NORTH DAKOTA STATE COLLEGE DELEGATES TO DEBATE IN MONTANA

Encounter With Montana State Opens Debate Schedule For This Year

FORENSIC ANNUAL AFFAIR

North Dakota Team Favors Debt Cancellation In Debate With Bobcat Pair

Continuing an arrangement that has extended over a period of thirteen years, representatives of North Dakota State college will leave this afternoon for Bozeman, Mont., where the annual debate between this school and Montana State college will take place Saturday. This engagement will inaugurate the 1932-33 inter-collegiate debate season for the Bison.

Albert Buchli, Golden Valley, junior in the school of agriculture, and Clifford Maloney, Fargo, junior in science and literature, will uphold the negative side of the question: "Resolved: That the United States should agree to the cancellation of the inter-allied war debts." A decision will be rendered.

Under the terms of the agreement now existing between the two schools, Montana State debates here one year, the Bison journeying to Bozeman the next.

According to Don Hay, debate coach here, the Montana State team is composed of two veterans both of whom have met Bison representatives before—one here in the debate last year and one at Bozeman two years ago.

Maloney was a member of the team that met Montana State here last year while Buchli is president of the Lincoln Forensic club, honorary debate organization of the campus.

The question of cancellation of the war debts has evoked considerable interest in the discussions already held this year. It will be the subject for probably the majority of debates this season—both intercollegiate and community.

BISHOP BARTLETT IS SPEAKER NEXT MONDAY

"Creative Leadership" is the subject to be discussed by Bishop Frederick B. Bartlett of the North Dakota Episcopal church when he appears before the student body Monday morning during convocation.

Although Bishop Bartlett was scheduled to appear during the first week in December as the second speaker in a series of eight, his speech was postponed until now.

Club Selects Leaders For This Year's Little International Livestock Show

The Little International Livestock show, a project sponsored annually by the Saddle and Siroin club of the North Dakota State college, will take place this year on Jan. 19, in the college livestock pavilion, according to an announcement made this week.

Wayne Houtcooper, Garrison, has been named manager of the show, which is a miniature of the International Livestock show at Chicago. It is intended to give students practice in grooming and judging animals for entry in livestock shows. George Kafton, Harvey, is assistant manager.

Mr. Houtcooper and Mr. Kafton have appointed the following assistants: Victor Lundeen, Adams, commissioner of awards; Charles Challey, Lisbon, assistant commissioner of awards; Robert Ward, Bismarck, and Earl Ellingson, Hillsboro, managers of catalogue publication; Albert Buchli, Hebron, feature chairman; Carl Freeman, Upham, ticket sales manager; and George Simons, Stanley, head superintendent of judging contests.

Scabbard and Blade Members Continue Preparation For Annual Formal

The scene of the 1933 Military ball, annual initial formal ball of the school year, will be at the Crystal ballroom in the Fargo auditorium, where the party is held, Friday evening, January 27, Stanley Thompson, prom manager, announced today.

That it has been tentatively planned to engage the Red Jackets, a Fargo orchestra, which organization is to be swelled in ranks to 12 pieces besides the leader, Abbie Andrews, was also revealed today by the committees selected by the military organization. A number of feature pieces will be on the orchestra's program for the formal party.

Meanwhile, increased activity is being made by members of Scabbard and Blade in completing plans and early preparations for the ball, which is just three weeks away. Numerous innovations are expected to be made, according to members of the sponsoring unit, in order to make the 1933 edition of the party a success.

Tickets for the Military ball are already on sale at the College bookstore, and downtown stores, including Cook drug store and the Broadway Pharmacy, Earl Grove, ticket sales manager, says.

BISON TOMATO BEATS 51 VARIETIES TRIED

In a tomato yield test conducted on 52 varieties at the Oklahoma agricultural experiment station, the Bison, a variety produced and named last year by A. F. Yeager, North Dakota State college horticulturist, ranked first. The Bison tomato produced 21,460.5 pounds or at the rate of about 430 bushels per acre. All tests were conducted at Stillwater, Okla.

Characteristics of the Bison tomato, according to the originator, include a vigorous vine which produces blossom clusters early and close together. The late useless plant growth is checked by blossom clusters formed on the end of the vines. This results in a heavy early setting of fruit which all ripens.

The tomato is of medium size, red when ripe, and has a firm meat. It is especially adapted for North Dakota and the surrounding territory.

Iowa Taken From Undeclared List As Bison Chalk Big Ten Win

WEIR STRONG ON OFFENSE

Tuesday's Victory Is Fourth On Christmas Trip of State Athletic Team

Shooting the North Dakota State college basketball team into the lead after a deadlock tie near the latter part of the game, Donald Arthur, diminutive forward, Tuesday evening paved the way for the second Bison Big Ten victory in history when the Iowa cagers lost to the North Dakotans by a 21-17 score.

The Iowa game, the finishing contest of the series of six Christmas encounters scheduled by the State college, North Central conference champions, was fast and furious throughout the play, according to Coach Leonard Saalwaechter of the Bison. The wiping of the Iowa team from the list of undefeated Big Ten basketball teams in Tuesday's game was the crowning event of the trip, according to "Saaly."

Bison Beat Badgers

The only other Big Ten victory for the Bison in recent basketball years was the one in 1925, when the North Dakota boys took Dr. Meanwell's quint from the University of Wisconsin at Madison by a 16 to 14 score. The two points was the margin by which the Bison missed a third Big Ten victory in the game with the Illinois university.

Tuesday's game was sensational in many respects, the Bison coach admits. Three minutes after the start of the game, Blackmer and Break, temporarily suspended players on the 1933 Hawkeye squad made their appearance to set a large crowd into a tumult of applause. The same crowd had staged a rally and a parade during the day to bring pressure to bear upon university officials in reinstating the guard and forward stars, who had not been able to assist the Iowans in the crushing defeat of Carleton the week before.

Arthur, Weir Score

While Arthur put the game "on ice" for the Bison with seven well-placed baskets, Bob Weir contributed much to the offensive thrusts of the Bison with three baskets and a free throw. On defense the North Dakotans were rated strong keeping the touted Big Ten players from many baskets. Curt Denenney was shifted in as guard when Grant Mickelson, sophomore star, was taken out for four personal fouls.

Various Bison players proved their ability to meet emergencies during the Christmas in the various games, according to Coach Saalwaechter. Scoring plays by various team men helped put the winning edge in the victories over St. Louis university, Northwestern college and James Milliken. Close (Continued on Page 3)

COLLEGES ON TEST

Are present-day American educational institutions going to survive the testing block?

This is the potent problem confronting many educators of our nation, who have voluntarily sought out the evolution of modern collegiate trends. Questions and opinions expressed do not tangibly favor either side of the controversy.

Are American institutions of higher learning to continue as trainers of the mind—or are the present trends and specializations in the fields of social affairs and athletics making our colleges merely clubs for pleasant but rather brainless effort? Can scholarship and true educational work survive in institutions where tremendous efforts are directed continually in other fields—or will new types of schools, devoted solely to brain training have to be developed to fill scholastic needs?

Thus the problems are presented—but no one definitely states his stand, preferring to wait and observe changes wrought in a few years in our fast-moving modern system. Will our present type of institution survive the test?

THE OTHER SIDE

Hailed out by doleful editorials and various complainings of a distressed people throughout the world, the old year of 1932 still has recorded a number of accomplishments which North Dakota State college can recall. Everything in the past year has not been on the blue side for North Dakota State college. . . . 1932 has been often gracious to the Bison.

Despite depression handicaps, North Dakota State's educational standards and student numbers have maintained a sturdy level, ranking even to or above the levels of the boom times of the post-war prosperity. Sincere beliefs of the people in the value of North Dakota higher education is being demonstrated daily as many undergo hardships compared to those of the pioneers in order to gain the added enjoyment of a touch of college culture and the added opportunity of studies, technically suited to various fields of effort.

North Dakota State's athletes started the year out in a promising manner with Coach Saalwaechter's team stepping out to a North Central conference athletic championship. The team's record for this fall promise added accomplishments for the 1933 season.

Not to be outdone, the North Dakota State college gridiron athletes acquired their first all-conference championship in several years, under the tutelage of Coaches Casey Finnegan and Bob Lowe. Recognition of merit, in other sections of the nation is being accorded North Dakota football through the travels of the Bison players.

True, the college has curtailed activity in some fields somewhat due to the growth in value of the all-powerful dollar—courses have been suspended and needed equipment has not been gotten. Many luxuries and habits have been forgotten.

There has been no drop in hard study accomplished by the students and no abatement of effort towards educational betterment by at least that smaller majority of the students, who really desire education for knowledge's sake.

Better feeling among various campus organizations and units has been noted this year as various problems demand co-operation and unswerving attention. Fickle things are generally forgotten in a year of financial stress as the past one.

While we all feel like being fashionable and complaining against old 1932, now gone but long to be remembered—we must admit the year has had its better points . . . yowsah.

BISON BUSINESS HEAD APPOINTS 1933 STAFF

That the business staff for The Bison, annual yearbook, has been appointed for 1933, William Heller, business manager of the book, announces. Charles Christensen and Harriet Horton are assistant business managers. William Akeley and Chester Perry are advertising managers. Frank Clark and Edward Johnson are office assistants.

Heller states that the final deadline for individual pictures to be in the hands of Bison officers will be announced in the Tuesday issue of The Spectrum.

ROWDY REMARKS

What grad made one of last year's prize breaks when he asked if that pint-sized Kay Dee pledge, Corrine Ballard, weren't a 4H club member?

Will there be a box of candy at the Gamma Phi apartment and cigars at the Sig Tau hovel—or is the rumor greatly exaggerated?

Saaly's crew did well—and speaking of basketball, we notice that Gamma Phi Pote likes to really enjoy the games—Knitting during the first half with "Collier's" to be read in the second stanza.

We understand that a former be-whiskered English instructor was not exactly the perfect little gentleman—what, with letters from fallen women—!

Phoney Taber in the last "Pull Pison" wondered which party was a "rollicking" success—well, he should know!—he gets the dope—you know—the dope!

What former enterprising female journalist set her net and lured a divorced man out to the "Spanish Manila" on New Year's Eve??

Rumor has it that our Charles will lose a couple of stellar players if he isn't real nice within a week—with those boys absent at football time he is very likely to lose something else.

We wonder if Taber (of the attempted "Roads Scholar" Tabers) is looking anxiously at what trial—which reminds us—that sheet of copy the "Pull Pison" use should wear out soon—three issues on the same one is a lot.

The "Bystander" in the Dakota Student describes a co-ed very nicely—he says: "She is steady—in fact, she is so steady she is motionless"

Collegians wonder if the depression has struck the Pons—first they take in boarders, then they want to rent their garage—Is laundering next?

What four collegians tried to test the strength of an R. O. H. bottle in the lobby of one of the better theaters yesterday?

A Gamma Phi egg (the time is 9 p. m.)—"I can't go because I'm playing a fourth at bridge—sorry!"

The Queen's last line: "If you don't, I will!"

And another (of, or due to, Xmas vintage)—"All is well!"

Holiday guests at the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity house were Benjamin Bermal, now attending the University of Minnesota, Eric Nordstrom and Walter Shamp.

Lester Biesler, Minot, has been a holiday guest at Delta Kappa Sigma fraternity.

William Sheffield was a guest at dinner at Delta Kappa Sigma fraternity Wednesday. Forsythe Engsbretson and Don McKay were guests of the evening.

Hazel James, Kappa Kappa Gamma, is re-entering school after having missed the fall term.

Several members of the North Dakota State basketball squad greeted the radio fans over WIL, St. Louis, after they defeated the University of St. Louis on their Christmas tour.

SPECTRUM CRITIC

Frank Borzages' production of Ernest Hemingway's "A Farewell to Arms," featuring Helen Hayes, Gary Cooper and Adolphe Menjou, will open at the Fargo theater Saturday and will be featured for four days, closing on Wednesday, Jan. 11.

The film is a faithful reproduction of the Hemingway novel, telling the story of Frederic Henry, American lieutenant in the Italian ambulance corp, and Catherine Barkley, a British nurse, who meet and love against the background of war. Their meeting through Rinald, the army surgeon, who calls himself the "war brother" of Lieutenant Henry; their quick realization of their love for each other; the days and nights in the hospital where Frederic is brought after his wound; Catherine's flight into Switzerland to have her child, and Frederic's desertion of the Army, in order to be with her—all this is told.

This is one of the greatest love stories ever filmed on the screen, into the giant tapestry of a world in turmoil is woven the most tumultuous, passionate romance yet written or screened! The mad mating of two souls lost for love's sake to the thunder of a world gone mad.

Fans who like air movies will find

"Air Mail," showing at the State theater today and Saturday, very much to their liking. The picture is packed with spectacular airplane stunts, and is enhanced by a fine cast, including Ralph Bellamy, Gloria Stuart, Pat O'Brien and Slim Summerville.

Roxy theater offers "What Price Hollywood?" the last half of this week. This story concerns itself with Connie Bennett, a charming young waitress, who aspires to be a movie sween and has her wish realized. Watch her crash the gates of a big studio and middle-aisle it with an influential executive, portrayed by Lowell Sherman.

CAFE PRACTICES CHANGES

The Golden Maid Shoppe

Home Cooked Meals in Which Quality and Freshness of Materials are Emphasized Has Gained a Splendid Reputation for the Golden Maid Shoppe at 68 Broadway in Fargo.—M. D. Boosolis, manager.

Lucious Boomer, the president and manager of the Waldorf-Astoria hotel which opened in New York City last year, has just recently written as follows: "There has been a great change in the eating of Americans in the past ten years. Beginning shortly after the war, the tendency has been strongly towards simple dishes with emphasis on freshness and quality of material. It has been noted that dishes of the home type are more and more in vogue even in the exclusive and luxuriant type of hotel and restaurant. This new policy has given the American home owner a new sense of appreciation of the 'cafe practicing it and has served to secure new business in a substantial way from the strata of American life."

One might add to Mr. Boomer's statement that since the traveling public has always constituted the bulk of cafe trade, the cafe which has carefully observed this changing trend in cafe management has assumed the position of a magnet in drawing visitors to the town in which it is located, once it becomes known.

The Golden Maid Shoppe is one which follows this policy as nearly as possible with the result that it has gained an enviable reputation with both the traveling public and local people. Their meals are suggestive of home cooking and their daily luncheon and dinner suggestions which include a wide variety of wholesome foods make the task of ordering a properly balanced and highly appetizing meal a simple matter. These meals cooked of quality materials in a sanitary kitchen and served in an attractively appointed dining room, moderate prices, make dining there a pleasure rarely experienced in the smaller cities.

This institution particularly desires to make No. Dak. State students welcome and you will find them anxious to fulfill your every wish in a pleasant manner.

Annual Rifle Champion Is Chosen In Shoot

Medals Offered To Men Having Six Highest Scores In Competition

The men who have been trying out for the North Dakota State college rifle team will fire for record on Jan. 14, in the annual college sweepstakes shoot. Gold, silver and bronze medals are offered to all men who have been firing on the range that make the three highest scores, and another group of three medals is offered to those men that have not fired on the regular team before that make the three highest scores. It is possible that one man can obtain two medals if he makes one of the highest scores out of the men that have not shot on the team and also shoots a score among the three highest in the group that is open to all men firing on the range.

Capt. J. B. Conmy says that in previous matches only those men that have been on the regular team have obtained the three medals open to all men, but this year as the men have all been shooting fine scores it is possible that some man who has not fired on the team before will obtain one of the medals open to all men.

The men who will comprise this year's rifle team will probably be chosen about Jan. 26, according to Captain Conmy.

Iowa Students Hold Rally To Beat Bison

It is evident that students at the University of Iowa wanted that college to beat the North Dakota State college basketball team, from tales which have drifted up from Iowa City.

Consternation was spread in Iowa athletic circles last week by the announcement by university authorities that two members of the touted Hawkeye team, Eddie Break and Ivan Blackmer, had played basketball with questionable teams and therefore were ineligible.

Loyal fans and friends of the two regulars on the Hawkeye squad faced the prospect of a loss to the powerful Bison team which had spread wins over the middle western states, decided Iowa was going against the northerners without being crippled. Blackmer and Break were going to play against the Bison.

Posters were gotten up and displayed over the streets of the city and in windows of business houses — "Bring back Eddie Break and Ivan Blackmer". A large parade of students and townspeople was formed as a protest against the keeping of the stellar Iowans off the basketball court.

Five minutes before Tuesday's game both Blackmer and Break were declared eligible to play against the Bison and were to be eligible until thorough investigation was made of their cases. They did play—but Iowa took her beating (21-17) along with James Milliken, St. Louis university, and Northwestern college at Naperville, victims of Bison Christmas excursion.

BABY BISON ENCOUNTER MAYVILLE HERE FRIDAY

Friday night at eight o'clock, the Baby Bison will meet the Mayville Teachers' in a contest which is to be held in the new physical education building. This is the second meeting of the two teams, the Bison having won the first encounter which took place at Mayville shortly before the close of the fall term.

The freshmen have been working out every afternoon this week, and, according to Pete Gergen, Yearling mentor, his charges are showing better form than they displayed in scrimmages with the varsity during the week previous to the latter's departure on their eastern trip.

SHORTAGE OF WATER WILL PREVENT HOCKEY GAMES

No hockey games will be held at North Dakota State college this year as the Fargo City commission refused to allow any more rinks to be flooded.

As there is a danger of a shortage in the city water supply the commission is attempting to avoid wasting any water. The public rinks will only be flooded once more this year, and unless the supply of water is increased the rinks will have to remain as they are.

Golf Course Offered During Winter Term

Devils Lake Pro Teaches Class On Athletic Program Without Charge

C. C. Finnegan, athletic director of the North Dakota State college, announced Thursday afternoon that his department will offer a course in golfing during the winter term. The classes will be held on the stage of the gymnasium in the new physical education building, and there will be no charge for the instruction as there was last year.

Arthur Hanson, professional at the Devils Lake Country club, will give the lessons. Hanson offered a similar course last winter and expects a larger enrollment in the class this year. The classes will meet on Tuesday and Thursday of each week, at three and four o'clock, respectively, Tuesday being for the women and Thursday for the men.

The course is primarily for beginners, but any regular student of the college may register, the only requirements being that the pupil have one golf club. Freshmen men may make arrangements with the athletic department to substitute this course for one hour credit in physical education.

1933 Boxing Outlook Discussed At Meeting

Matches With Sioux, Dragons And Other Teams Is Tentative Plan

A meeting of all men who are interested in boxing will be held in the new gymnasium in the physical education building, Monday at four o'clock. This meeting is being held in an attempt to determine whether or not there will be enough persons interested to warrant the working out of a program for the sport.

It is possible that a tournament will be held later on to determine the school championships in the various weights. If the results of this meeting are satisfactory, negotiations will be immediately entered upon in an attempt to schedule interscholastic matches with the University of North Dakota, Moorhead State Teachers college and the southern schools in the North Central conference.

In addition to these inter-school matches, representatives of the school will be sent to the Golden Gloves tournament, which will be held in Minneapolis this winter.

NOTICE
There will be a meeting of the Newman club at the Knights of Columbus hall at 7:30 this Sunday evening. Members are urged to be present at the program.

Between Halves

By EVERETT WALLUM

Iowa may be where the tall corn sprouts, but we'll bet their corn is no taller than the Bison athletes who completed a most successful cage trip by defeating their University Tuesday.

It was the second Bison win over a Big Ten team in recent years and the first since the Buffalomen defeated Wisconsin in 1925. The close game with Illinois was very nearly as gratifying as the win over the Hawkeyes. Both Iowa and the Illini finished strong in the Big Ten race last year.

It was the most pleasing barnstorming trip since the diminutive Ad Dewey took his formidable clan on a journey to the West coast. That was when Arnold, Greenfield, Blakely, Miller and Newgard bounced on the maple.

The Iowa victory takes on significant proportions when we recall that the Hawkeyes turned back Carleton 32 to 19. Carleton had a few days previously downed Wisconsin by a clear cut margin.

IF THE TRIP PROVED NOTHING ELSE IT SHOWS THAT THE BISON ARE PRIMARILY A DEFENSIVE TEAM. NOT SO THE NODAKS WHO HAVE BEEN HITTING AROUND THE 50 POINT MARK IN ALL THEIR GAMES.

Which brings up the old controversy of which is the better: a team stressing offense or a team stressing defense. To our edification we will again have a chance to judge when the Bison-Nodaks clash Feb. 24.

One of the most pleasing developments to date is the consistent brilliant play of Grant Mickelson, as amiable a cager as one would meet on an all-day bicycle ride. With Viv McKay, the Bison have a speedy, driving pair of guards.

Bob Weir apparently has hit his stride. And what a stride Bob's got.

Maybe we shouldn't bring this up, but we've often wondered why they don't develop a girl's varsity team for the purpose of playing other institutions in this area.

THEIR PARENTS WOULD COME TO SEE THE GAMES, ANYWAY. I GUESS. MAYBE.

As it is they play interclass games, and they play these only in the strictest secrecy. Who knows but what we may have a Babe Didriksen circulating around the campus.

I promise never to mention it again.

Otto Wolhowe, Fred Messner and Bill Mesner, Delta Tau Epsilon, have re-entered school.

First Practice Held By Women's Rifle Team

Elimination Matches For Girls Scheduled For Latter Part of February

The women comprising the North Dakota State college co-ed rifle team held their first practice since the Christmas holidays in the physical education building, on Wednesday, Jan. 4.

The girls trying out for the team still have nearly two months in which to practice before the team is definitely organized. The elimination matches will probably not be held until the latter part of February, according to Maj. E. A. Lathrop, who is in charge of the women's rifle team for this year. The regular matches to be held with women's rifle teams from different schools will not take place until the end of February or the early part of March.

There are approximately thirty women interested in the rifle practice, and more girls may still try out, according to Major Lathrop.

Practices will be held regularly every Wednesday evening from 7 to 9, on the new rifle range in the physical education building.

Yearbook Prints Picture Taking Schedule for Campus Organizations

It is being planned by the staff of The Bison, North Dakota State college yearbook, to open the picture-taking schedule for campus organizations on next Tuesday, Jan. 10, according to Emanuel Smith, organizations editor.

Notices of the schedule will be printed in The Spectrum and posted on the bulletin board. Organizations will appear on the schedule grouped as to activities. In order to keep the schedules within the four weeks limit that has been set, it is requested that each organization appear for its group picture on the time posted for it.

Rumor has it that all the young campus maidens are sighing gustily for a date to this first dance of the New Year.

Arriving by auto, nine Bison basketballers and their coach, Leonard Saalwaechter, arrived at North Dakota State college Wednesday night following an extended holiday tour of the middle western states. Making the trip were Grant and Arnold Mickelson, Viv McKay, Bob Weir, Donald Arthur, Curt Denenny, Bud Marquardt and Acey Olson.

Edward Johnson, Lancaster, Minn., is spending his vacation at the Delta Tau Epsilon house.

NEW STATE VETERINARIAN STUDIED AT THIS SCHOOL

North Dakota's new state veterinarian, Dr. T. O. Brandenburg, who was recently appointed at a meeting of the North Dakota Livestock Sanitary board to take over the work of the late Dr. W. F. Crewe, is a former student at North Dakota State college, information reveals.

His first two years of college work in the field of veterinary, were taken up on the campus of this school, he later having gone to Cornell university at Ithaca, New York for the latter years of his work. In 1913, following his graduation from the eastern school, Dr. Brandenburg returned to this state, where he has been active in his field since that time.
