Wyard Has Prom Tickets For Sale With Fraternities

Rod McMillen Chosen As Most Representative Man In Class By Committee

NINE PIECE BAND TO PLAY

Orville Isley, Marion Hunter Will Be Fourth In Grand March

Tickets for the Junior Prom, premier event of the spring formal season, are now on sale in every fraternity house on the campus, according to Kenneth Wyard, finance and ticket manager for the third year party. The Crystal Ballroom has been chosen for the scene of the affair Friday, April 17.

Rod McMillen has been selected by the committee as the most representative man in the class. He is a member of Alpha Gamma Rho and Blue Key fraternities. He also is prominent in dramatics and belongs to Edwin Booth. His athletic work is outstanding having won two letters in football and one in track. McMillen has chosen Edna Sullivan as his partner. She is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority. The couple will be third in line in the grand march.

Orville Isley, president of the class, will be fourth in line with his partner, Miss Marion Hunter. Isley is a member of Delta Tau Epsilon and Tau Delta Pi fraternities.

Bill Hilts and his nine piece orchestra from Sioux Falls S. D., have been engaged to play for the party and present an array of talented musicians, according to Burton Kilbourne who is in charge of the music. The Klitz band spent the summer playing at one of the leading resorts in Michigan, according to word received by the prom authorities.

A modernistic setting is planned by the decoration committee headed by Hjalmer Johnson. Red furniture and lighting will be features and will aid in carrying out the theme of the party.

Favors for the party are expected to surpass anything offered at formal parties for many years. Something different is in store for the guests, said Eleanore Erickson yesterday.

Sorority Inspection To Begin Sunday

National Alpha Gamma Delta Inspector Will Be Here Saturday

Miss Margaret Dow, Toronto, Ont., will arrive in Fargo Saturday from Beta Gamma chapter, Winnipeg, to conduct a formal inspection of Beta Beta chapter of Alpha Gamma Delta. Miss Dow is the fifth national inspector to visit the sororities this year.

On Sunday afternoon Miss Dow will be the guest of honor at a Pan-Hellenic tea to be given in the home of Mrs. Kent Darrow from 3 to 5. On Monday a model formal initiation service will be held at 5 p. m., followed by a formal banquet in the Rose Room of the Gardner hotel.

In charge of banquet arrangements are: Ruth Olson, chairman, Ruth Johnson, and Marion Anders. Women members of the faculty will entertain at luncheon for Miss Dow in Ceres Hall at noon on Monday. A model meeting will be conducted in the afternoon followed by a buffet supper given by the alumnae chapter. Miss Dow will leave Fargo Wednesday afternoon after a series of personal conferences with the chapter officers. While in Fargo she will be a guest at the chapter house.

As a cultural requirement Russian students now attend the theatre once a week.

Doerr Conducts Trip Through Iron Range

Easter vacation was not only enjoyable but instructive for eight North Dakota State College geology students, according to Professor J. E. Doerr, head of that department.

The group, consisting of four major geology students, Donald Harris, Chris Leonard, Gordon Prescott, and Fred Waldron and four general geology students, Gordon Bell, Henry Bottemiller, Jack Vincent, and Merlyn Jahr, under the direction of Professor John E. Doerr and Instructor Stanley A. Tyler, spent the vacation period in a geological survey of the Mesabi-Vermilion region of the iron range and on the beaches of Lake Superior.

Among the most interesting things of the four day excursion were visits to the largest ore producing mine in the world, near Eveleth, and the largest open pit mine in the world, which is located near Hibbing. Duluth was the starting point of a majority of the trips.

SEEING AND DOING SEEMS YOUTH URGE

The urge to go places and do things runs rampant, it seems, through the heart of youth. We are ever searching for the new, the untried, the different.

Instinctive in all is the desire for travel, the anxiety to do something unusual. It is for this reason that such books as those of Richard Halliburton have their wide appeal. Few men have swum the Hellespont or climbed the Rock of Gibraltar and fewer yet have recounted their experiences in such a charming fashion.

To youth it is a source of continual wonder how any person of sufficient freedom and means can be content to live for years in one community. It puzzles us, too, when we realize that some of these same people are fascinating, alive, and interested in the world's affairs and do not coincide with the fictionized conception of smug, complacent, fireside folk who are bound up in themselves and their diseases alone.

Perhaps it is from the life of some such person that college people can learn one of the greatest of lessons. Surely such a life as this bears out the contention that people are alike the world over. Fargo has its thieves, its racketeers, its churchgoers, its thrill chasers. Many of them are really great men and women and although perhaps of a different variety, follow the same general pattern as the inhabitants of New York.

Of course, we are lacking in some of the material advantages, but we have more drama enacted on this campus in a day than the Theatre Guild produces in a year. And yet many of our fellow classmates peacefully slumber through their classes and wake up wishing they were somewhere else.

Travel through different lands gives one a background, an understanding that is hard to duplicate. But there is reading which helps one to put one's foot on the same general road. Life is, after all, rather much what we make it. It might be well to wish less for the moon and to make better use of the earth.

ARMORY WILL MAKE FINE AUDITORIUM

With the showing of Walker Whiteside in "The Chinese Bungalow" the twentieth annual lyceum season closed Wednesday evening. In every respect the year's entertainment has been the finest shown at State College, and would be a credit in institutions many times our size.

Praise for the selection of the fine program goes to the head of the public discussion department, A. G. Arvold, and the commissioner of public speaking, Bernhard Benidt. No critic can say the lyceum with such numbers as the Tyrolean Yodlers, Fisk Jubilee Singers, Lorado Taft, Tony Sarg, and Walker Whiteside is without merit, and many feel that the entire program has set a standard that will be hard to maintain.

The discussion of lyceum courses always brings to mind the future of such programs. It is certain that a school of this size cannot continue to get such excellent performers with the poor equipment that is at the disposal of the traveling troupe. The old armory offers little to the showman.

Since the new auditorium will not have an adequate stage for such productions as "The Chinese Bungalow" we feel that the school authorities should provide a place that will meet the needs of the college. We suggest and urge that the armory continue to be utilized and that enough money be appropriated to remodel the inside of the building so that a full stage and grid can be installed. A good auditorium would then be ready for disposal. At the same time it would not be difficult to create a community building for the present structure.

It would have been better to have had the new auditorium equipped to meet the requirements of stage performances but the present building plans do not provide for much besides athletics. We ask a consideration of the armory question.

Whiteside Showing Of The Chinese Bungalow Closes College Lyceum

Oriental Play Stars Veteran Performer As Chinese Millionaire

Bringing "The Chinese Bungalow", a three-act romance of the Malay States, to America direct from its London and European triumphs, Walker Whiteside and his company presented the last program of the series of the twentieth annual lyceum course at the Armory, Wednesday night.

Mr. Whiteside's appearance gave drama-lovers of Fargo an opportunity to see an extraordinary production which is quite a treat when road shows appear so infrequently.

The striking character of Yuan Sing offered Mr. Whiteside an excellent opportunity to impersonate one of those sinister orientals for which he is nationally famous. Yuan Sing is an ultra-modern celestial, an Oxford graduate, and a person of wealth and power in Malaya, the scene of the action. In the dense jungle of the Malay peninsula, Yuan Sing isolates his beautiful American wife, who, when she secretly meets a white man, falls in love with him and betrays her oriental husband. Miss Frances Hale, as the wife of Yuan Sing, and Miss Helen Tucker, as her sister, ably assisted Mr. Whiteside in his production.

Hailed as a veteran dramatic leader Mr. Whiteside, who personally directed the play, brought this melodrama by Marion Osmond and James Corbett from London and the Continent, where it was an outstanding success. Mr. Whiteside is well known in Fargo, for this was the third of his productions to be presented in the city. Shortly after the origination of the Little Country Theatre, he came here for the first time and presented "Typhoon" and later "The Arabian", both of which were oriental in character.

Other famous productions of Mr. Whiteside are: "The Melting Pot", "The Master of Ballantrae", "The Royal Box", "The Magic Melody", "The Little Brother", "The Hindu", "Mr. Wu", and "Sakura".

EDUCATIONAL GROUP SELECTS COMMITTEES

A short business meeting of Phi Beta Nu, honorary education fraternity, was held Wednesday afternoon. Committees were appointed to carry out the work for the remainder of the school year.

The committees are as follows: nominations, Ruth Whitney, Reynold, Fredeen, Gleen Walrath; membership, Naomi Aplan, Jane Canniff, Emily-belle Craigo. A report of the committees will be made at the May meeting.

A political science class of the University of Wichita will take over the administrative offices of the city of Wichita for a day next month.

GAFFNEY RAZES TENDRILS

Campus Set Agog; Frenzied Multitudes Cheer and Shout!

They're off! Once more the eternal vigilance of the Keyhole reporter brings this hot scoop to its readers. They're off!

This is no horseplay. We are speaking of the luxuriant whiskers that so lately graced the visage of our own Wilbur Gaffney.

"They blew off in a high gale of Monday night while I was riding my bicycle near West Fargo," said Mr. Gaffney today, blushing furiously and making an heroic attempt to conceal his sense of loss. "No. I don't think I shall grow any others. In fact, I have not yet formulated definite plans for the future."

"But," queried our reporter relentlessly, expertly ducking two anthologies and a paper knife, "how could youse—?"

"Part of them," continued Wilby, "was heredity; the rest was environment. I first got the idea from seeing pictures of Walt Whitman in a gale. Speaking of Zona Gale—but that's another story. But to continue, I studied the matter over and arrived at my decision only after a thorough study of the aetiology and evolution of whiskers. For a fuller discussion of the subject see Edwin Valentine Mitchell's book on beards. I hope this will answer any questions. And," he continued, reaching for a volume of "Candide", "one of the factors which influenced me the most largely was the matter of precedent. Think of all the interesting people who have whiskers—Charlemagne, Longfellow, Whittier, Whitman, and Rutherford B. Hays. Then think of all the disagreeable personalities who have not had them—Hamlet, Julius Caesar, Benedict Arnold, Lady Macbeth—it is all so obviously one-sided.

Larsen Estimates Coal Bill Savings

It is estimated by Paul Larsen, superintendent of the heating plant at the North Dakota State College, that the comparative cost of heating the institution's buildings in 1931 will be less than last year.

Mild weather through mid-winter is given as the chief reason. According to data offered by Mr. Larsen the average daily temperature for January, 1930 was three degrees above while the 1931 average in January was 19.6 degrees above. The cost of coal this winter put in the bin was $3.75 per ton, a few cents below last year's price.

Mr. Larsen estimates this year's total tonnage to be about 80,000 tons. Records show last year's total to be 81,000 tons with one less building to heat. In January this year there were 200 tons less burned than in the same month last year.

Pigskin's Thud Heard As Bison Train For 1931

MAY, HILTS ASSIST IN COACHING MEN DURING PRACTICE

Offensive Drill Stressed For First Game With Cobbers On September 18

FROSH SHOWING UP WELL

Blakeslee, McGrath, Pariseau Bollman Will Be Missed Next Year

The resounding thud of the pigskin is again heard on the North Dakota State college gridiron, as the Green and Yellow clad boys work out daily in the annual spring practices.

These grid practices are under the direction of C. C. "Casey" Finnegan, head football coach and athletic director, and his right hand man, Bob Lowe. The pair will have as assistants: Lieutenant Fay Smith, Leo May, and Bill Hiltz. May and Hiltz are seniors finishing their college work this spring and will be lost to the team next fall.

The work for the first few nights is preliminary in nature and confined mainly to blocking, tackling, kicking, and signal drill. However, much work will have to be put on the offensive drill during the spring training, for the first game next fall will be played on September 18, with Concordia. This game comes earlier than in previous years and little time for development of the offense will be available in the fall.

May, Hiltz Graduate
Finnegan's big task will be to find a punter and blocker to fill the gap left by Leo May. Leo was captain last season and his absence will mean a great loss to the team. Bill Hiltz, all conference end for two consecutive seasons, will also be lost by graduation. Joe Blakeslee, Horace McGrath, John "Chief" Pariseau, and Cliff Bollman have also played their last game for their alma mater.

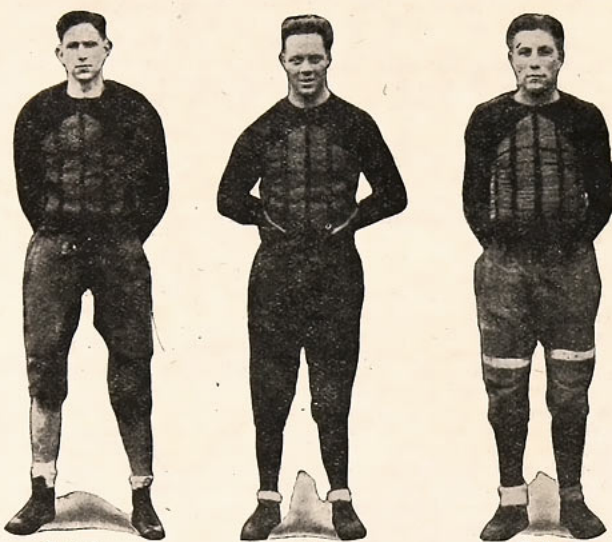

The competition for places on the first team promises to be stronger this year than ever, and Casey is assured of many candidates for each position. With the return of a large number of lettermen and freshmen numeralmen, it will be difficult to select the men to fill the different positions. The freshmen who have been showing up exceptionally well are: Roman Meyer, Milton Jacobson, Tom Flynn, Johnnie Fisher, George Toman, Merton Brady, Gilbert McAdams, and Kenneth Ellison.

The most attractive schedule ever to be arranged for this school will be played next fall. The University of Minnesota, the University of Wisconsin, and Kansas State College are included on the schedule. One game will be played with each other team in the conference, and Concordia and St. Thomas will also be met by the Bison.

BOTH FOOTBALL PLAYERS AND BOXERS

Dvorak Hiltz Bollman

These veteran Bison gridders, each a victor in the recent boxing tourney with the University of North Dakota fighters, are carrying the school colors in the Golden Glove tourney matches held in Minneapolis this week. Hiltz will contend for the heavyweight honors while Dvorak and Bollman fight in the middleweight group.

STATE FIGHTERS IN MINNEAPOLIS FOR TOURNAMENT

Eleven Men Make Trip To Enter Golden Glove Boxing Event

Eleven fighters from North Dakota State college are in Minneapolis today participating in the annual Golden Glove boxing tourney, which three-day series of contests will be completed Saturday night.

One of the most promising fighters in the Bison contingent at Minneapolis is Bill Hiltz, if his season's record is to be taken into consideration, stands an excellent chance of annexing honor in the heavyweight division. Rod McMillen, light-heavyweight scrapper, is expected to make a strong bid in his division against the numerous amateurs who are making the Twin Cities their fight Mecca this week.

Bollman, Dvorak Fight

Two tough mitt-slingers, Cliff Bollman and Frank Dvorak, are representing the middleweight group for the college, while John Scaif and Roman Pung uphold the welterweight standard. Lightweights are John Molitor and Bob Ward, who are both well known for their ring cleverness. Burton Pinkham, junior lightweight, Max Hinman, and Andy Lynn, both featherweights, and Byron Weiss, flyweight, complete the list.

Schools Score Tie

Final decisions were completed on the group selection for the Golden Gloves tourney at the completion of the Bison Sioux fight series at Grand Forks last Monday, in which both schools scored two victories and a like number of defeats.

State scored victories at Grand Forks in the Dvorak-Batcher and Hiltz-Wick fights, a tie match in the Scaif-Lanz welterweight struggle, and losses in the Silverstein-Molitor and King-Flynn matches. Cliff Bollman gave Eddie O'Connor of the University a beating in an exhibition middleweight bout.

TWO INTRA-MURAL TRACK MEETS ARE PLANNED IN APRIL

Individual Medal, Group Award Given On Combined Points In Both Meets

Coach L. T. Saalwaechter, Bison track coach, has announced that two intra-mural track meets will be held this spring instead of one.

The first meet will be held on April 15 and 16. Preliminaries will be held on Friday and the finals will be run off on Saturday. The second meet has been scheduled for April 24 and 25. The same plan will be followed as in the earlier meet.

The contesting teams will be made up from the different fraternity groups on the campus, and it is probable that the Y. M. C. A. will enter a team.

This meet has met with much success in the past and much enthusiasm has been shown by different groups that have entered the meet. A large cup has been awarded to the team collecting the greatest number of points. Suitable trophies have also been awarded to the winning team in the relay events.

This year a new feature has been added and individual medals will be awarded in each event. The person who collects the greatest number of points in the respective event will receive the first place medal and the next highest will receive the second place medal. The points gathered in both meets will be combined to determine the winner of the medals.

Loyal Gast of Beltrami, Minn., was a visitor at the house this week.
