LILLIAN LINDSEY FIRST IN LINE AT MILITARY BALL ON FEBRUARY 27

Home Economics Senior Guest Of Stanley Thompson At Annual Function

MISS RAPHAEL IS SECOND

Miss Clausen, Miss Plaggmeir Are Third and Fourth In Grand March

Miss Lillian Lindsey, Page, as the guest of Stanley Thompson, Fargo, ball manager, will lead the grand march at the Military ball on Friday evening, Feb. 27. Miss Lindsey, a senior in the school of home economics, is affiliated with Kappa Kappa Gamma, Women's Athletic association, and the college YWCA.

LeRoy Chloupek, Dilworth, Minn., assistant manager of the ball, will be second in line with Miss Beatrice Raphael, also of Dilworth, as his partner.

Third in line will be Miss Rhoda Clausen, Fargo, guest of Edward Comm, Fargo. Miss Clausen is a junior in the school of science and literature. She is a platoon sponsor of the College ROTC corps, and a member of Guidon, honorary military sorority.

Miss Frances Plaggmeir, Werner, with Earl Grove, Morris, Minn., will be fourth in line at the grand march. Miss Plaggmeir is a junior in the school of home economics, and is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

The ball, an annual formal function sponsored by the local unit of Scabbard and Blade, honorary military organization, will be held in the Crystal ballroom in Fargo, with the New Red Jackets furnishing the music.

A window display in downtown business places is being planned by the managers of the affair. Tickets can now be obtained from the College Bookstore, the Cook Drug Co., the Service Drug Store, and all members of Scabbard and Blade.

A list of guests at the ball will be published in a later issue of The Spectrum, it was announced today by Robert Connolly, editor-in-chief.

State College Group Gives P.T.A. Program

Debate Between Frieda Panimon And Edward McArdle To Feature Presentation

Featuring a debate on the question, "Resolved that at least one half of all revenues for state and local purposes should come from sources other than real estate and property taxes," a group of students from the North Dakota State college will present a varied program before the Parent-Teachers association of the Washington school at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Frieda Panimon will argue the affirmative of this question which is one of the subjects for intercollegiate debates this season, against Edward McArdle.

The remainder of the program includes vocal selections by Caroline Hendrickson, accompanied, by Esther Jepson. Ward McCabe will give a reading and Carol Ladwig and Carol Cooper will present a dance. The program is under the direction of Don Hay and Alice Bender, instructors in the department of public discussion.

Helen Pease, Ruth Foote, Marian Wagness were dinner guests at the Phi Omega Pi house Monday night.

LEO ANDERSON GOES TO YMCA COUNCIL MEETING TO BE HELD IN CHICAGO

Head of Local Organization Will Attend Executive Body Session Feb. 2, 3, 4

REPRESENTS TWO STATES

Students To Draw Up Plans For Next Annual Geneva Conference of Group

Leo Anderson, president of the college YMCA for the past two years, will represent the student section of the YMCA in North and South Dakota at a meeting of the executive council of the northwest area of the student YMCA in Chicago on Feb. 2, 3, and 4 to make plans and arrange the program for the Geneva conference of the area held annually at Lake Geneva, Wis.

Mr. Anderson is one of the executive council of ten, chosen each year at the Geneva conference. He is the first member from either South or North Dakota to be so honored. In addition to being president of the local YMCA for the past two years, he has been vice president of the state student YMCA and membership chairman of the college cabinet.

The northwest area of the national student YMCA, to which the State college "Y" belongs, consists of all student YMCAs in North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, Iowa, and Indiana. William Yates, of Ohio Wesleyan, is acting chairman of the executive council, which includes besides the ten students mentioned above, a selected group of YMCA general secretaries and faculty members.

Nelson Sauvain, chairman of the State Board of Administrations, discussed the salary reductions that would affect faculty members of North Dakota State college, as provided for in the measure initiated in the last general election, at an informal meeting of the faculty, Friday evening.

Bison Brevities Presentation Set For February 27, 28 By Blue Key

DR. METZINGER WILL ADDRESS GERMAN CLUB

With a talk in the German language on "Varying Aspects of German and American University Life," by Dr. Leon Metzinger, head of the department of modern languages, Delta Beta, college German club, will hold its first meeting of the winter term in the Y. M. C. A. Thursday at 7:45.

A very brief business meeting will be followed by a program which also includes German readings and folk songs.

All persons on the campus who are interested in the German language are cordially invited to attend. Refreshments will be served.

Saddle And Sirloin Has Annual Banquet

L. B. Humphrey, Chief of Animal Husbandry At Wisconsin, Speaks

The Saddle and Sirloin club, organization of students in the school of agriculture, will hold its annual banquet on Friday evening, Jan. 20, in the Ceres hall cafeteria, it was announced today by Lars Jensen and Clayton Quinnild, students in charge of the arrangements.

L. B. Humphrey, chief of the animal husbandry department at the University of Wisconsin, has been secured as the chief speaker at the banquet. He will give an illustrated lecture on "Livestock Production South of the Equator." M. B. Johnson, member of the college experiment station staff in charge of range investigation in western North Dakota, will act as toastmaster.

During the evening, John Leakey, prominent Dickinson livestock man, will be honored by having his picture hung in the Saddle and Sirloin club Hall of Fame. Mr. Leakey will be present and will give a short talk to club members.

The Saddle and Sirloin club cooperates with the North Dakota Livestock association in staging these banquets.

Original Musical Comedy, "Sky High," Will Be Theme Rather Than Revue

JAMES KONEN IS DIRECTOR

Leading Characters and Dance Choruses Are Named For All-College Show

With rehearsals being organized during the past week, the Bison Brevities, annual all-college show of the North Dakota State college, is being prepared for presentation Feb. 27 and 28.

Dancing choruses, chosen before the Christmas vacation, are working under the direction of Ben Boyden, last year's dance director, and the singing chorus, which was chosen recently will begin intensive rehearsal during the coming week. Individual speaking parts are in charge of Richard Randlett. The show is rounding into shape rapidly, and, according to Ray Greenwood, manager of the production, indications point toward the best show ever presented by the Bison Brevities.

Breaking from the policy of former years, the Bison Brevities will present an original musical comedy, "Sky High," in place of the customary revue. The show has been adapted from a short story by Richard Hackenberg, former State college student, by Morris Olson. Olson has written the book and lyrics, while his brother, Henry Olson, wrote the musical score.

The story deals with the events at Sky High hotel, where Mary Lane, taken by Erllys Hill, is the clerk. Bill Horton, William Murphy, a young engineer, is attempting to complete a road through the mountains, but when his plans go wrong, and it appears that he will fail, Ilsa Mason, played by Veronta Wepler, to whom he is engaged, breaks the engagement, and a mix-up ensues. Jean Pote as Mrs. Henry P. Mason, and Betty and Jane Bristol as Maize and Dixie Mason, add complications to the plot. Lord Durham and his nephew, Algernon Depew, portrayed by Richard Randlett and Earl Grove, respectively, are guests at the hotel, and plan on attempting a mountain climb. Jane Nichols as Carrie Potts, the maid of all work, and Delivan Ross as Cash Potter, handy man and amateur detective, have the leading comedy roles. They are ably assisted by John Hamlet as the head bellhop.

Unusual lighting and effects are being planned by John Gabe and Lyle Phillips, who are in charge of that work. Margaret Dady, who costumed the choruses in last year's show, is in charge of the costumes again this year. Chester Comeau and Vincent Case are designing the scenery for the production. The remainder of the business staff are David Minard, in charge of ticket sales, and Charles Christensen, publicity manager. J. Clifford Konen is directing the show.

Little International Livestock Show Plans Are Making Progress

Many Students Enter In Stock Judging Contests, Say Show Managers

Plans for the eleventh presentation of the Little International Livestock show, a small replica of the International Livestock show held at Chicago, are progressing rapidly, and indications are that the show will be one of best staged at this college, according to Wayne Houtcooper, Garrison, manager.

Many students in the school of agriculture are fitting animals for entry in the stock judging contests, and this division of the show promises to be the most successful. In doing this work, students acquire valuable training in fitting and grooming animals for exhibition purposes, according to George Simons, Stanley, who is in charge of this division of the Little International show.

As a part of the program to be given at the show, a calf-roping contest between a member of the Periscope club and a member from the Lions club, Fargo service organizations, will be staged. The annual coed milking contest will again be given. Coeds who wish to enter this contest are asked to see William MacDonald, superintendent in charge. A group of Sioux Indians will be on hand to give the audience a demonstration of their tribal rituals, which should be of great interest to all present, according to Mr. Houtcooper. An orchestra will be engaged for the evening.

Prizes will be awarded to all winners of contests at the show. These prizes are contributed by downtown business men.

Assisting Mr. Houtcooper in producing the show is George Kafton, Harvey.

North Dakotan Is Mentioned As Cabinet Prospect

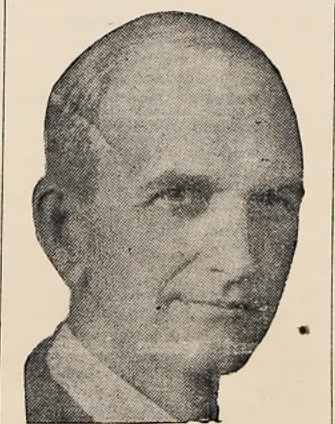

Cap E. Miller, Head of Dept. of Agricultural Economics, Cited For Post

While North Dakota, during 43 years of statehood, has never claimed a membership in a presidential cabinet, this year she presents an outstanding candidate for a post in the group to be selected as co-workers in the government by President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Numerous friends and prominent Democrats from numerous sections of the northwest have sent word to Governor Roosevelt of their hearty endorsement of Cap E. Miller, head of the agricultural economics department at North Dakota State college, as secretary of agriculture in the new administration. Detailed reasons for their endorsement of the veteran professor at this college have been outlined by each group sponsoring his candidacy.

Professor Miller's chances of selection on the cabinet are said to have been aided greatly by campaign statements of Mr. Roosevelt, who said that for this particular post, his cabinet member would be an agricultural leader and not a political leader. While Miller's status as a leader in farm activities is not questioned, he has not been ranked as a super-active political leader, although a lifelong worker in the Democratic party.

Though support from various leaders in California, Oregon, Ohio, Wisconsin and Illinois has already been extended Cap Miller, some of his greatest recognition as a plausible candidate for the cabinet position has centered in his early home state of Iowa. Iowa State College's Alumnus lists him prominently as a leading candidate and one of three graduated from that institution to be considered by the President-elect. In this article, which was republished in Iowa daily papers, Henry Wallace, a former Republican and editor of several farm publications, and Prof. M. L. Wilson of Montana State college, who has received notice for his farm work for the Soviet government but whose political affiliations are not definite as other prominent candidates. A number of friends and former townspeople in Iowa have sent petitions in the move sponsoring Mr. Miller's appointment.

A number of North Dakota publications have boosted for Mr. Miller. Among these may be mentioned the Bismarck Capital, which added the point that, "It has been pointed out by friends of Cap Miller that he is ideally fitted for the job of secretary of agriculture because his political activities Democratic in nature, have not been such that he is under any obligations to any one. He has no entangling alliances with any group, no pet schemes and no promises that would embarrass the administration in mapping out a new, different and better program for farm improvement."

The Richland County Farmer-Globe says: "We believe Cap E. Miller is the very type of agricultural leader that is needed for this responsible position at this critical time. His experience, energy, frugality, wide acquaintance, wisdom and vision fit him remarkably well to help President Roosevelt, Congress and the new administration to do something practical yet sane for the American farmer."

A short glimpse at the life activity of Cap Miller is considered an insight into the qualifications he has for the position as advisor in agricultural matters. Mr. Miller was born and reared on an Iowa farm; educated in Iowa public school and Iowa state educational institutions; student at Kansas State college of agriculture and University of Wisconsin; graduate of Iowa State college of agriculture 1917; county superintendent of schools, Keokuk county, Iowa, 7 years; candidate for State Superintendent of Public Instruction in Iowa, 1908; Professor of agricultural economics, N. D. S. C., 1918-1932; president of N. D. Society of Sons of the American Revolution two years, 1929-1930; president of Fargo Cosmopolitan Service club 1931; executive secretary-treasurer of Northwest Farm Managers association for many years—the oldest and largest farmers' organization of its kind on the American continent; author of Sod and Nod Stories for farmers and contributor to many of the farm journals throughout the United States at the present time; one of the Fargo delegates to the State Democratic convention, April 20, 1932; a member of executive committee of Cass county, N. D., Democratic committee; a member of executive committee of Fargo, N. D., Roosevelt-Garner club.

Lettermen Sponsors Of Dance Following Game Saturday Night

Athletes' Organization Holds Series of Four Parties During This Term

At a meeting which was held last night at 9:15 in the physical education building, the Lettermen's club decided to sponsor a dance Saturday night following the Bison-South Dakota university game. Walter (Dolly) Schoenfelder is in charge of the arrangements, and assisting him are Freddy Anderson, Viv McKay, and Bob Weir.

The party will be held in Festival hall and the dancing will start at 9:30, continuing until 11:30. This is the first of a series of four parties that will be sponsored by the organization during the winter term.

Messers and Mesdames R. A. Lowe, C. C. Finnegan, and L. T. Saalwaechter will act as chaperons for the affair.

At the meeting the club decided to change their parties from the Bowery type, which has always been used in previous years, to the general admission type.

A MESSAGE

As we work into the new year of activities we wish to pause to pay a humble tribute to the people who are our real sponsors in an effort to give the students a twice-weekly paper.

Mere words such as these can do little to show our real appreciation to these men and women in a concrete way. Our only aim is to bring this one fact before the attention of the student body at large and that is, that without the backing of these enterprises whose advertisements appear in our columns a college publication of this nature would not be possible. The question is, Just what are we driving at?

Support our advertisers as they support us. Give them your patronage whenever and wherever possible. Put their relations with us on a strictly business basis—give them money for money. Remember the ones who advertise in the columns of this paper when you make your purchases.

Our intention is not to write an endless drivel on sane relations with advertisers but to state authoritatively that business dealings with these people have all the hall marks of good salesmanship. As with all other commercial enterprises The Spectrum is feeling the effects of the much-discussed depression. The students have it in their power to help in a difficult situation; after all, if the paper has a deficit, the students will have to meet it. So again we say, patronize our advertisers.

OUR BASKETBALL TEAM

As a result of the recently completed invasion of Iowa, Missouri and Illinois, the North Dakota State college has received a great deal of good publicity that has traveled to many states and has come in contact with a great number of people.

We should rightly be proud of the showing that our 1933 basketball team has made for themselves and their school during the past two weeks, for their names have appeared in print in most of the Associated Press papers of the country. The results of their contests received full page headlines in the sport sections of such papers as the St. Louis Dispatch, Chicago Daily Tribune, Aurora Beacon News, Minneapolis Tribune and the Daily Illini.

All of these papers carried detailed stories of the various Bison contests, and most of the players received recognition. Coach Leonard Saalwaechter received a great deal of praise for the manner in which his team performed. Along this line, we would like to quote the lead of James M. Gould's story in the St. Louis Dispatch following the Bison win over the St. Louis university.

"They play pretty good basketball in the North Central conference, which, in the main is composed of schools in the Dakotas. This was shown last night when the North Dakota State college, champs of the northern group, taught the St. Louis university Billikins a lesson in speed and accuracy of shooting, and departed with a 23-17 victory."

From the Aurora Beacon News of Aurora, Ill., we received the following:

"North Dakota State's beautifully polished basketball team defeated only 30-28 by the University of Illinois, last night defeated North Central college 35-31 in a brilliant game."

As for the contest with James Millikin university, the Illini Daily also mentioned the capable shooting of the North Dakota State squad in the resume of the nip and tuck battle:

"Immediately after the half, Mickelson looped two field goals and Olson accounted for one to give North Dakota a 17-14 lead. Millikin soon regained the lead, however, only to see it vanish before the deadly shooting of Denenny, Olson, and McKay."

The Bison victory over the University of Iowa was one of the biggest upsets of pre-season contests in the Big Ten association, as the University had been undefeated, and more than that, they had just defeated a strong quint from Carleton without the aid of their two stars, Blackmer and Break. However, the Herd settled down to some consistent basketball playing and won by a score of 21-17. Concerning this game, the Minneapolis Tribune says the following:

"Don Arthur was the outstanding player of the game on the offense, while Bob Weir, North Dakota State center, was conspicuous with three baskets and a free throw, the only other Bison markers."

And with these quotations of praise that have been given to our basketball coach and squad, we would like to take this opportunity to congratulate them on the results of their successful trip and to wish them the greatest possible success in their conference race which is about to begin.

ROWDY REMARKS

Who is singing "Here It Is Monday and I Still Got a Dollar"—?

We only heard—but they say they're serving Gamma Phi and Kappas at Onesjay's now.

We'd like to make a crack about those social highshots seen in Brown's at the finale of last term—but we're sworn to secrecy—due to hush slush which someone else received.

Since that season is here they say that "Bunker" Hill (independent player supreme) is all wrapped up in basketball—looks as though he'd swallowed one!!

Sig Taus are said to be going in for the matrimonies—one with wedding bells and the other dishing out diamonds to an ex-Gamma Phi.

The Bison have another title—"Downstaters"—its continued repetition by "U" sports writers is beginning to become a gripe.

And Phi Mus still attempt to lead fraternity pledges astray—"come on over and bring some more men, too."

Have you heard the latest gag pulled by certain listless ladies—in these depressing times once in a while the Greek letter boys have to pawn their pins—and the gals buy them for decoys!

What town journalist typed ten pages of the best story he ever wrote—without benefit of paper? Why?

Among the latest reports on registration statistics we find that one fair co-ed on our campus has inveigled a Delta Tau into registering for 51 hours—18 for school and 33 for homework.

LAWRENCE BUE HEADS COSMOPOLITAN SOCIETY

Lawrence Bue, junior in the school of science and literature, was chosen president of the Cosmopolitan club at its second meeting of the school year Monday evening in the college Y. M. C. A. Other officers were Lillian Stollar, first vice president; Aloysius Hoffman, second vice president; Irene Gast, secretary; and Louis Bjornson, treasurer.

The newly reorganized club is open to all non-fraternity people on the campus. It will hold regular meetings at 7:30 every Monday night in the college Y. M. C. A.

DICKINSON RANCHER IS HONORED BY STUDENTS

John Leakey, prominent Dickinson rancher and livestock breeder, will be honored on Jan. 20 by having his picture hung in the Hall of Fame in the Saddle and Siroloin club room in the agriculture building. One North Dakota livestock breeder of distinction is selected by the club each year and is given distinction in this manner.

Mr. Leakey was born in Leakey, Texas in 1873. His parents died when he was fifteen years old, and he was left to fare as he could, making his way by working on cattle ranches. In 1893 he came to North Dakota, settling near Dickinson. In 1910 Mr. Leakey acquired a ranch, and by 1922 had increased his holdings to five thousand head of cattle and fifty thousand acres of land.

During the last ten years Mr. Leakey has been a member of the executive committee of the American National Livestock association, and is now a member of the general council of the same group. He has served as president of the Western North Dakota Livestock association since its founding.

Bishop States Social Reasons Not Economic Are Depression Cause

Minister Addresses Assembly On Creative Leadership In Bell Series

That the answer to the depression is not mechanics and technique, but an adjustment of social relations was the dominant theme of the talk given by Bishop Frederick B. Bartlett, bishop of the Episcopal church in North Dakota, on "Creative Leadership" at convocation Monday morning in Festival hall.

"I believe machinery has man absolutely licked," stated Bishop Bartlett, "and that by uncontrolled expansion." He alluded to the pessimistic outlook taken by the Hoover commission and the reports of the technocrats. He continued, "We could not stand the strain of the profit motive on which the whole of our social and economic structure is built."

"We have a problem of human relationships not of economics," he continued, and the solution is not material but spiritual. We face a new day, he says, and that a day not of excessive plenty, but one of simplicity.

Religion or the spiritual is the only factor in life that deals with the human element, says the Bishop, and it offers a cooperation between the forces of life.

In order to adjust the relations of man, we must raise to a level human personality, provide opportunity whereby every individual may be developed, accomplish a worldwide solidarity of mankind, and absolutely eliminate the profit motive in life. We must have a rediscovery of basic social values and a new spirit of justice and love for our fellow men.

In conclusion, Bishop Bartlett stressed the need for leaders and for cooperation between technicians and heads of other fields. We have mastered the machine, he says, but we are baffled by social relations.

The talk was the second of the series of eight offered in connection with the James F. Bell award for an idea created by constructive thinking, the idea to be of benefit to mankind.

BISON DEBATERS ARE DEFEATED BY MONTANA

Bowing before an exceptionally strong team composed of veterans, North Dakota State college representatives lost the first debate to Montana State college in a period of five years Saturday at Bozeman.

The decision was two to one against the Bison debaters, Al Buchli and Clifford Maloney, who upheld the negative side of the question, "Resolved, that the United States should agree to the cancellation of the inter-allied war debts."

According to the Bulletin and Gazette, a record crowd of more than one hundred attended the affair, which opened the 1932-33 intercollegiate season for the Montana team as well as for the Bison.

Next year, according to the terms of the agreement now existing between the two schools, Montana State will come to Fargo for the fourteenth annual encounter.

The Bison intercollegiate schedule for the year has not been definitely announced, but according to Don Hay, debate coach, the engagements with the University of North Dakota will take place some time in February.

On The Campus

SIGMA PHI DELTA, national engineering fraternity, granted Delta Pi, a fraternity founded on this campus in 1913, their national charter in 1928. This organization has a house at 1316 12th Ave. N.

Zeta chapter of PHI OMEGA PI, national social sorority, was recognized by the national organization in April, 1915. It was the first national social organization for women on the campus. The chapter house is located at 1223 11th Ave. N.

PHI MU, national social sorority, was established here in November 1932 as Zeta Iota chapter. This organization was formerly Alpha Xi Beta, organized in 1928.

Phi chapter of THETA CHI, national social fraternity, was formed from Alpha Mu in 1917. Alpha Mu, established in 1904, was the first social fraternity on the campus. The fraternity has a house at 1307 13th St. N.

SPECTRUM CRITIC

William Haines, Madge Evans and Cliff Edwards are responsible for the excellent humor and riotous acting found in "Fast Life," current movie at the State theater. It is a picture of motor boat racing, and is an ideal vehicle for the antics of the three stars named above.

Coming tomorrow and Thursday at the State are William Powell and Kay Francis in "One-Way Passage." These two have paired in several A-1 shows, and should duplicate their previous performances in this movie.

A picture in which battlefield reporters are glorified is playing at the Roxy theater the first half of this week, featuring Jack Holt, Lila Lee, and Ralph Graves. Graves, as a correspondent; Holt as an American soldier of fortune, who fights for big money in the aviation service of China, and Miss Lee as a slightly shopworn woman, who is first in love with Holt before transferring her affections to Graves, are the characters in this show, "The War Correspondent."

Maybe true love is not blind—but sometimes it's certainly cockeyed. See that Don Juan, Slim Summerville, rush the palpitating Zazu Pitts to the altar. He was, oh, so romantic, and she was oh, so sentimental—and a windfall of a million dollars tied the nuptial knot. Was that the happy ending? No—just the uproarious beginning of "They Just Had To Get Married," showing at the Fargo theater Thursday and Friday of this week.

The Universal films have again brought this clever comedy pair before the eyes of the nation's screen fans. Summerville's awkwardness is a perfect foil for Miss Pitts' lackadaisical nervousness, and as man and wife they are the center of a swift succession of hilarious situations. Miss Pitts has never before been given such an opportunity for the display of her pantomime.

At their regular monthly meeting to be held Thursday the members of the Tryota club will entertain all girls in the school of home economics. The program will be given by five girls of the club who will discuss their summer projects. Refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting. The place of meeting will be posted on the bulletin board at a later date.

STUDENT SPORT EDITOR PREDICTS SUCCESSFUL YEAR FOR N. D. TEAMS

Considers Bison and Sioux As Chief Contenders For Loop Title

By BOB SCHONBERGER
Dakota Student Sports Editor

Pre-season games indicate that the North Central basketball race will again be between the two North Dakota schools, with very little to choose between them.

North Dakota State, with three all-conference stars in its lineup, has worked up an exceptional record to date, with a victory over Iowa university to top it off. The Nodaks, on the other hand, have played at one well-known basketball school, knocking off Montana State in a pair of contests.

The Grand Forks school this year will present one of the highest-scoring outfits in the history of the loop, with all five of last year's regulars back for another season. The Bison base their main strength on their tight defense, although they can do plenty of scoring when it is needed.

The 53 to 52 victory of the Sioux over Dakota Wesleyan last week shows the type of basketball played at the university, but it also shows a weakness in defensive strength. Last year the same five was strong on defense, so the present inability to prevent baskets may be just a slump.

Led by Captain "Boomer" Dablow, the Nodaks work in for many shots, and miss few. Big Ted Meinhover, the six-foot-seven center, is the key man in both the offense and defense, while Jacobson and Mullen are two dead shots and are classed as the fastest and best ball-handling pair of forwards in the conference. Bernie Smith, at guard, needs no introduction to North Central fans. His work last year earned him an all-conference berth.

Bob Weir, Bison pivot, matches Meinhover in height and effectiveness, and last year held the high scoring crown in the loop. Don Arthur and Viv McKay, the other Bison all-conference men, can't be matched on any club in the section. Much is expected of Grant Mikkelson, sophomore guard, and Bob Marquardt, forward, who are improving rapidly with every game.

Reserve material favors the Bison. Olson and Denenny, in particular, are about on a par with the regulars. The Nodaks are counting almost entirely upon their five regulars, although Olson, Booth and Rip Dablow are good men. In a Bison-Sioux clash, however, the University will have nobody to replace Meinhover.

At present, any comparison of the two teams must be based entirely upon last season's performances, in which the Bison won the conference championship but lost three out of four games to the Nodaks. This weekend, however, will provide something tangible for the rail birds to hash out.

South Dakota university, with a lineup that in any other year would have to be considered conference favorites, meets North Dakota State Friday and the university Saturday. Although comparative scores mean little, the games will show the relative strength of the two quintets.

Our guess is that both North Dakota schools will win, although not by very much. The Bison game will probably be a low-scoring contest, with the university tilt providing much more scoring. The Bison, we think, will win by a score of 30 to 22, while the Nodaks will send the Coyotes home on the short end of a 38 to 29 score.

BOXING MEETING HELD YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

The first meeting of the men interested in boxing was held Monday afternoon at four o'clock in the physical education building.

Eighteen men were present at the meeting but there were several men who were on last year's boxing team that will be present at the next meeting.

As there is no regular boxing instructor this year, the men will receive training from the men who boxed last year with Walter Jahnke in general charge.

Americans with the idea that they can get rich quickly buy an average of thirty million dollars' worth of fraudulent stocks each week. The malady is so incurable that swindlers pay mailing-list houses five times as much for names of veteran victims as they do for those of new prospects.—Colliers'.

SAALWAECHTER COACH

Trip Highlights

Leonard T. Saalwaechter and his ten basketballers left Fargo at 8 a. m. the morning of December 16, in two cars, for Iowa City, Iowa, on the first leg of their journey.

They scouted the Iowa University-Carleton game, in which Iowa defeated Carleton by a score of 34-19. (The boys thought that it should have been 50-?).

Pulled into St. Louis, Mo., and learned that the University had the strongest team in the history of the school. They had defeated the Kansas Aggies, who in turn, had defeated the Kansas U. in two earlier games.

Played their scheduled game with St. Louis U., and the boys gave the Missourians one of the toughest battles that they had ever experienced. The ball was in possession of the State-men throughout the major portion of the contest, and they came out on the long end of the score which was 23-17.

The next move was to Chicago, where they spent four days in leisure and sight-seeing.

Worked out in the University of Illinois gymnasium on Friday, December 23, and Monday, December 26, and then moved on to Decatur, where they had two more workouts and a game with James Millikin university. The contest was waged in a small gym and the Bison eked out a 25-26 victory.

Drove into Chicago after the game and then the next morning they had to drive out to Champaign, Ill., for their game with the University of Illinois.

This game was played before most of the High School athletes of the state of Illinois, and the Bison came out on the short end of the score which was 24-26.

After the game, they journeyed to Naperville, Ill., where they dropped their second game of the trip to the unflinching shooters from Northwestern college. In this game, the boys from Northwestern college made good a larger percentage of their tries for baskets than had been made by any team that the Bison had encountered up to this time. This score was 29-34.

New Year's eve was spent in Aurora, Illinois, a suburb of Chicago, and on New Year's day the squad travelled to Davenport, Iowa, where they stayed all night. Monday found them in Iowa City, Ia.

They ran through a light workout Monday afternoon, and Tuesday night they administered the first defeat of the season to one of the most serious contenders for the Big Ten Basketball championship of the current season, Iowa university. The score being 21-17.

The highest point of the trip came in this contest, at least as far as the Bison Basketballers were concerned. It happened that two of the star players on the Iowa quint had been ruled ineligible for further competition by the University Athletic Board.

The town was up in arms over the action of the Board, and much agitation had been aroused. In view of this, the Board called a meeting at 3:30 the afternoon of the game, but the results of the meeting were not made public, and when the game started that evening, Blackmer and Break, the two ineligibles, were not on the floor.

However, shortly after the opening gun, two men in uniform dashed onto the floor, and the crowd cheered with a deafening roar for several minutes and it was necessary to call time-out until the din subsided to such a degree that the referee's whistle could be heard.

This action led the Bison to believe that the Board meeting had been favorable to all concerned, and that they were to be allowed to play against the two Iowa Luminaries.

So, they just buckled down and played the best ball they had played while on their trip and handed the University their first defeat of the season.

Having thus climaxed their Christmas vacation, the boys left for home Wednesday morning and made a record trip, reaching Fargo at 6:45 p. m. the same day.

Now the boys are getting settled

CAMPUS ORCHESTRA RECENTLY ORGANIZED

A new campus orchestra has been announced recently with Frank Sanders, who has made himself prominent through radio and Bison Brevities activities, as the leader of the musical group.

Rudy Hehr, who last year traveled around the world twice on musical tours, is a saxophone player teaming with Phil Koppang, formerly a member of campus orchestras, a player of the trombone, and Johnnie Olson, drummer.

Johnnie Lund, also a former member of the Collegians, plays the trumpet and George Sullivan is the second sax man. Frank Sanders is pianist for the orchestra.

The ancient Athenians showed their appreciation of an actor or speaker by throwing garments at him. About 600 B. C. the famous lawgiver, Draco, made such a stirring speech that his enthusiastic audience is said to have unwittingly smothered him to death under a deluge of clothing.—Colliers'.

down to the routine of their school-work again, and regular practice will be resumed Monday in preparation for the first conference tilt which will be held Friday evening in the Physical Education building when the Bison meet South Dakota University.

Last but not least, for those whom it might interest, the trip was a success financially!

Baby Bison Defeat Mayville Teachers Five Friday Night

Reiners and Anderson Lead In 35-15 Conquest of Teachers' Quint

The Bison freshmen won their third consecutive victory of the year by snowing the Mayville Comets under to the tune of 35 to 15 last Friday night.

The contest was unspectacular in that the scoring of both teams was inconsistent. The Frosh cagers obtained the lead about the first three minutes of play with a free throw by Dave Casselman and a field goal by Arnold Bernard. From that time on their defense held the Comets in check while they spurted to victory. The yearlings displayed a strong defense in the first half of the contest, holding the Mayville aggregation to two field goals which were scored by Prestbo and Whitlock respectively, giving the Baby Bison a 15-6 advantage at the half.

The second half found a much improved Bison team on the court. Their offense began to click and time and again they worked the ball under their basket for easy short shots. Their defense also remained intact while the Comets vainly attempted to pierce it.

Reiners Outstanding

The work of Neville Reiners, scrappy Bison guard, was the outstanding feature of the game. He was high point for the Yearlings with 12 points. He also was the main cog in the defense, intercepting and retrieving passes and shots from the hands of the Comet players. Russell Anderson, rangy center for the Bison, was close on Reiners' heels in scoring with 11 points and played a creditable all around game of ball. Bernard and Dobervich, forward and guard, respectively, also proved to be classy Bison cagers.

For Mayville, Kent Whitlock was high point man with 6 points to his credit. He, together with Prestbo, Lukasen and Rorvig, were the only four of nine Comet players to score field goals.

William Askanase was a guest at the Delta Kappa Sigma house last weekend.

Ruth Peterson, an alumnae member of Phi Mu sorority, has been visiting with sorority sisters in Fargo during the past week. Miss Peterson, a graduate of 1931, is teaching in Finley, N. D.

A regular meeting of the Theta Chi alumnae association was held in the Gardner hotel yesterday noon. Donald Harris, Donald Arthur, Max Hughes and Fritz Hanson of the active chapter attended the meeting.

Sigma Phi Delta Is Leader In Cut Sales

Sorority Competition Is Led By Gamma Phi Beta, Says William Heller

Sigma Phi Delta fraternity, represented by Idan Flaa, is now leading by a large majority in the interfraternity cut sales competition, sponsored by the Bison yearbook, according to William Heller, business manager. Gamma Phi Beta, with Ellen Blair as saleswoman, leads the sorority competition.

The fraternities on the campus far exceed the sororities in the proportional number of persons represented in the class section of the annual. The non-fraternity people have even a smaller percentage than the sororities. It is hoped by the staff that a renewed vigor will be shown in the sales campaign and that each student on the campus will do his or her best to aid in making the "34" annual truly representative of the whole school.

The deadline for purchasing these cuts by students has been definitely set for Feb. 10, and all pictures must have been taken by that time. Cuts may be purchased from fraternity and sorority representatives or may be had at the office. Activity cards are being filled at the office now and all students not having filled such cards are urged to do so at once by the editors.

College In Need Of Many Improvements

College Officials Are Aware Appropriations Cannot Now Be Made

In a recent request for appropriations for new buildings and equipment at North Dakota State college, Dr. John H. Shepperd, president of the institution, again outlined improvements needed by the school. President Shepperd intimated that he realized such favors could not be immediately granted because of present financial distress.

"These pressing needs, which were recognized even before Dr. Coulter left the college and were first presented by him, are necessarily once more to be recited," stated Dr. Shepperd.

Since then the needs have grown in proportion to the ten per cent increase in enrollment in the biennium 1930-1932.

Repair work needed about the campus consisted of repairing broken sidewalks, painting wooden structures, decorating of interiors, and insulation of steam pipes.

Among the building needs President Shepperd listed were increased library facilities, additional space for the home economics department, an engineering laboratory, a granary, a dairy barn, a stock judging pavilion, and an experiment building for carrying out investigations with stock.

After President Shepperd found that the estimated costs for the improvements to be $432,000 he wrote to the board as follows:

"I am again reciting the actual needs of the college, if the conditions were such as to permit granting of requests. However, we realize that appropriations for such purposes cannot now be made, and they are not expected to be made."
