Three Honorary Groups Sponsor Public Awards

Phi Kappa Phi, Blue Key, Senior Staff Groups Honor New Members of Year

EUROPE BOOTH'S SUBJECT

Organizations Give Scholarships, Make Freshmen Awards At Convocations

Two convocations are set aside for three honorary fraternities to recognize new members and award scholarships next week.

Sigma Alpha Iota, national music fraternity, will furnish vocal and string numbers for the Phi Kappa Phi program.

The organization will present its senior members to the student body. An added feature will be vocal music by Mrs. Helen Berquist Person.

Pres. J. H. Shepperd will address students at the Blue Key-Senior Staff recognition exercises Thursday. New members will be called from the student body by both groups following the address.

As an innovation this year Blue Key is sponsoring a scholarship to be awarded to a junior man of good character, creative ability, and who indicates traits of leadership.

This convocation will have a platoon from the cadet corps, color bearers, and the Gold Star band to assist in the program.

All College Day Is Planned By Students Wednesday, May 17

Football Game, Lilac Pageant, College Dance Included In Day's Program

At the request of the Blue Key fraternity and the Senior Staff, an all-college day will be initiated into the State college calendar on Wednesday, May 17.

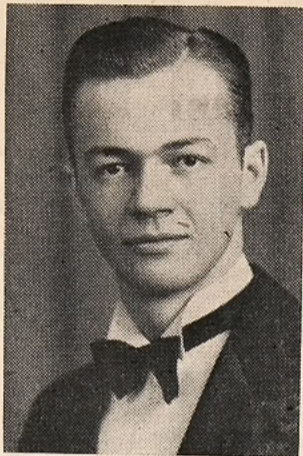

Because the day's activities do not begin until noon, the morning classes will convene in normal sequence. At twelve a free lunch will be served in Festival hall to all college students.

To climax the spring football season, two teams, the Greens and the Yellows, will battle in the athletic field at two thirty. All fraternities and sororities on the campus will hold an open house following the game.

The class in pageantry, under the direction of A. G. Arvold of the public discussion department, will conduct the festive activities from five until seven. The street in front of Old Main will be lined with bleachers in order that several thousand people will be able to view the crowning of a queen yet to be selected.

Culminating the day's activities will be a all-college dance at 8:00 o'clock in Festival hall.

F. McCutcheon Is Honored By Duke University

Advanced Student At State College Picked Among 1200 Applicants

F. Harold McCutcheon, having been selected from among nearly 1200 applicants for the position of assistant in zoology at Duke university, has recently signified his intention of accepting the offer.

His appointment is quite a signal honor at Duke university, situated in North Carolina, is one of the wealthiest schools in the country, and is rapidly acquiring a name in the scientific world.

Mr. McCutcheon attended Lombard college and the University of Illinois, receiving his bachelor's degree from North Dakota State college last year.

At the present time he is completing his work for a master's degree which he will receive here this June. His research has been concerned with the method of respiration in grasshoppers, and his thesis, titled "Respiratory Function in Orthoptera," presents a new principle of respiration for insects in this group.

This is the second time a graduate student of North Dakota State college has been honored by selection for an assistantship. A. N. Solberg and F. H. McCutcheon, both of the department of zoology, have received probably the choicest appointments that the country affords at the present time.

All seniors are urged to try out for the class play, "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh" on Monday and Tuesday from 3:00 until 5:00 in the Little Country theater.

Monson, Parrott, Nichols, Hamry Head Publications

Gale Monson and Robert Parrott for The Spectrum and Jane Nichols and Kenneth Hamry for the Bison were elected editors-in-chief and business managers, respectively, for the coming year at a meeting of the board of control of student publications late Wednesday.

There were nine candidates for the four positions offered and qualifications and recommendations of the various aspirants to the publication directorships were considered in three special meetings of the board during the past two weeks.

Having been active in journalism circles at North Dakota State college during the past two years, Gale Monson will be editor-in-chief of The Spectrum next year, taking active charge of the publication on the last issue of this year.

State Graduate Is Chosen For Math Fellowship

Thomas Palmerlee Wins Place at North Carolina; 1000 Send Applications

Added to the list of North Dakota State college graduates who have accepted teaching fellowships in leading schools this year is the name of Thomas Palmerlee, '29. Mr. Palmerlee, who has spent the past two years in attending Kansas university in doing work for a masters' degree in mathematics, recently accepted the fellowship from North Carolina university at Chapel Hill, N. C.

Being appointed among the select 26 to receive fellowships from the well-acclaimed southern university, Mr. Palmerlee has the distinction of being among the chosen few out of approximately 1000 applicants. He had been taking his master's degree work under a fellowship arrangement at the Kansas institution also.

Mathematics was Mr. Palmerlee's major while a student at North Dakota State college, he having received his degree in 1929. Following his graduation he taught for two years at Malta, Montana, going on to further his studies in the science when offered the opportunity at Kansas university. His brother, Albert, who graduated at the same time and also with a major in mathematics, has been taking advanced work at Kansas.

While in college Mr. Palmerlee maintained an excellent scholastic record and was a member of Phi Kappa Phi and Pi Gamma Mu fraternities. Both he and his brother were members of the Bison rifle team, which won the National Intercollegiate rifle title for two years in succession.

Journalism Fraternity Holds Pledge Services

Gamma Tau Sigma, national honorary journalism fraternity, will hold formal pledging services for Charles Christensen and Kenneth Hamry at their meeting Monday noon in Ceres hall, according to Gerald Garlid, president.

Annual election of new officers, with nominations by the committee of retiring officers, Gerald Garlid, Gale Monson, and John Thorsell, will follow in the regular business meeting.

NOTICE

Orders for caps and gowns must be placed before May 8. Since the college bookstore is handling the cap and gown ordering without any charge, it behooves the senior class to respond with cooperation. At the time of ordering each senior must place a deposit of $2.40, 50c of which will be returned if the caps and gowns are turned in not later than June 5.

Delegates Conclude Business At Annual Two-Day Convention

State College Representatives Return To Campus From Press Conference

Having adopted a constitution, elected officers for the coming year, and designated the scene for the 1934 convention, various delegates of the North Central Intercollegiate Press association concluded the business sessions of the two day meet at the University of North Dakota, last Saturday afternoon.

The main business of the convention was the passage of the first definite constitution in the history of the association. The constitution in the main was the same as suggested by George Toman, one of the North Dakota State college delegates. Among the provisions was the adoption of a governing board of five members, to be selected from the host school, the setting up of an office of secretary-treasurer with the main duty of issuing monthly bulletins to every member of the press association.

Military Inspection Of State College Corps Conducted May 17-19

Colonel Richard McMaster And Major Rhodes Arnold Inspect Troops

The annual inspection of the North Dakota State college battalion of the Reserve Officers Training Corps by detailed regular army officers will be conducted Wednesday through Friday, May 17-19.

Officers detailed to inspection are Col. Richard H. McMaster, field artillery U. S. Army, and Maj. Rhodes F. Arnold, infantry U. S. Army. Colonel McMaster is the 7th Corps Area R. O. T. C. officer, having succeeded Colonel Moorman who conducted the inspection of the corps during the last two years. Colonel McMaster enlisted as a private of infantry in 1895, serving in each successive rank to that of full colonel. He is a graduate of the army war college, the Army Staff college, and is a distinguished student in the Army school of the line.

Major Arnold served in the Missouri National Guard during the Mexican threat of 1916. Serving as a captain in the National army during the late war, he was appointed first lieutenant in the regular army after the armistice. Major Arnold is now on duty at Fargo as instructor for the North Dakota National Guard.

Examination of classes will be conducted on the 17th and 18th of May, and will include all subjects both theoretical and practical, studied during the entire year.

Colonel McMaster will formally inspect the entire cadet corps on the campus near the library on the afternoon of May 19. Culmination of the inspection will be in the form of a combat problem utilizing the entire cadet corps.

S. W. Hagan Named Secretary By State Administration Board

S. W. Hagan, Fargo, has been appointed secretary of the North Dakota State college by the state board of administration at Bismarck to succeed the late H. W. McArdle, according to an announcement made today by Dr. J. H. Shepperd, college president.

Secretarial duties will be assumed by Hagan on July 1, 1933. The position will be occupied until that time by F. C. Householder, associate professor of mathematics, who has been given the post temporarily.

Graduating from the National College of Chiropractics at Chicago, Ill., in 1928, Hagan has spent the past four years pursuing his profession in Fargo. He received one year of college training at St. Thomas university, St. Paul, Minn., and in addition has studied political and social science for two years at this college. He attended a business administration school while in Chicago several years ago. He is a graduate of the Bismarck high school.

Hagan was born at Deering, N. Dak. He is the son of John N. Hagan, formerly state commissioner of agriculture and labor and at present federal deputy prohibition administrator for North Dakota with offices at Fargo. He is married and has one daughter four years of age.

Major Booth Grants Reporter Interview

"American college students show an academic interest in international problems, but they fail to link these problems up with their own economic welfare."

Major Booth, author and authority on international problems, came to this campus two weeks ago to deliver a series of lectures under the auspices of the Carnegie Endowment Fund for International Peace.

Major Booth qualified his first remark with the assertion that in Eastern colleges the students show a distinct tendency toward pacifism.

Regarding prohibition the English lecturer stated his attitude clearly and unequivocally.

"As a British subject and as a religious man, I have always and will always oppose prohibition or any other attempt to legislate people into the kingdom of Heaven," he announced.

Educated at St. Andrews college, Loyola university, and the Faculte de Droit and a member of the Royal Institute of International Affairs at London, Major Booth has spent his time since the close of the World war in central and southwestern Europe studying political problems.

He served as an observer in the Riffian war in Morocco between Abd Krim and the Spanish and French. Author of "Italy's Aegean Possessions," a book dealing with the political and economic conditions in the Italian Islands in the Aegean sea, he has for the past five years been coming to America to address international relations clubs and has spoken in one hundred and fifteen American universities.

Major Booth is slender, of medium height with dark brown hair and a genial smile. His deferential attitude and subtle sense of humor have won the admiration and friendship of all who have come in contact with him on this campus.

SPECTRUM CRITIC

A new Maurice Chevalier—a Chevalier of bedroom slippers and fireside romance—makes his appearance in "A Bedtime Story," latest of the French star's pictures, which opens Monday at the Fargo theater.

Maurice is still the gay and debonaire chap—but he keeps his gaiety and his debonaire manner near the hearth in this picture, instead of parading it around the world, as he has in the past.

Beginning Wednesday the Fargo theater has a big surprise for theater goers, when undoubtedly the most sensational story ever written about Washington, "Gabriel Over the White House," will open its run there.

Walter Huston triumphs with a great performance as President Jud Hammond and in a series of scenes as realistic as newsreels forces congress to give him the power of dictator.

Frank Buck's "Bring 'Em Back Alive" has been rated as an authentic jungle film and is now showing at the Roxy theater.

"Hollywood Speaks," showing next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Roxy theater displays the cinema city in the aspects of bright lights, popular stars, and gala first showings.

"Rabbit Rarities", annual college vaudeville production at South Dakota State, was presented Friday.

TAU DELTA PI HOLDS INITIATION IN EIGHT

Tau Delta Pi, honorary engineering fraternity, announces the formal initiation of John Gassman, Valley City; Clyde Townsend, Moorhead; Kermit Anderson, Fargo; Vincent Buck, Fargo; Kenneth Haugrud, Fargo; Raymond Cruden, McHenry; Paul Deal, Starkweather; and John Gabe, Taylor.

Services were held in the Alumni club room Tuesday evening, April 25, at 7:30 with Edward Comm officiating. New members were elected on a basis of scholarship, sociability, and practicability from the students in the upper one-fourth of the junior and senior engineering classes.

Coaches Pleased With Showing Of Charges

CANDIDATES SHOW MUCH PROMISE IN SPRING WORKOUT

35-40 Men Report Daily To Mentors At Field In Practice

C. C. Finnegan, athletic director and head football coach at the North Dakota State college, and his assistants, Bob Lowe and Pete Gergen, are very pleased with the progress that their charges have made during the past two weeks in the spring training program that is allowed them by the North Central conference ruling.

Although the ranks of the squad have been somewhat depleted by the participation of members in other forms of spring sports, there have been 35 to 40 candidates reporting each afternoon. The mentors are making a few changes in the veteran lineup that gained national recognition last fall in order to replace the seniors who will not be with the team next season, and also to make room for some of the members of the last year's freshman squad.

Meyers To Tackle

One of the principal changes that the coaches have been trying out and which is working very satisfactorily, has been to switch Roman Meyers to a tackle position. Last season Meyers was given an end berth on the all-conference selection sponsored by the coaches of the loop. Herb Peschel, who replaced Schoenfelder last season at the other tackle post, has been handicapped somewhat by a bad knee, but has proven by the work that he has done that he will make the going plenty tough for any of his competitors.

Buff Thompson, who played a regular guard position last fall is being worked in at the pivot post to take the place of Bob Paris, who will be lost through graduation. Thompson will be hard pushed by Earl Thomas, reserve center from last season's team, and Stan Maynard, center on the 1933 freshman team. Maynard is also being worked in at an end post, where his height will be more adaptable. Besides Meyers and Peschel, the Bison mentor has Jimmie Creighton, one of last season's reserves, and Sam Doberovich from the freshman ranks who is showing much promise.

Guards Plentiful

In the pre-season workouts, the coaches feel that they have plenty of material available for the guard positions. Harold Miller, Leonard House, and Harve Erlenmeyer, three men who saw considerable service last fall in the regular line, are on hand and are demonstrating plenty of ability. Richard Van Hook, who will be in uniform for his third year, and Neville Reiners will afford plenty of opposition for the posts.

At present the ends are somewhat of a puzzle. Captain-elect Milton Jacobson did not return to school this spring, and this has complicated the smoothness of the entire machine. Bud Marquardt, who has displayed an uncanny ability for grabbing passes, is out for varsity track and is also lost to the spring practice. Acey Olson and Beryl Newman have teamed with Maynard and Jim Connolly to hold down the flank posts.

Backfield Strong

The backfield candidates appear to be the strongest that have ever invaded the school, and while it seems as though the regular positions will be a junior class proposition, the regulars are bound to be pressed for honors by incoming sophomores.

Fritz Hanson, the Bison speed ace, is up to his regular form, and will prove an invaluable aid to the team through his passing ability, which is being developed rapidly. Wendell Schollander, who did considerable passing last year, is being groomed for the quarterback berth.

Teaming with these men, the mentors will have the services of Bill (Shifty) Gove, Erling Schranz, Leo Gerteis, Arthur Stege, Arthur Skurdal, all who will be juniors next year, and Ralph Isensee and George Moore, who will be sophomores, but who will be in very competitive moods.

Sport Shots

The fact that the school year has been cut short by the elimination of several of the holidays that the students of this college had previously enjoyed, has placed the athletic department in the middle of a "rush season."

Mid-quarter examinations are over, and the football mentors are at the half-way mark in their spring workouts, and are going to be pushed for the time which will be necessary in order to get in the intramural track, baseball, and golf sessions that have been planned for the school.

There are only four weeks of school remaining, and so far the last three schedules have been held up for the finish of the grid training.

Many of the men who are interested in this sport are also valuable cogs in their respective fraternity's track and baseball teams.

THE GOLF TOURNAMENT WHICH WAS ANNOUNCED TWO WEEKS AGO IS READY TO START. THERE ARE 15 MEN SIGNED UP FOR IT, AND THE LOWEST SCORE IN THE FIELD WINS THE HONORS.

Full details of the meet have been announced by C. C. Finnegan, and should appear somewhere in this issue of the paper.

As far as the Inter-fraternity baseball is concerned, there have been no definite announcements made by the athletic director but he expects to have the schedule under way as soon as possible.

The fireworks should start not later than a week from Monday, so as to afford plenty of playing time, and an allowance for the inclement weather that is ever present in a tournament of this kind.

The organization of the league will probably take place some time during the latter part of next week.

IT WOULD SEEM AS THOUGH THE TRACK INTERESTS AT THIS SCHOOL WERE GRADUALLY DYING OUT, AT LEAST IF THE NUMBER OF MEN THAT ARE OUT FOR THEIR DAILY WORKOUTS IS GIVEN ANY CONSIDERATION.

Of course, this is an exceptional year, and all that goes with it, but surely an institution such as North Dakota State, with an enrollment of approximately 600 men students, should have more than 10 or 20 track aspirants.

There should be not less than 50 candidates contesting for places on the varsity squad.

These inferiority complexes are great things for individuals to have, but not for any of the persons who are now attending classes in this school that have any inclination towards track work of any kind.

For those who have been bothered in this manner up to this time all we have to say is that there is still plenty of time to get into fair shape for the coming Interfraternity track meet, and that they should get started for this one event this year.

THE FUTURE OF TRACK AT THIS SCHOOL DEPENDS UPON IT. And, who knows but what a small beginning of this kind for this season

TRACK MEN ENTERED IN DAKOTA RELAYS

Next week, Friday and Saturday, several of North Dakota State's most promising track athletes will be present at the annual Dakota Relays, which will be held in Sioux Falls, S. Dak.

Just who will comprise the team is as yet undecided, according to the reports given out by the athletic department late last evening. However, C. C. Finnegan expects to know definitely the first part of the week.

This year will be the first time in several years that State will not be represented in the relay division of the meet. Those who will be entered will be in the special feature races in connection with the relays.

Athletic Department Sponsors Tournament For College Golfers

Play Is Under Supervision Of Ralph Kingsrud, Edgewood Club Professional

The athletic department of North Dakota State college is sponsoring the annual spring golf tournament and according to information received from Casey Finnegan athletic director, a suitable award will be given to winners of this year's golf tourney.

Ralph Kingsrud, professional golf player at the Edgewood club is in charge of the scores and final playoffs. All players must report to Ralph Kingsrud before starting on their play, and at the close all the score cards must be turned over to him.

The contest is a thirty-six hole medal play and the first eighteen holes must be played before May 5, and the remaining eighteen holes must be finished before May 13.

At present there are fifteen men who have signed up to compete in this golf match, and from indications it appears that several more will sign up before the end of the week. It has been told to all players that the contest is to be played under tournament rules and winter rules are in force on the fairways.

"The Creightonian seems shocked at the fact revealed by a questionnaire filled out by the men of the University of California, that there were nine un-kissed men in the college." Oh give 'em time, we say.

Al. Mortenson, Faith, North Dakota, was a guest at the Alpha Gamma Rho house the past week end.

may mean quite a bit in years to come.

The history of track has shown us that all cinder-path advocates are not born, several have been made.

This call is being made not only for the upperclassmen but all men. Special emphasis is placed upon the announcement for the freshmen and sophomores, as the number of these men already interested is in a sad predicament.

was named president of the press association. George Toman, North Dakota State college, was named vice-president and Walter Landmann, South Dakota university, secretary-treasurer and editor of the N. C. I. P. A. member bulletins for the coming year.

Accepting the invitation of the delegation from South Dakota university, the convention decided that Vermillion, home city of that university, would be the place of the 1934 convention. Introduction of a convention fee was voted to be optional with the association board of control for the next annual meeting.

Speakers on Program

Other features of the two day convention included three banquets open to the visiting delegates, two association dinners and a Sigma Delta Chi affair on Saturday. Among speakers who addressed the delegates were Dr. J. M. Gillette, Dr. R. S. Forsythe, Joseph Mader, Jr., and O. J. Buttedal of the faculty at the University and former Congressman O. B. Burtness. Inspection tours were made of various features of the campus and of The Dakota Student editorial and printing offices.

Three conference schools were not represented at the meeting. South Dakota university sent as delegates, Clarence Nash, business manager; Craig Shouse, editor; ad Walter Landmann, all of The Volante, college weekly. North Dakota State's delegation included Howard Kilbourne, George Toman, William MacDonald, Robert Connolly, Gerald Garlid and Marjory Archer.

Direct charge of the convention was taken through Hugh Moore, retiring managing editor of The Student, and assistantship was carried on by Bob Schonberger, former Student sports editor. A constant, instructive and varied program marked the two days of convention.

Generalizations: Among our exchanges we find items on the following subjects: Beer, finals, spring football, other sports including especially baseball, track, new editors for campus publications, and winners of intramural basketball championships.

Marjory Oglvie, Helen Larabo, and Maxine Rustad were guests at the Kappa Delta apartment Monday evening.

Hanson, Eckstrom Conduct Research

Two research problems are being studied at the present time in the department of physical chemistry under the direction of Dr. D. S. Dedrick, head of that department. These are the determination of interfacial tensions between various salt solutions; and the study of the vapor pressures of mixed solvents.

Maurice Hanson has recently finished obtaining certain data on interfacial tensions which he has incorporated into his thesis for his master's degree to be received in June. Mr. Hanson presented a paper on his problem before the North Dakota Academy of Science in the spring of 1932.

Interfacial tensions are of importance in the preparation and stabilization of emulsions, and it is hoped that a better explanation of the formation of emulsions will be obtained from the data secured in these experiments.

The study of the vapor pressures of mixed solvents constitutes a problem primarily of theoretical importance involving the determination of various thermodynamic and mathematical principles. Hartley Eckstrom, a senior in the school of chemistry, is doing research work on this problem.

Physical chemistry necessitates very accurate measurements of physical properties, and requires the use of extensive apparatus. Since the purchase of the required equipment would be a financial impossibility, the research men have been forced to construct their own apparatus.

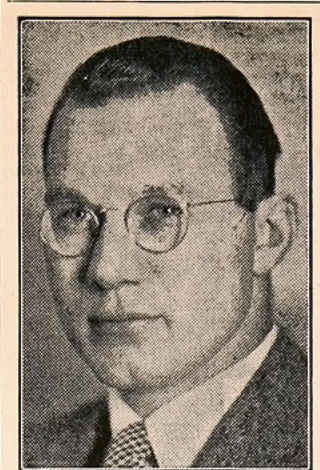

Hanson built the interfacial tension apparatus and with it has been able to check known values consistently to within 1%. The apparatus records the number of drops falling from a tip on a revolving drum in such a manner that it is wholly automatic in its operation.

State College Representatives Return From Convention At Jamestown School

Harry Hanson, president of the State college "Y," was elected state president of the 1932 North Dakota YM-YW State Student conference last weekend when a delegation of eleven people from North Dakota State college traveled to Jamestown to attend the annual conference.

Marlen Loehkre, University of North Dakota, was elected State YMCA vice president and Elizabeth White, Minot State Teachers college, state YWCA president.

North Dakota State college was represented by Harry Hanson, Alfred Bolwig, Earl Anderson, Erling Thorson, general secretary of the college YMCA, and Dr. W. C. Hunter, a discussion leader at the conference. Girls representing the YW organization were Margaret Dadey, Ruth Clausen, Luella Furcht, Theima Leissman, Imogene Ward, and Mrs. Carl Teet, general secretary of the YWCA.

This convention, which was attended by seven North Dakota institutions, included delegates from the State college, University, Ellendale Normal and Industrial school and State Teachers colleges at Minot, Valley City, Jamestown and Mayville.

Dr. E. E. Aubrey, University of Chicago, was the leader of the convention which had for its theme, "What Next For Me?" Dr. W. C. Hunter was re-elected treasurer of the conference.

Present conditions indicate that a meeting will be held in Fargo some time before the next conference in order to discuss plans for the 1934 session. Harry Hanson will be in charge of the assembly in Fargo.
