

THE SPECTRUM

VOLUME LI.

STATE COLLEGE, NORTH DAKOTA, FRIDAY, MARCH 6, 1936.

NUMBER 23.

Two Lectures Are Scheduled For Convo.

Spring term convocation, as scheduled by Dean A. E. Minard, will include definitely two lecturers and a singer, with other programs assured but not yet decided upon. Victor Victoroff, dramatic tenor, will appear Thursday, Mar. 19; Dr. Kewal Motwani, Indian writer and philosopher, Mar. 23; and Harry C. White, scientist and lecturer, April 9.

Singer Victoroff, who has received his training in St. Petersburg and Milan and has many successes abroad, will present a program of arias in French, Italian, Russian, and English. He is described as singing "with a fine and powerful voice which begs a handicap from no one." He will appear under the management of Harry Culbertson, Inc., Chicago.

Doctor Motwani will lecture on the art of India, showing slides. Since his early education in the Indian National University with Rabindranath Tagore, the world famous poet as its chancellor, Doctor Motwani has held to the unswerving purpose of interpreting India to the western world. It is said that his interpretation of American civilization to his own countrymen is as illuminating as is that of his motherland to us.

Harry C. White, sponsored by the extension division of the University of Minnesota, will deliver an illustrated lecture on the wonders of science. Mr. White will demonstrate the action of the photo electric cell, commonly known as the electric eye, and the transmitting of a written message; the audience will see the letters in a fiery stream of electrons transmitted to a tube located on the center of the platform. If conditions are right, he will give many other startling demonstrations with light. Mr. White is a veteran on the lecture platform, having had twenty years of experience.

Annual Barn Dance Scheduled April 17

Plans have been made for the annual Saddle and Sirlain club Barn Dance which will be held on Friday April 17, in the Field house instead of in Festival Hall, because of increased attendance at the last year dance.

Kent Helland has been made temporary chairman of the affair, and has announced that Lem Hawkins and his Hill Billies will play popular music for the dancers.

The usual dress, consisting of overalls and aprons, will be in line and plans are being made to decorate the building with quantities of hay, straw, and harness to aid in giving the proper atmosphere. Chocolate milk and cookies will also be in abundance for refreshments.

No limit will be made on ticket sales as formerly and the regular price of 50 cents a couple will be charged. Tickets will be on sale by members of the Saddle and Sirlain club at the beginning of the spring term.

Kappa Sigma Chi Wins Fraternity Basketball Title

By ORVILLE GOPLEN

Kappa Sigma Chi won the inter-fraternity basketball championship last night when they turned back a stubborn Alpha Gamma Rho quintet, 22 to 16, in a thrill-packed contest, the odd game of a three-game playoff series. Kappa Sigma Chi had gained a 21-15 victory Monday and Alpha Gamma Rho a 20-15 win Tuesday.

With Steve Ward, rangy Gamma Rho pivot man, controlling the tip throughout, Kappa Sigma Chi won last night because they had a fast, accurate passing unit that engineered and converted shooting opportunities.

Dietz Scores First

The game was filled with action from the time Hollis Dietz shook off his guard to give Alpha Gamma Rho a 2-0 lead in the first minute until Dick Joyce, slight Kappa Sigma Chi forward, sped in unmolested for a sleeper to end the scoring late in the contest. Kappa Sigma Chi held the lead throughout the majority of the fray, Alpha Gamma Rho leading twice in the first quarter and tying the game once in the second quarter.

Leading the victors in the championship go were Bob Stephan, writing brilliant finis to four years of inter-fraternity play, and Joyce, starting his first game in Kappa Sigma togs. Stephan had nine points and Joyce eight. Don Scott and Jimmie Berdahl did yeoman guard duty in covering Al Strong and Dietz, ace scorers for Gamma Rho.

Strong was leading scorer for the losers with seven points and Dietz, the league's top scorer, had five.

Winners' Second Title

Stephan and Berdahl played lead roles as Kappa Sigma Chi won the Monday's game. Led by the sharpshooting of Ralph Dietrich and Dietz, Alpha Gamma Rho displayed superior basketball Tuesday to come back to gain a victory.

This is the second successive cage title for Kappa Sigma Chi.

Twenty-ninth May Festival Is Scheduled

The twenty-ninth annual inter-high school May festival has been scheduled for the NDSC campus on May 7, 8 and 9. A program of cultural and vocational contests and splendid entertainments has been arranged for the thousand high school students who are expected to attend.

The contests have been divided into three groups—athletic, industrial and literary. Athletic contests will be held for both men and women. Demonstrations and exhibits and livestock judging contests will be features of the industrial group. The literary division includes an oratorical contest, declamatory contest and a one-act play contest.

The festivities of the three-day gala celebration will culminate in a big inter-high school May party in honor of the visiting delegations to be held on the last day.

Council Sets Voting Dates

The general election for members of the Student Commission will be Tuesday, March 31, according to Ray Cruden, commissioner of elections.

Candidates shall announce themselves by presentation of an eligibility card to the commissioner of elections on or before March 18 to permit the publication of the list of candidates in the Spectrum one week before elections. This is in accordance with section 4 of Article II of the recently adopted student commission constitution.

Balloting for one year terms will take place for president of the commissioners of campus, elections, finance and social affairs. Three elective sophomore posts for two year terms are commissioners of public speaking, judiciary and athletics.

Spring Ball Dates Set By Officers

Tentative dates have been set for the Junior and Senior balls, leading formal social events of the spring term, on April 24 and May 15 respectively, according to Paul T. Boleyn and Clifford Altermatt, class presidents.

The Juniors announce that the elections for ball manager will be held in the Little Country Theater on Friday, March 20, at 4:00 P. M. The Senior class has not announced election dates as yet for the Senior ball, but plans have been made to hold the voting shortly after the opening of the spring term.

We shan't say what college paper this item came from, but it goes like this: "We regret to state that we did not have the information about John—correct. He is not an instructor, but a fellow. Dr. Wolf is not head of the botany department. There is no botany department. It's biology. It is not Durham university, but Duke university."

Students Submit Petition Asking For Revision Of Study System

President To Act On Petition Today

President Shepperd will act today concerning a petition signed by sixty members of the department of engineering and architecture and submitted Wednesday for the purpose of changing the present system to give students access to laboratories in the engineering building for the purpose of study especially after school hours and over the week-end. Petitioners maintain that Dean Dolve, head of the division of mechanical arts, will not let students have free access to the rooms of the engineering building. Leaders among the group threaten a strike if some adjustment is not made.

Under the present system, students are allowed to study on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, between the hours of 7:30 and 10:30 if they have properly filled out forms outlining their name, class, what they intend to study, when they appear, and when they leave. It is not only this formality that is objected to, but the fact that the laboratories are not kept open other than these nights. According to architectural students, a great portion of their work must be done in the laboratory where the equipment and working materials are handy. They attack the present system on the grounds that it is depriving them of their right to study and work. The students are not allowed to work in the laboratory on Friday night, Saturday, or Sunday, and consequently have to work overtime during the week to complete the required assignments.

Difficulty arose several years ago when some careless students tore a drinking fountain off the wall and left the building, allowing the water to flood a number of the rooms. Later the students were allowed to enter the building, but the heat was turned off at 6 o'clock. In order to work comfortably the students built a fire in one of the rooms to remove the frosty atmosphere. It is through these two actions that Dean Dolve has decided to remove the privilege formerly enjoyed by the students in the department. The main contention of students is that the destruction was done by students no longer enrolled in the institution. They feel that they are being discriminated against for something they are not responsible for.

Just what action the aroused body of student engineers will take during the next few days and next term will no doubt be the outcome of action taken by President Shepperd and Dean Dolve.

Neil Fisher Given Naval Appointment

Neil Fisher, freshman in electrical engineering, received word last week of his appointment, by Senator Gerald P. Nye, to enter the U. S. naval academy at Annapolis.

He filed his application six months ago and took his examination January 4. Fisher will probably leave for the academy early this summer to take preliminary work.

SCOTT PLACED HIGH IN CIVIL SERVICE TEST

With a score of 87.5, Donald Scott of Fargo, senior in horticulture, placed as one of the three highest in a civil service examination conducted nationally for junior geneticist, according to word received from Washington.

The horticulture department at this college is one of the smallest of 48 school departments in the United States and is headed by Professor A. F. Yeager. Appointment will be made from one of the three highest.

David Copperfield Skilfully Produced By LCT Players

Little Country theater players ably produced John Ravel's dramatization of Dickens' immortal "David Copperfield" Tuesday at 4 and 8 p. m. under the sponsorship of the play production class and the direction of A. G. Arvold.

Although the play is an artistic triumph which could stand as a success on its own merits, much was added to the play's qualities. The well cast production undoubtedly stands as the theater's best offering so far this season. Subtle playing of moments of suspense and special interest added a great deal of the much striven for polish. Each actor appeared to live his part rather than merely move about the stage and repeating lines. Period costumes added a touch of realism. Atmosphere was created by cleverly designed lighting. Although the use of child actors often is somewhat disconcerting to adults, the use of juveniles in this production proved to be completely successful. Special credit is due Delores Flagg for convincingly mastering a second part the same afternoon of the performance. This necessity was created by the sudden illness of Mary Arvold.

The cast included Grethe Jones, Marjory Huey, Robert Sanders, Orville Sorvick, Kenneth Pringle, James South, Beatrice Rosatti, Gwendolyn Stenehjem, Ivah Brevick, Arthur Hehr, Wilfred Rommel, Elizabeth Dewey, Dayton Jones, Marjorie Rooney, Sam Dobervich, Robert Pryor, Virginia Smith, DeLores Flagg, and Albert Hinckle.

Practice House Changes Name

When the practice house was built on this campus, (and it was one of the first practice houses to be built on a land grant college campus), such houses the country over were called practice houses because the work done in them was considered home practice work. It soon became felt among home economists that the term was too narrow to cover the work done in the laboratory course carried out in the so-called practice house. The course is primarily a management course. In this laboratory the senior students in the School of Home Economics attempt an all-round piece of management which no other course of their curriculum offers. They take over complete management of all the various duties that must be performed in the home as well as expenditures and social and family life activities. Management of time becomes a major problem, since all of the work of the house—meal preparation, laundering, house care, marketing, etc.—is done by the students living in the house along with their regular schedule of college courses. This means there must be carefully planned time schedules. Money must be wisely spent to keep the food bills down and at the same time provide adequate food for menus based upon the student's knowledge of nutrition, food preparation and selection.

In the final grade of the student in this course, management of their work and activities, including the ability to cooperate in group projects, forms the basis upon which judgment is passed. The house is therefore a home management laboratory and should be so named. Almost all colleges have adopted this name for their houses, and our only excuse for not having done so before this is that students and friends of the college, and trades-people, have become accustomed to the name "practice house," and changing names always presents problems. We hope, however, our friends will not find it difficult to fall in line with those in the School of Home Economics who will take the lead in calling the home management laboratory, "Home Management House."

ALBA BALES,
Dean of the Department of Home Economics.

An Opportunity for Wisdom

When one looks at the condition of campus politics there is little cause to wonder that national politics are in the jumbled mess that they are. If youth in its formative years concerns itself with the pettiness and subversive and mud-slinging tactics popularly deemed expedient to the waging of a successful political campaign, it is small wonder that one finds such tactics carried on into life after college, although it is more probable that campus politics are mirrored after national politics. However, by remedying the situation in college a big step might be taken toward doing away with the evil attendant to the national picture.

This spring the students of this college will go to the campus polls with a new constitution determining the circumstances under which a candidate will be announced and elected. Evils of the old manner of electing members to the commission have been eliminated as much as possible and the students have had opportunity to express approval or disapproval of the new constitution. Though this revision has done away with many evils as regards manner of electing it has done nothing about the type of candidate chosen to run for each office. It is up to the nominating bodies on this campus to supply the candidate who will fill the office creditably—a candidate fitted for the job rather than one who will bow to party wishes or one put up merely for the sake of gathering the votes. Experiences in the past when competition has been both keen and close have shown that students have split votes to vote for the man best qualified. The constitution has been revised to do away with the old evils and campus groups would do well to follow suit and put up a list of candidates worthy of the office, instead of the usual type, subservient to party dictates.

BISON BRIEFS

By BOB WILLIAMS

NOTE—This missive was written at four-thirty A. M. after a bad night. You can take it for better or worse—Spalding says worse. Even the writer threatened to destroy it when he woke up the next morning and found it on his desk. The author has spared nothing in his wanderings, so if you are of the weaker hearted he would advise a halt before someone is overcome by sentimentality. WITH APOLOGIES.

Spring—forth in the pleasing spring thy beauty walks; thy tenderness and love wide flush the fields; thy softening air is balm; the forest smiles; and every sense and every heart is joy—the balmy breezes sweep away the bleak and cold and snow and each little flower reflects the tints of a giant earthly rainbow; love finds its way into young hearts and birds sing praises into the falling eve and brooks and groves swing in the rhythm of a new season—spring, the vernal season that poets love—maidens and spring—youth—maidens—blood rosy cheeks, a line of pearl running through her quivering lips, her hair unbound and loose like airy shadows floating in the breeze, the rallied color in her cheeks, the graceful form like matchless sculpture stirring in linen vesture, that is the spring—a budding of youth, of little flowers,—the swelling and gurgling of a brook—the robin calling his mate, his heart throbbing in the essence of green—leaves and moss-covered rocks—spring—beauty—youth—but how about me, Oh Master of the seasons, how about me Mother of Nature—there is no spring—'tis but a day between winter and summer when the wind blows the taxpayers' sod into the heavens and back down with a new burst of fury into the eyes of all until we choke and gasp and cuss the season—balmy breezes bring not the odors of budding flowers but the odor of melting clods of winter's accumulation in the stables to the north—there is no robin singing—the chimes are even silent—the gurgling of brooks and and swelling of creeks is only the banter of the famous and the swelling of chests—Oh, life is not that simple, my poet—our feet fall on the melten snow up to our ankles and each morn we skid and fall and slip and tumble—how can you call that fitting in the breeze—romances are no sweeter in the spring—you change the season Mother Nature, but we are all the same individuals—if we love in winter we love in summer—spring means the beginning of a new term for us, it has no more in store than the last—in fact, we cannot expect to be as happy because we plan too much on the spring—our winter escapades are spontaneous and extemporaneous—we plan little and enjoy ourselves more—the spring should make us cautious—it is folly to make ourselves believe a week-end at the lake or a genuine old-fashioned picnic is any more entertaining or satisfying than a good toboggan party, or skating on a winter night, or a quiet evening at home,—I wonder if we don't kid ourselves a little—it is the individual that makes for pleasure in any season and not what poets dwell upon and praise a supreme being for—the dust blows in a cold north wind bringing barnyard breezes into the study room—our friends are the same as we had last winter—they are no more dear than then—a quiet walk on a warm spring night is a cross section of heaven to us at times—but are we any happier—does life have any more of value—is there more beauty in budding flowers and running brooks than there is in frost-covered trees, frost sketches on the window pane in the morning, setting suns on new fallen snow, rosy cheeks from the blistering wind, and fads and fashions of the winter dress—spring is almost here—should we rave?

Aunt Fanny's Love Lore

By AUNTY FANNY

Our dear editor has been swamped, simply swamped, children, with pitiful letters asking for advice on matrimonial affairs, and he decided that the paper needs an Advice to the Lovelorn column. So . . . here it is, with your little Fanny doing the dirty work.

The first letter was from a little girl in Ceres and is enough to bring tears into the eyes of even Dizzy Williams. Here is the trend of it. Dear Fanny:

I'm a cute little filly of some 216 moons and I am in love with a leader of men. He never sees me though because he is so busy leading balls. What can I do?

—Lotta Wiggle.

Dear Lotta:

You say you are in love with a leader of men? The best thing you can do is to join a sorority, become president, and lead balls in your own right.

The next letter was interesting and deserved much consideration on the part of all the readers.

Dear Fanny:

I am a blond baby with a figure like a cocoa cola bottle; yet I sit in my room (which is at 1207 4th avenue north—phone No. 3340) lonely and discouraged. What am I to do?

—Ima Hotone.

Dear Ima:

I feel that your troubles are solved already. If that little insertion in the center of your letter doesn't bring results, your Aunt Fanny's opinion of the male population is lower than a freshman English mark.

Now we have an epistle from a pixie who is having athletic trouble. Dear Fanny:

I have been going with a football player for nearly a year and am very fond of him. However, I am wondering if his intentions are strictly honorable because he goes with four other girls too. Do you think I should allow him to make advances unless he drops at least one of these girls?

—Ida Donit.

Dear Ida:

You are right in questioning his intentions. Football players are tricky fellows. Whenever you go into huddle with him, watch out for unexpected passes and secret plays. As for the other girls, if he is a good player he should be able to handle a four-woman offensive.

That just about completes the advice for this week, but we'll be back again with more solutions. So anyone having trouble of any kind may just drop a card addressed to Fanny at the Spectrum office. Remember, girls, many an honest face hides a nervous pair of hands.

YW Cabinet Names Frosh Commission

Ten girls have been chosen by the YWCA cabinet to make up the freshman commission for the ensuing year. The main duties of the commission are to sponsor Blue Monday Teas and assist the cabinet in their work. The following freshman girls have been selected:

Josephine Swenson, Marie Carlson, Katherine Keogh, Lois McMillan, Willa Jean Wells, Evelyn Larson, Florenz Dinwoodie, Norma Peterson, Cloyce Hocking, and Margaretta Bjornson.

At their first meeting, the new freshman commission elected Evelyn Larson, president; Katherine Keogh, vice president; and Norma Peterson, secretary.

Leroy A. Chloupek, class of 1932, superintendent at the Industrial Paint and Varnish company in Dallas, Texas, has left to be a research chemist for the Detroit Graphite company, Detroit, Michigan, according to word received by Dean Carrick of the school of chemistry.

Herbert Preimberger, class of 1935, who has been employed with the former company since the fall of 1935, has been appointed Chloupek's successor as superintendent.

All College Dance To Be Held Mar. 20

Hay! Hey! What's this? A dance and no charge? It isn't a Spinster Skip either, the fellows do the honors—free of charge. Maybe the Student Commission isn't going to Minneapolis after all on all the excess money they have acquired, but out of kindness of heart they are going to give the student body a nice big surprise if they're good little boys and girls and pass their examinations with flying colors. Maybe we should congratulate the social commissioner, she may have had something to do with it . . . who can tell?

What we've been trying to tell you is just this. There will be an all-college dance March 20, the Friday after the spring term begins, in the field house from 9 to 11:30 p. m. Jane Bristol is in general charge. Later announcements will bring to you who will furnish the rhythm and who will chaperone.

HOLD DISCUSSION

Mildred Boettcher and Walter Isley will lead a discussion in "Steps to Creative Living" at the John Robinson club meeting at the Plymouth Congregational church Sunday.

in the chapter rooms. Janet Sharp was in charge.

Delta Tau Epsilon—James Servis, Idaho, is a guest at the chapter house.

THREE RECEIVE COMMISSIONS

Three military students, G. J. Baird, J. L. McCormick, Jr., and Norman Peterson will be commissioned second lieutenants in the infantry reserves on March 11. They will be assigned to the 352nd infantry of the Organized Reserve corps.

VISIT MSTC GROUP

Orville Goplen and Harry Graves, president and secretary of the NDSC YMCA student cabinet, were speakers at a meeting of the Moorhead State Teachers YMCA Sunday evening.

A story is now going the rounds, of a student whose law school fees were raised from $40 to $50. Canny, he looked at his college catalogue and the catalogue said fees were to be $40. So he sued his college administration for the extra $10. The whole law school faculty was lined up against him, but the judges gave the boy the nod. He won his case.

Lawritson Attends Educational Meeting

Mr. G. N. Lawritson, instructor in education, attended the annual winter meeting of the National Educational Association which met from Feb. 23 through the 27th. The outstanding discussion was on Federal support of public education. President Coffman of the U of Minnesota was the principal speaker on this program.

Other speakers during the meeting were Glenn Frank of Wisconsin U, Dr. Studebaker, U. S. commissioner of education. Dr. Bagley of Columbia gave the principal address of the meeting at a supper Monday night.

The theme of the meeting was "Function of schools in democracy." Mr. Lawritson was also a delegate for Kappa Delta Pi, honorary education society which met at the same time. This meeting marked the twenty-fifth anniversary of the society which was founded in 1911.

Mr. B. C. B. Tighe, principal of Fargo high school, spoke before the conference class of seniors in education Tuesday at 3 p. m.

Hanson To Instruct Spring Golf Class

Students at the North Dakota State College will be given an opportunity to pick up some fine points on golf during the spring quarter, according to an announcement by the Athletic Department. Classes of instructions will begin the second week in the spring quarter and will be presented free to all men and women students but incidental fee of one dollar will be charged for the use of the equipment.

Art Hanson, professional golfer during the summer season at Mandan, will be the instructor and will conduct a series of nine consecutive lessons, one each week during the spring session. Hanson enjoys an enviable reputation in golfing circles in this vicinity being one of the few members of the Professional Golfers Association who is a college student.

Male freshmen will be given credit in Physical Education if they are enrolled in Mr. Hanson's course. The room in the basement of the gym has been fixed up to accommodate the learners and students will be allowed to practice any day during the week.

Nothing is ever perfect

FOR 1936 we offer what we think is the finest car in Ford history. But no car is ever considered perfect and finished as far as Ford engineers are concerned. Once a year we introduce new models—since that is the custom—but constantly we make improvements in our car, for that is our lifelong habit. We don't wait for Show time to make a better car.

Proof of this is the present Ford V-8. In basic design it is almost the same as when introduced four years ago. But in performance and economy there is no comparison between the 1932 and 1936 cars.

Ford engineers do not work with yearly models in mind. The Ford Motor Company does not wait for introductory dates to incorporate improvements. As soon as exhaustive tests prove that a new material is better, into production it goes. When new machining processes or new inspection methods are proved superior, in they go also.

The purchasers get the advantage of all improvements as soon as we are certain that they are improvements.

ANDERSON AND SAUNDERS ON MYTHICAL QUINT

Birk, Finnegan On Assault Line; Buck At Guard

Reiners and Bettschen Fill Second Team Forward And Guard Posts

The mad scramble for the conference title is finished and now comes the time when all and sundry who feel that they have the least working knowledge of the game of basketball burst forth with what is undoubtedly the one and only logical all conference team. So on that basis the Spectrum Sports staff presents their selections for this mythical honor.

Because the University of North Dakota and the State college so far outclassed the remainder of the members in the loop we do not feel that it is at all unfair to choose four of the first five men from these two aggregations.

Anderson High Scorer

In our opinion the outstanding man in the loop was Russ Anderson, shift center for the Thundering Herd. Up until the time of the University series Anderson was not considered a serious threat to the high scoring leaders, Birk and Finnegan, but it was in these four games that he clearly displayed his superiority, outscoring either of the Nodak forwards despite the fact that he played on a team that won but one out of four games. Russ was the main factor in the long line of Bison victories, displaying a splendid floor game and leading the conference in scoring.

Paired with Anderson on the forward echelon is that pair of stalwarts from the Sioux stronghold, Birk and Finnegan. These two boys completely dominated the forward field being not only the offensive stars of the high-powered Lettich scoring machine but proving equally capable when it came to feeding the ball. Birk is of more value to the team as an integral part of a unit, but Finnegan is the more 'basket minded' of the pair, meaning that Finnegan plays almost literally with one eye on the basket and never loses an opportunity to score while Birk will sometimes pass to a teammate rather than risk a shot himself.

Tolan Forward Alternate

Reiners from the Bison and Tolan of Iowa Teachers were the closest competition afforded the Nodak duo, with Reiners deserving recognition because of his aggressive style of play while Tolan presented a balanced game that was shaded only by Birk and Finnegan.

An abundance of classy guards in the loop made selection of just two of them rather a ticklish bit of business but after narrowing the field down to Buck, Saunders, Rorvig, and Bettschen the first named two got the nod. So far as Buck is concerned there is hardly any way that he could be kept off the first five, undoubtedly being the outstanding guard in the conference. He was the perfect combination of qualities that a coach dreams about for his own game. He was fast, he was smooth, played a dashing type of

NDSC Crack Shots Repeat Win Over U

After defeating the U marksmen in the first of two shoulder to shoulder matches, the Bison crack shots came back last week-end to repeat the performance. The NDSC shooters garnered a total of 915 points out of a possible 1000, while the Sioux riflemen collected 889.

Ellis Thompson of the State team brought in the high total aggregate with a 187 count out of the possible 200. Closely following him were McGregor and Vandal of the University with a 186 and a 185 respectively.

The rules governing the match were identical to those of the preceding week. Each target consisted of five record shots. The five high men out of the six in each team were selected for the total tally.

The standings were:

Ballard	48	48	47	41	184
Smith	49	47	41	41	178
Pollock	48	50	43	43	184

Fire on the Hearst Trophy shoot will be concluded tomorrow. Three teams of five men each are firing this match. The shoot is a time fire affair, it being required that all five shots of each target be fired within a five minute period. It is also a requisite that the men who shoot on these teams be enrolled in the ROTC.

The showing that the team has made thus far in the weekly postal matches has been excellent, the total wins being 28 while the losses were but 2.

game yet coupled it with the coolness that comes from experience, his passing was superb and to top it all he was always a potential scoring threat. Playing on a consistently losing quint, South Dakota State, he nevertheless came into the limelight by his own individual merits.

Saunders was chosen before either Bettschen or Rorvig on the basis of his performances throughout the season and not just during the University series when the other two candidates came through with a brand of ball which they displayed for the first time. Saunders was consistently good, was a ball hawk of high calibre, and was of parvalue to the Bison because of his ability to advance the ball

Zech Ringsters To Match Blows With U Mittmen

The often postponed and much discussed fistic battle between the University of North Dakota fisticuffers and the boxing aspirants at North Dakota State is to be staged this Friday, March 6, in the State college gym.

Although Coach Al Zech at the Bison stronghold has a group of inexperienced battlers, he has brought them along rapidly as evidenced by the showing they made at the Golden Gloves tournament. Since that time he has concentrated on a much smaller squad and with the added experience under their belts there is every reason to believe that they will give a good account of themselves inside the roped arena. Most of the members of the Fargo squad are underclassmen, the only senior being Sam Dobervich, and a majority of them being freshmen. The Sioux undoubtedly have a classy aggregation boasting Golden Gloves winners among their numbers.

The top bout of the evening will be the scrap between Schultz of the Bison and Eckstrom of the Nodaks. These boys fight in the 126 pound class and combine natural speed with punching power above their range. Both can point to enviable records, Eckstrom being one of the four members of the Nodak squad who have held Golden Glove titles, Blanchette, Trickey, and Loveruud being the others. Dovervich will meet Blanchette in the heavyweight class and if Sam has improved since the Golden Gloves matches Blanchette may be in for a bad night. At 147 pounds Bapp of State will meet Miltenberger of the U, while Trickey, ace lightweight of the Nodaks, squares off against Hamilton. The welterweights on the card are Vern Iverson of the Bison and Alex Anderson, while the middleweight division finds N. Olson matched with Smart from the Grand Forks school. Show and Baker, University lightweight, are scheduled to clash at 138 pounds while Maurice McCor-

Frosh Lose Again To Nodak Yearlings

Playing the same brand of basketball that they displayed on the preceding Saturday, the University freshman basketball team again whipped the Bison frosh by a score of 38 to 18. Greatly hampered by the small floor of the University gym, the State team was barely able to make it interesting for the University lads.

Bill McCosh, University center, was again the outstanding player on the floor. Although he made only three baskets and two free throws, it was his great floor work that was the backbone of the University attack. Everett Cox, playing his usual flashy game at forward, came through with five baskets and won closely followed by Orris Hovde, who, while playing guard, managed to find the hoop for four baskets and one free throw.

For the local boys, only Harry Peterson seemed able to break through the charmed circle of the University defense and was responsible for four baskets and a free throw. The frosh could not get their own passing game clicking and were unable to cope with their smooth working opponents.

LOWE NAMED THIRD BEST GRIDMAN AT UNIVERSITY

Bob Lowe, basketball coach at NDSC and graduate of the University of North Dakota, was given third place in a poll conducted by the Dakota Student sports editor, Jack Stewart, to determine what university football player since 1896 was the most outstanding. Lowe played half-back on the Sioux eleven from 1912 to 1915. Fourteen candidates were entered in the poll.

mick will meet a University opponent yet unnamed. Referee for the matches will be Sam Chesley with Mr. McPhail and Mr. Martin acting as judges.

Herd Split Last Tilts With Sioux

After catching the short end of both tilts in the first half of the annual four game classic, the Herd split the final duo winning the initial battle 28-19 and falling off in the second tilt to go down 38-18.

The first game, which was a much harder fought contest than the one-sided affair of the following evening, opened with the sinking of a couple of free throws by Finnegan. It was not until after six minutes of the fracas had passed before Rorvig countered from the court. The majority of the scoring of this first period was the result of tosses from the free throw line. The half ended with the Nodaks trailing the inspired State club by four points, the tally standing at 15-11 during the intermission.

Reiners Plays Guard

The second period progressed much the same but both teams became crippled by the loss of players due to the four personal fouls ruling. Bernard was forced to the lockers after two minutes of the final section and was followed by Saunders, Bison guard, and Robertson, Sioux center. The loss of Saunders necessitated Reiners taking a post in the defensive eschalon and Kielty and Carl Rorvig occupying the forward posts.

The achievement of the two Bison guards of preventing both Birk and (Continued on Page Six)

Herd Split Second Series With Sioux

Finnegan from sinking any field shots was phenomenal inasmuch as the latter are considered by many to be the outstanding offense men in the conference. Besides excellent defense work Bettchen accounted for seven points of the team total.

The failure of the U club to click in this setto was manifest by the apparent inability of their shots to find the opening. They worked in for numerous tries but it seemed almost impossible for them to score.

Nodaks Run Wild

The table was turned completely in the second affair. For a time, however, it seemed that there might be a repetition of the engagement of the previous evening. The two teams were well matched during the initial half. Although the North Dakota crowd boasted the long end of the score, it failed to consider two buckets made by Anderson that were disqualified on technicalities.

The second half was a different colored horse. The Bison quint failed to drop in a point until eight minutes of play had been consumed. The rain of counters that were poured in by Finnegan and Birk proved to be too much and the contest was considered on ice before much time had passed. In this period Finnegan sank four, Birk three, Robertson two, and Rorvig and Kittleson one each.

Andy was the high man for the Herd with an aggregate of 8 points. His total for the four game series was high also totaling 47 points.

All-Stars To Play In Charity Classic

Lovers of basketball sport will be glad to know of the return of the Harlem Globe Trotters, a negro team composed of the greatest stars in the colored basketball world, who will again oppose the Fargo-Moorhead college all-stars in their fourth annual charity classic. The game is called for Wednesday, March 11, at 8 p.m., in the NDSC field house. This game is sponsored by the Cosmopolitan Service club of Fargo and the entire proceeds will be given to the Good Samaritan School for Crippled Children.

These teams have met on three previous occasions, resulting in two victories for the all-stars and one for the visitors. This year the manager of the Globe Trotters is anxious to even up the record. They are just returning from a trip to the Pacific coast and have not lost a game on the entire trip. The local team will

Northwestern, Idaho On '36 Schedule

With eight games on the Bison football schedule and one more being negotiated for, the 1936 schedule is practically complete. The 1936 season will be one of the toughest the Bison have secured for some time, but Coach Finnegan feels that his next year's team will be equal to the task.

Two new foes will appear on the schedule, Northwestern university and the University of Idaho. Both of these games will be played out of town on the fields of the respective universities.

The schedule is as follows:
September 18—Omaha university at Fargo (night game).

September 26—To be filled.

October 2—Concordia college at Fargo (night game).

October 10—Northwestern at Evanston, Illinois.

October 16 — Moorhead State Teachers college at Fargo (night game).

October 24—Morningside college at Sioux City, Iowa.

October 31—North Dakota university at Fargo.

November 14—South Dakota State at Sioux Falls, S. D.

November 21—University of Idaho at Moscow, Idaho.

consist of an aggregation of leading stars from Concordia, Moorhead Teachers college and NDSC, under the leadership of Frank Cleve, athletic coach of Concordia college. Preparations are being made to handle a crowd of three thousand people. No seats are being reserved and tickets may be purchased that evening or from any member of the Cosmopolitan club.

YMCA tumblers and the North Dakota Gold Star band, under the leadership of Dr. C. S. Putnam, dean of bandmasters, will furnish entertainment between halves.
