GRAD COMING FARTHEST FOR HOMECOMING GAME AWARDED BUFFALO ROBE

First Time Prize of This Nature Is Awarded, According To Mr. Wallum

NARUMS HAVE EDGE NOW

Store Decorations and Float Entries Are Being Made For Parade

To the graduate coming the longest distance to attend the Homecoming program, a genuine buffalo robe will be given, it was announced today by Everett Wallum, North Dakota State college alumni secretary. This is the first time that a prize of this nature has been given to anyone coming the farthest for Homecoming.

With the arrival here of Mr. and Mrs. Foss Narum of Northampton, Mass., both graduates of the class of '29, it will be necessary for a former student to come over a distance of 1800 miles in order to win the robe.

According to advance inquiries received at the alumni office and those received at the office of Frank Webb, North Dakota university alumni secretary, a record breaking crowd will be in attendance at the Homecoming football game between the Bison and the University Sioux. Among this crowd there will quite probably be some one coming a greater distance than the Narums, says Mr. Wallum.

Meanwhile fraternities and sororities and other campus groups are working on plans for their home decorations and for their floats, individual costumes and group costumes, which will be entered in the Homecoming parade. A cup will be awarded to the group entering the winning float, another cup to the winners of the group costumes, and three and two dollar prizes for the best individual costumes. A cup will also be given to the downtown store presenting the best decorated window on Homecoming day. Groups who because of the financial depression will not enter floats are urged to be represented in the parade by group or individual costume entries.

Plans for the Bison barbecue are in the hands of a committee headed by George Kafton. Decorations and entertainment at the alumni banquet in the evening after the game are being cared for by Donald Alstrup, '32. Vaudeville and other entertainments will be provided by students and alumni, according to Mr. Alstrup.

Students planning to go to the Homecoming dance in the evening must bring their registration cards and alumni must obtain tickets at the alumni office. Student and alumni representatives will be stationed at the door, and in this way the outsiders will be kept out, according to Mr. Wallum.

MEMBERS OF GOLD STAR BAND GIVEN PROMOTION

Several members of the North Dakota State College Gold Star band have received promotions in military rank, according to Dr. C. S. Putnam, director. Corporals Philip Koppang and Frank Callinan have been advanced to sergeant rank and Jack Aiken, Donald Fredrikson, George Burt, James Lund and Neil Trace are now corporals.

FRED WALDRON ATTENDS MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY

Fred Waldron, '32, is attending the University of Minnesota this year, where he is taking graduate work in geology, with special work in oil geology. During the past summer Waldron has been doing field work for the University of Indiana at Bloomington. He is a brother of Charles Waldron, '33, and a son of Prof. L. R. Waldron.

William Phillips, Canadian baritone, who sings "Valentine" in opera "Faust" at the college Nov. 17.

Presentation Of Faust Marks Peak Of College Musical Entertainment

State College Presents Opera In Conjunction With Chicago Company

Dr. C. S. Putnam of the department of music at the North Dakota State college announces what gives every indication of being the peak of all musical entertainments in Fargo this season. The State college chorus and orchestra, in conjunction with The Festival Opera company, of Chicago, will present one of the greatest of all French operas, Faust, in English, on Nov. 17, in the Festival hall at the college.

This is the fifth season in which that novel and unique organization, the Festival Opera company, has been giving grand operas in this manner. They now travel the length and breadth of the nation, and their new system is acclaimed everywhere. The plan is that the company brings the cast of illustrious artists and all of the equipment, augmenting the State college chorus and orchestra. A special ballet will be presented by Miss Dorothy Cole and Dr. Putnam will conduct the performance.

Professor of Botany At London University Also Gives Afternoon Address

"A Botanist in the Amazon Valley" is the subject on which Dr. R. R. Gates, professor of botany at the University of London, will speak on in the Little Country theater at four this afternoon. He addressed the student body in convocation on "Genetics and Human Welfare," this morning.

He comes to Fargo from Minneapolis where he has conducted a series of lectures on botany and genetics at the University of Minnesota during the past few weeks. Coming to the United States as the official British delegate at the Sixth International Congress of Genetics at Ithaca, New York, he is continuing his visit and is lecturing and studying over the country. Saturday, he will work with Dr. L. R. Waldron in choosing a group of seeds of the Evening Primrose which he will take back to England to use in his classes for study of genetics, heredity, and evolution. It is through Dr. L. R. Waldron, who met him in Ithaca, that he comes to this college.

Sigma Xi, honorary research fraternity, will entertain him at luncheon in the Ceres hall dining room at noon today. Dr. Waldron is in charge of the arrangements.

Famous for his work in botany and genetics, Dr. R. R. Gates is well known in America. He was born in Nova Scotia near the birthplace of Dean A. E. Minard. He received the greater part of his education in the United States and has taught in several American universities. He has traveled extensively and has been a member of botanical expeditions into South America. Besides his many books on genetics, eugenics, and evolution, he has published stories of his travels in South America and Russia.

ONE OF NATION'S FIVE UNDEFEATED TEAMS IN 1931 TO TEST STATE

Injuries Give Bison Mentors Much Concern Through Week's Practice

BISON LINE IS HEAVIEST

Both Teams Will Enter Game With Clean Records As To 1932 Contests

Tonight, the followers of C. C. Finnegan's 1932 football aggregation will have the opportunity of witnessing one of the strongest teams in the country in action. At eight o'clock, on Dacotah field, the Bison will clash with Oklahoma City university in what promises to be one of the outstanding intersectional contests of the week.

The Goldbugs come to us with a reputation from last year that is hard to beat. They played twelve games during the 1931 season and were victorious in all of them. Their team is as strong or stronger this year than last, and from all appearances they are attempting to duplicate their last year's performance. Last Friday night they ran over Nebraska Wesleyan college, which was one of the leading Nebraska teams, with a score of 39-0.

According to V. J. Green, head coach at Oklahoma City university, the Bison have a heavier line and a more powerful backfield. Mr. Green witnessed the Bison performance against South Dakota State, and is a little leery as to what the outcome of the encounter might be.

Captain Will Be Missed The Bison mentors have been greatly puzzled all week, as to what substitutions they can make to fill the hole in (Continued on Page 4)

Class Officers And Board Of Publication Members Are Elected

Regular Fall Elections Plans Are Announced By Commissioner

The annual fall election for all students of the North Dakota State college will be held next Wednesday morning, according to Carmen Hunt, commissioner of elections.

All freshmen will meet in the Festival Hall; sophomore and juniors will meet in rooms 5 and 26 in the Chemistry building. The time that these various elections shall be held will be announced definitely in the next issue.

The members of the senior class at North Dakota State meet for voting in the Little Country theater.

All possible candidates must secure their eligibilities from the registrar's office previous to the election. It is also necessary that the members are nominated and elected right at their regular class election. A ballot vote is not essential.

There are also two vacancies on the Board of Publications to be filled by Wednesday's election. One senior and one junior must be elected to fill these positions. This election is covered by an emergency clause in the constitution of the Board which states: "The member (or members) to be elected shall be elected by their respective classes at a meeting known as such, the same to have appeared in The Spectrum for at least two issues prior to the election, stating the purpose of the election. No member of the board shall hold a staff appointment on either of the publications".

NEGLECTED OPPORTUNITIES

Each State college student has in his possession a square of yellow pasteboard, given him at the time of his registration, that is a pass to a number of highly unusual opportunities. Outside of using them for athletic contests, how many take full advantage of their registration cards?

World famous men of letters, renowned musicians, and entertainers of great repute come every year to our school on our Lyceum circuit, expecting to play to a collegiate group. Usually about one-third of the campus enrollment are present in the audience, the remaining two thirds of which is discriminating townspeople who appreciate quality entertainment when they meet it, and realize that in a city of this size such opportunities are rare. These people pay as much as two dollars for the privilege, while our college students, supposedly seekers of culture and knowledge, are too mentally and physically lazy to bother with it.

A certain amount of recreation is highly desirable, not only a necessary constituent of a well scheduled life, but a decided stimulus for the mind that is apt to get dull with too much work. In this case there is not even the excuse of being unable to afford it. It is all paid for in the very beginning and it seems that the shrewd thing to do would be to get full value from the payment.

Such eminent characters as John Drinkwater, Carl Sandburg, Tony Sarg, and innumerable other famous people have been brought to us in the past, and this year's program promises to be exceptionally fine in scope and quality.

OVER-ORGANIZATION

There is a natural limit to everything. In this specific instance we refer to the many organizations on the campus. Of course, societies are a good thing in that they give the students something to show for their work, and sometimes enable the individual to be of use to the rest of the student body. They satisfy a little of that ego which all possess. But, we already have organizations for every activity conceivable, honorary fraternities and sororities, course societies, and get-together clubs for the fostering of bull-session and good times. In many cases the societies are split on the mere adding of 'engineering' to the course title, or subdivided for the segregation of men and women. Still we have no strenuous objection. BUT,—we do think that the limit has been reached, and that further organizing under any pretense should be opposed! Another plank for OSWALD ZIMMICHISICHES' presidential platform: No more societies!

SPARE TIME

Too many people do not truly appreciate the value of their leisure hours their "spare time" Most people, particularly nowadays have plenty of time on their hands, and nothing on which to spend it. They have nothing to do, and, perhaps even more important, have not the wherewithal to pay for anything to do.

Particularly is this so in regard to the college student. The average student in college has at the most, perhaps twenty hours of lectures during the week. What does he do with the rest of his time?

There is no doubt that the leisure time of a people is one of the great factors in the advancement of its culture, its literature—in fact, its civilization. The community whose members have no spare time, or who do not make proper use of it, can never hope to reach any heights—intellectual, moral, or spiritual.

Since the college student has about as much spare time as anyone else he should be one of those who realizes the benefits which may accrue from the proper use of his leisure hours. But how many people at college make the best of their time? Too many have done nothing in the way of advancing themselves culturally, or socially, by affiliating themselves with some group or activity.

There are plenty of organizations, at college, and in the city, which would welcome anyone who wants to join their ranks. Some are of a social nature, others have more definite aims, and in them one can, in addition to making friends, perhaps learn something. There are musical organizations for the musically minded dramatic groups for the stage-struck, and debating societies for budding orators.

Spare time is meant to be enjoyed, but there are a great many things which are enjoyable and at the same time, extremely helpful. Most activities at college are in this category, but how many students fail to take advantage of the opportunity which is literally at their door-step, and which, moreover, was created especially for their use?

Talent is not a necessity. All that is needed is enthusiasm; ability can be developed along any line, but you must do more than look on, you must take part.

Student Opinion

Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 10, a few sophomores stood at the main gate and "fired the shot heard 'round the sophomore class." They were waiting patiently with great staves in their hands for some unsuspecting freshmen to fall into their clutches. These armed men were part of a group who had issued an edict on the bulletin board stating that all freshmen were to begin wearing green caps, and expected to carry wood for the Homecoming fire; however, the edict had been openly snubbed, and immediately the sophomore class issued a proclamation of war.

Hostilities ceased during the period of afternoon classes, but within a few minutes after four o'clock a group of sophomores invaded the men's dormitory. Inside the dormitory the men separated into smaller units, and began a systematic patrol of the halls. Several of these units encountered the enemy and a one-sided delivery of blows was given.

Word has been received from the freshmen camp that mobilization of all available men is to be expected within a few days.

In the meantime, non-combatants are looking eagerly forward to an armistice, or an unconditional surrender, in hopes that hostilities will cease in order that the traditional wood pile will be ready to bring back memories to former students.

Up till the present time, unless wood is carried by the freshmen the sophomore motto remains, "they shall not pass."

Soph.

A number of the sophomores would have us freshmen believe that the freshman class of last year was the greatest that this school ever had. Well, maybe they were, anyhow till the class of '36 showed up. At any rate, supposing for the time that they were the greatest class, or one of the greatest, then they would have set a good example for the new ones this year to follow. About the wood for the Homecoming bonfire, the freshmen of this year hope to make a greater fire than last year's was, or for that matter than any they've ever had. And then about the green caps, the freshmen r. use positively to wear them. This may be because they are imitating the example set last year by the freshmen, or perhaps it might be because they do not see any more object in wearing green caps than there would be in having sophomores wear red suspenders.

Lastly, it seems that a good deal more could be accomplished by cooperation between the classes. It seems to me that a bigger woodpile could be collected if some of the sophs, who stand at the main gate with paddles, intimidating no one and giving an unfavorable impression of their class, would add their paddles to the ever increasing wood stack and do a little stick-gleaning themselves.

On The Campus

This issue of The Spectrum sees the birth of a new column, dedicated to the sole purpose of informing the students on the campus concerning the various organizations flourishing here. For your own benefit we advise clipping these and putting them away as handy references.

BLUE KEY is a national honorary service fraternity, the requisites to membership being service to the school, citizenship, and scholarship. Local chapter established in 1927. Now numbers fifty chapters. Conducts Bison Brevities.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA is the honorary chemistry society, founded here in 1924, having for its object the advancement of chemistry as a profession and as a science. Eligibility for membership consists in completing 76 hours of academic work with an average of 80, or above.

ALPHA ZETA, national honorary agricultural fraternity, has been active since 1904. Membership is based on scholarship, character, leadership, and personality.

ATELIER CHAT NOIR was the name adopted in 1927 for the architectural society which had its beginning in 1920. Membership depends on registration in the schools of architecture and architectural engineering. Sponsors architects' ball.

Reserve System Is Proved Successful

State College Library Staff Adopts System After Year's Trial

"The system of handling reserve books that was inaugurated last year at the college library is working out very nicely," Miss Harriet Pearson, assistant librarian, said yesterday. "This system has given everyone an equal chance at the books that are needed by the students in their studies."

The books are put on the reserve shelf by the professors teaching the different subjects, and are available during library hours to all students. These books are not to be taken out of the library during the day, Miss Pearson said. The books can be kept two hours by a student and longer if there is no demand. Overnight privileges allow the books to be taken out half an hour before the library closes, to be brought back by 8:30 the next morning. Last year the books had to be in by eight o'clock the following morning, but this year it has been changed to 8:30 for the convenience of the students taking military courses. According to Miss Pearson only four fines this year have been imposed for disregard of reserve-book rules.

This system has been satisfactorily used at a number of other colleges and universities throughout the country.

Six Students Brought Before Student Court

Those Failing To Appear Before Commission Will Be Fined In Excess

Six persons, charged with parking their automobiles in prohibited zones, were brought before the Student Court, at a meeting held in the Faculty-Alumni rooms last Wednesday. The offenders were all dismissed as this was their first offense.

The campus should take on a more pleasing appearance as well as making it safer for drivers and pedestrians, under the new parking rules.

All those failing to appear before the court from now on will be fined in excess of the regular fine, according to Don Arthur, president of the Student Commission. Howard Kilbourne acts as judge for all cases.

Thursday, Oct. 20, at 4:15 p. m., is the date set for the next meeting of the Student Court, which will be held in the Faculty-Alumni rooms in the Main building.

Request that all organizations who have entered floats for the Homecoming day parade or who plan to do so, have a representative meet me in Festival hall at 4 p. m., Friday, Oct. 14.

Capt. J. B. Conmy.

ROWDY REMARKS

The campus cops have started their reign of terror—already they have swept down on six victims. Imagine "Fagan" sweeping.

Members of K. K. G. are becoming domestic—this dull life has gotten them down and they've taken up knitting for a little excitement. Imagine the good sisters of the "fraternity" sitting around the circle, with their feet on the stove, "dropping-two-pearling-three" their little lives away.

The Frosh should "sic 'em"—and see if Windy and his gang can take 'em as well as dish 'em out. Those green lids may be a tradition, but they're also a gripe—it's just as one Freshman said: "Just because Columbus came over in a small boat, it's no reason that we should." But we should keep up with the bonfires.

We give up—the power of the press is deficient, negligible, as "Snozzle" Durante would say. Just this week one of the Kappa pledges traded a canoe so that she could get a pair of those "air" double-barrelled monocles or Oxford glasses. Another co-ed had only one deficient eye so she wanted to get an Oxford monocle. Our gripe is their meat.

Without any statistics, can you make a guess which prof is the driest lecturer—we mean the one whose sense of humor has a rating of zero.

Why are some of the collegians trekking to the "U" to see them play Howard? Should stay home and remember the Bisons tangle with the Oklahoma City "Goldbugs."

Final question:—Which prof reminds you of "Groucho" Marx?

RHODA CLAUSEN IS NEW SECRETARY FOR GUIDON

Plans for the activities of the year were discussed at a meeting of Guidon, national fraternity for women who have received honorary military titles. The meeting was held in the Gamma Phi Beta apartment on Wednesday evening, Oct. 11.

Rhoda Clausen was elected secretary of the organization to succeed Doris Lathrop. Other officers include: Paula Verne, president; Helen Louise Clemens, treasurer; Veronta Wepler, social chairman, and Ruth Dyson, publicity chairman.

BABY BISON WILL CLASH WITH NODAK FRESHMEN AT GRAND FORKS FRIDAY

University Yearlings Are Rated
As Strong Aggregation
By Nodak Coaches

BABY SIOUX WIN GAMES

Frosh Bison Are Yet Untried
Upon Gridiron As Two Teams Clash

Tonight, at the Memorial stadium in Grand Forks, the 1932 edition of the Baby Bison will come face to face with reputedly the strongest frosh team that has been developed by the Nodak coaches.

Two schools have gone down in defeat before those fighting frosh Sioux. Saturday, Oct. 8, the Grand Forks squad was divided. One group journeyed to Mayville where they trounced the Teachers by a score of 19-7. The other group played the Northwest School of Agriculture at Crookston, Minn., shutting them out, 19-0.

According to reports from Grand Forks, the frosh have shown plenty of power and speed in their scrimmages with the Sioux varsity.

The Baby Bison have not yet had a chance to demonstrate their ability except against the Bison varsity squad. During the last week a tremendous improvement has been seen. The new material has been rounding into true varsity caliber under the efficient coaching of Gerger and Blakeslee.

Isensee, Sloan and Moore are making great impressions with the sideline "quarterbackers." Welch, Maynard, Reinecke and Dobervich are very good prospects as future varsity line material. Newman and Breitenbach are reputed good men on the flanks.

In spite of the fact that the University has one of the strongest teams in the history of the school, the Baby Bison have shown themselves to be fighters as well as football players and in tonight's game will try to show to the Nodaks that they will endeavor to have for themselves the reputation which the undefeated 1931 Baby Bison earned just one year ago.

Tonight's lineup will probably be picked from the following: Isensee or Sikes as fullback; Sloane and Moore as halfbacks; Carney or Chloupek as quarterbacks; Newman, Breitenbach or McGrath, ends; Dobervich, Welch, Johnson, Hill or Smith, tackles; Reiners, Hurst or Land, guards; and Maynard or Moll as centers.

Between Halves

By EVERETT WALLUM

Breathing easier, now that the first half of the conference campaign has been successfully terminated, the Bison are set to rub some of the lustre from the Goldbugs of the oil fields. It is the first intersectional battle on Dacotah field since Finnegan's snorting Bison gave Davis-Elkins a wholesome respect for North Dakota football.

Oklahoma City comes here with a much better paper reputation than the West Virginians and the game should be a huge success from the standpoint of both color and fight.

If the Bison line can make openings for Fritz Hanson the Oilmen might just as well go back to their drilling, as far as winning games are concerned.

THE BISON ARE MORE FORTUNATE THIS YEAR THAN LAST INASMUCH AS THEY HAVE NOT YET REACHED THEIR PEAK. THE BOYS HAVE BEEN EASED ALONG JUST ABOUT RIGHT AND SHOULD BE GOOD TONIGHT AND IN TOP SHAPE AGAINST THE STUBBORN NODAKS. WHAT A GAME THAT WILL BE.

Just what to do about those tackle positions has puzzled many an otherwise serene brow. Herb Peschel, the lad prominently mentioned to fill Schoenfelder's shoes, has been showing considerable promise. Herb comes from Wahpeton and to those who don't know it already we might add that he is a nephew of Cy Peschel, former Bison quarterback and captain.

Many coaches consider the tackle posts most important on the team. It looks like that right now on our team and if Finnegan and Lowe can develop two strong tackles the old club will be a-moving of it! Egad!

I may be wrong but it seems to me the freshman situation at the college is right in line with the depression. I mention it in this column because a slump in class spirit is oftentimes reflected in cheering at athletic games. Spirit is something you can't force on anybody and alumni would be the last to try to do it, because alumni who discuss such matters seem to think spirit should come naturally out of the student body and not be dragged out.

I am not one who believes the students should revert to the old time rah rah college type. The fellow with the loud sweater and the big pipe who takes it as a personal insult, suh, upon any attempt to vanquish the college. I do think, however, that it is a nicety of character to show honest loyalty to your institution and appreciation to the boys who break ankles and bruise other parts of the body too numerous to mention just to give the students entertainment.

The Bison will receive a cordial reception when they play the Army at West Point. Alumni from Maine down to Virginia, most of them students at a time when they went rabid about their football team, are going to be there. It's very seldom they get a chance to see a Bison team play and they'll be out there, I suppose, yelling their heads off like a bunch of kids. Such loyalty

Debate Schedule For Year Lists Several Intercollege Matches

Don Hay Is Debate Instructor
For State College Again
This Year

With approximately a dozen or so debates in view, the North Dakota State college is beginning its fall argumentation program under the direction of Donald Hay.

Community and collegiate debates are in the schedule according to the present program. There are possibilities that the University of North Dakota and the University of Montana and the South Dakota State college or the University of South Dakota may come to Fargo to debate.

Intercollegiate debates are to be held with the University of North Dakota, Concordia, and the University of South Dakota. A designated team from here will debate Montana State there, it is planned.

Numerous service clubs in town will have the opportunity to witness the local debaters display their forensic talent on the subject, Resolved: "That at least one half of all state and local revenue should be derived from sources other than tangible property."

Last week a meeting was held for college students who had not participated in any college debates. Under the student direction of William Stewart, Gerald Stevens, William Maloney, and Frederick Martin, they were to prepare a two minute speech on "Who Shall Bear the Cost of Higher Education." The three alternatives were: the student, the family, or the state. These Speeches were given Tuesday and Wednesday.

By the process of elimination in the intramural events, and with selection from the experienced debaters, the college debate team will begin its program which consists of practically twenty more debates than last year.

The University of Wisconsin originated the plan that the intramural debaters are using this year.

LARGE COLLECTION OF BOOKS ARRIVES HERE

Thirty thousand volumes have recently been added to Fargo's supply of books with the unpacking of the E. B. Tee Fethern collection which recently arrived in Fargo for distribution through this territory. Before the death of Mr. Tee Fethern, this was the largest private library in the Dakotas.

Because of the large number of rare old books and first editions, Mr. Crawford, distributor, considers this the greatest cultural factor Fargo has known with the exception of the establishment of the State college. Twenty tons of books have already been unpacked and fifteen tons are still to be unloaded. However, it is the percentage of outstanding volumes rather than the quantity of books that enthralls midwest bookmen.

A group of lectures and tracts, published in the sixteen hundreds and the first to be printed in English, are still in their original bindings. Yellowed editions of The Spectator, published in 1853 interest journalists. First editions include "Little Dorit" by Dickens, the "collected Works of Macaulay" and a paper copy of "The Redskins" by James Fenimore Cooper. First editions of modern authors are more common but the number here assembled and the personal signatures, particularly of Galsworthy, are outstanding.

VEGETATION IS STUDY OF CLASS IN BOTANY

The vegetation of the sandhill region in northern Ransom county was the object of study on a field trip made into that region on Sunday, Oct. 9, by the class in plant ecology (Botany 401).

Students making the trip include Horace Barnett, assistant in the botany department; Frank Dvorak, Center; Lars Jensen, Oberon; Thomas King, Starkweather; Victor Lundeen, Adams; Gale Monson, Argusville; Greydon Owens, Englevale; Clayton Quinnild, Christine; Robert Ward, Bismarck; and William Wiidikas, New England. Drs. H. C. Hanson and A. D. Stoesz, instructors, accompanied the students on the trip.

Cross-Country Squad Will Meet Minnesota

Hall, Storms, Horner, Warner,
Are Veterans To Run
For Bison

On Saturday, Oct. 15, the cross-country squad of North Dakota State will compete for honors in the meet to be run off at the University of Minnesota.

Hall, a senior, and Storms, Horner, and Warner, juniors, are veteran cross-country men. Each one has run once, at least, on the course which is laid out by the athletic department of the university. Orvedahl is the only new man on the squad.

The three-mile run is laid out over pavement, hills and river sand, and it is undoubtedly because of this that our squad of last year, unaccustomed to this type of field work, did not make a very good showing. This year with four of the squad having a knowledge of the field, it is expected that they will have a chance to carry away the honors.

The squad, with Coach Saalwaechter in charge, left for Minneapolis this morning.

A meeting of the Letterman's club will be held next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Physical Education building.

SORORITIES DISCUSS NEW RUSHING RULES

With the discussion of sorority rushing rules for the coming fall of 1933, a meeting of representatives from each sorority on the campus will be held next Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Dean Pearl Dinan announced today.

The meeting, which is to be held in the Faculty-Alumni reception rooms in the Main building, is to be held as a preparation to discussing the matter of fall rushing, as the past fall campaign is just completed. More constructive ideas will most likely result from this arrangement than if the discussion of rushing is held over until next spring, Miss Dinan says.

BISON MEETS OKLAHOMA CITY GOLDBUGS TONIGHT

the line left vacant by Captain Schoenfelder, who will be out the remainder of the season because of the broken bone in his leg. The problem of developing a man to fill this hole puts the coaches in a position similar to what they might have been had Schoenfelder graduated last spring, as Walter Shamp and Roderick MacMillan have done. However, such was not the case, and this problem is confronting them now, in a more vital period of the season.

During the past week several combinations have been tried and a fair solution has been found. Herbert Peschel, a sophomore, is slated to fill the captain's shoes and has been showing a great deal of promise in recent scrimmages.

Probable Lineups

The remainder of the lineup will probably be as follows for the Bison: Roman Meyers and Milton Jacobson, ends; Kenneth Pirnie, tackle; Merlyn Jahr and Clifford Orness, guards; Robert Paris, center; Joe Selliken, fullback; Fritz Hanson and Wendell Schollander, halfbacks; and Viv McKay, quarter.

The Oklahoma City university will lineup against the Bison in somewhat the following manner: Levereich (captain) and Sage, ends; Peppers and Maddox, tackles; Bretz and Hohen-shelt, guards; McDaniel, center; Holt, fullback; Bentley and Crymes, halfbacks; and Singletary, quarter.

Phi chapter of Theta Chi announces the formal pledging of John Sikes, Williston, and Harry Campbell, Ryder, at the fraternity house this week-end.

Monday evening the pledges of Theta Chi fraternity were honored at a banquet given for them by the active chapter. Don Harris was in charge of arrangements.

Edward Booth, Sigma Phi Delta, has gone to his home in Bismarck because of illness.

Dear Elmer:

Talking to Viv McKay the other day I mentioned that a dollar went a long way nowadays and he said, "Gosh, I should say so. I've been trailing a few lately and you've no idea how long it takes to catch up."

Anyway, a dollar goes a long way in those Ed. V. Price & Co. suits you're selling at $30, $35 and $40.

Elmer, why wouldn't it be a good idea to sell the suits at their last year price and then as a surprise tuck $10 or $15 dollars in the pants pocket. That's about what it amounts to.

Hoping you are the same.

Aggie.

SPECTRUM CRITIC

Constance Bennett and Neil Hamilton team in "Two Against the World," now showing at the Fargo theater, to give the movie public an entirely different sort of a drama.

Playing an unusual role, decidedly different from her usual parts, Constance Bennett gives us a new phase of her ability to act. Neil Hamilton, her leading man, takes a part that fits extremely well into the plot. His is the part of a prominent young lawyer who gives up a brilliant career for the love of a girl, who, of course, is Constance. Caught in a tangle of scandal and blackmail the two fight for their freedom he for her honor, and both for their name, which gives us the title of the picture, "Two Against the World."
