Annual Series With U Quintet Begins Tonight

Doc Putnam's Band Supports Bison in Battle for Conference Title

Entering the annual basketball series at Grand Forks tonight the Bison go to see who will be the NCC champs for the 1934-35 season. Incapable of anything but daring hit or miss prediction this yearly basketball debate will get its first airing in the army of the N. D. U. stronghold with the score board as the only judge.

All the trimmings of the traditional Bison-Sioux series are embodied in the reopening of the ancient rivalry that this year will mark the grand finale of conference basket tossing. With the title as a premium to the winner, the North Dakota basketball followers are spirited with excitement as these two neighbors prepare for battle.

Regardless of the loss of Arnold Bernard, backbone of the scoring column and contender for individual honors in the high point race, regardless of the handicap caused by the shortage of available reserves, Bob Lowe is planning on a rendition of the super-shooting that was displayed by the Bison against Valley City last Saturday night to keep the Bison pennant chance at a par.

Supported by several hundred rooters from the student body and the local fans who have planned to make the trip, the locals will not get a chance to feel as strangers in the University territory. Doc Putnam announces that a 50-piece band will accompany the Bison to Grand Forks to renew the musical rivalry with the organization of Mr. John Howard, the "U" bandmaster.

It isn't a matter of cold comparison of the two teams accomplishments that leads to a prediction of the outcome of the contests; but, on the contrary, the fact that it is a Bison-Sioux series is warning enough that prognostication is impossible.

In the event of a split series the Bison will not be automatically declared out of the title picture as has been erroneously reported in several Grand Forks papers. A scheduled (Continued on page 6)

Five Act Fantasy Set For Tuesday

Under the direction of A. G. Arvold, "Peter Pan," a fantasy in five acts, will be presented Tuesday, February 26, in the Little Country theater. Two shows will be given that day, the first at 4 p. m. with the final performance following at 8 o'clock in the evening.

Because of the sickness incurred by Jane Nichols, who was to have portrayed the role of the immortal Peter Pan, Frances Cooper has been chosen for this part. Proper equipment for the production of the necessary ethereal effects has been obtained and the play promises to be very entertaining, according to the directors.

BIGELOW NEAL, FAMOUS AUTHOR, HERE MARCH 4.

Bigelow Neal, author of "The Last of the Thundering Herd", the book last year chosen by the American Junior Literary Guild as being one of the best books of the year, will speak at convocation March 4. Mr. Neal was one of the speakers last year on the winter term convocation program, appearing in Fargo for the first time in 20 years.

The author is well-known as an authority on Indians, confining his writing to animal stories and to western fiction. Born in Garrison, N. D., he has been recognized as the first North Dakota writer and as an author of national fame. About 25 years ago he attended the NDSC for one year. He now lives on a ranch 10 miles from Garrison.

Five Seniors Get Recent Selection To Phi Kappa Phi

Phi Kappa Phi elected five seniors to membership of the group, according to a committee announcement. The new members are Donald Scott, agriculture; Marlin Cline, agriculture; Wm. Kneeland, civil engineering; Paul Ugstad, chemistry; and Gale Monson, science and literature.

Requirements to membership in Phi Kappa Phi is restricted to those seniors who rank in the upper one-fifth scholastically among the graduating class. The organization has a membership of 25,000 in 48 chapters from Maine to the Philippines. It was organized to encourage among students higher ideals and greater attainment in scholarship by the prize of membership.

The key awarded the members is a flattened globe bearing the Greek letters Phi Kappa Phi and surrounded by rays of the sun in eight groups.

Officers of the organization are Dr. A. D. Whedon, president; Dean R. M. Dolve, vice-president; Mathilda Thompson, secretary and treasurer, and Harriet Pearson, historian.

New Pep Leaders To Make U Trip

NDSC's tumbling cheer leaders, Charles Hazelrigg and Jack Andrews, will accompany the Gold Star band to Grand Forks this week-end in an attempt to aid the victory-seeking Bison cagers in their contests with the Sioux warriors. Hazelrigg and Andrews were named Bison rooster leaders by the audience at the Jamestown-NDSC a week ago.

Hazelrigg, a sophomore, attended Michigan State college, last year. He is a former Michigan A. A. U. junior tumbling champion. Andrews, a freshman, was a member of the Bismarck high school tumbling team.

"Y" DANCE POSTPONED

The all-college dance scheduled by the two "Y" groups for Friday night has been cancelled. It has been tentatively scheduled for early next term.

Debating Team Splits Series In U Contests

Arms and Munitions Topic Won by Negative Teams In Both Contests

The NDSC negative debating team was given the judges' decision over the University affirmative upholders last night in the Little Country theater. In the other half of the annual dual debate held at Grand Forks, the State college affirmative arguers lost a decision to the "U" negative team.

Resolved: that the nations shall agree to prevent the international shipment of arms and munitions was the 1935 controversial topic.

Henry Swenson, sophomore, and Gerald Stevens, senior, composed the successful NDSC negative debaters. Neil McCabe, sophomore, and Howard Kilbourne, senior, were the affirmative debaters who went to Grand Forks. Opposing Swenson and Stevens here last night were Wm. Holland and Howard Crabtree, and upholding the University cause at their home debate were Thomas Plante and Robert Buttz.

In the discussion here last night, the University advanced a plan to restrict the shipment of arms and munitions through licensing of the munitions makers, registration of sales, and the prevention of arms manufacturers from controlling newspapers and other instruments influencing public opinion. The State college debaters maintained this was a theory devised merely to control, not to prevent the international shipment of arms. They contended further that through the six per cent profit clause, profit would not be eliminated from munitions manufacturing, but would encourage the expansion of the industry in more countries.

Wayne Krogfoss gave a group of vocal solos. Chairman of the debate was Frieda Panimon. Judging the contest were J. R. Mashek, Fargo high school; W. B. Murray, Moorhead State Teachers college, and A. M. Holmer, Fargo YMCA.

Kappa Tau Delta Initiates McGrath

With president Vern Kohl in charge, Kappa Tau Delta, honorary architectural fraternity, initiated Walter McGrath, junior in architectural engineering, Sunday morning following the informal ceremonies the evening before.

Kappa Tau Delta has just raised the standards required for membership and as a result claims the distinction of being one of the most exclusive honorary fraternities on the campus, according to the officers. Each year they hold a lake party for their alumni and sponsor an architectural competition for all the members of the department.

At present there are six members in the society with four of them being lost by graduation in the spring.

WOMEN'S SENATE HOLDS TEA AT CERES SUNDAY

Honoring all women students and women faculty members, the members of the Women's Senate, student governing body, will be hostesses at a tea Sunday from 3 to 5 p. m. in Ceres hall parlors.

Other committees include invitations, Thelma Liessman; and cleanup, Faith Stockton, Helen Hummel, and Vernetta Hidde.

A color scheme of yellow and green will be carried out, with jonquils and green tapers being used.

Spectrum Editor Directs Current Issue Of U Paper

Continuing a four-year old editorial exchange tradition, Maxine Rustad, Spectrum editor-in-chief, is in Grand Forks editing today's issue of the Dakota Student, University of North Dakota newspaper.

The practice of the editors of the student publications of NDSC and the University of North Dakota doing exchange editing for one issue yearly was begun in 1932 by Marjory Archer, Spectrum editorial chief, and Don Reinohl, Dakota Student editor. The exchange, which has the purpose of creating good will between the students of the two institutions, was continued by Robert Connelly, and Gale Monson.

Jack Fields, Dakota Student editor, will come to Fargo next week-end to edit the Spectrum.

Operatic Star Pleases Large Audience Here

Famous Soprano Interprets Norwegian, Italian, French Numbers

"Eide Norena has so many virtues that it is a pleasure to enumerate them. She has that remarkable combination of a lyric soprano of warm quality with a coloratura of crystal clarity. Her interpretation shows fine understanding." This is how the New York Evening Journal characterizes Miss Norena, who last night delighted a large audience in Festival hall with her repertoire of songs.

Miss Norena was born in Norway and scored her first triumphs in Oslo, Stockholm, and Copenhagen. After singing opera four seasons she went to Weimar and later to London to study voice. While in the latter city she met Mme. Grieg, wife of the famous composer, Edward Grieg, who sent her to the famous German Lieder singer, Raymond von Zur Muelen. Italy was next on her itinerary, where she acquired an Italian pronunciation and became familiar with the authentic tradition of Italian opera. From Italy she went to Paris, where she absorbed the tradition of the French lyric stage, together with smart Parisian French. An audition at La Scala in Milan followed as a climax of her studies in Paris.

Since coming to America, Miss Norena has been the leading soprano at the Metropolitan Opera Company and is continuing her association with that company; she has also spent two seasons of operatic work with the Chicago Civic Opera Company.

Included on the program were such numbers as: "Care Selve" by Handel; "Spirate Pur, Spirate," by Donaudy; Grand Air from "La Traviata," by Verdi; Schubert's "Unge-duld"; Liszt's "Oh! Quand je dors"; "Mot Kvell," Agathe Backer-Gron-dahl; and "Det Forste Mote," by Grieg. Rafael de Mertis, accompanist, played three of Chopin's works, Ballade G-Minor, Opus 23; Mazurka A-Minor; and Etude, Opus 25, number 11.

Optional Military Bill Is Introduced

A bill to make military instruction at NDSC optional was introduced in the upper house of the state legislative Friday and the lower house Monday. A similar provision applying to the University of North Dakota was introduced simultaneously.

The senate bill was sponsored by E. E. Greene, C. W. Fine, and Johnson. In the house the measure was sponsored by majority leader W. J. Godwin.

Another bill to abolish physical education classes at all state schools was introduced by Gus Schauss.

Harold Naegeli, Sigma Phi Delta, visited his home in Fergus Falls last week-end.

Bison Briefs

By BILL

N. D. Children's Home
Washington's Birthday.

Dear Maxine:

This "father of his country" was no slouch. He could make Papa Dfonne bow his head in shame. Why, these quintuplets don't amount to a crib in one of Mademoiselle Dubetz' French classes in comparison with George's progeny. They're just a drop in the bucket—just kid stuff!

Remember, I wrote from over at the A. C. Hen House last week. Well, I decided it was about time I was chicken out (that's about as foul as Dick "The Go-between" Holzer's decisions"). In fact, I had to scam. You see, Hortense, one of them prize hens, got the measles. I noticed that she was restless lately and hadn't been setting around on that porcelain door-knob as much as usual. She kept walking around with her hands in her pockets, apparently brooding over something. Her big blue eyes didn't have that old sparkle. I thought right off quick like, that maybe her food was not all it had been cracked up to be and that faulty elimination was robbing her of a sunny outlook on life. And there was the possibility that she was worried about her crop failure, or that new government money deal, or was puzzled about our group of groggy governors groping greedily for gubernatorial glory. Anyway, she looked lower than a stunted daschund in the Y Dugout. It puzzled me, but then she was in the flush of young henhood. Ah no, these movements weren't indicative of prickly heat or the first stages of the rumba, for Hortense wasn't in the habit of attending Frances Wright's Tuesday Night Club. And she had been cooped up for several weeks with the chicken pox during her adolescent years. So it was really measles. Now, all those good times at the hen house are just memories for me. A secretion from the lachrymal glands of my eyes slops down over my acutely interrogative nose. (Oh fiddle dee dee, I'm getting sentimental again.)

I suppose you are whooping it up by now on the old U. reservation "where the dears and the antelopes" play. Do you think you could get a bead on a squaw for me if I hit the trail for the happy hunting grounds tomorrow? Wire me if you can line up Marahuana Mary, Horseblanket Hattie, Hiawalkathon, or Slush-in-her-Shoes for Saturday night's war dance. I can't speak their language but I know a little Chippewa, used to know Lotta Bull, sister of Sitting Bull, and I can sing "Sweet Sioux, Just You." I know what they'll say: Iz zat Sioux? But don't mind that. Please don't get me roped in with any of those half-breeds that eat raw dog meat. If they want to put on the dog they can go out with Fuzz-on-the-Lip, Lotta-Guts-for-a-Kid, Foam-in-the-Mouth or some of those braves with a lotta bucks who can afford to get scalped. I'm sticking to these squaws that like their lemon cokes.

By concerted action the band raised enough dough to come up tonight. Some fund, eh kid? And there'll be a lot of those freshmen frat fellows who joined nationals this year, who will be going up to see if that's a fact about your brother's bed being your bed any place in the land, or if it's just a lot of bunk. Then there'll be a lot of townspeople driving up if the weather isn't too bad. Today's weather report for the U was: Gym ceiling low. A lot of treacherous wind from West. Not much change in temperature from last year. Continued cold reception, but possibly hot time in the old town after the games. Visibility probably limited along about Saturday night. A lot of participation. Possibly Hail—all the gang's all here, by the bands. Probably showers for the boys after the game is over. Now this may be an Ag' school Max, but I think we can buffalo them. Wait till they see Buff (Don't Wear a Truss!) Hazelrigg in action. I wager that we'll have them looking like the Flickertail Follies about the third quarter. Dean Bales put a stop to the team's daily workout in the Practice House, but the boys are getting in shape shooting baskets down on Capt. Conmy's rifle range. Oh, I'm all pepped up. I'm gonna sneak up to the Little Country Theatre Chime control room and play "Casa Loma Stomp" in order to keep up that old spirit. And here's another thing I haven't told anybody about yet: You know Army Bernard's right in the punk now. Well, I'm going to give him a shot of cocaine and a picture of Marjorie Arnold just before the game time. Then I figure it'll take a tomahawk and a couple of poisoned arrows to stop the kid.

Yours, till the Spectrum becomes spectacular,
—Bill S.

Ellen Blair, president of the club, was in general charge, with the refreshment committee consisting of Harriet Berg and Maxine Myhra. Mary Elizabeth Runice and Dorothy Molland were on the invitation committee.

BRINLEY LEADS YMCA OPEN FORUM MEETING

"Eugenics and Euthenics" will be discussed Wednesday evening at 8:00 p.m. at a group meeting sponsored by the YMCA in the fireplace room of the Y. Dr. F. J. Brinley will be the principal speaker.

ELEVEN VISIT "U"

Eleven Gamma Phi Beta pledges and one active will spend the weekend at the University of North Dakota as guests of Alpha Beta chapter of Gamma Phi Beta. Girls going are Nan Powers, Mercedes Morris, Gertrude Anderson, Cecelie Henry, Arlene Riggs, Jeanne Verne, Catherine Cannon, Vinnie Olson, Jean Crowley, Lois Myron, Phyllis Krantz, and Margrethe Tronnes.

TANGO AND CONTINENTAL INCLUDED IN LESSONS

The ballroom tango will be taught in an elementary manner to experienced dancers from 9:30 to 10:00 p.m. at the "Y"-sponsored dancing class next Tuesday night, according to Frances Wright, dancing instructor. Tuesday's instruction, which begins at 8:00, will however, be chiefly devoted to the teaching of the foundation steps to beginner dancers.

As a further instructional feature Miss Wright will have one couple of her own private students to demonstrate the continental. This is done to answer several requests made by NDSC students for instruction in this dance.

Tuesday's lesson is the third class in a series sponsored by the YWCA and YMCA at the "Y" gymnasium. A small charge is asked of each person attending.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS PLAN GUEST MEETING SUNDAY

Regular meeting of the Young Democrats club honoring guest members, will be held this Sunday at 3 p.m. in the college "Y", according to Cathryn Ray, vice-president of the organization. Entertainment will consist of songs by a boys' trio, a solo by Charlotte Ohnstad, and a skit by Lloyd Flem, Larry Bue, and Darrell Dahl.

Individual Independence Is New Student Theory

One educational theory to be considered now when the value of education is being lessened by students' rebellious attitude toward compulsory training, compulsory courses, and compulsory attendance is the theory of individual independence.

According to this plan no student would be compelled to take any training that would not eventually be of benefit to him. No course outlying his vocational course would be forced upon him. He would be required to attend no more classes than he himself considered necessary. Examinations would be given the student only when he thought himself properly prepared for a written quiz.

This theory, no doubt, expresses a great amount of faith in the students' independent abilities. Therein lies the one chief disadvantage. If one attending a school where such an educational theory was put into practice, and because of insufficient former training was irresponsible and unsatisfactorily dependent, he would have no opportunity to learn the advantages of independence and apply them to his studies and life thereafter. However, if the American high schools were thorough enough in their training of young American citizens every student entering college would be fitted to apply himself successfully to the system of educational independence.

Department Consolidation Is Subject For Thought

In our own inoffensive way we'd like to afford the student body a little food for thought on this subject of consolidating the departments of the State college and the University. One or two points on both sides of the question will be presented and then it's up to you to decide for yourself what you want to do about the situation.

The obvious advantage to the proposed change would be to lessen the cost per capita for a good education. Then, too, one strong central department would tend to improve the calibre of students turned out, which fact would cause the rating of the school to rise in national circles. In the case of the engineering department, which one seems to be the one under most serious consideration, this national recognition would be of decided benefit in obtaining positions after graduation as in these technical courses employers primarily consider the standing of the applicant's alma mater.

The chief detriment of the plan would fall upon the shoulders of the present students. They would be forced to alter their entire scheme for attending college and in many cases where funds have been carefully apportioned among tuition, room and board, etc., any variation might prove disastrous to the student's financial strategy.

There's the problem; now solve it.

YE MERRIE SPINSTERS TO HOLD GAY AFFAIRE

Hear ye! All that are weary and heavily laden with study, term papers and exams. There shall come a time in ye not too distant future when ye might find solace for your tired minds, when all ye spinsters may get your man, and when all ye males may (and may not) get your reward—reward for what? For good and faithful service to your gal? Certainly not, there's no such thing. However, that's beside the point. The point is this: The senior Staff is again sounding "the call to arms" in the form of a Spinster Skip to be held at Festival hall on Saturday, March 9.

Maxine Rustad and Paula Verne are in charge of general arrangements for the "fracas". Helpful hints to bashful boys and girls will be published later. With one day of exams behind us we can be light of heart as well as light of head and find relaxation at the "Spinster Skip."

Melodramatic Molls, Stooges Rehearse Golden Spike Saloon's Affections

Shades of East Lynne!

Bill Murphy slithering about Festival twirling his long mustachios; Daby Boulger home following the plow after his college education just waiting for his big chance to get honest employment and make a fortune for the little woman he has been courting these ten years—he still calls her Miss Fairweather; Grethe Jones, the clinging object of his affections, denouncing the evils of drink, facing with fluttering eyelids a fate worse than death (Bill, you brute); Ben Cave, creaking up to heaven on the golden ladder; Lawrence Anderson mixing stiff ones in that den of iniquity, the Golden Spike Saloon; Don Putnam quite natural as head stooge; and little Nell, the dance-hall moll who brings Daby down, down, down—it's melodramatic in the good old manner, but with virtue rewarded in a way that will raise your eyebrows.

Harold Peterson, the author, terms the play "The Octopus" or "Justice Will Triumph." This four-act melodramatic travesty will furnish the continuity for the Bison Brevities, the scenes coming between each of the main acts.

The action occurs on the Fairweather homestead in the Golden Spike Saloon on the Bowery and in the Fairweather orchard, giving Bob Landbloom unlimited scope for imaginative designing. The saloon will be of the free lunch era, with swinging doors, sawdust-covered floor, and a bar that promises to make you homesick.

Dramatic Director Spaulding reports that the cast has the first two acts well in hand and rehearsals are progressing rapidly. According to Landbloom, one look at the cast in action and your troubles vanish.

Rifle Rating Up For Third Stage

In the third stage of the Corps Area Intercollegiate Match, fired last week in the positions of prone and standing, the NDSC rifle team is 18 points above its last year's total at the same stage. In this match the five high scoring individuals were: Anthony Walker, George Macaulay, Karl Kaess, Doyon Pollock and William Oftebro.

During the last week the rifle team won four and lost two in the regular weekly postal matches. The teams which fired a higher score than the Bison were: Cornell University and University of Washington. The teams defeated by the Bison were: University of Kansas, Rose Polytechnic, Natrona High School and the Washington University. The five high scoring individuals in this match were: Walker, Pollock, Pratt, Moffitt, and Kaess.

At the time of the annual basketball series, a shoulder to shoulder match will be fired with the University of North Dakota. The team which will make the trip to Grand Forks will consist of Walker, Oftebro, Miffitt, Pollock, Kaess and Thompson.

50 Band Members To Attend Games

Necessary funds to send the NDSC band to the University games were raised Tuesday night through a joint presentation of the Gold Star Band directed by Doc Putnam, the girls' glee club directed by Adda M. Blakeslee, men's glee club directed by Ernst Van Vlissingen, and Singing Strings directed by Audrey Kenevan. Due to inability to secure seats in the University armory, only 50 pieces of the 110-piece band that appeared for the final number will be allowed to make the trip.

Features of the program were "At Dawning," by Cadman, the band accompanying Marjorie Arnold in a soprano solo. The clarinet quintet consisting of James Golseth, Genevieve Hawkinson, Max Thal, Oliver Rowe, and George Sullivan, presented two selections. "Facilita," a cornet solo by Earl Turnblad, assistant director, was well received. The combined glee clubs, combined bands, and drum and bugle corps, numbering 110 pieces, played "Our Alma Mater" as the finale. Dean A. E. Minard's words were set to music by Doc Putnam first in 1907 and were revived this year.

Carol Buhrmann and Esther Moe acted as accompanists.

Bob Lowe gets his second chance at a North Central Conference title in his second year as head coach of the Bison basketball welfare, an average which, if he keeps it up, may tame the impromptu critics that have uncovered themselves with spirited but erratic reasoning. The Bison are definitely in either number one or two position in the conference as they enter the series at Grand Forks tonight. Which place they'll pick off still remains locked up in the prediction chamber.

The Bison are set to rehearse the shooting performance staged here against Valley City last week. It is admitted that only an exhibition of an A-1 accuracy barrage will supplant the chasm torn in the Bison line-up by the loss of Arnold Bernard. Looking at things critically, the question mark falls on Marquardt. If the tall forward can add Bernard's scoring punch to his regular steady play, the hopes of the Bison are still as good as ever.

With Denenny tagging Aamoth and Olson on the phenomenal Witassek, the chief University threats will find their work under heavy pressure. At any rate, it is expected that the forty-six point-a-game average maintained by the Sioux to date will be deflated considerably. The odds are with the Sioux in the first two games after the paper standings have been balanced, but the "sure fire" tips in the recent Bison-Sioux meetings have hit close to a meager fifty percent accuracy.

An interesting rivalry will be reopened tonight when Bob Saunders takes over the duties of checking Bob Finnegan, the sophomore star of the "U" combination. Saunders and Finnegan started it back in Mandan and Bismarck, respectively, where an inter-city game is a signal to mobilize.

In their four years of competition the Bison seniors have not lost to the Nodaks in a basketball series. As freshman they successfully swamped the Sioux yearlings. They defeated the University cagers for the conference crown as sophomores. Last year, playing as juniors, they split even in the four game series. With these veterans forming the backbone of the present squad, the Bison fans do not look for any let-up in their record.

As we go to press Casey Finnegan announces that there remain one hundred and forty-seven tickets to Fargo fans who plan on traveling to the Forks. Locals who wish to purchase tickets may do so at the Athletic building before noon today or may obtain them on the excursion train tomorrow afternoon. It is doubtful if tickets will be easily secured at Grand Forks.

Gergen Expects Close Game When Freshmen Battle "U" Papoose

Strength for the future varsity teams of the Bison and Sioux will be evidenced tomorrow afternoon when the Baby Bison battle the Sioux yearlings at Grand Forks. All the close rivalry of former years is expected to be on display, according to Coach Gergen.

The true ability of the University Papoose has not as yet been put to a test. It is believed, however, that one of their strongest teams in years will appear on the court. With the aid of such men as Borich, all-state high school center from Minnesota, and Don Robertson of Minot, the Papooses have plenty of potential power.

A successful season up to date is proof of the material wealth of the Baby Bison. Last week in a preliminary game they downed the Valley City reserves 34-18. During scrimmages in the past week with the varsity Gergen has been pleased with the smooth and fast pace they have been holding.

Last season the freshmen teams broken even when each team won on its respective home court. Gergen looks forward to winning this year's annual duo of games and believes that with an even number of breaks and the cooperation of his squad he can do so.

Members of this year's team making the trip include: Wesley Phillips, Palmer Kreutz, Emil May, Bernard Toman, Lyle Currie, Wendell Wickman, Howard Fraser, Fred Bower, Charles Beyer, Kenneth Dahl, Carl Rorvig, and Lawrence Shermoen.

NOTICE

A notice from Casey Finnegan's office will bring sorrow to the installment students of the school. No longer will the students that have not paid their required fees in full be allowed to gain admittance to the basketball games left on the yearly program without the presentation of a bona fide registration certificate. Absolutely no exception to this new ruling will be granted warns the athletic department.

Freshmen Defeat Valley Reserves

The baby Bison were a bit off color in the game with the Valley City reserves that preceded the Bison-Viking game according to Pete Gergen, the parental guide to the future Bison material, but they walked off with the decision by the score of 34-18.

Giving the entire squad a chance at the ball, Gergen found his most effective performers in Carl Rorvig and Palmer Kreutz who tossed the ball for the majority of the yearling scoring. At first bottled up by their own efforts to work too fast under the basket, the freshman steadied to a smooth-passing and hard-running attack. The substitution of Dahl and Toman did not weaken the freshman arrangement as both continued the fast play stressed by Gergen.

The Valley City reserves left the scoring duties to Sathre and Coddling but the Viking forwards experienced difficulty in getting their passes through the freshman defense.

Delta Taus Still Undefeated Team

With one more week left of the scheduled games in the intramural basketball tournament the Delta Tau's still are holding the lead. They are on top of the pack with a record of 8 victories and no defeats. Lindeman and Goebel, their stellar performers, who have consistently turned in fine all around games, deserve the individual credit for this fine standing. The Gamma Rho's, who were in third place at the end of the first round, have come along fast and now hold second place. If they continue their fast pace and a surprise upset is turned in against the Delta Tau's a tie in the "A" bracket will result.

The "B" bracket standings have been shaken up time and again throughout the tournament, leaving not much choice between the Kappa Sig's, who are leading at this time, and the YMCA and ATO quintets, which are tied for second place. All teams in this bracket have been defeated, and the fat is very much in the fire.

Manager Sloan announced that all of the scheduled games and the postponed ones will be played off by the end of next week, and that the finals between the leaders of the two brackets will be played the first week in March.

The percentage standings of the teams Thursday were:

"A" BRACKET
	W.	L.	Pct.
Delta Tau Epsilon	8	0	1.000
Alpha Gamma Rho	6	2	.750
Kappa Psi	5	3	.625

Bison Attain Peak In Game With Vikings

Bernard Is Lost to Bison In Coming "U" Campaign; Saunders Stars

Showing a form that represents the top peak of the Bison ability, the Herd climaxed its pre-series campaign in a game with Valley City here last Saturday evening that was very much in favor of the Bison all the way. Outscoring the visitors under a barrage of long field shots that ran the Bison total to 47 as opposed to the Valley quint's 26, the proteges of Bob Lowe refused to make hard work of the contest as they had done previously in a game at Valley City with the same opponents.

After a more nip and tuck first half the Bison personnel threw off all traces of conservative basketball and set about popping their shots from all angles. In quick succession Bob Saunders garnered six beautiful shots from the center area, while his team mate Curt Denenny continued the shooting circus by lobbing a one handed tip-off shot into the hoop.

At no time was the towering Humbracht ever effective in the Valley line-up. Keeping him well bottled up at all times, Denenny and Forrest Stevens put an end to the only threat that was left to the Vikings. While Olson and Marquardt were shifted about in the arrangement, the Herd continued its uncovered effectiveness by scoring more than sixty percent of all their shots attempted.

The Bison high spirits were quickly smothered when Arney Bernard lay sprawled on the floor after a rough contact in a tip-off. Examination shows that Bernard's injury is serious enough to keep him idle at least for the first half of the important series at Grand Forks this week end.

Accompanying the Valley City aggregation were over a hundred fans attracted to Fargo in the hopes of a Viking victory.

Intensive Debate Program Planned For NDSC Teams

Journeying to Watertown, S. Dak. Monday, Sigurd Melsted and Lloyd Flem, two NDSC debaters, will continue an intensive debate program arranged for the local squad by Don Hay, forensics coach.

The State college arguers will face a team from the University of South Dakota at Watertown in an argument on the question: Resolved, that the nations should agree to prevent the international shipment of arms and munitions. Melsted and Flem will uphold the negative.

The debate at Watertown will be held before a high school convocation at 4:00 p.m. Watertown was chosen, because it is the half-way mark between the two colleges. Thus, the transportation cost per institution will be halved and a larger audience is expected, according to Mr. Hay.

Tonight Melsted and Flem will debate the same subject with an MSTC team.

Cathryn Ray and Frieda Panimon will face a University of Minnesota debate team at Minneapolis Friday, March 1. They will discuss collective bargaining by non-company unions with NDSC defending the affirmative.

On Monday, March 4, Lawrence Bue and Gerald Stevens will meet Montana State college there in a return debate on the AAA.

Legislator Urges School Transfer

Elimination of duplicate courses at North Dakota State college and the University of North Dakota is the aim of the resolution proposed by Senator W. E. Matthaei of Wells county. Matthaei told the senate state affairs committee Wednesday night that elimination of the engineering school at the University and the designation of the State college as the only institution in the state teaching that profession is the idea behind the proposed measure.

"This can't be done immediately, of course," Matthaei said. "But the purpose of the resolution is to do away with teaching engineering at the University, where the cost is $175 per student as compared to $100 per student at the A. C. Another element entering into the University cost is the fact that the student during his first two years takes two-thirds of his work in the college of liberal arts." Matthaei also stated that it was "common knowledge" that the engineering school at the North Dakota State college is better equipped and enjoys a better standing than the department at the University.

Action on this bill has been delayed in order to give the senate state affairs committee time to study the resolution, copies of which had not come back from the printer.

Oberholzer Gives Causes Of Water Fowl Extinction

Drought, drainage of swamps and marshes, illegal hunting and natural illness are the factors which are causing the water fowl to become an extinct type of wild game. These facts were brought out in an illustrated lecture Monday evening at Festival hall by Harry C. Oberholzer of the United States biological survey.

In combating these destructive factors he explained that extensive campaigns are urging the prevention of further drainage of swamps. To further this end the biological survey, which will meet in July to decide on immediate action, is working on a project of dam building for the restoration of drained swamps and a plan to build up reservoirs to maintain a proper water supply in time of drought.

BROWNE'S SINGERS PRESENT PROGRAM

Browne's Metropolitan Jubilee Singers, a negro quartet, appeared at convocation last Wednesday morning. Opening their program with an original greeting number, they then sang a special arrangement of the "Star Spangled Banner" before beginning their program of negro spirituals and folk songs.

Mr. Browne introduced the other members of his company and also gave explanations of the background of the songs. He also recited a humorous poem written by the negro poet, Paul Lawrence Dunbar. The program featured a soprano solo and a round in which all members took part.

Mother's club of Sigma Chi had a bridge luncheon at the house last Monday.

Tickets for the games at the University are on sale at the Athletic department at $1.00 for adults and 75c for students.

Political Lobbyists Evidence Interest

By a Student Visitor

Greater interest in legislative measures than in former years prevails among the people of the state as evidenced by the number of interested spectators and lobbyists at Bismarck, declare legislators.

People from every section of the state and from every profession are represented among the lobbyists. They may be seen in groups in every hotel lobby, on every street corner, at the Capitol and everywhere, creating interest in different legislative bills.

Every evening these groups composed of different political factions gather in available places to discuss proposed measures with representatives and senators.

Bismarck housing facilities appear near the breaking point, as the crowds pour into the already overflowing capitol. Every available room in the city is occupied, the new-comers finding sleeping facilities with friends, acquaintances, and legislators.

NOTICE

All students who have received tickets for violating campus regulations and all students who should have appeared at the last court and did not, must attend the court to be held this afternoon at 4 p. m. in the Faculty-Alumni rooms in Old Main.

HOUSE OKAYS MEASURE TO END TEXT CHANGES

A bill passed in the lower house Wednesday would make it unlawful for any educational institution or public school to change textbooks more than once in five years. The bill, labeled one hundred and seventy-nine on the house calendar, has found approval in the lower body, but must secure the O. K. of the senate and the signature of the governor before it becomes effective. The measure will come up for consideration in the senate chambers not earlier than the middle of next week.

Annual Series With U Quintet Begins Tonite

uled game with Omaha, the new league entrant, at Fargo, March 8, will give the Herd a chance to equal the percentage standing of the University in the event each wins two in the coming series. The Sioux have the advantage to date of one more conference game played and won. In addition to the same opponents that the Bison have met, the Sioux have played and successfully downed the Omaha team.

Tonight marks the fourth time in as many years that the Bison-Sioux conflict has been the deciding series in the disposition of the conference flag. In these battles the Bison have won two, the university one.
