to drift into a rut of day to day existence in a job which nets him a living but gives him no deep and enduring sense of contributing something worthwhile. Man does not live by bread alone—in him there is a higher sense which must also find some satisfaction. It is in devoting his life to something which he believes is in some way important to the race that man achieves a way of life that is complete.

We who are now in the colleges of the nation preparing ourselves for life should take care that the goal for which we are aiming is one which will give us sufficient satisfaction in our effort to achieve it. The danger that some of us will find ourselves a few years out of school living a life that is meaningless and futile is imminent—now is the time to prepare against such a day. We must form for ourselves a group of ideals which we believe in and then be firm in our determination to live by them. We must be on our guard against those things which can so easily make us forget that to which we have dedicated ourselves. In college we should strive to arrive at a true sense of values which will aid us in maintaining our intellectual integrity through the remainder of our lives. We must take ourselves seriously while in college because it is here that we are building the foundation upon which the whole structure of our lives will rest. That foundation will be good if we cultivate that innate dislike for personal futility and build with the idea that our lives are dedicated to something worthwhile.

Spectrum Editorial On Student Disinterest Effective

That the editorial in last week's Spectrum deploring lack of interest in campus organizations was effective is evidenced by the fact that seven students applied for reportorial positions on the Spectrum. Applications were also received for Bison yearbook and Bison Brevities staffs.

There is still opportunity for students, especially freshmen, to get in campus activities. No freshman is already so capable that he or she has a "cinch" on being editor or business manager of the Spectrum and Bison or manager or director of the Bison Brevities three or four years from now. Besides these activities, the Little Country Theater offers a variety of opportunity for speech and dramatic talent.

To the college freshmen—remember, you're the students who four years from now will literally "be running the campus" as far as student activities go. A high standard of extra-curricular activities means a great deal to every college. Get out and get some experience now so that you may do a better job than those before you. The only way to do that is to perfect and train yourselves for responsible positions through observation and experience.

LCT Players Attempt Difficult Production

Little Country Theater players will attempt one of the most difficult projects ever staged by the department when they present Pearl Buck's epoch-making novel, "The Good Earth," Tuesday evening, Jan. 25. Past performances of A. G. Arvold's contingent indicate that "The Good Earth" will be given a fine interpretation and will highly please NDAC and Fargo drama enthusiasts.

Mr. Arvold says that "there is a wonderful spirit among workers in the Little Country Theater this year." He has a group of willing workers who spend much of their spare time in carrying on splendid work for that department. Main characters in "The Good Earth" learned their lines over Christmas holidays and rehearsals have been conducted since the first of this term.

"The Good Earth," as well as other LCT projects, deserve continued support of students. It isn't as though students are paying out something for nothing. The Little Country Theater has something to offer NDAC students. That's its main reason for existing. It's up to students themselves to pass up no opportunities for taking advantage of what Arvold and his company have to offer.

No Smoking In Field House

Athletic officials have repeatedly requested students and other spectators at basketball games in the Field House to refrain from smoking in the auditorium. Their requests have up to this time been courteous and made in a spirit of co-operation. But this year, officials are going to insist that there is NO SMOKING IN THE FIELD HOUSE DURING A GAME OR BETWEEN HALVES.

College students should be able to see the logic of these requests, but they don't. It's a deplorable situation when college students will not co-operate in a movement which is obviously for their own good.

At the next two basketball games, printed requests to refrain from smoking will be handed each person as he enters the Field House. If this does not prove effective, student police will enforce the edit—and that shouldn't be necessary.

Congratulations

The Spectrum extends its congratulations to a new musical organization, the saxophone band, which made its debut on the campus Tuesday evening. The new unit, directed by Doc Putnam, is a lively organization which proved effective in its first performance and may be called on for frequent campus appearances in the future.

The Editor's Corner

John Lynch edited this issue of the Spectrum. He very kindly consented to fill in as a pinch-hit man while Yours Truly took a week off to apply himself to a couple of conditions. John is no new hand at the job. Last year when the board was casting about for an editor he stepped in and more than proved himself able. On behalf of the student body and myself I extend sincere thanks to John Lynch.

It is time now that we meet and consider ways and means to form a co-operative student body. Last term there was some talk about incorporating the student body as a more sensible business venture. When the meeting we had in the Spectrum office last term broke up, the idea appeared unofficially to have the sanction of the general student body. Without consulting anyone I have inserted a box announcement on the front page of this issue calling all those who met here before to come again and talk over a constructive plan of action. Possibly a comprehensive publicity campaign, acquainting everyone with the co-op plan, will be carried on by this paper before any general assembly is called.

I won't be so bold as to ask the Student Commission to drag its other foot into the grave too, but I do think that it wouldn't hurt it to yawn, or turn over, or ripple the surface. It is up to the Student Commission to confer with the deans, the president, and the various boards of administration to plan and do the necessary fixing and changing and adjusting that cries out to be done in student affairs. With a little pressure in the right place the Student Commission could get the men behind the scenes to establish speed laws and traffic police, an NDSC nameplate on the gate, a trophy case in Old Main, soap in the washrooms, humidifiers on the radiators, and a host of other things. "—and elevators in Science hall!" says the wit on my left. "—and beer in the fountains!" says the wit on my right. So, seeing that the wind blows from that direction, I will lay all joking aside.—G. P.

Froeschle Writes of Sinking of "Panay"

 in Shanghai papers. No doubt the government will be quite satisfied with an apology and reimbursement for the loss.

Likes Shanghai

"I had felt for a while that I might like to stay here but am as yet not sure. I rather like Shanghai but I suppose it too would get dull in time. The greatest thing in favor of staying is the economy in living. At the present time even that is beginning to look a bit doubtful. Today I watched several of the rice lines in different parts of the city. There is so little rice to be had in the city now that the people have to stand in lines to receive their portion. Being that there are over a million rice eaters in the city the demand is quite a bit larger than the supply. People are continuously breaking into the lines and even getting beat on the head with the police's billys does not seem to bother them much, so great is their hunger.

"The shops are open again now but the things one wants to buy there are still not available to any great extent. There is an almost complete lack of U. S. products for very few except government ships are coming in from the states. As you probably found from the last letter there are no stamps available here. There may be some that have come in today, but up to the present time there is no news of any.

Chapei Ruined

Recently, while in the former war zone, I got some idea just how much damage can be done by shells and bombs. Chapei, the recent ground of activities around Shanghai, is in complete ruins. There seems to be nothing left worth redeeming. The homes there, altho never more than mere shacks, are now merely a part of the surrounding fields. The area has finally been opened to people who had homes there but there are no homes to go back to. Day by day the refugees are trickling out of the Settlement to go back and find what is left of their homes and farms. Most of them will be disappointed. Those who are not completely so, will not be too happy either, for there seems to be nothing left anywhere outside of Shanghai.

"With each ship from Hongkong more former Shanghailanders are returning to their business. Some of them like the refugees from Chapei will find little to come back to. Others, like the returning Japanese shop owners, will find more than ever to come back to.

"The Japs seem to feel that they have the right to run the Settlement as they see fit. Maybe they have, few people care to argue with them."

Practice Started In Girls' Basketball

With a new instructor this year, Miss Barbara Register from Bismarck, the girls' basketball practice got under way this week.

A large group of girls reported and it is expected that there will be six teams of green clad girls organized. The teams are chosen by their captains and then daily practice will be held for the next two weeks.

After two weeks of preliminary scrimmaging the varsity team will be selected by Miss Register and then a league will be set up for competition between the sorority and independent teams.

At the Movies

"Navy Blue and Gold" headlines the Fargo presentations for this week running Jan. 16 to 19. Robert Young, James Stewart, and Lionel Barrymore share honors in casting. Florence Rice furnishes the romantic element. The incomparable Garbo is cast opposite Charles Boyer in "Conquest" coming to the Fargo Jan. 20-22. This is the story of Napoleon Bonapart, his conquests on and off the battle field.

A hectic romance between a young man who cannot marry for three years without losing a fortune and a girl determined to favor a musical career forms the theme of "The Life of the Party" with Gene Raymond, and Harriet Hilliard showing at the Grand next week.

Appearing as a two-fisted, two-gunned, son of the West, Smith Ballew is starred in "Western Gold" with Heather Angel at the State Jan. 14-15. Following on Jan. 16-18 will be shown "A Star Is Born" with Janet Gaynor and Frederic March. At the end of the week "One Mile From Heaven" with Claire Trevor, Sally Blane, Douglas Fowley and Bill Robinson will be presented, Jan. 19-20.

A commissary will be established in Ceres hall by the sophomore commission of the YWCA as its latest project.
