Alpha Kappa Phi To Be 94th Chapter of Alpha Tau Omega

Installation Definitely Set For Homecoming Weekend
October 22-23

LOCAL IS 15 YEARS OLD

Only One Other National Social
Group Is Represented
On State Campus

Alpha Tau Omega, national social college group, will install the local chapter of Alpha Kappa Phi as the 94th chapter on October 22 and 23, according to word received by the local group from the national office.

Installation of this group marks the entrance of the second purely national social fraternity on this campus. At the present time Theta Chi is the only other national social group with three professionals, Kappa Psi, Alpha Gamma Rho, and Sigma Psi Delta completing the national fraternity chapters. There are five national sororities.

Alpha Kappa Phi was formally accepted late last spring after ten years of work. The local group is the oldest on the campus being established here for fifteen years.

Formal services will open with initiation at 8 a. m. on October 22. Approximately 50 alumni, 25 actives and some pledges will be taken into the national unit at that time. Inasmuch as the services are scheduled for the same weekend as homecoming it is expected that many alumni from the east and west coasts will be here, according to George Mayoue, president of Alpha Kappa Phi's alumni.

The college will entertain at a formal reception and ball, as is their custom, following the dinner to be held on Thursday evening preceding homecoming. Initiation will be continued through Friday.

On October 25 the new chapter of Alpha Tau Omega will be hosts at an informal reception in the chapter house 1155 Twelfth avenue N.

At the present time it is expected that the chapter at the University of North Dakota or the one at the University of Minnesota will act as the installing group. Large delegations are expected from both chapters in addition to many national officers.

Opening Cadet Hop Thursday Afternoon Oct. 8 in Armory

Scabbard and Blade Sponsors
Traditional Hops With Student Support

The first cadet hop of the season will be held Thursday afternoon from 4-6 in the old armory. Even since Scabbard and Blade was established here in 1920 the hops have been sponsored by the organization and have become a college tradition.

This year if the proper student support is given the weekly hops the committee in charge plan to have them all during the winter. Formerly they have been held only during the fall up until the basketball season and for a short time at the end of that season. Because the athletes will be using the new building this year it will be possible to hold the dances all through the winter in the old building, with the support of the student body.

"Inasmuch as this is a tradition of the college, Scabbard and Blade would like to continue the hops. This is impossible without the backing of the students," said Malve McKone, publicity chairman for Scabbard and Blade, on Monday.

Billie Euren and his Collegians will play for the first hop on Thursday. An admission price of thirty-five cents will be charged the men while women will be admitted free. On the committee are: Frank Seebart, hall; Al Olson, music; Lawrence Ryan, finance; and Malve McKone, publicity.

Who Is O. Olson?

Will Mr. or Miss Orville or O. Olson please see Miss Fleury at once?

Said person is asked to respond immediately and save Mademoiselle Fleury (new language mentor) further harassment and worry.

For ten days now the class card has remained in the hands of the instructor and to date no one has responded to the roll who answers to this name.

For ten days 34 students have been subjected to a gruelling examination and cross-examination as to the pronunciation of this person's name, his whereabouts and his evident delinquency in attending the class in French 4 section 2 which meets in Science at 9 a. m. HELP THE NEEDY!!

Rumors of Hazing Drift Into Office

Painting, Paddling and Preaching
Begin After
Rushing

Class spirit is becoming evident again after the hectic days of the rushing season as rumors of fall hazing that drift into the Spectrum office indicate. In short, it will not be long before the sight of the freshman, bending under a heavy load of wood for the traditional bonfire, will be viewed with satisfaction and pride by the sophomore class.

It is expected that the usual activities, alias painting, paddling and preaching will begin in a few days. The sidewalks will soon be adorned with becoming numerals and the lofty places will be sealed in attempt to leave a mark that time or the sophomores will not erase. In fact, several members of the freshman class have been seen gazing with a mixed look of inspiration and hope upon the new smokestack, and the imagination of this writer does not have to stray very far before it sees in the near future, the classic features of a glorious '35 ornamenting the new landmark.

Another task for the laboring newcomer will be the well known bonfire. The custom of the blazing monument, symbolic of the funeral pyre for the hopes of the homecoming opponents, originated many moons ago, in the dead dark ages, and it has been the custom and privilege ever since, for the freshman class to contribute their efforts toward the success of the affair by 'bringing in the staves' and, incidentally, any other bits of stray wood in view. Of course, the beloved sophs will take it upon themselves to see that things are done to the best advantage.

A note of tragedy is now heard with the rumor that the green cap ruling will be enforced a bit more strictly than during the past two weeks. This may necessitate the expenditure of the necessary six bits required to make the young frosh a proud owner of one of the famous covers.

All in all, it looks like an interesting fall for most of the two classes, and in the meantime, the rest can sit back and look on and ruminate on the good old days.

SECOND PEP RALLY SET FOR THURSDAY AT 9:40

Prior to the N. D. S. C.-St. Thomas football game Friday night, the second pep rally introducing Casey Finnegan and the football team will be held in the armory Thursday at 9:40. A general rehearsal of songs and yells led by Doc Putnam and his band will precede the introductions. Certain homecoming plans, the nature of which have not been announced, will be submitted to the student body for consideration by the band leader.

In order that the rally as well as the game be a success it is requested that all students learn the songs and yells in the handbook.

Tony Sarg Appears In Person Feb. 3 On Lyceum Series

Welsh Imperial Singers Open
Year's Program In Old
Armory Oct. 21

Committee Schedules Three
Other Artists For Course
During Season

Tony Sarg, famed cartoonist and creator of Sarg's Marionettes, will appear here in person on Feb. 3 as one of the regular numbers of the lyceum program for this year, announces A. G. Arvold, chairman of the lyceum committee.

Opening the course on Oct. 21 will be the Welsh Imperial Singers, directed by R. Festyn Davies, tenor and internationally famous director.

In addition to these two numbers the committee has scheduled appearances of De Wolf Ropper, celebrated comedian. Sidney Landon, noted make-up artist in character studies of literary men; and Sir Phillip Ben Greet, English actor and producer. All numbers will be given in the old college armory which has been remodeled and equipped to car for such programs.

De Wolf Hopper, who appears here Nov. 24, will be accompanied by the Hopper Singers and Players. Scenes from the operas of the Mikado, Pirates of Penzance, and Iolanthe will be presented in costume by Mr. Hopper who is one of the greatest of American comic actors.

On Feb. 24, Sidney Landon will give a program of character likenesses of literary men, one of the favorite being Mark Twain giving his birthday speech. By using grease paint and a vivid imagination he attempts to give faithful reproductions of such writers Josh Billings, Victor Hugo, Bill Nye, Longfellow, Thackeray, Tennyson, Kipling, Holmes and others. Each author impersonated is quoted from.

One of the greatest Shakespearean producers is Sir Phillip Ben Greet who will appear here on March 2 as the closing number of the series. With a cast of English players he will present a repertoire in American this year that includes "Hamlet," "Macbeth," "Julius Caesar," "The Comedy of Errors," "Twelfth Night," and the morality play, "Everyman."

Ora Hammerud Goes To Province Meeting

Kappa Kappa Gamma Holds
Province Convention
There Oct. 8-10

Ora Hammerud, president of the active chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma, will leave tomorrow night for Madison, Wisconsin, where she will serve as the official delegate to the province convention of the sorority being held there October 8-10.

Social events including a tea and campus ride and the football game between the University of Wisconsin and Auburn have been planned for the delegates in addition to the regular business sessions. A formal banquet on Saturday night will conclude the convention.

The province includes the chapters at the Universities of Illinois, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Manitoba, Northwestern university, Illinois Wesleyan and the chapter at North Dakota State.

From the active chapter in addition to Miss Hammerud will be the Misses Elizabeth Woledge, Lillian Lindsey, Elizabeth Olsen, Eleanor Burnett, Erlys Hill and Emilyelle Craigo. Miss Louise Fuller will represent the alumnae.

Speaking on "Two Elements of a Cultured Life," Reverend Arthur Ratz, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, addressed the student body at the third convocation of the year this morning in the old armory.

Big Game Hunters

Wierd rumors reached our inner sanctum yesterday. It seems that two of our prize litterateurs i. e. Messrs. Sackett and Storlie, have equipped themselves with 16 gauge guns and are going out to shoot at some chickens, pheasants, and other big game. We are anxiously awaiting further developments from the English department—or perhaps a taste of pheasant. Don't forget, we said—IT WAS RUMORED.

75 to 90 Per Cent of Students Work to Stay in College

Nearly 35 Per Cent Are Wholly
Dependent On Themselves
For Education

INCREASE IN SOPHOMORES

Incomplete records at the student employment bureau would indicate that between seventy-five and ninety per cent of the students on this campus are working at least part time to aid them in continuing their education, said Mrs. Psyche Gooden of the employment bureau in an interview yesterday.

"Because the employment bureau is open throughout the year it is impossible to give any definite figures for one period. The work of the bureau is a continual process and is at the service of the students even during the summer," continued Mrs. Gooden.

Approximately thirty-five per cent of the applicants are entirely dependent on their own efforts to continue their education. Board and room jobs are most in demand. Mrs. Gooden has placed every board and room applicant where immediate need was shown who has come to her personally in the office this fall. Students are still writing for jobs and will enroll as soon as they receive a telegram telling them that one has been secured.

This year there has been a noticeable increase in the number of sophomores applying for work. There are also many freshmen, but the upper classmen still outnumber them.

Because of the depression students are working under many difficulties that are not prevalent in normal times. As a manner of policy the neediest ones are helped to secure work first and to obtain the necessary money for tuition and books.

A greater share of the students paying their own way through school work during the summer with the aid of Mrs. Gooden and therefore don't find it necessary to do more than odd jobs or work for their board and room during the school year.

In order that she may know the success her efforts are achieving, Mrs. Gooden keeps in touch both with the students and their employers after she has placed them in positions.

ORVILLE ISLEY ELECTED TO SUCCEED C. BRYANT

In a short business meeting held Saturday morning in the engineering laboratories the members of Tau Delta Pi, honorary engineering fraternity, elected Orville Isley, senior electrical student, vice president and chairman to succeed Clarence Bryant who has not returned to school because of illness.

Mr. Isley is a member of Delta Tau Epsilon, social fraternity, and the local branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. He is arranging a series of programs for the year which are to include original papers on subjects of timely engineering interest.

Other officers of the organization are: Fred Payne, president; Ralph Simenson, secretary, and Carl Hoyem, treasurer. These men are all senior engineering students in the school of mechanic arts.

College Education For the Few

We are told every year that a college education is rapidly becoming essential for any sort of success in the many careers open to us. True, now it is certainly desirable because of the prestige it offers, but we doubt if it is or ever will be absolutely essential.

At the present time perhaps fifty percent of the students in college could make better use of their time somewhere else. There are also many ideal college students who are not in college. Universities and colleges throughout the country are doing their best to weed out undesirable freshmen at the end of the first term or semester. Consequently some twenty-four hundred students left the University of Wisconsin before the end of last year. Unfortunately there are still too many who slip by and emerge at the end of four years with a degree, a four year vacation and not much else.

By placing too great a value on the prestige offered by a college degree, we have, in a truly democratic fashion, made college a necessity for the many rather than a privilege for the few.

Vocational training in recent years has received much attention from educators. As a result the elementary school training is beginning to be a bit more of a preparation for life than one for higher education. Fundamentally this is a step in the right direction. The initial steps must be taken in the grade and high school to discover whether the child is of a sufficient mental caliber to warrant further true college training. If not that child would be more happily situated in some vocational school.

When this is accomplished we shall have a more efficient educational system and a revival of the true liberal arts college, a reward and an inspiration for the few.

Unveiling the Mystery

In this issue of the Spectrum after much speculation we are presenting an article on the heretofore mysterious monument to the east of the library.

We sincerely appreciate the efforts of Miss Harriet Pearson, college librarian, who in collaboration with Professor P. J. Iverson, has collected the available data and organized it for publication, thus enabling us to solve the mystery.

A Course in Latin

Early last spring it was rumored that a Latin course would be offered here this fall if the students manifested sufficient interest. Consequently we were rather disappointed not to find it in the bulletin.

We feel quite certain that it wasn't from lack of student interest that such a plan did not materialize for we personally know of some dozen students who were enthusiastic over the prospect.

It would perhaps be unwise to offer a too advanced course because many interested students studied it some years ago. However, we feel that review course might be offered the first term with something more advanced the remainder of the year.

Latin is not a language for the mob. For one thing it is a so-called dead language and not a particularly simple one to master. We feel sure, however, that any student who has been thrilled over Virgil, has read some of Cicero's orations, and even those who have struggled over the translation of Caesar's bridge, must admit that it was not only one of the most beneficial, but, at the same time, one of the most pleasant experiences they have ever had.

For this reason, we should like to see a course in Latin offered soon because we believe it would meet with an enthusiastic reception.

The Mysterious Monument

By Harriet Pearson

The rock of granite standing on a small knoll east of the library was imported from Norway, having been obtained from a quarry near the estate of the man whose name it bears. This inscribed monolith, which towers solemnly and somewhat mysteriously in view of the main building was given to the institution by the Sons of Norway of Abercrombie, N. D., as a tribute to Bjørnstjerne Bjørnson, Norway's famous patriot poet, representative of the common people and promoter of agriculture and country life in general.

Through the efforts of Dr. H. O. Fjelde and other patriotic Norwegians, the N. D. A. C. was chosen as the recipient because they wanted to stimulate interest in agriculture and also to utilize and communicate the enthusiasm of Bjørnson and his followers for an enlightened country life. Furthermore, the college was voted the most popular institution in the state at that time.

On the face of the "bauta sten" is a picture of Bjørnson, a bas relief in a circular frame, beneath which is a wreath of oak leaves and the name, Bjørnson. On the back is a quotation in Norwegian from the national anthem, sung on the day of unveiling, and written by this great poet.

According to the college Spectrum of 1904, May 17th of that year, Norway's Independence Day, was the occasion for a big celebration in Fargo. Buildings in the city were draped with the national colors, and a crowd estimated from three to five thousand persons gathered at 10 a. m. to hear the program.

Following a big parade in which several bands participated, J. G. Halland introduced the speakers. The unveiling speech, delivered by Hon. John W. Arctander of Minneapolis, was a strong and eloquent tribute to Bjørnson. The unveiling was gracefully performed by Miss Helga Trovaten, after which the audience joined in singing the hymn the words of which are engraved on the stone.

The "bauta sten" was formally presented by Dr. Fjelde and was accepted by former President J. H. Worst on the part of the college, and by Governor Frank White on the part of the state of North Dakota. Robert Dolve, now Dean Dolve of the school of mechanic arts, closed the program by delivering a well prepared oration on Bjørnson as a man.

It is certainly an honor to any college to have a granite memorial of so noted a man placed on its grounds. It is an honor that many a larger institution would have been glad to receive. Though much of the significance of the occasion has been forgotten during the intervening years, and few persons now on the campus know the story of the stone, there is much of inspiration to us in the life of this famous man that should stay with us always.

Through the courtesy of Professor P. J. Iverson we submit the translation of the stirring national hymn engraved on the monolith. I believe that the Sons of Norway because of Mr. Iverson's suggestion will have carved a translation of the verse on the stone.

"Yes, we love this land of ours
As it rises forth
Furrowed, weather-beaten o'er the waters
With its thousand homes.
As our sires struggles raised it
From need to victory,
Also we, when it's demanded
For its Peace pitch camp."

This is a literal translation. If any student wishes the verse in rhyme, we have it in Serungard's "Lyrics of the north."

Mr. Iverson thinks a translation of the original verse should be inscribed below the face of the poet on the stone, so that students would know the meaning. He would like to see similar monoliths of Robert Burns, the Scotch poet, of Heinrich Heine, the great lyric poet of Germany, and of Thomas Moore, the immortal Irish poet, placed on our campus to show our coming generations of fine young people, some of the fountain heads of our cultural background. With those might be placed a few similar memorials to a few of our own immortals.

Bjørnson is the great champion of liberty of all mankind. Liberty is an achievement rather than a gift. It is something that cannot be bought with money. It is in times like these that a sentiment like the one inscribed on the "bauta sten" is of untold worth to intelligent people.

In the verse in question, the poet

Letter of Regrets

To the Tappa Kegs:
Received your invitation of the 4th instant urging me to spend pledging night in the confines of your magnificent domicile and to bask in fraternal sunshine with you. But I must decline. However, next to myself, I like B. V. D.'s and the giddy whirl of society best. Bull sessions have given me a new, brighter outlook on life; and even a party with a sprinkling of sorority girls is not discouraging to me. I only resent one of the boys calling me "a ravenous, gorging freshman who has fattened himself at the fraternity crib for two weeks." This gave me a black eye!! Gentlemen, I was not unjust. I am not a Communist. I was only hungry! Hoping you do not think me a "mental leper," I am yours,
Joe Collitch.

P. S. This is not dictated. My stenographer got lost in the rush Monday eve. We are all well with the exception of colds in our heads. What do you think of my penmanship?

Faber's Folly

As this issue goes to press, the whole campus is wrapped in a peculiar atmosphere of suspense. We await the outcome of a discussion on "The Housing of College Married Couples" in special dormitories. This momentous question was given birth by one Tony Faber—Faber of the robust brain, and endorsed by Ben Lindsey. It seems plausible that fraternity pins will fly in flocks now. The real issue seems to be, "Where shall this new dormitory be placed?" We suggest the experiment station as a possibility, since the plan is still in an embryo stage; and too, over there the "Merry Wives" could step out and get fresh eggs and vegetables practically in their back yards.

Faber was as reticent as a deaf and dumb asylum inmate when questioned by reporters. The following remarks were extorted from him after hours of grueling cross-examination: "I have made matrimony a shtudy in many yearsh resshurch work. Matrimony would bolster many a sheventy pershent to a 90 pershent, I believe. However, enough of this!! And, then I want the young women who are now self-shupporting and unburdened to feel at ease, for there is no schtatute requiring them to—hic—get hitched."

Student Opinion

Every college today has its own student publications, and State College is no exception. The Bison and Spectrum represent the students here. Of course there is a governing board that sees to it that nothing undesirable enters the journals. That is a very good thing, because the students are incompetent to handle the situations of youth. The old heads know more about it. Haven't they been through a period of youth long enough ago to have completely forgotten it?

Should the heads of publications let articles be written that tell a little truth, the powers that be may not let new buildings be built on the campus. Of course we won't get many new buildings anyway, but it's a good idea to watch the students just the same. Just like too much knowledge, too much freedom is a dangerous thing. If you don't believe it, look what happened to the United States for declaring its independence.

Colleges follow the policy of the government, i. e., the curbing of as much personal freedom as possible. Of course the freedom of the students is a tradition, but who cares about tradition speaks to the present generation of all ages exhorting to action in the cause of peace. His appeal takes form of a prayer in the same sense as the last verse of our "America."

anyway? It is admitted that the students have a governing body in the student commission, but who ever heard of the commission doing anything that the college did not want it to. Like so many other things in college, including its publications, the commission is a big joke. Having the jokes is a bad idea though, because the students might laugh and become happy. A happy student does not get grades, and the grade is the ultimate goal of every course. Knowledge is only secondary.

Bison Hold Big Ten Team To 12-7 Score In Game at Madison

Aerial Combination of Bunt To McKay In Pass Nets
Bison Counter

MEET TEAM AT STATION

The highly touted North Dakota State college football team, for the second consecutive week played a Big Ten team to a stand still when they held the powerful University of Wisconsin Badgers to a 12-7 score at Madison, Saturday afternoon.

The team was given a royal reception when they stepped off the train on Sunday afternoon. "Doc" Putnam, was present with his band and played many of the school songs. The cheer leaders were present and led the students in some yells. Many of the team followers from up town also met the team to show the fellows that they are behind them.

The Bison counter was the result of a pass play executed by the aerial combination of Bunt to McKay. McKay snared the oval on the two yard marker and fell over the line for the touchdown. Walter Schoenfelder, star of the Bison line, added the extra point by putting a well placed kick between the bars.

Coaches Finnegan and Lowe were well pleased with the brand of play exhibited by each of the Yellow and Green clad players. The playing of Walter Schoenfelder, a huge tackle of exceptional ability, was especially pleasing to the coaches.

Each player in the backfield performed his duties in a creditable manner and no player was outstanding over his teammate.

Next Friday night the strong St. Thomas team will come to Fargo to match wits with the Bison eleven. St. Thomas has a strong team this season, having defeated Moorhead Teachers by a one touchdown margin.

Y SOPHOMORE GROUP PLANS FOR SEASON

At a meeting of the Sophomore Commission held Thursday in the Y. W. C. A. room plans and projects for the coming year were discussed. Teams were chosen to collect for the Fargo Community Chest and Aurora Haas was named general chairman of the Blue Monday Teas for this term.

The Y. W. C. A. membership drive will be held during the week of Oct. 12.

The work of the interest groups of the Charm School will begin with a meeting of the etiquette group at 4.15 p. m. Tuesday, October 6, in the Y. room. All interested in this group are requested to be present at this time.

The next meeting of the Sophomore commission will be held at the home of Mrs. C. A. Teet with Thelma Liessman, Luella Furcht and Grace South as assisting hostesses.

Suffering an injury that will keep him out of football activities for the rest of the season, Fritz Hanson, one of the outstanding men among the Baby Bison, was injured during a practice Thursday afternoon. A torn ligament in the shoulder will make it impossible for Hanson to participate in freshman football for the remainder of the season.

Between Halves

By EVERETT WALLUM

It won't be long before scribes generally will break down and admit that the Bison gridders are pretty fair, pretty fair.

There was considerable said in print after the Gopher game that the Minnesotans were very tired, that they would under normal conditions have defeated the Bufalomen by four or five touchdowns. We wonder what they'll say now after the boys coached by Finnegan and Lowe held the Badgers, allegedly a better team than the Gophers, to an even closer score.

We wonder what they mean by "normal conditions." No condition is normal on a turf which the good old Thundering Herd is tramping.

In our estimation Minnesota has a good team, not one that will rank with some of its elevens of Spear's regime, but one that is bound to be heard from before very many more Saturdays. The Oklahoma A. & M. aggregation, trounced 20 to 0 by the Gophers last weekend, was rated one of the strongest teams which has ever represented that institution.

Bison passes have counted heavily in both scores made against Big Ten opposition this year. In the Gopher melee, a long heave from Bunt to Jacobson started things rolling down the field, while an intercepted pass by Jahr practically cinched the counter. Against the Badgers passes involving Lonsbrough, Jacobson, Bunt and McKay, turned the trick. McKay, who was more or less smothered at Minneapolis, came through in 1930 style to score at Madison.

While the Bison are admittedly strong in all departments it is in pass defense that they must concentrate much of their practice. Any team scoring on North Dakota State must resort to the overhead route, the Bison line being as tough as any in the Northwest.

In the St. Thomas contest Friday night students will witness another one of those "bitter rivalry" games. For some reason or other the Cadets have always pointed towards the Bison. In fact the Tommies rate a victory over the Bison as a "piece de resistance" of their grid menu. They like Buffalo steak. And at a dollar a pound, too. Hmmm.

The St. Paul eleven has the knack of always looking good even in defeat. They fight with such fierceness that you sometimes suspect the fate of the old homestead hangs in the balance of the game outcome.

We were only one touchdown off in our guess of the Badger game. We guessed 20 to 6 and you know how it turned out. Casey will in all probability rest some of his veterans this weekend, if he can acquire a lead early in the game, and we do not think the score will mount very rapidly. A score of, say 26 to 7 in favor of the local entrant, may not be more than nine or ten touchdowns off.

The showing of North Dakota U against DePaul was surprising to dopsters and must have been very gratifying to Jack West. Those who saw the game claim the Nodaks offense has improved greatly since a week ago. Pierce and Knauf, it seems, comprise about as good a set of backs as any pair in the conference.

Cross Country Team Has Competitive Meet

Varsity, Freshman Candidates Vie In Contest; Ernest Hall Leads; Warner Is Second

The North Dakota State college cross country team engaged in their first competitive trials Saturday afternoon. Coach L. T. Saalwaechter pitted his varsity candidates against the freshman hill and dalers and he unearthed two freshman candidates of no mean ability.

Ernest Hall, veteran track man led the field to the tape but he was hard pressed by John Warner, a promising sophomore candidate. These two men finished but a yard apart and they set a remarkable pace for so early in the season. Dwight, who is but a freshman, showed up well by winning third place. John Storms, varsity candidate, finished in fourth place. Kray, a freshman finished in fifth and Myron Pond finished in sixth place. Homer, Hilton, Swanson and Willson finished in the order named.

Saalwaechter was well pleased with the time made in this three mile grind for the runners had to battle a hard rain during the entire race.

Next Saturday afternoon the Bison Harriers compete against the University of Minnesota.

College Bull-etin

Suspension: Students who throw other scholars from third story window, who tell the Deans what they think about them, and those who throw boulders at greenhouse windows, are liable to suspension. Upon conviction they will be transferred to the top of the new smoke stack, and released by a suspensor. During this period of suspension, the suspensee cannot attend the Alley, Golden Maid or college library.

Publications: There is a wonderful opportunity for enterprising young men and women to inaugurate a new Bull Bison, now extinct. There should be about seven student editors and approximately no faculty advisors. The editors will be held in high esteem by their classmates, although liable to expulsion from college.

Lost Articles: Military caps hung in the various buildings are not classified as lost articles. However, if a good fitting cap is found, and the owner is not around in five minutes, take it up to your room.

English Department Announces Ratings

Three Students Make Better Than 140 In Freshman Placement Tests

Reports of the final markings in the freshman entrance test in English, taken Wednesday, September 2, were announced yesterday by Professor Kenneth Kuhn, head of the English department.

The three rating highest are Gerald Stevens, Fargo high school graduate, 143; Isabelle Humphreys, Bismarck high school graduate, 143; Cecil Olson, Billings, Montana, high school graduate, 141. About 375 students took the test and made a general average above that made by former freshmen of the State college. The marks are to be sent into headquarters in Kansas where these marks will be compared with those of freshmen from other colleges.

The Barret-Ryan English test was first given in Kansas colleges. At the present time colleges all over the United States are giving these tests as entrance exams for freshmen.

UPPER CLASSMEN INVITE FRESHMEN TO SMOKER

10,000 Plunks Offered For New Name For Spectrum

Intrepid Editor Archer Explains Reasons for Startling Offer

Not to be foxed by any rival editors, Miss Archer, the Spectrum big chief, has launched a stupendous advertising campaign. She is making a private side offer of 10,000 slugs for a new name for the Spectrum.

"I'll show this here Burnour McFad-dish that he ain't the only pebble on the beach—the old meany," said Miss Archer harshly. "In the past we didn't print much scandal, but from now on I'm all for plenty of those swell traveling salesman and absent-minded professor jokes. The Spectrum will become irresistible in the broad sweep of its mighty arm. Such leading thinkers as Goofy MacSnoof, Joe Paulson, Heywire Broun and Chic Sale might write for us. Yes, the Spectrum will be a veritable gold mine of information. Remember our motto, 'The pen is dirtier than the sword!'"

"This contest is solely for our thousands of admiring readers. They are the ones who reap the harvest of our super publication—they alone are the benefactors. Now remember, here is a chance to earn big money at home. Have you a lucky little devil in your chapter house?"

Dear Elmer:

Well, here I am. I expect to be rushed for all the sororities—and some fraternities.

I don't know which one. Eta Pi, I guess.

And, Elmer, I stopped over at Minneapolis on the road up and went to a show with the home-town boy friend.

Gee, but he's dumb! Instead of getting seats in back where it isn't so light—and where there's nobody behind you—he marches me right down in front.

Say, Elmer, do you know Viv McKay's first name. He certainly knows how to give a girl the "me-for-you" look, doesn't he.

Yours 'til they yank Yankton, —Aggie.
