Faculty Members Give Convocation Program On Disarmament Day

International Disarmament Conference Opens At Geneva On Tuesday

In connection with a world wide Disarmament Day, three members of the faculty will address the student body at convocation next Tuesday, Feb. 2, at 9:40 a. m. in Festival hall.

Dr. W. L. Airheart, Dr. F. D. Hunsaker and Dr. W. C. Hunter will be the speakers. Each will discuss the subject of "Disarmament" from different angles. Dr. Hunter will give a political viewpoint of the problem, Dr. Hunsaker an economic viewpoint, and Dr. Airheart a psychological viewpoint. Dr. C. S. Putnam is arranging a short musical feature to be presented during the program.

Disarmament Day, Feb. 2, will be observed internationally, and is set for the day on which the International Disarmament Conference at Geneva will formally open. At this assembly it is hoped to solve the disarmament problem by forming an agreement in the nature of a treaty. Secretary of State Stimson and Miss Mary Woolley, president of Mt. Holyoke college, will head the American delegation to the meeting.

That college students are prejudiced in favor of disarmament is shown in a report made by the Intercollegiate Disarmament Council which took a straw vote among 24,345 students in 70 colleges. Ninety two percent of the students voted in favor of disarmament, and 63 percent of them believed that the United States should set the example by beginning to disarm, without waiting for the other nations.

Executive Speaks To Students, Faculty Members At Program Wednesday

North Dakota is again resuming the highway of progress after one of the most disappointing economic and agricultural periods in the entire history of the state, Governor George F. Shafer told students and staff members of North Dakota State college in a special convocation address in Festival Wednesday morning. The governor's address was the feature of the first convocation of the winter. "North Dakota In Retrospect" was his topic for address.

"This is an appropriate time to look back," remarked the Governor, stressing the fact that in retrospect we must view our progress, the obstacles overcome, and shape and reshape our course in the light of past experiences. In part Governor Shafer said in his address:

"The year 1931 was the second most critical crisis in the entire history of the state. The year was the most disappointing season economically and agriculturally in the last 30 or 40 years, except, perhaps, for those people who hold up the trying time of 1893 and '94.

"Nature has compelled us to accept severe failure as a wheat producer. The economic depression has compelled us to sell our agricultural products at the lowest prices in many years. Besides, the extremity of the drought resulted in the destruction of feed crops.

"I am telling you nothing new when I remind you of the citizenship in northwestern North Dakota depending for their sustenance on their fellow citizens and the American Red Cross. On January 1 there were 9,200 families representing 45,000 northwestern North Dakota people required to accept aid. "In general, the last two years have obliged us to acknowledge that we have not made progress but have been suffering an economic retreat. This is not a pleasant fact, but in looking back we must view the reversals as well as the progress.

"Ever since the Great War North Dakota has been moving as rapidly economically and agriculturally as the years before. In fact there has been a mild agricultural depression all over the United States since the close of the war.

"One of the manifestations in 1931 was the many bank failures. Sixty state and national banks were closed in North Dakota, representing the loss of millions of dollars to the people of the state. Since 1920 some 400 state and national banks in North Dakota have been forced to close.

"There have been two fundamentals (Continued on Page 4)

100 Couples March In Line Led By Marguerite Jennings And Maurine McCurdy

Y. W. C. A. SPONSORS EVENT

Entertainment Consists of Informal Program, Dancing And Refreshments

Costume interpretations of Martha and George Washington, an old-fashioned couple, and Mahatma Gandhi and his secretary brought prizes to six North Dakota State college co-eds when the annual Co-ed Prom was staged in Festival hall Thursday night. The costume ball is sponsored by the college Y. W. C. A.

Italian pottery was awarded to Paula Verne and Helen Lee, attired as the Washingtons, for the most beautiful costumes. As an old-fashioned couple, Sally Hunkins and Phyllis Trichterler were awarded silhouette plaques for the funniest couple at the ball. Myrna Ottinger and Beryl Rorem, as Mahatma Gandhi and his secretary, won a similar prize for being the most originally costumed couple.

Judges in the event were Misses Adelaide Laurie, Minnie Anderson, Elvira Smith, Lucille Horton and Esther Latzke. Prizes were awarded immediately following the grand march at 8:45 p. m. Dean Alba Bales presented the awards.

About 100 couples were in line when the grand march formed with Marguerite Jennings, social chairman for the Y, and her partner, Maurine McCurdy, first in line. Jane Canniff, president of the Y, and Grace Putney were second. Eleanore Erickson, vice president of the Y, and Lorissa Sheldon third, followed by Margarete Dadey, treasurer, and Irene Hudson; Ruth Clausen, president of the sophomore commission, and Rhoda Clausen; Mrs. Carl A. Teet and Mrs. Dudley C. Bayliss, and members of the cabinet and their guests.

An informal program was given preceding the grand march. Lois Rudrud was presented in a tap dance; Helen Probstfield sang a solo, and a skit was given by the dramatic section of the Y. W. C. A. Claire Newell and Audrey Medley were the directors.

Informal dancing followed the grand march with refreshments served to conclude the evening's entertainment. Chaperons for the evening were Mmes. Carl A. Teet and Dudley C. Bayliss and Dean Pearl Dinan.

Beautiful Living

The greater part of the four years we spend on this campus are wasted with trivial things—things that have a tendency to look petty and disgustingly small six months later. Yet at the time they bother us and force every sane thought away. We are so afraid of getting our feelings hurt, our reputations besmirched that every slight becomes an insult.

For many years we've been subjected to books on culture—books attempting to explain it, to tell us how to get it. How few of these ambitious authors realize that it is indefinitely, uncatchable and not linked up with a Master's degree.

If such a vague thing can be said to have qualities we imagine tolerance and indifference would head the list of any really cultured person. At the present time the most cultured person we know is a woman, ninety years old, foreign by birth and unable to read or write one word of the English language. Yet for over fifty years she has been the center of an admiring and worshipping community. She lives in an unpretentious fashion, is interested in world events, indifferent to the movements of her neighbors and sincerely interested in everyone be they young or old, poor or rich. Perhaps that explains why she is unruffled and serene in the midst of difficulties, why she is unbothered with "little things". In a quiet yet radiant manner she exemplifies better than anyone we know this line picked at random, "Life is the gift of nature, but beautiful living is the gift of wisdom."

Over-Specialization

One of the most intelligent and pertinent criticisms of our educational system was made recently by Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin. His criticism in part runs as follows:

"I am convinced that unless western man effects a radical re-orientation of the program and processes of his education, the forces of social and economic renewal will stand a discouragingly slight chance of coming to ascendance quickly enough to check the decline of the west. We have produced a generation of specialists."

Education is doing very little to adjust itself to the economic demands of the present by continuing to turn out specialists for which there is no demand.

We have traveled so rapidly along educational paths that we have lost sight of a liberal education. Right now we need a generation of scholars rather than of specialists.

Dr. Frank advocates the setting up of research institutions rather segregated in organization and objective. This would provide for the promotion of scholarship and the training of professional scholars.

As an immediate remedy we would encourage a greater choice of electives and fewer requirements for a specialist's training.

Misses Ila Anthony and Dorothy Hatch were dinner guests at the Alpha Gamma Delta house Tuesday evening.

Dizzy Darts

"The Cherry Orchard" on Tuesday night was perhaps one of the most outstanding events of the year. The capacity audience which saw it is proof of its success. The co-operation of students, faculty and alumni needs to be encouraged in all activities as well as in just dramatics.

It was a bit disconcerting to realize that college men and women have to be instructed publicly in the common courtesies. The reception of the governor at the dedication was deplorable and perhaps the sign on the bulletin board Tuesday was a needed one.

By compromise the non-resident fee seems to be settled satisfactorily. But as one official asked the other day, "What about international students?"

Now we have the College Cafe again as the College Lunch—with some new crepe paper.

In the near future you may look for a speck of white trailing after a Gamma Phi. Now, however, the Gamma Phis are wondering how "Gamma" can be displayed most effectively.

According to Dean Raymond Walters of Swarthmore college, the enrollment at 500 leading colleges is 12 percent higher than during "the prosperous period of five years ago." Just 12 percent more bond salesmen pounding the pavement.

150 students in the Brevities and that makes 300 legs.

The Pep club it seems is going to give a dance—a dance to raise money to buy sweaters to boost the morale of the club to inject more pep into the students to attend the dance.

Two weeks from tonight is the first game of "the" basketball series—an excellent opportunity for every student to forget that they ever knew "that guy from the University."

Clubs Selects Phytois For New Organization

A. F. Yeager To Be Speaker On Methods At February Meeting Of Club

Phytois was chosen as the name for the newly organized Plant Science club and plans were made for a meeting Feb. 2 at the regular meeting of the organization held on Jan. 28.

Five new members elected to the organization are Ole Grottoeden, H. L. Barnett, Lawrence Ryan, Velva Rudd and Beatrice Brenckle.

Prof. A. F. Yeager will speak on "Practical Methods of Plant Breeding and Propagation" at the meeting Tuesday to which the general public is invited. It is through the efforts of Prof. Yeager, of the horticultural department and experiment station, that two new varieties of sweet corn, Little Gem and Sunshine, have been developed. At the present time Prof. Yeager is doing work with the improvement of beans, purple cane raspberries, chokecherries and potatoes.

At the North Dakota Crop Improvement association meeting last week, Prof. Yeager stated that seeds of Little Gem and Sunshine sweet corn and Buttercup squash may be obtained from a large number of seed dealers over the United States. He also pointed out that many of the seeds that have been developed here are being grown and sold in other states.

One of the objects of the club will be to sponsor lectures of this type regularly and all persons interested in horticulture and crops are urged to attend the meetings.

Joe Heiberg, Twin Valley, was a guest of his sister Ann at the Alpha Gamma Delta house Wednesday evening.

Mrs. G. M. Cliff was a dinner guest Wednesday at the Gamma Phi Beta house.

Elizabeth Lowell was formally pledged into Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority Wednesday evening.

Dr. Gilbert, president, and Mr. Gilbert Wagner, secretary of the Cosmopolitan club, were dinner guests of the Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity Monday.

A.S.C.E. To Receive Charter This Week Announces W.E. Smith

Society Founded In 1852 Has Chapters In Many Major Colleges of U. S.

North Dakota State college's newest national organization, the American Society of Civil Engineers, is to be officially chartered by the end of this week, it was announced today by Prof. Waldo E. Smith, faculty adviser of the student organization.

The petition of the local civil engineering organization of this college to be registered as a student chapter was accepted at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the society on Jan. 18, information received here indicates. The headquarters of the organization is in New York City.

Founded in 1852, the American Society of Civil Engineers has retained as its purpose the fostering of interest and research into the civil engineering field. There are 98 student chapters in the various colleges in the United States.

With the same purpose as that of the national organization, the local chapter will meet two evenings a month, the first and third Wednesdays, to stimulate interest in the various phases of civil engineering, according to Christian Meckler, president of the chapter. Lectures and general discussions related to engineering will mark the business of each session of the group.

Ranked as the oldest national engineering society, the American Society of Civil Engineers continually fosters work and discovery in its field of activity. Nine funds are sponsored annually, partially through the three publications of the society, "Civil Engineering," "Proceedings," and "Transactions," to encourage work in civil engineering.

The American Society of Civil Engineers has its headquarters in the Engineering Societies building in New York City. Its administration is carried on by a Board of Direction, consisting of a president, four vice presidents, nineteen directors, and two past presidents. Membership in the group is extended all over the world, with members representing nearly every nation.

Chicago Corporation Make Campus Movie

Hutchins Explains Educational System At Chicago In Talking Picture

The Vitaglo corporation of Chicago has just completed production of a three-reel talking picture, "Life on the Quadrangle," for the University of Chicago.

Touching on all the phases of college activities, the picture takes the audience into the lecture room, the laboratory, and the campus. The picture also enables the audience to hear President Hutchins explain the new educational plan, and two short talks by Thornton Wilder, the novelist, and Director of Athletics Stagg.

There is a representative selection of campus activities, among them scenes showing women's athletics, archery, hockey, and swimming, the staff of the student newspaper at work, dramatic rehearsals and informal views of dormitory and fraternity life. A scene of unusual beauty in the university chapel emphasizes the spiritual life of the university.

The voice of Quin Ryan, of radio fame, makes running comment on outstanding features of the picture.

The "Alma Mater," sung by the university choir, furnishes an attractive accompaniment to the title footage. Staging of scenes was avoided in the production of the picture, and the action is consistently natural.

Dr. L. G. Smith and G. H. Spielman of Mandan were dinner guests at the Theta Chi fraternity house. Both men had business matters with the State Medical Board here.

Mrs. B. R. Holes, Hunter, came to Fargo Wednesday to visit her daughter, Dorothy, Gamma Phi house and to attend the benefit bridge given by the Mothers' club.

FARGO MAY BE CENTER FOR REGIONAL TOURNEY IN MARCH, SAYS SMITH

F. W. Kahler, Manager of Golden Gloves Tournament, Confers With Local Members

MINNEAPOLIS HAS MEET

District Meeting Would Eliminate Fighters of Professional Rank, Says Kahler

Fargo may be the center for a regional Golden Gloves-Olympic tournament to be held in the first part of March, according to an announcement received late yesterday by Lt. Fay Smith from F. W. Kahler, manager of the Golden Gloves tourney at Minneapolis.

The Olympic and Golden Gloves tourney will be joined this year with even stricter scrutiny of boxing candidates as to eligibility as amateurs, official information shows. Winners at the Minneapolis meet will be sent to compete with other winners over the nation for the United States boxing team which will meet the challenges of teams of other nations at the 1932 Olympics at Los Angeles.

If arrangements can not be carried through for the district meet at Fargo, representatives will be sent directly to the competition at Minneapolis without elimination, Lt. Smith says. The meet will be held, under present plans, on March 10 and 11 in the Minneapolis auditorium.

North Dakota State college's magnificent gymnasium may be selected as the scene of the district tourney, if it is definitely allotted to Fargo.

"The advantage of the district meets would be the immediate elimination of fighters of the professional rank before they even make the trip to the Minneapolis meet," Mr. Kahler explained in his letter. Decisions regarding the fight arrangements are still tentative.

Between Halves

By EVERETT WALLUM

Bison athletic interest returns again tonight to intercollegiate basketball after several weeks of interest maintained by an unprecedented Bison intramural program. If the average student can skate while holding a hockey stick, or if he can throw a ball in general direction of bankboard, he doesn't have to worry about a good workout now and then.

Bison basketballers open a conference series tonight which is critical from many standpoints. It would be a splendid thing for student interest if the Bison quint could take two out of three, returning home with a good mathematical chance of a championship. It has been years since local athletes have gone into a home stretch of any campaign with good prospects of taking a pennant. A championship now would boost student morale and revive interest that has not reached the true Bison standard for some time.

Of course things could be much worse when you consider the Bison have never finished last in either basketball or football.

ALTHOUGH THE BISON HAVE REACHED THEIR LIMIT IN CAGE STRENGTH THROUGH THE RETURN OF OLSON AND ARTHUR WE ANTICIPATE A LITTLE TROUBLE WITH MORNINGSIDE TONIGHT. THE MAROONS, SUPPOSEDLY THE WEAK SISTER OF THE LOOP, ARE NOT SO WEAK ON THEIR HOME FLOOR WITH EVERYTHING TO GAIN AND NOTHING TO LOSE.

We expect the Buffalomen to turn in a surprising showing against South Dakota's champion Coyotes. The Red-shirts are about due for a setback. We believe Bison fans will derive most satisfaction out of this one, win or lose.

The hardest fought game of the series will be against South Dakota State Monday. The Jackrabbits fight just a little bit harder against us than against their other conference opponents with the possible exception of the Coyotes.

Coach Saalwaechter believes the Bison chances depend on elongated Robert Weir. Bob is perhaps the least consistent of his teammates, but his height makes him the most important figure. If he can reach the stride attained in the Montana State game the Bison should acquit themselves well enough. By the way, did you notice that Montana State defeated their University rivals the other night?

WE HAVE A HUNCH THE BISON STARTING LINEUP TONIGHT WILL INCLUDE MCKAY AND ARTHUR AT FORWARDS. OLSON, STAR SOUTHPAW, WILL PROBABLY SIT ON THE BENCH TO INSURE CAPABLE RESERVE MATERIAL SHOULD WEIR FALTER. ARTHUR'S ANKLE INJURY SEEMINGLY HAS SLOWED HIM UP NOT A WHIT WHILE MCKAY IS SHOWING TO MUCH BETTER ADVANTAGE THAN HE DID A YEAR AGO.

Beginning next weekend when the Bison clash with the sparkling Coyotes local fans will have their fill of basketball thrills. Following this important encounter, Feb. 6, the Yellow and Green netmen take on the University and the Bunnies in home games.

To those who don't read the results of games we'll give you the score beforehand: Bison 32, Morningside 25; Bison 28, Coyotes 30; Bison 34, Bunnies 31.

Library Institutes New Reserve System

Imposing of Fines and Time Limit Follows Custom of Larger Schools

After three weeks of operation the new reserve book system instituted by the North Dakota State college library is pronounced a success, according to Miss Harriet Pearson, associate librarian, and associate professor of library methods.

Continued abuse of the privileges of reserve books for the different special branches of study was the cause for the change. All books are now placed in a separate department with a window for receiving and returning books on the South side of the West Reading room.

Following the course taken by larger schools, a time limit is placed on use of reserve books in the library of two hours, with the additional privilege to students of taking books home at 9:30 p. m. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday and at 5:00 on Friday and Saturday to be returned at 8:00 the following morning. To enforce the regulations on time fines of twenty-five cents for the first hour or fraction of an hour over the limit that the book is used within the library and ten cents for each additional hour and for books kept overnight and not returned on time. Thus far only eleven students have been fined.

Fines will be taken out of the registration fee or may be paid directly. The extra provision is made that if fines of a student should reach more than the value of the book, he shall be referred to the discipline committee.

The step taken by the library, according to Miss Pearson, is one towards a future departmental library and demonstrates an imperative need for a new building with room for conveniences now impossible. The library now on the campus was built when there were only three hundred students here.

The Fargo-Moorhead Library club are to have an Alaskan dinner in the Ceres hall tea room, Friday night, with Alaskan decorations and Miss Harriet Pearson speaking on her trip to Alaska. After the dinner the quarterly meeting of the club will meet in the library.

Theater Players Are Successful In Drama Production Tuesday

A. G. Arvold Directs Students, Faculty, Alumni In Four Act Russian Drama

Another successful stage production was recorded on the annals of the Little Country theater when Anton Tchekhov's four-act epic drama, "The Cherry Orchard," was staged by a cast of faculty, alumni and students at North Dakota State college under the direction of A. G. Arvold, Tuesday night. The production was not only an outstanding success as a production of the theater players but was an unusual production itself in that this was the first time in the history of the institution that faculty, alumni and student players united in the presentation of such a drama.

That people at the college and in the city are appreciating the type of drama staged by the Little Country theater players under the direction of Mr. Arvold was evidenced by the large audience Tuesday night.

The play was indeed interesting from several standpoints. Pleasing settings were provided for the four acts through the use of special curtains and lighting effects. Costumes and make-up were certainly typical of that type of drama. The stage equipment was also typically representative.

Despite the value of all of these accompanying factors, the production was above all interesting from the standpoint of acting. The problem of capably interpreting "The Cherry Orchard" rested on no single character, but rather on the cast as a whole. Each player accepted the responsibility given him by his particular role, resulting in a production which was unified and excellent in its presentation.

If after-remarks are evidence, the public will be looking forward to another all-star amateur production such as "The Chery Orchard" with faculty, alumni and students participating, in the near future.

Emma Nelson headed the cast of capable characters as Madame Ranevsky. Ruth Barrett was Anya, her daughter; Alice Bender, Barbara, another daughter; Raymond Gregerson, Leonid Gayef; Lyle Phillips, Lopakhin; David Minard, Trophimof; Richard Warner, Sineonof-Pishtchik; Ruth Boerth, Charlotte; Frederick Martin, Epikhodof; Nadine Buck, Dunyasha; Jack Knapp, Firs; Kenneth Wyard, Yasha; Malve McKoane, a tramp, and Donald Hay, a station master. Frederick Martin, pianist, and Lawrence Forman, violinist, played between acts.—G. G.

German Club Meets In 'Y' Last Evening

F. W. Werking Speaks On "German Youth Movement" As Feature Number

Delta Beta, college German club, met Thursday night in the college Y. M. C. A. at 7:30 under the leadership of Howard Kilbourne.

Featured on the club's program was a German talk on "The German Youth Movement," by F. W. Werking, instructor in modern languages and adviser of the club. "On the Telephone," a short one-act play, was presented by a cast of German students including Agnes Mohr, Malve McKoane, Harold Lundgren, Forrest Swisher, Daniel Howell Gale Monson, and Katherine McDermott. Following this number, Lydia Ketterling gave a German short story. A vocal solo was also given by Helen Probstfield with Constance Martin as her accompanist. The program was concluded with several games and light refreshments. Preparations for a Goethefest in March, in honor of the German author, were also made.

The sorority octette will present the crescent moon service which it gave at the international convention held last summer at Bemidji, Minnesota. The octette is directed by Mrs. Eli Weston. Light refreshments will be served after the program.

NORTH DAKOTA RESUMING HIGHWAY OF PROGRESS

to North Dakota's economic progress in the last 10 years. Following the war North Dakota ceased to be the land of opportunity in the minds of people in other parts of the nation. Secondly, North Dakota and the northwest have been compelled to take second place as a source of production of grain food stuffs for national and world markets. "Because the southwestern part of the United States has opened up to wheat production on a large scale since the war, the domestic wheat market has been overflooded with winter wheat produced in the southwest.

"Notwithstanding the service of North Dakota agricultural leaders, the state was ill prepared for this uncontrollable circumstance. Now we have turned from wheat production to other forms of agricultural diversification. We have not yet succeeded in building up a new agricultural structure sufficiently strong and successful in opportunities we had by wheat production.

"This is not the only time we have taken retreats in economic development. In the territorial days there was a series of crop failures. In the early '90's, the first decade in our state's history, there occurred a national panic. From then on the progressive movement was fairly steady.

"Despite these adverse conditions, we have overcome every obstacle in the past and every new development has pointed towards greater progress. North Dakota is only 42 years old, a comparatively short time in the life of a state or nation. Compared with sister states, North Dakota is very youthful. Pennsylvania was 100 years old when North Dakota was admitted to the Union. Moreover, when North Dakota was admitted it had only 10 or 15 years of very uncertain pioneer development.

"In considering the state's achievements, we must compare it on a fair basis, considering what it has done in 42 years as compared to Pennsylvania's accomplishments during 200.

"North Dakota's social, educational and religious organization compares favorably with the social development of any other great state to the east. The educational system pertains to and fills the needs of the people of our state. About 25 percent of the total population of North Dakota is making use of the educational facilities of North Dakota. Is there any parallel to that sort of endeavor, by any other state?

"We haven't got the industrial centers of Pennsylvania nor the population or wealth of New York, but the social, educational, religious and civic institutions fill the normal needs of a liberty loving people, and we have no occasion to be ashamed. At the same time we have built a state and a commonwealth founded on a pioneer basis.

"Our agricultural development began with an extreme at each end of the state. Grain production first developed in the eastern part and in 1910 had reached way across the state and into eastern Montana. At the same time livestock production developed in

Tony Sarg Appears First Time As Third Lyceum Number

Noted Creator Of Marionettes Designs Restaurants In New York City

Coming to North Dakota State for the first time in person will be Tony Sarg, creator of the famous marionettes, who will appear in Festival hall Feb. 3 as the third feature of the twenty-first annual lyceum series.

Mr. Sarg is perhaps best known as the originator of the Tony Sarg Marionettes which have toured the United States for ten years. At the present time Mr. Sarg is designing and planning the Tony Sarg restaurants in New York and later elsewhere. His illustrations have been appearing in the Saturday Evening Post and many other national publications. In addition to these things he is author of many books for children, producer of ball-room pageants for the holidays and other occasions, designer of Tony Sarg silks, rugs and wallpaper and originator of various souvenirs on sale in the Tony Sarg souvenir stores.

Between the afternoon and evening performances Mr. Sarg will be entertained at dinner in the Lincoln Log cabin.

the west, until finally our agricultural production has reached sort of a balance, and grain and livestock production have filtered one into another.

"Our social structure has changed at the same time. The automobile is eliminating the small trade centers to larger trade and social centers. The farmer, laborer and business man are on a close equality as far as transportation is concerned. This fact together with our adequate highway system points toward a state of virtually one county—one social and economic community.

"We have had our ups and downs to remind us that the way of progress is not in a straight line. At times we have had to move back to get the brakes of economic machinery solidly set. Now we are setting ourselves to move steadily forward.

"Don't lose faith in North Dakota's resources, the institutions of the people and the character, integrity and progressive capacity of the populace of the state."

Class Gives Original One-Act Plays Feb. 16

Advanced Play Production Class Broadcasts One Play Over Department Radio

Work on fourteen one-act plays to be presented Feb. 16 marks the beginning of arrangements for new dramatic performances in the Little Country theater, according to A. G. Arvold. "Interest in the dramatic arts is developing rapidly in the public discussion department," said Mr. Arvold.

Deserving of significance among these new theatrical efforts are these one-act plays to be given by the Little Country Theater players. These original scripts are the products of the members of the play production group.

Of the fourteen plays submitted to Mr. Arvold seven will be personated on the stage, six will be read in class and one will be broadcast over the department radio. Each of the plays will be directed by its student author. The casts will be chosen from the members of the class and the students of the college.

The productions and their authors are as follows:

"One Dark Moment," Marie Wilds; "Number 13," Clifford Bowman; "Truth Will Out," Eunice Conlin; "A Chance In the Army," Frank Dvorak; "Oh Ossie," Emilybelle Craig; "Mei Mei," Deborah Ekrem; "Paid Interference," Anne Heiberg; "True Politeness," William Maloney; "The Only Way Out," Jeanette McComb; "The Family Doctor," June Kremer; "Wagging Tongues," Helen Fredrickson; "That's That," Ethel Dahl; "Missing," Irene Stende; "Oh Doctor," Helen Fitch.
