Thresher's Dinner Is Featured For Annual Fall Harvest Festival

Actual Golden Wedding Is Part Of Program Planned For Occasion

Featuring a thresher's dinner the class in festivals under the direction of A. G. Arvold, head of the department of public discussion, will hold the eighteenth annual Harvest festival on Wednesday, Oct. 18, in the Little Country theater.

The theme for this year's ceremonies is a golden wedding anniversary at which Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Wheeler, Fargo, who are celebrating their fiftieth anniversary, will be honored. Included on the program is an old fashioned husking bee to be accompanied by old time music.

At the dinner to be served in the Lincoln Log cabin students will entertain with readings and music appropriate to the October season. The wedding couple will cut the cake.

Immediately after the dinner Miss Phyllis Tritchler will tell fortunes for the group and guests will spend the remainder of the evening at old time dancing.

In order to keep to the idea of autumn, corn husks will be used as decorations. Other features to lend atmosphere are lighting by lanterns in the evening, an assortment of various fruits on the tables to symbolize the horn of plenty, and students dressed in farm costumes.

Helen Fredrikson is in charge of refreshments, Marion Weeks of entertainment, Betty Nelson of decorations and Luella Furcht of promotion. A charge of twenty-five cents will be made for admittance.

LUTHERAN STUDENTS FORM ORGANIZATION

Fifty-seven students became charter members of the Lutheran club which was organized Sunday, Oct. 8, at the college YMCA.

Katherine Gronna was elected president; Harry Heine, vice president; Maxine Rustad, secretary; Merton Bottmiller, treasurer. The committees chosen are Harry Hanson, Idan Flaa, Bernice Rhines, membership; Virginia Garberg, Maxine Myhra, Helen Lierboe, Leon Johnson, program; Ingolf Thorson, Mildred Peterson, Ruth Aageson, social.

National Convention Considers Engineer Magazine

Magazine Fulfills Requisites For Full Membership In E. C. M. A.

The North Dakota State Engineer will be represented at the national convention of the Engineering Colleges Magazines Associated of which they have been a probational member for for the past year, according to Paul Deal, editor of the campus engineering publication. The convention is to be held at Marquette university, Milwaukee, Wis., on Oct. 16, 17, and 18.

At the meeting the North Dakota State Engineer will be considered for active membership. During the past year the magazine has satisfied all requisite standards to qualify for membership, including a year on probation. The Engineer, which is published quarterly, is the official periodical of the engineering college and membership in the national organization would be a big step forward for that branch of North Dakota State college as well as for the whole school, according to Mr. Deal.

The E. C. M. A. is an organization of publications from some of the best schools in the country including those from Michigan university, Penn State, Purdue, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Iowa university, Cornell and Illinois.

Staff positions on the Engineer for the coming year will be announced by Oct. 13. Ray Cruden is business manager of the publication. Those making the trip which will include a visit to the World's Fair, are Paul Deal, editor; E. H. Elwin, assistant editor; and Gordon Strong, advertising manager. The delegation will leave Sunday.

Doc Marching On

"There's Old Doc Putnam, over 70 years old, still marching, and still a soldier." Just 41 years ago Doc marched in the parade dedicating the Columbian World Fair. A week ago Doc marched the same route down Michigan avenue, Chicago, in the American Legion band, and Saturday Doc leads his Gold Star band down Fargo's Broadway in the Homecoming parade. Coming to N. D. S. C. two days after his office and all his medical equipment burned to the ground, (no insurance, poor Doc) he began teaching mathematics. He took the band of 14 men and built it to a band of 108 pieces. Well, Doc, old man, we hope you keep on marching for N. D. S. C. for many years to come.

Low Price Schedule Is Put Into Effect At College Cafeteria

Students, Faculty Members Are Invited To Patronize Ceres Dining Room

With a new schedule of low prices going into effect this fall term, North Dakota State college students and faculty members are invited to patronize the dining room of Ceres hall cafeteria regularly.

A price list, broadcast recently on the campus, shows how much a student can get for so little by taking advantage of a meal ticket. For instance, breakfast of two cups of coffee and three slices of toast is ten cents; dinner: meat, potatoes, vegetable, bread and butter, coffee or milk, and a desert for 25 cents; and supper: three items for 15 cents. Individual meals can be purchased at an advantage, however.

One inviting feature about the Ceres Hall cafeteria, points out S. W. Hagan, college secretary under whose supervision the cafeteria operates, is that a person does not pay for the meals he misses. A wide variety of wholesome food is being carried at the cafeteria which is managed by Mrs. N. C. Gilbert.

Ceres Hall cafeteria is a non-profit making dining hall operated especially for the convenience of the students and faculty. All deficits on its books must be made up through the college. The past year there was no deficit, and neither was there a profit. Because Ceres hall is a good place to eat at reasonable prices all students and faculty members who can do so are invited to take their meals there.

YWCA Opens Annual Drive For Membership

The annual membership drive of the North Dakota State college YWCA will get under way next Monday, Oct. 16, and continue through the entire week, with Helen Lee, membership chairman, in charge.

All women students on the campus are invited to join. They are permitted to pay any amount which they feel able to give for dues for the year.

Activities sponsored by the YWCA are the Blue Monday teas, all Y meetings, with the YMCA the all college mixers, and the Christmas party for children.

The captains for the annual drive, with their teams are: Phyllis Tritchler, captain, Jean Newton, Prudence Yager, Elva Eklund and Helen Lierboe; Mona Haas, captain, Jane Bristol, Helen Engel, Irene Gast and Leone Phillips; Dorothy Rutherford, captain, Betty Bickert, Luella Furcht, Eleanor Anderson and Helen Skii; Ruth Moore, captain, Isabel Humphries, Marjorie Baker, Grace South, Ruth Clemens; Lucille Bolstad, captain, Virginia Garberg, Lois Presler, Imogene Ward and Amy Glaser; Thelma Leismann, captain, Rhoda Clausen, Lillian Stotlar, Genevieve Skinner and Elaine Gorder; Mary McNair, captain, Ellen Blair, Aurora Haas, Luella Ulness and Helen Foster.

Cosmopolitans To Be Guests At University

Attempt Is First Launched To Mold Friendship Among Independents

Independent students at the University decided at a meeting last week that special efforts be made to welcome and entertain independent students from State College at the University Homecoming.

Arrangements have been made at all the dormitories for lodging for both men and women. Rooms have been prepared and reserved for from 75 to 100 men and for about 50 women. Welcoming committees will be stationed at the dormitories where the State college students will register.

Robert Buttz and William Erlenmeyer, prominent students at the University, arrived in Fargo Saturday afternoon as representatives of the independent group to extend the invitation.

PHYTOIS, PLANT CLASS MAKE SAND HILLS TRIP

The Phytois club, in connection with Dr. H. C. Hanson's ecology class, took a field trip to the sand hills south of Leonard, N. D., Sunday, Oct. 8, to study the different types of vegetation in the sand dune region. Thomas King, president of Phytois, was in charge of the trip.

Instructors making the tour were: Dr. H. C. Hanson, Dr. H. H. Flor, Dr. A. D. Stoesz, Prof. O. A. Stevens and H. L. Barnett.

It is the first time in the history of either school that any such attempt to further friendship and good will between University and State independent students has ever been made. A great deal of enthusiasm was shown Monday night by the Cosmopolitan club which represents the large independent group on this campus, and plans are being made to take advantage of this opportunity to become acquainted with University friends.

The President Greet Homecomers

HOMECOMING—what a world of pleasant memories the word "home" brings to the mind of each one of us.

The analogy of the College home and the family home is not at all far-fetched, for in each group there is mutual congratulation when unusual success is attained by any member of the family regardless of the type of endeavor to which he has devoted his energy. There is rivalry but no competition, since in each case there is a mutual interest.

The College holds open house next Saturday and extends a most cordial welcome to its sons and daughters to join with the faculty and friends in making our celebration a notable one.

Governor and Mrs. Langer are honoring us with their presence, which is an unusual recognition and one that is greatly appreciated.

Parade With Police Escort Leaves Campus Tomorrow Morning At Ten

N. R. A.—No Rabbits Allowed is the sentiment of North Dakota State college students as they head down Broadway Saturday morning, Oct. 14, in a parade which opens what promises to be one of the most interesting and successful gatherings of alumni, faculty members, students and friends of the college in the history of Homecoming, according to Carmen Hunt, president of the Student Commission, in charge of arrangements.

The day's festivities will begin with a parade leaving the college at 10:00 a. m. With a police escort and lead by a fleet of cars headed by the honor guests, the Governor William Langer, the board of administration, the State Budget Board, the Chief of Police, the members of the city commission and Pres. J. H. Shepperd, the parade will proceed south on Thirteenth street, east on Eleventh avenue north to Broadway, south on Broadway to Front street where it will reverse and return to the college.

CERES HALL CLUB HOLDS OPEN HOUSE SATURDAY

The Ceres Hall club will sponsor their annual Homecoming open house on Saturday afternoon from 4 to 6, according to Miss Helen Hummel, secretary.

A tea will be served in the Ceres hall parlors as a special feature with Mrs. A. M. Williams, social hostess, pouring.

Misses Helen Lierboe, Rosine Dahlen, Hildred Shelland and Helen Hummel are in general charge of arrangements. On other committees are Beverly Jensen and Kathrine Gronna, reception; and Ruth Samson, Lucille Smith and Mabel Coyne, refreshments. A special invitation is extended to faculty members to attend.

Student Commission In Charge Of Class Elections Oct. 20

Candidates Must Present Card Of Eligibility At Time Of Nomination

Elections of class officers will be held on Friday, Oct. 20, during convocation period with members of the Student Commission in charge, according to Grace South, commissioner of elections.

The freshman class will meet in Festival hall in charge of Grace South and Thelma Liessman; sophomores in room 105 in the chemistry building with Cliff Maloney and Eryls Hill in charge; juniors in room 128 of the chemistry building with Roman Meyers and Luella Furcht conducting the elections; and seniors in the Little Country theater with Carmen Hunt and Maxine Rustad in charge.

Seventeen officers for the various classes and a junior member of the Board of Publications will be elected. All candidates for these offices must secure their eligibility cards from the registrar's office and present them at the time of their nomination during the meeting. All nominations will be made from the floor.

Military Platoons Announce Sponsors

At the regular morning drill on Friday, Oct. 6, sponsors for the ten platoons and one battalion were chosen.

Cecil Olson was named battalion sponsor. Representing the platoons are, first platoon, Helen Lee; second, Margrethe Tronnes; third, Mona Haas; fourth, Kathryn Marcks; fifth, Celeste Sowka; sixth, Frances Plaggmeir; seventh, Dorothy Pray; eighth, Lucille Bolstad; ninth, Eleanor Evanson; tenth, Phyllis Tritchler.

After being chosen a sponsor for a platoon or battalion a woman student is eligible for membership in Guidon, national honorary fraternity for women students with military commissions.

Members of the alumnae chapter of Phi Omega Pi sorority will entertain their actives and pledges at a tea Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Meredith Mattingly, 1024 Broadway.

Included in the procession will be the official car of the Homecoming Queen, Eryls Hill, and her military escort; Dr. Putnam and his Gold Star band; the corps of cadets; the decorated floats; group costumes and individual costumes featuring the theme based on the letters NRA; sorority cars; and finally the cars of the college faculty, alumni, students, and friends.

The largest band in the history of the college will rally students and alumni. More than one hundred students are members of this year's Gold Star band which will encircle the field and march into letter formation under the direction of Doc Putnam between halves of the afternoon game.

Eryls Hill will be crowned queen of the 1933 Bison Homecoming by Carmen Hunt, president of the student commission, during the game's intermission. Miss Hill, a senior in the school of home economics, has been prominent in the activities of the college and now is social commissioner.

The event of the day will be the football game between the undefeated Bison and the Jackrabbits of South Dakota State. Immediately after the game, the various fraternities and sororities on the campus will hold open house.

A student, alumni dance will be the feature of the evening. The physical education building will be the scene of this final activity. Students will be admitted only upon the presentation of their registration cards.

Arrangements for the entire Homecoming procedure have been made by the Student Commission, the Senior Staff, Capt. J. B. Conny and Coach Casey Finnegan.

Bigelow Neal To Be Convocation Speaker

Future Convocation Programs Include Singer, Speaker On World Affairs

Bigelow Neal, former student at the North Dakota State college, and author of the novel, "The Last of the Thundering Herd," chosen one of the twelve best stories for older boys, will lecture at convocation on Tuesday, Oct. 16, in Festival hall.

Continuing the series of convocation programs will be I. M. Cochran, well-known lecturer, entertainer, interpreter of plays, and public discussion instructor at Carleton college, Northfield, Minn., on Thursday, Oct. 26.

The program on Nov. 2 will consist of an illustrated lecture on the pottery from before the year 3,000 B. C. to the present time including the countries of Peru, Egypt, Europe and the Chinese empire.

"Fascism: Italian, German, Japanese" is the subject for the convocation program on Nov. 14 chosen by Cyrus P. Barnum, director of the international relations project at the University of Minnesota. He will discuss the aims, methods and accomplishments of Mussolini, and the similarity of Hitlerism to the present movement in Japan.

On Nov. 20 Arthur Kraft, nationally known tenor with several outstanding performances to his credit, will appear before the student body.

HOME COMING!

The North Dakota State college campus will be a glad spot tomorrow when the school's old graduates and students return once more for a day spent with old friends and classmates among the annual Homecoming festivities.

Graduates of five—ten—twenty—thirty years ago will renew and relive those grand old memories of a bygone day. They will feel themselves undergraduates again as they watch the parade wind downtown, yell at the football game, rub elbows with old cronies and instructors, and walk again among the old familiar surroundings. Gone will be that feeling of gradual slowing-down, of approaching old age.

Homecoming is the one day of the year when the college alumnus can really make himself young once more. All restraint is gone. In its place are hearty hellos, friendly back-slaps, waving of pennants, rooting for the wearers of the yellow and the green, exchanging of fond reminiscences of collegiate days.

The entire school is looking forward to one grand and glorious Homecoming. The student body has left no stone unturned to give returning Bison a royal welcome at their arrival, an exciting time while they are here, and revived memories to take with them when they depart.

The day is dedicated to you, Homecomers, so make the most of it. A happy Homecoming to you!

THE DOUBLE

Once Overs On Personalities and Things Collegiate Through The Specs of The Spectrum Spectator

WELL, HOME COMING'S HERE again. It's a great day for one and all. How clear are the memories of our four previous Homecomings, with the crowds, the Bison-Nodak and Bison-Jackrabbit struggles, the hustle and bustle of getting that float ready, the burning of frosh-carried wood, the pep rallies in Festival hall, the alumni dances in the physical ed building! It's such things as these that have already made us determined to return again and again for Homecomings after we have (optimistically written) graduated.

WE WISH TO THANK THE UNIVERSITY Student's Bystander for his invitation a la Mae West to see for ourselves how 'tis done. We make no bones about accepting the invitation, and wish to assure Mr. Bystander that we'll look around for the answer to our "wondering"—provided we begin receiving two issues of The Student per week.

NEXT WEEK WILL BE THE LAST in which students trying for positions on the reportorial staff will be tested. Of the twenty-five or so applicants, several have been turning in unusually good work for beginners and have paid a good deal of attention to their assignments. Others have been rather negligent, handing in their assignments late and poorly written. The primary purpose of the trying-out period as far as the editor is concerned is to obtain some assistants that will be of real help, and it is with this object in mind that the final selections will be made. At the present time, it is intended to place about fifteen reporters in all on the staff. There will be shake-ups in the editorial staff, too.

CANDIDITIES . . . attended a Socialist meeting with Comrade Chamberlin the other evening, surprising and being surprised by several other Comrades . . . two prominent members of one fraternity on the campus are working their way through school selling chances on a punch-board . . . the new roto section of The Spectrum made a very evident hit . . . wonder how long the fly season is going to last; notice by exchanges that its a serious problem in other states, too . . . the old Kappa car is being put to use again; wonder how much the rent is . . . isn't Fritz Hanson the popular boy with the knot-hole gang . . . erudite Tommie King telling the kids all about botany . . .

SECOND CADET HOP TO BE OCTOBER 19

The second Cadet hop of the year will be held in Festival hall Thursday, Oct. 19 from 4:00 to 6:00 in the afternoon. Stewie Hallum and his orchestra will furnish the music. Admission prices will be the same as formerly, ten cents for women students and twenty-five cents for men students.

The last Cadet hop was a pronounced success and this coming hop will be fully as good. Everybody is urged to attend. Good floor, good music, good time, good gosh! Let's go!

Phi Omega Pi sorority will be host at a homecoming tea in honor of its alumnae on Saturday afternoon following the football game.

Paula Verne will entertain members of the Gamma Phi Beta pledge chapter Friday, at a tea at St. John's hospital where she has been confined since an automobile accident a month ago.

By BILL

Boy, oh boy, oh boy, there's something about homecoming that just gets into your blood. Wow! (as the world series announcer would say). Isn't the weather great? All the little insects are being tucked up in their soft little beds . . . today's Friday the 13th . . . rabbit season opens tomorrow . . . remember the slaughter at the battle of Hastings, Saturday, Oct. 14, 1066—just 867 years ago tomorrow. What a coincidence! Ain't it thrilling! What the dev—(Oh, I almost forgot the Board of Publications), well anyhow, you ought to be all steamed-up by now.

And here's what you've been waiting for—an interview with that super user of the vernacular—Bill Gallagher (to be read in a slow, drawing manner): "Hello, Bill, how are you?" "O. K. I guess—you been havin' much fun lately?" "Ya, how did you like the game?" "Oh, all right. I guess a good time was had by all. No effort was spared, at any rate. Sure was a motley throng there—all sorts and conditions of men, heh what?" "Yes—"

"A. C., I mean S. C., sure has got a lot of beef and brawn—they're rough and ready—but they haven't displayed the old scoring punch; there's the rub, don't you think, eh kiddo?" "I think it was the best game so far."

"Ya, I guess that's the sum and substance of it all. Did you stand by with bated breath when tow-headed Fritz scampered across the last chalked line to tally six for the Bison? They sure cheered him to the echo—"

"Oh sure, pal, coffin nails are always forthcoming from old liberal Bill from over the hill—old trusty—that's me Butch."

"Got any plans for homecoming yet?"

"Oh, that's right—Saturday is an alcholiday at North Dakota State. No, I haven't made any plans—as yet. I'll probably crawl over to the all-college buzz though—I kinda go for social functions—some fun, eh kid? Come one, come oiled—that's what they say isn't it?"

"Ya—"

A Few more Fair Items, or I Cover Lake Michigan: Warren Covert taking full advantage of Henry Ford's courtesy taxi service . . . Grocer Bill Temple exchanging comments on Southern and Northern girls, with a boy from good old Alabama . . . The Chicago Board of Trade, noisier than a sorority rushing meeting . . . Eunice Conlon and escort thrilled by Jan Garber at the Trianon . . . Bill Akeley, officially billed as the Gate City Tenor, singing at the open-air theater . . . Tom Allen (you guessed it), having a good time at Old Heidelberg . . . Dan Cooke at the Paramount Club; "Oh," he said, "Those legs, those eyes, those (and then he ran out of breath)." He would, of course. Jean Harlow practically has a monopoly on the wall space in his room . . . Talking with a Californian who knew several North Dakota old-timers (we had something in common, and of course were buddies immediately).

Then followed the inevitable discourse on wheat, cut-worms, and the market for rutabagas in Siberia . . . Ev Hammer going over big in her Spirit of Golden Grain dance number . . . Bob Flint, Gordon Horner and party getting a wallop out of a drunken dame at the Blackhawk who struck her head on a table and broke a flock of dishes; Bill Murphy and Goose Wilson across the way, also enjoying that famous rendezvous . . . Wouldn't it have been great last week. Audrey (of the flexible knees) Houglum saw it all. Reports stated that merchants were practically out of bromoseltzer, aspirin and tomato juice after the first few days the Legion was in Chi.

Now, Pen Pals, if you have any peevish or griefs that need airing, just write them in—I'm rather tall and dark and am interested in beer, beautiful babes and broad-minded faculty members. Isn't there someone with similar interest around the campus? Gosh, I get so lonesome up here in my little room on Bison Boulevard. Why don't you—all drop me a line, or better yet, come up and see me? You bring the bucks and we'll have a swell time. I'm especially interested in freshmen with youth, passion and a burning thought. Why don't you who dislike the remarks come over and call me a dirty low man to my face. I don't mind being called a scamp and a scalawag. I'm broadminded. You see, I go to college. But if your false modesty seems to be bothering you, just drop around, and me and Satan, my buddy, will see if we can right matters. We'll grant that this modern generation is going to the dogs, that we're a bunch of young idiots and lallygaggers, that the woods are full of despair, that the roads are muddy with tears, that we are enveloped in sin and that we don't appreciate the advantages like you used to in your day—but, we hear that those old quirt-in' parties weren't such frigid affairs. And perhaps you haven't heard about the preacher who went to the "Streets of Paris" to see just how conditions were, and they couldn't get him out at closing time. Yes sir, right back at you. Now write in real soon and tell us what you think about everything at N. D. State. What do you think the effect of beer will be on college parties? Well, I can hardly wait until the next mail comes in.

Last Line:—Button Frosh!

The pledge chapter of Gamma Phi Beta entertained at a party in the sorority apartment before the football game last Saturday with Helen Hummel, Katherine Gronan, Patricia Lynch, Mabel and Adele McGilvray and Virginia Smith as guests.

Stevens Continuing Bird Branding Work

Marks 900 Birds In Cooperation With Biological Survey Since Last Year

For some time past, a series of interesting experiments on the migratory habits of birds has been carried on by Prof. O. A. Stevens, councilor for North Dakota of the Inland Bird Banding association. Professor Stevens has been working in direct cooperation with the Biological Survey at Washington, D. C. Bands are issued and all records are kept by this organization.

Birds that nest here are the most frequent sources of information, and among the transients, winter visitors are most consistent in returning to the same district year after year.

An example of the work is found in the two following cases: A robin, banded in 1930, has returned each year since being banded, and a clay-colored sparrow, banded in 1931, has been recaptured in June 1932, Sept. 1932, and Sept. 1933. This data proves that birds do return to the same grounds.

In order to appreciate the amount of work involved in this survey, over 900 birds have been banded by Professor Stevens since June 15 of this year.

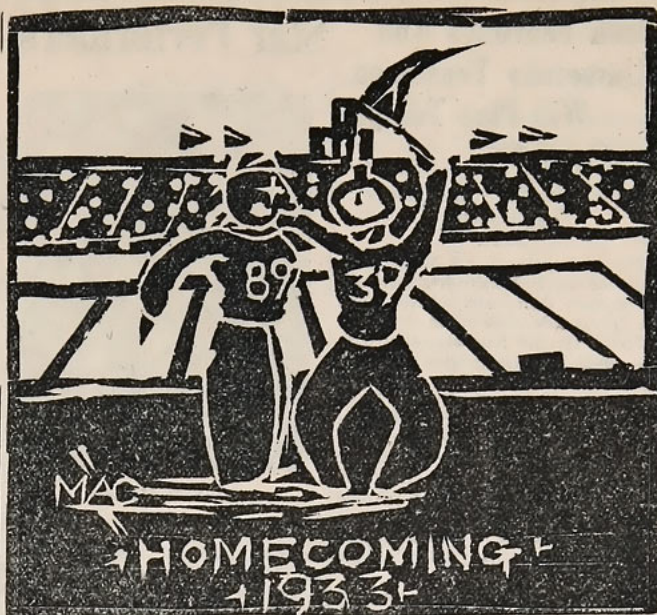

In addition to the migratory habits of the birds, much information is also gathered relative to plumage and parasites.
