STUDENT PETITION FOR THANKSGIVING HOLIDAY NOT TO EFFECT RULING

College Council Not Expected To Grant Vacation Next Week

YEAR'S SCHEDULE IS MADE

Early Dismissal of School Is Reason For Cutting Vacation Periods

The numerous student petitions in circulation asking for an extended Thanksgiving vacation in order that students residing near Fargo might have an opportunity to spend the week-end at home, are likely to have little effect on the college council's ruling, despite the fact that the Armistice holiday was not granted, Registrar A. H. Parrott said today.

Petitions have been circulated throughout the campus during the last week by students desiring the extended holiday period. These petitions which have been placed in various places have been signed by members of the student

North Dakota State college completes the school year around June 2, next spring, eliminating, by this ruling of the college council, nearly two weeks of school out of the year's schedule. Both the Thanksgiving and the Easter vacations were cut down somewhat to meet this cut in the school year.

Neither the Christmas or the vacation between the winter and spring terms suffered from the cutting of the schedule, according to Registrar Parott. Authorial granting of vacations would necessarily interfere with the schedule period of either one or the other of those two vacation periods.

The North Central scholastic conference, of which the State college is a member, requires that school be in session a certain number of days during the school year. In planning the pro-gram for the year the College Council, the legislative body of the institution, scheduled the minimum number of holidays for the students that they pos-sibly could.

Anothed factor related to the absence of a Thanksgiving holiday in the college porgram is that, if the holiday were not granted the students residing out of town would realize a financial saving.

Further circulation of the petition to the College Council to make a special reservation out of the year's schedule in granting a special Thanksgiving holi-day of two days is likely to be of little use at the present time, according to present information. Students will likely be in attendance at regular class-es on a week from Friday and Satur-

UNIVERSITY DEAN IS SPEAKER WEDNESDAY

Dean William G. Bek of the Liberal Arts school at the University of North Dakota will address the local chapter of the American Association of Univer-sity Professors and other interested people at 8 p. m. Wednesday in room 319, science hall, on the subject "On the Educational Frontier."

HONOR THE SCHOLAR

The man who spends his time in the pursuit of knowledge seems to be held in low esteem around here, as in many other colleges of America. He is not regarded as a real college student at all. He does not go to athletic games; he does not join any societies or go to any dances; he does not cry "rah, rah" when his superiors tell him to. Books, lectures or the laboratory occupy his time, and he peers at the printed word far into the night.

Of course, if he has eyes or ears for anything outside his work, he is not long left in peace. He is urged to get out and dance; to be a sport and come and listen to someone who will tell him to be a sport; to go to meetings and vote for people whom he does not know: to emancipate his individuality from the tyranny of books and submerge it in the beneficient rule of alleged student leaders. The poor individual is regarded as an incompetent man if he does not follow the general example of his fellows.

Revolutionary as the idea may be, we nevertheless think that the scholar has a place at college. For one thing there is an extensive library of which he may make use. There are intelligent professors who very likely know more than they dare reveal in lectures. And in his defense if may be argued that the scholar is not very much of a nuisance, he makes little noise and takes up little room, and he provides a passive target for those who wish to bandy about the word "apathy."

It may be further said that the scholar even does some good. He may acquire enough learning to later become a professor and thus ensure the continuance of universities. He may come across a new twig in the tree of knowledge. He may write a great book, or become a great specialist. And the world may be the better for him, though he has never grown hoarse at an intercollegiate struggle or made his head ache at an undergraduate social evening.

As he scholar is a one-sided man, lacking many of the more popular accomplishments, he will naturally come in for much criticism. But the world can do with an occasional one-sided man. They help life to have more meaning for the others, they add to our store of achievements and hopes.

TEAM WORK

Like the depression, this political campaign was quite a thing while it lasted—a regular tug-of-war. But it's over and now that the tumult and shouting has died, we're sticking by the choice of the majority. After all-it's' not our candidate or our opposing candidates, but our president and our government. We've had campaigns and campaigns and, have you noticed, the old world seems to be getting along all right regardless of the decision. We've heard there were people who thought a backwoods railsplitter couldn't accomplish things in a presidential chair!

This idea that America is the land of the people, by the people and for the people was not built in a single day; it took America's individual cooperation for us to reach the position we now hold

The teamwork that we need isn't the friction between parties nor post-election sulking. It's the good fellowship of a true American towards another—a teamwork in all parts for the true Ameri-

WELCOME HOME, BISON!

On behalf of the student body we would like to take this opportunity to welcome home our football team! During the last two weeks these players have acted in the capacity of representatives of the college, and we feel sure that they left a good impression with all those whom they came in contact with. Certainly one of the best advertising mediums that a school can have is its football team, and according to reports from the East, our "boys" certainly were no discredit to their school.

Though the scores of the games they played while gone indicate two defeats, all of the team's members gained valuable experience in more ways than one, especially those who have yet to be seniors. Certainly those scores could hold but small meaning when it is remembered that here at home the Bison are holding returned from an extended trip through the coveted conference championship, a fact on which the team is

We'll bet Mother Satre had a vision of the Y. W. C. A. co-ed prom to be staged tomorrow when she made this prophecy in 1449. If she didn't you can't prove it so our bet is still good. Anyway, the women have not only adopted a craze to dress like men, half women on this campus will pretend they are men-for one night only. They'll escort their girl friends and be proud of it; they'll lead the dancing deliberately; and they'll giggle and splurge giggle and giggle without relation to contest.

But best of all-secret ambitions will be realized. A silk hat, plaid pants, and a cane will make any woman a circus barker. A thick skin and a trunk and the same woman might be an elephant, depending upon her pro-portions. Quiet little women will be clowns. Natural born clowns will be toe dancers. Tight rope walkers will vie with Hula-Hula dancers for the most beautiful costumes. The fattest, the thinnest, the shortest, and the tall-est, the seal and the zebra, all will splurge for the trophies in the costume

And who'll be the zoo? Which cats will admit they're cats and come out in whiskers and cold noses? Will snakes appear? Will the church mouse disguised as a lion really roar and will the social lion dressed like a church mouse roar back? Will the giraffes really be neckers and the neckers really be giraffes?

Don't you wish you had the answer to these questions? But there will be no parade to this circus and there will be no tent flaps for men to peek under. This is exclusively a woman's party and as such it shall remain till women tire becomes a profitable profession.

Final Arrangements For J. F. Bell Award Complete, Says Dolve

Cash Prize For Constructive Idea Will Be Awarded At Commencement

Most of the final arrangements have been made for the James F. Bell award according to Dean R. M. Dolve, dean of the school of engineering. involved are presented below:

A prize of $350 will be awarded to the winner of the contest during the commencement exercises on June

2. The competition shall be entirely

3. Students should notify President Shepperd's committee in charge of the contest. Deans Bales, Minard and Dolve. should list their choice of subject with that committee.

4. The competition is open to any student in any department of the institution and on any subject, the purpose being that the award will be made for the most constructive idea. The donor of the prize defines "constructive idea" as one which contributes to the benefit of mankind.

5. The participants must develop their subject in such manner as to show clearly the processes of thought through which they have erected their premise

6. No limit is placed upon the num-ber of words which a competitor may deem necessary to develop his subject.

7. By stipulation of the donor of the prize the college is arranging a series of eight lectures on thinking and it is required that the entrants for the prize must show that they have attended at least a majority of these lectures.

8. These lectures are not for the purpose of supplying subject matter for contestants but to acquaint them with thought processes that have proved affective in solving problems as well as how to avoid pitfalls in thinking.

9. It is hoped that these lectures will by precept and example aid in arousing a high pitch of creative effort on the part of the contestants.

10. Some of these lectures will be given in convocation of the entire student body while others will be deliver-ed before that group which evinced genuine interest. Admittance to these ctures will continue free and open to all who desire to hear them.

11. The series of lectures will be completed by March first.

All entries must be in the hands of the committee not later than April fifteenth. It is therefore plain that contestants cannot await the delivery of these lectures before commencing work on their problems but should start at once.

13. The judges of the contest will be selected by the donor of the prize and will not be connected in any capacity with this institution. any official

The acid test for the much-hailed Home Ec "skill" is now at hand! Phi Upsilon Omircron, honorary home economics sorority, is staging a series of waffle suppers, the first of which was held last Sunday, from 5:30 to 7:30, in the little dining room at Ceres hall.

A very fair crowd went away with solemn joy in their hearts, beatific smiles on their faces, and crisp, golden waffles in their digestive tracts. They have taken a new lease on life. The success of the present younger generation was definitely assured, for could not the young college women make waffles that would tempt the most ju-dicious epicures? Mellow, aromatic, dicious epicures? Mellow, aromatic, delicately tinted, soul-inspiring, and eye-delighting,—

The eleven members of "Phi U", Betty McMorran, Helen Miller, Ellen Gardner, Veronta Weppler, Donalda McDonald, Jeanette McComb, Ruth and Isabel Barrett, Erlys Hill, Paula Verne, and Helen Lee, prepared and served the waffles.

SPECTRUM CRITIC

The "Big Broadcast" is finally in town and if you will notice the crowds trying to force their way into the Fargo theater this week you'll know that it must be 'the attraction ylus.'

The "Big Broadcast" is a plotless play made successful and attractive by extraordinary individual talent. Gathering together all our favorite radio entertainers, Paramount has been able to produce a picture that will please the majority of theater audiences. It will please them because of its mixture of atmospheric talent; for in this production we find comedy, interesting dialogue, the crooning of "Bing" Crosby; the jazzy rhythm of Cab Calloway and Vincent Lopez; the novel entertainment of the Mills Brothers; the soft southern lullables of Kate Smith and the tragic songs of Tracy, the street singer. Such a variety of entertainsinger. Such a variety of entertain-ment should satisfy the likes and the dislikes of any audience—and it's for this reason that it is one of the big Paramount hits of the year.

Showing now at the State theater is "Three On a Match," starring Ann Dvorak, Betty Davis, Joan Blondell, and Warren William. The story deals with three girl schoolmates, who meet again about ten years after they graduate from the grades. They dine to-gether for "old times sake," and after the meal is over light their cigarettes with one match. According to the su-perstition, one of the three is destined to die. Built around this superstition the story now carries the players through a swiftly-moving drama to a thrilling climax. Of the three feminine leads, Joan Blondell gives the best characterization.

STATE COLLEGE GRID TEAM RETURNS FROM TRIP EAST YESTERDAY

Fritz Hanson, Roman Meyers, Merlyn Jahr Are Praised By Sports Writers

ARMY DEFEATS BISON

Cadets Use Flawless Aerial Attack To Defeat Bison, According To "Casey"

Even though the Army defeated them by a score of 52-0, the Bison foot-ball squad returned to Fargo yesterday afternoon with light hearts and a feel-ing that they had done the best they ould do under the existing conditions.
The team, accompanied by coaches C.
C. Finnegan, R. A. Lowe, and E. J.
Wallum, alumni secretary, arrived at 2:45 p. m. yesterday on the North Coast
Limited.

While their journey did not net them while their journey did not net them a victory in either of their games, as far as the scores of the contests were concerned, they have a feeling that they have had a chance to show their abilities against two of the strongest teams of the country. They were continually handicapped by weather conditions, and the tiring results of the long trip showed up in both games,

Bison Receive Plaudits

Three State men received the recognition of the Eastern sports writers for their performances against the Army. Fritz Hanson was probably the most popular of these three, and it was his performance in the George Washington game that was one of the main drawing features for the crowd that wit-nessed the Army contest. Fritz, who was slightly injured in the second perwas slightly injured in the second period of the contest, received one of the biggest evations given any player from either team who was forced to leave the field. He was successful in several attempts to crash through the Army line, making one run of 26 yards.

Roman Meyers, veteran end, was lauded by players and coaches alike for his exceptional work in the game. Meyers proved to be one of the mainstays on the left side of the line, stop-ping many end runs, and breaking through their defense to frustrate several passes.

Teaming with Meyers and Hanson, was our old standby, Merlyn "Tug-boat" Jahr. Jahr continues his sea-son's performance at his guard position and was a vital point in the Bison line.

Army Passes To Win

The aerial attack with which the Army surprised North Dakota State Army surprised North Dakota State was almost flawless, according to "Casey" Finnegan. The timing was perfect and the ball came to the receiver in a "bullet-like" fashion. They rarely failed to complete their passes and these led to the downfall of the

One of the main features in the Bison defeat was the fact that the Army used two complete teams. Their first used two complete teams. Their first team, which, after its performance of the past three weeks, has been rated as the strongest team in the country, started against North Dakota State in the opening quarter and played through that period. They were replaced in the second quarter by a complete team that was equally as strong as the first group. This procedure was repeated in the second half, consequently putting the Bison at a disadvantage.

COLLEGE ASSOCIATION INSPECTS ATHLETES

The North Dakota State college and the University of North Dakota are among the sixty-eight institutions in nine states that are to be inspected with regard to the management of their ath-letics this year when the North Central association of colleges and secondary schools will complete its three year inspection program, according to a news story appearing in The Dakota Student

Short Shots

Well, now that "Casey" and his boys have returned, we wonder what will happen next?

While they were gone, the University got "cold feet" and canceled their game with South Dakota university, giving North Dakota State the championship whether we play Morningside or not.

We have an idea that this wasn't done out of the goodness of their hearts, because they predict that the Maroons will win over the conference champs.

But then, all champions receive abuse from some dissatisfied quarters.

Now that we have plenty of snow, we should hear something about the "winter sports" program.

Which reminds us—Last winter we won the conference basketball championship, the football cham-pionship this fall, and from all in-dications, "Saaly" and his boys are going to be plenty tough this year.

It looks as though good old North Dakota State has been staging a come-back in her athletic prowess.

And now there are rumors of revamping the makeup of the con-

Oh well, it takes the consent of five members to do this, so we won't worry about it for a while.

But to get back to more concrete facts, the male members of the fa-culty have gone and done it again. Somebody got an ambitious streak and decided to organize the "over-grown" handball league, otherwise known as volleyball.

If you see your favorite professor limping around the campus in another week, the cause of the ailment should be quite evident.

However, if such should be the case, we can look for plenty stiff exams along about Dec. 15.

EIGHT TEAMS REMAIN UNBEATEN AND UNTIED

Only eight football teams in the United States remain unbeaten and untied, according to an Associated Press article appearing recently.

Texas Christian's Horned Toads, with eight victories, one tie, and no losses, led the scoring with 259 points. Col-gate and Auburn ranked second and third. Colgate and St. John's of Col-legeville, Minn., are the only teams whose goal lines have not yet been

Game Between North and South Dakota Universities Is Officially Cancelled

BISON ARE UNDEFEATED

Only Game Left On Schedule Played With Morningside Thanksgiving Day

The North Dakota State college 1932 football team was awarded the North Central conference championship last Saturday when the game between the North Dakota university and South Dakota university which was scheduled to be played at Vermillion, was offically cancelled by the coaches of the respective schools.

So far, the Bison have an undefeated

So far, the Bison have an undefeated record, and at present they have one game that is to be played that will have a direct bearing on their conference rating. However the outcome of this contest will not deprive the Bison of their championship, because in any event they will remain at least one-half game ahead of their old rivals, the University of North Dakota.

Acording to a news item in The Student, the University's official student publication, they expect the Bison

Is Introduced In East

Sophomore Halfback Would Be College's Candidate for Mythical Team

One of the newer trends in football of the eastern section of the nation is the installation of teams with 150 pound player weight limit, playing on a regular schedule of games

The exhibitions of the smaller and faster men rival those of the burly teams in fan interest, reports from the the eastern schools indicate. Only just recently a large crowd of spectators watched Rutgers college's lightweight gridders beat the Princeton 150-pounders in a gridiron duel.

While Fritz Hanson, North Dakota State's platinum blond speed boy, is mentioned to have made a certain All-American player "look like a truck

North Dakota State's Large Athlete Plant Scene Of Workouts

Even though the din of the gridiron has not entirely died out of the realms of the North Dakota State college campus, the preliminary activity of Leonard T. Saalwaechter's basketeers has begun to permeate the portals of the physical education building. Several of the varsity men have been unable to report for regular practice as yet, due to the continuance of the football season, but many of the freshman candidates have been practicing daily for the past three weeks.

The season will officially open Dec. 3, when the varsity will engage the Firestone All Stars of Fargo. This is to be followed by the annual combat with Concordia college of Moorhead on the local court Dec. 10.

These are to be the only games that are to be played before the holiday season. However, the Christmas vacation will find Coach Saalwaechter and his charges invading southern schools and colleges on their annual tour.

Eight Students View Architecture Exhibit In Minnesota Cities

Prof. P. W. Jones Escorts Group Through Study Tour Last Week

Having completed a week's excursion, studying architecture and allied arts in the Twin Cities, eight students of the department of architecture here and Paul Jones returned to Fargo, Sunday. The trip was made under the supervision of Professor Jones by the direction of Prof. Homer B. Huntoon, head of the department.

Each year a tour of Minneapolis and St. Paul is sponsored by the department, giving the students an oppor-tunity to study the latest actual developments in architecture in the terri-tory. This year, the most outstanding building visited was the new city hall in St. Paul, according to Professor Jones. Its design is much like that of the North Dakota state capitol now being erected: both plans were drawn by the same architects. The limestone ex-terior and the interior finished completely with panels of fine grained woods are being repeated in the state woods are being repeated in the state edifice. "In inspecting the City Hall, we were able to get a very good idea of what the State Capitol will look like," said the professor.

One half day was spent at the Art Institute where the imported period rooms were studied.

rooms were studied.

These are rooms actually taken from ruined castles in England and France, the paneling, furnishings and draper-ies imported and set up at the Institute. Tudor, Queen Anne, and Georgiane periods are represented from England and the three Louis periods from France. There are also a group of American Colonial rooms.

A lecture on etchings and their production was given for the students by Alexander Maseley of the Art Insti-tute. At the University of Minnesota they attended regular classes and "were satisfied that the work done here is on a par with that done there."

In Minneapolis the group was taken through the new Bell Telephone building where they studied the mechanical equipment as well as the architecture. Calls made on dial and automatic telephones were traced on the different
