

College Enrollment Shows Slight Increase Over Last Year's Figures

Actual Figures Show Count To Be Increased By Thirteen Full Time Students

TOTAL ENROLLMENT IS 1351

At the end of the first week North Dakota State has an enrollment of 1351 students. This shows a gain of 13 over the same period a year ago. A loss of eight in the high school department brings the college increase to 21.

The men outnumber the women in a ratio of 2-1 there being 822 men and 429 women. Freshmen outnumber the other classes, the enrollment by classes being as follows: freshmen, 435; sophomores, 363; juniors, 292; and seniors, 183. Graduate students total 15 while there are six special students. In the high school there are 57 students.

Gains occur in the schools of education, home economics, mechanic arts, and science and literature. The schools of education, home economics, pharmacy show the larger gain among the freshmen. According to schools the enrollment is as follows: agriculture, 139; chemistry, 105; education, 160; home economics, 190; mechanic arts, 303; pharmacy, 88; science and literature, 309.

According to A. H. Parrott, registrar, it is expected that 75 to 100 more students will register.

Sorority Formal Rushing Continues

Kappa Delta Entertains This Afternoon; Gamma Phi Hostesses Tonight

Kappa Delta sorority will entertain their rushees this afternoon at the third preferred rushing party of the formal week. Gamma Phi Beta will entertain tonight at a formal dinner. Yesterday Phi Omega Pi and Kappa Kappa Gamma opened the rushing season with an afternoon and evening party respectively.

"Alice in Wonderland" is the theme chosen for the afternoon party given by Kappa Delta today at the home of Mrs. H. W. McArdle, 224 eighth street North. Committees in charge include: Myrna Ottinger, general chairman; Grace South, decorations; and Edna Semmerfield, refreshments. On Friday evening Kappa Delta will entertain at their formal evening party in the old armory. This will be a hotel party with Margaret Olson in charge.

Gamma Phi Beta will entertain their rushees tonight at their traditional progressive dinner. A pirate theme will be used. Walterine Barry is the general chairman. The first course will be served at the home of Dorothy Olson with Sally Hunkins in charge of arrangements. The chapter house will be used for the second course, with Lois Minard in charge. Paula Verne is arranging for the third course at her home in Moorhead and the fourth course will be served at the Gardner hotel with Grace Hunkins in charge of arrangements. The sorority octet will present feature numbers. On Friday afternoon the Gamma Phis will hold their afternoon party at the Island Park Recreation Building with Constance Heilman in general charge. A rustic fall setting is being planned with decorations and refreshments in keeping with the general theme. Assisting Miss Heilman are Sally Hunkins, Abbie Porter and Miriam Narum.

On Wednesday afternoon Alpha Xi Beta will give an Empress Eugenie tea at the home of Lucille Edlund, 1202 third street North. Lucille Kennedy is general chairman. Assisting her are Irene Beyer and Norma Cavett. On Saturday evening the group will entertain at a modern orientation party at the Fine Arts club. Marion Van Vorst is general chairman. Assisting her are Rosella Olson and Lois Beith, decorations.

Blue Monday Event Opens Y Activities

Initial Charm School Program Scheduled for October 6 At Etiquette Meeting

With the first Blue Monday tea held yesterday afternoon in the Y. W. C. A. room from 3 to 5 p. m. the activities of that organization began for this year. Misses Jane Caniff and Marguerite Jennings will be in charge of the tea series this year. Blue Monday teas were inaugurated for the first time last spring and are given for Y. W. C. A. members every Monday, according to Mrs. Carl Teet, secretary.

Beginning October 6 the work of the interest groups within the Charm School will be begun by the etiquette section. The Charm School was also inaugurated for the first time last year and is composed of interest groups in etiquette, dramatics, music and poetry and literature.

This year Eva Sherwood has been appointed chairman of the etiquette group. Claire Newell will be in charge of dramatics; Dorothea Ward, music; and Jeanette Hooper, poetry and literature, with Mrs. H. A. O'Neil as the sponsor. Guest artists will appear before the different groups during their discussion hours. Social problems will engage the attention of the etiquette group. One-act plays will be presented by the dramatic section. The music group will develop program material from within their group, and the literature section will discuss current publications.

Eleanor Johnson, membership chairman, is selecting her assistants for a membership week to be held in the near future.

Engineers' Paper To Hold Name Contest

Contest Closes October 15; Prize To Be Five Year Free Subscription

The staff of the State College Engineer, a quarterly publication issued by students of the school of mechanic arts, is holding a name contest to obtain a more distinctive and descriptive title for its publication, according to Rae Taylor, editor of the magazine. The contest will close October 15 at which time the November issue of the publication goes to press.

The contest will be conducted subject to the following rules: that the name suggested be not more than three words in length, that the name indicate if possible both the state and college publication as well as the nature of the magazine, that the contestant shall be a student or alumni member of North Dakota State, and that the name suggested be suitably enclosed in a sealed envelope and be in the hands of Miss L. A. Challey at Dean R. M. Dolve's office on or before October 15, 1931.

The best name entered will be selected by a committee of three staff members: Rae Taylor, editor; Ralph Simenson, associate editor; and Fred Payne, business manager.

The winner will be awarded a five year subscription to the publication.

Miss Frances Lamb, instructor in English, has returned after a leave of absence during which time she attended Columbia university.

All members of the editorial staff of the State College Engineer meet in the State College Engineer office at 4:00 p. m. today.

—Rae Taylor, editor.

EMPLOYMENT BUREAU

Over in a little office in the college Y. M. C. A., large issues are being decided. Mrs. P. M. Gooden, who is in charge of the employment bureau is making it possible for many students to continue their education. She is continually negotiating with Fargoans in an attempt to secure jobs for those that need to earn money while attending college. This department has been connected with State college for three years. Mrs. Gooden says that a number of jobs are available for girls at the present time. She also states that students who are experienced as shoe salesmen, hardware men, meat cutters and barbers should enroll at once.

First Convocation To Be Held Tomorrow

University of Minnesota To Present Three Programs During Year

At the first general convocation of the year to be held tomorrow at 9:40 President Shepperd will give a formal address of welcome to the student body. It is expected that he will also address the students on the problem of the college dormitories which confronts the institution at this time.

Other programs to be given during the year are as follows: Reverend Arthur Ratz of the Presbyterian church will address the student body on either Tuesday or Thursday of the following week. Under the auspices of the University of Minnesota will come programs by Eugene Laurant, magician, Charles Logfran, lieutenant with Commander Byrd on his flight to the South Pole, and the Metropolitan Opera company.

There will be three outstanding musical programs presented during the year in addition to the one given by the Metropolitan Opera company. Harry Farbman, violinist, has been secured, although the date for his program has not been definitely arranged. On March 7, Rita Orville, soprano, will present a program. Duncan Robertson, baritone, who appeared here last year has again been engaged. The date for his appearance has not been definitely settled as yet.

College Glee Club Plans Reorganization

Group Requests Old, Prospective Members to Convene On Thursday

With plans being made for again reorganizing the men's glee club of North Dakota State college, announcement has been made of a meeting in the interests of the club to be held in the department of architecture at 4 p. m. Thursday. The department of architecture is located on the third floor of the engineering building.

Not only old members have been requested to attend the meeting. Prospective members as well as anyone interested in the club are asked to be present.

Because a quorum was not present, a meeting scheduled for old members, for the purpose of electing new officers, was postponed and plans have been made for a combined meeting of old and prospective members.

ALPHA GAMMA DELTA INITIATES TWO GIRLS

Alpha Gamma Delta announces the formal initiation of Lavina Hendrickson, Fargo, and Ann Heiberg, Twin Valley, Minnesota. Services were held last week with Maurine McCurdy in charge.

College Council Will Discuss New Cut Regulations at Next Meeting

State College Sends Men to Camp Perry

Larry Ryan and Elmer Bothun Represent College At National Meet

With both Larry Ryan and Elmer Bothun firing on the crack rifle team for the Seventh Corps Area in the national matches held at Camp Perry, Ohio, the latter part of the summer, North Dakota State college holds the distinction of sending two of the three representatives of North Central Conference colleges to the national meet.

The only other rifleman firing in the R. O. T. C. competition and representing this college conference was a rifleman from South Dakota State.

Taking first place over a field of 400 sharpshooters at the Reserve Officers' encampment at Fort Snelling, Larry Ryan was first in line of the five representatives sent from that post to the Corps Area in the national meet. Ryan's position at the top of the list came as the result of his placing second in the preliminary matches, and holding the highest score in the final matches, which decided the selection of the five team representatives.

Although several notches lower than Ryan, Bothun shot consistently enough to be placed among the five men sent out from Fort Snelling. More than 800 men tried out for team positions at the three R. O. T. C. camps in the Seventh Corps Area.

Committee Named To Remodel Armory

Sudro, Arvold, Palmer, Parrott, And Minard To Consider Suitable Changes

Dean Sudro has been named chairman of a committee charged with the responsibility of looking after the old armory. The other members of his committee are: Dean A. E. Minard, who has charge of our convocations; A. G. Arvold, head of the public speaking department; A. H. Parrott, registrar; and W. C. Palmer, publicity director. The purpose of this group is to make changes in the old armory so that it will be suitable for dances, programs, and other entertainments.

The armory already shows a great deal of improvement. A new stage has been erected at the west end of the building and a new balcony which connects the two side balconies has been constructed at the rear of the hall. This affords a greater seating capacity.

Plans are being formed to make other changes in the very near future. State now can boast a hall that is available for all parties, dances, and other social functions.

BAYLISS PLANS Y. M. C. A. OFFICE HOURS FOR TERM

With activities of the college Y. M. C. A. resumed with the opening of the fall term, Dudley C. Bayliss, general secretary, has scheduled his office hours for this quarter.

On week days Mr. Bayliss will be in his office in the college Y building from 10 to 11 a. m. and from 4:30 to 5:30 p. m. His office hours on Saturdays are from 10 a. m. until noon.

Outside of the scheduled hours one may reach Mr. Bayliss by calling the department of architecture.

The Board of Publications will hold their first meeting of the year today at noon in Ceres Hall. Important matters will be discussed and all members are requested to be present.

—Earl Hodgson, President.

Two Authorized Cuts May Be Granted Per Term For Every Class

MEETING IS OCTOBER 21

Pending the approval of the college council are a new set of regulations in the no-cut system, according to A. H. Parrott, registrar. The next meeting of the council at which definite action will be taken is scheduled for October 21. If the recommendations are approved at that time it is expected that the new system will go into effect about November 1. Until that time the old system in operation for the last two years is still in force.

Under the proposed revision each student would be allowed two cuts in every course. These the student might take at his own pleasure and no excuse would be requested and there would be no deduction in the final grade as heretofore. Any other unexcused absences above the two authorized ones would be given the regular deduction of two points on the final grade. If at the end of the term it is found that the student has cut more than one sixth of the total number of classes held during the term that student will automatically fail in the course regardless of the grade he may obtain. In an event of this sort the failing will be done at the registrar's office and not by the instructor.

Four Rushing Parties Remain on Schedule

Series Will Be Concluded Friday Night; Saturday Is Open Date

Four fraternity rushing parties remain on the schedule for the rest of formal rush week. The series will be concluded Friday night. Saturday is an open date for all fraternities, while Sunday will be a closed date. Formal pledging will take place at the respective chapter houses at 7 p. m. Monday.

A theater party and smoker given by Alpha Kappa Phi formally opened the rushing period last Friday night. Following the entertainment at the theater guests were taken to the chapter house for informal entertainment. Music by the fraternity band was featured during the evening. George Coffey, rushing captain, and Jack Vincent were in charge.

Three professional fraternities on the campus were hosts to rushees Saturday night. Alpha Gamma Rho entertained at a banquet followed by a smoker in the chapter house. Leonard Luther was in charge. Features of the evening included a radio broadcast of fraternity songs, music by Mildred Thorstad and Grace South, and a group of songs by the Phi Omega Pi trio including Dorothy Chard, Eleanor Erickson and Bernice Emmons. Toasts were given at the banquet by faculty members of the fraternity.

Kappa Psi entertained its guests informally at the chapter house. Bridge was the pastime for the evening. Earl Grove, Carl Velleu and Nels Brakke were in charge of arrangements.

Novelty entertainment including songs and dialogues were entertainment features at Sigma Phi Delta's party in the chapter house. About 35 rushees were entertained with Milton Lee and Gordon Strong in charge of entertainment.

Following a closed date, Sunday, Delta Kappa Sigma resumed the rushing program Monday night by entertaining at a theater party and smoker. Robert Taylor, rushing captain, was in charge of entertainment at the chapter house following the theater party. Guests included about 30 rushees.

Tonight Alpha Sigma Tau will be host to a group of rushees at a smoker at the Fargo Chamber of Commerce. Entertainment is being planned by Don

Rushing

Again we are in the midst of a formal rushing season. For one week sorority women will wear broad, fixed smiles and no amount of fatigue will daunt their resolve to pledge "that rushee." As for the fraternity men it is surprising that their hands are not limp from constant firm hand shaking with prospective pledgees—and in just one more week every Greek letter student on the campus will be asking themselves and their brothers, "Is it worth the effort?"

The questions is old as are the arguments, for and against the fraternity system. At times those against appear to have the edge on those in favor of it. Yet, it is reasonable to believe that this system which has endured for over a century has more than enough redeeming features to justify its existence.

For one thing it gives to the naive freshman a sense of belonging, a feeling that he is a member of a group that is working together. To be sure the fraternity is limiting in that one's intimate associates are the members of one's own group and are not generally chosen from the college at large. Is it not better, however, to have a few intimate friends than scores of acquaintances?

Fraternities have been called "necessary evils." In a college of this size it is humanly impossible to know every student personally and well. Naturally enough, grouping always follows. Even if fraternities were eliminated, clubs or "cliques" would arise—virtually the same except for the Greek letters. In most instances, however, fraternities are superior because they are better organized, have a more definite aim, and a greater scope.

We might go into the argument at length. The better thing to do is to accept the situation and to make of it as perfect a thing as is possible.

Let us remind the Freshmen that no matter how necessary, fraternities are still luxuries and as such are desirable, but not essential. Thousands of students are acquiring college educations without Greek affiliation. In any place it is what one does and not what one is, that really counts.

We would urge those who are "rushees" not to be swayed by national affiliations. It is the local chapter you have to live with. Beware of the man who tells you that all his brothers are perfect. Such a group does not exist and the man who believes it is not facing the facts. Join the group that you feel at ease with, a group in which there are people of similar background and interests, a group in which there are people you will be proud to introduce as your fraternity brother or sorority sister.

We wish you well because we believe it is worth the effort.

A Moral Victory

We lost a football game, but won a moral victory. A Big Ten team was held to a 13-7 score by an aggregation from N. D. State. Pessimistic fans who predicted a forty point game for Minnesota have lost—hence the optimists gained a moral victory.

We are congratulating the team, the coaches, and most of all ourselves. Last week we predicted that this football team would make history, and—presto—it is made.

The Delta Sig house has a fresh coat of white paint.

Student Opinion

If you don't think that the depression has hit the Greeks, just drop in on one of the rushing sessions. The day of rushing sterling qualities has passed, and the new era of rushing wealth has arrived. The old movement hasn't entirely passed as yet, because the Greeks will still take a poor man if he can punt, pass, shoot baskets or concoct a new drink. However, Fraternity makes the man, and the man furnishes the silver.

In this new era, the Fraternities still utilize the same lies to dozzle the unsuspecting Frosh into submission. If the youngsters could only learn a group before they slip a pledge button over on him. He pledges under the handshake, and grows old under the wood. Little recks the Frosh what untold sufferings he must endure at the hands of the "swell fellows".

The idea of education is to learn something. The Greeks teach the Frosh to dance, wear clothes, play bridge, and raise hell. That's a lot more than the institution can do. It teaches the little ones to get grades without learning anything else. Four years of fraternity life leaves one with the knowledge of rounding, while four years of merely college with the knowledge of nothing. Take your pick, a rounder or a nobody.

If you want to know what gang of Capones to join, just ask any member of any outfit. He will tell you not to go to any fraternity except good old Delta Deck, because all the others are only after the dough. Whe the boy from good old Delta Deck has convinced you, he will ask you: "Can you pay your dues?" If you can't do that, or if you are only half sure of your ability he will tell you to go to—well, and pledge at the Phelta Thigh House. —Goofy MacSnoof.

"Texarkana" McGillicuddy, Cowhand

(This is the theme written by John Hyland which won second place last spring in the freshmen theme writing contest, sponsored by Sigma Tau Delta, national English fraternity.)

Tex McGillicuddy had a yen, a penchant as it were, for a derby hat. (Surely a strange complex in a cowhand), all others of his ilk were content with the accepted ten gallon Stetson. Not so Tex. He had something akin to a passion for that dusty old bowler of his.

That day three years ago when that traveling outfit from Texas blew in for the Medora rodeo—the crowd got a great laugh out of that rangy red head with the washed out blue eyes and the ridiculous hat. Later they marveled when that same red head bulldogged and "lipped" a yearling steer in record time. But when he rode "Lofty Valkyrie" through three minutes of that animal's curviest tricks they vociferously proclaimed him for no one had ridden the "Valkyrie" before.

Just before the Texas outfit pulled out Old Bill Challoner who used to ride herd for Marquis de Mores had a little talk with the red head. Later that night the Texans left for Belle Fouche without the derby and their red head. He's guiding tourists on Old Bill's ranch along the Little Missouri now.

It was at No. 2 cabin. (That's where the tourists are nearly shocked to a premature death when their red headed guide tells them that his given name is Cuthbert—"bawn an' bred in Bah Habbuh, Maine!") At No. 2 cabin the party ate their noonday lunch. At No. 2 they gladly stopped for a rest and to water their dogged little ponies. No. 3 is where tourists on Bill Challoner's ranch put up for the night on their two day excursion.

The camp fire of scrub oak was crackling noisily. Tex noted with a smile that no one occupied the chairs that Bill had hauled in. All the dudes are that way the first day. Some of them can't sit down for a week!

"Them," said Tex in his best Bar Harbian intone, "is tittle aigs—petrified tittle aigs." The mildly curious watched as the little shale-like pellet was crushed between massive, hairy fingers.

"Note," now in the fatherly instructive tone, "the yolk." He exposed the yellow powdery material in the center and the tourists resumed their prostrate positions.

For a long while no one said a word. You could hear the cook singing in the cabin, preparing supper. It was getting quite dark. The crackling fire threw a livid light on the forms that were watching it so intently.

At length Tex's soft voice again broke the stillness.

"Do you know what that gallant gentleman, Antoine de Vallombrass, Marquis de Mores said about these here Badlands?" Nobody did.

"He said, only after travelin' the entire worl' y' understand, that these here Badlands was the most beautiful, the most strange, the most awful thing he saw in all his travels. You saw his chateau there at Medora in Golden Valley. Had a big packin' plant there once. The boss rode herd for him for five years. A very gallant gentleman he was, only a little to cantankerous."

The moon was struggling up over a towering butte that rose from the floor of the valley. The yellow light flooded the jagged terrain.

"Do you know what Teddy Roosevelt said about these here same Badlands?" Not even an answer.

"Teddy said," continued Tex after only a pause to squint at the prostrate tourists looking at the moon, "that these Badlands look just like Edgar Allen Poe's stories read. You know—wierd, ghasly and unearthy."

Tex too lapsed into silence. There was something magic about that old yella moon. He couldn't ever remember seeing the Badlands like this before. That fellow from Kokomo mumbled "Gawd!"

That fellow who writes insurance for the International Life whispered, "Look!"

High up on the butte a coyote was silhouetted—his neck arched at the moon. Far below to the floor of the valley to the little group the wail drifted. Tex was fondling his derby hat. He'd never regretted his promise to Old Bill Challoner that day three years ago.

Notes On Depression.

To the Merchants:

Gez whiz, fellers, we're awful hard up out here. Some of these poor eggs are actually so poor that they're wearing the same suits of sackcloth and ashes this year. This is deplorable, ain't it so!! If Gandhi could only see what some of these bozos were wearing, he'd donate his loin cloth and goats, and go into hiding for the winter. Why, they haven't even gin money any more. And that isn't all—when 89 out of 289 applicants must support a wife and three kids besides going to college, it's hard. They're as poor as church mice. In fact, we have two students living out at the Cass County Poor Farm. Of course their father is superintendent, but we just want to picture to youse more vividly the pathos, the suffering, the hardships and the privations these fellers undergo—martyrs at State. Only yesterday we ran into a dreadful case. You saw "All Quiet on the Western Front". Well, you ain't seen nothing yet. Two boys who had been literally forced into the men's dorm were living in a veritable hell. As we entered the dismal doorway, a little emaciated, worm-eaten fellow was holding a coin covered by his hand, on his wrist. A tremendous issue was at stake; who would make the supreme sacrifice. Canibalism—does not that word tend to quicken your pulse beat. There was a strange look about the eyes of the emaciated one, and a contracting of the stomach muscles. Then it came. No, not 'Burp', you smarties, but "Tales, you eat on me". Gentlemen of the jury, will you allow these atrocities to continue? I eskew.

Hoping this will get a rise out of you, we are,

"Won't you come into our parlor," said the spider to the fly. "We've got the neatest little parlor that ever met your eye—with loving cups and trophies by the score—and only ten more payments on the house. Now we don't want to brag, but really, we're the best bunch on the campus. You couldn't go wrong with us. We don't go around razzing other Greeks like some of the fraternities do; but I just want to give you a little lowdown. Those Damma Guys are the laziest bunch of lounge lizards on the lot. When you go over to their house you better wear rubber gloves so you don't catch some loathsome disease. Now you're going to hear a lot of things about drinking, but you know darn well that we're staunch advocates of prohibition. We're bone dry, and you can't say that for the Taka Sips. Why, they'd swindle anyone but a Scotchman and a Jew. Now, the point what we're driving at Percy is—we want you—want you bad, because we haven't got a real checker player in the house this year. We would use you and you could learn to love dear old Rho Dammit Rho. Now Perc, you know this is known as the Cow College; and there's no place where the milk of human kindness runs so freely out of the bucket as in this here house. And that's no bull. Those guys will kill the fatted calf for you and try to bull-doze you into pledging. You'll think you love them, but that's just calf love. In fact, those guys to us, are just like a red rag to a bull. We want you to be a brother and a friend, Perc, old kid, old soak. We want you to love us, love our dogs.

False Suppositions

That Cy Lonsbrough gets so passionate and ferocious by eating just tons and tons of raw meat down in the Golden Maid.

That all the girls in Ceres Hall are of such ravishing pulchritude that the sight of one will send the blood pounding to the temples of the most sedate of males even in 40 below weather.

That fraternity men are the next things to saints and that they'll keep on acting like angels for more than two or three weeks.

See you next week.

Gophers Down Bison With Count of 13-7

Captain Cy Lonsbrough Makes Touchdown; Schoenfelder Secures Goal Kick

PLAY WISCONSIN SATURDAY

A new chapter in Bison football history was written in the Memorial stadium of the University of Minnesota last Saturday afternoon, when the North Dakota State college gridgers fought the touted Minnesotans to a standstill to take a 13-7 defeat from the Big Ten football machine.

Rated by several sport experts as a "dark horse" possibility in the pennant race for the Big Ten championship, the Gophers were forced to use their entire bag of tricks to make appreciable gain against the stubborn line of North Dakota warriors. Two completed passes made possible the winning touchdowns for the Minnesotans after repeated line assaults to pave the way to a touchdown.

The entire team of North Dakotans displayed an excellent brand of football performance. From the rugged lineman to the smashing backs, the Green and Yellow gridgers offered a stubborn front and a slicing offense that drew praise from the some 15,000 onlookers.

Big Walter Schoenfelder, Bison left tackle, threatened to usurp team honors during the day with his outstanding work in holding up his portions of the Bison line and in smashing up Gopher plays before any gain could be registered. Merlyn Jahr, right guard for the Dakotans, pulled one of the most exciting plays of the day in snatching a Minnesota pass on the Gopher 38 yard line and raced 35 yards to within 9 feet of the Minnesota goal before pulled down by the last tackler between him and coveted touchdown.

With a fresh Minnesota covering the 3 yard interval between the ball and the Gopher goal line, Captain Cy Lonsbrough was elected to take the pigskin as far through the stalwart Minnesota wall as possible. The first smash netted two and a half yards for the Bison captain. The ball was now a little more than a foot from the chalked marker.

A second smash at the line by Captain Lonsbrough, saw no gain for the North Dakotans as the two groups of players surged together and came to a standstill.

McEssy hit center on a surprise sneak and still no gain for the Bison. One more chance was left to score.

Lonsbrough took the ball again and dove into the midst of a group of tacklers, this time for a touchdown. The ball went over by several inches.

With Bunt holding the ball, Schoenfelder kicked goal for an extra point to give the Bison their 7 tallies against the Minnesota eleven.

"Peck" McEssy was a brilliant performer in the Bison backfield and teamed well with the versatile Lonsbrough. Individual praise would be difficult to give with every man on the team deserving of commendation.

Hurled from the hands of Pete Somers, Minnesota backfield ace, two forward passes were converted into touchdowns for the Gopher team Saturday. Robinson caught the first scoring pass on the three yard line and loped across for the 6 points. Several plays later Walter Hass stepped in and took another passed ball over the line for a second touchdown, thereby saving Minnesota the ignominy of a 7-0 defeat at the hands of the Bison.

Both "Casey" Finnegan and Bob Lowe, Bison Coaches, have been showing broad smiles during the past week as the result of the grid demonstration of the North Dakota State warriors at Minneapolis. Next Saturday the Bison scrap with Wisconsin.

THREE ALUMNI SPEND WEEKEND ON CAMPUS

Each one an instructor in North Dakota schools, three members of the 1931 graduating class were visitors on the campus over the weekend.

Stafford "Cod" Ordahl came to Fargo from Devils Lake where he is assistant football coach this year. Together with Ordahl, Leo May, athletic coach at Lidgerwood, visited with fraternity brothers at the Theta Chi house. Bruce Robertson, another Theta Chi alumnus, now teaching at Fort Totten, was another weekend visitor.

Between Halves

By EVERETT WALLUM

If you were one of those surprised at the manner in which the Bison performed at Minneapolis, consider the Gopher rooter. The boys from the Twin Cities had expected to see Crisler's first stringers pile up a convincing margin and many of them had bet accordingly. Imagine their embarrassment!

You should have seen the Gopher rooters mumbling incoherently to themselves when Captain "Cy" Lonsbrough crashed over the line for a Bison counter. "Casey" Finnegan, whose smiling eyes grew serious when the Minnesotans passed their way to two touchdowns in the second quarter, was anything but dejected when the Bison scored. His smile was a first down with a yard to spare. Bob Lowe and the rest of the boys weren't wasting very many tears, either.

IT WAS FOURTH DOWN AND A FOOT TO GO WHEN CY LUNGED FORWARD. THE SKI-U-MAH LINE, CLOSELY BACKED BY THE SECONDARY, HELD WELL AND FOR A MOMENT SPECTATORS THOUGHT THE TRY HAD FAILED. BISON ALUMNI AND BOOSTERS WERE SEEN IN THEIR SECTION, CARESSING RABBIT FEET, MUTTERING INCANTATIONS AND SNEEZING IN A MYSTIC TONE. IT IS SIGNIFICANT THAT NO ONE THOUGHT OF LIGHTING A MURAD. AS THE REFEREE RAISED HIS ARMS, SIGNIFYING THE SUCCESS OF CY'S PLUNGE, AND SIGHS AND RELIEF WERE IN ORDER. IN FACT, EVERYTHING WAS IN ORDER WITH BISON ROOTERS EXCEPT BITING IN THE CLINCHES.

"Cookie" Jahr, roly poly Bison guard, propelled his stocky frame with considerable impetus when he snatched that pass in the final canto. It has been figured out by competent statisticians that if Jahr's legs had been one-tenth inch longer, he would have gone across the line. At that he carried the oval to the three yard line, aided by splendid Bison interference.

Jahr's interception of that pass stamps him as a wide awake performer. In the heat of a battle such as that one it's easy to suffer momentary laxness.

Schoenfelder, too, is a heady lineman. Jolly's cherubic face, usually wreathed in smiles, becomes serious when facing an opposing tackle. Time after time he would sift through the Gopher forward wall for tackles and his side of the line was practically impregnable.

Schoenfelder smiled once during the game, anyway. Just after he calmly kicked the point after touchdown, he tossed a beaming countenance in the general direction of Finnegan and Lowe as if to say, "not bad, eh?"

TINY SHAMP PLAYED THE BEST GAME OF HIS LENGTHY GRID CAREER. HE WAS THE BIGGEST MAN ON THE FIELD AND HE USED HIS WEIGHT TO ADVANTAGE.

Clarence "Big Boy" Munn, all Big Ten conference guard, didn't frighten Casey's boys at all. During a lull in the game some unidentified Bison hawled out "say fellahs, this Munn is pie." Clarence squirmed.

His touted kicking wasn't so much better than that done by Jacobson and Lonsbrough. One kick by Jake went for about 75 yards but the ball was called back on account of a penalty.

Jacobson, only a sophomore and the only Minnesota boy on the team, played a bangup game all the way through. The way he snatched that long pass from Bunt in the touchdown drive brought the Bison stand to its feet.

McESSY LIVED UP TO HIS REPUTATION AS A VICIOUS KICKER. HE SIMPLY STOPPED 'EM. "PECK" WOULD NOT WEAR A HEAD GEAR. AND NO STOCKINGS. JUDGING FROM THE WAY HE PLAYED HIS HEAD WASN'T HURT ANY. CASEY GAVE HIM QUITE A HAND AFTER THE GAME.

All the boys played good ball. And every North Dakotan talked a good game from the sidelines. The American Legion band deserves the respect of every Bison. Those boys played the "Yellow and Green" and team song like nobody's business.

"Education" Publishes Article by Johnson, Instructor at State

Magazine Recognizes Worth of Extensive Research Work On Campus

Recognizing the worth of extensive research work done on this campus during a five year period by T. Worden Johnson, assistant editor and instructor in journalism on the campus, Education, a monthly magazine devoted to the science, art, philosophy and literature of education, published a magazine article prepared by Mr. Johnson as a result of his survey. The article appears in the September issue of Education which is kept in the college library.

In the article Mr. Johnson explains and tabulates the results of his research to determine why students choose North Dakota State college as an institution of higher learning rather than other colleges in the country. Questionnaires were distributed to students in freshman English classes at the beginning of the 1926, '27 and '30 fall term.

Types of courses offered by the college and the location of the school were the two outstanding reasons for choosing North Dakota State, the survey showed.

Other major reasons evaluated by many students were in the order of their importance: low cost of attending the college, influence of a member of the student's family not a graduate of the college, influence of friends or neighbors who had attended the college, influence of a member of the college who was a graduate of the college, and influence of high school instructors who had attended the college.

Phi Omega Pi and Kappa Kappa Gamma sororities opened the formal rushing season yesterday with an afternoon and evening parties respectively. The Pops entertained at a "Hoot Owl" night club at the home of Hazel Redman, Moorhead. A traditional Pullman dinner at the home of Helen and Ruth Clemens was given for rushees last evening by the Kappa Kappa Gammas.

A. D. Stoesz, instructor in botany, received his doctor's degree at the conclusion of the summer session at the University of Minnesota this summer.

BOARD OF PUBLICATIONS RESUMES WORK TODAY

Activities of the board of publications on this campus will be resumed for the year today noon when the group assembles at Ceres hall for the first luncheon meeting of the term.

At the present time there are two vacancies on the board since Arthur Cayou and Elene Weeks failed to return to college this fall. As editor-in-chief of The 1932 Bison, Miss Weeks was an ex-officio member.

Besides holding the office of president of the North Central Press association, Earl Hodgson will assume his duties as president of the board. This year he will have charge of the press conference which will convene at South Dakota State college in Brookings sometime next spring.

Besides Hodgson, the board members are: T. Worden Johnson, A. H. Parrott, Harold Fredrikson, Christian Bjornson and Mary McLane.

Robert Anderson, Alpha Sigma Tau, is seriously ill at his home.

Rex Willard, farm economist, will leave early in October for Pullman, Wash., where he will make his home. Mr. Willard will be associated with the Washington State college in a similar capacity to the one he has filled here.

Guests of Kiwanians Will Witness Bison Players In Action

Fargo Club's Festival Visitors Will Witness State's Team Under Floodlights

Kiwanis club members from two states and Canada who gather in the new gymnasium of the North Dakota State college Tuesday for the annual harvest festival of the Fargo club will see the Bison college football team in action.

H. W. McArdle, in general charge of festival arrangements, announced Saturday C. C. Finnegan, A. C. coach, will send his charges through a skirmish under floodlights. Indications are between 300 and 400 persons will attend, said Mr. McArdle.

From 20 to 24 persons will come from Enderlin, Casselton will send a 100 per cent delegation of about 35, several will be here from Bismarck, Winnipeg will send four or five cars of club members. Moorhead, Fergus Falls, Detroit Lakes, Crookston, Valley City, Jamestown, Hankinson and Fairmont are sending delegations.

At the dinner, scheduled at 6:30 p. m., in the college's old armory, will be community singing, an address by Gov. George F. Shafer, talks by members of the various clubs and a tour of the new gymnasium. A dance will be held in the new building.

Increase Expected In Night Classes

Each Class Meets One Evening A Week for Period of Twelve Weeks

Unemployment and the fact that many Fargo residents will not be attending college this fall is expected to boost enrollment in the evening extension classes of the North Dakota Agricultural college, according to T. W. Thordarson, secretary in charge.

Last year the A. C. had more than 500 enrollments in evening classes by subjects, Mr. Thordarson points out. This year preparations are being made for a still larger number.

"Evening classes and correspondence courses offer many people the opportunity to continue their study," Mr. Thordarson points out.

Each class will meet one evening a week for 12 weeks. Each group will select the night most convenient for the entire membership, and the classes will meet either down town or at the college in accordance with the wishes of those registered.

Following are some of the courses proposed for night groups: accounting (beginning and advanced), American short story, art structure and design, bacteriology, business correspondence, commercial law, corporation finance, crafts, design, drawing and painting, economics, French (beginning and advanced) freshman English 1, German (beginning and advanced), Goethe in English, history, and philosophy of education, play production, psychology, public speaking, school finance, secretarial course, sociology, window decorating and show card writing.

All classes are credited toward college degree and post graduate work. Those interested are requested to get in touch with the department of college extension courses in the Main building this week.

SORORITIES CONTINUE RUSHING WEEK PARTIES

Alpha Gamma Delta will hold their first preferred party Wednesday evening at the Forum Recreation room. The theme will carry out the newspaper idea with Mrs. Harry Wood in charge. Assisting her are Eva Sherwood and Mrs. Myrdal. Saturday afternoon the sorority will give their traditional "Algadel" party. Maurine McCurdy, Ruth Johnson and Ann Heiberg are making the arrangements.

Phi Omega Pi will give their last party Thursday evening at the Country club. The theme will carry out the Cinderella idea as has been the custom in the past. In charge of refreshments are Eleanore Erickson and Miss Latzke. Helen Fitch and Virginia Garberg are arranging the entertainment. Decorations are in charge of Ethel Cone and Veronta Weppeler. Joyce Peterson is arranging toasts. Hazel Redman will act as toastmaster and toasts will be given by Mrs. Viola Jordheim, alumna; Joyce Peterson, active; and Virginia Garberg, pledge.

Kappa Kappa Gamma are planning their traditional tourist party for Thursday afternoon in the chapter rooms in the Y. M. C. A. building. Refreshments will be served in general keeping with the idea. In charge of arrangements are Elizabeth Olsen, Lillian Lindsey, Grace Putney and Kathryn Tharalson.

WORK ON POWER PLANT PROGRESSING RAPIDLY

Work on the new addition to the college power plant is progressing rapidly and it is expected that it will be completed shortly before cold weather sets in, according to Paul Larson, power house superintendent.

The main addition in the line of heating equipment is the new 800 horse power boiler designed to increase the efficiency of the apparatus now in use. To aid in the operation of this new unit, special machinery has been installed for the handling of the coal.

A larger chimney has been constructed to take the place of the one blown over last summer. In addition to this the power house is being enlarged to make room for the new equipment.

CROSS COUNTRY TEAM HAS DAILY PRACTICE FOR MEET

The North Dakota State college cross country team is working out daily in preparation for meets that will be held later in the season.

Veterans who have already reported and have been working out daily are: Ernest Hall, Myron Pond, John Warner, Bud Horner, and Storms. The Bison hill and dalers have won the cross country championship for three consecutive years.

Coach L. T. Saalwaechter is optimistic over the prospects for the present season and stated that he wanted more varsity men to report immediately.

The first call has been issued to the freshmen distance men and a meet will be held for the first year men later in the season. A gold medal will be awarded to the yearling copping first place and the next three to finish will also receive suitable awards. This is an annual meet and will probably be held between the halves of the football game on Homecoming day.

The varsity will get their first competitive trial when they go to Minneapolis October 10, to meet the University of Minnesota team.

FRATERNITIES TERMINATE FORMAL RUSHING FRIDAY

Arrangements are being made by Ivan Bigler, rushing captain, for Kappa Sigma Chi's party Wednesday night.

Delta Tau Epsilon will entertain Thursday. Gus Younger is in direct charge of arrangements.

A banquet and smoker will be included in Theta Chi's entertainment in the chapter house Friday night. John Rooney is in charge of arrangements. A number of alumni members are expected to be present.

GLENN REICHERT CALLS MEETING OF ASSISTANTS

A meeting of the business staff of The Spectrum has been called by Glenn Reichert, business manager. The staff will meet in The Spectrum office at 2 p. m., today.

Although Reichert has not definitely appointed his assistants, three students are his advertising assistants. They are: John Thorsell, Jay Lynch and William MacDonald.

State Board Passes Motion On Student Resident Places

Presidents, Deans Are Given Sole Jurisdiction Over Certain Regulations

A motion giving to the presidents and deans of men and women the sole jurisdiction over regulations pertaining to health, moral and environment conditions governing the approval of places in which students at college and normal schools may reside was passed by the state board of administration, Nelson Sauvain, chairman, announced over an associated press wire, Monday.

The board's action repealed a regulation adopted last spring which held that the dormitories must be filled to capacity before students can reside elsewhere, Sauvain said. He termed this regulation as drastic and said that although only a certain percentage of the students could stay at the dormitories the rule kept the others from securing lodging until after the dormitories had been filled.

Affecting college dormitories at Minot, Fargo, and one being constructed at Dickinson which were erected not by appropriation of the legislature but by a holding company which issued bonds to defray the cost, the motion also sanctions similar regulations at other colleges.

The board of administration agreed with such holdings companies to use, manage, operate, and maintain and conduct the buildings and to use its best efforts to keep the dormitories fully occupied and rented and to retire the bonds with the rental fees, Sauvain said.—Fargo Forum.

SEVERAL GAMMA PHIS HAVE NOT ENROLLED

With the opening of classes several members of Gamma Phi Beta sorority have not returned to North Dakota State.

Katherine Lindley, Dorothy Creasey and Margaret and Jean Murphy are not attending college this fall. Two former students have entered the University of Minnesota: Helen Jensen and Glenora Sommer.

PHARMACY DEPARTMENT MOVES TO FRANCIS HALL

As school starts this fall we find that the pharmacy department has moved from its former quarters in the chemistry building, where it occupied one-half of the third floor, to Francis hall where it will occupy the entire first floor and one-half of the second. This move increases the space allotted to this department by about fifty per cent.

Only strictly pharmaceutical subjects will be taught in this building. Four distinct pharmaceutical laboratories are being installed: junior laboratory, senior laboratory, pharmacognosy laboratory, and the prescription laboratory. There also is a rather commodious library and reading rooms as well as a balance room for the various courses dealing with analytical work.

It is believed that this move will afford ample opportunity for all future students in the matter of obtaining a complete pharmaceutical education at this institution.
