Annual College Commencement Opens June 2 Commencement Exercises

Montague, Retired Mounted Police Officer, Gives Graduation Talk

FOUR DAY PROGRAM HELD

Commencement Processional To Take Place At 10:00 On

The thirty-ninth annual college commencement program beginning with the senior class exercises on Friday, June 2, will culminate with the gradu-ation exercises on Monday, June 5, at which S. R. Montague, retired Royal Canadian mounted police officer and explorer, will give the address.

Senior class exercises and "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh," class play are scheduled for 7:45 in the evening of Friday. Pres. J. H. Shepperd will receive sen-iors at the annual reception on Saturday following which will be the Senior Swing Out and Alumni Ball. The hours are from 8:30 to 11:30.

Baccalaureate services are scheduled for 3:30 Sunday afternoon in Festival hall. Rev. R. V. Conard will deliver the address. At 5:30 will be the Alumni ceremonial and at 6:00 the Alumni supper. The commencement concert will be at 8:15 in the evening.

The commencement procession from Old Main to the physical education building, where the graduation exercises will be held, will begin at 10:00 Monday morning. The college concert orchestra will provide the music for

The program at the physical educa-tion building will open by music of the concert orchestra. A prayer by Dr. Walter Lee Airheart of Wesley college, to be followed by another selection by the orchestra, will precede the address by Mr. Montague.

Mr. Montague has chosen "The Romance of the North" as his topic. As an operative of the mounted police, Mr. Montague spent seven years in the service. During that time he lived four years in Baffinland, an island 3,400 miles east of Alaska and 2,200 miles north and east of New York city. There he was solely among Eskimos. He learned their language and habits in craft and genius and for them he has nothing but praise.

Since his retirement Mr. Montague has lectured throughout Canada and in eastern and middle United States. At present he is writing for the Saturday Evening Post. Another orchestra number will be followed by the presentation of gradu-ates by the deans of the various schools and the presentation of diplomas by President Shepperd. The singing of the Star Spangled Banner will conclude

Good-bye Class of 1933—after Monday, June 5th, you will probably never all be assembled again.

A worthwhile opening comes to every individual sooner or later, if he is prepared to take advantage of it.

An old and philosophic friend of mine used to say: "Knowledge is lightly carried; if you don't need it you are not encumbered by it, but when you need it, it is everything to you."

Those who receive their diplomas from this college on June 5th can do anything that they could have done four years ago and are capable of carrying on many functions which they could not have done at that earlier time. Besides that, there is great satisfaction in understanding the processes that are going on about you, the history of their development and the sources of knowledge. With books and magazines available you can continue the gathering of information, which you have learned how to do, and have great pleasure in its accomplishment.

The memories of these pleasant four years and the friends you have made among your associates in college will prove a life-long satisfaction to you. As an alumnus you still retain a connection with the institution and will always be welcomed back to the campus by the faculty for pleasant associations with your classmates and with those who graduate in other years

THE 1933 GRADUATES

Within a very few days North Dakota State college will bid goodbye to another class of seniors, a class that has been noted as oustanding throughout four years of scholastic effort here. It had an auspicious beginning in the fall of 1929 as the largest class in the history of the rapidly growing school; since that date various members of that unit have contributed much to show that the group had winning characeristics.

We have every confidence in the class of 1933. Its record at this school has pointed the manner in which it will eventually reflect credit on the school. Yet, due to the misfortune,, if you wish to term it such, of completing school in times when conditions are still unsettled, the graduating class is not going to be immediately

Perhaps a few illustrations from the campus of the University of Wisconsin would be helpful in making our point life.

"In my opinion, such censorship must inevitably lead to the emasculation of an interesting, vigorous publication college. This year more than ever be-fore is North Dakota to receive benefits from her educational investments by which has for many years been an important and stimulating force in student having her graduates stay in the state, not to be immediately called to eastern cities and industrial centers.

Give the class of 1933 a break! Don't judge them by material return which they are to receive immediately after graduation. Judge them for the good Says William Steven, 1930 editor of graduation. Judge them for the good work that they will be able to do for the state, right in the communities from whence they had come to attend the college. #### NEXT YEAR

Due to setbacks of a financial nature during the past year, a rather gloomy future for North Dakota State college has been predicted by many people. However, we would like to take a more optimistic view.

A school's success depends, to a large degree, upon its faculty members and its students. The faculty members of North Dakota State college, we are sure, will do their utmost to keep the school's rating among higher educational insti-tutions in its present place. They have demonstrated a spirit and cooperation in this year of plight that is certainly encouraging, and should continue to maintain the school in a proper manner. Students, too, as a whole, have refused to feel troubled about the situation, and than ultimately wrong. most of them are determined to return next year. That they will bend every effort during the summer months to convince high school graduates that North Dakota State college is the school university community can feed him. With these things in mind, together with the fine work that the college has three terms, we Frank, president of the University of Frank, president of the University of done during the past three terms, we feel that the outlook for the institution is anything but pessimistic.

CENSORSHIP?

There is a question which frequently comes to the mind of those working on college publications, and that is, "Should college papers be subject to censorship of any kind?"

We would say, No. A college publication which is the official mouthpiece of the student body should not be subject to restrictions any more than an In order to independent newspaper. develop a live interesting paper, an editor must be able to do much as he pleases with regard to what goes into the publication and what should be

AT THE THEATERS

Heralded as one of the outstanding motion pictures of all time, "Adorable," the new Fox production, starring Janet Gaynor and Henry Carat, opens Monday at the Fargo theater. It is the first American film to claim the talents of the famous international star, and the fact that he is co-starred with Miss Gaynor promises something of the unusual in screen entertainment.

Showing at the State theater today and tomorrow is "When Strangers Marry," with Jack Holt and Lillian Bond. Total strangers they were to each other—yet loving and living together. Built around such a theme, the story promises unusual entertain. the story promises unusual entertain-

Sioux Win From Bison In Spring Contest 19 to 7

Powerful University Eleven Conquers North Dakota State College Team

An extremely powerful Sioux team of the University of North Dakota pounded out a 19 to 7 victory over their strongest rival, the North Dakota State Bison, in the first spring football con-test ever played between any of the North Central conference teams, in the Memorial stadium at Grand Forks last Wednesday night.

The Bison displayed some very fine prospects on the team and although they did not appear to be in such good condition as did the Sioux, they should have a very smooth working squad next fall, and it is doubtful whether the Sioux will be able to make such a margin in the score in their regulation grid tilts next season

Fritz Falgren, right half, and Irvin Kupcinet, fullback, made the scores for the Sioux and it was not until both of these men had made their points that Wendell Schollander picked up a fum-ble on the University's 47-yard line and ran for a touchdown. George May then made a neat placekick for the extra point.

Had the Bison team not made several costly mistakes, and had they taken a little more advantage of their position in different parts of the contest they would have had a good opportunity to even the score. Probably one of the reasons for the raggedness of the Bison squad was the fact that the field was very slippery, and the State men were not equipped with mud cleats whereas the University men were provided with them. In the second period of the them. In the second period of the game the Bison were placed on the four yard line by a series of line plung-es by the hard driving Bill "Shifty" Gove. On the first play at this point Gove. On the first play at this point the Bison lost about five yards, and then after two unsuccessful passes the but that the girls' rooms must remain Sioux took the ball and punted it out of danger.

Casey Finnegan, head football coach for North Dakota State college, used as many men as possible in the contest and the playing of all was commendable The University team had an advantage in weight on their squad, but their weight did not appear to offset the hard plunging of the Bison backfield.

Co-eds at Stanford university must pass physical examinations and be excellent in their studies before they are allowed to stay out until 12 o'clock on week nights and 1:30 Saturday nights.

Three Fraternities Deadlocked In Intramural Baseball Race

Winner of Trophy Given To School Champs

With all scheduled games completed, Delta Tau Epsilon, Alpha Gamma Rho and Alpha Tau Omega are deadlocked for first place in the intramural base-ball league. This will necessitate a playoff between these three leading teams sometime this week, the winner being awarded an appropriate trophy which is being offered by the physical education department.

Each of these teams has a perfect record winning three contests and los-ing none. Delta Tau Epsilon victim-ized Sigma Phi Delta 7 to 0, Theta Chi 12 to 2, and Kappa Psi 10 to 1. Alpha Gamma Rho whipped Alpha Sigma Tau 18 to 2, and the strong dormitory team 5 to 3, and followed this by driving out a 5 to 3 defeat over the YMCA. Alpha Tau Omega overcame the Y 11 to 2, Kappa Sigma Chi 14 to 2, and Alpha Sigma Tau on a forfeit.

The Dormitory nine with two wins and one defeat are holding fourth po-sition, and the remaining teams in the interfraternity race have all lost at least two games.

Last week there were four teams tied for first place, Alpha Tau Omega, Delta Alpha Tau Omega took first place with Tau Epsilon, Alpha Gamma Rho and 167 points, and the Theta Chis captured for first place positions.

Conference Records Expected To Fall At Annual Clash Today

North Central Track Meet Is Held In Stadium At University

A serious assault on at least six ex-isting North Central Intercollegiate conference records will be made today when the cinder stars of the conference gather in the Memorial stadium at Grand Forks for their annual meet. The University of North Dakota and South Dakota State are favorites to win the championship.

The record most certain to fall is in the pole vault event, where L. Hansen of South Dakota State dominates the field. The Jackrabbit star cleared 13 feet 4 inches at the Dakota Relays, bettering by more than two feet the pole vault record set by Joe Blakeslee of North Dakota State. Ted Mein-hover six foot seven inch captain of the Sioux team, is the favorite in both the shot put and discus field events. The Sioux claim an advantage in the
