ENGINEERS ENTERTAIN AT ANNUAL BALL HELD NEXT FRIDAY EVENING

Engineers' Club Is Sponsor of Function To Be Held In Festival Hall

JACK DINGLE IS MANAGER

Assistant Manager, Committees Are Named By Group To Make Arrangements

The Engineers' Ball, annual function sponsored by the campus Engineers' club, will be held on Friday evening of this week in Festival hall, according to Jack Dingle, ball manager.

The affair, which is informal in nature, will be a program dance. New ideas in decorations and features will be presented, according to the committees in charge. In the past the ball has been held in the spring term but this year the club, recognizing the fact that there are several functions of a similar nature at that time, made the decision to hold the party in the fall term.

Co-operating with Mr. Dingle as assistant ball manager is Oliver Blecken, in charge of the various committees are the following students: Edwin Perry and Vernon Lindquist, decorations; publicity, Edward Comm; floor manager, Orville Sundberg; chaperons, Leo Schwehr; refreshments, Albert Nelson; programs, Ernest Hall; and tickets, Idan Flaa.

Those who will chaperon are Dean and Mrs. R. M. Dolve, Mr. and Mrs. George Yott, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Van Dyke, and Dr. and Mrs. Waldo E. Smith. "Since this is the only ball of the fall term, the managers are looking forward to a good crowd. If you attended the Engineers' ball last spring you know what to expect in the way of entertainment," said Mr. Dingle today.

English Fraternity Gives Two Students Active Membership

Kilbourne, Hyland Initiated Into Sigma Tau Delta Group On Sunday

Initiated into active membership in Sigma Tau Delta, national honorary English fraternity at services held in the Gamma Phi Beta sorority apartment on Sunday afternoon were John Hyland and Howard Kilbourne, junior and sophomore in the school of science and literature, respectively.

Gerald Garlid, chapter president, was in charge of services. Following initiation a tea was held with Aldyth Pinkham, Marjory Archer, and Jeanette Greenshields pouring.

POSTPONED "Y" MEETING HELD ON THURSDAY

The first meeting of the "Y" discussion group was postponed because of the blizzard on the 17th. It will be held the evening of Thursday, Dec. 1, at 8 o'clock, in the college Y.

B. C. B. Tighe will introduce the topic "New Morals for Old," and everyone is requested to come prepared to ask questions and discuss the address.

Thursday's meeting is scheduled as a first of a series of discussion programs to be launched under the auspices of the college "Y." Detailed plans of later meetings are to be set forth.

Members of Guidon, national sorority for sponsors of military units will be held Wednesday evening at 6:00 in the Gamma Phi Beta apartments, according to Paula Verne, president of the local chapter.

CLIFFORD ALBIN IS PEP CLUB PRESIDENT

Clifford Albin, sophomore in the school of pharmacy, was elected president of the 1932-33 Pep club at a meeting held last Tuesday afternoon in Science hall.

The presidency was left vacated when James Parkins, elected last spring, did not return to school this year. Theodore Loy, vice president, also failed to appear, and Louis Whalen, pharmacy sophomore, was chosen as his successor. Plans were laid for future basketball games.

Several new members were considered and voted into membership at this meeting.

Another meeting of the group will take place this afternoon in Science hall, room 314, at 4:15 o'clock. Last year's members are particularly requested to attend, according to Mr. Albin.

Only this afternoon and tomorrow remain for students to buy their cuts rights at The Bison office or from the following students: Abbie Porter, Ruth Olson, Elbridge Hollands, Ellen Blair, Ruth Baker, Winnifred Ewald, Marcella Gray, Idan Flaa, Cathryn Ray, Lynn Fredrikson, Lois Presler, Maine Shafer, John Spalding, Mervin Dahlin, Frieda Panimon, Edward Johnson, Thomas King, Carl Freeman, Bud Miller, Lawrence Bilden, Arthur Walper, and John Dixon.

Students who have purchased their cuts are urged to fill out activities cards in The Bison office immediately in order that the student section of the annual may be complete before the first of the year.

Story Telling Groups Will Give Phantasy

"Birthday of the Queen's Favorite" Is Presented by State College Students

The story-telling classes of the public speaking department are combining efforts to write and produce a children's playlet, a phantasy made up of story book characters, to be presented Friday at 4 p. m. at the Little Country theater for the Fargo grade school children. Miss Alice Bender is in charge of the production, the name of which is "The Birthday of the Queen's Favorite."

The cast of characters helps to convey the nature of the play, the gist of which is, that the occasion is in celebration of a pet dog's birthday anniversary, and the children's interest is sustained by the actions of the jester, the King's Horseman, the Gingham Dog—and other characters dear to childish imagination.

The story-telling classes presented "Alice In Wonderland" last spring with very fine success. This is of a similar nature.

NOTICE

There will be no YMCA Cabinet meeting on Wednesday evening. Leo Anderson, pres.

Four One-Act Plays Presented As Class Projects In Contest

Dramas Are Given Thursday Evening By Students In Country Theater

Four one act plays, "The Man in the Bowler Hat," "The Flattering Word," "In the Morgue," and "Where the Cross Was Made," are the choices of the freshman, sophomore, junior and senior classes respectively, to be presented in the annual one-act play contest Thursday, Dec. 1 at 8 p. m., in the Little Country theater. The annual competition is sponsored by the Edwin Booth Dramatic club.

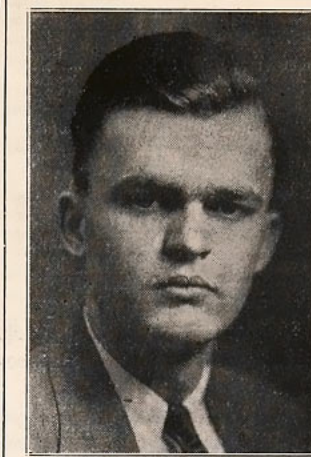

The freshman play, formerly under the direction of Virginia Baker, is a combination of a farce and a fantasy, written by A. A. Milne. Owing to Miss Baker's illness, the direction will be in the hands of Richard Randlett. The story concerns the events that transpire in an ordinary home when the inmates begin to wish for excitement. The cast includes Corrine Lawrence, William Breitenbach, Ralph Anderson, Jean Simonson, Paul Bolayn, Dana Smith, and Clifford Altermatt.

The sophomore play is under the direction of Kenneth Hamry, the cast including William Stewart, Kathryn Marks, Evelyn Davis, Helen Tarplee, and Clifford Swanson. George Kelley's play, "The Flattering Word," will be their presentation, and will offer a contrast to the program of plays by way of comedy.

"In the Morgue," by Sada Cowan, will be directed by David Minard. The cast includes Norin Johnson, Frederick Martin, William Murphy, and David Minard. The play is in the nature of a tragedy, dealing with a group of men who are intent on finding rare jewels in the tomb of an ancient mummy.

Jean Pote, who directs the senior class play has selected as her cast Charles French, Frederick Anderson, Frank Callinan, Frank Clark, John Dixon, Earl Grove, and Frances Nichol, to fill the roles in Eugene O'Neil's play "Where the Cross Was Made," a drama of the sea.

Chemists Work Upon Bakelite Substitute

State College Graduates Receive Results Equaling Those of German Firm

Two graduate chemists of North Dakota State college are working daily on a product that some day may mean a great industry in North Dakota. They are Ed Peterson and Elsmere Chamberlain.

The product is one commonly known as bakelite, but differs from it in that it is manufactured from North Dakota lignite. The significance of the project is that oils obtained in the process of briquetting lignite coal contain twenty times more of the chemicals from which bakelite is made than those from coke which is commonly used.

A company in Germany working on oils from North Dakota lignite has had good results, but not better than those achieved at North Dakota State, according to Mr. K. A. Loven, head of the Lehigh Briquetting company in Fargo, which furnishes the oils for experiments here.

Properly manufactured, the lignite product is odorless, more flexible than ordinary bakelite, and commercially as easily produced, says Mr. Loven.

A THOUGHTFUL ACT

Especially commendable was the fine Thanksgiving spirit displayed by a number of State college sororities last week in preparing Thanksgiving dinners for needy families in Fargo.

The remembering of those less fortunate than themselves in a time when everyone is more or less pinched by circumstances, is worthy of high praise. Without expectations of widespread praise but the genuine desire to make more happy the Thanksgiving celebration for a number of needy family groups, were these donations of food and time made by the campus co-eds.

To say that the college carried a warmer spot in the hearts of a number of townspeople from the actions of those groups is needless to say.

OBSERVE AND CHECK

Do a little observational work on your own initiative this week.

Watch those students who seem to be enjoying life to the fullest extent through lack of effect at this time. Observe other members of the student body, in the minority, usually who are busily removing many term projects through effort at this time. Tabulate your observations.

Three weeks from now—the closing of the fall term—take the trouble to observe again those representatives of various types of students. Observe the harassed activity of the former group, now caught with a term of work on their hands, besides the necessary review work for the final examinations. Strained smiles replace the complacent expressions of several weeks before.

Notice the students, who were preparing all their term work three weeks before the examination period. Their load is not depressing since a great share of their burden had been shifted out of the way by concerted action in a period when there was no pressure of pre-examination reviews or final summaries of the courses. You will find them continuing at a regular pace of studies with extra time to pursue recreations and being able to do a good job with both activities.

The next three weeks will be major ones in the scholastic activities of a number of the students on the college campus. Concerted effort now can make outstanding differences in standings of the various students in the many fields of study offered here at this college.

IGNORANCE AS A SOCIAL ASSET

The Daily News of New York university recently conducted a survey among the co-eds there, asking them the rather unfair question of why they came to college. It is true that about half of those interviewed said they had come in search of education. Others naively admitted that they were looking for a good time. But the reply made by three deserves special consideration. They answered that their parents thought every girl should have a higher education as a social asset.

The social asset that is conventionally considered of most importance is the ability to be as much like one's fellow social participants as possible, and to be able to talk volubly, colloquially, continually and unthinkingly. There must be no obvious idiosyncrasies, no rough edges, no extreme inferiority or superiority—just a dull dead level of approximate equality.

It is evident that if many succumb to the idea that higher education is a social asset, then many will accept a higher education for this purpose. As a consequence the educational level of society will be raised, and those who never intended to listen to lectures will be obliged to do so, or else face social ostracism for not having emulated their companions. A degree may become as necessary as a bank account.

This seems a waste of time that could otherwise be devoted to the enjoyment of social pleasures. Since the whole object is to be similar, it does not matter much at what educational or intellectual level this similarity is. Why not a mutual agreement, then, to confine education to those years when one is too young to do anything else,—too young to flutter on one's social wings? Society would not be impaired, for all would be alike in their ignorance. And it is far simpler to have ignorance a social asset—it is more innate in human nature; it need not be acquired by dint of labor.

ROWDY REMARKS

20-0 vs. 12-0. Perhaps it is proof enough that the Bison are the real champs—now may the perpetual kings from up North hop in they "kayaks" and quietly steal away—until next year.

One very observing instructor made the statement that this school is a place of over-rated people. Yes, and some that are under-rated, too. Does it take much thought to name examples of each?

The title of the column in the Cooper Union Pioneer is "Light Whines and Sneers." Might easily be the name of a publication we've heard of—but it generally goes in for heavier and harder stuff.

They say that one instructor's romance is progressing nicely, each Saturday, to the whistles and war-whoops accompanying that thriller serial, "The Last of the Mohicans."

After reading some old college publications—namely three "Pull Pisons" and the famous "gripe" issue—we've come to the conclusion that we know everything now. Yep! The campus "brains" played the role of martyrs and shot their wad—they gave their all that the world might be safe for little Susie. Let us profit by their knowledge, however unhampered by facts it might be.

And the Theta Chis still continue to have strenuous, nerve-wracking matches of Ping-Pong. Whoops, my dear!!

A column in the Fargo high paper proudly makes the statement that a "wattagal" in their midst has taken "Fritz" over as her one and only escort. Watta "wattagal."

Thank de lawd we're small—so far we've only had a shirt ripped off'n our back. Who was sore, when?

With the return of the "Brevities" will come the revival of that old gripe—which could easily be terminated by the delightful sight of seeing all those tap-dancers "dancing" on the end of a rope.

Wonder if that Delta Sig pledge is due to be more or less mortified—have to ask him at a later date.

A class in leading cheers has been started at Tulane university under the direction of two coed cheer leaders. They have reported that progress is being made and promise a bumper crop of well-schooled cheer leaders for next year.

The Princeton football team avoids any attempt at second guessing of plays while they are in the huddle by having the quarterback enter the huddle last so that he will have his play picked before he calls it.

Football fans who climbed to the top of a church to view secret football practice of the University of California became so numerous that police had to be called to dispel them from their perch.

A halfback on the Western Reserve football team entered his name in the immortal athletic annals of that school when he took a punt out of the arms of a fellow back and ran it back 50 yards to score the winning touchdown for Reserve against Case. This feat, by the way, was merely a duplication of his effort last year when he returned a punt 85 yards to score the winning touchdown against the same school.

Before Syracuse university adopted orange as its color it struggled along with rose-pink and pea-green for its standard hues.

The dean of women at Simmons university states that the "goody-goody" girls who come to school are the ones who cause her the most trouble in a disciplinary way and not the ones who come recommended as being normal girls who will likely misbehave if they are not watched. In her thirteen years of experience at Simmons the dean stated that she has had trouble with only a small percentage of the girls under her care.

MISS DOROTHY HATCH TEACHES CRAFTS CLASS

A crafts class will be organized at the winter term at the North Dakota State college by Miss Dorothy Hatch, art instructor, to meet on Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 4 o'clock with one more hour a week to be arranged later.

This class, a popular one in former years, is being arranged by Miss Hatch to care for those who desire the course but who would not be able to get it otherwise this year because of the reduction in the art department.

The purpose of the class is to develop fine craftsmanship. Problems studied are bookbinding, leather, and metal. This course is the foundation for an advanced crafts class which will probably be formed the spring term. Jewelry, weaving, and wood carving problems will be taught at this time.

NEMZEK GIVES TALK ON COLLEGE GRADES

Francis E. Nemzek this term a transfer from Lehigh, delivered a fifteen-minute address, "The Meaning of College Grades," over station WDAY for the Federated Women's Club of North Dakota last Wednesday.

"When one realizes," Mr. Nemzek summarized his talk, "that the primary purpose of a college is to teach the student to think, to teach him how and where to find knowledge, and then to apply it efficiently, it is easy to realize how grades, the indications of success in college life, may have a direct bearing on the student's probable success after leaving school."

"Slothfulness, carelessness, dissipation, lack of initiative, inability to concentrate, and other characteristics to which poor grades may be attributed, will follow the student into the less tolerant world of work. There he will be heavily penalized for them, just as he would have been rewarded if his attributes were their antitheses."

THREE PARTIES ARE HELD OVER WEEKEND

Phi Omega Pi sorority entertained their guests Friday evening in Festival hall. A medley of sorority songs was a feature of the program. Chaperons for the affairs were Dr. and Mrs. L. M. Redman and Mr. and Mrs. Dudley C. Bayliss.

Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity was host in the college Y. M. C. A. building the same evening. About 40 couples were present with Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Kellogg and Prof. and Mrs. A. J. Munro chaperoning.

The night club idea was carried out in the party given by Delta Tau Epsilon fraternity in the college Y. M. C. A. building Saturday evening with refreshments served following the dancing. Specialty numbers were given by Prudence Yager and Ben Boyden. The affair was chaperoned by Messrs. and Meses. K. H. Henning and Rudolph Otterson.

Frances Plaggmeir and Ruth Barrett went to Minneapolis for Thanksgiving.

On The Campus

KAPPA DELTA PI, formerly Phi Beta Nu, is a national honorary education fraternity, and has for its aim a higher degree of devotion to social service through the fostering of high intellectual and personal standards during the period of preparation for teaching, and recognizing outstanding service in the field of education.

KAPPA EPSILON, women's national pharmaceutical society, has for its purpose the uniting of women taking pharmacy, the stimulation in its members of a desire for high scholarship, and the fostering of professional consciousness.

The purpose of the NORTH DAKOTA LETTERMEN'S CLUB is to better athletic conditions. The club gives dances throughout the year and aids in the May festival.

The NORTH DAKOTA PHARMACY CLUB was founded in 1906 to promote interest in pharmacy, and a spirit of cooperation and sociability among its members. It sponsors Papyrus Ebers, the pharmacy ball, and several lectures every year.

SPECTRUM CRITIC

"The Most Dangerous Game" a rather unusual picture, is showing now at the State theater. Starring Joel McCrea and Fay Wray, it is the story of a man who, living on a deserted island, deliberately wrecks ships by misplacing light buoys. The survivors who make their way to his island he hunts down and kills. How McCrea finally overcomes this madman makes an interesting story.

Coming to the State Wednesday and Thursday is "Life Begins," with Loretta Young in the important role. It is advertised as a movie "concerning a subject which films have hitherto not dared to touch."

Joe E. Brown is coming back to town and this time he has chosen the Fargo theater as his rendezvous and on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week, this "King of Comedy" will entertain you in the photoplay "You Said a Mouthful," with Ginger Rogers playing the leading feminine role. Joe in this show is a nonsinkable swimmer with a nonsinkable bathing suit, made a hero when he won a marathon race with Ginger as his inspiration.

"If I Had a Million" is now being shown at the Fargo, with an all-star cast including Gary Cooper, Wynne Gibson, Jack Okie, Frances Dee, Charles Ruggles and George Raft.

"Symphony of Sir Million," showing at the Roxy the first half of the week, is the story of a young man for whom his family sacrifices in order that he may prepare for a doctor's career. Showing the latter part of the week is "Lena Rivers," a melodrama of the nineties, starring Charlotte Henry and James Kirkwood.

Miss Mary Jane Grimes, a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority at the University of Minnesota, was the weekend guest of Margaret Dadey. Miss Grimes was a dinner guest at the local chapter of Alpha Gamma Delta in the chapter house Friday.

Informal dancing parties were given by Phi Omega Pi sorority and Alpha Gamma Rho and Delta Tau Epsilon fraternities over last weekend.

BISON DEFEAT MAROONS TO KEEP CONFERENCE RECORD UNBLEMISHED

MAY MAKES INITIAL TALLY

State Uses Two Teams In Downing Morningside Players Before Sioux City Fans

The North Dakota State college Bison wound up their 1932 football season in a very creditable manner Thanksgiving day, by defeating the morningside Maroons of Sioux City, Iowa, by a score of 20 to 0. The game, a traditional contest of the southern school, was the windup of the North Central conference competition and also a fitting climax for one of the most successful seasons that the Bison have experienced for some number of years.

There was an approximate crowd of 3,500 persons in attendance and the weather conditions were the most favorable that they had been at any time during the past two weeks. Both teams played a good brand of ball, but the superiority of the Statemen was quite in evidence throughout the contest.

Hanson Scores Twice

Fritz Hanson was the outstanding performer of the contest, accounting for two of the touchdowns made by the Bison. His most sensational run was 92 yards. Receiving the kickoff on his own 8-yard line, he followed his interference for a short distance and then cut over to the left side of the line, and raced for the goal. The second touchdown which Hanson scored was made on a 26-yard through the entire Maroon aggregation.

George May, elusive Bison halfback, accounted for the first touchdown of the contest on a pass which he received from Schollander. Teaming with Hanson and May, Johnny Fisher came through with one of the best performances he has displayed this season. He played most of the contest and ripped off long gains around the flanks and also off-tackle. It was Fisher's work that helped put the ball in scoring position for the two touchdowns.

Two full Bison teams were used in the contest, and each man bore the burden which was placed on him in a very efficient manner. The entire contest was void of injury and, even though the lack of practice was somewhat noticeable, the team carried the fight that they have displayed during the past season.

Outstanding players of Morningside were Haenfler, the unanimous choice for fullback on the all-conference team chosen by the loop mentors, Sherwood, playing quarterback and Bones, an all-conference guard.

Captain Conmy Urges Students To Try Out For College Rifle Team

Range Opens Yesterday For Instruction and Practice Before Sweepstakes

Capt. J. B. Conmy, rifle team coach, urges that everyone who desires to try out for the team to do so at once. Candidates who failed to make the team in former years are especially requested to turn out.

Though there are approximately ninety candidates now firing on the team a much greater number can be handled. Everyone who is interested should try out immediately so that he will not be detained in firing, according to Captain Conmy.

The range was opened yesterday. Those whose names begin with the letters A to H, inclusive, will fire on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. The remainder will perform on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. This arrangements will be reversed on alternate weeks.

There are four and a half weeks of instruction and practice before the annual sweepstakes shoot to determine the team membership. This shoot will open on Jan. 16, closing Jan. 27.

Whether there will be a Coyote annual at South Dakota university this year is a question to be solved soon as the student body of that school make their decision known in a college election. Activity in pushing the project has been carried out under the direction of the Student Senate, organization acting as agent for the students.

Between Halves

By EVERETT WALLUM

Football will still be a live topic until after the first of the year. What with the Rose Bowl game and with everybody old enough to write picking all-America, all-conference, and all-sectional elevens, the pikskin clings to the spotlight even after basketball has made inroads into its rightful season.

BUT WHAT HAS HAPPENED TO THE CHARITY POST SEASON GAMES WHICH DOTTED THE COUNTRY A YEAR AGO?

Maybe they figured football was enough of a give and take affair without giving the money derived from it.

Down at Morningside a few Maroon enthusiasts kept shouting "Where's this Fritz Hanson we've heard so much about? Where is he, anyway?" Less than a minute later Fritz grabbed a punt on his own eight yard line and showed the spectators where he was by running 92 yards for a touchdown. Everyone knew where he was on that run, except possibly, the Morningside team.

FRITZ DID QUITE A BIT TO ENLIGHTEN SIOUX CITY FANS. THE NIGHT BEFORE THE GAME, CASEY ASKED SANDERSON, THE MAROON COACH, WHAT HE HAD DONE TO STOP FRITZ HANSON. "FRITZ HANSON?" QUERIED SAUNDERSON, "HMMM FRITZ HANSON, WHO IS HE?" THE NEXT DAY HE FOUND OUT.

In winning seven out of nine games, the Bison equalled the 1930 mark when they lost two tough ones to Michigan State and U. N. D.

Having seen the Army play we were naturally surprised at the thoroughness with which Notre Dame trounced the soldiers. We figure the Army was "kept up there" too long, that the players had become stale from playing teams less strong than the Ramblers.

At that the Army could do little with the Bison's line. If it hadn't been for their accurate passing the margin of victory would not have exceeded two touchdowns. Vidal would have made that many because we sort of suspect he's good. None of the other backs could gain through a fighting Bison forward wall.

Next year the Bison should consider a special pass play in which Fritz Hanson throws the ball and then runs up to catch it. That should fool anybody. Even the ball.

Milton Jacobson Is Chosen 1933 Bison Football Captain

Milton Jacobson, regular end on the Bison football team during the past championship season is the 1933 captain of the North Dakota State college team, having been elected to this post by his teammates at the close of this year's football campaign, the Thanksgiving game with the Morningside Maroons.

Jacobson a junior in the school of education, is just completing his third year of football at the school. He is rated among the most versatile linemen in the conference, holding down the regular kicking duties for the Bison and being able to alternate as a ball carrier from the kick formation. He played as a regular in the freshman backfield three years ago.

Playing as end on college teams is a new experience for Jacobson, who starred in the backfield throughout his high school days at Madison, Minn.

Two years ago when Bob Lowe, line coach for the Bison, was faced with the problem of developing two ends to replace Bill Hiltz and Sam Westgate, both allconference performers at the wing positions, Jacobson was among the performers at other positions, called to make a trial as a flankman. He won a regular berth as a sophomore end on the second team picked by the Associated Press for the North Central conference during the past season over an impressive array of loop linemen.

"Saaly"

Coach Leonard T. Saalwaechter better known on the campus as "Saaly" will begin his seventh year as basketball coach for North Dakota State when his charges open their season Friday night with a doubleheader opposing Wahpeton Science and Firestone Tire company's teams.

Roman Meyers Given Recognition In East For Play At End Post

Major Sasse and Alan Gould Compliment Bison All-Conference End

It is not often that North Dakota football players receive complimentary notice for play in the eastern section of the country, especially if their teams lose by large margins, but Roman Meyers, Bison end, has been especially complimented.

Not only did Major Ralph Sasse, coach of the Army football team, say that Meyers was one of the outstanding ends he had seen perform all season but Alan Gould, featured Associated Press sports writer, considered his play in the game against the West Point Cadets of enough merit to place the Bison flankman among his all-American teams at large.

It was unfortunate that Milton Jacobson, the right end for North Dakota State, spent most of the Army encounter on the bench with a leg injury. Both the Bison end posts were considered among the strongest in this region, with a reserve strength which includes players such as Bud Marquardt, Acey Olson, and Jimmy Berdahl.

Other honors, which came to Meyers this season include his selection on the all-conference team picked this fall by the coaches of the North Central conference. He has one more year of varsity competition.

Bison Show Ability To Pick Opponents

Now that the time for all-conference choices is upon us, and putting by the fact that we have been practically deluged with different selections from all possible sources, we still have one source which we consider important enough, from the students' standpoint, to mention.

It is customary for the conference champions to name an all-conference team consisting only of the members of the teams that have opposed them during the past season. This year, it has been the good fortune of the North Dakota State college Bison to have the privilege of naming this particular mythical aggregation. The choice was made by the members of the squad immediately following the Morningside game on Thanksgiving day and the results are as follows:

Meinhover, N. D. U., and Hoppel, S. D. U., tackles.
Malo, N. D. U., and Bones, Morningside, guards.
Cummer, S. D. S., center.
Pierce, N. D. U., quarterback.
Sherwood, Morningside, and Hanson, S. D. U., halfbacks.
Haenfler, Morningside, fullback.

We wonder what would be the results of a game of the local gridders with Notre Dame, taking consideration of comparative scores. The Army of course, is the team furnishing the basis of comparison.

NEED FOR DEFENSIVE STARS IS APPARENT IN EARLY BISON WORKOUT

Veterans Make Good Showing In Pre-season Scrimmages Against Frosh

Lack of seasoned defensive stars is still a problem in the camp of the conference title-defending Bison basketball quint, as preparations are underway for the opening games Friday night.

Viv McKay, all-conference guard of last season, now rounding into shape for the court season after the completion of the football schedule, seems a logical candidate for one guard position, but the other post is still a matter of competition among several sophomore and varsity players. Grant Mickelson, sophomore is rated among the leading prospects for the post with Lyle Stinson, Leo Gerteis and Arnold Mickelson among competing players. Performances in Friday's games are expected to determine standings of a number of the performers.

"Chuck" Taylor, a former regular player on the New York Celtic professional basketball team of New York city, will give a demonstration of trick basketball tonight in the Physical Education building at 7:30. The freshman squad will be practicing at this time and will aid Mr. Taylor in his performance.

A special invitation is extended to all members of the student body and faculty of the college. All members of the State high school basketball teams will also be the guests of the athletic department of the school.

Doubleheader Friday

Coach Saalwaechter has scheduled a double header for the official opening of the basketball season Dec. 3. One team will oppose Earl Bute's Wahpeton Science team and the other will face the Firestone Tire and Rubber company's team of Fargo.

During the past week Coach Saalwaechter has been giving the varsity a series of offensive drills, centering them around Bob Weir, all-conference center. In their recent contests with the freshmen, they have displayed a snappy passing attack mixed with accurate shooting by Don Arthur, Curt Denny and Bob Weir, and have had little trouble in downing the frosh.

Football Men Return

The squad has been materially boosted the past week with the returning of McKay, Berdahl, Marquardt and Olson, members of the Bison football team. McKay and Berdahl are last year's lettermen while Olson and Marquardt are very promising sophomore candidates at center and forward.

The freshmen recently trounced the Firestone quintet of Fargo in a ragged contest. Both teams displayed strong offensives and weak defenses. The frosh found little difficulty in hitting the hoop while the Firestones' shooting revealed the lack of sufficient practice, but show promise of power.

Clean Victory Slate Given Bison Gridders

Bison Defeats All Colleges In Loop For Undisputed Championship

	W	L	T	Pct.
North Dakota State	4	0	0	1000
North Dakota U	2	1	0	666
South Dakota U	1	1	1	500
South Dakota State	1	2	1	333
Morningside	0	4	0	000

These are the standings of the teams of the North Central conference at the conclusion of the 1932 football season.

The Bison won the unquestioned championship by defeating North Dakota U, South Dakota U, South Dakota State, and Morningside, all the schools in the conference.

North Dakota U is in second place through their victories over South Dakota State and Morningside, they received their only setback of the season at the hands of the Bison.

South Dakota U defeated Morningside and tied with South Dakota State. Their single loss was at the hands of the Bison giving them an even 500 percentage. The game scheduled between North Dakota U and South Dakota U was cancelled because of snow and cold weather.

South Dakota State defeated Morningside tied with South Dakota U and lost contests to both North Dakota teams.

Morningside brings up the rear with 4 conference losses and no victories having lost one contest to each school represented in the conference.

Conference Delegates Convene In Chicago

West, Sioux Coach, Suggests Revamping of Loop Schedule

Several major issues relative to the affairs of the North Central conference are to be decided in Chicago today and tomorrow as the coaches of the various schools represented meet for their annual convention. C. C. Finnegan, who left Sunday, represents the school there.

Chief among the projects for 1933 under consideration is the one advocated by Jack West, coach of the North Dakota Sioux football team. His plan for revamping the schedule for grid games in 1933 include his school to play two games with the Bison two games with South Dakota State, one game with South Dakota university and one with Morningside.

After the close of the North Central conference meeting, C. C. Finnegan of the Bison coaching staff plans to remain in Chicago over Thursday and Friday to attend the Big Ten coaches' conference in the same city. Several games may be arranged with Big Ten schools for the Bison as a result of the meeting of the coaches.

4-H Club Displays Purebred Livestock

Annual Achievement Institute Convenes At State College Dec. 6.

On display at the North Dakota State college Dec. 6 and 7, and for sale Dec. 6, visitors to the annual Achievement Institute in session Dec. 6-9 will see the cream of North Dakota 4-H club livestock—66 head of the baby beeves, swine and lambs that clubsters in 19 counties have been able to muster, H. E. Rilling, state 4-H club leader announces.

The occasion is the seventh annual show and sale of market classes of club livestock, and no prouder moment in a year of diligent club activity is there for the youngster who leads the product of his skill and enthusiasm before the critical eyes of the judges Dec. 7. Outstanding of all the market livestock grown by the junior farmers this year, the show entries took commanding places at numerous local fairs and achievement programs, according to Mr. Rilling.

Not a contest for the sake of competition or personal glory but a school of practical experience in which the young livestock raisers gain many a lesson, the stock show holds an exceedingly important position in the achievement institute program.

Added incentives for the exhibitors are the premiums paid by bidders for the prize winning animals in each class. At the 1931 sale all three of the grand championship winners were auctioned to Weiller and Weiller, South St. Paul livestock commission firm, for 40 cents a pound for the baby beef, 42 cents for the hog and $3.25 for the lamb. The prices paid for the hog and the lamb were all-time records for the sale. In 1930 the Powers Hotel of Fargo paid 45 cents a pound for the grand championship beef calf.

The encouragement given the 4-H members by the numerous civic and commercial organizations at these sales has been of immense value in the development of interest in superior quality livestock Mr. Rilling says.

Judges of the show are E. J. Thompson, D. J. Griswold and Albert Severson, all members of the State college animal husbandry department. Frank Hyland, Devils Lake, and H. L. Finke, Minot, will act as auctioneers.

Ruth Westergaard Kappa Kappa Gamma, who underwent an operation for appendicitis last Wednesday, is recovering favorably in St. Luke's hospital, according to reports. Virginia Baker, a pledge of the same sorority, is also a patient at that hospital.

Guy Springer and Horace Spaulding, Alpha Tau Omega, were guests of their parents at their homes in Jamestown last week-end.

James Morris, Alpha Tau Omega, who had been a patient at St. Johns hospital, has returned to school.

Herbert Bodmer, George Janecky, and Clifford Albin, Kappa Psi, were guests of their parents at Kenmare, Barnesville, Minn., and Litchfield Minn., respectively.

STANLEY THOMPSON IS NAMED BALL MANAGER

pleted as yet for the ball, which inaugurates the formal season this year at the college. However, Mr. Thompson assures us that the affair will lack none of its usual color, which includes the traditional grand march, saber arch and military atmosphere.

Honor guests will include Governor William Langer, President J. H. Shepperd, military officers in Fargo and Moorhead, and members of Scabbard and Blade at North Dakota university.

The new uniforms which the advanced corps in military instruction adopted last year add to the effectiveness of military dress at a ball of this nature. As has been the custom in the past senior officers in the cadet corps will form an arch of drawn sabers under which the grand march will start.

STUDENTS ENTER PRINTING BUSINESS

North Dakota State students are not all mere students. Exceptions are Grant McCullough and Jack Knight who recently went into the printing business.

McCullough and Knight are operating a print shop at 602 N. P. avenue beneath the Alex Stern clothing store. They go to school mornings, working in the afternoons, and employ a printer who takes care of the business during the morning and who runs the two job presses.

Besides regular job printing the establishment monograms and sells stationery Christmas cards calling cards, party programs and other printing.
