Alley Speaks On Munitions In Open Forum

Veteran Lecturer Blames Manufacturer for Retarding Peace

That the munitions makers are a perceptible retarding influence in struggle for world peace was the assertion made by Dr. Alden Alley in a lecture on that subject before members of the NDSC, YMCA and the Fargo-Moorhead open forum at the Fargo chamber of commerce last Monday night. Alley, who is a veteran European observer and lecturer, has attended ten sessions of the League of Nations and travels under the auspices of the national council for the prevention of war.

"However," continued Alley, "It is not a major problem and has in the recent months been over-emphasized by the newspapers and the investigation committee as the 'devil' in the world peace situation". The major avenues by which world peace can be achieved is through United States and all nations entering the League of Nations and the World Court and the education of the world citizens to the proper use of these tools.

The senate munitions investigating committee has revealed that munition manufacturers stand for larger military appropriations and are hostile to embargoes on arms exports.

"Grandstanding" by the committee and the playing-up of sensational developments in the investigation by the newspapers were flayed by Alley in his Monday address. These tactics, he claimed, provided a smokescreen whereby the munitions manufacturers could build up grievances against the committee which might minimize the actual findings of the investigation.

Alley continued that the mastery of war will be achieved when world families learn to live together under world laws which would be administered by the League of Nations and the World Court. United States' refusal to join the World Court was said by Alley to be the most important present-day cause for war.

Fans Will Choose Favorite Rooters

Fandom's applause tonight will name the two Bison cheer leaders who will continue in that capacity through next fall's football season, according to an announcement made by Erling Schranz, student athletic commissioner. Five will vie for the audience's favor in the yell leading demonstrations at this evening's NDSC-SDSC basketball encounter.

"Back up your choice by applauding those who you think will make the best leaders for the rest of this year and next," said Schranz.

Those competing are: Charles Hazelrigg, Jack Andrews, Mark Wilson, Harry Curtis, and Dwight Hunkins.

Doc Putman, Gold Star band director and veteran pepmaster, has prepared these boys for appearances at this game.

Should the boys chosen tonight perform their duties creditably the remainder of this year and through next football season, they will be awarded sweaters by the student commission.

Inter-Fraternity Sing To Be Held

Alpha Phi Omega, honorary service organization, will sponsor the first annual inter-fraternity sing sometime during the spring term. The event will be conducted as a contest in which choruses of any size representing each fraternity will compete for trophies which will be circulated each year. The contest will be held late enough so that it may be given outdoors. However, the fraternities are urged to organize their groups immediately so the contest may be presented as a well finished concert.

Each competing group will sing two of its own fraternity songs and prizes will be awarded the largest group and also the finest singers. The sing is part of Alpha Phi Omega's program to promote better relationships among fraternities on the campus.

Mr. Van Vlissingen of the music department and Alfred Arvold of the speech department, have offered to co-operate with the committee in charge of the general arrangements headed by Gordon Brandes.

Talbot Discusses Monetary System

"Government ownership of banks and control of banking operations is the first necessary step towards a workable monetary system," Glen C. Talbot, member of the North Dakota Farmers Union, told a faculty-student group at a meeting of the college Farmers Union club in the college YMCA Tuesday evening.

"Our present system of monetary exchange must be made equitable or we will be forced to go back to barter," Mr. Talbot declared. He pointed out specific examples to prove the inefficiencies of the system of exchange on which the United States and the world operates.

"Inflation, contrary to the generally accepted ideas of many persons, will not solve the problem," continued the speaker, "for as a matter of fact, the results of excessive inflation can be as detrimental as those of excessive deflation." It was the opinion of Mr. Talbot that the basic inherent defects of the monetary system were too fundamental and deep-rooted to be solved through either inflation or deflation.

"Condemning the Federal Reserve system as a banking system which has been deliberately manipulated for the benefit of a few influential financiers, Mr. Talbot made pointed references to the remarks of Andrew Mellon in London in 1920. It was significant, according to Mr. Talbot, that this speech of the former secretary of the treasury, was made at a time when the United States had embarked upon a period of the most drastic deflation that the country has ever experienced.

Preceding Mr. Talbot's speech, Mrs. Edwards, Farmer Union Educational director in North Dakota, spoke briefly. Mrs. Edwards and Mr. Talbot are the daughter and son of C. C. Talbot, president of the North Dakota Farmers Union.

Nelson Lectures Sigma Xi Members

"Common Colds" was the subject of the Sigma Xi lecture given by Dr. C. I. Nelson, professor of bacteriology, Tuesday, in the Little Country theatre.

Dr. Nelson, who was introduced by Dr. D. S. Dedrick, president of the Sigma Xi club, discussed the probability of the bacteria in the nasal passages as the possible cause for colds. An open discussion was held after the lecture, which was the fourth of its kind in a series of five. The next address will be some time this month. Dr. C. E. Mangels, cereal chemist, will be the speaker.

Sigma Xi, national honorary science and research fraternity, is represented by about 22 active members on this campus, who make up the Sigma Xi club, sponsoring these lectures.

Miss Beverly Jensen visited her home in Fergus Falls last week-end.

BALLET DANCER

This is one of the famous ballet dancers to be seen Wednesday evening when Col. W. de Basil's Ballet Russe of Monte Carlo appears in Festival hall. A comedy will be interpreted by Leonide Massine, maitre de ballet.

Leaders Named For Charity Ball

Betty Bickert and her escort, Earl Jennings, will lead the grand march Friday, Feb. 15, in the major women's invitational function of the year, the Charity Ball, sponsored by the college chapter of Panhellenic council. Second in line as secretary of the group will be Alyce Connelly with her partner, followed by Hermoine Hanson, treasurer, and her escort.

The Crystal Ballroom orchestra will furnish the music from 9:30 o'clock until one with the grand march at 10 o'clock. Because of the charitable nature of the event, no decorations or favors will be used. Indirect lighting effects will be featured. A girls' trio will furnish feature entertainment.

Committees in charge of arrangements other than the officers are: Audrey Boe, Hermione Hanson, and Jane Nichols, tickets; Alyce Connelly, Amy Glaser, and Helen Engel, music; Vernetta Hidde, Eleanor Isaacs, and Cathryn Ray, decorations; Constance Heilman and Mary Clemens, invitations and programs.

Kappas Initiate Arnold, McKoin

Marjorie Arnold and Barbara McKoin were formally initiated into Gamma Tau chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority at services held in the chapter rooms Saturday afternoon Jan. 26. In charge of initiation was Jane Bristol, president of the active chapter.

Dinner was served at the Le Chateau after the initiation with Jane Nichols of the active chapter as toastmistress.

Proteges of Anna Pavlova, Nijinsky, to Appear With Company

By JACK SPALDING

Coming directly from the scenes of many triumphs in San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, and Vancouver, Col. W. de Basil's Ballet Russe of Monte Carlo, which last season won the hearty praise of New York critics, will present a thrilling stage spectacle, combining the arts of dancing, music, drama, and decor in Festival hall, Wednesday, Feb. 6, at 8:15.

This company which carries a cast of fifty as well as its own scenery and orchestra, will present three numbers out of its repertoire of twenty-two works. The first number, entitled "Les Sylphides", in which the delicate beauty of Chopin's music is interpreted, was created by Michael Fokine, choreographer of the Imperial Ballet of St. Petersburg, in answer to the challenge of conservatives that he could not produce a ballet in the classic style. Critics hailed it as the most perfect classic ballet in the history of the art. "Scuola di Ballo" (School of the Dance), a comedy by Goldoni and re-interpreted by Leonide Massine, maitre de ballet of Col. Basil's Ballet Russe, is the second number on the program. The setting and costumes of this scene were designed by Count Etienne de Beaumont and maintain the picturesque comic spirit of the eighteenth century Italian tradition. The story concerns the troubles of a dancing master with his pupils, who are all possessed of imaginary ailments, and his unsuccessful efforts to dupe a prominent impressario. Act three, entitled "Le Beau Danube" (The Beautiful Danube), is the conception of Leonide Massine and portrays a romantic adventure in old Vienna set to the music of Johann Strauss. The setting is laid in a public park in Vienna in 1860 and the story pictures the difficulties encountered when a young hussar and his fiancée are

Students Compete In Declamations

Nine NDSC undergraduates will compete in the college declamatory contest to be held in the Little Country theater Friday, Feb. 1, at 7:30 p.m.

The selections to be given by the contestants in their speaking order are: "Saving the Dragon's Teeth," by Grant Heimark; "For the Love of a Man," by Wm. Sevenson; "The Least of These," by Gretha Jones; "Asa's Death" from Peer Gynt, by Margaret Hylden; "Casey at the Bat," by Darrel Dahl; "The Ballad of the Harpweaver," by Marjorie Rooney; a scene from "Death Takes a Holiday," by Donald Dickinson; "The Hundredth Trick," by Harold McCannel; and "Gretna Green," by Frances Cooper.

All students will be admitted to the contest upon presentation of their registration cards.

Hamlet Announces April 1-2 For All-College Production

Monday and Tuesday, April 1 and 2, are the dates set for this year's production of the Bison Brevities. Opening with a matinee on Monday, the all-college cast under the direction of John Hamlet, will give at least three performances at Festival hall.

One of the main features of the show this year will be the singing chorus of fifty voices. Fred Waring's style of chorus work, that is, sustained tone and blocked time, will be used. The manuscript and music for the show are complete and work on every phase of the production started, with the largest cast ever used in a brevities.

Rehearsal for the chorus is well under way, but it is not too late for those students particularly interested in singing to come out, according to Hamlet. The cast of the melodrama which will constitute the black outs between acts, have received their parts and begun practice under the supervision of Horace Spaulding, dramatic director of the show, and a chorus of thirty-two coeds, coached by Lois Rudrud and Evve Hammer, are busy every afternoon with tap-dancing and ballet lessons. There will be rehearsals this next week on Tuesday and Thursday at four o'clock at the Brevities office.

Robert Landbloom, with his assistants Bill Akeley and Ben Cave, are constructing miniatures of the stage settings for the five principal acts and black outs, with the perfection of simplicity as their keynote.

Why Strike For Union Recognition?

"I can see why laborers strike to get higher wages or better working hours or more decent working conditions, but when they stop hauling coal in the coldest part of the winter for no other reason than that of getting recognition, I think they are going too far." This statement made by a college woman is not unlike that of most of the students on the campus who are attempting to be open minded but—

Again it is the principle of the thing that is important. Beyond the material needs of wages and working hours is a broad principle more important than a hot fire and a belly full of beans.

In any capitalistic economic organization such as ours bargaining is most essential. If this bargaining is to be fair, the two sides must be equal in power. This cannot be accomplished if one side is a corporation with influential men and money behind it and the other side is held by a laborer without money or monopoly influence. No one objects to the combined power of a company or to the actions of the Chamber of Commerce, in which merchants with common interests form a coalition and agree to support one another in action, nor do they often investigate the means employed to get results. A group of employees doing the same thing and using the only weapon available to them is called a Union.

Under the NRA code the employees are guaranteed the right of collective bargaining either through the union or through some other agency which they select to represent them. Although the employers have followed these codes in wage scale and working hours and in product prices, they have refused to recognize the right of their employees to represent themselves through an organized agent.

To those who think only of a warm bed and a bellyful of beans it is enough that wages are satisfactory. To those who think further than tonight's supper, it is essential that this power for bargaining be established and maintained in order that future suppers for themselves and their fellow workers be somewhat assured. These men and women are not willing to sacrifice the principle behind their battle to immediate prize.

Would-be Leaders Are Blind To Changing World

"Of course, the student is busily engaged with committees, coke dates, sororities and fraternities. He doesn't have the time to investigate trivial affairs such as our government," is the damning reason given by The Daily Illini for the modern college student's lack of interest in world affairs.

Continually bombarding the college student is criticism of this kind, arising from an utter lack of knowledge of the world revolution except for the recognition of newsreel names.

Furthermore, the student will admit that criticism is just and will unwittingly give as his alibi, "But I haven't time. I don't even find time to get my school work done, with all the junk I have to do around this joint." The responsibilities of being leaders in their petty organizations and the continual threats of people with the power to make recommendations saps time and energy and leaves the self esteem which requires no information on the daily changing world we live in.

Bison Briefs

By BILL

Believing that the Spectrum did not take a fair survey of the sentiment regarding compulsory military training I have gone to the bother of interviewing a representative list of people. In each case I have tried to copy verbatim what they said when broached on the question, "Do you favor compulsory military training?"

Mrs. Ethel McFloozy, bookkeeper: "Military. Hm. Let me see. That's under M. We'll go back in the stacks and look that up. Let's see now—Oops! Oh my, I guess we can't go back there now. There's a couple necking between the Fiction and Military shelves. Come back in an hour."

Frannie Free Wheeling, society leader: "Sure, I like compulsory M. T. I like medals and glamour and glitter and puttees and honorary cadet colonels. Yes. We girls like war. We like blood. It's so pretty. Say, do you belong to that Scabbit and Bleed fraternity? We like noise. We get a bang out of war. We're the Pops, da, peedle di po pa, tum tum—you're the bottoms—we're the Pops."

Walter Sax Junkee, man about town: "Get out, you young whipper-snapper, or I'll play my saxophone. I don't want to talk about such subjects. Let me live in my frat house by the side of 12th avenue and be a friend of Nan. Anyhow, you speak with a horrid Northern twang. Now get out! Quick, Henry, the vermicide."

Walter McGruff, sports commentator: "War? No. Compulsory military training? No. I'd rather play animal, vegetable and mutter. You kiddies don't know the horrors of war. Do you know how big a U-boat is? Well, I do. I've seen Witasek's feet. No, I wouldn't go to war if they had one. I'd rather be a "Man Without a Country." Look at the "Store Without a Name." They're making good aren't they?"

The following statements were gathered on the Fargo Strike Question:

A. G. Marvel, life laboratory director: ("The chimes were ringing forth, 'Peace on the Earth, Good Will to Men,' as I entered.) Oh yes, the strike. Wonderful. Colossal. How many think so? I'm going to get the whole bunch for a Lyceum number some time. How many would like to see a strike in Festival Hall. The acoustics over there are wonderful. Did you see Peer Gynt? Marvelous! Colossal! Did you see Walter Hampden and Maude Adams? Also large. All the world's a stage. Come up to the cabin and we'll have coffee. Oh yes, about the strike. Yes. Say, don't you think Jane Nichols will make a marvelous Peter Pan? Life is colossal, wonderful and marvelous."

Tillie MacCaffee, popular cafe waitress: "The strike. Oh kiddo!"

A. Hache Pairit, long with NDSC: "When I got out of jail the other day I can truthfully say that there wasn't a collegian on the premises; not a single raccoon coat, nary a gin bottle, no pleated-back suits, not a Whiz Bang in the place. Contrary to false rumors, college boys don't strike. They're too darn busy getting ready for mid-terms."

Gertrude Stench, author: "Strike—a light. Three on a match. Strike three. You're out. Babe Ruth doesn't strike. He knocks homeruns. Strike. Strike. Strike up the band! Strike me pink! Strike me with a club!—(at this juncture somebody sneaked up behind her, and I was unable to hear her last few words).

EIGHTEEN TO COMPETE IN DEBATE TOURNAMENT

The second annual Red River debate tournament will be held Friday and Saturday, February 8 and 9, on the Concordia campus. Invitations have been sent to 18 colleges and universities inviting them to participate in this debate.

Starting at two p. m. Friday, two teams will be selected out of six rounds to debate in the finals Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock. These two teams will be selected by a single critic judge, who will also be allowed 15 minutes after each debate to make comments. A radio broadcast over WDAY during the finals has been planned.

Corsages, tuxedos, formals, . . . bang!!!! the Military Ball shot the formal season open Friday with one of the most successful balls of its kind. All the girls looking beautiful . . . Barbara Bibow adorned in white moire (Miss Bibow had a measley hangover the next morning. Fourteen days of freedom for you Bill, looks purdy grim.) Fifi Probst also in white, which seemed to be the main note of the dance, was left holding the sweet peas, when the talented Ruth Piper and Jimmy Konen waltzed off with the prize. Charlotte Treat, who practically rose from a sick bed to go to the ball, must have felt quite patriotic or probably she thought it was the President's birthday ball, at any rate she draped herself around her partner and was about to dance to the Stars Spangled Banner . . . K. D. pledges entertained representative pledges from fraternities and sororities at a tea Sunday from 3 to 5. The guests came at three and remained until six. Must have been more exciting than most teas given on this campus . . . The entertaining Greeks this week-end are the Sigma Chi's and the Kappa Sigma Chi's, Saturday, and the POP's, Friday. Virginia (homecoming queen) Landbloom and Bob Fick are looking forward to a big week-end . . . Apologies must be made to the Kappa's for the crack about "Gin in January," concerning the theme of their last party. They say it was one of the quietest parties they have given, but it made such a nice pun . . . Jane Nichols and Amy the Glaser announce that they are officially on the loose. (Aftermath of the Military.)

THETA CHI HOLDS FETE TO HONOR ROMAN MEYERS

Active alumni, and pledge members of Theta Chi fraternity will be present at a banquet Monday night in honor of Roman Meyers, who was awarded the Reginald F. Colley trophy, presented each year to the outstanding Theta Chi in the country.

Pledges of the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority entertained two pledge representatives from each sorority and fraternity on the campus at supper in the chapter rooms Sunday night. Miss Delaphine Rosa and Mr. Chris Jensen were faculty guests.

The sorority trio, Marion Anderson, Ruth Coolie, and Isabelle Humphreys, entertained during the evening. Ann Vigen was in general charge with Emma Mae Britten and Agnes Sebbly assisting.

Fred Loomis, Grand Forks, was a dinner guest at the Alpha Sigma Tau house Wednesday evening.

Pledge Chapters To Conduct Three Informal Parties

With three informal parties planned by college groups for the week-end, pledge chapters of three Greek letter organizations will honor their active chapters at dancing parties tonight and Saturday. Phi Omega Pi sorority will entertain from 9 to 11:30 tonight, and Sigma Chi and Kappa Sigma Chi fraternities will be hosts during the same hours Saturday.

A false ceiling of the sorority's blue and white will decorate Festival hall tonight when Phi Omega Pi actives are guests of the pledge chapter. Katherine McEnroe is in charge of general arrangements with Capt. and Mrs. Robert Ennis and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Dice as chaperons.

Actives of Sigma Chi fraternity will be honored in Festival hall Saturday night. Harry Curtis heads the committee of arrangements. Honor guests will be a number of Sigma Chi alumni. Chaperons will be Capt. and Mrs. H. J. McChrystal and Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Hunter. Features will include musical numbers by fraternity members.

Pledge members of Kappa Sigma Chi fraternity will be hosts to the active chapter in the college "Y" Saturday night. Dr. and Mrs. Dallas Dedrick and Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Scranton will chaperone. Mr. and Mrs. R. Ottersen, Mr. and Mrs. Don Hay and Mrs. Chris Jensen, honorary members of the fraternity, will be guests.

Six original one-act plays will be presented by the class in play production February 14, at 6:30 p. m. in the Little Country theater. Admission price will be 10 cents.

Members of the class are Robert Ellis, Dayton Jones, Thelma Leisman, Orville Olson, John Plath, and Lewis Ruffcorn.

Bales, Hay Talk Before Y Groups

Practical problems in etiquette were discussed Wednesday night by Don Hay of the speech department and Alba Bales, dean of home economics, before members of the college YMCA and YWCA. This is the first of a series of discussion groups arranged for the students by the Y groups.

Miss Bales's discussion of table manners, in which she illustrated the correct etiquette to use when guests at dinners and luncheons, drew much response especially from the boys at the meeting. Mr. Hay gave a discourse on correct forms of introduction and party etiquette.

Entertainment bits on the program included a baritone solo by Alton Sears, a clarinet solo by Oliver Rowe, a tumbling act by Charles Hazelrigg and Jack Andrews, and a violin solo by Arvad Cline.

NOTICES

Gamma Tau Sigma, journalistic fraternity, will meet at twelve o'clock Tuesday noon in the private dining room at Ceres hall.

The Board of Publications meets Wednesday noon at Ceres hall.

Warren Covert, secretary, announces that Gamma Sigma Beta will meet for dinner at 5:45 o'clock tonight in the Ceres hall dining room.

CARELESS WOMEN MAY CLOSE SC. REST ROOM

Women students on the campus have been on probation this week with regard to keeping the rest rooms tidy. At its last meeting, January 13, the Woman's Senate voted to close these rooms if neatness was not made a major issue this past week.

The padlock period is indefinite, but according to a prophecy made by the Senate, Science rest room will be closed for at least a week.

Bison Cut Sales Will Close Today

Six o'clock tonight is the deadline for all Bison cut sales, according to Warner Litten, who has directed the sales campaign. Those students who find it impossible to purchase their cuts today should consult the Bison staff this afternoon or this evening for other arrangements.

Students who have not turned in their activity cards should do so at once, according to Cathryn Ray, Bison editor-in-chief.

All snapshots for Bison life should be in by Feb. 15. Organizations may secure the services of a Bison photographer at a nominal charge for their group snapshots by calling the Bison office.

FARGO

West Point is the actual scene of Ruby Keeler and Dick Powell's latest musical show, "Flirtation Walk", being shown at the Fargo, starting tomorrow and continuing through Tuesday. One of its song hits is "Mr. and Mrs."

Sophisticated and clever dialogue should be the most entertaining characteristic of "Biography of a Bachelor Girl" with Ann Harding and Robert Montgomery playing the latter half of next week.

Ruth Anderson, former NDSC Phi Omega Pi, was the house guest of Olive Maloney this week.

Vic Lundeen, Stephen, Minn., visited the Alpha Gamma Rho house last week-end.

Military Formal Is Well Attended

With the sounding of Reveille at 9:25 p. m. Friday, the formal social season of the winter term was opened with the Military Ball. Sponsored by Scabbard and Blade, the ball was attended by approximately 200 couples at the Field house, which was decorated with the emblems of Scabbard and Blade and Guidon and typical war settings.

The formal dance program was opened after the formation of the grand march at 9:30, which was lead by Albert Ruemmele and Jane Bristol, with Earl Jennings and Betty Bickert second in line. Under the command of Cadet Major Roy Smillie, at 10:30 a drill squad of Scabbard and Blade formed a saber arch through which Leone Phillips, battalion sponsor, and Margrethe Tronnes, president of Guidon, passed to receive the commissions of honorary Colonel and Lieutenant Colonel, respectively, from Major John D. Easton.

A prize waltz number was featured after the eighth dance, with awards being presented to Ruth Piper and James Konen, and to Frances Probst and John Raymond. Special entertainment features included a sham battle by machine gunners and song and dance numbers by Cec Hurst and his orchestra.

The front part of the stage was decorated to resemble a battle scene, and the remainder of the stage was given over to seating arrangements for spectators.

Blair, Nelson Win Metzinger Awards

In memory of Mrs. Marie Metzinger and her daughter, Leona, members of the Gamma Phi Beta sorority, of which Leona was a member, are establishing the Metzinger Memorial Scholarship award.

The awards which are two silver bracelets will be given the first term to the two girls with the highest averages in the active and pledge groups respectively. During following terms, they will be presented to the girls who have raised their average the most. The awards will be presented to Ellen Blair, active, and Muriel Nelson, pledge, for the first time.

Mrs. Metzinger was an active member in the Gamma Phi Beta Mothers club and was president-elect for this year. Leona, an active member of the chapter, was also high in scholarship.

Sally Minard and Margaret Hylden will be hostesses at the next Blue Monday tea.

Ballet Russe Is Presented Here

faced with a jealous dancer, a former sweetheart of the hussar. A fifteen minute intermission will occur between the first and second numbers as well as between the second and third numbers.

This is the first ballet to come to America since 1917 when Serge Diaghilev, genius of the ballet of two decades ago, brought his Ballet Russe to the United States. Diaghilev died in 1929 after thrilling the world with his ballet, and Col. de Basil, former officer of the Czar and former director of the Russian Opera in Paris, gathered together the nucleus of his company and organized it into the present Ballet Russe of Monte Carlo. With Leonide Massine, protege of Diaghilev, as maitre de ballet, principal dancer and choreographer, Tamara Toumanova, whom Anna Pavlova discovered and developed, Irina Baronova, Tatiana Riabouchinska, David Lichine, and many others, the Monte Carlo company carries on the art of the Russian ballet. Many of the costumes were designed by Mme. B. Karinsky, famous Parisian designer, and the orchestra is under the direction of Efrem Kurtz and Antal Dorati.

Although this extraordinary attraction is not part of the lyceum course, students from this school will be admitted on presentation of

Measly Racket Causes Absences

All right all you freckle faced, double chinned punsters, school is still open and while you may think your completion is symbolic of measles or mumps you are not fooling anyone but yourself. Despite inflated rumors that the campus is beset with a widespread epidemic of measles and other communicable diseases, reports issued from the college health center reveal that only 53 cases of measles and one case of mumps have been reported since September 1934. This bugaboo has resulted in sadly depleted class rolls for this period and to remedy the situation the lolling absentees propose a class "holiday" until the "terrible plague" passes.

Only three cases have been reported in the last three days, according to the college nurse who is now planning to get the lowdown on the case next week. A house to house canvass is in the making and the uncovering of such conditions are in prospect. If such a case is bared the cuts will be counted and no excuses signed. This racket has been recognized as a racket and the consequences will be punishment in no small proportions. And after the little bird had found out the facts "he shook his little tail and said, 'ain't you ashamed—'" and so all the little boys and girls went back to school with bowed heads and pillows behind their backs and took the consequences as teacher said they would.

SPECULATIONS

By MAINE SHAFER

We tip our hats to Bob Lowe and his fighting Bison as they return with a clean sweep of the three games vs. the southern loop foes. It wasn't an easy job and extra credit is due the outfit.

According to observers of the three games, the Bison needed only to turn Arney Bernard loose and their offense was quite well in hand. Bernard has been the spectacular shot artist of the herd since his first game as a varsity player. With that same loose flip shot that has made him unguardable near the foul line, Bernard collected the high point ribbon in each of the three contests of the recent tour.

The story comes home that while the SDS team had the Bison on the run in the first overtime period, an opposing player, feeling that it was the time for a verbal jibe at the shaky Bison, shouted, "I understand you fellows are going to try football again next year."

The remark might have gone unnoticed had not Acey Olson, the past season grid captain, picked it up and with it a recollection of the Bison-SDS bad dream in football last fall. Olson took things under his own control and coolly dropped two counters to sew up the ball game—and bring out the crimson in the somewhat foolish looking Bunnie.

Now that the herd has waded through its first five conference starts with 1000 per cent to show for it in the loop ratings, the locals are in the coveted position to take on the Sioux in a probable championship series. There's only one hitch to the whole set-up. That's the return tussle with South Dakota State's crew. The Jackrabbits have one of the three outstanding teams in the race this year and have a percentage chance to cop the prizes themselves. By virtue of their pace so far, the Bison are ruling slight favorites to win in a close one.

GIRLS' RIFLERY CLASS HAS LARGE TURNS

With one of the largest turnouts ever reported, the girls' riflery class has started in the Physical Education building. With only about ten who have had previous experience, about sixty girls have reported for practice, most of them being freshmen. The class meets each Wednesday night this term at 6:30, 7:30, and 8:30 p. m.

At the end of the term a rifle team will be picked, those making the team being judged on scoring ability. Shooting for scores has now started with 50 being an excellent shooting score.

New Delta Tau Epsilon pledges this week are Bill Vogel and Kermit Grimm.

Bison To Defend NCC Lead Tonight

Herd Basketeers Stake Title Chance Against Bunny Quint

Lowe to Rely on Saunders, Reiners Combination; Denenny Ailing

Are the Bison going to be put into the predicament of a year ago when they face the South Dakota State Jackrabbits in a return engagement on their home court tonight? That is the question which is perplexing Coach Bob Lowe's basketeers, who tramped across a successful southern conference invasion last week to keep their tie with the University of North Dakota Sioux for first place honors.

It is to be remembered that the Bison were in the same position last year after winning their first five conference games. At this juncture in last year's race the Bison downfall came on their home court against the Coyotes who eked out a slim victory. This placed them at a decided disadvantage when the Sioux games rolled around.

Should the Bison lose tonight to the Jackrabbits they will be in the same position unless the Sioux drop their encounter against the same team tomorrow.

The memory of the two overtime periods in the Jackrabbit encounter last Monday night leaves the Bison with definite knowledge that they must fight with all they have to clinch their sixth conference win.

Lowe has confined the team to several light practices during the week and on the whole a promising outlook is granted.

Captain Bud Marquardt, Acey Olson, and Barney Bernard will constitute the forward echelon of the Herd line-up with Pretz Reiners and Bob Saunders doing the defensive work at the guard posts. All indications point to another breath-taking battle with the Fargoans given the role of slight favorites.

COLLEGE MARKSMEN VIE AFTER TONIGHT'S GAME

After the basketball game tonight the rifle team will sponsor a shooting match for all those who consider themselves lucky with a rifle. Targets have been prepared on which there are many small numbers at which the contestant shoots three shots, then totals his score by adding the numbers hit. Captain Conmy remarked that anyone who is unable to hit the target will be given another try.

YMCA, ATO Fives Win To Take Lead

Another exhibition of close basketball marked the week's intramural league playing. The outstanding individual play was turned in by the YMCA's Nessett as he went on a scoring spree in the rout of the Sigma Chis by a score of 34-23.

The ATOs stopped the high flying Kappa Sigma Chis in a fast game, 20-15.

The Dormitory added the Sigma Phi Deltas to their list of victims in a game Wednesday night.

A sharp shooting Gamma Rho quint defeated the Cosmopolitan club by the score of 26-11.

The Delta Taus kept their string of continuous victories in a safe position when they turned back the strong Kappa Psi five by the score of 21-16.

NOTICE

All varsity football letter winners who have not had their individual cuts taken for the Bison, must do so today. All athletic cuts are to be mailed to the publishers Saturday A. M.

Bison Puckchasers Win Third Contest

Last week the NDSC hockey team played and won its third game of this season. Hockey has become somewhat of a forgotten sport in this school during the last few years. However, at the beginning of the season this year, eight hockey enthusiasts of this institution organized a team and entered in the Fargo-Moorhead Amateur League. All together there are six teams in the league; judging from the calibre of the men we have the best team in the league.

In the two games played previous to last night's game, the team broke even. They lost the first one to the Fargo Braves, 2 to 1. In their second encounter with the Moorhead Independents, they won by a score of 4 to 0.

The men on the squad are Captain Archie Hanson, Bud Osbourne, Bill Wright, 'Pug' Hanson, Robert Larson, Lee Johnson, Walt McGrath, and Milton Martin.

ARNOLD BERNARD

Arnold Bernard, trick shot artist and crack forward on the Bison quint, promises to give a fine demonstration tonight if he can continue to maintain the blazing scoring pace he set in the successful Herd invasion of the southern end of the loop. Against South Dakota University Barney chalked up 16 points, 13 against Morningside and countered 10 in the fracas with South Dakota State. Bernard is a junior.

Aggies Cop 3 To Head Chase

In what proved to be one of the most successful trips in years, Bob Lowe and his Bison basketeers took the dangerous and often disastrous swing into the southern half of the loop, whipped three opponents and thus maintained the lead in the scramble for North Central conference honors. Morningside, South Dakota University and South Dakota State were victims of the Herd as the North Dakotans stepped out in front with five wins and no losses.

Morningside's Maroons opened the basketball activities for the Fargoans when they dropped a 34-30 decision to the fast-stepping men from the North. This marked the second win for Lowe's men over the boys from Sioux City. Although the second victory was less decisive it proved conclusively that Fargo had definite ideas about housing the conference bunting for a while.

Continuing on the quest of the elusive gonfalon, Lowe and Co. trekked to Vermillion, where they whipped the luckless Coyotes, again the second time this season, by a 12 point margin in a contest that saw the Herd on the long end of a 37-25 count. Bernard, flip shot artist from the wilds of Wahpeton, again sneaked through the opposing defense to cop high point honors with a 16 point total.

In the closest and most exciting fracas of the jaunt, the tiring Herdmen managed to eke out a one point win over the hopefuls of South Dakota State at Brookings. It took two overtime periods to settle the game and then it was Acey Olson, who almost lost the game by not reporting to the referee, who came through to hoop the deciding counter and put the game on thin ice.

ROXY

A sequel to "King Kong," the "Son of Kong" will be the attraction today and tomorrow. This picture is a continuation of "King Kong" and gives promise of being as thrilling.

Katharine Hepburn, Robert Young and Ralph Bellamy are starred in "Spitfire," showing Sunday and Monday. As will be remembered this picture aroused much favorable comment from critics.

That beloved feminine star, May Robeson, is playing in "Mills of the Gods," showing next Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday.

Student Opinion

Why do students go to the lyceum and convocation programs? Is it because they want to see who's there, and be seen themselves? Certainly the attitude taken by several college students at the Jubilee Singers' program a week ago, showed that they didn't go to hear the program. What's your hurry in getting away before the program is over? If a few minutes time is going to make so much difference in your lives, why attend the concerts at all? Courtesy is a word in the English language and if you students don't know what it means, look it up in Webster. For those that came to hear the program to the finish, nothing is so disturbing as to have to hear shuffling feet and banging of doors, drowning out the music or speaking.

These various programs are brought here at great expense and are for the sole purpose of bringing before the student body talent that they otherwise perhaps would not hear or see except in a great metropolis. A variety of entertainment is always staged during the year so students interested in different phases of art are accommodated. Now, why don't those students that go to programs that they are not particularly interested in, show some common sense in their behavior? Don't whisper or carry on a conversation, and most of all, wait until you get outside to whistle! Maybe you can sing and happen to know the piece that is being played, but for heaven's sake and for everyone else's sake, smother it.

Waldron Stresses Critical Thinking

Critical thinking was stressed by Dr. L. R. Waldron, plant breeder, at the fifth bell award lecture, Tuesday, Jan. 29 at 4 p.m., Engineering building.

The shelter belt project was used to illustrate critical thinking. As an example, an analysis of the project was passed out to the contestants. Waldron pointed out that the three types of scientific approach, inductive, deductive, and experimental reasoning were each fitted to specific projects.

Each year during the commencement exercises the James F. Bell $350 cash award is presented to the contestant at this college whose essay shows the most constructive thought on his project for the betterment of mankind.

Competitors are urged by Dean R. M. Dolve, chairman of the ward committee, to immediately start work on their essays if they have not already done so.

Any competitor who does not have a copy of the rules may procure them from any member of the award committee which includes Deans Dolve, Alba Bales, and A. E. Minard.

Chorus, Speakers Present Numbers

"The Sleigh" by Cooms and a special amphion arrangement of "The Star Spangled Banner" as the final number, were climaxes of a program presented by the Amphion Chorus at convocation Thursday morning. The male chorus opened their program with the North Dakota state anthem and followed it with a religious number, "Adornamus Te."

Rev. Redding, Bend, Ore., gave a talk on his work in the coast lumber camps and concluded with a mothers' song. "It gets them," was his comment concerning the song in referring to the hard boiled, rough loggers.

Other numbers by the Amphion Chorus were "The Night March," "Home on the Range," and "Bell Man."

STATE

Jackie Cooper, supported by Lila Lee and Addison Richards, will be seen Friday and Saturday in the "Lone Cowboy," a story suggested by Will James' famous book.

"Thirty-Day Princess," starring Sylvia Sidney and Cary Grant, is a story of a beautiful actress, who is persuaded to impersonate a regal princess for thirty days. The picture will be shown Sunday and Monday.

"Duck Soup", a hilarious comedy, presenting the Four Marx Brothers, opens on Tuesday at the State and will be run until Thursday.
