

BISON, SIOUX SET FOR CRUCIAL TEST

Kunkel Predicts Sioux Victories In Series Here

Bison Defense Will Crumble
In Final Games Says
Student Editor

By BOB KUNKEL
Editor Dakota Student

Hundreds of University and Grand Forks supporters of the Sioux cage quint will invade Fargo today to lend moral support to their team's bid for the North Central Intercollegiate Conference basketball title.

A special train will leave Grand Forks at 3 p. m. today bearing the bulk of the group, including 50 members of the University band.

Prospects for a fourth consecutive title for the upstaters were materially dimmed last Saturday evening as State eked out a 26 to 23 victory over Coach Clem Letich's five, and probably a majority of Grand Forks fans look to nothing better than a split in the two games to be played in Fargo this weekend.

Enthusiasm for the annual series had been the lowest in years prior to Grand Forks' twin bill, as the result of depressing reports from the A. C. contingent and an apparent self-assurance on the part of Sioux supporters that North Dakota would probably take four straight.

But from the opening whistle on last Friday night, Nodakmen knew that the four straight legend was one not to be told to our grandchildren, and were amazed at the Bison defense and cool, calculating offense which was able to score from outside the foul circle with alarming regularity.

Bemoan Bison Victory

With the Bison holding a four point lead in the latter minutes of the fracas, many spectators had put on their hats and coats bemoaning an A. C. triumph. But a burst of scoring by both clubs, with a break or two swinging to the Sioux, and then climaxed by all-conference Birk's interception of a Bison pass to race half way down the floor for the tally (Continued on Page Four)

Anstett Predicts Brevities Success

Hugh Anstett, a senior, now putting the finishing touches on his long Brevities career, is certain that managing such a production is much more difficult than acting in the cast. He has assisted in the production of every show during his four years at the college, occupying last year the position of assistant business manager, yet he is sure the director's berth is the toughest of them all.

In addition to his regular duties of coordinating the many phases of a musical comedy into a finished production, Anstett is inaugurating a new system of management this year, with all staff positions non-remunerative, but despite the difficulties attendant such a change, the red-haired chief reports that everything points to an outstanding production.

There will be a meeting of Edwin Booth next Tuesday noon in the Log Cabin.

Bison Given Even Chance to Repeat Victory
Over University Cagers; Howard
Fraser May Play

By JAMES CRITCHFIELD

Thrills, spills, and some sensational cagery are on the menu for basketball fans this week-end when the North Dakota university basketball team invades the spacious Bison athletic building with their fourth consecutive North Central Conference cage title dependent on the outcome of the last two games of the series.

After the surprising outcome of last week's games when Bob Lowe's cagers amazed the dopesters by playing even basketball with the Sioux on Friday night to drop the game by one point on a faulty pass in the last 30 seconds of play,

Bison Marksmen Defeat 'U' Squad

Maintain Perfect Record By Winning 10 Matches
During Week

The Bison sharpshooters defeated the "U" marksmen by six points in a shoulder to shoulder match last Friday and Saturday. The respective scores were 1867 to 1861. The NDSC team consisted of John Friese, David Askegaard, Conway Christensen, Lyle Benson, Howard Isaak, and John Schoessow.

Tomorrow the teams meet here, in a return match, with Friese, Sorrenson, Askegaard, Benson, Christensen, Isaak, and Ebeltoft on the NDSC firing line.

Ten postal matches were completed and won last week, bringing the total to 22 matches won, none lost.

The latest scores are: N. Y. U. 1835, A. C. 1864; Mississippi State 1803, A. C. 1864; Penn. State 1828, A. C. 1864; Illinois U 1853, A. C. 1864; Oregon U 1829, A. C. 1864; South Dakota State 1796, A. C. 1864; Iowa State 1844, A. C. 1864; North Carolina State 1849, A. C. 1864; and two five man three position matches, Brooklyn Polytech. 1354, A. C. 1379; and Cornell U 1269, A. C. 1379.

No Charge For Hobnob

And so, my dear children, we knock the price down. There will be no charge for the "Y" Hobnob next Thursday.

The "Y" feels that it is cheating many college students out of a good time, so next Thursday at 4:15 the doors of the "Y" auditorium will be open to all free.

Dances Honor Sioux Guests

Festival and YMCA Scenes
For After-the-Game
Celebrations

Two simultaneous dances will be held Friday evening in Festival Hall and the YMCA, after the basketball game, to accommodate the visitors from the U. The Student Commission will sponsor the Festival dance, with Lennea Frisk in charge; while Dick Sweitzer is in charge of the YMCA dance.

A special program will be repeated at both places, consisting of a comedy act by Virginia Smith and Donald Putnam, a tap dance by Lois Rudrud, and songs by the New Rockford trio and Rosemary Lee. The Walsh-Sanders orchestra will appear at Festival, and Dan Peterson's at the YMCA.

Registration cards will admit

Initiate Eight Into Military Group

Eight men were initiated into Scabbard and Blade at the college YMCA at 5 o'clock last Thursday, Feb. 17, under the supervision of Eldred Lee. The men are: Millard Burke, Bruce Dahrling, Jack Riebel, Paul Christianson, Maurice Ruland, James Shigley, William Pflugrath, and Dwight Hunkins.

Immediately following the initiation, Guidon entertained the old and new members at a buffet supper in the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority rooms. Commissioned officers were guests.

NOTICE

There will be a meeting of the senior class Friday, March 5, at 4 p. m. in Sc. 319. Election of Sr. ball manager will be held.
—Don Putnam, Pres.

There will be a meeting of the junior class Friday, March 5, at 4 p. m. in the LCT. Election of Jr. ball manager will be held.

Frosh Commission Guests Of Sophs

Members of the newly elected freshman commission will be guests of the sophomore commission at dinner today in Ceres hall. Roberta Gregg, president of the sophomore commission, is in general charge and will act as toastmaster. Ethel Olson, president of the YWCA cabinet, and Miss Delphine Rosa, advisor, will give responses. Invited as guests are Mrs. I. W. Smith, Mrs. T. W. Johnson, and Mrs. J. H. Sheperd.

The regular Blue Monday tea will be held next week with Mrs. H. H. Flor and Mrs. H. E. Wirth as special guests. Members of the Y council are also invited.

Initiation Is Held For Journalists

Gamma Tau Sigma, honorary journalistic fraternity, held initiation services Wednesday night for six new members. Phyllis Rowe, Archie Seebart, Joey Burgum, Ruth Schmierer, Richard Cook, and Winnie Olson, are the initiates.

Following a banquet in the Graver hotel dining room, a short service inducted the new members, at which Bill Murphy, president, presided.

Interest in the coming junior and senior class meetings to discuss a combined junior and senior ball was heightened Thursday evening with the announcement of the drafting of Al Brauer as an independent candidate for junior ball manager.

ATO'S GET FULL PARDON TODAY

By BERNARD MAJORS

ATO House, the Alcatraz of North Dakota State—Late Thursday these fifteen fever suspects changed their official song from "Eleven More Months and Ten More Days" to "I'm Free as the Birds in the Trees." Dr. Skarshaug, city health commissioner, has lifted his shut-up edict, and the gates will be thrown open at exactly 5 p. m. today.

Now I want to give you an idea as to what to expect. It's reasonable that fifteen men (that includes "Man Mountain" Cavett) will be somewhat changed after spending six whole days with nothing to do but play cards and yell at friends strolling by on Twelfth avenue.

Take for example "Bombing Bob" Erickson. If you should hear him suddenly shout "A full house, by cracker," don't give it a second thought. It's become a habit which time alone can erase from his memory.

Then "Man Mountain" very probably will walk around for the next several weeks with his head bowed, hands folded on his chest, reciting strange chants to himself. Likewise disregard him. He was the official S. F. (scarlet fever) chaplain, and each morning at 10:30 sharp aroused the boys with the gentle call: "Come my lambs, it is time to pray."

If, by chance, you see Fred Heisel (he's the one who is nearly bald) limping slightly, don't feel sorry for him. He went to bed early one evening. The dorm was empty, a streptococci grabbed his heel, and inflicted a terrible wound before we could come to his assistance.

Jerry Keohane and Ray Goosen may seem somewhat dejected, but it's only from disappointment. They were holding out for an indefinite sentence, and were very unhappy at the sudden termination of what might have been a second Christmas vacation.

"Frog" LaMarre will probably spend the next three weeks at the Johnson residence, so if he fails to show up for some time you know he is in good hands.

The second edition of the Stenehjem family on the campus may have housemaid knees and dishwasher hands for several days. He was one of the three rooks in the house, and naturally developed a housewife complex with all that work to do.

Glen Fake and Bernard McCarthy, the other two pledges, will probably show no ill effects of the six-day sojourn. They are experts at passing the buck and never seemed to be around.

And Bowers—there's a man for you. He was always asking somebody if he wanted to play a game of hearts. If he makes the suggestion to any of you, just politely ignore him—it's a bad deal in more ways than one.

If Kenny Hansen absent-mindedly tells you "six bits apiece and a buck and a half for two"—he's just reminiscing, and you can't convict a man for that. Besides, they repealed the 18th amendment.

Then there's "Bun" Maddock. He was indeed a problem child. He was the only Farmers Union man in the house, and Thursday night claimed a conversion. His victim, he said, was Dave Cavett, so it might be a good idea to watch both.

Dick Ford will probably be just the same old Dick. He was rather aloof the first few days, but finally got in with the spirit of things and taught the boys how to play Old Maid.

Dave Cavett will, naturally be very emaciated. A brother of "Man Mountain," he naturally took everything much more to heart than did the rest of us.

As for myself, I learned nothing, acquired no bad habits, and spent most of my time in the phone booth.

Maroon's Chances Are Good

Bison hopes for the conference dimmed when Morningside defeated South Dakota university on Tuesday, 22 to 20, giving the Maroons a very good chance of topping the conference. However, authorities have since stated that Morningside cannot win a clear title because of a conference ruling which restricts (Continued on Page Four)

Greek Groups Elect Officers

Lois Myron, Evelyn Wattam,
Harry Curtis Will Take Offices

Kappa Kappa Gamma and Gamma Phi Beta sororities and Sigma Chi fraternity held election of officers at regular meetings Monday night. These officers will assume duties immediately to continue over for the coming school year.

Evelyn Wattam was elected president of Gamma Tau chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. To assist her are Claire Putz, rushing captain and pledge trainer; Janet Spaulding, recording secretary; Alice Crahan, marshal; Ann Bolley, corresponding secretary; Lorraine Weir, registrar; Ruth Schmierer, treasurer; and Dorothy Hawkinson, social chairman.

To head Alpha Omicron chapter for the coming year, Gamma Phi Beta sorority members elected Lois Myron. Other officers elected were Vinnie Olson, vice president; Constance Taylor, secretary; Maxine Schollander, treasurer; Willa Jean Wells, assistant treasurer; Corrine Anderson, corresponding secretary; Betty Verne, pledge trainer; and Eloise Voss, rushing captain.

Sigma Chi fraternity elected Harry Curtis president-consul together with Dwight Hunkins, vice president-pro-consul and rushing captain; Jack Boulger, annotator-secretary; Floyd Viel, quaestor-treasurer; James Shigley, tribune; George Putz, associate editor; Bill Corwin, manager; Leslie Ike, custos; Richard Cook, historian; and Donald Buchanan was elected to receive the Ostman Richardson trophy which is awarded to an outstanding graduating senior each year.

Unconventional Thinkers In Demand Now

EVERY invention of great moment that has ever been developed is the result of unconventional thinking. This is, in effect, the statement made by Dr. Carl F. Tausch in a lecture before one of the meetings of North Dakota School for Extension Workers.

Dr. Tausch illustrated his statement by calling to the attention of his listeners several concrete examples. Of those he cited it will be sufficient to mention but two here; namely, the sewing machine and the cotton gin. The problem in the case of the sewing machine was to have the thread in the same end of the needle as the point. This was solved by placing the eye within the point of the needle. The conventional needle of course has the point and the eye at opposite ends. The cotton gin also illustrates a complete departure from the conventional. The old method of separating the seeds and the cotton had been to pick the seeds from the cotton. Whitney however, turned the procedure around; and the successful gin which separates the cotton from the seeds resulted.

This statement can be made to apply not only to inventions and technological thinking, but to every form of intellectual endeavor. It would be well for college students of today to give deep consideration to this fact brought forward by Dr. Tausch. In an era of change such as the one in which we are so fortunate as to be living, unconventional thinkers are in demand. New Ideas are welcomed; and men with sufficient imagination and intellectual courage to think unconventionally today are tomorrow's leaders.

The primary purpose of education is to teach people to think for themselves. As college men and women we should be thinking independently. We should be stimulated by the ideas that we receive in the classroom, but we should not accept those ideas as our own without giving them considerable thought. We should not allow ourselves to become intellectual "yes men," but should have the constructive imagination to think our own thoughts, and the courage and faith to believe in them. If we strive to do this we will achieve worthwhile places in the world of tomorrow.

AN EDITORIAL

WHEN it gets along toward the spring of the year, gossip becomes more and more the main topic of the day. Students who have dated together and then had quarrels and dated with someone else, and infatuations and love affairs have gone on the rocks, and cut-throat competition has begun for the big positions of next year. All these things are inclined to start gossip going, and many people are hurt by it. Someone once commented on this in poetry:

Before I knew how cruel
 Just common talk can be,
 I thought that words were singing things
 With colors like the sea.

But since I've felt their caustic lash
 And know how they can sting,
 I hold my breath when words go by
 For fear they will not sing.

We would take a moment off to confute some of the uncomplimentary statements made by Elizabeth Eldridge in her article on college students in last week's SATURDAY EVENING POST. Miss Eldridge says that about 90 pct. of college students these days think of nothing and talk of nothing but whom the next date is going to be with and what campus political coup d'etats to take part in. We think that she is definitely cynical in this. We believe that more than 10 pct., even a majority, of students these days are questioning science, philosophy, and literature values, and are making a serious attempt to verify and answer those questions.

Miss Eldridge also makes dirty cracks about the cheap niggardliness of boys and the cattyness of the girls in regard to dates and gossip. She calls herself an authority on present college day trends because she has had a few years experience as an inspector for a certain sorority. We question her qualifications. Anyone who spends a day or two at one campus and then goes to another and another without pausing anywhere to get more than briefly acquainted with a group will probably be impressed just as Miss Eldridge has been in her experience. Anyone who does this will hear just the light banter of students, will just scrape the scum of discussions as he flits by. Really there is some deep thinking being done by students on the problems of the world today. Date gossip and campus politics are just conscious shams to introduce subjects that really interest students. That gossip is the symbol of college life is a hallucination; it is the only romantic hangover colleges have left from the old Joe College days of which Miss Eldridge is an alumna.

Miss Eldridge must have written her article to entertain parents (and other debunkers). Or maybe she's just jealous of us.

Every time you learn something new, you expand your personality. Every time you make a new acquaintance, you expand your personality. There are two ways to look at the eventual consequences: One is that you become bigger and bigger until you encompass the world; the other is that your personality stretches and stretches until it becomes a mere film, and you have almost no personality left—an absorbent recording sheet, so to speak. I wonder which of those personalities dictators have? And, further, which do you prefer, introverts or extroverts?

That attitudes have a lot to do with success everyone is well aware, but the most successful attitude is rarely defined. You must have a twinkle in your eyes—a sense of humor that filters everything you see, hear, or taste. That humor may be ironic, satirical, ridicule, or supreme, depending upon your past experience.

If you are broad-minded a sense of humor is almost unavoidable. In the time and space world; man, plants and animals are so infinitely small and short lived that even life itself becomes laughable—and what can man conceive that is greater than life?

Rehashing The Hash

Shucks! This cold spell certainly crystallized the spring-fever love affairs that were a-budding on this isle of torment. But everyone else is talking scarlet fever now, it seems that all conversation is somehow related to temperature.

Stolen: (from the local high school paper, the CYNOSURE) "They were shipwrecked on the Isle of U." I may be all wet, but I think that the kid that wrote that is at least dry behind the ears. "The Isle of the University!" Boy, that's funny!

You've heard of the guy that had plenty of kale, then went for a sail, got a bit pale, and was forced to the rail, haven't you? Yeah, he was a drip!

I wrangled this from a Home Ec student who recorded the impressions received on a midnight stroll hereabouts:

The moon, a sphere of congealed glow,
 Cold and folded within itself,
 It emits a silvery sheen of light.
 The star of the lotus blossom,
 A fat, laughing chink,
 Cold, metallic, rays that clink,
 Glossy glass strands, white and hairy,
 With a fringe of cotton entwined in their ends.

The cotton (light clouds) is the base
 Of this cone of splendor, the apical moon
 Can only be SEEN by us, we are below
 That fluffyness.

The moon on the prairie,
 And I am alone at night,
 Treading crusty snow, I wary,
 Slow my pace, absorb the light
 That comes to mind
 While wandering
 Alone on the prairie at night.

The snowy prairie, a saucer of flaky china,
 Never ending, never changing
 Quiet, subdued, still,
 Ecstatically still, ecstatically still.

Personality: He has a raft of money. He paddles about in Wall Street Pools. He keeps in close touch with the bank. If the investment's well anchored, he will gladly float alone (at the current rate of interest).

Accredited to Jimmy Cathcart is this bit of wit: "Fred Allen is so anemic that if a tractor rot over him, he wouldn't squish, he'd just splinter." Sort of dry and pointed, I'd say.

Pat Callinan, the Sigma Chi's problem-child, did a fine job of log-rolling up at the Forks last week. Log-rolling is a new way to say that he was obfuscated. Wood you get that—log-rolling in the sticks. Don't bark your shin, peg-leg.

Say, you—all, forgive me will you? This column is being pushed out in a deuce of a rush. I just noticed that there is nothing but pretty well decayed puns in it. Speaking of columns, this paper needs a column badly. Someone ought to write one.

And speaking of decay and rot and dirt and gossip and such, did you ever notice that only flies gather around it? There are an awful lot of female flies hereabouts.

Well, as Fifi Probst says, "I'll see you in the pest-house."

Social Climber

This week's orchids go to that smug Baccus, the rat! The "U" games? Well, it's too bad we all don't have sorority houses at the "U," isn't it, Merc? Then we have those rowdy SAE's who are at each other's throats because one brother cut in on another brother's gal friend... Who is going to do the honors this week-end, boys? We really have to hand it to the Bison team for two of the best games that have ever been played since NDSO has been mixed up in politics... Too bad Barney Toman couldn't play, but then he did all his playing beforehand... And missed the bank-board every time. Rosemary Lee and Beverly Barnes wound up an exciting evening by making their Alma Mater proud of claiming them... Lest we forget, pins are still being hung whether mother likes it or not, isn't that right, Wessy, dear? Oh yes, for the benefit of our readers, Wes Phillips and English instructor, Helen Jensen... pardon, MISS Helen Jensen, to you... are that way. Maybe you all think Sally Minard has had Leon's pin too, but the deed was not done till a week ago last Saturday... Congrate, kids!... Despite the games last week-end, the POP's and KD's had parties. 'Nough said. We mustn't leave out the "Y" open house at which 175 students who didn't want scarlet fever attended... There was a "Y" Hob-Nob last week too with Ladwig making enough noise for all the people who weren't there—maybe they forgot, but for one nickel, those who were there got plenty of dancing... To get back to scarlet fever... or I should say to get away from it... don't go to the ATO house, otherwise known as the Alcatraz Prison, where they've changed their names to numbers. We understand if no one has the plague by Friday there will be a portion of the bleachers set 'way off for the boys to see the game. Keep your eyes open for those Awful Tough Omegas... With two sororities and one fraternity electing officers Monday night, we believe the school will be able to keep going next year. That leader of leaders... or yells... rules the Sigma Chi... the Dean's nephew, and Jeanne Verne and Beth Oliver... pardon, they withdrew... Lois Myron and Evelyn Wattam will keep the Gamma Phis and Kappas under control.

Joyce Black will be out of school for the remainder of the term because of illness... Cecille Henry, who is attending the "U" of North Dakota this term, has been named rushing captain.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon—Mrs. Burgum, Mrs. Linne, and Mrs. Uthus were dinner guests at the house on Sunday. Gordon Horner, '35, was a luncheon guest at the house on Wednesday. Mr. A. H. Parrot was a dinner guest at the house last Wednesday. Mike Benedit, Barney Toman, Gil Wagner, Ronald Anderson, Bob Elsberry, and Joey Burgum were University visitors over the week-end. Jack Pollock entertained the active chapter at a smoker, at his home, on Wednesday evening.

Kappa Kappa Psi To Fete 'U' Group

Honoring the University chapter of Kappa Kappa Psi, national honorary band fraternity, the local chapter will hold a dinner at 5 o'clock this evening in Ceres Hall. The campus group was similarly entertained at Grand Forks last week-end by the University group.

OUR RIGHTS ARE BEING DENIED

Freedom of Speech and Freedom of Press are two characteristics that should have free range in a student paper. The students pay for and edit the paper. The Board of Publications is a body designed to assist the business managers and editors of the student publications by advising them on matters of editorial policy and by supervising the financial aspects of these undertakings. And as such assists, but has not the power to determine what should and what should not be the policy of the paper. Therefore our Board of Publications should act as a body of guidance and assistance and not one to determine what the students can think and say.

At The Movies

"The Charge of the Light Brigade," based on Tennyson's immortal poem, and starring Errol Flynn and Olivia De Havilland flashes across the screen of the Grand theater Feb. 28 and March 1, 2, and 3. March 4 and 5, "The Garden of Allah," in technicolor, a great love story of the desert, starring Marlene Dietrich and Charles Boyer, comes to the Grand theater's screen.

"General Spanky," starring Spanky McFarland, an original story of the Civil War, is at the State theater today and tomorrow. That intriguing mischief child, Jane Withers, is at the State, Feb. 28, March 1 and 2, in "Can This Be Dixie," a story of a bankrupt plantation family, saved through the efforts of Jane and her company. Wednesday and Thursday the gripping murder mystery, "The Accusing Finger," will appear at the State, featuring Charles Cummings, Kent Taylor, and Marsha Hunt.

Rorvig, Saunders Standouts In Split With Sioux Cagers

Inspired Bison Stage Rally To Win Second 26-23; Lose First 29-28

Pandemonium reigned last week as an inspired Bison team kicked the dope bucket asunder by defeating the highly touted North Dakota University cagers 26 to 23 after being nosed out by the Sioux 29 to 28 in the opening cage classic of the series Friday night.

Ignoring the concessions of superiority granted Coach Clem Letich's cagers by the sport scribes and collegian cage connoisseurs, a determined Bison Herd, weakened by the loss of Howard Fraser, regular Bison guard, swept an enthusiastic crowd to their feet as they led the Sioux most of the second half, never giving them the lead until the last 30 seconds of play.

With a 17 to 13 lead at the beginning of the second half the Bison kept up their aggressive defense which had effectively held the Nodak offense the opening period. The long shots of co-captain Bob Saunders, handicapped with an injured ankle, and the spectacular playing of Carl Rorvig were largely responsible for the lead the Bison held up to the bad break at the end of the game.

With only 30 seconds left, and the Bison out in front 23 to 27, a roaring din in the air which had several times drowned the whistle of referee Dick Holzer, Emmett Birk, sensational University scoring ace, grabbed a faulty Bison pass and dribbled away from the stunned Bison to put the Sioux out in front for the first time since the early part of the game to give them a one point victory.

The Bison erased all doubt in the minds of cage critics who were tempted to think that Bob Lowe's cagers had outplayed themselves in the opener and would fall easy prey to the Sioux in the second game Saturday night. Showing the same aggressive defense which they had exhibited the night before, and finding the hoop for a much better percentage of their free throws the Bison showed a definite superiority over the upstarters.

Bison Trail 7 Points

With part of the last half of the game behind them, things looked pretty hopeless for the Bison trailing the Nodaks by 7 points until Bob Saunders dropped a shot from behind the foul circle to start a 2½ minute scoring rally. A free throw and a field goal by Russ Anderson, elongated Bison center, followed by another long shot by Saunders tied the game up at 23 all. On an infraction by Robertson, Nodak center, Anderson garnered a free throw to put the Bison ahead. Carl Rorvig gave the Bison a basket to go on when he duplicated Birk's feat of Friday night by snatching a free ball and dribbled away from the napping Sioux. The remaining moments of the game were minutes of wild passing with the Bison desperately keeping control of the ball.

Bison Have Chance To Share NCI Lead

(Continued from Page One) The schedule of each school to eight games. If this ruling is enforced the Bison have an opportunity to tie the Maroons for the championship if they trip up the Sioux both games this week-end. A split series will leave the Sioux tied with the Maroons.

It is difficult to make any predictions on the results of either game this week. The type of play used by the Bison last week presented a man to man defense which worked very effectively on the Sioux's smaller floor and stopped the Sioux offense for the first time this season. The Bison will have little or no advantage in playing on their home floor and with the fast breaking style of play which Birk and Finnegan are noted for the larger floor may be to the Sioux's advantage. Saunders was probably as good last week as he can hope to be, but Fraser's presence in the game should be a big factor in the Bison offense. Like Birk and Finnegan, Anderson has a lot better chance to get in under the basket where he is most effective, but a leg injury has kept Anderson from practice most of the week and there is a big question whether he will be at his best.

Looks Like Toss-up
When the whole thing is boiled down it just about looks like a toss-up. The team that comes out on top tonight is going to be a hard bunch of cagers to trip up tomorrow night.

The standing of the title contenders in the North Central Conference without considering the Bison-Sioux series, is as follows:

	Won	Lost
North Dakota University	6	0
North Dakota State	5	1
Morningside	7	1

State Boxers Reach Golden Gloves Semis

The NDSC boxing team made a fine showing in the recent Golden Gloves tournament at Minneapolis. Although none reached the finals, Delmer Skow, Mike Ganski and Sid Petrie advanced to the semis and Vern Iverson won his way to the quarter-final bouts. The other three lost out before the second round.

March 5, the team will go to Grand Forks where it will meet the University squad. A week later the U team will return the visit.

A. C. Pucksters Even Series With Valley

In a return engagement with the Valley City Independents, the NDAC hockey evened up the series by beating them 8 to 5 in an exceedingly rough game. Starring was Bob Larson who put in four of the goals for the winners. Stowell was the outstanding player for the invaders. The lineup is as follows:

AC	VCI
Larson	Simonson
Shaw	Carney
Cook	Ludwig
Restemayer	Stowell
Pollock	Allenworth
Ellsberry	Shirley

Spare: AC—McCormick, Neitzke, Osborne. VCI—Swanson, Elliot, Highligg.

Goals: AC—Larson 4, Pollock 3, Neitzke 1. VCI—Stowell 4, Allenworth 1.

The team was defeated the week-end before by the U. pucksters, 5 to 6, in a fast and scrappy game that lasted two overtime periods. Larson started the scoring by putting in a goal somewhere along in the first period. In the second period, the U. quickly overcame this disadvantage and went ahead so that at the end of the period the score stood at 5 to 1. In an amazing burst of speed and scoring the AC puck-chasers tied up the score by the end of the game. It took two extra periods to break the tie because of the stellar work of Ellsberry at goal.

Admit Candidates To Phi Kappa Phi

'U' Frosh Score Win Over Bison

Last Minute Counter Gives Sioux Yearlings One Point Victory

The Baby Bison were defeated in another one point difference game at Grand Forks last week-end, losing 30 to 29, to the university frosh in the first meeting between the two clubs this year. The Bison, starting slowly in the first half, gained momentum as the period went on, and at the half the score was tied 12 to 12. Continuing their scoring spurt in the second half the yearlings went ahead and stayed there until the closing minutes of the game, when Billy Owens, on a fluke play, got a wild ball and sank a setup to tie the score. A second later Ted Whalen put in a free throw to again put the Baby Bison ahead. Soon after, Owens again got possession of the ball and made a basket just before the game ended.

The Bison are expected to put on a better showing when the teams meet here Saturday afternoon, as they are more familiar with this floor. Last week was the first time the frosh had played on a foreign floor.

The local half of the exchange debates between the University and A. C. squads ended in a decision favoring the up-state debaters, defending the affirmative side of the national Psi Kappa Delta question. Dale Nordquist and Thomas Plant spoke for the University; Tom Ray and Richard Hoag for the A. C.

Basketball teams representing the Dormitory and Alpha Tau Omega fraternity enter the play-off series to determine the intra-mural cage championship following the completion Thursday night of the scheduled games. The ATO's topped the A bracket with 10 victories and no defeats, while the Dorm won the B bracket, suffering only one loss in 10 games. Leading individual scorers were Bowers, ATO; Erickson, ATO; and Goebel, Delta Tau Epsilon.

Meeting Thursday noon, the Board of Publications formally approved the appointment by the Spectrum staff of John Lynch as acting editor of the Spectrum for the remainder of the school year.

'U' Student Editor Opines Sioux Wins

that put the Sioux in the lead just 15 seconds before the final gun; all this changed the outlook and North Dakota breather easier.

Before the second game, those few pennyful individuals who look to the classic for financial gain were giving the Sioux a 10 point margin, despite reputed remarks from the domestic team members that State would take the game.

Saturday's audience sat almost breathless, confidently expecting that one team would "crack", and even more confidently expecting that Lowe's boys would be first in line. A North Dakota 23 to 16 advantage in the closing minutes looked plenty healthy, but with stubborn aggressiveness the Fargo aggregation forged into a three point lead for the final gun.

Final Gun Clogs

An interesting sidelight on this final gun occurred when timer Ed Butler pulled the trigger but the gun failed to respond. Casey Finnegan, State's genial athletic director, was assisting the timer and as this near-catastrophe occurred Casey started blowing the horn he found nearby and nearly split his cheeks heralding the finish of the episode.

Grand Forks fans give the Sioux only a slim chance for a clean sweep of the Fargo series, but this writer is more generous with his personal opinion. From our experience in 1936, when the Sioux won both Fargo games and split the Grand Forks series, we learned that Lowe's airtight defense was less effective on his own larger playground than on the University's abbreviated court.

Definitely, the 1936 series was determined by the guards, the Sioux losing its only game because of the sensational work of Bob Saunders and Don Bettchen. Thus far, the 1937 series has rested on the effectiveness of the guards, and Bob Saunders has certainly been showing the way.

But give the Nodak offense a little more room to maneuver, and North Dakota State will need Fraser (whom we understand will be back in uniform). Saunders at his best (which can hardly be expected with his ankle impediments and already sensational work), Wes Phillips without four fouls, and probably an alumnus or two of the Don Bettchen or Neville Reiners variety, to clog up the Letich machine.

WAFFLE SUPPER SCHEDULED

Phi Omega Pi will hold a waffle supper at the house Sunday from 5 to 8. Tickets may be reserved by phoning in advance.

Katherine McEnroe is in charge of the supper, assisted by Ruth McCabe and Marion Shigley.

Lawritson Conducts Fireside Discussion

Contrasting the school situation "in the good old days" with the present, Gamma Delta chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, National Education honor society will hold a panel discussion next Wednesday in the Fireside room of the Y at 7:30.

Prof. G. N. Lawritson will lead the discussion, which will be based on the relative sound points and certain weaknesses of a letter which appeared in the Fargo Forum some time ago on this subject.

La Verne Gilbertson, president of the society will preside. Refreshments will be served by Lorna Bach and Helen Finstad.

Roy Sorenson captured high honors in the forty-eighth annual student livestock judging contest, held yesterday under the sponsorship of Saddle and Sirolo. Manager of this year's contest was Merlin Tousaint, last year's high pointer. High scores in the various divisions were turned in by John McDonald, Kenneth Ford, Arden Burbidge, Lloyd Nygard, and Oliver Gorder.
