Nancy Elliott To Wed John Doerr

Miss Elliott Sails Christmas Day For Honolulu; Leaves Fargo the Sixteenth

Announcement was made Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Elliott of Des Moines, Iowa, of the engagement of their daughter Nancy Elizabeth to John Edward Doerr, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. John S. Doerr, Mt. Vernon, Ind.

Miss Elliott is an instructor in the art department here and was graduated from Iowa State college. Before coming to North Dakota State she spent two years teaching at the University of Oklahoma.

At the present time Mr. Doerr is park naturalist for the Hawaii National Park, Hawaii. Previous to this he was the organizer and head of the department of geology here which position he held until last spring.

Miss Elliott plans to leave Fargo December 16 and will sail on the S. S. President Monroe from San Francisco Christmas day to meet Mr. Doerr in Honolulu.

Numerous social affairs are being given for Miss Elliott before her departure. Friday night Misses Matilda Thompson and Dorothy Hatch were hostesses at a formal dinner in the home of Miss Thompson.

Mrs. Kenneth Kuhn entertained 35 guests at tea and handkerchief shower for Miss Elliott on Saturday. Tropical flowers and foliage were used in the rooms.

New Athletic Building Is Formally Dedicated

Prominent Men Attend And Assist In Program On Saturday Evening

In a short program before the several thousand people present Saturday evening, the new physical education building was formally dedicated and presented by the State of North Dakota to North Dakota State college.

Introduced by President J. H. Shepperd of North Dakota State college, Governor George F. Shafer, Nelson Sauvain, chairman of the State Board of Administration, and State Senator A. W. Fowler of Cass county were the feature speakers at the dedicatory program.

Formal presentation of the building to the college was made by Chairman Sauvain with praise of the program of "athletics for all." In a short return address, President Shepperd accepted the physical education building in the name of the college, expressing the appreciation of the school to the state of North Dakota.

AIKEN'S ORCHESTRA RETURNS FROM TRIP ABOARD OCEAN LINER

Dallas Rudrud, Ole Severson, Fargoans, Are Included In Touring Party

TRIP MADE TO ORIENT

Stops On Tour Include Visits To China, Philippines, And Japan

"Although the Pacific did wreck havoc with my digestive system at times, I'm ready for another cruise," said Jack Aiken, N. D. S. student who has just returned with his band from a six weeks tour to the Philippines, China and Japan.

Included in the party were two other Fargoans: Dallas Rudrud, a N. D. S. student, and Ole Severson. The orchestra started from Fargo September 20, and left the west coast October 3, on the S. S. President Cleveland, of the American Mail line.

The ship was a day late into Yokohama because of a typhoon and also delayed on its return trip by stormy seas. Outside of a Japanese, accompanying some goldfish to America, being thrown overboard and a few good card games, the sailing itself was rather dull, Mr. Aiken reported. The youths missed Henry Presler's Vagabonds, also cruising in the orient, by a week in Shanghai. They were informed of this by an old guide, Shanghai Charlie. Nothing of the present battle was seen as the party was south of that district. However, numerous French, American and British warships were seen in the harbors. Especially interesting was the new flagship, "Houston," of the Asiatic fleet.

The longest stopover of the tour was in Manila, for two and a half days. While there they broadcasted over a radio station for an hour and a half. They had previously received a request from Governor-General Dwight Davis' daughter to broadcast.

In Seattle the boys saw Les Narum, N. D. S. alumnus, who is stationed there at a naval base. Thanksgiving day was spent in Los Angeles where the party witnessed the acclaim accorded the jubilant Trojan football team, victors over Notre Dame. California was in the midst of the coldest spell that state had experienced in fifty years. The return across the United States was made by a southern route in a car, with band equipment on a trailer. They touched Mexicali, Mexico, (noted for its saloons), Fort Worth and Oklahoma City. No snow was encountered before the boys reached Sioux Falls.

LAST CADET HOP OF TERM ON THURSDAY

The last cadet hop of the fall term will be held Thursday at 4 p. m. in Festival hall. Billy Euren and his Collegians have been engaged for the hop. Students are urged to attend these hops if they want them to be continued. Unless a good attendance is shown at this event they will not be held next term.

Dick Fowler was a dinner guest at the Delta Kappa Sigma house Saturday noon.

Marguerite Jennings To Lead Co-ed Prom

Event Is Traditional Costume Ball; Men Students Not Admitted

Selection of Miss Marguerite Jennings to lead the 1932 Co-ed prom at the North Dakota State college is announced by Mrs. Carl A. Teet, general secretary of the college Y. W. C. A., sponsor of the traditional event, a costume ball for women students. The affair is the one event of the school year to which men students are not admitted.

With Jan. 21 set as the date for the ball, plans are under way for the traditional affair. Prizes are awarded each year for unusual costumes.

As social chairman of the Y. W. C. A., Miss Jennings will be in direct charge of the event. A senior in the school of home economics, Miss Jennings is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta social sorority and Phi Upsilon Omicron, national honorary home economics organization.

To plan a special entertainment feature for the ball members of the dramatic group of the Y. W. C. A. will meet in the Y rooms at 4:15 p. m. today. Claire Newell is in charge of the section.

Committees to handle the several phases of the prom entertainment have been appointed by Miss Jennings. The groups include:

Entertainment—Aura Charbonneau, chairman, Carl Cooper, Betty Foster, Ruth Hartman, Frances Loomis and Constance Martin.

Music—Anne Heiberg, chairman, Luella Ulness, Helen Skei and Amy Glaser.

Hall—Jeanette Naftalin, chairman, Virginia Davis and Marguerite Johnson.

Tickets—June Miller, chairman, Frances Nichol, Ruth Henderson and Lois Rudrud.

Refreshments—Irene Hudson, chairman, Frances Hedner, Louise Barton, Marian Powers and Ida May Hollands.

Edwin Booth Club Initiates Sunday

Four New Members Admitted To Dramatic Organization For Outstanding Work

Formal initiation services were conducted for four new members of the Edwin Booth Dramatic club of the North Dakota State college at 5:30 p. m. yesterday in the Little Country theater. Carrying out a custom of former years, the initiation followed the Christmas festivities being given at the college this afternoon.

Qualified for membership because of outstanding ability and participation in dramatic work on the campus, Dorothy Holes, Hunter; Audrey Medley, Wimbledon; David Minard and Lyle Phillips, Fargo, were initiated into the organization. In charge of the service was Dorothea Olson, club president. Assisting her were Misses Ruth Barrett and Jean Pote and Malve McKoane.

Initiates were honored at a supper in the Lincoln Log cabin following the formal supper. An hour of informal entertainment, including stunts and games followed.

CLUB MEMBERS OPEN ANNUAL CONVENTION AT COLLEGE TODAY

Thirty Counties Send Delegates To Twenty-Second 4H Club Institute

REGISTRATION IS TODAY

Delegates Are Named By Local Committees On Basis Of Superior Work

North Dakota State college campus is swarming with 4H club boys and girls from all over the state who have gathered for the twenty-second annual Achievement Institute, which started this morning and will continue until Friday. Registration began at 9:15 this morning and before all have registered it is expected that there will be over 350 enrolled; with at least 33 counties represented.

Lists of delegates now being submitted by county agents indicate that numerous local 4H club leaders will accompany their boys and girls to Fargo, and for their benefit club officials have arranged a series of special conferences.

This year 33 counties are sending delegates to the meeting, 19 of which will be represented by exhibits in the sixth annual show and sale of market classes of club livestock. Seventy head of baby beaves, swine and lambs comprise the show which is held in conjunction with the institute program. These will be sold following the completion of judging Thursday.

Doris E. Earl, Grand Forks, 1931 president of the state 4H organization, will officiate at many of the meetings of the juniors. A large proportion of the program each year is handled almost independently by the club members, with but a minimum amount of assistance from club officials. This tendency on the part of the boys and girls to assume a large share of the responsibility for the success of their meeting reflects the valuable training they have received in their local club groups, Mr. Rilling believes.

Following registration of the delegates Tuesday morning, time was spent in getting acquainted, which will include the singing of club songs. Dr. J. H. Shepperd, president of the college, and C. F. Monroe, director of extension work, gave brief talks, welcoming the group to the campus. In the afternoon a 4H party will be held by the girls under the direction of Ella M. (Continued on page 4)

Welcome

The twenty-second annual Achievement Institute of the 4H clubs opened on the campus this morning bringing to its sessions some 350 boys and girls from over the state. We welcome them to the campus and hope that their meeting here this year may be as profitable and enjoyable as the ones of the past.

The students of North Dakota State are anxious to help you and will be glad to direct you on the campus or about the city.

Featured on the program for the week will be the auction sale of livestock on Thursday forenoon. Seventy boys and girls will have animals entered in the sale. State college organizations and faculty members can do themselves and the college considerable good by being on hand to buy some of the livestock.

Cooperation

The students at North Dakota State must enjoy being preached at. The sermon for today is on "Cooperation"—necessary although admittedly trite.

At present the Bison staff are attempting to edit the most representative annual in the history of the school. To do this they are including pictures of all classes. To date they have met with cooperation that is ten per cent perfect.

Need we remind you that the 1932 annual will be just as representative as the cooperation which it receives? That makes the 1932 book ten per cent representative.

We might point out the obvious advantages of making the yearbook a remembered one. For one, the University of North Dakota has been forced to abandon publication this year. A truly representative annual would be a feather in our cap. Secondly, we might remind the lowerclassmen that this will be the first annual in the history of the college to carry individual pictures of you within its covers. In four years every student will have a complete pictorial record of his college days. Four years from now it ought to be indeed interesting to compare the first with the last and note the improvements. And then thirdly, either because of the depression or along with the depression the price per cut has been reduced from three to two dollars. Remember that the deadline for cuts has been extended until the holidays—and you'll be broke after Christmas.

Student Opinion

Just Gripping

A pillow processional will be the order of the day at the future basketball games—that is if a short person really wants to see the game or at least the scoreboard from the bleachers. Or perhaps some arrangement might be made to seat the spectators according to height putting us in the front row where we might occasionally see the ball if we so desire. Last Saturday our only source of information was from a "wise guy" who obligingly shouted over our shoulder at intervals that "Blank played good FOOTBALL," that "the game was terrible," that "the referee was crazy," that "they would like to leave,"—and oh how we wish they would have.

They tell us that the new physical education building was dedicated. Unfortunately we couldn't see the dedication and a continual hum of a wireless and click of a typewriter kept us from hearing what was said. But of course the typewriters must click even though the governor is speaking. We understood that typewritten copies of the governor's speech might be secured before presentation. We didn't see anybody rise when the governor came in so perhaps he wasn't there or maybe he was there before we came.

Senator Fowler, according to the newspapers, tells us that the building is not entirely intended for physical education, but for large college gatherings as well. Perhaps the Letterman's dance wasn't a large gathering, but we saw everybody we knew and bumped into all we didn't.

A. M.

The North Dakota State college Pep club got off to a nice start Saturday night at the dedication of the new gym. More new members turned out that night than were expected, according to Milton Lee, president of the organization. However, with a bigger gym, North Dakota State certainly ought to have a larger pep club than the one that appeared Saturday evening. It is suggested that all students who wish to better support their team and who have the little spare time that is needed to go out for this activity join the organization. Notices of meetings will be placed on the bulletin board ahead of time, and anyone who wishes to join can do so by attending the next meeting. Ideas are being worked out for the coming basketball games of the winter term. Lee is asking for the cooperation of all fraternities on the campus to make this year's Pep club bigger and better. Incidentally, it might not be a bad idea for the Betty Coeds of the college to work out something along the line of the Pep club.

BACTERIOLOGISTS DO PLANT EXPERIMENTING

The coming of cold weather does not put an end to the gardening of the bacteriologists, according to Dr. Casper L. Nelson, bacteriologist at the North Dakota State college. However, their gardens do not consist of flowers but of plants far to small to be seen with the naked eye.

At the present time some of the bacteriology students at the college are beginning to work upon these experiments. They do not dig the dirt to prepare their gardens, but by combining beef extracts, peptone, salt and water they make various kinds of jellies and soups. One of the most common of the soups is called "Bug Soup" or bouillon by those who work with it. Nevertheless, it looks good enough to drink but its looks belie the taste. Still the bacteria love it.

In one experiment either gelatine or a sea weed product known as Agar was added which made a solid jelly. On the surface of these jellies the other bacteria which are to be studied grow. Some of the bacteria have very fastidious tastes and have to be coaxed with special sugars which cost from fifty cents to fifty dollars a pound.

Several specially prepared incubators are available to the student bacteriologist to furnish a summer climate for his crops, while outside it is cold and blustering. The temperature maintained in these incubators is approximately blood heat. Thus the plant gardens of the microscopic world are developed.

ELLENDALE FARMER TAKES SHORT COURSE

Using the spare time of the year, late fall and winter, to improve his knowledge in livestock courses at North Dakota State college has placed R. C. Heine, Ellendale, among the topnotchers in the livestock game in the state, according to Dr. H. L. Walster, dean of the school of agriculture. He is a leading breeder of Shorthorn beef cattle and Duroc Jersey hogs. A brother, Erwin, is also a graduate of the farm husbandry course. R. C. Heine, graduated in 1920.

Jesse J. Simmers, farm husbandry 1926, Jamestown, manager of Valley View Stock farm, finds that the principles of livestock management learned of his purebred herds of Red Polled cattle and Duroc Jersey swine, states Dr. Walster.

The practical short courses in agriculture for this year begin January 5 and end March 20.

MINNESOTA DEFEATS NORTH DAKOTA STATE IN FIRST ENCOUNTER

Saturday's Game Is Interesting From Standpoint Of Spectators

ERIC NORDSTROM STARS

Bison To Play Moorhead State Teachers Peds Friday In Second Game

The North Dakota State college basketball team under the tutelage of Coach L. T. Saalwaechter lost their first game of the season to the powerful University of Minnesota hoopers. The game Saturday, which was a part of the dedication services in the new physical education building, was an interesting game from the standpoint of the spectators, and the Big Ten team finally came out on the long end of a 31-18 score.

The University team displayed a short passing attack which was worked up to a high point of perfection. At times this passing attack was almost infallible and at other times it tended to become rather erratic.

Weir Out On Personals

The Bison were at a great disadvantage in height, and this factor played an important part in their defeat. Bob Weir, giant center, was compelled to leave the floor on personals fouls after but eight and a half minutes of play in the first half. Weir had collected five points in this time, and his banishment from the game was the turning point of the battle. With this loss of height under the basket, the Bison found it much harder to score from this position, and also harder to get the ball on follow in shots. At this time in the game, the Bison were leading 7-6.

The first half of the game was rather slow with neither team showing a distinct advantage. Minnesota controlled the ball most of the time, but the Bison were putting up a great battle and always fighting for the ball. The first half ended with the Bison trailing 11-16.

With only one half of a minute of the second half gone, Bethel, sharp-shooting Minnesota center, made a short shot from under the basket. Nordstrom followed shortly as he intercepted a pass and dribbled the entire length of the floor to bring the count to 19-13.

Second Half Fast

From this time on the game became fast, and frequent fouls were called due to the high speed at which the teams were travelling. Minnesota collected a total of six points in the second half from the free throw line, while the Bison garnered but 3 points in this manner. Cielusak, captain and stellar guard of the University quint, proved to be especially effective in his free throwing, by caging 6 of 7 attempts from the gift toss line.

The two teams used the same type of offense, but the Minnesotans were a little more adept in their passing game. At one period just before the close of the first half, the Minnesota team worked the ball down deep into the Bison territory. They started a short pass game, with the elimination of dribbling, which finally netted a basket by Sommers. This play was the outstanding bit of work of the fray.

Bison Shoot Poor

The Bison had many shots at the hoop during the second half but the scoring aces were completely off in their form, and many of the shots hit the rim only to drop off again. Donald Arthur, probably the surest shot on the team, connected for only two counters. Arthur, who generally counts much more heavily than this, missed many shots that he would generally have made. George Fairhead, second high scorer in the conference last season, missed shot after shot at the hoop. Weir displayed the greatest offensive ability of any player while he was on the floor and if he not been taken out of the game the outcome might have been different.

Eric Nordstrom, flashy guard, was the most effective player on the Bison team. He displayed a highly effective defensive game and left his duties long enough to count six points toward the Bison total. McKay played a good

Dragon Ball Team Will Oppose Bison In Weekend Game

Baby Bison Issue Challenge To Second String of Teachers College

Negotiations are being pushed for a Bison-Dragon basketball game this weekend, either on Friday or Saturday night, Leonard Saalwaechter, North Dakota State college basketball coach, announced today.

The game will be played this week, Coach Saalwaechter says, although final decision as to the date of the game has not been completed with "Sliv" Nemzek, grid, basketball and track mentor of the Moorhead State Teachers college.

Frosh Play Seconds

Before the Bison varsity contest with the team described as one of the most outstanding in the history of Moorhead State Teachers college, the Baby Bison will take a test game with the second varsity string of the Moorhead school. It will be the first public test of the State college freshman basketekers.

Practically the same varsity lineup that faced the University of Minnesota basketekers Saturday night, will be used to test the Moorhead Teachers quint on either Friday or Saturday night, whenever the game is scheduled, according to Saaly.

Saaly Is Pleased

"I was much pleased with the defensive and offensive showing of the varsity in their first test of the season, Saturday," Coach Saalwaechter said. "The demonstration by the team during the game with the Minnesotans shows vast improvement in the condition of the squad over that of last year at this time."

Although the Gophers held the ball for three-fifths of the game, it is a compliment to the Bison defense that they were given no more chances for close shots at the basket than were the Bison, according to Coach Saalwaechter. The brilliant series of passes by the Big Ten quint failed to open wide holes in the Bison defense, although tried throughout the entire game.

With the experience of a tilt with the well-known Minnesotans behind them, the Bison varsity should be well prepared for the game with the Moorhead Teacher squad this week. The game date will be announced tomorrow.

brand of ball while he was in the contest and will prove to be a valuable man before the season is over. Walt Olson, who has been shifted from a guard post, played a steady game but his shooting ability was not up to par. Leo Thomasson was successful in getting the ball off the backboard and putting it in play.

Captain Cielusak of the University team was the outstanding man on the opposing team. He plays a guard position and collected 12 points during the game.

With the experience that the team got in this game, the Bison should be in good form for the game next Friday. At that date, the Bison will engage in battle, the Moorhead State Teachers Peds on the new physical education building floor.

Boxing Classes Will Begin Work Tuesday

New Ring and Race Track Are Made Ready for Band Of Fighters

Boxing Instruction for Bison challengers will begin this afternoon for the first time of the 1931-32 season, according to Lt. Fay Smith, fighting tutor at North Dakota State college.

Prospective fighters of all weight classes will hold daily workouts in the ring constructed in the basement of the physical education building. Fresh cinder has been hauled to complete the construction of the race track adjoining the ring, where fighters will jog off avoirdupois and build up leg muscle.

With the first intramural tourney scheduled some time after the beginning of the second term of school and with the North Central conference scraps looming on the seasonal horizon, physical condition is the goal of the prospective ringmen for the several weeks remaining of the fall term.

Besides the boxing instruction, general wrestling instruction will be given by Coach Smith. Practically the entire freshman football squad, not candidates for basketball, have signed up either on the wrestling or the boxing lists.

A number of promising newcomers are working out already, according to Coach Smith, who expects to have a better knowledge of the calibre of the candidates after the first few days of workout.

Kappa Kappa Gamma held formal installation for the newly elected officers of the sorority on Monday night at 6:30. The following took office at that time: Ora Hammerud, president; Elizabeth Olsen, treasurer; Metta Cleveland, registrar; Helen Louise Clemens, corresponding secretary; Ruth Barrett, recording secretary; Marian Brainerd, marshal.

Benton Decides Determining Factors

Cotton, Silk and Rayon Compete With World on Textile Market

The world wool price plus the tariff and cost of importation is the price North Dakota wool growers receive for their wool in Boston, according to Dr. A. H. Benton, head of marketing at North Dakota State college. He points out that the present tariff on scoured wool is 34 cents per pound, which is equivalent to 13.6 cents on raw North Dakota wool, as the fleeces from this state generally shrink about 60 percent.

Dr. Benton has just completed a new experiment station bulletin on wool marketing which is now being published. The bulletin, No. 252, will be available for general distribution about Jan. 1.

"Variations in the price of raw wool in the United States depend upon its grade, condition and character. The diameter and length of the wool fiber largely determine the grade into which different fleeces fall," Dr. Benton says. "Usually the wool of fine texture and long fiber commands the best prices. The bulk of the wool produced in North Dakota grades medium. The amount of grease is the most important factor determining the condition of the wool. Dirt and other foreign material such as burrs, straw and filth in the wool are other factors on which condition is rated and are partly under the control of the producer. Mixtures of color in wool are also considered under this head.

"The spinning quality and color of the wool when it is scoured are the points considered under character. The best wool is springy, soft, elastic, of even crimp and bright in color.

"Wool which has been well cared for, being free of burrs and clean is placed in a higher line when graded and handled by wool cooperatives, Dr. Benton says.

Sheep numbers in the United States and also in North Dakota have increased greatly since 1923. That year the sheep population of the country was 36,600,000 and in 1931 was 51,900,000 head. In 1923 North Dakota had 240,000 sheep, in contrast to over 1,000,000 head now. However, so far as North Dakota is concerned, the state is not overstocked with sheep. Natural advantages such as climate, large farms with abundant feed and accessibility to good markets make this state a favored one for sheep production, Dr. Benton believes.

Wool's three foremost competitors on the textile market are cotton, silk and rayon. Cotton consumption has remained about stationary during the past years, but the use of both silk and rayon has increased rapidly.

In commenting on the sheep industry in North Dakota, the economist points out that lambs and sheep in small farm flocks are profitable even with low prices prevailing, owing to the ability of this class of livestock to save many feeds which might otherwise be wasted and to the fact that two crops are produced, lambs and wool. For a period of years fat lambs, relative to the price of feeds, have been higher in price than any other class of livestock, he declares.

North Dakota is also well situated for feeding lambs, being on a direct route between the ranges and the market and in a position to take advantage of through rail rates.

CO-OPERATIVE BUYING PLAN IS SUCCESSFUL

After a six week's trial, the policy of co-operative buying inaugurated by eight fraternal groups on the North Dakota State college campus at the beginning of the fall term, has proven itself successful, estimates show.

The plan of collective buying as constructed by the several buyers for Greek letter organizations enables the participants in this organized buying to save nearly 20 percent of the cost on many types of articles. Staple goods, which are bought in wholesale quantities, can now be purchased with a view of good quality in mind and not for the sole purpose of a low price, results show.

CLUB MEMBERS OPEN ANNUAL CONVENTION

Gardner, recreation specialist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Later in the day boxing and basketball matches have been arranged by the athletic department to entertain the delegates. In the evening the entire group will take part in a community program to be put on by Prof. A. G. Arvold, in the Little Country theater.

For most of the delegates, Wednesday's seat of interest will be in the livestock pavilion where judging of the livestock exhibits is scheduled to begin at 10 a. m. Among the other high lights of the day is a demonstration of meats, reports of delegates who attend-Chicago, a recreation program under the national 4H club conference in the guidance of Miss Gardner, a tour of Fargo, and the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet in the evening. Thirty-nine girls, winners of high places in clothing contests in their home counties, will model the garments they have made at a dress revue in connection with the banquet. This feature is being directed by Miss Pauline Reynolds, assistant 4H leader, and Edna Sommerfeld, junior clothing specialist.

Thursday forenoon the livestock exhibits are to be sold at auction, selling to be conducted by H. L. Finke, Minot; Frank Hyland, Devils Lake, and Francis L. Haibeck, Steele. The girls will attend meetings in the Little Country theater. In the evening a special program prepared and conducted by the boys and girls themselves will be held, a portion of which is to be broadcast over the radio.

Friday the girls will spend most of their time in a group session, while the boys will visit the Armour Packing plant at West Fargo. Home economics demonstration teams from Ward, Burleigh, Barnes and Benson counties are scheduled to battle it out for state championship honors at this time. In the afternoon, before concluding the institute program, the delegates will hold their annual business meeting which includes election of officers for 1932.

During the institute program a little 4H club newspaper, familiar to boys and girls who have attended previous institutes as the "Flickertale" will be issued. Reporters on the paper will be selected at the opening of the program. Polly Johnson, former 4H club girl and now a member of the staff of the Farmer's Wife magazine of St. Paul, will assist the girls.

Among the attractive features of the week's schedule will be a singing contest among groups from each county; a health contest will be conducted to determine the healthiest boy and girl, and a special recognition is to be tendered the two club leaders most outstanding in 1931.

BEATTY GIVES SPECIMEN OF CORAL TO COLLEGE

An unusual specimen of honeycomb coral was recently presented to North Dakota State college by J. H. Beatty, commercial beekeeper of Fargo, for the College museum, according to Prof. J. A. Munro, head of the department of entomology. The rock has the outward appearance of honeycomb, as it is full of many six-sided cells resembling those built by the honeybee. It has been identified by the college geology department as honeycomb coral and belongs to the Siroinian age, an age long before insect life appeared in the world.

While on a trip thru Iowa, Mr. Beatty was given the coral specimen by Russel Hook of Greeley, Ia. It is now placed beside a real honeycomb built by bees, to show the close resemblance of the two.
