HIGH POINT OF 4H CLUB MEETING IS AUCTION OF PRIZE WINNING CATTLE

Earl Davis Receives Highest Premium For Champion Angus Steer

400 DELEGATES REGISTER

North Dakota State College Is Host To Delegation Here Every Year

The auction of prize winning animals yesterday proved to be the high point of the 4H twenty-third annual achievement institute now in session at the college. This afternoon's business meeting will complete the program of exhibitions, lectures and entertainments planned by H. E. Rilling, state club leader, and Miss Pauline Reynolds, assistant.

Receiving 22 cents a pound, Earl Davis received the highest premium on his 1,227 pound grand champion Angus steer. Other prize winners were Floyd Allen, whose Duroc Jersey hog sold at 18 cents a pound, and Leroy Anderson, whose Southdown lamb netted 45 dollars.

Home management was stressed in yesterday's program. Miss Mary Rokahr, home management specialist for the department of agriculture, spoke on the costs in relation to management. By diagram and specific illustration she discussed the average expense of raising boys and girls to the age of 18. Methods of contributing to the family's budget were suggested.

Special entertainment has been provided by the Little Country theater department under Prof. A. G. Arvold. Tuesday evening a Village Fair program including exhibitions from the various schools on the campus was presented. Thursday evening an original program put on by the organized delegates was presented.

The cooperative ability of the club members was shown in the publication of an eight page newsletter as well as in the presentation of last night's program. Under the direction of Thomas Gildersleeve, two editions of the Flickertail have been completed, the last being distributed today.

Although attendance at the institute is not as large as it has been in former years, a total registration of nearly 400 has been recorded. These young men and women, accompanied by their county agents, come from 32 counties throughout North Dakota.

Fraternity Pledges Six Men Wednesday

Group of Juniors and Seniors Named At Services Held In Ag Building

Six students in the school of agriculture were pledged to Alpha Zeta, national honorary agricultural fraternity, at services held on Wednesday evening in the agriculture building.

The men thus honored include Andrew Aandahl, Litchville, senior; Donald Groom, Langdon, junior; Gordon Johnsgaard, Christine, junior; Clifford Orvedahl, Tunbridge, junior; Algot Swanson, Sheyenne, junior; and Robert Weir, Fargo, senior.

In charge of the pledging services was Olwin Riveland, president of the group. Other officers are Lars A. Jensen, vice president; Roy Simonson, secretary; and Harrison Maker, treasurer.

John Johnson, Coopers town, is a visitor at the Kappa Psi house this week

Mrs. Minnie Hanks, formerly a house mother for the Gamma Phi Beta sorority chapter here, has been a guest this week of Mrs. A. M. Williams, social hostess for Ceres hall.

WOMAN AUTHOR IS SUBJECT OF TALK

Sigrid Undset, the Norwegian novelist who won the Nobel prize for literature in 1928, and who is the third woman to gain this distinctive recognition, was the subject of a talk given Sunday night before the Newman club by Miss Frances Lamb, English instructor at the college.

Miss Lamb opened her talk with a brief history of the novelist who was born in 1882 in Kallundborg, Denmark. Madame Undset's father was an archeologist and it was by working under him that she required her knowledge of the old sagas of the Norse and her love for reading. Miss Lamb treated shortly of the more important works of this Nobel prize winner, of her familiarity with Scandinavian medieval history, and of her understanding treatment of human nature.

Dr. H. H. Flor Speaks Monday Before Society

Students Are Invited to Hear Plant Pathologist in Talk on Smuts

To hear Dr. H. H. Flor, research plant pathologist at the college, students are invited to attend an open meeting of Sigma Xi, fraternal society of scientific research, on Monday, Dec. 11 at 8 o'clock in room 308 in the Agricultural building.

Dr. Flor, who has done pathological work with the U. S. department of agriculture, will speak on recent studies in sexuality of rusts and smuts taken with reference to crop production. The treatment of the subject matter will not be of such a technical nature as to tax the understanding of the average student, local members of Sigma Xi society say. The information that he will offer will include much valuable information in the field of pathology, they add.

Dr. Flor, who received his degrees at the University of Minnesota was, before coming to the North Dakota State college, associated with the State college of Washington, having duties in the pathological department there.

The work of Dr. Flor especially in studying the sexuality of smuts has been rated of special research importance. His work is said to have contributed much to the benefit of flax production in this region.

Waldo E. Smith, assistant professor of civil engineering, is the author of the main article which concerns itself with surface water conservation in North Dakota.

SPECIAL PERFORMANCE OF CHRISTMAS PAGEANT IS GIVEN FOR STUDENTS

"The Light of the World" Is Shown Sunday Afternoon At Festival Hall

MONDAY SHOW IS PUBLIC

Chicago Quartet Accompanies Sacred Musical and Dramatic Film

To accommodate the North Dakota State college students, there will be a special students showing of the film "The Light of the World" accompanied by a noted group of Chicago soloists on Sunday afternoon at 3:00, in Festival hall. Registration cards will be shown at the door for admittance. The Monday evening performance will be open only to the public.

"The Light of the World" is a musical and dramatic production, a musical panorama, telling with the great sacred songs of the world the dramatic story of Jesus of Nazareth. In the synchronization with the singing of these sacred masterpieces will be the presentation of a beautiful panorama in natural colors on a life sized screen. The film is hand-colored, the actual scenes being made in Palestine by a noted French company.

This presentation will include well-known masterpieces from composers like Bach, Mozart, Gounod, and Stainer, supplemented by the best-loved Christmas and Easter hymns. As the choir sings, for instance, "O, Little Town of Bethlehem," the panorama will show actual scenes in old Bethlehem as they no doubt were that first Christmas morning. As the choir sings "Silent Night, Holy Night," the panorama will show the shepherds watching their flocks by night. When the climax of the film is reached, the crucifixion, the choir will give a dramatic rendition of the well-known "Crucifix Him" from Stainer's Crucifixion.

The author and producer of "The Light of the World" is Howard Tooley, noted for his many fine operatic productions. His arrangements and choice of songs makes the story move from one climax to another in smooth continuity.

The singing will be by the Cathedral Artists, a quartet of outstanding soloists, especially selected for this type of music by Mr. Tooley.

The personnel of this company is as follows: Mary Krakowski, young prima donna soprano; Alma King, contralto who has sung in many oratorios and productions such as "Chimes of Britany," "Violin Maker of Cremona," and "The Light Operatic Mirror"; Kenneth Morrow, another young Chicago artist, formerly the featured soloist with Phil Spitalany's orchestra in the Twilight Musicals at the Edgewater Beach hotel, is the tenor soloist; Dan Leiner is the bass of the company, for three seasons was the bass soloist with the Chicago and Northwestern Choral society.

Magdalen Massman, pianist of the Cathedral Artists, accompanies them. She has toured extensively with many artists and concert companies in the past.

The panorama was synchronized from the motion picture "The Son of Man," produced in Palestine by a noted French company of players at a cost of a million and a half francs. It took two years to make this remarkable film. The story follows the four gospels very closely and has been done with much simplicity and strength. It is considered one of the most satisfactory films of its type, depicting the life of the great Master.

W. A. A. initiated new members Wednesday, Dec. 7, at 5:30 in the Ceres hall gym. Potluck will be served after which initiation and a business meeting will be held.

EXTENSION WORKERS MEET HERE THIS WEEK

North Dakota county agents and extension workers will meet at the State college Dec. 10 to 13, for their annual conference, C. F. Monroe, director of extension work, has announced. Opening immediately after the close of the 4H club Achievement Institute, the county agents who attend the institute will remain for the conference.

Principal speakers, outside the staff of the college, are to be G. E. Farrell, supervisor of extension work in the central states, U. S. Department of Agriculture, and Mary Rokahr, home management specialist of the federal extension service. Group conferences have been scheduled to permit the county agents from each district to consider the problems of most importance to their sections.

Bohumir Kryl Band Gives Two Concerts

World Famous Cornetist, Director Gives Matinee, Evening Performances

Bohumir Kryl and his symphony band were enthusiastically received by the college students and music lovers of Fargo before whom he appeared in concert Tuesday night, Dec. 6.

A program of five band numbers was originally scheduled, but the entertainment had to be lengthened to satisfy the audience. As a second encore to the "Hungarian Rhapsody," the band played "The Stars and Stripes Forever" without which no band concert would be complete. For the third encore, the band went on parade, each group interpreting the different moods of a humoresque.

As a cornetist, director Kryl was given a tremendous ovation. Each encore was received with greater applause than the last. Even one who knows nothing about cornetist's technique could recognize the ability of the virtuoso in his scale range, tone qualities and tongue work. As his last solo encore, he played "Farewell To Thee."

Assisting the orchestra were Miss Leta May and Miss Helen Roberts. Due to illness, Josy Kryl White, violinist, was unable to appear on the program. "Stories of Vienna Woods" was substituted for her number. "Capriccio Italian" by Tschaikowsky completed the program of the orchestra.

HERBST STORE OFFERS UNIQUE INDIAN GIFTS

The Herbst department store is now offering the public something new, unique and novel in jewelry. They have recently received an assortment of Indian hand made trinkets and novelties, including baskets, pottery, rugs and miscellaneous articles. This new feature in Herbst comes direct from Indian Trading Posts in New Mexico and Arizona, where 16 different tribes contributed to the collection.

STYLE SHOW PLANNED TUESDAY AFTERNOON

A style show given by the junior and senior members of the home economics department will be given Tuesday, Dec. 13, for the purpose of showing the freshmen girls, who will go into clothing construction the next term, a chance to see what has been done.

The twenty-six junior and senior girls will model the two dresses which they have made since the beginning of the fall term. There will be fifty-one freshmen girls to view the style show and tea will be served after the style show is finished.

Prof. C. B. Waldron of the North Dakota State college, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Eloise Waldron, will leave Sunday for Babson Park, Fla., where they will visit Mr. Waldron's son, Max Waldron, and look after property interests there.

BISON ENGAGE COBBERS IN ANNUAL GAME HERE TONIGHT AT 8 O'CLOCK

Freshmen, Concordia Reserves Will Test Abilities In Preliminary Game

TEAMS EVENLY MATCHED

Revenge Sought By State For Defeat Handed Them Last Season

Having officially opened their current year's basketball season last Friday evening with a win to their credit over the Wahpeton Science school "Wildcats," the North Dakota State college varsity will engage an old rival in an annual contest tonight in the physical education building about 8:00 o'clock. Concordia college will bring one of the strongest teams across the river that has been pitted against the Bison in years. The State freshmen will oppose the Concordia Reserves in a preliminary game starting at 7:15.

In the opinion of Coach Leonard Salawaechter, the Bison have shown a marked improvement over their last week's performance, and the boys are rounding into good condition. This week's workouts have enabled those men who finished their football season late an opportunity to get accustomed to their new duties on the basketball floor, and to cultivate the teamwork necessary for a smooth-working aggregation.

Cobbers Have Stars

Coach Cleve of Concordia has an all-state combination in his lineup that has proven exceedingly efficient. This is composed of Hilde, Moran, and Malvey, all of Moorhead, who have played together for a number of years. Reports from the Cobber camp infer that these boys are going stronger than ever and because of them a tough contest may be expected. Not only does Cleve have these three luminaries in his lineup, but is also putting considerable confidence in Bjerke, Darkow, and Dahl, who have shown unusual abilities as ball-handlers during recent practices.

This will be the opening game for the Concordia crew, and, even though they have been practicing together since the middle of November, the Bison have the advantage of having (Continued on Page 4)

AMONG THE UNEMPLOYED

It may or may not come as a surprise to patrons of education to know that, as an instance of the present situation, there are over five thousand unemployed school teachers in junior grades in New York city alone. Presuming that the figures for the North American continent can be taken in proportion, the total is a staggering amount.

To say that this situation is a new one in the annals of education is no idle statement. Seldom if ever has there been a time when the conditions have been other than the actual reverse of this situation. Dating from the times of the early Greek philosophers, seldom has here been other than a limited number of educated men to care for the pedagogical needs of countless peoples, hungry for the chance of learning.

Many factors are involved in causing this unemployment situation which has never before been experienced. Major factors have been the introduction of women into the role of educators, a role which had heretofore been predominantly male, and the general growth throughout the continent of the special teachers schools, which have turned out instructors in large lots to be assimilated by the school systems. Today, by far, women instructors in the lower grades predominate in numbers and the teachers' colleges continue in their pouring out of many job-seeking graduates.

Decidedly, a remedy must be sought to relieve the congested unemployment situation among the pedagogues of America but the process is more difficult to name than a trivial examination would reveal. While it has been suggested that smaller groups of pupils be assigned to each teacher, this method seems obviously out of consideration due to the tremendous added salary burden placed on the schools.

The most practical idea suggested is the advancing of teachers' requirements and educational standards. While this course would not result in immediate cutting down of the long list of unemployed, it would be a constructive step in a new direction for the entire school system.

Advancing the requirements for the teachers would mean not only more educational requirements in the preparation for a teachers' certificate but would require a knowledge in vocational as well as the ordinary fields of instruction. There are a number of teachers whose abilities are notably limited and the raising of requirements would not only reduce the ranks of potential instructors but would be of great value to the educational system itself through the raising of general standards.

HARRIS GRIPES AGAIN

It appears that Reed Harris, former editor of the Columbia University Spectator, whose suspension last April for criticism of University authorities evoked much attention throughout educational institutions in the country, is at it again.

Not content with spending much time in finding fault with the directors and instructors of the noted university in New York city, the ambitious Mr. Harris is now including college fraternities in his sphere of criticism. Recent articles written against the fraternity system of America, which now lists a mere 1,000,000 living members, show that Mr. Harris is slightly peeved at the process of fraternalism as practiced in the nation.

The charges made by the former editor and former fraternity man, formerly situated on the Columbia campus, are that "fraternities, which in theory are merely organizations for promoting friendships and congeniality, are dangerous to any progress in thought because of their complete reliance on the past. By their dependence upon tradition, however outworn, they serve to perpetuate all that is worst in American tradition."

Evidently Reed Harris has not been keeping in tab with general policies of fraternities in America today, which have shown that the advancement of education and raising of educational standards are basic purposes of a greater share of the fraternities. Excessive use of barbaric methods have been reduced to a mild minimum through activities of groups as units in national organizations. Group effort towards the deal of increasing the number of better bred, better acting and better educated college men has been steadily progressing. Modern methods of business in running the fraternities are used. Development of a group consciousness and an ability of cooperation in play and work among members is a consistent goal. Why then, Mr. Harris, is the fraternity which is keeping up with tendencies of today, serving to perpetuate "all that is worst in American tradition?"

ROWDY REMARKS

Wonder if "Concord-ja" will pull the same thing as it did last year?

The campus has been afflicted with another epidemic of 4H club-ers—all of which reminds us of that old one about the guy who belongs to the "5-H Club"—y'ou know—"Hell-How-He-riates-Himself."

Did you notice that "Giggles" got some goggles?

The person (or persons) who does not favor smoking in that monument to the harvest season, Festival hall, must have been stricken with at least the palsy or "screaming neemies" when he saw the members of the Kryl band, en masse, lighting up.

What collegian had a hard time rating the gal of his choice because of an amorous doctor who stands in the offing—said college man claims he is going to send the little woman a box of apples for Christmas.

Then there is the one about the gullible A. T. O. pledge who was talked into believing that the Delta Sig fraternity was an aviation fraternity.

Were you at the Hop? 'Twas interesting. Big rush for the empty-umth dance. The Blades get the breaks though—they stand at the door and between them they are able to cop off at least the first eight rassesles with the cream of the crop—Makes it hard for the "common" stag—speaking of stags, L. F. must have been in her glory.

And they're starting to dance with the aid of Oxford glasses—it gives that "periscope effect" when looking over the shoulder of a short partner.

Rumor has it that they are going to feature old-time dancing at the Military Ball—with Stan Thompson calling the signals.

SPECTRUM CRITIC

One of Zane Grey's best stories, "Wild Horse Mesa," furnishes the story for the movie of that name now showing at the State theater. Randolph Scott and Sally Blane take the leads in this show, which, according to advance notices, is considerably better in every way than the usual run of western pictures.

A European production entitled "Congress Dances," is offered at the Roxy theater the last half of this week. The background, which concerns a diplomatic conference with Metternich attempting to prevent Napoleon's return to France, offers a colorful setting to the production without adding any historic significance to the plot in general.

Fun fast and furious, Marie Dressler and Polly Moran as rival mothers-in-law doing hectic battle over the lives of their grown children in the picture "Prosperity" showing at the Fargo theater beginning next Saturday.

The two famous comediennees are their blustering, battling selves through many a side splitting "gag," and then a dramatic twist puts them to some very real acting, from which they emerge more than triumphant.

Coeds of Mount Mary college are learning practical physics from their instructor this year because he thinks that it is a poor policy to fill a student's head with a knowledge of calculus and entirely skip its practical use. So this year when the coeds return from school they will be entirely equipped to answer such questions as: how much ice per gallon to cool the punch and they will also be ready to make minor repairs in plumbing, electricity and repairing household equipment.

A freshman at Colgate university, in his effort to outdo his sophomore brethren who fell out of bed last week, attempted to scale out of his locked room by means of a sheet tied securely together. Everything went well until he reached the lower floor when he slipped and fell three stories to the ground. He escaped with only minor bruises.

The following is known as a "Boner" when found in student examination papers: The enraptured tourist stood on the bank of the Grand canal in Venice drinking it all in.

SIGMA ALPHA IOTA membership is limited to women who show exceptional promise as performers or teachers of music. Members of this national professional musical fraternity appear on many local programs.

The PANHELLENIC COUNCIL is a sorority organization corresponding to the men's INTER-FRATERNITY COUNCIL. The object of both is to formulate and enforce rules concerning their members such as scholarship, rushing, pledging, and initiating.

TAU DELTA PI is an honorary engineering fraternity, the members of which are elected on a basis of high scholarship, sociability and practicability. The group sponsors a project for Engineers' Open House every year.

The ENGINEERS' CLUB aims to promote the social and economic welfare of the engineer. The club is a professional organization consisting of students and faculty members of the school of engineering.

The WOMEN'S SENATE is the governing board of the Women's League, an organization which is made up of all the women students on the campus.

Lack of material has not been a major problem this season for Coach "Baldy" Hays, former State college athlete and basketball mentor at Bismarck high school. Last week he cut his varsity squad down from sixty candidates to twenty candidates. He still has the problem of selection of the regular center from three candidates, Olgerson, Hulbert and Geglund, all of whom are more than six feet three inches in height.

FINAL PLANS COMPLETE FOR BISON TOUR INTO FIVE FOREIGN COURTS

Christmas Vacation Schedule To Include Games With Big Ten Aggregations

With a schedule of five major games during the Christmas holidays facing them, Coach L. T. Saalwaechter and his conference championship defenders are making last plans this weekend for the coming long trip into foreign fields.

Tentatively setting their departure at the close of final examinations next Friday, the Bison cagers plan to make rapid progress to St. Louis, to arrive in that southern city with enough time to spare for rest before their game with the University of St. Louis basketball team on Tuesday, Dec. 20.

Christmas day will find the basketball boys from North Dakota State college far from their homes but back into the cold area as they travel northward to Illinois for three games in as many days. On Dec. 29 the North Dakota boys resume athletic hostilities with James Millikin university at Decatur, which school team the Bison played a nip-and-tuck contest two years ago.

Meet Big Ten Team

The next day, Dec. 30, a Big Ten team of the University of Illinois will play the Bison crew in the big field-house at Champaign. The final day of the year, which, despite the depression, presented North Dakota State with both grid and cage championships of the conference, will see the much played State college crew again testing a strong team in the Northwestern college quint of Naperville, Ill.

A rest of two full days will be meted out to the Buffalomen after the three days of straight basketball in which time they will rest up before striking at the University of Iowa's 1933 hopes in the Big Ten race. The tall players from Iowa City are expected to furnish one of the toughest games in a series of tough games to the mostly inexperienced Bison team, whose loss of three excellent guards and a deft forward through athletic graduation last spring leaves many important defensive posts open to uninitiated sophomores.

Have Ten Day Rest

After the Jan. 3 encounter with Iowa, the college boys will have ten days for recuperation and scholastic effort before the official start of the 1933 North Central conference cage season with the University of South Dakota Coyotes as their guests at the physical education building.

Those expected to make the trip starting next week are: Donald Arthur, Viv McKay, and Bob Weir, senior basketeers and all-conference choices last season; Bud Marquardt, Acey Olson, Grant Mickelson, Lyle Stinson and Curtis Denenny, sophomore stars; and one other player may be called from the reserves to make the trip.

Golf Instruction Is Offered Next Term

Art Hanson, Professional Player From Devils Lake, Selected To Teach Class

For the benefit of those who play golf, and who desire to make an improvement in their game during the winter months, without breaking any windows or light bulbs, the athletic department of the North Dakota State college is offering a course in golf instruction during the winter term. There will be one class a week for boys, and one for girls, and these will be given in the physical education building.

C. C. Finnegan has made arrangements with Art Hanson, Devils Lake Country club professional for the past three years, and golf instructor at the college last winter, to give the instructions. The exact time of the instructions has not been announced, but will be definitely scheduled at the beginning of next term.

Between Halves

By EVERETT WALLUM

While we have always rated All-Americans in the same category as a bowl of rancid tripe, we can't help but second the splurge of praise given Roman Meyers by Major Sasse. In both the George Washington and Army games Meyers towered over his adversaries. He repeatedly tackled the ball-carrier behind the line of scrimmage, the opposing end apparently powerless to take him out.

Any man with the proper press backing can be an all-American. I am surprised Babe Didrickson wasn't named.

Neither the Army or George Washington had a man as fast as Fritz Hanson. When Fritz ran all the sports writers could say was "gosh." Just plain gosh.

THEY THOUGHT McCARVER WAS FAST AT GEORGE WASHINGTON. WHEN FRITZ GOT AWAY FOR WHAT WOULD HAVE BEEN A TOUCHDOWN IF HE HADN'T STEPPED OUT OF BOUNDS HE WENT PAST McCARVER LIKE THE ORIENTAL LIMITED GOES THROUGH GARDNER.

If Summerfelt is an All-American, then so is Jahr, judging from the Army game.

No member of a North Dakota team has ever made the first All-American unless Jarrett's selection by a New York daily could be so classified. Claudie Miller was named all-Western by Billy Evans.

They've never heard of the North Central conference in the East. They probably think we're a bunch of trappers who ride buffaloes to work.

Easterners are great for publicity. Let a third string quarterback acquire an ulcerated tooth and it's front page stuff.

AND WHEN THE TOOTH IS PULLED THEY GET A PICTURE OF IT FOR THE ROTOGRAVURE SECTION.

But all that has nothing to do with the basketball game tonight. A feature of the game will be the insertion of Darkow, sensational Cobber freshman, into the lineup. Cleve is so excited about this boy, a center, that tears come to his eyes. Saaly hopes the tears will come out tonight.

The Bison will be in much better shape than a week ago. The football men are in basketball mood again.

Bison Rifle Squad Increases Members

One Hundred Ten Men Now Firing On Team According To Captain Conmy

The North Dakota State college rifle team has been steadily increasing in membership until there are now actually 110 men firing, according to Capt. J. B. Conmy, rifle team coach.

Because of the losses in the team due to graduation last year there will be room for seven new men to make up this year's rifle squad. As practically all the men trying out for the team are shooting very consistently it is going to be a difficult problem to select the seven men for the squad, says Captain Conmy.

The men will continue to practice until after the Christmas holidays at which time elimination matches will begin in order to narrow the men down to the most consistent shooters. The men are all shooting better than was anticipated and some of them in practice have made as good or better showing than some of the last year riflemen.

Donald Arthur, Theta Chi, will spend the weekend at his home in Mandan.

LETTERMEN HOLD MEETING

Making plans for activities during the winter term, North Dakota State college Lettermen's club held a meeting late Thursday afternoon. Viv McKay, Donald Arthur, Freddy Anderson and Walter Schoenfelder were named as a committee on dances sponsored by the group.

New Court Rules

Rule 14, Section 12. When a player has possession of the ball in his free throw lane with his back toward his basket, he must get the ball outside the lane within three seconds. The three-second limit applies even though he turns toward the basket. In other words, the three-second count starts as soon as he takes the position described, and continues as long as he is in the free throw lane regardless of whether he is facing the basket during part of the count. This ruling was made by the Executive Committee of the Joint Basketball Rules Committee October 24 and cancels previous interpretations concerning this rule.

Rule 8, Section 8. Failure to comply with the provisions of the ten-second rule is a violation, involving loss of ball to the opponents. At what point out of bounds is the ball awarded? If team A fails to get the ball out of its back court within ten seconds, the ball is awarded to team B out of bounds on the side opposite the point where it is when the official's whistle blows to call the violation. If team A, having advanced the ball to its front court, returns the ball to its back court illegally, the violation occurs when the ball passes the center line and therefore the ball is awarded out of bounds at one end of the center line. The whistle should not be blown, however, until the ball is touched in the back court by team A, because if it is first touched by team B it continues in play and the violation is disregarded. When the ball is passed back over the center line illegally by team A and then goes out of bound in team A's back court without touching any player, team A has committed two violations. In this case, the ball would be awarded to team B where it went out of bounds unless team B prefers to have the ball at mid-court. In other words, team B has an option.

If team A receives the ball in its front court from an out of bounds pass, regardless of the out of bounds point from which the pass was made, team A may cause the ball to go back over the center line once. The same is true if team A receives the ball on a jump ball tap, even though the jump ball may have taken place in team A's back court.

Some teams whose courts are small propose to use the ten-second rule by drawing two lines across the court, thirty-five or forty feet from either end line, instead of a center line. It is recognized that such a plan is desirable on many teams which are scheduled to play on the courts which are so changed. State or sectional associations are authorized to make such special arrangements for teams under their jurisdiction.

Bison Quint May Play Before Crowd of 10,000

North Dakota Team Meets Illinois University at Champaign Dec. 30

Prospects are that the Bison will play before a crowd of more than 10,000 people on one of their games in the Christmas trip, which begins for the Bison next week.

This is the information given The Spectrum today by Coach Leonard Saalwaechter, who just received special word from Champaign, Ill., concerning the Bison-U of Illinois game on Dec. 30. A special request of twenty copies of each newspaper mat of the team was made by the Illinois school which is giving the game with the Bison special publicity throughout daily and weekly papers of that state.

Basketball players from all the high schools in the middlewestern state are to be guests of the Illinois team at the Bison game, which accounts for the large crowd expected, Coach Saalwaechter says. The Bison coach is a graduate of the Illinois coaching school and a friend of Coach Craig Ruby, mentor for the Big Ten team.

Two opportunities for viewing the play of their holiday competitors are planned for the Bison. Next Saturday the Bison will be at Iowa City to witness the Iowa-Carleton game and following the game at St. Louis, the entire squad plans to drive to Columbia, Missouri, to watch the Illinois team play with the Missouri university quint.

CORRECTION: The freshman football squad will have their pictures taken on Monday afternoon at 4:30 instead of on Thursday.

A meeting of Gamma Tau Sigma journalistic fraternity was held yesterday noon following dinner in the Ceres hall dining room.

Girls Rifle Team Have First Meeting Of Year

Final Squad Shoots Telegraph Matches With Several Universities

The girls interested in trying out for the women's rifle team held a pre-holiday meeting in the physical education building Tuesday night, continuing activity in that branch begun the week before.

While there will be no more meetings held this term, meetings will be held after the holidays. The team will meet every Wednesday at four o'clock.

There are four or five girls trying out for the team this year who fired on the team last year; the rest of the squad will be made up of some of the members making their first attempt, according to Major E. A. Lathrop who is in charge of the women's team this year.

The team has already received challenges from several other schools that wish to fire rifle matches with the North Dakota State college women's rifle team, says Major Lathrop. He states that these matches will be held during the winter term.

There are now about thirty girls who wish to fire on the team and any more who wish to try out will be accommodated.

Bison Given Edge

The Bison have been given the slight edge as to the game in some quarters, but Concordia's past records must be considered. Last year they handed the Bison a defeat in an early-season contest and for the past two years they have won their annual settos with the University of North Dakota. The personnel of this year's squad has not had many changes made in it, and the 'dope bucket' is predicting a close battle.

As a tester of the Bison strength and improvement, the varsity has been scrimmaging the freshman team during the week. In the final scrimmage, which was held Wednesday afternoon, the varsity boys overwhelmed the yearlings by a score of 50-15. The several injuries that have been received by players in the weekly practices are fully healed and all players will be ready for action tonight.
