Presentation Made to Accommodate Crowd Turned Away Tuesday

Audience Enthusiastic About Portrayal of Anderson's Drama

A request performance of "Winterset," the second of the Edwin Booth plays of the season which held its initial showing last Tuesday night, will be given next Tuesday because of the number of persons turned away at the first showing, it was announced yesterday by A. G. Arvold, director.

The audience enthusiastically greeted Maxwell Anderson's play, was especially generous in its applause for Dayton Jones, playing the leading part of Mio, who was outstanding. Alice Bender, in the part of the heroine, Miriamme, was well cast.

Powerful was the acting of Wilfred Rommel, playing the hard-boiled gangster, and Robert Sanders, as Shadow, his accomplice. Walter Boerth, Jim Baccus, and Delmar Skow also won much acclaim.

Minor parts were played by Virginia Smith, George Putz, Walter Whitver, Earl Hodgson, William Breitenbach, Virginia Landquist, Joey Bergum, Darwin Olson, Fern Loberg, Orville Sorvick, Steve Ward, and William Stewart.

The repeat show will begin at 8 p. m. Season tickets will not be honored, but tickets will be reserved at the Little Country theater. Prices are 50 cents for reserved tickets, 40 cents for general admission, and 35 cents for students.

Quarter Is Given Week's Extension

Because someone made a slight error when the school program was made out, mid-term exams will not come until next week, announced Registrar A. H. Parrott.

According to the old calendar this term had only nine and one-half weeks in it, while the spring term had eleven and one-half. This was rearranged so that both have ten and one-half weeks in them.

The present schedule follows: winter term—mid-term exams, Jan. 30 to Feb. 5; final exams, Mar. 13, 15, 18; vacation week beginning Mar. 18; the spring term opens Mar. 24; and the mid-terms will be held the week beginning April 24. From then on the schedule is the same as before.

Informality Features Lower Classes Section of '38 Bison

Cut Sales and Picture-Taking for Division Of Yearbook Will Be Pushed Beginning Next Week, Announces Publication Editor

Informal snapshots will comprise the individual cut sections of the three lower classes in the 1938 yearbook, announced Katherine Kilbourne, editor of the Bison. It is the first time this plan has been used in a local yearbook.

To further heighten the informality of the classes sections, Miss Kilbourne said cuts of activities of members of each class will be distributed on pages of the section. Each of the three lower classes will have a separate section.

Senior Section Formal

Picture-taking for senior section, which features formally-posed cuts, is well underway, but those who have not arranged for their cuts should do so at once, declared Miss Kilbourne. The deadline for the taking of photos for seniors is Feb. 14. Seniors will have their cuts in-

'Geneva' Is Topic At All-Y Meeting

"Lake Geneva" will be the theme of the winter all-Y meeting Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the YMCA. Featured on the program will be a movie reel taken at the summer conference last year. Sally Minard is in general charge. Refreshments will be served.

Every summer, delegates from all YWCA associations meet for 10 days at Lake Geneva, Wis., where student problems are discussed, and an out-of-door life is enjoyed. Miss Rosa, Ethel Olson, and Marie Carlson will present talks on their trip to the camp last summer. The movie reel was taken by Miss Rosa, and includes pictures of the delegates from here.

Major Booth Is Convo Speaker Here Monday

International Relations Expert Was Formerly on Campus in 1933

Will Make Second Appearance Monday in YMCA Building at 4 P. M.

C. Douglas Booth, major in His Majesty's army, but now one of the most active speakers in the nations on international relations for the Carnegie Endowment, will be convocation speaker Monday. Booth is well known on this campus, spending some time here in 1933 as visiting professor of international relations.

He will hold two public meetings here, a convocation appearance at 9:40 a. m. and a meeting in the YMCA under the sponsorship of Pi Gamma Mu at 4 p. m. His topic at the first meeting will be "Economic Nationalism in Its International Consequences," and at the second, "Public Opinion, a Safeguard of Peace."

Since 1933, Major Booth has traveled and lectured both here and abroad. During the past two years, he has been occupied in devising plans for the employment of blocked funds in Europe by British and American creditors.

Budget Again Is Given Cut

Additional $36,000 Lopped Off Appropriations for Biennium

Lopping $36,387 from the NDAC general appropriation figure, the house appropriations committee set the biennium budget at $348,625 and recommended its passage. The figure originally recommended by the budget committee was $385,012.

The budget includes a three per cent salary increase for the coming biennium. The senate appropriations group had paved the way by voting the raise, and the representatives defeated an attempt to prevent an increase.

Actions on the main appropriations measure for the agricultural college included:

Reduction of $1,000 in the general printing budget; $9,407 cut for the division of engineering; $1,576 reduction for the school of chemistry; $2,000 cut, college library; $12,500 cut for buildings and grounds; $5,000 slash for water and power; $1,000 cut for special equipment for mechanic arts, and an increase of $5,000 for fuel.

Raise Asked For State Education

The Federation of North Dakota State Associations cautioned the legislature Thursday to use care in dealing with appropriations for the university, agricultural college and other educational institutions, and said the budget board recommendations in salary increases were "justified."

The federation is comprised of 17 statewide trade, professional and business associations affiliated with more than 8,000 constituent members, according to J. A. Fleck of Bismarck, president, and F. D. McCartney of Oakes, executive vice-president.

"It has been a recognized principle of our government to provide ways and means whereby every child shall have an opportunity to acquire a common school education, and whereby they may acquire a higher education at a minimum of expense to them," the federation said.

"The people must depend upon the faculties of such higher institutions for the successful higher education of the young men and women. To achieve the desired results, such faculties must be high class and well qualified.

"Such talent must be acquired in a competitive market and we must meet such competition to a reasonable extent if our colleges are to be efficient."

Dean H. L. Walster is recovering from a two-week attack of influenza.

Funeral Service Held Honoring Dr. Hunsaker

Social Science Instructor Dies In Hospital After Several Weeks' Illness

Came Here From University Of North Dakota 17 Years Ago

As a tribute to the late Dr. A. F. Hunsaker, professor of social and economic sciences here for 17 years, a half-day holiday was declared at NDAC Wednesday. Dr. Hunsaker died Sunday at Rochester, Minn., after a several weeks illness. Funeral services were held Wednesday with Rev. Daniel Heitmeyer of the First Baptist church officiating.

Since coming to the NDAC in 1919, Dr. Hunsaker had been professor of social and economic sciences and prominent in activities at the college pertaining to his field. As chairman of the discipline committee he was in continual touch with student problems. He was a member and active worker in Phi Kappa, national honorary scholastic fraternity, and a sponsor of Pi Gamma Mu, honorary social science fraternity.

Member Welfare Board

On May 5, 1936, he was appointed to the Cass County Welfare board to succeed Dr. P. H. Burton, resigned, and on May 20 was elected vice chairman of the board, which position he held until his death. Vice president of the Fargo Rotary club, Dr. Hunsaker had been delegate to three international Rotarian conventions; was a member of the board of directors and chairman of the International Relations committee. He was also a member and former president of the Commons club.

Andrew Franklin Hunsaker was born Aug. 1, 1880, in Cobden, Ill., and attended the University of Illinois.

Two Men, Coed Pass Auditions For Broadcast

"Are you copper-plating those pipes?"

"No, I'm aluminuming 'em, Mum." Try folding these sentences over your tonsils and then you'll know how Earl Hodgson, of the Extension department and Ken Kennedy of WDAY made the selection of the Bison Brevities radio announcers.

Of the eighteen who auditioned, Woodrow Wieland, Connie Taylor, and Bob Nelson were retained to announce the coming weekly programs, to be known as "Bison Brevities in Production," soon to emanate from Festival hall.

In charge of production will be Bill Stewart, who will write continuity and coordinate the talent, drawn from the student body at large.

Preliminary tests were made from the Agricultural building studio, and then some half dozen were heard at WDAY's downtown studios, each reading selected matter and answering extemporaneously questions given them in sealed envelopes. The three who underwent the tests successfully will share the announcing duties.

Kappa Kappa Psi Fetes Pledge Unit

Fourteen prospective pledges of Kappa Kappa Psi, honorary band fraternity, were entertained at a dinner last Wednesday in Ceres hall.

Pledged were: Irven Hagen, Kenneth Arntson, Ralph Dahl, Robert Seaquist, Charles Benson, Robert Ittich, Murray Loomis, Joe Waller, Eddie Gudmundson, Gene Trotter, James Purdon, Vinton Plath, and George Putz.

Putnam Fears Optional Drill Proposal Will Destroy Band

Defeat of Compulsory Military Drill Will Add $4,355.20 to Budget Requirement If Gold Star Band Is to Maintain Present Status

"The destiny of the Gold Star band is in the hands of the state legislature."

This was the reaction of Doc Putnam in regard to an important side issue of the compulsory military drill controversy.

"If the legislature should decide to remove compulsory drill, there will be no band," he added. "I hate disease as bad as I hate war. But because I hate it I do not recommend the removal of hospitals. That logic should be used before making training optional."

The Gold Star band now uses 35 instruments belonging to the government which would be immediately recalled. Replacing these instruments at an average cost of $100 would cost the state $3,500. The 130 uniforms used would also be recalled, the replacement cost to the state would be an average of $30 per uniform or an additional $3,900. These figures are based on the assumption that the state would endeavor to maintain the present status of the band. The last budget

Measure Now Needs Approval Of Senate, Governor Langer

May Force Abandonment Of Local Student Corps, Says Easton

The bill to make military training at NDAC and the University of North Dakota optional was passed yesterday by the house of representatives of the state legislature. Although press dispatches did not reveal the vote, the house earlier had defeated an attempt to postpone the bill by a 64-44 vote and a similar margin probably was cast on the actual bill.

The measure must now have approval of the senate and the signature of the governor before it becomes a law.

Further progress of the bill could not be foreseen here, but many opinions were expressed concerning the effects of the measure, should it become law, on the local school.

The present fight came as a climax to battle begun two years ago when the optional measure was defeated in both houses by narrow margins.

Outline Attack

Leading the current opposition to compulsory military training were the state Farmers Union forces, who, under the leadership of Morris Erickson, NDAC alumnus and state secretary of the Farmers Union, had a plan of attack outlined at the beginning of the session.

Two members of Scabbard and Blade, Don Howland and Don Buchanan, appeared before the house committee on education in defense of the bill early this week.

May Discontinue Corps

Col. J. D. Easton, head of the local military department, declared this week that if the optional bill were adopted he would recommend to military department officials that the corps here be discontinued entirely.

Under the optional arrangement, he predicted the enrollment would be so small its continuance would not be warranted.

To Remain Next Year

The corps would probably be continued through next year, however, he declared.

Should this alternative be resorted to, belief was expressed on the campus that the state would be forced to maintain a military department here out of state funds. Under term of the land grant act creating this school, military training must be offered and military leaders maintain the state will have to supply the funds.

Dr. A. F. Hunsaker Was A Friend of Students

WHEN funeral services were held Wednesday for Dr. A. F. Hunsaker, they were held for one of best loved faculty men on the campus. Dr. Hunsaker showed a patience and tolerance regarding his fellow beings in this college community which can be surpassed by no one.

His attitude toward students was especially commendable. In the classroom he was always fair and considerate. In his work on the discipline and other student-faculty relations committees he has earned praise for demanding consideration of the students. His post will be hard to replace.

Speculations Regarding Student Government

IT is a far cry until the spring elections when the student body will vote to select members of the student commission, but some discussion of the elections is not altogether out of order.

Entirely too often one hears disgust expressed by students regarding faculty domination of student activities, school regulations, courses of study and campus life. Then the apparent resentment on the part of faculty and administration toward any kind of student expression is protested. In fact, instead of this campus becoming a source of self-development for the student under faculty GUIDANCE, it is becoming more and more an arena for faculty and administrators to foist their ideas and rules upon the students. For example, Bison Brevities, once left largely to student management is now directed by a faculty board.

Then again one hears that it is futile to participate in student elections for the candidates are picked by one or two frames and when elected hold meaningless, powerless offices. This too is true and will probably be more so this coming election than in recent years, with only one frame intact; which gives every evidence of preserving its ironclad organization. They will indorse a full slate of candidates and exercise enough power to elect them unless some unusual interest in student elections should develop. The other frame, which once offered strong resistance, is completely dismantled and organized resistance to present frame is not in evidence.

The field of organizing a campus political party for the mere purpose of testing the strength of this one frame should furnish the promise of adventure to any aspiring group of adventuring campus organizers. And the persons who could best do this would be the independent students or the ones not weighted down with extra-curricular and organizational activities.

But organizing for the mere control of campus elections should not be the purpose of student organizers. Their purpose should be to elect candidates and effect legislation to make student government on the campus effective. If the students would organize their forces and fight to maintain their rights, faculty and administration would not continually balk student expression and student demands. One, two or even a half dozen students can always be quelled in their opinions, for if reprimands are not sufficient, the faculty and administration use control of the grading pencil, graduation requirements. Thus rebellious students are usually quite effectively tamed. The college may be designed primarily for the student, but it often looks like students have to organize to protect this purpose.

Student organization to gain right of expression and exercise of student government rather than mere indulgence in "surface politics" is a need of this campus. A well chosen student commission, versed in the powers given them under the student constitution and given the intelligent support of the student body, could do much to protect the student's viewpoint in faculty-student relationships.

BISON BRIEFS

By JIM BACCUS

My private secretary reports:

Lots of stop-press stuff this week, Jim, so let's get the notebook cleaned up. They finally decided who was to do the warbling alongside of Nanette Piper, but it wasn't an easy decision. Ekeren got the nod because of his having a slightly higher voice, the better to blend with the lofty tooting of Ruthie. Believe me, the lad deserved it. He's been doing the sustaining end for three years, now it's his turn to get a little of the picture-publicity pay-dirt. The boy can sing, too.

Decorator Bob (Sakhnoffsky) Sundt has another ball winner on his hands, as you will probably find out tonight at the Field House romp. It seems to me that you should mention that Guidon has been helping in the preliminary details, as well as the Sword boys. Not that the gals have minded the evenings spent. Cutting stars is fun, boss.

Alpha Phi Omega has a good thing in that Scouting-leadership course. You might gag about lighting the fires of boyish enthusiasm by rubbing two scoutmasters together, but on second thought, better skip it. It was nice of Gamma Tau Sigma to lighten the journalistic burden of the Bison and SPECTRUM (leave this in caps—it looks like you've got the old spirit) on Wednesday. Establishing a nice custom, but did you notice that Putnam bloke with the camera? They say he's got the bug for sure—another Bourke-White. Yoohoo! Wish you'd get "Winter set" over with and buy a haircut.

The dozen balmier members of the cast all insist you give Hodgson a nice big bold-face mention for making the post-presentation clam-bake a success. And, it seems to me that Earl is responsible in a large way for the way in which those B. B.-WDAY programs are shaping up. Let me predict real interest in that series, with Woody Wieland, Connie Taylor, and Bob Nelson announcing, and William (spell it out) Scoopnagle Stewart (get his last name right, now) acting as producer. You know, the man behind the stopwatch, who puts the whiz in things. But don't fail to hear those quarter-hours; they'll put Al Pearce to shame.

Hearing about the wholesale small-pox "shooting" last week in Dinwoodie's Den, atop the Science Shaft, reminded me that you might profitably explain to your readers how the college medical service works. Of course, your readers are all perfect specimens, to have waded thru all these weary weeks with you, but they might frostbite a tootsie or somesuch. Thirty cents of the registration fee goes to maintain the office M. D., and he full-time nurse, who last year gave 422 inoculations and vaccines, made 1462 office and dorm calls and 471 bedside visits. There's no reason why the students shouldn't take advantage of this health insurance, when they're supporting the medical unit themselves.

Seems to me, chief, that required reading for every student this term and next should be the introduction to Kerr Eby's little folio of war pictures, in the library. And then they should print it in big letters on one of the clean white walls, there, and broadcast it from the Main Tower every day at noon. Mention to the better dancers of the campus that a couple of Greek gals are looking for peachy dates for their winter-term shin-dig. Tell them if they can really strut, and are unemployed on Feb. 19, to call 5124 and leave their names and qualifications. No, really this is on the level. Mild diversion of the week was the harpooning of one Martin Wolf. Guess who finally sunk the pin and snapped the clasp. Right! Several of the more forgetful gals around wanted me to get you to advertise for their missing ski pants, but I don't think we should turn this into a lost-and-found corner, do you?

Love, Euphronia Applegate.

Scouting Course To Be Added Here

A significant step in the training of future leaders is the innovation of a course in Boy Scoutmanship to be added to the curriculum soon, according to W. Thordarson, director of correspondence courses. The course will be conducted by L. R. Steig instructor of psychology who has had experience in scouting.

The course is designed to give potential scoutmasters a general knowledge of aims and content of the Boy Scout program.

The one-hour class will meet each Tuesday evening at 7:30. Anyone interested in enrolling is invited to attend the organization meeting next Tuesday night said Thordarson.

The course has been approved by the college, two hours of credit to be given any student who completes the requirements. An entry fee of five dollars will be charged each term.

Council Proposes New Party Rules

A resolution proposing to allow fraternities and sororities to hold one party a year outside the limits of Fargo and Moorhead was unanimously passed by the interfraternity council at a meeting held last night.

The proposal will be given to the Pan-Hellenic council for their vote, and then submitted to the college committee on social affairs for their decision.

Delta Psi Kappa, honorary physical education sorority, tonight pledged Luella Grude, Dorothy Rau, Sylvia Finsand, at a ceremony at the home of Mary Fay Wenger.

SOCIAL CLIMBER

Mr. and Mrs. Breitenbach will like to catch the party that short sheeted her bed during the excitement. Dresser tops throughout the dorm were galleries of prominent campus Romeos past and present. Waffles will be served by the POP's this Sunday, the first move toward the purchase of a new radio, an item much in need. Their method of approach is interesting and the project is legitimate. Last week they entertained the Sigma Phi Delta chapter in a return engagement started last year but never finished.

The Gamma Rho's, gone social under the leadership of Punched (Sweet Pea) Hamilton, will entertain the Alpha Gams Sunday in one of those now famous receptions. Punched Hamilton should do a better job this week with Judy Davies off the roster. Punched and Judy take the sentimentality award in any social gathering.

'Tis thought that Bill Stewart's recent debut is only a teaser. (Bison Brevities) Smith is still the dream life even if Sarah did cooperate with him in the calf show. Ask either of them. Both are of the congenial sort. Virginia will tutor Kent Helland in the monkey suit ball and Bill says Sarah is just a young kid that needs the attention of someone older. The regular social climber has been benched for the present but will be back it is hoped (from within and from without).

Letter to the Editor

Editor of the Spectrum:

We see by the paper that spring vacation is from March 18 to March 23. With a schedule such as this, we must be back to school on Wednesday, March 23. The calendar shows that Easter Sunday falls on March 28 and of course Good Friday is March 26. Why not extend the winter term until March 20 so that the spring term starts March 29? That would give the students an opportunity to be home for Good Friday and Easter Sunday.

Would you please print an article concerning this idea or take it up with the proper authorities? —Two Students.

Omaha, Iowa Teachers Opponents of Bison On 2 Road Engagements

NDAC Quintet Will Stake Unscathed Conference Record in Games With Nebraskans Saturday and Iowans Monday

The Bison basketball team, their record perfect in conference play to date, left this morning by automobile for Omaha, Neb., in a two-game road trip against conference opponents. They play Omaha municipal university tomorrow night and face Iowa Teachers college at Cedar Falls Monday night.

Johnny Smith, who is in charge of the squad as Coach Bob Lowe is in a hospital, carried only eight men on the trip, Wes Phillips, first line reserve, remaining behind. On the trip are Russ Anderson, Bob Saunders, Howard Fraser, Carl Rorvig, Wendell Kielty, Bernard Toman, Emil May, and Jimmie Berdahl.

Iowans Feared
Of the two teams the Iowa Peds are most feared by the Bison. Although their record reveals three losses and one win in conference competition, the Iowans are figured here as dangerous opponents on face of their especially stiff opposition against the league-leading University of North Dakota team in an early season game.

The trip is a crucial one for the Bison as they must win both to keep pace with the fast-stepping Sioux for the league leadership. Upon their return they face Morningside here next Friday and Jamestown college the following week. Their opening game of a four-game series with the University of North Dakota is Feb. 19 at Grand Forks.

Finnegan Leads Scorers
The conclusion of last week's games found Bob Finnegan of the Sioux leading the conference scoring with 45 points. Emmet Birk of the same time was second with 41 points. Russ Anderson is third with 40 points.

Bison Outclass Jackrabbits In Third Loop Win

Victors Exhibit Best Home Court Form Of Season

Russ Anderson, Carl Rorvig Leaders in 36-32 Conquest

The Bison basketball team exhibiting their best form on a home court this season, outclassed the South Dakota State Jackrabbits in an exciting game last Friday to chalk up their third conference victory and their second at the expense of the Bunnies. The score was 36 to 32.

With Russ Anderson scoring on the opening tipoff, the Bison played brilliant, faultless basketball the opening eight minutes to run up a 18-8 margin. The half, however, ended 18 to 16 as the Bison attack lapsed before the game play demonstrated by the Coyotes.

The second half showed exciting, though reckless basketball as the Bison managed to stay in front of the challenging, hard-fighting coyotes.

Bright spot of the contest was the display of his oldtime wizardry at basketball-shooting by Russ Anderson, 1936 all-conference center. During the first eight minutes he made four buckets and counted 15 points during the entire contest.

Sparkplug of the Bison game, however, was Carl Rorvig, stubby forward, whose scrappiness and ball-hawking kept the Bison hustling all the time. In addition, he got six points. Wendell Kielty got nine points, and Howard Fraser, six.

Sport Speculations

By ORVILLE GOPLEN

In taking inventory of potential varsity material in basketball for next year, local cage fans will have a hard time suppressing their enthusiasm for the ability of Johnny Smith's freshman squad. It has been many a moon since as many men of promising ability have been on a Baby Bison squad.

Probably the most pleasing performer, if there can be such a comparison on a squad replete with talented youngsters, is big, steady Jim Maxwell of Grafton. He will make a strong bid for the guard post which will be vacated by Bob Saunders of the varsity at the end of the season. Then there is rugged Herman Larson of Maddock, the Baby Bison ace forward, whose powerful arms are equally as effective in propelling passes as they are directing the ball through the basket. He is fast, elusive and shoots with either hand.

Tall, dark Sid Saign of Waubun, Minn., regular frosh center, has been a sensational scorer in practice games, while blond Byron Glad of Lancaster, Minn., has played center and forward brilliantly in recent contests. Speed and aggressiveness is supplied by little Ted Whalen, forward from Grafton. The individual who has shown most development since beginning of practice is Wally Ruud of Hoople, who sees most service at guard. Right now he is the smoothest player on the team. The fastest man on the team is Lloyd Troseth, Hannaford speedster, who plays either forward or guard. However, he shows a tendency of shooting too frequently and when off balance. In spite of this he has an exceptionally good eye for the basket.

Others showing well are Merrill Green of Enderlin, Wes Haroldson of Aneta, Joe Kojancik of Aurora, Minnesota.

How do you like the way University of Minnesota, victims of the Bison in the early season, is showing up in conference competition? In the Gophers' only conference loss this season, University of Iowa, who accomplished the victory, used a bit of strategy which served as an odd twist of irony for Dave MacMillan, Gopher coach. When the Bison, in accomplishing their victory, used the stalling game in the waning moments of the contest, MacMillan complained, "We do not have to contend with such strategy in the Big Ten." Yet Iowa stalled the final three minutes of Gopher-Iowa game to win.

Fall Term Grad Gets N.Y. Position

Nicholas Timpe, of Almont, left recently to accept a position in the General Electric plant in Schenectady, New York. Timpe graduated from the school of electrical engineering at the close of last term.

The regents of the University of the State of New York, which require licenses for engineers as well as dentists, have prepared a list of schools whose standards are up to the requirements of the licensing board. This school is the only institution in the North and South Dakota to have this rating, which privileges graduate engineers to practice in the state of New York without a license.

Of the graduates in engineering during the past years, Dean R. M. Dolve of the engineering school reports almost 100 per cent employment.

"A great many new opportunities are presenting themselves, and I can safely predict the placing of every engineering graduate within the next few years", Dolve said.

Saunders Began Sharpshooting During Career At Mandan Under L. G. McMahon

Bob Saunders, sharpshooting back court sparkplug and co-captain of the 1937 Bison basketball team, learned the rudiments of the game in Mandan grade schools and blossomed out as a star prep performer when a junior in Mandan high. He first played the game when in the fifth grade and was on the high school team four years.

While in high school, he was under the tutelage of L. C. McMahon, dean of North Dakota cage coaches. He began playing classy ball his junior year, when he made the second all-state team as forward. He was a sensation his senior year when he was picked by coaches in an unofficial ballot as the outstanding player in the state tournament. During the season he scored 137 points from a guard position and was unanimous choice for all-state guard.

An interesting sidelight on Saunders' cage career is his lone rivalry with Casey Finnegan, sensational University of North Dakota forward. This year will mark the eighth in which Finnegan and Saunders will play against each other. Finnegan was a member of the Bismarck high five, inter-city rivals of Mandan, during the four years Saunders prepped at Mandan.

Their high school rivalry was climaxed at Bismarck in the spring of 1933 when Bismarck faced Mandan in the finals of the state tournament and Bismarck won, 17 to 15. During the game Finnegan scored five points and Saunders, three. In the three tournament games he scored 13 points and 13 points were scored off him.

Probably the best and most consistent basketball was exhibited by Saunders during his freshman year at NDAC. His performance thus far this season, however, overshadows anything he has done hitherto. His shooting, floor play, and ball handling and drive have been a big instrument in the Bison victories this year.

While in high school, Saunders played left half on the football team the year they won the unofficial state championship. He was also a star baseball player, being named all-state American Legion junior baseball pitcher in 1931. That year the Mandan nine were 5-4 victims of the powerful Enderlin club, which later went to the west coast before being eliminated from national competition. Saunders, pitching for Mandan, restricted Enderlin to three hits and struck out 11, while Big Elroy Hendrickson, opposing him, allowed three hits and struck out 17.

Holding a major in education, Saunders expressed indecision as to what he would do when he graduates this spring. He would like to play semi-pro basketball, but also plans to try out with the Fargo-Moorhead Twins baseball team.

Sevrinson Likes Hobbies, People, Radio, But Most Of All---Architectural Planning

By JIM BACCUS

Many people of varied interests, who have hobbies, usually select one which parallels somewhat their vocation. Scientists tinker with the camera, that they might photograph their work, horticulturists spend their leisure time with rock gardens. But not so with assistant professor, Charles A. Sevrinson. His hobby is the interesting one of creating plans and specifications for small houses.

Prof. Sevrinson, aside from being an instructor in history and the supervisor of the college high school's practice teachers in history has also been the institution's National Youth Administrator since the inception of that service. But his busy routine is never too pressing for him to stop and tell you of his newest idea for the small residence, designed with the special requirements of the North Dakota home owner in mind. In making plans (several of his ideas have seen the light of the print-maker's arc), he stresses the need for a special kind of northwest architecture, developed with consideration for the small owner.

Native Son

Sevrinson is a native son, reared in Reynolds. His father's business, contracting, probably first aroused his interest in house-design. He attended NDU, receiving his B. A. in 1924, returning to that same institution in 1931 for his Master of Science degree.

A few pupils in a one-room rural school near Reynolds witnessed Sevrinson's first teaching efforts. Following a period at Glenburn, and Williston, where he held the position of junior high school principal, he came here in 1928. Soon after his arrival he instituted in the Education department a course of study in high school extra-curricular activities, which because of its popularity among students, has become a regular part of courses offered.

The teacher's chief interest is personal and guidance work. He hopes ultimately to devote his entire time to child and adolescent guidance, personal leadership, educational and life-planning for youth. Widely read in world problems, child psychology, teaching methods, he lectures often at P. T. A. meetings, YM and YWCA groups, and several of the local church study clubs.

Well known over North Dakota, Sevrinson has made many friends among students and oldsters alike with his pleasant voice and manner. He has gone to special pains to explain the NYA program to parents over the state, and has done much to straighten out personality problems on the campus.

Married, he resides at 1015 North Ninth. He has no children. He enjoys the radio, preferring semi-classical music. George Arliss is his favorite actor, "One Man's Family" his favorite radio program. He smokes only a little, likes all kinds of people, enjoys touring. Spending part of last summer on an automobile trip to California, he hopes to drive east soon.

Next week, Paul Jones, Architecture.

Hold Last Rites For Dr. Hunsaker

nois at Champaign where he became a student assistant. He took his theological training at the University Place Christian church foundation, Urbana, Ill., and served as resident pastor in the First Christian church at Rautoul, Ill. In 1909 he graduated with a B. A. degree and after his marriage to Florence Wilson in 1910 in Champaign went to the University of North Dakota where he was instructor for four years.

In 1914 he returned to the University of Illinois and after studying there and at Columbia university, New York, received his Ph. D. from Illinois in 1919. Since then he had been professor at the NDAC.

Preached at Amenia

For several years after coming to Fargo, Dr. Hunsaker had filled the pulpit in various churches in the vicinity and had preached at the Amenia, N. D., Congregational church eight years. In recent years he had been a teacher in the First Baptist Sunday School men's class and fellowship class. He was a member of the First Baptist church of Fargo.

Besides Mrs. Hunsaker and twin sons, Richard and Robert, 15, students in Fargo Central high school, he leaves a daughter, Gretchen, teacher at McIntosh S. D., a graduate of the University of North Dakota and a former student at Columbia university; one brother Col. I. L. Hunsaker, New Jersey; and one sister, Mrs. H. L. Angell, Urbana, Ill. The Hunsakers resided at 344 Seventh av S.

With the passing of Dr. Hunsaker and the death Nov 13, 1936, of Dean Weeks of the school of education, the NDAC has lost two prominent members of its faculty in less than three months.

Active pallbearers at funeral services were C. L. Swisher, W. C. Hunter, A. E. Minard, F. C. Householder, P. F. Trowbridge and L. L. Carrick.

At The Movies

The State presents Saturday only, Virginia Weidler, eight-year-old Paramount star, as a high-spirited mountain girl, in her first starring film, "Girl of the Ozarks." This is a local color picture of the Ozarks giving Virginia a chance to display her ability for characterization. "San Francisco" will be shown Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday. It stars Clark Gable, Jeanette MacDonald, and Spencer Tracy in a picture of real dramatic strength. Wednesday and Thursday the State presents "These Three," the story of a child whose lies nearly ruin the lives of the elders who know her. Merle Oberon, Miriam Hopkins, and Joel McCrea are starred. Next Friday and Saturday James Stewart, Wendy Barrie, and Weldon Heyburn bring to the State screen "Speed," a new drama of automobile test pilots and all the danger and adventure accompanying the business.

"Arizona Mahoney" with Joe Cook will be shown at the Grand today and tomorrow. On Sunday and Monday "The Magnificent Brute," starring Victor McLaglen, winner of the last Academy award for the outstanding screen performance, has been booked for showing. The picture is filmed in a setting never before attempted in movies, a steel mill. "The Magnificent Brute" is taken from a Liberty magazine story called "Big," by Owen Francis.

That outstanding trouper, Eleanor Powell, is featured in "Born to Dance," showing at the Fargo theater this Saturday through Tuesday. This is a movie of dances. Every step from snake-hips, to the waltz, is interpreted by Miss Powell. "Rainbow won the River," with Bobby Breen, the nine-year-old singing star, again singing a picture into popularity, will be shown at the Fargo next Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday.

NAME LORRAINE WEIR

At a luncheon meeting of the Singing Strings, Lorraine Weir was elected president of the group for this year, Ella Shalit, secretary and librarian, and Ann Bolley, treasurer. The organization will meet Thursday at 4 p. m. in the various sorority apartments. The meeting next week will be in the Kappa Kappa Gamma rooms.

Baby wheat varieties grow tall in winter time on the North Dakota Agricultural college campus, but they need a greenhouse climate to do it. Greenhouse grown wheats, nearly 6 feet high, are producing a crop now and the greenhouse speeds the wheat breeding work to two years in one, points out L. R. Waldron, plant breeder at the experiment station. The housing of wheat breeding work also aids crossing which is difficult during extreme mid-summer heat as was experienced last July.

Varieties of high disease and drought resistance and outstanding baking qualities are the goals sought in the breeding work with wheat at the experiment station, where progress has already been attained.

Install 3 'Phones In Men's Dormitory

Three new phones were installed in the Men's Residence hall last week, according to Prof. R. Ottersen, manager.

In addition to a toll telephone on the first floor, for use in making long-distance calls, extra phones were placed on the first and third floors. The new numbers are 5828 for the first floor, 5827 for the second floor, and 5829 for the third floor.

The change was made to remedy the confusion resulting when 300 men tried to use the same phone, declared Ottersen.
