Commencing with a free noon luncheon and culminating with a dance at which the Red Jackets furnished the music, a new All-college day, under the auspices of Senior Staff and Blue Key fraternity, was jovially initiated into the State college calendar, Wed-nesday when the student body voiced their approval through the spirit main-tained throughout the day.

Upperclassmen were glad at the rea few years back while those who never participated in the former festivities found a new enjoyment in col-lege life in the day's entertainment.

Students convened in Festival hall at non where they were served an in-formal lunch while the Red Jackets gave their interpretations of the latest tunes. Following this portion of the program a varied and informal group of songs and dances by students was presented with Frank Sanders as master of ceremonies. Students in this diversion included Courtney Cannon, Erlys Hill, Walter Jahnke, William Akeley, Tom Dosen, Jane Nichols, Del Ross, Jean Pote, Earl Grove, and John Hamlet.

Adding to the sociability of the day was the open house of all Greek letter fraternities on the campus at four o'clock

In hopes that the entire state of North Dakota will accept May 17 as "Lilac Day" A. G. Arvold and his ad-vanced class in pageantry presented a lilac festival in front of Old Main at 7 o'clock.

A group of lilac bushes east of the library formed a pleasant background for the troupes of gayly clad players who pantomimed the pageant. John Dixon as the gardener began cutting the lilacs as the festival opened only to be the object of protests from Frances Wheeler

Frank Callinan and Marion Brainerd Lead Formal Grand March

Featuring a colorful rainbow crystal scheme as the party setting, the senior prom at the Crystal ballroom tonight marks a dramatic close to the 1933 so-cial season at North Dakota State college. Hours for the party are from 9:30 to 1.

Manager of the final formal party of the school year, Frank Callinan, Delta Kappa Sigma, will be first in line at Brainerd, a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma fraternity Second in line is Gus Younger, assistant manager and retiring president of Delta Tau Epsi-lon fraternity, and his guest, Eunice Thoreson. As class president, Frank Clark, retiring head executive of Deta Kappa Sigma, is third in line at the grand march His partner is Evelyn South, a senior at the University of Minnesota and a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority Chosen as class athete, Don-ald Arthur, retiring president of Theta Chi fraternity, will march in fourth place with Frances Plaggmeier, also a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma soroity.

With more than 2000 mirrors suspended over the entire ceiling of the ballroom to reflect the soft color from special searchlights over the dancers the setting for the prom is to be one of the most unusual in party history at the college, the decorations committee announces. The equipment used in the decoratons has already been purchased by the managemnt of the ball-room, which fact is regarded as complimentary to the effectiveness of the decorative effects.

Heading the list of invited guests tonight are Gov. and Mrs. William Langer. Among other state officials invited to the prom is Nelson Sauvain, head of the state board of administra-tion. Chaperons are members of the college faculty and are Prof. and Mrs. A. G. Arvold, Capt. and Mrs. H. J. (Continued on Page 4)

AN INTRODUCTORY EPISTLE

With this issue of The Spectrum, a new staff is presented to the student body, an editorial and business staff that is to guide and direct the work of The Spectrum for the coming year.

The new staff consists of those people who have shown the greatest interest and aptitude in their journalistic work during the past year. Before them they have a full year of work and added experience, which should result in a constantly improving Spectrum as the school year moves along. The cooperation and the spirit they have manifested this year will act as an aid and influence towards such an end.

It will be the prime aim of the entire staff to give to the student body an official paper which will be as representative,

ALL-COLLEGE DAY

Once again, after a year's omittance, we have had another All-college day. It was, in our eyes, a success, and ac-complished everything it was intended to-to give the students a little relief from the tedium of class work and study, and to furnish them at least half a day's entertainment and fun without making them dig into their pocketbooks and purses. An All-college day once every spring is a tradition that should be established on this campus for good and aye. Precautions should be taken so that ar-rangements as they were made this this year are made every spring. Let those student organizations and individuals who are responsible for such things continue them!

All-college day gave all students a chance to become acquainted with students they hadn't already met, to fam-iliarize themselves with various types of talent existing among members of the student body, to catch hold of some small feeling of loyalty and comradeship toward the school. Student Opinion

IS THIS JUSTICE?

Let it go down in history to the shame of the 1934 Bison that at least two truly representative seniors were kept from that alleged honor by no evident reason other than fraternity politics. A number of other really eligible candidates were disregarded but in the case of these two there is no question but that an injustice was done because of the unscrupulous overseers directing the staff

Consider the qualifications of the wronged two and then compare them with any or all of those picked. Number one is one of the finest athletes in the history of the college, thus regarded and recognized by all the coaches of the conference for two years in succes-sion; he is an excellent scholar, maintaining an average near the 90 mark consistently; he is a leader as president of his own fraternity and of the highest governing body on the campus; very important is the fact that he is popular, having been chosen as president of the student governing body, his own class, and having been chosen as a member by a service fraternity naturally biased against him due to a preponderance of membership from opposing fraternities. These are but sketching statements of

Then there is Number Two on this list of especially wronged graduating seniors. He has a fine scholastic rec-ord, maintaining a high average in one of the most trying courses on the cam-pus. He too is a popular leader, having been chosen president of his class in an election where members of the opposing political frame took all the other offices, having acted well and admirably as president of his own so-cial fraternity and his honorary society in his field of work. He also was picked as a member by the aforementioned honorary service group when a junior in college. Many other things could be said of his eligibility, which facts would make the position of those final selectors of the representative seniors more uncomfortable in the eyes of the student body. Let it be said for these two wronged seniors that they have done outstanding work for their institution without pay; that they have held the highest esteem of their associates; that they have al-ways been gentlemen in defeat or victory; that they are not professional whiners; yet, they were not picked as representative seniors for the graduating class.

In the future, if the representative senior section of The Bison is to mean anything at all, let it be out in the open! Let the world know who the people are who ultimately pick those seniors to be honored from the suggested list. Let's put the representative senior selection out in the open so that no repetition of the secretive variety of selection as used this year may be repeated to add to this great blot on journalism at the college. Let's have this one recognition lifted out of the insipid pale of college politics. Disgruntled Senior.

THE 1934 BISON

Amid the mud-slinging of campus politics and the clash of frames an occasional lull for commendation of individual merit forages to the front. Such a time has come. And the individual merit is the production of The Bison.

Not alone to the editors, who we know did an exceptionally good job, but also to those on their staffs who labored hard during the year to make the book a success, must go consider-able credit. To have done so well all must have had an interest which in most activities in this year of depres-sion lagged disappointingly.

The authors could have chosen no better subject than that of Arvold's Little Country Theater. It has been a hub of interest on the campus, a distinct service to the community, a cona wonderful advertisement for our school. Perhaps this recognition of Mr. Arvold's achievements will help more people to realize the value of the Little Country theater.

to determine the opinion of the graduating class on the value of higher educaton, and to obtain approximate statistics in regard to the number of the class who will have employment upon graduation.

The college campus romances endure longer than others, was the opinion expressed this month by President William Henry McMaster of Mount Union college in Alliance Ohio. And then we see where a survey at the University of Iowa estimated that only one of 11 college engagements resulted in marriage.

A new plan added to the list of features at Beloit college, Wisconsin, is to pay for gas used by students in commuting within a distance of 30 miles and more and five miles from Beloit.

Because jobs are hard to find, Temple university offered free tuition to 268 graduating seniors if they wish to continue their studies

Bison and Sioux Meet In Spring Gridiron Contest

Stand by, Dear Readers, this is the last 'attempt of a "dying serv to bring to you a few facts about the local sporting news. The year has been a long and tedious one, and everyone is probably more than glad to see the end drawing near. I know that the poor boys who suffered the heat last Wednesday to offer an hour of amusement to the students of North Dakota State college in their annual Yellow and Grene game, are more than anxious to get rid of those heavy football togs and slide back into their regular routine.

However, their desires must wait unth after Tuesday because it is at that time that the newest of traditions is be-ing inaugurated at the University of schools have formulated a plan which will be beneficial to themselves in a number of ways. As you probably know, there is to be a football game played in the Sioux camp next Tuesday evening, and the contestants are to be the age old rivals of North Dakota, namely, the Bison and the Nodaks.

This game will have the honor of being the only advertised intercollegiate spring grid game in the history of the sport. It is something entirely new and different and has been sanctioned in its entirety by the North Central conference executive committee. The contest is being sponsored by the coaches in an attempt to make up a possible shortage in next year's budget ,and at the same time to give them somewhat of a line on their prospects for the next regular football season's squad.

The game was originally scheduled for Monday evening but due to the fact that the stadium is then to be occupied by a group from the city of Grand Forks, the playing time had to be postponed. It would be ideal if this school could arrange to have a cheering sec-tion in the grand stand that night, as t always helps the boys considerably. The senior members of the two squads are not to be used, but both aggregatons have some valuable material in their freshmen, and these men will bear the brunt of the action.

It seems as though someone in the institution has been taking what has been said in this column regarding the Bison-Sioux football contest a little too seriously As you know, the fall game is about five months away, and most anything can happen between now and then. However, the "damage," if one can call if that, has already been done. We have in mind the statement that er is still unknown) some enter-rising collegian got into an argu-ment with one in this city who ment with one in this city who knows his sports and who has the "contacts" that enable him to "spike" all rumors that are untrue, etc., and other thing if necessary. Well, anyhow, the said argument ended up with a curse from the "knowing one" upon the heads of the poor collegiate newspaper men and their inabilities to make the proper statements at the proper times. Well, all we have to say

Ancient North Dakota Rivals To Clash At Grand Forks In Pre-season Struggle

SCHEDULED FOR MAY 31

First Spring Game Between Two Schools In North Central Conference History

The rivalry between the North Da-kota State college and North Dakota University football squads will begin earlier than usual this year, as the two teams clash in a regular game in the university stadium at Grand Forks on Tuesday, May 23. This will mark the first spring game ever played between two schools in the North Central com-Epsilon, Alpha Gamma Rho, and Al-pha Tau Omega each with a perfect two schools in the North Central conference.

Under the rulings of the North Cen-North Dakota Memorial Stadium This year, the athletic directors of the two 20 spring practice workouts, and this game at Grand Forks will' come as a climax to their spring training period. Both schools will have their nineteenth practice this week in the form of a practice game. The State college Bison marked theirs with the Yellow and Green game held last Wednesday and the Sioux held their game this week under the title of the Green and Alpha Sigma Taus who forfeited their game. The Theta Chis swamped the White game. Permission to hold this game was given by the North Central conference authorities in view of the fact that this will merely mark the ordinary windup of their spring training period, allotted to all colleges in the conference. The only eligibility requirements are that no seniors will play in the setto, and only players who will be eligible for the squads next fall may participate in the game.

It is hoped by this game that addi-tional revenue can be obtained for the Tau tcam. an 18 to 12 triumph over the Sigma Tau team. Yellow Team Scores 6-0 Wins Over Green

Team Makes Lone Counter On May To Hanson Pass In Squad Game

The anual intrasquad football game proved to be an extremely interesting clash despite the heat and sultry wea-ther, and the more experienced Yellow team had to fight hard to squeeze out a 6 to 0 win over the Green team, last Wednesday afternoon.

The Yellow team pushed hard enough to place them within scoring distance several times, but it was only after George May threw a long pass to Fritz Hanson in the end zone that they manage dto make a counter. The Green team which appeared to be slightly inferior to the Yellow squad made a very fine showing, and showed did exceptionally good work in the M. that it had contained in it some very able football players.

Acey Olson and Bud Marquardt the playing plenty tough for any other wingmen they may meet, and during the game Beryl Newman and Don Boettchen showed that the Bison mentors need not worry for reserve material at the flanks.

Roman Meyers played a very fine game at the tackle position and indi-cated that he will become just as fine a tackle as he was a wingman. With Neville Reiners, Leonard House, Earl Thomas and Buff Thompson the 1933 Bison squad should have plenty of strength in the line.

The Yellow backfield made up of Fritz Hanson, Wendell Schollander, George May and Bill Gove gave every sign that next fall's football team should have a very fast and strong backfield, with Schranz and Gerteis as very excellent reserve material.

12 Firsts At Moorhead North Dakota State College Squad Participates In MSTC Tournament Although the North Dakota State

track squad was not allowed to go into active competition with other schools who were represented at the invitational track meet held at Moor-head State Teachers college last Friday and Saturday they carried off 12 out of 15 first places, according to Coach L. T. Saalwaechter.

Saalwaechter further stated that he was more than pleased with the performance that his charges made at the meet. Bad weather during track practice as well as the conflict with spring football training were disadvantages as far as a complete training period for the tracksters was concerned, yet they all made considerable improvement over their style at the beginning of track season.

Fritz Hanson was up to his true form and class by again tearing off the 100 yard dash in 10 flat, and the 220 in 22.6 to take first place in both events. John Warner finished the mile and two mile run to take first place and Floyd Storms followed him closely to take second in the same runs. Bud Marquardt swung into his usual stride to capture first place in the high and low hurdles. Burt Anderson took sec-ond in the low hurdles, and Art Habener placed third in the high hurdles. Carmen Hunt, who has been a sturdy S. T. C. meet by placing first in the broad jump, second in the javelin, and first in the shot put. Viv McKay took first place in the discus by making the neat throw of 126 feet and eight inches. Emmett O'Day by clearing the bar at 11 feet captured first place in the pole vault.

The track men are now looking forward to the conference meet which is to be held in Grand Forks on May 26 and 27. No definite announcements have been made at this time as to who will constitute the squad at the conference meet, but the notice will probably be made early next week.
