Rally Fails To Bring Bison Victory

Students To Begin FERA Work March 1

Positions Are Apportioned Prorata To Schools And Courses

Students selected for employment on the FERA project will start work March 1, with the possibility that employment may be had a few days sooner, according to announcement made today by Pres. J. H. Shepperd. Selection of student workers is being made prorata by schools and courses, and assignment of work to the students is also made prorata.

However, since the paramount consideration for receiving work is need, deviation from the prorata selection of workers will be necessary in some instances. Similarly, in the assignment of work, it is impossible to prorata students to work in schools and departments according to registration records, since some phases of the work contemplated, like improvements upon Festival hall, are for the general good of the entire student body.

By this arrangement the student will be given an opportunity to demonstrate whether or not he can and will do good, careful, painstaking work by being under the direction of some professor who will observe these things. This gives the student a chance "to show his hand" in the type of work he may engage in in the future.

Although a student now employed by a private citizen or some other employee is restricted from breaking his contract by leaving his job unless such arrangement is satisfactory to his employer, needy students can supplement this work with part-time employment on the FERA project.

Federal authorities have rescinded the original ruling that registration and laboratory fees for FERA students should be waived. Other unannounced regulations provide that funds will be issued for projects not now in operation and that students employed at skilled labor worth more than thirty cents an hour will receive such extra stipend from the departmental budget.

"All of the faculty have helped to get this project promptly under way and properly managed. Deans Pearl Dinan and I. W. Smith, together with Mrs. P. M. Gooden, have worked very hard and have put in much overtime in a sincere effort to see that every needy and worthy student shall have fair play and I am sure the student body will appreciate their efforts as I assuredly do," said President Shepperd.

"I wish to say that I hope students will duly appreciate this recognition of them by the federal government officials and that they will take full advantage of it by making the best possible use of their opportunities to improve their capacity of becoming useful and loyal American citizens."

Genevieve Skinner, a member of the YWCA cabinet, has been made chairman of the poster committee in place of Aurora Haas, who has resigned. Miss Skinner is a former member of the YWCA freshman commission.

MOTHERS' CLUB ORGANIZED BY ARCHITECTURE STUDENTS

Architect students of this campus have undertaken another project—that of organizing the Architect Mothers' club. The first meeting will be held next Wednesday evening in the department rooms, with subsequent meetings to be held once a month. Students whose mothers live out of town will appoint relatives or friends to act as "mothers" at the gatherings.

Phi Kappa Phi Will Initiate Five Monday

Initiation of five students into the local chapter of Phi Kappa Phi, national scholastic fraternity, will take place Monday, Feb. 26, at 4 p. m. in the library of the college YMCA.

Those to become members are, Helen Lierboe, school of education, Turtle Lake; Abbie Porter, education, Fargo; Kermit Anderson, electrical engineering, Fargo; Clifford Maloney, science and literature, Fargo; Forrest Swisher, science and literature, Fargo.

In charge of initiation will be Dean W. F. Sudro, president of the group; Dr. Leon Metzinger, vice president; Harriet Pearson, secretary, and Elvira Smith, social chairman. Following the initiation there will be a social hour.

Brevities Will Be Given Out Of Town

Having received permission from the school authorities to take the Bison Brevities on the road, seventy students are being carefully drilled to get the show in such a condition that it will warrant such publicity, it was announced today.

Tentative arrangements have negotiated productions to be staged in Valley City, Jamestown, and Bismarck, it was announced by Frank Sanders and John Gabe, director and business manager, respectively, of the show.

BASKETBALL TEAM IS HONORED AT DINNERS

In honor of their recent two victories over the University of North Dakota basketball team, members of the Bison basketball team, C. C. Finnegan, Bob Lowe, and the athletic board were entertained at a dinner Monday night at the home of Fred Hector, 720 Eleventh Ave. S., Fargo.

Tuesday night the team members, coaches and the athletic board were honored by the alumni governing board of the college at a dinner in the Specialty Shops. Eugene Fitzgerald, sports editor of The Fargo Forum, and Richard Hackenberg, sports editor of the Moorhead Daily News, were guests. Glen Cook, NDSC alumnus, and proprietor of the Cook Drug company, was in charge.

"Acetaria or Discourse on Sallets" by John Evelyn is the most interesting book in his collection, according to Dr. H. L. Walster, dean of the school of agriculture and director of the extension division of the college, who has made a hobby of collecting rare and unusual books on the history of English agriculture.

Six One-Act Plays Staged Tuesday Night

College Students Are Cast In Original Class Productions

Members of the play production class of the public discussion department will turn producers next Tuesday evening when they present original one-act plays in the Little Country theater at 7:30.

The six to be presented are: "Three Pink Geraniums," by Grace South, with a cast of Doris Fisher, William Stewart, James Erickson, Mildred Fredericks, Eunice Conlon, and Betty Nelson; "An Impartial Decision," by Virginia Baker, with a cast including Hal Woolege, Horace Spaulding, and Frank Nichols; "Crossed Wires," by Francis Lynch, with Frederick Martin, Mavis McCain, Walter Dunkelberger, Mary Elizabeth Ricker, and Beatrice Ness; "It Isn't the Age," a drama by Betty Nelson, with a cast including Elizabeth Mortenson, James Erickson, Mildred Fredericks, Gordon Gilette, and La Vahn Buhrmann; "Companions," by Jean Simonson, with a cast composed of Jean Simonson and Mabel McGillivray; and "A Blue Valentine," by Erma Weinberger, having as actors Helen Boettcher, Gladys Tofte, Jean Simonson, Vernon Maddock, Erma Weinberger, and Arthur Christ.

There will be a small charge for admission, and following a custom of past classes, slips of paper will be distributed throughout the audience for individual criticisms of the play.

NDSC-University Clash In Debates

Clashing in a dual debate with the University of North Dakota, North Dakota State college will send a negative team to Grand Forks, while an affirmative team will meet the University representatives here in the Little Country theater. The debates will take place Wednesday evening, Feb. 28.

The question is: Resolved, that the powers of the president of the United States should be substantially increased as a settled policy. James Golseth will be chairman.

The Fargo affirmative team will be composed of Frieda Panimon, Clifford Maloney, and Virginia Garberg, all members of the Lincoln Forensic club.

North Dakota university debaters will be J. C. Carter, William Howland, and Farnham Dudgeon. These students have also been active in debate work the past two years.

Cathryn Ray, Fredrick Martin, and Gerald Stevens will go to Grand Forks to meet the University affirmative team.

KAPPA TAU DELTA PLEDGES THREE MEN ON TUESDAY

Kappa Tau Delta, honorary architectural fraternity, announces the pledging of William Akeley, Merrill Grady, and Dallas Rudrud, all sophomores in architecture, last Tuesday evening. Members are selected on a basis of scholarship, scholarship, character, personality, and ability as leaders.

GOLD STAR BAND WILL GIVE TWELFTH CONCERT

Presenting their twelfth concert of the school year, Dr. C. S. Putnam and the Gold Star band will broadcast the following program from the stage in Festival hall Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock: March, "Color Guard," by Huffer; allegro moderato from the "Unfinished Symphony," by Schubert; march "The Rifle Regiment," by Sousa; valse joyeuse, "April Moon," by Fulton; and the newly released march "On Parade," by Goldman.

Third Bell Award Lecture Scheduled

Dean A. E. Minard will give the third lecture of the series of eight to be given on the nature and scope of the Bell scholarship award, in room 22, engineering building, on Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 26, at four o'clock, according to Dean R. M. Dolve, chairman of the committee in charge of the lectures.

Lecturing on the subject, "Tests of Truth and Goodness," Dean Minard will treat the topic in a general rather than a specific manner, reviewing some of the best known tests as to what determines the truth of an idea and how to distinguish as to the workability of an idea or plan.

Distribution Of Papers Changed

Because the lobby in which The Spectrum has been distributed is rented by the federal government for postal purposes, Spectrums will hereafter be distributed in other places, it was announced today.

The federal government does not allow any form of advertising or soliciting in quarters that they are renting and for that reason the weekly paper will be distributed on the main floors of Science hall and Old Main starting today.

DR. KARL K. STOLZ IS CONVOCATION SPEAKER

"Life in a democracy is a balance between social restraints and individual rights," declared Dr. Karl R. Stolz, dean of religious education at the Hartford school of religion, Hartford, Conn., in an address at convocation yesterday morning. Dr. Stolz' subject was "Personal Liberty."

Stressing the fact that we are free not to be free, the speaker stated that we must sacrifice rugged individualism for the welfare of others.

LEAGUE HEARS ZERBY ON ECONOMIC PLANNING

"Economic Planning" was the subject of an address delivered by Paul E. Zerby at a meeting of the League for Industrial Democracy, Wednesday night in the college YMCA. The remainder of the program consisted of a report on the FERA by James Long, "Teachers Status in the Depression" by Orville Goplen, a report on John Dewey by Vardi Thorwardson, and a talk by Harry Hanson on the possibility of having a course in socialism offered on this campus. Fourteen new members were welcomed into the league.

State College Cagers Lose To Nodaks, 30-22

Bison Must Win Tonight's Contest To Retain Championship

Despite a spirited second half rally in which they outscored the University 16 to 9, the North Dakota State college Bison failed to overcome a half-time 15-point lead and succumbed to the Nodaks last evening at Grand Forks, 22-30. The final game of the annual inter-school series will be played tonight, when a Bison victory will assure them of the conference title.

In this opening setto, phenomenal shooting by the Nodak sharpshooters seemed to completely baffle the usually steady Herd, and it was not until during the second half that Bob Lowe's men settled down to business. During the second half, however, it was all Bison as they completely outplayed their upstate rivals.

It was Acey Olson, playing at his regular guard post, who led the Herd's scoring attack. Olson sunk six field goals and was the only Bison player who counted more than once from the floor. In addition to this he was the mainstay of the team defensively. He held Witasek, high-power scoring threat of the Nodaks, to 4 points.

It was the uncanny accuracy of "Pinky" Mullens which spelled defeat for NDSC. It was seemingly impossible for Reiners to effectively guard Mullen who counted 13 points with six field goals and one gift shot to be the high scorer of the game.

Curt Denenny maintained the fast pace he set last week in the games here, by holding Ted Meinhover, giant U center, to 6 points. Denenny displayed his usual fine floor game and was the key man in the Herd defense. Russ Anderson, who was the big gun in the first game of the series at Fargo, was inserted in the fray late in the last half despite his injuries, but was unable to score.

The game was not rough, only 14 personal fouls being called, 6 on the Nodaks and 8 on the Bison. Ted Meinhover was ejected from the game with four personals charged against him.

Club Hears Stafne

With Dr. W. A. Stafne, Fargo, as guest speaker, the Zoology club met last Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the fireplace room of the YMCA. Dr. Stafne discussed "Amoebia Dy-stentery" touching on the recent epidemic of the disease in Chicago, Ill. Plans were made for a meeting next Thursday at which time Dr. B. T. Bottolfson, Moorhead, will address the group.

MODERN CHIVALRY

Collegiate chivalry is on the pan. A great deal of discussion on male courtesies was precipitated by the accusations of a "ruffled coed" in the recent publication of The Collegian. According to her statements it seems that coeducation has killed the common courtesies which were characteristic of male treatment of female in grandmother's age.

For more than a century women have fought not only for suffrage rights but also for industrial and social equality. Today when men and women are working together the world over with sex in oblivion, some young adolescent sputters because college men disregard her sex and treat her as an equal.

In the modern college where women and men are competing on the same footing, where equality of vocational opportunity is developing rapidly, and where sex is no longer an issue, the old standards of man's courtesy to woman are obsolete. Today, except socially, it is not a question of civility of male to female but rather of person to person. When a boy opens a door for a girl it should be done as a favor of respect and friendship, not a duty to sex as when women open doors for women and men open doors for men.

All girls still want to be like Romeo's Juliet or Launcelot's Elaine, was the justification for the continuation of the courtesies required two generations ago. Women do enjoy being Juliets, but the college is primarily an educational institution, not a romantic rendezvous. It is the Juliets and the Elaines who go to college to find Romeos and Launcelots have retarded the progress of women from the Dark Ages into our modern era with equality for character regardless of sex.

SOMETHING SERIOUS

As a rule, we don't like to put up a squawk about things done by a visiting basketball team that meets with disfavor in our eyes; but among the many incidents noted last Friday and Saturday when the University of North Dakota Sioux made their stand here was one that embittered many a heart toward the upstate school, and certainly one that should make all Sioux partisans blush with shame.

We refer to the removal of two members of the University basketball team from the game for the unsportsmanlike manner in which they, supposedly athletes, conducted themselves. It is a sad state of affairs indeed when deliberate attempts are made to injure an opposing player to whom, according to the tenets of sportsmanship, all courtesy is due. Perhaps one such attempt could be overlooked, but two consecutive ones certainly cannot be allowed to pass.

For the benefit of those who think this has been too outspoken: we talked with students from the University the following day, and they heartily concurred with us in our opinions as stated above. This alone should be sufficient warning to some members of the Sioux basketball team to brush up on their sportsmanship.

GOLD STAR BAND, HUNDRED STRONG, AT U CONTEST

When the Gold Star band entrained on the Empire Builder yesterday afternoon for its 41st invasion of Grand Forks, Dr. C. S. Putnam found assembled the largest group of bandmen he has ever taken to the University for an athletic contest.

One hundred strong, the group made an impressive delegation in itself disregarding the numerous fans and students that accompanied them north to help bolster Bison spirits during the first game of the return engagement played there last night.

The bandmen returned to Fargo immediately after the game on Great Northern train No. 28.

THEMES ARE WRITTEN ON FIRST ISSUE OF COLLEGIAN

The first issue of The Collegian, tri-college publication, was placed on sale Monday, Feb. 19, at North Dakota State college under the supervision of Ruth Clausen, associate editor from this campus.

To promote interest in the magazine a contest for freshman English students was sponsored by the English department. In the form of themes criticizing The Collegian, entries are to be judged by the English department and awarded prizes of $2 and $1 for first and second place, respectively.

ROUNDAABOUTS:

The Phi Mus feeling put out because they're staying in... Marg Tronnes galloping around "Scot-free"... thinking of the Brooklyn New York gave us when out came Baron Nemzek... Hearing of Iverson asking George May what was puppy love, and George blushing and acting very uncomfortable about it all... feeling sorry for the one Kappa pledge who thought Oxfords were something you wore on your feet... and meditating about Dick and the Ewing, thinking someone ought to warn, which all goes to prove that age has nothing to do with Spring and any man's fancy... marvelling at Billy Sheffield, the witless wonder, who can't do much himself, but is willing to tell anyone how to do it... Courtney (Big Shot) Cannon giving up dope and smoking for Lent, a perfectly good Gamma Rho giving up cod liver oil and spinach, and a slightly used Sigma Tau giving up hope... a certain math instructor saving one and a half pennies by using a meal ticket to purchase a Collegian...

ALREADY 'TIS SPRING

Here's to our poets
Long may they muse
To write little verses
And consciousness lose.

The latest excuse given a member of our faculty by a freshman for loss of consciousness during class was, "I am trying to write a poem."
That went over big, and all was forgiven.

There are ways and ways to write poems, freshmen, but here is one iron clad rule with which the upper classmen have ploughed through many springs of poetry writing.

Collect a group of similar words such as day, way, say, bay, and lay, put some words before them (any old words will do) and behold a poem that no human will dislike.

If you aspire to do great things, it is advisable to take a few more words, lie, cry, why, die, fry and repeat the process formulated above and you will have a second verse. Any student who has the colossal nerve to write a second verse deserves the highest honor. To some (and extremely fortunate mortals these are) a simple little daisy, particularly a mountain daisy, or a sprig of sagebrush will suggest a lovely verse.

If you have a yearning to write this sort of thing, don't be discouraged because late English and early American poets already cramped your style by using up all titles. There is considerable scope for more. For instance "Ode to an art gum eraser; to a broken pen point; to a cigarette butt; to a street-car chip," on, on, ad infinitum.

The cream of the crop of this season, though, is a poem written by a talented junior lad to a senior girl which we shall reproduce here as an inspiration to the freshmen:

SALLY

Woe is he that shall fall
Into the hands of Sally, the queen
For such cruelty as hers
Has never yet been seen.
Her slightest glance, 'tis said
Makes men die happily,
I hope that at the end
She takes a look at me.
Her beauty is most rare,
But her heart is made of stone,
Oh, how I wish I had been wise

Class To Restage Play In Minnesota

Success of "Jack and the Beanstalk", the child's play presented twice on this campus by the story telling class, has been so great that many neighboring towns have asked that it be produced on their local stages, according to Alice Bender, director of the play.

The play will be given in the afternoon and again in the evening at Fergus Falls, Minn., Wednesday, Feb. 28. The cast and members of the class will leave the college Wednesday noon.

Many towns which have asked for the presentation of the play have been refused because of infringement on the time of members of the cast.

Featuring The 1899 Spectrum

In glancing over a back number of The Spectrum (in fact, the edition published in October, 1899) we are amused with the tone of the "local happenings" column. The following incidents which occurred 35 years ago indicate an unusual atmosphere on our everyday college campus:

Why did Miss Stapleton have that barrel in her buggy?

A second football team has been organized with Chas. Phelan as captain.

The biological department has just received nearly $200 worth of supplies and apparatus. This will put the department in good shape for the year's work.

Prof. Tighe Talks On Leisure Time

Addressing senior students in the school of education at the Tuesday afternoon seminar course Prof. B. C. B. Tighe, principal of Fargo senior high school, dealt with the topic of leisure time.

Mr. Tighe considered the subject not from this point of the problem as evidenced in the present abnormal times, but rather from the result of our modern social and industrial structure which has forced it upon all classes of society. Through the developments of science the forces of production no longer require the mass of labor which society is capable of producing. The problem before us now is not to train the rising generation in vocational lines but rather to train for constructive use of enforced leisure. Commenting on the attacks of taxpayers' associations on the so-called "fads" in education, Mr. Tighe stated that if music, drama, and the arts are fads, what society needs is more "fads," for it depends on the manner of the use of leisure time that the success or the degeneracy of this civilization depends.

G. H. LAWRIE ATTENDS EDUCATION CONVENTION

Gleim H. Lawritson, instructor in the education department, is to attend the biennial convention of the Kappa Delta Pi, honorary educational fraternity, which is meeting at Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 26, 27, and 28. He is representing the local Kappa Delta Pi chapter, of which he is faculty counsellor.

Mr. Lawritson will also attend the winter meeting of the National Education association, which is being held at Cleveland simultaneously.

Heading the list of speakers will be Dr. Wooley, president of Mount Holyoke college, who will discuss "Internationalism, Present and Future."

Business is poor for the Lost and Found bureau at Illinois State Normal university, and they blame it all on the depression; students are not so careless these days.

Freshman Breaks Leg In Accident

Slipping on a treacherous piece of ice between Music hall and the Chemistry building as he was hurrying to class, Edgar Cornelinson, freshman in the school of pharmacy, sustained a broken leg last Wednesday morning.

George Burt, senior student who happened to be at hand, hurried into Music hall and called an ambulance, which took the injured youth to St. Luke's hospital in Fargo. The fracture, compound in nature, will keep the pharomic student from his classes the rest of the term.

Scorpions, tarantulas, Gila monsters and other terrors of the desert are harmless, a University of Arizona entomologist said after a ten-year study of these animals.

Faculty-Student Good Will Aim Of Relations Group

To promote a better feeling between the faculty and students on the campus is the primary object of the Student-Faculty Relations committee, states Robert Parrott, chairman.

Other faculty members and students may suggest plausible projects not already discussed, to be undertaken by the committee. The first meeting, held recently, dealt primarily with reorganization.

Officers elected were, Mr. Parrott, chairman, and Marion Bristol, secretary. Membership includes 6 faculty members, 4 seniors, 3 juniors, 2 sophomores and one freshman. The faculty includes Dean W. F. Sudro, Dr. C. I. Nelson, Miss Harriet Pearson, Prof. Waldo Smith, Prof. Homer B. Huntoon, and Dr. W. C. Hunter. Senior members are Maitland Wyard, Sally Hunkins, James Coleman, and Albert Buchli; juniors, Howard Kilbourne, Mr. Parrott, and Betty Bickert; sophomores, Miss Bristol. One sophomore and one freshman will be chosen at the coming meeting to serve upon the committee.

One of the most popular vocations of graduates of the University of Texas is aviation, a recent report indicates, and this is especially true of the "ex" students.

The weekly newspaper of Montana State college has organized a "dating" bureau to aid lonely stags and wall-flower co-eds.

Mysteries Of Radium Are Interpreted By Dr. Gable

Did you know that radium is worth two million four hundred thousand dollars an ounce? That there are only three pounds of the metal existent? That it takes 400 tons of carnotite ore to obtain a single gram of radium? That radium is not used in the painting of luminous watch dials? That the uses and benefits arising from the full development of the radium industry bids fair to surpass those of electricity?

These facts were included in a lecture given by Dr. Luther S. H. Gable, distinguished radiologist, physicist and lecturer, last Tuesday evening in Festival hall as the third number of the twenty-third annual lyceum series at the North Dakota State college.

Dr. Gable, at present associated with a Chicago, Ill., company, was recently the head of the department of radium and heliology at the Detroit Institute of Technology, and made a special trip here from Chicago to address students on this campus. He is the sole survivor of a group of six chemical engineers who first refined commercial radium in America.

In speaking of his work, Dr. Gable said that next June he intends to fly approximately 1200 miles north of Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, to study a new deposit of radium-bearing ore. It has been determined that this ore contains from 49 to 50 per cent of uranium, the element with which radium is usually found associated.

The fact that radium is so powerful, and that its effects are so long-lasting, was emphasized by Dr. Gable. That a small amount of radium is deadly to all forms of life, but that an infinitesimal amount is of great benefit to all living things, is a phase of radium that needs much study before any considerable use of it can be made by mankind.

At 4 p. m. Tuesday Dr. Gable lectured to engineering students in the Little Country theater concerning cosmic rays. He said, in part, "The world is a huge dynamo, producing 200,000,000 amperes of electrical current, charged by the cosmic rays from the radium in the stars" and that "there is enough energy running wild and loose around to light and heat our homes and run all our factories."

Dr. Gable was honor guest at a dinner at 6 p. m. in the Lincoln Log cabin. Present at the dinner were several students from the school of engineering, as well as the entire faculty of the school.

Slight and dapper in appearance, Dr. Gable was a forceful and interesting speaker, with a fine stage presence and a pleasing usage of the English language. Not knowing anything especial as far as radium and the cosmic rays are concerned, we are content to assume that he knew enough whereof he spoke to make the lecture absolutely authentic.—G. W. M.

SPECTRUM
SPORT
SPECULATIONS

In last week's issue of The Student, the U sports writer (a very egotistical person, to judge by what he writes) said something about "it would be typical of the Bison, when everyone knows the University has the superior team, to rise to hitherto unknown heights, and trounce the Sioux."

Well, we wonder, after what happened in those contests, which team is the best. Perhaps The Student columnist still thinks the U has the better team; but, if logic is logic, we must say his reasoning is certainly slightly screwy, to say the least.

At any rate the famous U "point-a-minute" machine that they have been raising such a hullabaloo about certainly went to h-l-l.

Both Witasek and Meinhover, the pair whose names have been ballyhooed all season, certainly met more than their match in certain of the Bison players. It is a shame that a "magician" like Witasek should have his thunder stolen to such an extent that he couldn't make more than one basket in a game.

Witasek has said, after Friday's game, that "if he ever meets a better player than Russ Anderson, he'll throw in his shoes." Thank you, Herman, and we also would like to compliment Pinky Mullens on his conduct here—he was one of the U players we really could appreciate.

Did any of you see Curt Denenny doing a jig over in a corner after Saturday's game following his honorable dismissal from the contest? We don't blame Curt for feeling good—he was the hero of that game.

Passing out compliments to any Bison player makes us feel good, but at the same time, we hate to slight any of the rest—they all did yeoman service. So, a nice big bunch of orchids to you, boys.

And remember, these here "speculations" are being written with no reference to what happened last night. Win or lose, everything we are saying still goes.

To get more or less of a grudge out of the way against our sterling U columnist, may we suggest that his Exhibit A in the form of Theodore (Frankenstein, etc.) Meinhover isn't so hot? Personally, it did us a lot of good to see both Exhibit A and Exhibit B of the "point-a-minute" machine sitting on the bench for once this year.

With two Sioux scalps safely tucked under the Bison belt we feel that we can answer any doubt or misapprehension thrown our way by Sioux partisans.

But, my goodness, we are getting almost as cocky as Mr. Kupcinec, which God forbid. So we'll quit now, and concede the mighty Sioux a 50-50 chance to win both remaining games of the series.

And don't forget—all this stuff was written Thursday morning. It's all absolutely without regard to what happened last night or what will happen tonight.

Bison Conquer
Nodak Quintet
In Tilts Here

State College Basketeers
Show Superiority In Both Games

By WALT McGRATH

Clearly demonstrating their superiority over their upstate rivals, the Bison upset a supposedly unbeatable Nodak quint 36-28 in the first game of a series of two last Friday evening, and then came back to trounce them again, 28-21, in the second game on Saturday.

By virtue of these two victories, the Bison were conceded a splendid chance to retain their North Central Conference title, which they have held for the past two years. By the outcome of last evening's game, the Bison still have a chance of winning the conference.

In the two games last Friday and Saturday, it seemed that the NDSC just had a better team than the so-called "wonder" outfit from the U. The Bison quint functioned smoothly and outplayed, outsmarted, and outfought a tough Nodak team. For the first time this season, Meinhover and Witasek, heretofore the big guns in the Sioux offensive, were effectively bottled up. In the two games, Witasek counted 13 points, while Meinhover made 11, both of these figures being below their previous average per game.

Everything that Bob Lowe did in the two-game series seemed to be the right thing. When he made substitutions, they were the right ones. When he gave instructions of any kind to his charges, they were right. Lowe really must be given credit for the manner in which the team has been brought along since it hit a "low" last fall.

Russell Anderson, elongated sophomore center, turned out to be the hero of the series. His shooting and all-around playing kept the Bison in the contest the first evening, and to him is due the larger share of the credit for really giving the Bison the punch that enabled them to beat the U twice. He appeared to be practically unstoppable under the Sioux basket, and perhaps it was for this reason that he was violently shoved into the wall twice when attempting to make shots—the first time by the Sioux captain, Bernard Smith, and the second time by a U substitute, Harold Tait. Both offenders were removed from the game by the referee for unnecessary roughness. The second push resulted in severe injuries to Anderson's head and to his left wrist, preventing him from taking part in the game the following evening and, to a large extent, in the games last night and tonight.

Anderson's contributions in the games totalled 15 points, more than were accumulated by any other player on either team in both games. His performance clearly put him in line for position as center on an all-conference team.

The second hero of the series was Curt Denenny, junior forward, who kept the Bison "in there" in Saturday's game. His play both defensively and offensively was flawless, even though he did leave the game with four infractions. We cannot blame him for anything there, however, for he held the great Ted Meinhover at bay with two baskets; his play was decisive in keeping the Bison ahead. Denenny was also high scorer of the evening with a total of seven points.

Too much cannot be said for the remainder of the team, either. Bud

"DOC" RECEIVES TOKEN

While listening to the game last Friday night between the Bison and the Sioux, Miss Bertha Strand, formerly of the department of public discussion at the North Dakota State college, but now ill in the Sand Beach sanitarium at Lake Park, Minn., constructed a very small toy dog and presented it to "Doc" Putnam and the Gold Star band to carry with them as a mascot on their excursion to the University Thursday night. When the band departed, "Doc" was proudly wearing the good luck token on the lapel of his uniform.

Four Fraternities Are Deadlocked In Intramural Games

This week's play in intramural basketball found the same teams leading their respective brackets. Tied for first in one division are the YMCA and Delta Tau Epsilon teams, and deadlocked for leadership in the other frame are the ATOs, Delta Kappa Sigmas, and Theta Chis.

In the best game of the week the YMCA quint defeated the Alpha Gamma Rhos Wednesday evening in one of the highest scoring games of the season, 36-26. Hank Bottemiller sank six of his Witasek-like shots to lead his mates in scoring, while Red Striker and Byron Steffarud were close behind him with five field goals each. Art Skurdahl, Ken McKinnon, Wilbur Klussman, and Ralph Dietrick divided scoring honors for the losers with three field goals each.

Other games Wednesday night resulted in a 29-11 victory for Kappa Sigma Chi over the Kappa Psis, and a 25-13 win for the Delta Tau Epsilons over the Dorm club.

Tuesday evening's games, marked by low scoring and much ragged playing, were won by Theta Chi from the Cosmopolitan club, 18-6; by Delta Kappa Sigma from Alpha Sigma Tau, 11-9; and by Alpha Tau Omega from Sigma Phi Delta, 18-13. In the latter game the score at the half stood at 4-4.

Marquardt and Acey Olson, a pair of players whose presence is never felt so much as that of others, but without whom the team would surely go to pieces, worked wonders. Marquardt was heavy on the scoring end and invaluable on tip-off plays, while Olson turned in a most remarkable performance at guarding Witasek, holding him to a lone field goal in the second game.

Pretz Reiners showed up well at guard, though an illness kept him from doing the things he might have done in the second contest. His work was particularly timely in Friday's game. Substituted for short intervals were Barney Bernard, Lyle Stinson, and Stan Maynard, all three of whom performed their work without an error. Bernard's scoring was valuable, while a beautiful setup shot caged by Stinson in the second game did much toward helping the Bison keep heart.

As is always true of contests with the University, the games drew capacity crowds to the Field house. The new scheme of determining the conference standings regarding the U games turned out to be a marked success. Dick Holzer, referee, affected the crowd about as usual—his work satisfactory if satisfactory to the crowd, and vice versa. From all U games we have seen, we still think that Dick Holzer is the one and only referee.

Baby Bison Meet
University Frosh
In Contest Today

By MORTON LARSEN

Leaving this morning for Grand Forks, the Baby Bison freshmen will again face the Nodak yearlings in hopes of repeating their spirited upset of last Saturday. The game will take place this afternoon.

True to form, the freshman game last weekend was one of intense rivalry; but a smoothly working Bison quintet, playing their best game of the season, failed to allow the University outfit to threaten more than once during the contest. The final score was 32-28.

Especially during the first half, which ended 15-4 for the Bison, did the local team perform as brilliant a ball game as one could ask. On the other hand, the Sioux appeared ragged throughout the first half and it wasn't until the last minutes of play that they really came to life. Those few minutes, however, were sufficient to cause plenty of worry for the Bison with all possibilities of an overtime contest looming up. With a matter of seconds left and the score having been closed to a 30-28 lead, Forrest Stevens, Baby Bison center, managed to sink a final counter to save the day.

Bob Saunders, at the guard post, came to light as excellent varsity material for next year. He played a consistent game both on offense and defense besides being high-point man for the Bison. Stevens, at center, Ernest Percy, at forward, and Bob Erickson, at guard, also gave admirable performances for the Bison.

Emmett Birk, Nodak center, was high-point man for the game, garnering 11 points. Besides Birk, Bob Finnegan, former Bismarck high school star, led the Sioux attack.

Ceylon Experience Described By Former Campus Lecturer

How would you feel if you were seated on a platform with twenty-five Buddhist priests in a temple in far-away Ceylon, with a crowd of Hindu worshipers before you, while the priests intoned their sacred scriptures? This was the experience described to Dr. Leon Metzinger, of the NDSC modern languages department, in a letter received by him from George Perry Conger, professor of philosophy at the University of Minnesota, a former Bell award lecturer on this campus, and a close friend of Dr. Metzinger and his family.

This experience came to Mr. Conger while he was in Ceylon on a part of his investigational tour of India. He had evidenced to the priests his interest in their religion, and, seemingly because he was the only white man present and because he represented to them the entire human race west of Suez, he was asked by them to occupy an honored place on the temple platform. Here he sat and listened to holy men garbed in bright orange and yellow; and when he passed out of the temple some of the people reached out and touched his feet in respect just as they do those of their priests.

Writing from Colombo, the capital of Ceylon, where he and his party had gone to visit a Buddhist temple during the Christmas holidays,

Mr. Conger says, "Everything is so lovely here—every prospect pleases, and not even man is as vile as he is in some places."

They had spent eight days at Kandy, which had a triple attraction for them. One of the most important Buddhist temples is located there, the Temple of the Tooth. At certain seasons Buddhists show the Buddha tooth, whose size, two inches long by one-half inch thick, is justified by the fact that Buddha was a very large man. A second attraction was a wonderful botanical garden, and the third, the number of markets for native products.

From Colombo, Dr. Conger went to the famous ruins at Anuradhapura, and then back to India. He has nothing but praise for the temples. Among the interesting people he met there were Mr. Natarajan, social reformer and Haskell lecturer last summer; and Mrs. Naidu, the foremost woman of India. From her Dr. Conger and his party learned much of Indian thought and life.

Of Mahatma Gandhi who he saw at Wardha just before the famous leader left on his nine-month tour of India in behalf of the untouchables, Dr. Conger said, "When you see him and hear him as I had the almost unbelievable chance to do, the bizarre pictures played up by the American reporters disappear, and you feel that he is really a great soul."

The YWCA freshman commission will entertain the sophomore commission at a supper Thursday, March 1, at 5:30 p. m. in the home of Gladys Stevenson, 1101 First st. N.

Geraldine Erdahl, Frost, Minn., Josephine Weinberger, Bismarck, and Rocelia Rud, Fargo, were initiated into Zeta Iota chapter of Phi Mu sorority at services held Sunday, Feb. 18, in the Plymouth Congregational church.

Election of new officers for the Kappa Psi fraternity took place Monday evening with Joseph Howell voted president; Maurice Hoff, vice president; Louis Whalen, secretary; and Oran Craychee, treasurer.

Retiring officers are Harlan Black, president; Louis Whalen, vice president; Quay Wells, secretary; and Clifford Albin, treasurer.
